A large number of fowl, principally turkeys, have been stolen during the past few weeks from people in this vicinity and it is believed that certain suspicions as to the guilty parties are properly placed.

Some unknown hunters shot a very valuable animal belonging to a well-known party. The animal in question was a family favourite for a long time and it is believed action will be entered should the names of the offenders be found out.

Mr. Harry Cooms has disposed of a very handsome young mare to local horse buyers, for which Mr. Cooms is reported to have received a very large price.

Mr. Frank Crowley has also disposed of his splendid Durham animal to Mr Howden.

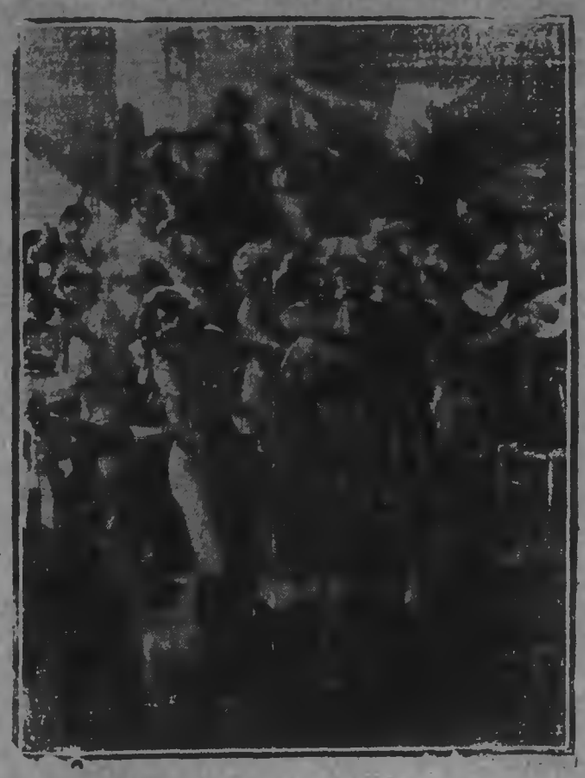
Most of the children who were sick with the mumps have recovered.

Mr. Maurice Crowley's oldest son, Michael, who has been ill, is slowly recovering.

Our local hockey aggregation who for the past few years have been organised, are again getting in shape for the season.

Mr. Michael Fitzgerald and Thos. Tansey spent Sunday visiting friends in Douro.

The annual Christmas concert will be held this evening in Stewart's hall and a large attendance, as in former years, is expected.



Merry Making Among the Midinettes.—The Festival of Sainte Catharine in Paris. The festival of St. Catherine is a day of great rejoicing among the working girls of Paris, especially in the great millinery establishments. The day is given up to dancing, singing, and drinking champagne, and those who "Passing Catherine" or in other words, have entered upon their twenty-fifth year, and are still unmarried, are presented by their comrades with bonnets. On appearing in these in the streets they are assailed with offers of compliments, bon bons, and even kisses.

ONLY TWO CENTS IN HIS POCKETS ON STREET CAR

Local Man Was Trying to Figure Out a "Getaway" Game But the Conductor Overlooked Him Entirely.

After boarding an up-town car this morning a prominent citizen found that the sum total of change in his pockets was two cents. Not even a nickel was there to put into the conductor's box when he would come. For three or four blocks, Mr. Citizen framed up some kind of a tale, but as Charlotte strete approached the conductor showed no signs of collecting this fare. Nor did he collect it for which the citizen is truly grateful.

The Secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association has handed in the following information regarding premium tickets, etc.:

Possibly not many of your readers know that it is illegal for them to accept illegal premium tickets from the merchants and any doing so are liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding $20.

It is also illegal for a merchant to give out any such premium tickets, etc., which do not comply with statutes which we herewith print:

The expression "Trading Stamps" includes, besides trading stamps commonly so called, any form of cash receipt, receipt, coupon premium ticket or other device, designed or intended to be given to the purchaser of goods by the merchant thereof or his employee or agent, and to represent a discount on the price of such goods, or a premium to the purchaser thereof, which does not show upon its face the place of its delivery and the merchantable value thereof, or is not redeemable at any time.

Every one is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to six months' imprisonment, and to a fine not exceeding two hundred dollars, who, being a merchant or dealer in goods, by himself or his employee, or agent, directly or indirectly gives, or in any way disposes of, or offers to give, or in any way, dispose of trading stamps to a purchaser from him of any such goods.

Every one is guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding twenty dollars, who being a purchaser of goods from a merchant, directly or indirectly, receives or takes trading stamps from the vendor of such goods.

MONAGHAN HAS NOTIFIED STREET RAILWAY COMPANY

Of Resolution Passed by Council For Extension of C.G.E. Line to Crawford's Grove.

FAILURE TO COMPLY TERMINATES FRANCHISE

Mr. Bruce Johnston, Clerk of North Monaghan, notified Mr. W. H. Munro, local Manager of the Peterborough Railway Co., that the Township Council had passed a resolution at the request of residents asking the Company to extend the C. G. E. line to Crawford's Grove, as enjoined in the agreement upon which the franchise was given.

As stated a few days ago this necessitates the fulfillment of the work before December 23rd, 1914 Failure to accede to the Council's request means the automatic termination of the franchise.

The residents between Crawford's Grove and the C. P. R. submit their petition with a conviction that not only will the car line be a benefit to them, but that it will create new business for the Company.

The summer of 1913 saw a big increase in the number of citizens who spent from two to four months under canvass along the river front, from the vicinity of Crawford's Grove to Robinson's Island. With the encouragement of a street car service the numbers could be easily increased, for the pleasure and benefits of the outdoor life and the facilities which Peterborough provides in this respect are only beginning to be appreciated. And this trade is apart from the regular traffic of a section that is being steadily populated.

Naturally, it is a far cry through the winter months to the time when construction work could be begun. These are merely considerations, emphasized by Township residents who are not only eager but anxious for street car service.

PEOPLE WHO WORK ON XMAS DAY

To Small Army of Peterborough Folk Christmas Means Hardest Work of the Year.

ANTE-SEASON RUSH

Happy the man or woman who spends Christmas at home. For not everyone in a big city can do so. And, indeed, that fact is the most melancholy thought about the festive holiday which, as some sadly, and others gladly sing, "comes but once a year."

The ante-season rush, as most wage-earners know, spells weariness and brain fag to everybody, from manager down to office boy, but there is generally the feeling that, after midnight on December 24, will come the personal element into Christmas. No one, thanks be, but will, perhaps have some little gift to present, Christmas tree to adorn, or stocking to fill.

Their Busy Day.

But to the man or woman who must toil on Christmas Day this sentiment is to a large extent lacking. To the heart of such a one may come a chill when he or she remembers that, while others are reflecting on the joys of Christmas past or present, the demands of the industrial or routine life of a great city call for on Christmas Day the same drudgery as on the other days of the year.

In the lonely office buildings, in furnace rooms of factories, in the dismal freight sheds, filled with the goods of commerce, solitary watchmen hold dreary vigil, and into their hearts, perhaps, shines little of the soft light which beamed first from the star of Bethlehem over 19 centuries ago.

Number Increases.

Those in a position to speak with authority say that, as Peterborough has grown larger, the number of Christmas Day workers has increased. The following table shows a few of the small army which will be on duty in Peterborough while the average man and woman will be eating, drinking, and making merry.

Newspaper-men—12.
Policemen—11.
Postmen—15.
Firemen—18.
Telephone operators—12.
Milkmen—30.
Municipal candidates—15.
Telegraph operators—5.
Messenger boys—6?
Caretakers of large buildings—12.
Liverymen and cabmen—25.
Theatrical people—30.
Hotel waiters—56.
Chambermaids and kitchen help—98.
Domestic servants—300.
Street car employees—30.
Power and water—25, making a total of 632.

The milk of human kindness should never be—and seldom is—soured on the day when Christmas bells are ringing. Charles Lamb himself—blest be his memory, would have delighted in the answer of a small messenger boy, who, one 26th of December, confided to a grown-up companion that the spirit of Christmas had worked wonders with the minds and hearts of people. "I was not sworn at ance yesterday," he said, "can you beat that?"

Joy of Service.

And, who knows but that, perhaps, there may come a sort of happiness of service to the hearts of the expressmen and bell-boys, druggists, tobacconists and milkmen, street sweepers, firemen and cabbies, "hello" girls and telegraph operators, and all the other privates in the great army who, on Christmas Day, will devote themselves to the hardest work of all the year. No one with a right spirit in his heart would wish it to be otherwise.

BRIDGENORTH

Examiner Special:

BRIDGENORTH, Dec. 22.—The Bridgenorth Methodist Sunday School held an entertainment and social in the church and basement on Thursday night which proved a great success. Mr. Percy Udy is to be congratulated on his success as superintendent of the Sunday School. Rev. Mr. Ireland acted as chairman, and Mrs. Clayton Telford as organist. The proceeds amounted to over $26.

The Bridgenorth School held their entertainment and Christmas in the school on Friday afternoon. Miss Laidley, the popular teacher of the school, spared no efforts in training her pupils with the result that a splendid programme was given. After the programme was finished the Christmas tree was unloaded of its gifts to the children which was no easy task. Mr. Walter Jopling acted in the capacity of chairman. Mr. Telford was Santa Claus. The school was well filled with the parents of the children.

Rev. Mr. Ireland made a very fine address to the children. Miss Laidley was the recipient of a number of presents. One was a very pretty parasol from the school, and the other a beautiful present from her Sunday School class.

Mr. A. Jobe made a present of a very beautiful clock to the school which was much appreciated by the teacher and children, and also the school secretary.

After the entertainment was over Miss Laidley took her departure with her father, who came down from Omemee to take her home until her duties commence again in the New Year.

Mr. Wallace Nichols, who was accidentally shot in the shoulder some time ago, is recovering nicely, but there still remains quite a wound to heal up, but it is thought all danger is past.

Quite a number of the young folks are enjoying themselves by skating on the lake as the ice is very good.

CONSIGNED TO "DEAD LETTER"

Because Stickers Are Put on Front of Envelope

"Why don't people learn better than to stick these things on the fronts of envelopes?" growled a post office official this morning, as he scribbled the word "sticker" across the address of a letter and consigned it to the dead letter office.

"People don't have to learn law to know that we don't take letters with these Christmas stamps stuck on the front. It's been published enough.

"You know, two years ago, the regulation was the exact reverse of the present one. You had to put the sticker on the front, if you used one at all. Now it has been altered. If you want to send a sticker, you must put it on the back of the envelope, whether you put it on to do a hospital some good, or just because you forgot to put "Merry Christmas" in the letter."

Insane Man Is Killed

Special Wire to The Examiner:

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Dec. 24.—Armed with two revolvers Frank Kenyon, an insane man, entered the home of Ino. Webster on a farm eight miles from here, lined Webster, his wife and several small children up against the wall of the dining-room and threatened to shoot them all unless Webster burned his barn. Early this morning the oldest son, Bert Webster, who is railway telegrapher, returned from work and finding Kenyon holding his people prisoners, obtained a revolver and shot him dead.

Big Store Is Burned

Special Wire to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 24.—Just an hour or so before the entrance of thousands of Christmas shoppers, a big five-ten cent store on Seventh avenue was destroyed by fire this morning with a loss of $100,000. Five firemen and three employees were injured in fighting the flames, two probably fatally.

Proof at Last.

Some time since two men were discussing the blonde and brunette types.

"Yes," remarked one of the men "it is a well-established fact that dark haired women have much more violent tempers than their blonde sisters."

"Are you dead sure of that?" eagerly queried the other.

"Oh, yes," confidently replied the first. "The fact is sufficiently substantiated."

"That settles it, then," returned the first. "I always suspected that the woman next door bleached her hair, and now I know it."

TECHNICAL SOCIETY ANNUAL DINNER

Held in Coleman's Palm Parlours Last Night Was a Splendid Affair

SEVENTY-FIVE PRESENT

There are banquets and banquets. One may attend a formal affair where everyone present is attired in irreproachably stiff and incomparably uncomfortable outfits commonly styled "full dress," where men glare at one another over high collars, make feeble jokes and partake of expensive dainties, all the while attempting to conceal the fact that their chief concern while eating is to keep their shirt bosoms spotless. And after the dinner one must consume one or more fifty-cent cigars whether he can afford it or not. Such tribulations as these are born with pleasure only by men with a well starched attitude toward life.

Then there are affairs where a hasty excuse for dinner is rapidly served and more rapidly made away with, by men who want to get down to the business ahead of them, and get through in time to see the last half of the hockey match in progress at the Brock Street Rink. Or their anxiety may be to let a noted lecturer get an early start that he may come to an early conclusion. In these cases the banquet is not the ulterior motive, and the democratic gratifying of the appetite is more of a nominal nature than an actual accomplishment. The men converse affably and politely doing their best to hide their ignorance on certain of the subjects that are brought up for conversation. Medium priced cigars are smoked more as an antidote to the affliction than for the pleasure that might under other circumstances accompany such a proceeding.

And thirdly there are functions where a number of men meet around a liberally provisioned festive board for a social time. All in the same line of work their conversation is general and intelligent. The banquet being the main object of the gathering the food is expensive and well served, but appetizing and eaten not so much in style as with decency. Having assembled not to make regulations, not yet to gain knowledge through some lecture, but rather to have a good time, the spirit that prevails is one of good will and cheerfulness. None are called upon to make speeches at the eleventh hour, and rise in wild-eyed embarrassment to explain their plight. No one is under obligation—all are care free, and intimate companions for the night at least. No one has suffered for weeks learning to sing a section of some great oratorio, just to please the gathering, but all are equally at home.

Just such an affair was the Technical Society banquet last night. A sumptuous spread had been provided by the Coleman Bros., in their palm parlours, and about seventy-five sat down to the feast. Mr. N. C. Mills occupied the chair in an efficient manner.

The whole tenor of the affair was informality, and originality. Cigars and cigarettes were smoked when the guests' individual taste suited. Some preferred them with the delicious roast turkey, others with the plum pudding, and others with the ice cream. But the guests thoroughly enjoyed themselves, and the banquet was an unqualified success.

After the banquet the members adjourned to the rooms of the Technical Society, in the Bank of Commerce building, where presents were distributed from a Christmas tree and where oranges, nuts, etc., were distributed by the hundred.

The annual dinner was one grand success, and those in charge of the arrangements are to be congratulated upon that fact.

Foreigner Was Robbed Of $175

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Dec. 24.—Franco Koshakowski had a rude, awakening at two o'clock this morning. He has been engaged in construction near Shannonville and came up to Belleville last night. He went to a hotel and had a couple of drinks and could not make known or did not know how to make known that he wanted a bed and lodging. He wanted to go away on the train this morning for Kingston, so he walked down town and found a hack in a yard. He stepped in and pulling the rug over him went to sleep. At two o'clock he was awakened with a start feeling some one at his side. He made an attempt to seize the man, but with a blow or two the other got away.

The worst feature then dawned upon Franco. His pants pocket and one hundred and seventy-five dollars were gone. The pocket had been cut with a knife.

Geo. Renfrew, a young man was arrested this morning charged with robbing the foreigner. Renfrew had $52 on him when arrested. The Servian when faced with Renfrew is said to have identified him as the man.

NORTH MONAGHAN COURT OF REVISION

A special Court of Revision meeting of the North Monaghan Council was held on Saturday afternoon regarding the sidewalks completed this Fall along new streets north of the Brinton carpet factory. Mr. E. A. Peck, Solicitor for the Township was present. He read a report showing the total cost of the concrete walks to have been $5,087. The portion to be paid by the municipality for crossings was $466.20, and the amount chargeable to the lots fronting on the walks, is $4,620.80. The special assessment roll which was prepared by Mr. Peck, was also presented, showing the number of feet of sidewalk constructed and the cost per foot. The Court of Revision was duly advertised and no appeals were presented.

Moved by Mr. Forster seconded by Mr. May that the special assessment roll for the construction of the above mentioned sidewalks be confirmed.—Carried.

The Court then adjourned and the Council went into session.

Mr. George McLennan said that an error had been made in his assessment. The Clerk investigated and found that there was an error of $50 charged against Lot 47, Plan 41, of which Mr. McLennan was not the owner.

Moved by Mr. Forster, seconded by Mr. Morrow, that a refund of taxes on this lot be made to Mr. McLennan.

By-law No. 676 was read and passed authorizing the borrowing of $5,067 to meet the expenses incurred in the construction of the concrete sidewalks referred to.

Moved by Mr. Forster, seconded by Mr. Morrow, that Reeve Howden be authorized to look into the account of Mr. R. Byers and to adjust the same.

Moved by Mr. Forster, seconded by Mr. Morrow, that the following accounts be paid:

R. J. G. Sutherland, repairs to water trough, 50 cents.

G. H. McLennan, error in assessment, 70 cents.

John McIntosh, repairing town hall, $12.70.

Mr. May called the attention of the Council to the case of a family who are in want.

Moved by Mr. Forster, seconded by Mr. Morrow, that Mr. May be authorized to arrange with some grocer for provisions for this family to the extent of $5.

Council then adjourned.

THE UNITED STATES SCHOOL SHIP "DES MOINES."—Secretary of the Navy Daniels, is trying out a new experiment on this ship, and if it succeeds it may revolutionize navy training in the United States as well as other navies of the world. He proposes that the men now on his ship shall graduate as engineers, electricians, and in other trades, and go back into civil life after a few years' service well qualified to settle down into into civil life, and make a good living for themselves. PRESENTATION OF UNIQUE RELIC

The Manitoba Free Press of Winnipeg has marked the Christmas season of 1912 by the presentation of a relic of unique historic interest. This is an exact reproduction in miniature of the lead tablet deposited on March 30, 1743, in a bluff overlooking the Missouri River by the Chevalier de la Verendrye as evidence of his having taken possession by right of discovery for the King of France of the whole north-western part of what is now the United States, together with a large part of what is now Western Canada, as far as the Rocky Mountains. The original tablet, now treasured by the Government of the State of North Dakota, was found in March last by a young girl while playing with her companions near the Public school of Port Pierre, which is on the west bank of the Missouri River, across from the city of Pierre, the capital of North Dakota. The Chevalier de la Verendrye holds a high place on the long roll of French explorers of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, who blazed their way across the vast untrodden regions of the continent. It was in September, 1738 that Pierre de la Verendrye and his youngest son, Francois, arrived at the junction of the Red and Assiniboine Rivers, the first white men to view the site of the City of Winnipeg.

Inscription on the Tablet.

The tablet, which is about eight inches wide, contains on its obverse side a Latin inscription as follows: "Anno XXVI. Regni Ludovici XV. Pro Rege Illustrissimo Domino Marchione de Beauharnois MDCCXXXI. Petrus Gaultier de la Verendry Posuit." That is: "In the twenty-sixth year of the reign of Louis XV., in the name of the King, our most illustrious Soverign, and of Monsieur the Marquise of Beauharnois, Pierre Gaultier de la Verendrye placed (this tablet) 1741." On the reverse side, but in French by the point of a dagger, is inscribed: "Pose par le Chevalyer de La Vr. te St. Louy la Londette, A. Miotte le 30 Mars 1743." Translated this means: "Deposited by the Chevalier de la Verendrye. Witnesses, St. Louis la Londette, A. Miotte, March 30th, 1743." The difference in the dates is due to the fact that the first was stamped at Quebec, where the Marquis de Beauharnois, Governor of Canada at the time, gave the tablet to de la Verendrye as he was setting out in search for the Western Sea.

In an effort to discover the Western Sea, which it was then believed was a comparatively small body of water separating North America from the Orient, Chevalier de la Verendrye, travelling with a party of warriors of Bow Indians, saw for the first time the Rocky Mountains on New Year's Day, 1743. He decided to cross the mountains, and behold the Western Sea but found it necessary after burying the tablet to return to Fort la Reine, the site of the present City of Portage la Prairie, where his father was awaiting him. For thirteen years father and sons had followed the dream of the Western Sea in vain, but they discovered a sea of prairies, a sea of mountains, and two great rivers, the Saskatchewan and the Missouri.

The Double Work of the Blood

The circulation of the blood is one of the most perfect pieces of mechanism in the universe. Besides carrying nourishment to every part of the body, the blood collects the waste products and passes through the kidneys in order that these poisons may be eliminated.

Hence you see the tremendous importance of keeping the kidneys in healthful working order so that they free the blood of these impurities before they find lodgment in some weak spot and set up serious disease.

Aching back and aching head, troubles with the digestion, deposits in the urine, constipation and biliousness—such are the symptoms which indicate the need of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. The liver is awakened to action, the bowels regulated, and the kidneys made vigorous in their work of purifying the blood.

In the great majority of homes Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are kept at hand for use in just such cases. They save many doctor bills, and by keeping the digestive and excretive systems in health do much to prolong life and bring comfort in old age.

COMPANY POSTS 55,000 CALENDARS

The De Laval Calendar is Widely Distributed—Post Office Staff Inundated

RECORD SALE OF STAMPS

If Santa Claus looks in at the Post Office in the wee small hours of Christmas morning he will find the staff struggling with the midnight mail. And along about five o'clock there will be the sacks from the Montreal train to be emptied and sorted. All this postal matter will be delivered on Christmas morning and will stagger the "postmen."

Postmaster Edgar told The Examiner to-day that a sure indication of the holiday business is found in the sale of stamps and the total for Christmas season will show an increase of several thousand dollars over last year's receipts. All down the line the business is heavier than usual. Both incoming and outgoing letters and parcels are more numerous than in former years.

The De Laval Company distribution of calendars has added considerable work to the office. Thirty thousand individual tubes containing calendars have been sent out, together with 1,000 cartons each containing twenty-five calendars in tubes. This makes a total of 55,000 of the company's 1914 calendars to be distributed to responsible persons all over the country. The postage bill must have run into a large figure for each carton represents from 52 to 55 cents in stamps, and the single tubes require from two to seven cents. The total will exceed $1,000.00.

The Post Office staff has been augmented for the holiday rush. Each postman has an assistant and in the office there are three or four extra men.

Deceased Man Had Relatives In Peterboro'

Postmaster Edgar has received the following letter regarding the death of a man near Prince Albert, who is supposed to have relatives in this city. The letter is from the North West Mounted Police:

Postmaster, Peterborough.

Re Ephraim Jackson, deceased.

I am informed that he had two brothers who used to live in Peterborough, and I would be greatly obliged if you would hand the enclosed letter to them, if you happen to be acquainted with them. Of course I realize the prospects are very remote in view of the fact that he has not heard from any of his friends for twenty years. But I wish to acquaint them with the facts of his sudden demise and would be very glad to have you do what you can in regard to the matter.

Prince Albert.

The letter is to the effect that the above named party died suddenly on th 9th of last month at Steep Creek. Death was due to old age. The deceased had no property to speak of. What property there is, however, it is in the hands of David Reid, of Steep Creek, a friend of the deceased. Friends of the deceased can communicate with the Commanding Officer of the R.N.W.M.P. at Prince Albert.

Many Gifts For Children

That the children in the Children's Aid Society Shelter will be well looked after is evidenced by the generous response made to the appeal. The donations received by The Examiner proved to be the largest on record, many coming in last night and this morning. Altogether The Examiner has received thirty parcels of clothing, candy, toys, etc., and also cash donations amounting to $10.25. The gifts will be distributed at the Shelter to-morrow afternoon.

WANTS MR. FIFE AS CANDIDATE

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Having been one of the many ratepayers who has interviewed Mr. J. C. Fife with the view of getting him to offer himself as a candidate for aldermanic honours in the coming municipal elections, I regret that he has decided not to enter the contest, for the broad views taken by Mr. J. C. Fife in the business propositions and by-laws confronting our city, and his business ability, and his faith he has in a greater Peterborough, I know would make him a strong representative to have in our City Council. Trusting Mr. Fife may reconsider his decision and allow his name to come before the electors of the South Ward as their candidate on Jan. 5th, 1914.

Yours,
Business Man.

On wednesday, Dec. 24th, the Peterborough Radial Railway Cars will run until midnight.

ISSUES LICENSES FOR AUTOISTS

Mr. G. K. Rackham, secretary of the local Automobile Association, has been appointed Government Issuer of Automobile Licenses.

This is the first appointment of its kind in this district, and owners, as well as prospective owners, will find it a great convenience. Heretofore it has been necessary to send to Toronto for licenses, and they could not always be secured as promptly as required.

Mr. Rackham may be found at his office, 184 Charlotte Street.

Charged With White Slavery

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Irving Markoff, who rents a flat at No. 178 Osborn Street, was held without bail in the New Jersey Avenue Police Court, East New York, on a charge of white slavery. He was arraigned before Magistrate Walsh, charged at the age of nineteen with the theft of deeds, and as Markoff's arraignment went jauntily and defiantly to jail.

The case furnished concrete evidence of the traffic in white slaves in this City. The victim is Sarah Ruffack, twenty years old, who was conveyed from the flat to the Wayside Home. She had come from her home in Russia only five months ago and soon had to pay the price of the "Blindness of Virtue."

Louis Burstein was going to his work the other morning and had to pass through Osborn Street. Just outside No. 178 he picked up a piece of paper on which was written a message in Yiddish. After reading it Burstein hastened to the Liberty Avenue Police Station. The note read: "Save me. I am a slave. Second floor."

Detectives Break in.

Two detectives were soon on the spot. They broke down the door. Markoff was just lifting a chair over his head as a weapon, but their revolvers calmed him.

In the inner rom the girl, dressed in a gaudy kimono, lay huddled on the floor. She sobbed that she had just been beaten by Markoff. She said he often beat her.

"I came from Russia five years ago she said. "My uncle lives in the Bronx. His name is Ruffack, but I do not know the number of the house now. He took me from the immigration place. I saw he was very poor, and I went away to make my own living. I got a room in a house near the river. I worked as a hat maker in Eldridge Street.

I went to a picture theatre on First Avenue when I could spare the money. A month ago I saw Markoff outside the theatre. He spoke to me. He saw me home. He was handsome and seemed to like me. I saw nothing wrong. I did nothing wrong. He called and took me to the moving picture several times. Two weeks ago he asked me to marry him and I was happy.

"He said, 'Come to Brooklyn and see my people.' He brought me to this place and then locked the door. "Other men came here. He brought them here. He beat me and was always cruel. I wrote, at last, the note and threw it from the window."

CHRISTMAS LITHOGRAPH

The message of peace on earth, good-will to men is being proclaimed in and throughout the country by a poster depicting the birth of Christ.

It is a wonderful lithograph in twelve colours, and is declared to be the finest example of that art that has ever been seen in America or elsewhere. The design is a composite of five of the most famous pictures of the birth of Christ, by the greatest painters of their day and generation.

This picture is set forth for the young people of the country, and it bears the legend: "Ask your Sunday School teacher to tell you the story," together with the text from the second chapter of St. Matthew, which describes the scene the artist has striven so well to depict.

In this age of commercialism it is startling, a little, to find a great business organization like the Poster Advertising Association devoting a large sum of money to the uplift of humanity.

Yet this poster was designed and made for the Poster Advertising Association at a cost of more than $20,000, exclusive of the posting, which is done by all the members free of charge.

It is the first of a series of posters intended to stimulate the young men and women of the country, and to cheer the old, as well as to carry a message of hope and comfort to the unhappy and the unfortunate.

The Educational Committee of the Poster Advertising Association has evolved this Christmas poster which is attracting so much attention on all poster plants through the country, and will follow this up early in the New Year with another wonderful poster depicting the life of General Grant, tracing his rise from lowly circumstances to the President's chair, as a stimulant to the youth of the country to "go and do likewise."

NOT THERE.

"Didn't Oliver Goldsmith once live here?" asked the tourist.

"I don't remember the name," said the janitor. "Who was the gent?"

"He was a poet."

"Then it's hardly likely that he ever lived here sir. We always demand the rent in advance."

A STRIKING STORY.

F. Irving Fletcher, at a Sphinx Club dinner in New York, told a striking advertising story.

"I once made a bet with a dry-goods dealer," said Mr. Fletcher, "that he couldn't spend in a year on advertising all he made in that year. The man took me up and sailed in.

"But he lost his bet. Though his advertising bills grew bigger and bigger, he lost. For the more he advertised, the more he sold, and in the end, after starting eight branch stores he gave in and paid me the money."

Mr. Fletcher paused, then added reflectively:

"Any dealer, dry goods or otherwise, who doesn't believe this story need only try it himself to be convinced."

It is told in history that the maids of ancient Sparta wore their gowns suit to the hips. Now you know the origin of the expression "Spartan courage—the courage [illegible] one of those damsels when she [illegible] out walking.

Davis and L. Leahy will be in charge of the branch.

WHAT IS SUCCESS?

By RUTH CAMERON

Some weeks ago I asked my readers to contribute their ideas as to what constitutes real success in life.

As usual, I have not the space for half the splendid answers, but here are as many as I can crowd in.

"He who by honest work has maintained himself in physical, mental and spiritual health in that state life unto which it has pleased God to call him," writes a masculine reader, "who has laid by a competency for old age, and provided for those dependent upon him; who has cultivated a cheerful mind and merited a few friends; who has left his path through life the sweeter for his passage, and has perceived something of the apparition of the universe—its beauty, and its wonder, and its power, cannot be said to have failed in life."

"Real true success in life can be secured only through our best endeavours to fulfill God's purpose in our creation, and that manifestly was to give us the opportunity for developing a life and character, fitted to dwell with Him eternally. This high privilege He has inseparably coupled with the obligation on our part to strive earnestly to lead others in the way to Him; and such privilege and obligation confronts every soul in the universe, from captains of industry to the most lowly in life, and with a responsibility measurable only by the circle of their influence."

Several people also expressed it by quoting "What shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul."

"The making of friends who are real friends is the best token we have of a man or woman's success in life," is another reader friend's opinion.

This interesting definition is quoted, but I do not know to whom to give credit:

"He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often and loved much; who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task; who has left the world better than he found it, whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem or a rescued soul; who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauty or failed to express it; who has always looked for the best in others, and given the best he had; whose life was an inspiration, whose memory a benediction."

"I consider my grandmother one who, though poor financially, has made a success of life," writes a reader. "She is one who always has an encouraging word for everyone, who never complains and who makes the best of things under all circumstances. Children all love and respect her, and no one could know her without feeling just a little better."

Still another reader lets Stevenson define success for him, and to my mind a better definition could scarcely be found:

"To be honest, to be kind, to earn a little and to spend a little less, to make upon the whole a family happier for his presence, to renounce when that shall be necessary and not to be embittered; to keep a few friends, but these without capitulation; above all, on the same grim condition to keep friends with himself."

A STATEMENT FROM MAYOR BRADBURN

legislation is necessary there is still a Legislature at Queen's Park that will see that the people will get their rights despite the efforts of the best and shrewdest lawyers the company has in its service.

The Council knew when it set out to get electric power and light for the people that it would not have easy sailing. The members knew that the Council had a strong company opposed to it, a company that had practically brought under its sole control all the available power in the Trent district, and that was wealthy and powerful. The Council, however, was firmly convinced, and still is, that it had taken the right course, and the people have shown emphatically that they agree with the Council.

The company has tried more than once to frighten the people, and it failed. The people have been and are practically united in this matter, and the company will again endeavour to make a division among them. If it can succeed in dividing the people it may have some chance of defeating the city and retaining its monopoly, but I do not believe it can succeed.

I am retiring from the Council, but I feel as great an interest in this question as ever, for I believe it means a very great deal for the people. I sincerely hope and fully expect that the Council will press forward the Hydro-Electric scheme until there is electric power owned and operated by and for the people.

The electors should see that only candidates who are fully in sympathy with the city's electric policy are elected to the Council.

Yours truly,
W. H. BRADBURN.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE NORTH WARD

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

In making an appeal to you for your support in the coming municipal elections, I fully realize the handicap I am under in being a stranger to quite a number of you, even though I have been practicing my profession here for seven years.

My policy briefly is this: An honest endeavour to show a dollar's value for every dollar expended, and the most economical and efficient government of the City's affairs. To attain this I have acceded to the wishes of a large number of the ratepayers in offering myself as a candidate for alderman in the North Ward.

Should I find it impossible to see you all personally before election day, I wish to make a most earnest appeal for your vote and influence and can assure you that I will deem it my duty to fully merit your confidence.

THREE DAYS' SOCCER IN THE OLD COUNTRY

Fixtures for Christmas Day---Irish League Results--Old Country Soccer Gossip

Ireland seems to have been telegraphically cut off from Great Britain for two days. It was only Monday that the results of Saturday's matches in the Emerald Isle were made known. They are as follows:

Irish League.

Linfield 2, Belfast 1.
Glentoran 5, Bohemians 1.
Distillery 1, Glenavon 0.
Shelburne 2, Cliftonville 0.

Portvale Won.

In the replay of their undecided English qualifying tie Burslem Portvale Monday beat Darlington by 1—0, and the Vale are now happy in being able to take part in the competition for the National Cup.

Death of Bristol Secretary.

Mr. Edwin John Locke, secretary of the Bristol City Football Club, died on the 4th inst., after a long illness, aged 44. For many years he had been officially connected with the Bristol City Club, for which he did splendid work, as well as for the Gloucestershire Football Association and Western League. He leaves a widow with six children.

Irish Internationalist Dead.

The death is announced at Preston of John Lemon, who in 1886 gained his first international cap for Ireland against Wales. He also received a cap against Wales in 1889, and against Scotland in 1888. For years he rendered splendid service to the Glentoran Club, and in later life was one of the most prominent members of the Preston Golf Club.

Southern League.

At a meeting of the Management committee of the Southern League, a commission was appointed to go into the affairs of the Aberdare Club, which had announced its intention of disbanding. The commission will meet in Cardiff on a near date.

Brighton and Hove Albion were given permission to play benefit matches for Booth and Leeming.

Coventry City sent a protest against the match at Park Royal with Queen's Park Rangers being counted a League match on the ground of bad light. The matter was deferred pending a report from the referee.

Reading applied for permission to pay a percentage of the transfer fee to E. Hanney, recently transferred to Manchester City. According to rule the amount allowed to be paid to a player after one year's service is 10 per cent. Reading were given permission to pay that amount. Hanney's services to the Reading Club as an amateur cannot be considered in connection with the rule.

Ground Closed.

A commission of the Football Association heard a complaint of a demonstration against the referee, and of the Horsham linesman being struck by a spectator. It was decided that the Kingston ground should be closed on December 20 an December 27, and that the club should be prohibited from playing within six miles of the ground on those dates. The club was further ordered to provide adequate police protection on the occasion of all future cup-ties on the ground.

JUNIORS TO MEET AT THE RINK TO-MORROW

Yesterday's snow storm has put an end to the skating outside and as there is nothing doing in the Rink yet the local hockey teams are decidedly up against it in the matter of practice, but at that none of the district teams have much on the Petes. The Junior O. H. A. candidates will hold a meeting at the Rink to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock, when an amount of important business, including the election of a Captain, will take place. Every Junior player is requested to attend this meeting.

MERCANTILE HOCKEY LEAGUE MEETING LAST EVENING

The officers and delegates of the Mercantile Hockey League and the teams affiliated with that combination held an important meeting at the offices of the Review last evening. The C. and P. team was not represented.

The minutes of the previous meeting have been read and confirmed, President Nelson suggested an assistant to Secretary Walkle, accordingly Mr. Molloy of the "Review" was elected assistant treasurer and secretary.

A motion which had been placed on the agenda was then proposed, seconded and carried, to the effect that Junior O.H.A. players be permitted to play in their respective teams, thus reverting to the original constitution.

The meeting then adjourned to the call of the President.

Fifty season tickets at fifty cents each are to be allotted to each team for sale among their friends and the general public. These tickets will admit the holder to each Mercantile League game played on the Brock Street rink.

The C. and P. team was not represented and, from information received, it appears that they were desirous of withdrawing from the League. The De Laval Co.'s team was accordingly invited to fill the vabancy, and it is understood that this team will complete the aggregation.

The schedule and constitution will be drawn up and published in the daily press very shortly.

Seemed Fair to Pat.

Here is one that was handed out at a recent banquet by Congressman Charles H. Sloan, of Nebraska, when the talk drifted to the irrepressible "Pat."

One day, so related the Congressman, a party named "Pat" wanted an empty bottle for some particular purpose and rambled into the nearest drug store.

"I want an empty bottle," said he to the proprietor of the store. "How much will it be?"

"If you want an empty bottle," replied the proprietor, "it will cost you five cents, but if you want anything in it you can have it for nothing."

"Then, sir, I'll take it empty," was the prompt rejoinder of "Pat." "Put a cork in it."

ALL ALONG BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 20. — Twenty years ago William Fox wore a neat blue uniform with brass buttons. On his cap the letters "A. D. T." appeared. If you handed Mr. Fox a dime for himself he would run his two legs to quivering stumps with your message. Every Saturday night he drew down $4—if no fines had been assesed against him—and was permitted to retain 50 cents of that for his very own.

Now Fox is 36 years old. Each day the 150,000 people who visit his 27 moving picture theatres here and in New England confer upon him $35,000 in dimes. He is the principal owner of all these theatres, and the sole owner of most of them. It is assumed that he would melt down for $30,000,000. Not long ago he brought suit against the movies trust for the right to use its films in his theatres. If he succeeds the trust ceases to be trust enough to hurt. He he fails—well, he has something of a trust of his own. He is building a million dollar studio on Two-hundred and Twenty-first street, which will be the largest of its kind in the world. Two hundred and fifty actors work constantly before his cameras. Sometimes he employs 3,000 of them. He is black-eyed, slender, a profound cigar smoker, and silent. When he talks, it is about moving pictures.

It is possible that the moving picture business has built up more modest—and otherwise — fortunes than any other single development of the last decade. Fox is included among the half dozen big men in it. He runs to superlatives. He owns the largest theatre in the world — opera houses and homes of spectacle barred from competition. He owns the only double-decker theatre in the world. He has his own real estate and architectural and contracting and producing departments.

Fox might never have become a millionaire of the movies if a rude stranger had not hit Cliff Gordon upon his one good eye. Gordon was a message-running pal of Fox's 20 years ago. They formed a vaudeville team for the purpose of disseminating rough German comedy for $3 an evening. One night the alert Fox detected a hostile note in the applause. He set up a careless whistle.

"You—tweet, tweet—get our money," said he. "I'll—tweet, tweet—wait for you outside."

The secretary of the social club which they had asumed to entertain not only did not pay the $3, but hit Gordon upon the other eye. It swelled shut, and Fox led his partner home through miles of jeering streets, not having the price of street car luxury. Then he pushed Gordon through the doors into the arms of an outraged family and ran. The team of Schmalz brothers, German comedians, burst right there with an echo.

Gordon stuck to his art and became known on the vaudeville stage later as the "German Senator." Deprived of his partner, Fox went into the cloth-sponging business as a porter, and became fairly well-to-do. During his brief period as an actor he had caught sight of a great fact of the theatrical business. It is the producer who gets rich. The actor is in luck if he is able to retire to a little farm. So that when the movies began to budge on Fox sold his cloth spongery, defied his head-shaking friends, and went to the new thing, hook, line, and sinker.

New York is the catch basin for floods of oratory. Every season there are at least 250 public dinners of some quality. At each dinner from three to a dozen speakers got through that form technically known as "responding to a toast." Perhaps one in 50 has something to say that is worth hearing. The 49 maunder on through dismal swamps of language. It seems years before they find a spot solid enough to stop on.

So that an organization of railroadmen, which recently met here, devised a plan for the relief of the speakers and of their martyred hearers. The wind-jamming part of the evening was arranged on a close schedule. The toastmaster acted as train dispatcher. When the speaker wiped his lips with his napkin, he got the "track clear ahead" signal. A white light appeared in front of him. Two minutes before his time expired a green light flashed as warning. When his time was up a red bulb glowed. If he ran past the danger signal he was promptly derailed. The plan made an immediate hit. By Christmas time every banquet table in town will be equipped with a block system for gab.

One sometimes wonders if the true relation of the sexes is after all to be altered if woman gets the vote.

For example. The most prominent—at least, the most frequently heard—suffragists in town have declared themselves in favour of the filthy white slave plays that are being shown to five audiences daily in six uptown theatres. A motorcarload of them defended an arrested theatre manager in police court the other day.

"These plays are of great educational value," said Mrs. Milholland Boissevain, the spokesman for the party. "They will warn young women. They help to crush the conspiracy of silence."

That isn't a verbatim quotation. But it is sufficiently near. About the same time that these ladies were making themselves seen and heard in court an epidemic of poison needle hysteria broke out over town. Pretty, plump, neat, young women showed nice, round, unmarred arms, and reported that fiends had tabbed them with poisoned needles. Or had flicked poisoned powder in their dainty noses. Or had waved poisoned napkins before their eyes. Or had pinched them with poisoned pinches. It became the overwhelming sensation of the day.

"Those stories are all untrue," said Second Deputy Dougherty, in charge of the detective department. "The women had simply worked themselves into hysteria by a prolonged course of sex plays and white slave pictures. Their imaginations became overheated." President Churchill of the Board of Education agrees as to the effect of plays of this sort on the average mind.

"No good can come of these pictures," said he. "They simply excite the curiosity of the prurient."

Make your own moral.

Register O'Loughlin over in Brooklyn will think twice before he undertakes to address another convention of tailors. His own tailor led him into it.

"For me," said the tailor, "you do it. With my friends it makes a hit."

O'Loughlin put on his openwork clothes and sat on the platform. Tailors, cutters, buyers, city salesmen, bushelmen, models, bosses, other items of the tailoring industry buzzed loudly on the floor. Now and then some man would enter and be greeted with applause.

"That," said O'Loughlin's tailor and guide, "is Max Schleiner. He is the buyer for Cipperstein & Menx."

Hours O'Loughlin sat there. At last he was introduced as the next speaker. No one paid the least attention to him. Conversation rose toward the heights of emotion. After three false starts O'Loughlin sat down. He was angry enough for arson. His tailor saw the black rage on his brow.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he bellowed, whacking at the table with the gavel. "You should listen to Mister O'Loughlin. He is my best customer."

THRUMS.

Do your duty and a little more and the future will take care of itself.—Andrew Carnegie.

Good breeding is benevolence in trifles, or the preference of others to ourselves in the little daily occurences of life.—Chatham.

No idea can succeed except at the expense of sacrifices; no one ever escapes without a stain from the struggle of life.—Renan.

Politeness has indeed about it something mystical; like religion, it is everywhere understood and nowhere defined.—Chesterton.

The man who prefers the golf course on Sunday to the interests of the noblest part of his personality is making a great mistake.—Rev. R. C. Thornton.

All who live in a country should take an interest in that country, love that country, and the vote gives that sense of interest, fosters that love.—Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone.

It behoves us always to bear in mind that while actions are always to be judged by the immutable standard of right and wrong, the judgments which we pass upon men must be qualified by considerations, age, country, station, and other accidental circumstances; and it will then be found that [illegible] most charitable in his judgment is generally the least unjust.—Southey.

CHRISTMAS GREETING

"Merry Christmas!"

How we would like to say it to you in person, but we cannot. These printed words must take the place of the cheery spoken greeting. Christmas is the season when we are the closest to our friends, for with each remembrance we receive or send, come thoughts that form a veritable web of memories and good wishes which enmesh you and me and your friends, and my friends and our friends' friends, until the whole world is one in the joy of the Christmas season.

With best wishes for your happiness and prosperity through the next year and all the other years of your life, again we say:

"Merry Christmas!"

A GREAT EXPERIENCE

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—The experience of having one's heart distended to more than twice its normal width and of being pronounced dead twice was related by Edward W. Hooker, of Hartford, State Senator and one-time mayor of that City at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. Mr. Hooker, accompanied by his nephew, Joseph Hooker Woodward, of Pelham Manor, actuary in the New York State Insurance Department, and his physician, Dr. James O'Neil of Hartford left a few days ago on board the "Bermudian" for Bermuda. It is Mr. Hooker's first trip since he was stricken with enlargement of the heart, more than a year ago, unable to travel by rail because of his physical condition. Mr. Hooker with his physician, came to this City from Hartford by steamship.

The symptoms of Mr. Hooker's malady, as described by Dr. O'Neil and himself, present one of the most remarkable medical cases in the annals of pathology. The sides of Mr. Hooker's heart are represented as bulging until the width of the organ, which in the average person is four inches, reached ten inches.

When this dilation occurred Mr. Hooker became unconscious and apparently was dead. Twice he was revived by artificial respiration. To the amazement of the physicians the dilated walls of the heart contracted and the patient began to improve.

Dr. O'Neil says that during the period of the greatest dilation the wall on the right side of Mr. Hooker's heart was almost as thin as an ordinary piece of paper, and that a rupture meaning instant death did not take place he regards as extraordinary. he normal thickness of the right side of the heart is that of the little finger or a lead pencil.

For more than a year Mr. Hooker has suffered from these cardiac distentions and for months death was near. But the dilatations gradually have been growing less extensive and now Mr. Hooker's heart is reduced to one-half more than its normal size, and its walls are resuming slowly their normal thickness.

Mr. Hooker has suffered great pain and during the last year he has lost in weight from 250 to less than 150 pounds. He is of massive frame and is 45 years old. His ailment is attributed to over-exercise, it having been his habit to take long tramps in the woods and mountains.

ENGINE BLOWS UP

Wabash Railway Locomotive Explodes, Killing Two

FOUR CANADIANS ARE HURT

BUFFALO, Dec. 26.—Two men were killed and six were injured when a Wabash Railway engine, running light, blew up on Erie Railroad tracks a quarter of a mile east of Main street, near the northern city line yesterday. The dead and injured are:

John Thorpe, fireman, Fort Erie, Ont.

The injured:

William Cameron, brakeman, Windsor, Ont., slightly injured.

J. B. Savage, Windsor, Ont., both feet crushed.

The engine came here with a full train crew from Niagara Falls early yesterday to pick up a westbound immigration train. At the Main street crossing Schultz, a switch tender, signalled the engine to stop so that he could get a ride to his home in East Buffalo. The engine was barely moving when the explosion occurred. Watchman Spang was about to step on the fender. He was struck by the crown sheet and carried over 150 feet.

Fireman Thorpe of Fort Erie, Ont., was standing on the tender. The force of the explosion tilted the rear of the engine upward, and when it came down Thorpe, who had fallen between the engine and tender, was crushed to death.

Bartel was an Erie Railway employe who had boarded the engine a few minutes before the accident.

REBELS ARE QUIET.

Mexican Belligerents Taking a Rest Over the Holiday.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Apparent quiet in the Mexican situation was interpreted here yesterday by officials as merely a "holiday armistice" and temporary. Strategists believe that Gen. Villa, the rebel leader, whose victories already have placed him in the forefront of the Constitutionalists, will press his campaign southward with a view to carrying the warfare into the Federal district to compete with Gen. Huerta for the mastery of the Mexican capital.

Official reports received here yesterday were meagre. Rear Admiral Fletcher, commanding the American squadron in Mexican gulf waters, reported his departure on the flagship Rhode Island from Tampico for Vera Cruz. As his recent laconic despatches from Tampico have told repeatedly of the restoration of order in that lately disturbed section, it is believed he has gone to Vera Cruz to assign to the proper stations the battleships just arrived there to relieve the vessel about to return to home waters. As Admiral Fletcher is directing the battleship manoeuvres at his own discretion, officials thought he might return without notice to Tampico, where further hostilities may ensue as a result of rebel determination to gain control of a port of entry on the gulf coast.

Gas Famine Possible.

BRANTFORD, Dec. 26. — The Brantford gas situation may prove serious. The company is forced to turn off its supply of Tilbury gas, and has only a limited supply of pure gas to offer. In fact, while Brantford consumes on an average 36,000,000 feet per month, the company can give only about 500,000 feet of pure gas daily. This is because it is tied up by contract with Hamilton manufacturers.

Spanish Cruiser at Vera Cruz.

VERA CRUZ, Dec. 26.—The Spanish armored cruiser, Carlos V., which was ordered to Mexican waters for the protection of Spanish subjects, arrived here yesterday morning.

Scott's Emulsion contains pure cod liver oil to clarify and enrich the blood, strengthen the lungs, rebuild wasted tissue and fortify the resistive forces to throw off disease germs.

Panic Claimed 72

Calumet's Tragedy a Deliberate Plot, Say Strikers --Children Were Trampled

CALUMET, Mich., Dec. 26.—On the day which throughout all Christendom is set aside as a day of rejoicing over the birth of the Saviour, Calumet, stricken to the heart by an almost unbelievable catastrophe, stands mourning by the side of its dead, the 72 victims (most of whom were children) of the frightful panic on Christmas eve in the Italian hall. This panic followed a false alarm cry of fire during the progress of a Christmas tree entertainment arranged for families of the copper strikers. To-day the people of Calumet see their neighbors, their brothers, their sisters and their little children staggering under an almost unbearable burden of distress and grief.

The cry was taken up by those in the hall. Every one started for the doors. The weaker were thrown to the floor, and those behind tried to climb over those ahead of them. The principal exist was a narrow stairway at the back of the hall. When this had been cleared of the bodies that filed it to the top, and a quick accounting had been made it was found that seventy-four corpses had been piled up beside the hall building. It is thought that a dozen others were carried away by friends.

The dead that were piled up beside the hall included 27 girl, 19 boys, 13 women and five men. Excited men and women stood about the building, some dazed by the sudden change from holiday festivities to tragedy, others calling hysterically for a missing child, and a few even threatening violence to the rescuers for keeping them back from the long row of bodies.

A great mass meeting of Calumet citizens was held yesterday afternoon to express their sympathy and devise ways and means to ameliorate the sufferings of those on whom death had fallen so heavy. A committee of twelve was appointed to visit each individual home of the bereaved families and assist financially. Unlimited funds are assured and no outside aid will be necessary.

"With the kindest feeling for those who offered it, we ask no outside help," states the resolutions of sympathy adopted. "These are our own people and this is our sacred privilege to care for our dead and to comfort the living."

The statement of President Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners that no benefits from the citizens would be accepted, was disregarded. The strikers also met yesterday afternoon and named a committee comprising representatives of the nationalities of the victims and call on the stricken relatives and learn their wishes regarding the funeral. This committee will meet to-day to make arrangements for the services.

The authorities have so far been unable to trace a man who is said to have gone up the stairs of the Italian Hall and raised the cry of fire, which is supposed to have started the panic which led to the fearful crush in the stairway and caused the death of the nearly four score men, women and children. There seems to be little hope he will be apprehended. The other theory that the cry of fire originated within the hall was substantiated yesterday by Matt Sari, a striker, who lost his son in the disaster. He declared the cry came from a group of men and women toward the front of the hall.

President Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners, said yesterday that he had with difficulty kept within bounds the relatives and families of the dead. The reports that the Miners' Union had started the panic spread rapidly among the strikers, and there were many threats of reprisals.

He pointed out that the absence of any untoward act was an example of the restraint which he said had characterized the action of strikers from the beginning of the trouble five months ago. President Moyer also said that he could bring witnesses to prove that the man who cried "Fire" wore a Citizens Alliance insignia, and said that he had telegraphed this information to Secretary Wilson of the Department of Labor with a view to having the Government investigate the case.

Wilson Will Not Reply.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26. — Secretary Wilson said last night that he would not reply to the Moyer telegram. "The question whether or not the Government has the authority to make the investigation suggested by Moyer," said Secretary Wilson, "has not yet been passed upon. Until it is disposed of I cannot predict what, if any, action will be taken by the Federal authorities."

CROSSES IN FIVE HOURS.

Aviator Makes Record Passage Over the Alps.

BERNE, Switzerland, Dec. 26.—Oscar Bider, a Swiss aviator, made a successful flight across the Alps yesterday, though for several hours he was unable to see his way because of the heavy fog which hung over the mountains. The airman arrived here at 2.15 o'clock yesterday afternoon after a journey from Buc, from which place he started at 9 a.m.

Bider said that after leaving the French aerodrome he was forced to maintain an altitude of 6,500 feet almost constantly in order to avoid the fog. He passed over the Jura, the chain of mountains separating France from Switzerland, without being able to see any landmarks, but recovered his bearings on sighting the Jungfrau, one of the most famous mountains of the Swiss Alps, about half an hour before he came to Berne.

EVENTS OF THE HOLIDAY

LONDON, Dec. 26—The royal family spent Christmas at York Cottage, Sandringham, His Majesty's Norfolk estate, where all the old customs on which the late King Edward insisted were observed, and it was just a homely gathering. Their Majesties were surrounded by all their children except Prince Albert, who is with the Mediterranean fleet.

For dinner every famous Christmas dish appeared; turkeys of which no fewer than fifty were roasted in the Sandringham kitchens, followed b roast baron of beef and plum pudding—an enormous one which made an almost state entrance between two footmen with powdered wigs, scarlet and gold coats, white satin breeches and pink silk stockings. The afternoon was taken up with games, in which Princess Victoria took a leading part. After tea the children's Christmas tree was lighted up and stripped of its presents, which were distributed among the family.

The royal family will remain at Sandringham until Jan. 12, when the Court will return to Windsor.

King George, like his father, is never so happy as when he is living the life of an English country gentleman, and while at Sandringham all the ceremonies of the Court were laid aside and King George, in the bosom of his family, leads as simple an existence as any of the squires in the district.

Christmas at Rideau Hall.

OTTAWA, Dec. 26. — Christmas Day was spent at Rideau Hall in typical old English fashion. Every member of the household was the recipient of a present from the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia from the humblest page boy to Col. Farquhar, the military secretary. This was not the only manifestation of the Christmas spirit at Rideau Hall, for there was a big Christmas tree given by their Royal Highnesses in the evening, at which every member of the household was invited, and the presents were distributed from it by Princess Patricia. The big tree was set in the centre of the ball room.

The Duke and Princess Patricia attended service in the morning in St. Bartholomew's Church.

Residents of the capital made this Christmas a regular home day.

Hundred Thousand Dined.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26. — Well attended church services and the distribution of Christmas dinners to nearly 100,000 of the city's dependents were the features of New York's observance of the day of nativity.

The Salvation Army led in the distribution of Christmas cheer. In addition to issuing 5,000 Christmas dinner baskets, each of them containing food enough for six, the organization entertained 3,500 children with a Christmas tree party. Commander Eva Booth presided at this and personally distributed the presents.

One of the notable events of the day was the celebration organized by the "spugs," or Society for the Prevention of Useless Giving. Over 11,000 adults and children, rich and poor, attended its Christmas tree party, at which presents, coffee, cake, sandwiches and candy were distributed.

Riot In Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 26.—Rafael Adames, a Mexican, was killed, and five policemen were injured yesterday in a riot at the Plaza, when the officers started to break up a meeting of several hundred unemployed and hungry men. Twenty of the rioters were arrested.

When the police arrived on the scene and began to clear the streets, stones were thrown and clubs used by the men who had been listening to speeches. Adames was one of the leaders in resisting, and was shot by an officer.

Although the rioters put up a vigorous fight, none were armed, and the police suffered injuries from clubs and stones only. The Plaza finally was cleared, and the disturbance ended.

Released For Christmas.

OGDEN, Utah, Dec. 26. — With their promise to return the only pledge, forty-five boys and young men serving terms at the Utah State Industrial School were released yesterday by Supt. E. G. Gollang, after a special ruling by the board of trustees. They were all able to reach their homes in time to eat Christmas dinner, and will not return to the state school until Dec. 29.

A Real Christmas Present.

Lick's Luck.

James Lick, the founder and endower of the great astronomical establishment in California, was born in very humble circumstances, we are told, at Fredericksburg, Pa., Aug. 25, 1796. Having made a small fortune of $30,000 or $40,000 by commerce with South America, he invested it in San Francisco land while as yet the great city of the Golden Gate was but a strip of wind blown sand between the mighty Pacific and the now famous bay. The gold fever broke out in the spring of 1848, and the little cluster of wooden shacks became all at once a center of attraction to thousands from all over the world. The 600 inhabitants increased to hundreds of thousands; hotels, villas, places of business rose like magic mile after mile along the bay, and in the sudden phenomenal rise of the price of land James Lick found himself one of the rich men of the world. It was thus that he got the money for his large [illegible]

"That Affair Next Door"

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN

"Sunday.

"She has been writing to-day. But when she had filled several pages of letter paper she suddenly tore them all up and threw them into the fire. Time seems to drag with her, for she goes every few minutes to the window from which a distant church clock is visible, and sighs as she turns away. More writing in the evening and some tears. But the writing was burned as before, and the tears stopped by a laugh that augurs little good to the person who called it up. The package has been taken from under her pillow and put in some place not visible from my spy-hole.

"Monday.

"Party out again to-day, gone some two hours or more. When she returned she sat down before the mirror and began dressing her hair. She has fine hair, and she tried arranging it in several ways. None seemed to satisfy her, and she tore it down again and let it hang till supper-time, when she wound it up in its usual simple knot. Mrs. Desberger spent some minutes with her, but their talk was far from confidential, and therefore uninteresting. I wish people would speak louder when they talk to themselves.

"Tuesday.

"Great restlessness on the part of the young person I am watching. No quiet for her, no quiet for me, yet she accomplishes nothing, and as yet has furnished me no clue to her thoughts.

"A large box was brought into the room to-night. It seemed to cause her dread rather than pleasure, for she shrank at sight of it, and has not yet attempted to open it. But her eyes have never left it since it was set down on the floor. It looks like a dressmaker's box, but why such emotion over a gown?

"Wednesday.

"This morning she opened the box but did not display its contents. I caught one glimpse of a mass of tissue paper, and then she put the cover on again, and for a good half hour sat crouching down beside it, shuddering like one in an ague-fit. I began to feel there was something deadly in the box, her eyes wandered towards it so frequently and with such contradictory looks of dread and savage determination. When she got up it was to see how many more minutes of the wretched day had passed.

"Thursday.

"Party sick; did not try to leave her bed. Breakfast brought up by Mrs. Desberger, who showed her every attention, but could not prevail upon her to eat. Yet she would not let the tray be taken away, and when she was alone again or thought herself alone, she let her eyes rest so long on the knife lying across her plate, that I grew nervous and could hardly restrain myself from rushing into the room. But I remembered my instructions, and kept still even when I saw her hand steal towards this possible weapon, though I kept my own on the bell-rope which fortunately hung at my side. She looked quite capable of wounding herself with the knife, but after balancing it a moment in her hand she laid it down again and turned with a low moan to the wall. She will not attempt death till she has accomplished what is in her mind.

"Friday.

"All is right in the next room; that is, the young lady is up; but there is another change in her appearance since last night. She has grown contemptuous of herself and indulges less in brooding. But her impatience at the slow passage of time continues, and her interest in the box is even greater than before. She does not open it, however, only looks at it and lays her trembling hand now and then on the cover.

"Saturday.

"A blank day. Party dull and quiet. Her eyes begin to look like ghastly hollows in her pale face. She talks to herself continually, but in a low mechanical way exceedingly wearing to the listener, especially as no word can be distinguished. Tried to see her in her own room today, but she would not admit me.

"Sunday.

"I have noticed from the first a Bible lying on one end of her mantelshelf. To-day she noticed it also, and impulsively reached out her hand to take it down. But at the first word she read she gave a low cry and hastily closed the book and put it back. Later, however, she took it again and read several chapters. The result was a softening in her manner, but she went to bed as flushed and determined as ever.

"Monday.

"She has walked the floor all day. She has seen no one, and seems scarcely able to contain her impatience. She cannot stand this long.

"Tuesday.

"My surprises began in the morning. As soon as her room had been put in order, Miss O. locked the door and began to open her bundles. First she unrolled a pair of white silk stockings, which she carefully, but without any show of interest, laid on the bed; then she opened a package containing gloves. They were white also, and evidently of the finest quality. Then a lace handkerchief was brought to light, slippers, an evening fan, and a pair of fancy pins, and lastly she opened the mysterious box and took out a dress so rich in quality and of such simple elegance, it almost took my breath away. It was white, and made of the heaviest satin, and it looked as much out of place in that shabby room as its owner did in the moments of exaltation of which I have spoken.

"Though her face was flushed when she lifted out the gown, it became pale again when she saw it lying across her bed. Indeed, a look of passionate abhorrence characterized her features as she contemplated it, and her hands went up before her eyes and she reeled back uttering the first words I have been able to distinguish since I have been on duty. They were violent in character, and seemed to tear their way through her lips almost without her volition. 'It is hate I feel, nothing but hate. As, if it were only duty that animated me!'

"Later she grew calmer, and covering up the whole paraphernalia with a stray sheet she had evidently laid by for the purpose, she sent for Mrs. Desberger. When that lady came in shem et her with a wan but by no means dubious smile, and ignoring with quiet dignity the very evident curiosity with which that good woman surveyed the bed, she said appealingly:

"'You have been so kind to me, you will promise to help be quietly out of the house,' which, of course, produced the desired effect upon Mrs. Desberger, that woman's greatest weakness being her love of dress.

"So from that hour I knew what to expect, and after sending precautionary advices to Police Headquarters, I set myself to watch her prepare for the evening. I saw her arrange her hair and put on her elegant gown, and was as much startled by the result as if I had not had the least premonition that she only needed rich clothes to look both beautiful and distinguished. The square parcel she had once hidden under her pillow was brought out and laid on the bed, and when Mrs. Desberger's low knock announced the arrival of the carriage, she caught it up and hid it under the cloak she hastily threw about her. Mrs. Desberger came in and put out the light, but before the room sank into darkness I caught one glimpse of Miss Oliver's face. Its expression was terrible beyond anything I had ever seen on any human countenance."

XL.

As the Clock Struck.

I do not attend weddings in general, but great as my suspense was in reference to Miss Oliver, I felt that I could not miss seeing Miss Althorpe married. I had ordered a new dress for the occasion, and was in the best of spirits as I rode to the church in which the ceremony was to be performed. The excitement of a great social occasion was for once not disagreeable to me, nor did I mind the crowd, though it pushed me about rather uncomfortably till an usher came to my assistance and seated me in a pew, which I was happy to see commanded a fine view of the chancel.

I was early, but then I always am early, and having ample opportunity for observation, I noted every fine detail of ornamentation with approval, Miss Althorpe's taste being of that fine order which always falls short of ostentation. Her friends are in very many instances my friends, and it was no small part of my pleasure to note their well-known faces among the crowd of those that were strange to me. That the scene was brilliant, and that silks, satins, and diamonds abounded, goes without saying.

At last the church was full, and the hush which usually precedes the coming of the bride was settling over the whole assemblage, when I suddenly observed, in the person of a respectable-looking gentleman seated in a side pew, the form and features of Mr. Gryce, the detective. This was a shock to me, yet what was there in his presence there to alarm me? Might not Miss Althorpe have accorded him this pleasure out of the pure goodness of heart? I did not look at anybody else, however, after once my eyes fell upon him, but continued to watch his expression, which was non-commital, though a little anxious forone engaged in a purely social function.

The entrance of the clergyman and the sudden peal of the organ in the well known wedding march recalled my attention to the occasion itself, and as at that moment the bridegroom stepped from the vestry to await his bride at the altar, I was absorbed by his fine appearance and the air of mingled pride and happiness with which he watched the stately approach of the bridal procession.

But suddenly there was a stir through the whole glittering assemblage, and the clergyman made a move and the bridegroom gave a start, and the sound, slight as it was, of moving feet grew still, and I saw advancing from the door on the opposite side of the altar a second bride, clad in white and surrounded by a long veil which completely hid her face. A second bride! and the first was half-way up the aisle, and only one bridegroom stood ready!

The clergyman, who seemed to have as little command of his faculties as the rest of us, tried to speak; but the approaching woman, upon whom every regard was fixed, forestalled him by an authoritative gesture.

Silence had filled the church up to this moment; but at this audacious move, a solitary cry of mingled astonishment and despair went up behind us; but before any of us could turn, and while my own heart stood still, for I thought I recognized the veiled figure, the woman at the altar raised her hand and pointed towards the bridegroom.

"Why does he hesitate?" she cried. "Does he not recognize the only woman with whom he dare face God and man at the altar? Because I am already his wedded wife, and have been so for five long years, does that make my wearing of this veil amiss when he a husband, unreleased by the law, dares enter this sacred place with the hope and expectation of a bridegroom?"

Mrs. Desberger, that I am going to tell you a secret. Will it continue to remain a secret, or shall I see it in the faces of all my fellow-boarders tomorrow?' You can imagine. Mrs. Desberger's reply, also the manner in which it was delivered, but not Miss Oliver's secret. She uttered it in these words: 'I am going out tonight, Mrs. Desberger. I am going into great society. I am going to attend Miss Althorpe's wedding.' Then, as the good woman stammered out some words of surprise and pleasure, she went on to say: 'I do not want any one to know it, and I would be so glad if I could slip out of the house without any one seeing me. I shall need a carriage, but you will get one for me, will you not, and let me know the moment it comes. I am shy of what folks say, and besides, as you know, I am neither happy nor well, if I do go to weddings, and have new dresses, and——' She nearly broke down but collected herself with wonderful promptitude, and with a coaxing look that made her almost ghastly, so much it seemed out of accord with her strained and unnatural manner, she raised a corner of the sheet, saying, 'I will show you my gown, if

An Extension Telephone

IN THE RESIDENCE, if the main telephone is downstairs an Extension Telephone upstairs will add greatly to the usefulness and convenience of the service. Upstairs or downstairs a telephone will be close at hand and the necessity of stair-climbing eliminated.

Incoming and outgoing night messages are often emergency or highly important calls. An Extension Telephone upstairs is or near the sleeping apartment will save much time and add greatly to your comfort and protection.

IN THE OFFICE, an Extension Telephone on your desk will save you much time and annoyance. It is most inconvenient to be constantly called on to leave your desk to answer a telephone call at a telephone far removed from the work in hand.

With an Extension Telephone on your desk, telephone calls can be sent and received conveniently with practically no loss of time. With its aid you will be able to accomplish more during the busy office hours.

The additional expense of an EXTENSION TELEPHONE is trifling—only a few cents a day.

WHEN TIRES ARE IDLE.

Preparation for Winter Storage of Casings and Tubes Described.

"There is no doubt that the automobile has proved its usefulness as an all-the-year-around vehicle," said R. C. Rockhill, manager of the automobile tire department of one of the big rubber companies, last week. "But there are many difficulties to be overcome in operating the car during the cold months. A large percentage of car users store their machines during that period. The question naturally arises how best to take care of the machine and its different accessories during the period of storage.

"Tires are more likely to suffer from improper storage than almost any other part. When the automobile is stored, it is best to remove the tires from the rims. Pile them one upon the other; don't stand them upright. The room in which they are stored should be moderately cool, because excessive heat or excessive cold will tend to deteriorate rubber. A dark room is preferable, as rubber is affected by the light. If, however, dark quarters are not obtainable, the tires should be covered with a large canvas.

"Tubes should be inflated slightly — enough to cause them to stand round. They should be piled in the same manner as the casings, with a covering to prevent their exposure to light. Tubes may be safely allowed to remain in the casings if care is taken to see that the casings are well dusted with French talcum or soapstone before the tubes are inserted."

Have you ever noticed that the average man will turn his head when one of a go-cart with a baby in it, and lift his hat to the proud mamma who wheels it ... across a mantlepiece, and then scowl at a crowd of "society" women on their way home from a club meeting, who spared him off the sidewalk?

AMIABLE ENEMIES.

Rattlesnakes Are Sociable, But Conceited, Says English Scientist.

The rattlesnake is really one of the most human of living creatures, says Prof. Manley, an English naturalist of wide repute. He is a sociable, amiable enemy. But he is also extremely conceited. He knows that he possesses a death-dealing power and is consequently of the opinion that because of this he should be considered the terror of the wilderness. Other animals understand perfectly how he regards himself, the "bad man" of the region, and they recognize his terrible power. For this reason they have had to study his limitations, which he in his egotism is blind to.

The rattlesnake gets irascible on occasions, Prof. Manley goes on to say. He becomes most cross when his vanity has been wounded. But he rarely bites a human being except when he is of the opinion that his own personal safety requires it. Neither does he go out hunting trouble. His social instincts lead him to seek the same comforts with which men surround themselves, and if men would only leave him alone he would not object to their company at all.

Dogs are perhaps the most dangerous enemy the haughty rattler has to face. Together with hogs they are the only species of animal that are almost entirely immune to the venom of the rattler. Oftentimes a shepherd dog will come out badly bitten and used up from his first encounter with a rattler and have to be taken care of for days by his master. Afterward, though, he becomes wiser and in due time develops into an adept at the art of killing his enemy.

The cat is by far the cleverest of all at playing with the rattler and outwitting him at his own game. He seems to be aware, too, that puss is making fun of him, and she therefore succeeds in working him up into a terrible rage. She has no trouble at all in inducing the snake to coil, and then she cautiously stretches out a forepaw in his direction. He becomes furious and strikes, but her paw is not there, for of the two the cat is infinitely the quicker.

Coyotes are much the same in their dealings with their common enemy, playing on the weaknesses of the snake for their own pleasure for long lengths of time. Horses are not nearly so clever or wise in their dealings. Of course one reared on the range will avoid a rattler as a mule avoids work, and at the dread sound of the rattles will leap and shy. Eastern horses taken west do not know so much at first, though they speedily learn.

There seems apparently no uniformity in the rattling. If the snake is in a bad humor he will rattle even when there is no sign of an enemy about. Usually, however, he will not rattle unless he is greatly concerned.

Gave It In Full.

An old Scottish minister took it into his head to marry his housekeeper. His precentor being ill on the day when the banns were to be proclaimed, the minister, not caring to make the intimation himself, arranged with his herd boy to do it. "Now," he said, "you just call out in a loud voice, 'Proclamation of marriage between the Rev. Mr. Murray of this parish and Jean Lowe o' the same!' Na, na!" laughed the minister as he concluded. "Wha'd hae thocht it!" The Sabbath came round and the congregation assembled. When the moment arrived the lad, who had duly prepared himself, rose and called out: "Proclamation of marriage between the Rev. Mr. Murray of this parish and Jean Lowe o' the same! Na, na!" he laughed, thinking this to be a part of the proclamation. 'Wha'd hae thocht it?" The effect on the minister and the congregation can be imagined.

Getting Ready For Isaac.

Here is a story told by Rev. Dr. Hastings of Aberdeen:

When in Cambridge, Bishop Ryle, the Dean of Westminster, undertook to handle in Dr. Hastings' Dictionary of the Bible some of the proper names in Genesis. One of them was a little late, and Dr. Ryle sent his editor a wire when it was ready.

Now, it was not an unusual thing in those days for some college friend to arrive with little or no notice at the manse and be greeted by his Christian name.

On the day on which Dr. Ryle's wire was received J was from home, returning at night I found active preparations for a coming guest and, on inquiry, was shown the wire.

It read, "Isaac will arrive in a few hours."

Bad Calculation.

John, who was going to bed one night and having no light, was groping his way (the bed being one of the old fashioned kind, with high bed posts), John, in feeling for the bed post, missed it with his hand and struck it with his nose.

"Ach!" he yelled. "That is the first time I knew my nose was longer than my arm."—National Monthly.

Guessing His Trouble.

"I sometimes feel as if the world had little use for me—that things would go on just as well if I were out of it."

"Come, cheer up, old man. Before this time tomorrow you may meet some girl who will look just as good to you as the other one ever did."—Chicago Record-Herald.

JOHN GALT, President. G. H. BALFOUR, General Manager.

The new Bank Act, as revised, went into force on July 1st. You will notice several changes in the form of our statement. Under Sec. 56 of the new Act, you are required at this meeting to appoint Auditors for the Bank, and to vote the amount of their remuneration.

A new set of By-laws will be submitted to you for approval and adoption if thought advisable. It will be necessary to change the date of our Annual Meeting from December to January in order that the Auditors may have sufficient time in which to complete their work.

Your Directors wish to place on record their appreciation of the excellent advice, helpful guidance and valuable work by the Bank's Committee in London, England.

It is with the deepest regret the Directors have to record the death of the Honorary President, the Honorable John Sharples. Mr. Sharples was for many years a Director, and for five years the honoured and esteemed President of this Bank. Its present standing is largely due to his great interest in its welfare and sound judgment in business matters.

Mr. Wm. Price, of Quebec, was elected Honorary President, and Mr. Geo. H. Thomson has succeeded him as Vice-President.

The vacancy on the Board has been filled by the election of Mr. B. B. Cronyn, Vice-President of the W. R. Brock Company, Limited, a gentleman of long business experience in Toronto. We feel sure the judgment and influence of Mr. Cronyn will be of great advantage to the Bank.

During the past year thirty-one Branches and Agencies of the Bank have been opened in the several Provinces as follows: Ontario 4, Quebec 6, Alberta 5, British Columbia 5, Manitoba 4, Saskatchewan 16.

Three Branches in Ontario which were not giving satisfactory results have been closed.

The total number of Branches and Agencies is now 312.

The annual inspection of Head Office and of all Branches and Agencies of the Bank has been made.

JOHN GALT, President.

The President, Mr. John Galt, moved that the Report be adopted and printed for distribution among the Shareholders and addressed the Meeting as follows:

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

In moving the adoption of the Directors' Report, I have an opportunity of placing before our Shareholders a review of general conditions in Canada as they present themselves to us. The financial statement will be dealt with later by the General Manager. I shall only say that this statement is satisfactory as it shows steady progress and also indicates the conservative policy, which, in my judgment, is characteristic of the management of the Bank.

The year 1913 has been a trying one both for borrower and lender. There has been a general feeling of uneasiness which has caused financiers to carry an unusually large proportion of their funds in a liquid form. This has curtailed the loaning power of all the Banks and has checked the encouragement of new business, but we have been careful to see that our customers have had the money necessary to carry on their legitimate trade, and I do not think we have given any of them reason to complain.

The capital available for investment in new fixed forms such as railways, canals, city and farm buildings, etc., is, of course, limited. Of late years it has been pretty well absorbed. It is clear that when the supply is exhausted or when causes operate to check it, expenditure in fixed forms must be curtailed. This point seems to have been reached, and Canada will have to mark time until confidence is restored and until the older countries, from whom we draw much of our capital, are in a position to again invest their savings and profits. The natural resources of Canada are so vast and so attractive that the capital necessary for their development will, undoubtedly be forthcoming when financial conditions become more settled.

The causes underlying the feeling of anxiety to which I have referred were world-wide, and, whilst some of them are now removed, we still feel that caution is advisable and that strictest economy in both public and private affairs is necessary.

Speculation in real estate is over for the present, but the demand for building sites must continue in a country where the population is steadily increasing, and holders of such property should not be apprehensive of this class of investment. That the inability of speculators to turn over their property has had so little effect on the general business of the country is largely due to the conservative and prudent action of Canadian Banks, for they have consistently discouraged and refused to finance speculative land operations.

The statistics which are at our command will be furnished by the Superintendents in their reports on the several Provinces. I may say, speaking generally, that the crop results have been satisfactory. In the three great wheat growing Provinces this has been a banner year. Not only has the yield been large, but the average quality has never been equalled, and the cost of harvesting has been unusually low owing to the magnificent weather we have enjoyed. This has, to some extent, offset the low prices which prevailed. Providence has indeed been kind to us, and that, too, at a time when we needed it most. The railways have done splendid work in handling the crop, and we have had few complaints of shortage of cars. We cannot, with our present facilities, expect much more wheat to be delivered at lake ports before the close of navigation than has been delivered this year, and the need of interior storage for our grain will be urgent for some time to come.

MIXED FARMING.

There is a marked increase in the number of livestock. Farmers are becoming more fully alive to the advantages they derive from this source and are realising that their borrowing credit is greatly enhanced with their Bankers if they can show a good proportion of cattle in their camps, and banks should look with favor on loans for the purchase and handling of livestock.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Trade conditions in British Columbia have not been as bright during the year as we could wish. Conditions in the lumber trade have been unsatisfactory, and coal strikes on Vancouver Island, which have lasted for months, have thrown a great many men out of employment.

The fishing industry has had a good year, and the recent revision of the United States tariff, by which fish now enter that country free, will be of advantage to the trade.

The mining industry has yielded satisfactory returns, a very large increase in the production having taken place over the preceding year.

The fruit crop for 1913 has been a record one, the value of shipments from the Okanagan District alone being in the neighborhood of $1,400,000.

Railroad expansion has been active and about 2,200 miles was under construction during the year.

Stringent money conditions have checked many Municipal undertakings, and this, together with the closing down of lumber camps and completion of railroad work, will add to the number of unemployed during the coming winter.

Large harbour improvements have been undertaken at Victoria which have improved conditions to some extent.

In Eastern Canada, trade conditions have been good, and the crop results have been most gratifying.

PROVINCE OF ONTARIO.

Crops have been of a good average and we have again to report a prosperous year.

PROVINCE OF QUEBEC.

Along both shores of the St. Lawrence and in the Eastern Townships, conditions were favorable, and abundant crops were harvested in good order.

The lumber trade has experienced a good year, and the removal of the United States duty on lumber should stimulate trade.

MARITIME PROVINCES

Weather conditions have been satisfactory with the result that all crops have been above the average. The fishing industry has also experienced another profitable year.

GENERAL

GOOD ROADS.—The question of good roads is of paramount importance, and there yet remains a great deal to be done. We are glad to be able to report that the Legislatures of the various Provinces are giving their attention to this important question.

IMMIGRATION.— Reports continue to be of a satisfactory nature. Approximately 400,000 people have entered Canada during the year ending September, 1913. The immigration authorities report favorably on the class of these new settlers, and estimate them to be worth $1,000 per capita to Canada.

Whilst we believe trade conditions to be on a sound basis, and the financial position of Canada in a most gratifying condition, we still consider that it is the duty of this Bank to exercise caution and to discourage any attempts to undertake large commitments whilst conditions in Europe are readjusting themselves after the recent disturbance.

FINANCING OF MUNICIPALITIES.

From our point of view it is very desirable that the Provincial Governments should take action in regard to monies required for municipal expenditure. A commission should pass on all issues after expert examination of proposed expenditures. If these issues carried the guarantee of the Province and were sold under its auspices they would have a greatly enhanced value, and the saving to the community would be very large, both in the difference of value and in the supervision of expenditure exercised by the Government. Under the present system the initial financing falls upon the Banks because they have to await the sale of debentures, the disposition of which, in turn, often depends upon the ability and knowledge of men who have had little or no experience in financial operations, and who make their sales in a haphazard instead of a systematic manner. In this way sometimes, for indefinite periods, large sums are tied up which should be employed in the general financial operations of the community.

The proposed legislation by the Province of Saskatchewan along these lines is, in my judgment, likely to prove of benefit.

NEW UNITED STATES TARIFF

The recent reduction in the United States tariff should result in obtaining a larger market for our products.

In conclusion, let me say that the figures which have been laid before you must be particularly gratifying to our Shareholders. We are now a large institution, and our growth and strength illustrate, to some extent, the general development of Canada. With your help we shall do our best to keep pace with this progress, and to build up a great Bank, which will be in touch with the needs of the country, and a credit to the whole Dominion.

GENERAL MANAGER'S ADDRESS.

Gentlemen,—Owing largely to the unsettled financial conditions which have obtained throughout the whole world during the year under review, business has not been normal and has caused bankers much anxiety. Conservative administration and caution have been adhered to, and whilst supplying our customers with their legitimate requirements, we have aimed at maintaining, at all times, a strong financial position in so far as liquid or immediately available assets are concerned.

The early marketing of the Western grain crops has had an important bearing upon conditions in that section of the country in which we have large interests and is reflected in the increased volume of deposits.

Dealing with the figures in the Profit and Loss Account and in the Balance Sheet, I am pleased to say that after making ample provision for all necessary reserves, the net profits show an increase of almost 1 per cent. over those of 1912, being slightly over 15 per cent. on the paid-up capital.

In the opinion of the Directors this result has been deemed sufficiently satisfactory to justify the declaration of a bonus of 1 per cent. in addition to the regular dividend of 8 per cent. (2 per cent. quarterly). This bonus will be paid on the 1st March next to Shareholders of record as on February 14th, 1914.

Owing to the prevailing monetary conditions, prices of securities generally have declined during the year and it has been considered advisable to set aside the sum of $125,000, out of Profits, to a special Reserve Account, to meet the depreciation in market values, of stocks, bonds and debentures, owned by the Bank as an investment.

$100,000 has been added to Rest Account, which now stands at $3,400,000.

$50,000 has been written off Bank Premises.

The usual contribution of $10,000 has been made to the Officers' Pension Fund.

$90,579.03 is carried to the new Profit and Loss Account, as against $75,483.76 brought forward from 1912.

Some changes will be observed in the classification of figures in the Balance Sheet; these were necessary to comply with the provisions under the revised Bank Act.

Deposits have increased by $8,952,000, which, considering financial conditions, is looked upon as very satisfactory. They now amount to $64,595,288.19.

Our immediate available assets are $25,000,000, or 34.59¼ per cent. to liabilities to the public.

Current Loans in Canada have increased by $1,756,000 and now amount to $46,798,969.

Real Estate and other Bank Premises has been reduced by $150,000. Property and buildings acquired for the use of the Bank are now at once charged to Bank Premises.

Mortgages on Real Estate sold by the Bank are larger by $47,000 than a year ago, and overdue debts show an increase of $45,000.

In agricultural districts it is difficult to impress upon the farmer the necessity of attending promptly to his paper at its maturity, especially when weather conditions are favorable to plowing and other agricultural pursuits. Bank Premises have increased $300,000. It is found necessary to erect a number of buildings every year for our own occupation, when suitable premises cannot be leased, every effort being made to provide comfortable accommodation for members of the staff at country branches.

The total assets of the Bank are now over $80,000,000, as against $69,400,000 in 1912, showing a substantial expansion in the growth of the Institution during the year.

PROGRESS OF THE BANK.

During the year 3 Branches were closed in Ontario.

The total number of Branches and Agencies is now 313, as follows:—Alberta, 48; British Columbia, 30; Manitoba, 56; Saskatchewan, 99; Ontario, 59; Quebec, 13; Maritime Provinces, 2; London, Eng., 1.

Since closing of the year, we have also opened a West End Branch in London, Eng., in the Haymarket, corner of Panton street, and at Smithers, B.C.

In connection with the very satisfactory manner in which the railway companies have carried out the grain from the Western Provinces this year, it may be interesting for you to know that up to December 1st the following quantities of grain have passed Winnipeg for the head of the Great Lakes, namely, 99,000,000 bushels wheat, 33,500,000 bushels oats, 1,500,000 bushels barley, and 6,500,000 bushels flax.

Before sitting down, I desire to bear testimony to the efficiency and loyalty of the Staff, not only of the Executive Officers, but the whole Staff of the Bank, to whose energy and ability much of the success which has attended the operations of the past year, is due.

Mr. Geo. H. Thomson, the Vice-President, seconded the adoption of the Report, which was carried.

When Freedom Shrieked.

It is much to be feared that the great Pole, Kosciusko, is known to most Americans simply from the line in a famous poem, "And Freedom shrieked when Kosciusko fell."

One might suppose that the hero fell in battle. In fact, he died serenely in Switzerland at seventy-one after failing to maintain the independence of Poland. His fall was political and military, but not physical.

It should be remembered that the great Pole was the most distinguished engineer officer in the armies commanded by Washington; that he fought and labored long and well for the patriot cause. It was he who laid out the defenses at West Point which Benedict Arnold tried to betray to the British, and in a sense the Military academy is a monument to him, for he lived to see it started on its glorious career.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

RURAL JOYS.

Sing a song of winter time,
Cold and bitter weather;
Meet it with a cherry rhyme,
All of us together!

Shut the window, light the lamp,
To the hearth draw nigher;
Thaw out all the frost and damp
At the open fire.

Toss a blazing on the blaze,
Spread the circle wider,
Talk and talk of other days—
Fetch a jug of cider!

Crack the nut and crack the jest
'Mid the laughter hasty—
Now and then among the rest
One is stale and fusty.

Mother, fetch the gingerbread
And the apples mellow;
Even lovers must be fed—
Sall's got a fellow!

Goodness! How we pity
Them that pleasure never know,
People of the city.

NEW CONVENIENT TRAIN TO WINNIPEG.
CANADIAN PACIFIC

The popularity of Canadian Pacific service, and the excellence of that road's equipment, has been so greatly appreciated by the travelling public that it has been found necessary to put into service an entirely new Through Standard Express Train between Toronto and Winnipeg.

Commencing Sunday, October 26th, the "Gate City Express" will leave Toronto at 2.30 p.m., and will run daily thereafter, arriving Winnipeg at 8.25 a.m. second morning. The train will consist of the highest-class modern equipment; Observation Compartment Car, Standard Sleeping Cars, Tourist Sleeping Car, Dining Car, First-class Coach and Colonist Car. This will be found the most convenient and best train between Toronto and Winnipeg on account of the daylight departure from Toronto at an hour when the Union Station is not badly congested, and also on account of the early hour of arrival at Winnipeg.

The present "Vancouver Express" will continue to leave Toronto at 10.20 p.m. daily and will consist of the same equipment as the "Gate City Express." This train is the best to take for points west of Winnipeg, but for Winnipeg and east the "Gate City Express" is the right train to travel by.

A PAGE OF THE BEST HUMOR OF THE WEEK

Why Haste Was Desired.

A local paper tells of a clergyman who received this note telling him to perform a marriage ceremony:

"This is to give you notis that I and Miss Jemima Arabella Brearly is coming to your church on Saturday afternoon next to undergo the operation of matrimoney at your hands. Please be prompt, as the cab is hired by the hour."

"Your former speeches were models of oratory," said the solicitous friend. "Now you are using colloquialisms dangerously near slang."

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum, cheerfully; "these are 1913 models."

The Other Car.

Some salesmen are equal to almost any emergency and do not spare the "other car" when occasion requires.

"But the Blank car is guaranteed for life," protested the prospective purchaser to a salesman of the sort.

"Yes, I know it is," retorted the quick-witted salesman, "but our car is guaranteed for a whole year."

It required several moments for the prospective purchaser to see the point.

A DIFFERENT SENSE.

Hubby: "That's right! Rail and carry on because I spend an evening at the club. I don't expect to be able to make you see what attracts a man to a club."

Wife (calmly): "No, you don't make me see it, but you make me smell it."—Sydney Bulletin.

"George, what are you burning, dear?" she asked, going to the grate and peering over his shoulder.

"The letters I wrote you before we were married."

"You heartless wretch! I wonder if all men are so devoid of sentiment? You——"

"I am doing it in your interest, dear. I'm trying to fix things so that when I die nobody can dispute my will on the ground of insanity."

One of Our Conquerors.

The manoeuvres, in which the Red and the Blue armies had engaged in mimic warfare, had ended. They were the subject of conversation on the porch of a summer hotel.

"Yes, I was at the manoeuvres," remarked a talkative stranger. "I was with the Blue army."

"Tell us about it," said one of the listeners.

"Well, the first day I took one of the Red's officers."

"Yes?"

"And the next day I took eight men."

"Well! well!"

"Yes, and the day before we quit I took a lot of transport wagons; and followed that up by taking a big gun."

"Say, my friend," said one of the group who had been listening in astonishment to these tales of military prowess, "what are you, anyway?"

"Oh," replied the stranger, "I am a photographer."

Teacher: Tommie, this great man about whom we have been reading is called an unconscious humorist. What is an unconscious humorist?

Small Boy: A joker that's fainted away.

Fleered.

"Woman! Feminism! Suffrage! Bah! Why, there isn't a woman alive who wouldn't rather be beautiful than intelligent."

"That's because," said Miss Barrymore, calmly, "so many men are stupid while so few are blind."

A large, slouchy colored man went shuffling down the road whistling like a lark. His clothes were ragged and his shoes were out at toes and heels, and he appeared to be in the depths of poverty for all his mirth.

As he passed a prosperous-looking house a man stepped from the doorway and hailed him. "Hey, Jim! I got a job for you. Do you want to make a quarter?"

"No, sah," said the ragged one, "I done got a quarter."

Too Much.

On the occasion of a mayoral banquet in a small provincial town, one of the last guests to leave went to the cloakroom for his coat and hat. He couldn't help noticing the woebegone look on the attendant's face. The poor man appeared worried and sad, and every little while sighed and muttered to himself.

"You seem upset, sir," said the attendant.

"What is the trouble? Haven't the guests tipped you well tonight?"

The attendant answered in an excited voice:

"It's not only, sir, that they haven't tipped me, but they've taken the shilling that I put in the tray for a decoy."

"I want to know what's the matter with my tooth, sir."

The medical officer looked at the offending molar and informed the recruit that the nerve of the tooth was dead.

"Well, by hivens," replied the recruit, "the others must be houldin' a wake over it!"

"I gave Walter a beautiful necktie of my own make for a Christmas present," said Mabel.

"Was he pleased?"

"Oh, yes; he said its beauty shall be for no other eyes than his own. Wasn't that lovely of him?"

"Why, Mrs. Murphy, you looks quite festive today. Wot's up, then?"

"Wot! 'Aven't you 'eard my Bill comes out today?"

"But I thought the judge gave him seven years."

Starting It Off.

Struggling Author (who has just read his latest story to his wife)—"There! That's the best thing I ever did."

His Wife—"Yes, dear. What magazine shall you send it to first?"

Blaming Mother.

"My mother made me what I am," said the political speaker as he proudly threw out his chest.

"Well," said a small man at the rear of the hall, "she must have put in most of her time at other things."

The Ways of Ma's.

Mrs. Gordon had recently moved into the neighborhood.

"I thought I would come and tell you that your James has been fighting with my Edward," said one of the neighbors, one morning as she called at Mrs. Gordon's door, "and settle the matter if I could."

Well, for my part," responded Mrs. Gordon, haughtily, "I have no time to enter into any discussion about the children's quarrels. I consider myself above such trifling things."

"I'm delighted to hear it," was the reply, "I'll send James over on a stretcher in an hour or two."

An Idea.

The elderly stout man in the fourth row was attentively following the pastor's sermon.

"Let us then," said the exhorter, "break the bonds of custom and throw off the shackles of self, and acknowledge our debt to life's fundamental lessons. Let us deduct from the year's balance-sheet those obligations which we are morally bound to assume."

At this point the stout man suddenly chuckled and slapped his leg with considerable force.

After the sermon he was overtaken by the pastor.

"You seemed greatly pleased with one section of the sermon," he said.

"Yes," replied the stout man. "What you said reminded me of a ripping new scheme for beating the income tax."

"Quite so," began the nervous woman. "But 'e's a——"

"Never mind what he is! If he doesn't vote for Bloggs England will go steadily downhill, down, down, down, until——"

"But will his vote——"

"Yes, madam, it will! If he does not exercise his vote, and on behalf of Bloggs, I tell you the empire will be forever ruined!"

"Oh, well, that doesn't matter!" replied the good woman, rising and showing her visitor to the door. "My 'usband works at the 'ippodrome."

Up-to-date.

During the recent strike riots in the streets of Johannesburg a large number of plate-glass windows were broken and goods pilfered by the unruly crowds. One of the unfortunate sufferers—a hairdresser and tobacconist near the general postoffice—showed a certain amount of humor by the following notice which appeared alongside a huge hole made in his window:

"Owing to the increase of business we have opened another entrance."

When the damage was, however, repaired, this notice was displayed:

"Owing to the increase of business we had to open another entrance, but being unable to cope with the extra rush of customers we have had to close it."

The Meanest Man.

"That fellow certainly is a dub."

"For why?"

"I told him I blessed my wife, and he went and told her."

"By the way, Mrs. Smith," remarked the vicar, after the service, "I was extremely sorry to see your husband leave the church in the middle of my sermon. I trust nothing was seriously the matter with him?"

"Oh, no, sir," replied Mrs. Smith. "It was nothin' very serious; but, you see, sir, the poor man do have a terrible 'abit o' walkin' in his sleep."

A Warmed-Over Sensation.

The professional fire-fighter is too frequently face to face with danger to regard fires in an esthetic light, but the feelings of the amateur with a passion for "running with the machine" occasionally show an epicurean flavor.

While running to a fire in a large town in Massachusetts, one citizen overtook another, who was going in the same direction.

"O, dear!" the last gulped, quite out of breath. "I hope it's not the stove-lining works; I've seen that twice already."

Why Not?

Teacher: Now, who can tell me what political economy is?

Mike (embryo Tammany statesman): Gittin' the most votes for the least money.

Doctor: You mustn't give up hope. Some years ago I had exactly the same illness.

His One Chance.

"You eat very little, Mr. Smith," said the maiden coyly to the bashful lover who had been invited to share the family Christmas dinner.

"Yes," replied he, and for once he saw a chance and, grasping his courage, he said: "To sit next to you, Miss Grace, is to lose one's appetite."

How He Could Help.

An army chaplain came across a baggage column with a wagon stuck fast.

"Men, I see you're in difficulties," he said. "Can I be of any assistance?"

"Yes, sir," exclaimed one of the drivers, "by making yourself scarce. You see, we can't very well say to the horses what they'd understand while you're about!"

Rose: "Jack is such a dear fellow. You don't know what a big soul I make of myself when he calls."

Marie: "Yes, I do, he tells me all about it."

Suspicious.

Gentleman (in railway train): "How did this accident happen?"

Guard: "Someone pulled the cord and stopped the train, and the boat express ran into us. It will take five hours to clear the line for us to go ahead."

Gentleman: "Five hours! Great Scot! I was to be married today!"

Guard (a married man, sternly): "Look here, are you the chap who stopped the train?"

"Is that so?" said the generous Irishman; "then we'll fight it out with guillotines."

A Marked Bullet

How a Country Boy Got Away From the Farm

By EDWARD L. PARKER.

A murder in a quiet farming community relatively excites as much commotion as the shooting down of a mob in a city. I was then eighteen years old and had never known anything so exciting as the killing of a man whom I had known all my life. I ran out of the house and down the road to the scene of the murder. On my arrival I saw several of the neighbors standing on the porch discussing who the murderer could be.

Pushing by them, I went into the room where the crime had been committed and saw the body stretched on a lounge, where it had been lifted from the floor. I noticed that the shirt front, besides being covered with blood, had been blackened. Mr. Ackers had probably been shot by one so near him as to produce this blackening by burnt powder. Turning my eyes from the body, I saw a little round thing on the floor about the size of a small marble. I picked it up and found it to be a bullet. It was sticky with blood.

It occurred to me that it was the bullet with which the shooting had been done. I had never heard of detectives, for I had always lived on a farm, and this was before the day when the country newspapers were filled with stories about the wonderful tracings of this class of persons. Therefore it did not occur to me that the bullet might be of use in furnishing a clew to the murderer. It did not occur to me that it would be a fine thing to possess a bullet that had killed a man, and I thrust it into my trousers pocket.

I had no sooner done so than Dr. Budd came in with several others and, after examining the body, said:

"He has been shot through and through."

Some one ordering me, told me to get out. I did so reluctantly, for since this was the only exciting event that had come into my life I thought it a hardship not to be permitted to remain to see and hear all there was to be seen and heard. I joined the loiterers outside and learned that the police had been notified and were expected soon. A big man with a badge on his breast came before I left and went into the house with an air of authority. I envied him, thinking him to be a very important personage, for everybody made way for him.

I knew nothing, at least for some time, of what was going on with reference to the matter. The body was duly buried, the funeral being a very large one. I attended myself, moved by a desire to see all that I was permitted to see connected with the event of the murder, and when it was all over and I was obliged to settle back into my farm duties, unrelieved by any excitement whatever, I felt like a boy the day after the circus had come and gone.

It was then that I took the bullet from my pocket and looked at it as the only memorial I possessed of the only exciting event that had entered into my uneventful life. I owned a squirrel gun and was more or less interested in arms and ammunition. I dropped the bullet into water to wash the blood off it and wiped it on my trousers. I owned a little magnifying handglass which I had bought for 10 cents. Without any especial object in mind I brought it to bear on my prize. Two scratches on the lead were revealed by the glass, and I noticed that they were parallel.

Now, if I had not been of an inquiring mind my story would here come to an end, or, rather, it would never have been begun. I certainly did not connect these scratches with the discovery of the murderer. I simply couldn't understand what caused them. But I was not long in suspecting that they had been produced by the tiny protuberances, probably rust, in the barrel of the weapon from which the bullet had been fired. That theory accounted for their parallelism.

But I was not sure, and in order to prove the matter I got down my squirrel gun, and, looking down into the barrel, by focusing the sun's rays with my magnifier I saw a minute speck which might cause a scratch on a bullet fired past it. Loading the gun with a new bullet, I fired the ball into a tree, cut it out and examined it. But if the scratches had been made they had been so added to that I could not detect them. I fired another bullet into a bank with the same negative result.

Looking about for some softer substance to put it into, I noticed the barrel used to catch rainwater from the roof of the house, and it occurred to me to catch the bullet in water. I made my experiment again, this time in the water barrel, and, examining the ball with my microscope, saw a scratch corresponding with the rust speck in the barrel of my gun.

Then the fact came into my brain that the barrel of the pistol which had been used to kill Mr. Ackers undoubtedly contained two little protuberances against which the bullet had rubbed on being fired, and the distance between these protuberances would be exactly the same as between the scratches. I do not mean that this occurred to me as a possible means of discovering the murderer. I merely looked upon it as an interesting fact.

"I CONFESSED THAT I HAD THE BULLET."

Meanwhile the police were investigating. The period of the detective was coming on, and two or three men were working on the case. But they worked secretly, and I knew nothing about what they were doing, nor did I receive any information upon this till a man of the name of Coyne was [illegible] for the murder and held for trial. There was a lot of circumstantial evidence against him. Mr. Ackers had owed him some money, which Coyne had vainly tried to get. Coyne had been heard to use violent language to Ackers. Indeed, a threatening letter from the former was found among the latter's papers. Immediately after the murder Coyne had disappeared and was arrested in a distant city. He owned a pistol, which was captured by the police, and one chamber was found empty. The evidence consisted in these two features—the matter of securing payment of the debt and the revolver, one chamber of which had been discharged.

I was in court during the trial and heard the prosecuting attorney make a strong point against the prisoner by producing the accused's revolver. When the court adjourned I went to Coyne's counsel, and I confessed that I had the bullet which killed Ackers and which had not been found by the police. I also told him of my experiments and that I believed the pistol with which the murder had been committed could be identified by the scratches on the bullet.

The lawyer—Truesdale—stared at me while I spoke with eyes as large as butter plates, then asked me a lot of questions. The trial had ended for the day, and he immediately adopted means to be ready with the new evidence on the morrow. He told me to bring the bullet to him at once in cotton, fearing that it might receive other scratches. I did as he bid me, and the next day when the court convened I went there, as requested.

The moment I entered the courtroom Coyne looked at me with terrible anxiety on his face, having been apprised of what had passed between me and his counsel. As for me, I was wondering whether I would prove him a guilty or an innocent man. A barrel of water stood in the courtroom beneath the judge's bench. Truesdale instructed me to load my squirrel gun with a new bullet and fire it into the water. I did so, and he showed the bullet and the interior of the gun barrel to the jury, using the same means as I had used in my experiment, except that his microscope was more powerful and his light was electric. The scratch on the lead was apparent.

The bullet that had killed Ackers was then produced and the scratches shown the jury. It was of the same caliber as Coyne's revolver. A new bullet was then put in Coyne's pistol and fired into the water.

I was watching the prisoner, and as soon as the experiment with the squirrel gun had terminated I saw his face light up with hope. When the bullet was taken out of the water he showed great agitation. His counsel first examined the bullet, then looked at him with an expression of joy. The ball was examined by the jury and found to be without a scratch.

The demonstration that Ackers had not been killed from the prisoner's revolver was conclusive, and since this was the keystone of the evidence against him the state's case fell to the ground. He was acquitted, and, though many still believed him guilty, most persons were convinced of his innocence.

The moment he was made free he came to me and embraced me. "Come with me," he said. I went home with him, and he asked, "What can I do for you?"

"Help me get away from the farm."

"The best way to do that is to educate you. Would you like to go to college?"

I replied that I would, and he sent me to a preparatory school and after that to college and gave me also a profession.

The real murderer of Ackers was subsequently arrested. I took enough interest in the case to hunt down the pistol with which the murder was done and tested it for the scratches. It had become somewhat rusted and showed other marks besides those on the bullet in my possession, but there were two that gave the same distance measurement. The evidence was not necessary, for the murderer confessed.

A man had his next door neighbor arrested on a charge of willfully damaging a chicken.

The judge looked at the charge with mingled amusement and surprise, and when the plaintiff was put on the stand he asked him what damage had been done to the bird.

"My next door neighbor caught the chicken in his garden," answered the plaintiff, "and wrung its neck."

"I see," returned the judge. "What was the chicken worth alive?"

"It was worth 75 cents," answered the plaintiff.

"What was it worth dead?" questioned the judge.

"Seventy-five cents," replied the plaintiff.

"I fail to see where any appreciable damage was done," said the judge. "The case is dismissed."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Ancient Unions and Trusts.

About the year 190 B. C. Thyatira came under the power of Rome, and, though in the days of the republic it suffered much from oppression and extortion, great commercial prosperity came to it with the inauguration of the empire. About the time that St. John wrote the Revelation it was at the height of its wealth and prosperity as a business city. It is known that there were more trade guilds in Thyatira than in any other city of Asia, for inscriptions tell us that there were guilds of linen workers, wool workers, dyers, bronze smiths, potters, bakers, tanners and slave dealers. The selling of ready made garments was an important business of Thyatira, but whether there were the accompaniments of sweatshops, long hours and scanty pay we are not told.—Christian Herald.

"All is Well That Ends Well"

Along with dyspepsia comes nervousness, sleeplessness and general ill health. Why? Because a disordered stomach does not permit the food to be assimilated and carried to the blood. On the other hand, the blood is charged with poisons which come from this disordered digestion. In turn, the nerves are not fed on good, red blood and we see those symptoms of nervous breakdown. It is not head work that does it, but poor stomach work. With poor thin blood the body is not protected against the attack of germs of grip—bronchitis—consumption. Fortify the body now with

OFF FOR ENGLAND.

Ocean Rates Will Be Discussed Says Hon. George E. Foster.

OTTAWA, Dec. 26.—That the question of the increase in ocean freight rates will be considered at two or three sittings of the Imperial Trade Commission, and that he is hopeful of good results was the statement of Hon. George E. Foster last evening. Mr. Foster leaves to-day for England to attend the meetings of the commission, which will continue from Jan. 8 until the end of the month, after which the commissioners go to South Africa. Mr. Foster will not go south, however, but will return direct to Canada.

Canada's Minister of Trade and Commerce said the question of ocean freight rates had only recently been brought to the attention of the commissioners and so no reference to it could be embodied in the report which will be laid before them, but the matter was one of such pressing importance that it would be dealt with as thoroughly as the short time at their disposal would allow.

It is understood that representatives of the leading exporters and importers as well as of steamship companies will be ordered to make statements to the commission.

Transatlantic freight rates are the most important to be considered. The upward trend has a serious effect on the trade of Canada with Great Britain, and the hope of Mr. Foster is that the commission may be enabled to take action immediately.

Napanee Man's Sudden Death.

KINGSTON, Dec. 26.—While sitting in a chair in Sands' cigar store, Charles Byrnes was seized with a weak spell and in attempting to go to the lavatory in the basement went headlong down a flight of stairs, a distance of over 20 feet. He was picked up dead. It was thought that the fall had killed him, but the coroner who made an examination stated that he died of heart failure. Byrnes, who was unmarried, resided in Napanee.

BARGAINS FOR LIBERTY.

E. R. Tolman Would Give Up $500,000 to Get Father Out.

ALBANY, N.Y., Dec. 26.—Friends, relatives, former employes and attorneys of D. H. Tolman, convicted money lender, now serving a six months' sentence on Harts Island, again besieged the executive chamber Wednesday to solicit a Christmas pardon for him. Among the governor's callers was E. E. Tolman, a son of the convicted man.

Managers of Tolman's enterprises in Buffalo, Albany, Syracuse and Rochester were present to aid in the fight for his liberty.

Tolman's attorneys brought $500,000 in notes with them to the Capitol and offered to burn them in the executive chamber if a pardon were granted. Inquiry by the governor proved that while the notes would be burned, Tolman desired to reserve the right to sue on part of them.

Later Elmer E. Tolman, the prisoner's son withdraw all restrictions and offered to go out of business entirely if his plea were granted.

Should further evidence of good faith be desired, the applicant would be willing to have the pardon made conditional upon the performance of all promises made.

The notes in question affect 25,000 people, it is said, and most of them represent loans of about $20. The indebtedness would be cancelled in each instance.

HE IS READY TO HANG.

Train Robber and Murderer Admits His Guilt.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26.—"I have no friends. I will plead guilty. I am ready to hang."

John Bostick, confessed train robber and slayer of Horace B. Montague, a Southern Pacific traveling passenger agent, made this statement shortly after he arrived from San Francisco in custody of Sheriff Hammel yesterday. Bostick held up the Sunset Limited near El Monte Dec. 1 and killed Montague, who was a passenger.

Sheriff Hammel said that on the way from San Francisco, where the prisoner was captured Tuesday, Bostick had made a complete confession not only of the El Monte murder and robbery but of another hold-up Nov. 24 near Richmond, Cal.

Comb Sage Tea In Lifeless, Gray Hair

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural colour and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the grey hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural colour and looks glossy, soft and abundant.

HAILED FROM MONTREAL.

Jasper Reed, a Notorious Thief, Dies In Antwerp.

ANTWERP, Dec. 26. — Mystery surrounded the death of an old man with a wooden leg, who fell dead in an Antwerp street just after being accused of stealing a bundle of bank notes valued at £240 sterling, missed from a bank a moment before. A post-mortem showed that he committed suicide by swallowing a dozen potassium of cyanide tablets, but the missing notes were not found on him.

The cripple's identity has since been conclusively established. He is named Jasper Reed, born at Montreal in 1838. His leg was amputated in prison here while he was undergoing a sentence for the theft of £480 in Antwerp in circumstances almost identical with his latest crime. Reed is believed to be a prominent member of an international gang of thieves.

GOT RID OF BRONCHITIS

The worst feature of bronchitis is the tendency to return year after year until the system is worn out and gives way to consumption, or other disease.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine owes much of its great popularity to the fact that it positively cures bronchitis, and this is about as severe a test as can be made of a medicine of this kind.

Mr. W. H. Walker, Calmar, Alta., writes: "I am pleased to say that Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has done much good to myself, wife and children. My eldest girl, seven years, had bronchitis, and the doctor who attended her did not seem to do much good. We got Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for her, and she soon got well. We always keep this medicine in the house now ready for use, and find that it soon cures coughs and colds."

In fighting diseases of the throat and lungs half the battle is in having Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine at hand to be used promptly. This is why many people prefer to buy the large family size bottle.

FAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a Glass of Salts to flush kidneys if bladder bothers you

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly, backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

ARCHDUKE'S PRESENT.

Austrian Prince Gives Handsome Museum to Nation.

VIENNA, Dec. 26. — Archduke Frederick, the richest member of the Austrian Imperial family, made the nation a magnificent Christmas gift yesterday. He purchased the ancient Augustine monastery next door to his palace and intends to build a museum on the site, which will be the finest and most valuable in Vienna.

The archduke has long considered the scheme of building a suitable museum for the far-famed Albertine collection, and, having obtained the Emperor's consent to the project, now intends to spend some thousands of pounds on his pet scheme.

The Albertine collection contains original drawings by Raphael, Michael Angelo, Rembrandt, Rubens, Watteau, Boucher, Durer, Klinger, and 200,000 of the finest engravings in the world, with a library of 50,000 rare manuscripts. It will be remembered that the collection, which now is housed in the monastery, was in great danger of destruction two years ago, when the archduke's palace caught fire.

INJUSTICE REDRESSED.

Innocent Man Freed After Five Years In Prison.

MONTREAL, Dec. 26.—After serving five years of a 15-year sentence imposed upon him for a crime for which he was innocent, Geroimio Fatzari walked out a free man from St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary Wednesday.

Fatzari was sentenced for attempted murder, in connection with a fracas which occurred in St. David's lane in March, 1908. He was convicted on the evidence of three witnesses, one of whom has since paid the death penalty for a murder committed in the eastern provinces. Another is now serving a term in Dorchester Penitentiary, while the third is a fugitive from justice, having jumped a bail bond of $12,000 given at the office of the Court of Appeals.

The police became convinced of Fatzari's innocence about five months ago. Proceedings were hurried at the last minute so that the unfortunate man would be granted his liberty on Christmas eve.

Employers Are Generous.

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—At least $1,000,000 has been distributed by the banks and big industrial corporations having their headquarters in this city, as Christmas gifts to employes. While many firms and banks adhere to the time-honored custom of presenting turkeys and gold pieces of varying denominations there is a noticeable increase in the number of corporations substituting profit-sharing plans organized on a systematic basis of remuneration for length of service. The banks pretty generally are sticking to the gold dollar distribution of yore, the sums given ranging from $10 to $40 for each employe.

Famous Statue Purchased.

FLORENCE, Dec. 26.—Donatello's famous statue of St. John the Baptist which was executed for his friend and patron, Martelli, and purchased by the Italian Government for $20,000, was placed yesterday in Donatello's hall in the national museum after having remained hidden for five centuries in the old Martelli palace.

Large sums have been offered for the statue by foreign galleries and art collectors, but the law prevented its leaving the country.

Caught In Machinery.

NEW HAMBURG, Dec. 26.—Chas. Merner, superintendent of the New Hamburg Felt Boot Co., died last evening as the result of an accident that happened on Saturday last. He was engaged in the works examining a loom that was close to another one in full operation, when his sweater caught in the drum and he was instantly carried into the machinery, sustaining terrible injuries. Mr. Merner was about 45 years of age and unmarried.

The Neglected Negative.

"A young man," said the ready made philosopher, "should learn to say 'no.'"

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Alfred Sleith of London was instantly killed at Glencoe by a Wabash express just after alighting from the G.T.R. flyer.

The dwelling of the late Archibald Angle of Moulton, Ont., occupied by two families, was destroyed by fire with contents.

Mrs. George Chambers, aunt of W. G. Chambers, M.P.P., was seriously injured when a runaway team dashed into his motor car.

The death occurred Wednesday of Peter McRae, one of Ayr's oldest and most highly-esteemed citizens, at the age of 71. He was born in Scotland.

Among the items in the account paid by the council of the Township of Bertie in Welland County, is one to C. D. Hawkins for $4 for feeding tramps.

Charles Crombie, proprietor of the new St. Charles' restaurant, at Midland while eating oysters, came on a pearl as large as a bean, shaped like a pyramid.

George Kett, a lake sailor, whose parents had given him up for lost in the great storm of Nov. 9, walked into their home at Harriston on Christmas Eve.

A cow owned by Frank Furry, who resides on a farm about three miles west of Welland, gave birth to triplet calves, each calf weighing about fifty pounds.

While a G.T.R. freight train was stalled in the Brockville yards, a light engine following overtook and crashed into a shunter, instantly killing Daniel Cahill.

Silas Winter of Lunenburg, Ont., was found dead in a culvert on the G.T.R. track just east of Cornwall Wednesday afternoon. He had evidently been overtaken by a train in the storm.

Only a vehicle owned by a candidate for his private use may be used by him in conveying voters to the polls on Jan. 1, is the new law in the Municipal Act. Hiring vehicles would void the election of a candidate.

Dominico Contini of Toronto narrowly escaped death last night when he was attacked by a relative with an axe while lying down. He received a bad wound behind the ear and one on the neck, which required a number of stitches.

GLACIER IS JOCULAR.

It Gives Canada a Seaport Then Takes It Back.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26. — The grand Pacific glacier in Alaska at the head of Glacier Bay has been "playing Indian" with Canada by giving her a harbor on the Alaskan coast and then taking it back again, according to Prof. Lawrence Martin of the University of Wisconsin, who returned yesterday after making a survey of the glaciers in that region for the National Geographic Society.

Glacier Bay, wholly within American territory when the Canadian boundary treaty was made, was extended into Canadian territory during the summer of 1912 by the recession of the grand Pacific glacier, thereby giving Canada harbor facilities, much to the gratification of Canadian officials, according to the press of Canada at the time.

A sudden and rapid advance of the glacier since that time has pushed the head of the bay back 4,000 feet into American territory again, Prof. Martin reports.

Hydro Will Be Used.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 26. — Up to the present the city has been unable to supply the street railway with Hydro power because of the lack of direct current. This has been remedied, however, and Wednesday night the new system was tried with satisfactory results. The railway will take 1,000 horsepower and the added consumption means a lowering of the general rate in the near future.

"Farm and Dairy" Live Stock, Produce and Grain Market Report

Toronto, Monday, Dec. 22.—Farmers' markets have taken a downward turn, and although the decline is not very noticeable, nevertheless it is there and all along the line at that. Christmas buying has forced up prices in many sections in the last couple of weeks, and with the falling away of this demand the market is weakened.

Business men generally are no more optimistic now than they were a few weeks ago. Tight money and restricted trade is still their complaint. And while we are discussing the high cost of living let us point out one reason for tight money that appeals to the London Economist as being the most important one. The Economist states that the Boer war cost $1,250,000,000, the Russo-Japanese war, $2,500,000,000, the Italo-Turkish war, $300,000,000, and so on throughout the whole list. When we add to this the immense amount of money invested in real estate during the recent boom, tight money is easily explained.

WHEAT

There has been little trading done in Canadian wheat during the week. On the whole news from the southern hemisphere has been favorable. Grain receipts at Western points keep up surprisingly. Wholesale quotations are: Oats, C.W. No. 2, 41c; No. 3, 39½c; Ontario No. 2, 34c to 35c outside; 36½c to 38c here; corn, No 2 Yellow, nominal, 65c to 66c; barley, malting, 48c to 50c; buckwheat, 70c to 71c; rye, 64c to 65c; peas, $1 to $1.01. Montreal dealers quote: Oats, C.W. No. 2, 42c to 42½c; No. 3, 41c; corn, 70c to 70½c; barley, malting, 55½c to 57c; feed, 48c; peas, $1.75 to $2.25; buckwheat, 65c; rye, 70c to 72c.

MILL FEEDS

Supplies of bran are running short and quotations have advanced accordingly. Toronto prices are: Bran, $22; shorts, $23.50 to $25; middlings, $28 to $30. Montreal dealers ask for bran, $20 to $21; shorts, $22 to $23; middlings, $25 to $28.

HAY AND STRAW

The hay market is quiet. Small quantities are going forward to United States points, but the demand from that direction is not great. Wholesale dealers here quote: No. 1 hay, $14.50 to $15; No. 2, $11 to $12; No. 3, $9 to $9; baled straw, $8. At Montreal the situation is similar. No. 1 hay, $15 to $15.50; No. 2, $13 to $13.50; No. 3, $12.50 to $11.

POTATOES AND BEANS

The advantage that the reduction of the United States duty on potatoes to 10c has given to Canadian potato growers, may be removed. The United States government is considering the advisability of placing an embargo on all foreign potatoes, the object being to keep new stock out of the country. The effect of this threatened embargo is already evident in the potato market, quotations having declined 5c to 7c to 10c out of store and 5c to 10c in car lots. At Montreal too offerings are in excess of demand. Green Mountains, 80c; Quebec Whites, 80c.

Beans here are quoted: Primes, $2.15 to $2.20; hand picked, $2.20 to $2.25. At Montreal three-pound pickers are quoted $1.85 to $1.90 and No. 1 hand picked, $2.

SEEDS

Dealers are paying to farmers a bushel as follows: Alsike No. 1, $5.50 to $6; No. 2, $7.50 to $8; No. 3, $5 to $7; red clover, No. 1, $7.75 to $8.50; No. 2, $7 to $7.50; timothy, No. 1, $2.75 to $3.25; No. 2, $2 to $2.50.

EGGS AND POULTRY

Quotations on eggs have dropped fraction of a cent, but the market may still be considered tight and strong. Fresh eggs retail at 65c to 65c; wholesale dealers quote new laids, 45c to 48c; storage, selects, 35c to 36c; country selects, 30c to 32c; storage, 30c to 31c. At Montreal mild weather has slightly increased the supply of new laid eggs. Fresh fall stock, 45c; No. 1 stock, 36c; selects, 36c; new laid, 50c to 60c.

Dressed poultry is going slowly, especially larger fowl. Wholesale quotations are: Dressed fowl, 18c to 14c; alive, 11c to 14c; geese, 16c to 18c; alive, 9c to 10c; turkeys, dressed, 22c to 25c and 24c to 27c.

DAIRY PRODUCE

The make of butter throughout the country is keeping up remarkably. Many cheese factories have installed butter-making equipment, and if live stock prices keep up the value that farmers attach to skim milk will make the butter and the important one even through the summer. Quotations are firm at last week's levels: Wholesale dealers are quoting farmers' separator prints at 30c to 32c and ordinary prints at 28c to 30c; fresh creamery prints, 32c to 33c; fresh solids, 31c to 32c; storage, 28c to 29c lower. Cheese quotations are: New large, 16½c; twins, 16c; old large, 15c to 15½c; twins, 15½c to 15½c.

LIVE STOCK

The splendid record prices that have prevailed for the last couple of weeks now show a tendency to decline. Supplies have been fairly liberal and dealers are well filled up. Drovers will be well advised to make their shipments carefully this week. On the final market of the week bidding was slow, and while anything of first-class quality was picked up quickly, the major part of the offering was cleared with difficulty.

MONTREAL HOG MARKET

Montreal, Saturday, Dec. 22.—Owing to the continued small supplies of live hogs coming forward a stronger feeling developed in the market to-day, and prices scored a further advance of 25c a cwt. The demand from packers was good and sales of selected lots were made at $9.25 to $9.50, weighed off cars. The tone of the market for dressed hogs was firmer, but there was no actual change in prices to note owing to the fact that the demand is only fair. And for small lots on account of the continued mild weather. Sales of abattoir fresh-killed were made at $13 to $13.25 and country dressed light weights at $12.50 to $13 and heavy at $12 to $12.50.

PETERBOROUGH, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1913

TWO YOUTHFUL CRIMINALS CONFESS TO A LONG LIST OF THEFTS AND BURGLARIES

Max McClellan and Ernest Jamieson Admit That They Broke into Six Local Stores and Also Operated in Hastings.

SENTENCE IS RESERVED

Two local young men, Ernest Jamieson and Max. McClellan, now under arrest for theft, are credited with accomplishing during the last few months the most daring series of theft ever committed in this county. The two young men in question appeared in Court this morning to face ten charges of theft and shop breaking.

Mr. G. N. Gordon conducted their defence, and in the absence of Crown Attorney Wood, Mr. V. J. McElderry conducted the prosecution.

Previous to their appearance in Court this morning they had pleaded guilty to entering R. C. Braund's store and stealing $100 worth of jewellery, and also to entering N. Boutley's grocery store and stealing a small sum of money.

This morning they were confronted with five more charges of theft, and besides these, a Hastings man was in the City and laid three additional charges against the prisoners.

This morning the two young men, who have yet to reach their twenty-fifth birthdays, were charged:

(1) With entering the shop of Mr. J. E. Lillico, and stealing $5 from the till.

(2) With entering the store of Henry Bradshaw, at the corner of Charlotte and Downie Streets, and stealing a quantity of meat and other goods.

(3) With entering, a second time, the store of Mr. J. E Lillico and stealing $5 from the till.

(4) With entering the store of Mr. George Goheen, on Rubidge Street, and taking $10 from the till.

On all these charges the counsel for the defendants refused to plead or elect, but in all five cases he gave consent to their being committed for trial before Judge Hoyeke. They were, therefore, committed for trial.

Th first of the thefts was committed about four months ago and the local police have been working on the case since that time. Finger-prints on the glass at Braund's store were noticed and photographed and when the young men were arrested it was found that the impression of their finger tips coincided with those found on the window pane of Braund's grocery.

On the charge of stealing $100 worth of jewellery and of entering Routley's store the Magistrate reserved judgment until after they have been tried by Judge Huycke on the other charges.

The two young men have made a written confession in which they admit not only all the local robberies, but also that they jumped a freight train to Hastings one night and there entered three stores.

The first was Mr. Clelland's jewellery store, but there they were discovered and forced to run before they stole anything. The second was H. S. Lambert's hardware store. Here they got a number of safety razors in cases, a number of pipes, a number of pocket knives and a quantity of other goods.

The third was the store of Baker Brothers, grocers, where they took all the money in the till and a few pairs of boots.

The plunder from all the thefts must have aggregated several hundred dollars.

GIFTS TO POSTMEN SHOW A DECLINE

But They Are Confident the Customary Recognition Will Be Forthcoming

The postmen are not inclined to dilate upon the tips they received yesterday. Precedent has led them to expect a little recognition at many of the houses on their routes, but apparently they received nothing more than a merry Christmas yesterday morning. An Examiner reporter inquired of a number of them how they fared, and the response was in a subdued tone, "Just fair."

Said one of them, "The boys didn't get half as much as last year, but we have New Year's coming, and we'll likely pull up to the mark. For Christmas, however, things were a little disappointing. Many of those who remembered us last year, have overlooked us so far, but there have been quite a number of new donors, and that helps some. I wouldn't say anything about it for New Year's is on the way, and we will probably even up with last year.

There are only two classes of people in the world — automobilists and wheelbarrowists. Many of the former wish they were in the latter class.

CHRISTMAS AT THE PROTESTANT HOME

How the Spirit of the Day Was Brought to the Aged People and Their Appreciation Thereof

ENTERTAINMENT FEATURES

Christmas at the Protestant Home provided an unusually delightful interlude in a year that has been marked by many acts of kindness shown toward the old people by citizens.

On Christmas eve, Mr. R. J. Devey with the boy choristers of St. John's Church, visited the Home and rendered a programme of Christmas carols that proved most entertaining. Rev. Mr. Grobb of All Saints' Church, was present and spoke to the old folks upon the season and the events it commemorated.

Afterwards the gifts were distributed from the tree by Mr. Devey, the old people being handsomely remembered. At the close of the evening a vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Devey and the boys of St. John's, and a similar acknowledgment was extended to Mrs. Walter Roger, president of the Home Board, who was present with the other members of the Board.

On Christmas Day there were other pleasant features, including the festiv dinner with its turkey and other good things. During the afternoon the old people were entertained by the King's Daughters. Miss Kathleen Wallis, and Miss Edwina Palmer played several violin soels and Miss Collins offered a delightful piano number. The entertainment was under the directionof Miss Effie Munro. The spirit of Christmas truly pervaded the Home, and to those who contributed to the happiness of the old folks there is the satisfaction of realizing that their efforts were deeply appreciated.

CHRISTMAS LITHOGRAPH

The message of peace on earth, good-will to men is being proclaimed in and throughout the country by a poster depicting the birth of Christ.

It is a wonderful lithograph in twelve colours, and is declared to be the finest example of that art that has ever been seen in America or elsewhere. The design is a composite of five of the most famous pictures of the birth of Christ, by the greatest painters of their day and generation.

This picture is set forth for the young people of the country, and it bears the legend: "Ask your Sunday School teacher to tell you the story," together with the text from the second chapter of St. Matthew, which describes the scene the artist has striven so well to depict.

In this age of commercialism it is startling, a little, to find a great business organization like the Poster Advertising Association devoting a large sum of money to the uplift of humanity.

Yet this poster was designed and made for the Poster Advertising Association at a cost of more than $20,000, exclusive of the posting, which is done by all the members free of charge.

It is the first of a series of posters intended to stimulate the young men and women of the country, and to cheer the old, as well as to carry a message of hope and comfort to the unhappy and the unfortunate.

The Educational Committee of the Poster Advertising Association has evolved this Christmas poster which is attracting so much attention on all poster plants through the country, and will follow this up early in the New Year with another wonderful poster depicting the life of General Grant, tracing his rise from lowly circumstances to the President's chair, as a stimulant to the youth of the country to "go and do likewise."

Presents There For 500 Scholars

Big Annual Event for Salvation Army Sunday School

The annual Sunday School celebration for the children of the Salvation Army was a greater success than ever. Four hundred of the scholars, with one hundred other children, who were non-members, enjoyed a big time last night. Santa Claus and his wife were impersonated and, taking a place on a big dray with a Christmas tree, headed a procession that paraded the main streets. On their return to the Temple the boys and girls were ranged on opposite sides of the hall. The programme was opened with a selection by the Boys' Band. Mr. R. C. Braund, Superintendent of the School, had the exercises, and afterwards handed over the chairmanship to Adjt. McElhiny. There were choruses, drills, recitations and other entertainments, following which Santa Claus and his wife appeared, and from a large Christmas tree handed down a present for every scholar. In addition there were fruit, candies and nuts, and every child in the hall received gifts. It was a big event and even standing room was at a premium. The fun was concluded about 10.30 o'clock. Mr. R. C. Braund's efforts were largely responsible for the enjoyment afforded the children.

Sir James Had Quiet Xmas

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, N.Y., Dec. 25. — Sir James Whitney, confined to his bed in a hotel here, spent a quiet Christmas day. The doctors said this morning that the patient would be able to go home shortly if the present progress is maintained.

It will be welcome news to the hockeyists and skaters of the City that Brock Street Rink will be flooded this evening. A continuance of the cold weather for a day or two should give the puck-chasers the long-awaited opportunity of getting some practice.

Comforting Hymn.

THE STORY OF THE LAST CHRISTMAS

Christmas was very quietly but happily passed in Peterborough. It was a day of home re-unions, made more general perhaps because there was little in the way of amusement features to attract people away from their own fire-side. The weather was delightful to every one—except perhaps the young people who missed their skating and hockey.

It is a pleasure to be able to state that apparently no one was forgotten in the division of the day's joys. In all the institutions, the spirit of Christmas was in evidence. The inmates of the Protestant Home, House of Providence, St. Vincent's Orphanage, the Margaret Cox Home for Girls, and the Children's Shelter, were all remembered, Christmas trees and dinners making the occasion a memorable one. The prisoners in the gaol were not overlooked. At the Salvation Army it was a big day for the little folks, while the Temple Band had a busy day serenading the citizens. There were services throughout the day in the Roman Catholic and Anglican churches.

SENTENCED TO THREE MONTHS IN PRISON

Local Youth Found Guilty of Stealing $10—Local Woman Fined For Shop-lifting

ADMITTED HER GUILT

A young man of the locality was charged in this morning's police court with stealing $10 from Arthur Kennedy on Tuesday last.

The youth was defended by Mr. G. N. Gordon, and pleaded "not guilty." Mr. V. J. McElderry conducted the prosecution in the absence of Crown Attorney Wood, who is ill.

The youth was found guilty and sentenced to three months in gaol. He was out on suspended sentence when arrested on this charge.

Arthur Kennedy, the complainant, testified that on Tuesday night when he was in Halpin's blacksmith shop, prisoner came in and asked to borrow 50 cents. Kennedy replied that he had not the money, but gave him a ten dollar bill. The youth went away to get the change, but didn't come back.

Witness waited for three-quarters of an hour, then went in search of prisoner. He found him in the barroom of Long's hotel and asked him for some of the money. He replied that he did not have it.

"Was he sober when you gave him the money?" asked Mr. McElderry.

"Yes."

"Have you got any of your money back?"

"Not a cent."

Mr. Gordon—Did you ask him to get you a bottle of liquor with the 50 cents?

Witness—No.

Mr. Gordon—Had you been drinking that day?

Witness—No. I did not have one drink.

Detective Meagher said that in the police station prisoner admitted getting the money from Kennedy. But Kennedy asked him to get him a $1.25 bottle of whiskey. He said he took the money, but had no intention of getting the liquor. When searched he had $2.35 on his person. He told Meagher he had spent the rest of the money.

"Did he say for what purpose he finally took the $10?"

"No."

"Did he tell you that he came back later in the day to the blacksmith shop?"

"Yes. He said he went back to the blacksmith shop, but Kennedy was gone."

Prisoner went into the witness box in his own defence. He said that Detective Meagher's evidence was correct. Witness said that seven minutes after he got the money from Kennedy, he returned with the change, but Kennedy was not there.

When he first met Kennedy in the blacksmith shop, Kennedy had a bottle, and they drank it together. Then Kennedy asked him to go and get a bottle. But witness knew he was on the blacklist, so he did not get the whiskey.

When the evidence was all in the magistrate said, "There is no getting out of the conclusion that larceney was committed. I find him guilty and judge that he be imprisoned for three months in the county gaol.

The local woman who came before Magistrate Dumble on Wednesday last charged with stealing a number of small articles from Woolworth's store, came up for trial this morning. She was unrepresented by counsel, but elected to be tried summarily and pleaded "guilty," to the charge against her.

She was fined $10 and costs,—$13.75 in all—or given the alternative of a month in gaol.

Her husband was in court and paid the fine. The Magistrate gave her a severe lecture on allowing herself to fall so low as to take advantage of the overcrowded stores to steal from the merchants. This offence was a common one and deserved heavy sentence, but under the circumstances he did not like to take the mother away from her family.

NEW ENGLAND STATES SWEPT BY STORM

One of the Worst Gales of the Season Causes a Loss of at Least a Million Dollars.

150 ARE HOMELESS

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, N.Y., Dec. 26.—One of the worst storms of the season swept New York and the New England States during the night causing a loss of a million dollars at least, and 150 persons are homeless. There are serious apprehensions for the fate of several smaller size craft. The homeless are largely fishermen along the coast, whose homes were blown down in the gale. The whole of New York State is covered with a heavy blanket of snow. Telegraphic service is much interrupted. In Syracuse there was a freight train collision in the blinding snowstorm. Seven hurt, two engines and twenty cars demolished.

PETERBORO' IS VERY CHARITABLY DISPOSED --ADJUTANT McELHINEY

"I don't think I've ever been in any place," said Adjt. McElhiney of the Salvation Army Corps, "where everybody from the Mayor down to the average citizen has been so charitably disposed. Everyone seemed eager to have everybody else happy, and I am sure all cases of distress are relieved for the present. It makes one sleep easily when conditions are so good."

CHRISTMAS SINGING IN CATHOLIC CHURCHES

Special Works Had Been Prepared and Were Well Executed

At St. Peter's Cathedral, High mass was begun at 5.30 o'clock on Christmas morning and was largely attended. Other masses followed with a Pontifical High mass at 10.30, sung by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien. Rev. Father Galvin was deacon, Rev. Father Cote sub-deacon, and Rev. Father Phelan, assistant to His Lordship. The choir, under the direction of Mr. Albert New, rendered St. Cecilia's mass, the solos being taken by Misses G. Clancy, E. McCabe and G. Sullivan, and Messrs. Ed. Hanrahan, J. Minnicole, New and Brierly. During the offertory the Adeste Fideles was sung by Miss T. O'Donnell, Mr. Minnicolo and Mr. J. Weyer. Special voluntaries were played by the organiste, Miss M. Dougherty.

SACRED HEART CHURCH.

At the south end the early High mass was sung by Rev. Father O'Brien, with Rev. Father McCauley the celebrant, at 10.30. The number of communions at both churches was exceptionally large. The choir did exceptionally good work both in the morning and evening. The solos were sung with expression and sweetness by the following: Sopranos, Misses A. Simons, A. Meagher, K. Masterson and A. Grady; altos, Mrs. Herman LePlante, Misses A. Murry and A. Bartley; tenors, Messrs. P. Henshaw, J. Curran and Mr. Willson; bass, Messrs. T. Bartley, F. Grady and W. Collins. The offertory solo, "Adeste Fideles," was beautifully rendered. Mr. Henshaw's singing was exceptionally good.

In the evening the 'Magnificat,' with solo by Mr. T. Barrley, was very striking, in the Gloria Patri the harmony was striking. The same might be said of the Ave Verum, with tenor solo by Mr. Willson. O, Salutaris quartette, was given by soprano, A. Simons, alto, Mrs. H. LePlante, tenor, Mr. P. Henshaw, bass, Mr. T. Bartley.

Mr. J. Armstrong, organist and choirmaster, has worked hard to make the choir a success.

To Father McCauley the thanks of the choir are due for his assistance.

TWO OF THE OLDEST MEN IN THE COUNTRY

The birthdays of two well known residents of this section, in the persons of Mr. James Raddon, of Norwood, and Mr. Wm. Sharp, of Westwood, occurred on Sunday last. Mr. Raddon, who was 82 years old, is remarkably preserved in health, and is still able to be engaged in his usual business activities. Mr. Sharp, who was 81 years of age, is also quite expeditiously execute his work as treasurer of Aspodel Township. We wish them both many happy returns of the day.—Norwood Register.

CALUMET IN MOURNING

Special to The Examiner:

CALUMET, Mich., Dec. 26.—This town presented a doleful appearance to-day as seventy victims of the Christmas Eve catastrophe were borne to graves. It had been arranged that all the victims be buried to-day as far as possible. The streets were crowded with mourners, and every blind was drawn, for there were few homes which grim death had not touched directly or indirectly. It is expected that the tragedy will bring peace in industrial circles, as the horror of it all has left both employers and employers in a mood for compromise. A meeting for settlement will be held to-night.

TWO HURT IN COLLISON

Examiner Special:

BRANTFORD, Dec. 26.—Engineer Smith, of the Sarnia Tunnel, was hurt, and a brakesman, whose name is not at present available, sustained minor injuries this morning when the Grand Trunk light engine ran head-on into a freight at Gainsville, near here.

HAS GONE TO ENGLAND

Examiner Special:

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 26.—Hon. Geo. Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, recommenced his travels to-day when he left for England to take part in the proceedings of the Imperial Trade Commission. Mr. Foster will therefore be absent from the capital when the session reopens and does not expect to return until early in February. The minister states that the question of ocean freight rates will be taken up in earnest by the commission. The commission goes from England to South Africa, but Mr. Foster does not expect to go.

'PEG CURLERS COMING EAST

Special Wire to The Examiner:

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 26.—Winnipeg will be represented by two strong rinks this winter at the eastern bonspiels as Mac Rochon, of the Thistles, and McBraden, of the Granites, Manitoba, will be on hand to uphold the reputations of western curlers. These two noted skips definitely decided to-day to make the trip. The rinks will leave Jan. 1st, and will first take in the London spiel. From there they will travel to St. Thomas and compete in two open events in the tournament in that city which commences on Jan. 6. Lindsay will be the next point, and they will be there for the big tournament which opens on the nineteenth. They will also play friendly matches in other cities and towns on invitation.

NOT ENOUGH CUTTERS IN THE CITY YESTERDAY

With a dearth of skating on the holiday the livery men reaped a harvest. From enquiries this morning several proprietors said their barns were empty during the greater part of the day. At the Gibbs stable it was stated that if there had been a hundred extra horses and cutters they would scarcely have been able to supply everyone who applied. At that the day was ideal for driving, and there were no other diversions amusements with the exception of the easy walk, and you can enjoy that any day in the week.

The Net Profits amounted to $750,000 as compared with $706,000 for the previous year. The Rest Account has been increased by $100,000 and now stands at $3,400,000. The Current Loans have made large gains, while the Total Assets show the remarkable expansion of over $11,000,000, gaining from $69,400,000 to $80,776,000. A feature of the report is the large proportion of gold, Dominion Notes and other quickly available assets. These bear an unusually high ratio to the total liabilities to the public, viz., over 34 p.c. Altogether, the report is a very favourable one, and the president, general manager and those associated with him deserve the highest praise for the showing made. Much of this success has been contributed by the local branch, under the management of Mr. C. H. Pennefather.

THE FIRST CHRISTMAS STORY.

Now when Jesus was born at Bethlehem, belonging to Judaea, in the days of King Herod, magicians from the East arrived at Jerusalem, asking, "Where is the newly-born King of the Jews? We saw his star when it rose, and we come to worship him." The news of this troubled King Herod and all Jerusalem as well; so he gathered all the high priests and scribes of the people and made inquiries of them where the Messiah was to be born. They told him, "In Bethlehem belonging to Judaea; for thus it is written by the prophet:

And you Bethlehem, in Judah's land,
You are not least among the rulers of Judah:
For a ruler will come to you,
Who will shepherd Israel my people."

There were some shepherds in the district who were out in the fields keeping guard over their flocks by night; and an angel of the Lord flashed upon them, the glory of the Lord shone all round them. They were terribly afraid, but the angel said to them, "Have no fear. This is good news I am bringing to you, news of a great joy that is meant for all the People. To-day you have a saviour born in the town of David, the Lord messiah. And here is a proof for you: you will find a baby wrapped up and lying in a stall for cattle." Then a host of heaven's army suddenly appeared beside the angel extolling God and saying,

"Glory to God in high heaven, and peace on earth for men whom he favours!"

Now when the angels had left them and gone away to heaven, the shepherds said to one another, "Let us be off to Bethlehem to see this thing that the Lord has told us of." So they made haste and discovered Mary and Joseph and the baby lying in the stall for cattle. When they saw this they told people about the word which had been spoken to them about the child; all who heard it were astonished at the story of the shepherds, and as for Mary, she treasured it all up and mused upon it. Then the shepherds went away back, glorifying and extolling God for all they had heard and seen as they had been told they would.

This is from the new translation of the New Testament by Dr. James Moffat, "a young but very remarkable Scottish scholar," published by Hodder and Stoughton. The translator is Rev. James Moffat, professor of New Testament Greek and Exegesis in Mansfield College, Oxford. In his preface, he says:

"My intention has been to produce a version which will, to some degree, represent the gains of recent lexical research and also prove readable. I have attempted to translate the New Testament exactly as one would render any piece of contemporary Hellenistic prose."

Why another translation? Why disturb or attempt to replace the accepted version? What good end is to be served? There may be "gains of recent lexical research," there may be some satisfaction to intellectual pride and pride of finical scholarship, but is there any real gain? Read the above familiar and comparatively, flippant, version with the dignified, simple, stately story of the first Christmas as found in the authorized version. There is no gain apparent in dignity, direct simplicity of statement, or direct appeal to the reader. There is no new revelation of truth, no new beauty in the narrative of the inspired story, told in inspired words. If the New Testament is the voice of divine inspiration, its translation, according to the old version was literary inspiration, unsurpassed and unsurpassable in English literature. Where will be found anything to surpass in simple dignity and stateliness of diction, terseness of expression, and unconscious poetry the authorized version of the Old and New Testament. Any attempt to improve upon it would be—

To gild refined gold, to paint the lily
To throw a perfume on the violet
To smooth the ice, to add another hue
Unto the rainbow or with taper light
To seek the beauteous eye of heaven to garnish.

We might as well have some enthusiast in "lexical research" and literary improvement rehash Shakspere and make him "readable"; rehash Hamlet's or Macbeth's soliloquy, or the sublimep hilosophising of the melancholy jacques?; tell, so as to make it "readable" the Christmas carol of Dickens or his story of Little Nell's death! The best that could be done would not be above the dignity of a parody or burlesque. There are some things that have been said so well that they cannot be said better. This applies to the authorized version of "the New Testament of our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ."

There is no gain in literary quality in a translation like the above any more than there would be gain in revelation of truth. The old version tells us all we need to know, the plan of salvation, the grandeur of redemption, the duty of belief, and all the essentials of man's regeneration, all the aids to holy life, all the divine philosophy applicable to living the highest life in the world. It is the perfect mirror of duty that cannot receive, and does not need, a higher polish. It is not only good enough for us, but absolutely good, and what do we need better? It has been a lamp to light millions on the way to the bosom of God; it has saved and comforted millions; it is the rock of faith to millions, and is good enough. Enough harm, enough shaking of faith, has been done to the simple minded and lightly anchored human soul by the "improvements" of translation and interpretation of the truths of Scripture by the higher critics, without having its text degraded in literary style to make it "readable."

The old way is the best yet, the old old story of the First Christmas cannot be retold in a better way, nor make the true Christmas spirit any brighter nor sweeter nor holier, than the story the world has read and rejoiced in for four hundred years.

COMMISSION GOVERNMENT.

The city of Dayton, Ohio, will on January 1st set up business under a manager, who will be paid $12,500 a year, and will handle the affairs of the city, it is expected, just as a competent manager would transact the business of a departmental store. The new city manager is Mr. H. N. Waite, at present city engineer of Cincinnati. Before securing him the city had offered the job to Col. Roosevelt, and to Col Goethals, builder of the Panama Canal. The new form of government was adopted by Dayton as a result of the disastrous floods of last summer, just as Galveston put the commission idea into operation after the floods that had laid the city in ruins. The Dayton charter provides for a board of five commissioners, who will have purely legislative functions. The manager will appoint al the officials and will be responsible for the conduct of all the city's business. It is the first time in American municipal history that a city of the size and importance of Dayton has employed a single man to attend to its affairs, and practically deprived itself of the power to interfere with him.—Brantford Expositor.

A LITTLE LIGHT ON THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

Despatches from Washington of December 15th gives an illuminating glimpse into the effetes of the tariff on the cost of living which no amount of Borden high tari sophistry can offset. The force of the argument is rendered stronger in that it was issued from non-partisan sources, and published throughout Canada in Conservative, as well as Liberal papers.

The Washington despatch stated that the United States government had been able to force down the price of beef for the American army by facing the packers with competition from Argentina. The American meat packers had been in the habit of fixing their prices for army supplies so to get what railway men call "all the tariff will bear." Naturally they made big profits.

Then came the Underwood tariff with meat on the free list. The Argentine Republic became a competitor with Canada and other countries to supply the United States with beef. The Argentine packers understood the American combines and secured several large contracts for the United States army. Then the American packers saw a great light; the American government got cheap beef. A government statement was issued showing that immediately after this it was found that at every United States army post the American meat packers had reduced their prices so as to exactly meet Argentine competition. The result was the saving of many thousand dollars to the United States' government.

Secretary Daniels, of the United States, declared: "Under the old high tariff this saving could not have been effected, but the recent Underwood Tariff Bill allows the importation of meats free from duties."

If this taking off of the duty in the States gives such a check to the packers' combine, and in a few weeks even with the small United States army, the saving of many thousands of dollars has been effected, what will the ultimate saving be to the 10,000,000 meat-eating people? And if the saving on beef alone is so great what will the ultimate saving be on the general cost of living with free food?

Last year Canada imported meats and poultry to the extent of $5,338,673, and the people who ate it paid $1,040,547 duty for the privilege.

When the Liberal policy of free food is adopted, not only will this system of taxation by the mouthful be swept away, but the Canadian market will be so opened to outside competitors that the Canadian and American packers who now dominate the Canadian eaters, will have to do as they have done in the United States, reduce prices to hold their market.

Meantime the Canadian duty on meats ranges from three cents a pound up, so that the big packing concerns have no fear of Argentine or New Zealand competition. The Canadian consumer is between the upper millstone of exportation of meat to the United States and the nether millstone of the tariff against meat importation. Small wonder that the cost of living increases and that Ontario cattle growers have protested to the government against any lowering of the Canadian tariff. What will the Canadian meat eater think about it when he gets a chance to declare between the Borden policy of taxation by the mouthful and the Laurier policy of free food?—Brantford Expositor.

EOLUSIVENESS IS DEAD.

Nice is called "the earl of the Riviera." A Chicagoan, seated under an orange tree, said in Nice the other day:

"We now have tango teas at the new Hotel Ruhl and the new Hotel Negresco. At these teas princesses and actresses rub elbows and grand dukes smile amiably upon millionaire tradesmen's sons. Exclusiveness has disappeared.

"Princesses and grand dukes and all that lot would have demanded private rooms to tango in in the past. But now they have learned better. They have learned that to be exclusive—to think one's self better than others—is stupid and conceited and robs one of a lot of fun.

"The exclusive restaurants of Nice were London House and the Restaurant Helder. They were essentially private room restaurants, like the Cafe Anglais, in Paris. But they have disappeared, as the Cafe Anglais has disappeared, and the disappearance of these three famous houses proves that exclusiveness, too—stupid, conceited exclusiveness—has disappeared.

"The world of to-day agrees with Mr. Howells:

"'Yes, I suppose it is well to make some sort of exclusion,
Well to put up the bars, under whatever pretence;
Only be careful, be very careful, lest in the confusion
You should shut yourself on the wrong side of the fence.'"

J. J. HARTLEY

The Workingman's Candidate For

MAYOR

Unanimously Endorsed by the Trades & Labor Council

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen:—

At the urgent request of a large number of the ratepayers I have consented to be a candidate for the position of Mayor for the year 1914. Being born and lived my whole life in Peterborough, and a whole life's savings being invested in Peterborough, I naturally have a deep interest in the welfare and prosperity of the city.

Should I be elected I promise you that I will guard to the very best of my ability the interests of the ratepayers and will oppose all unnecessary expenditure.

I will do my utmost to keep down the ever-increasing rate of taxation, consistent with the needs of the growing municipality.

I may say that I am in favour of municipal ownership, and in favour of having all city work done by our own people, instead of bringing in outsiders to do it. I will endeavour to see that the ratepayers get value for every dollar that is expended. I have had considerable experience in municipal matters, having served ten years in the Council and fourteen years on the Board of Education, being chairman of that board for two years. I was also chairman of the Board of Health for several years, so that you will see that I am not without a fair share of experience.

Should you do me the honour to elect me Mayor of our city, I will do my best to serve you to the very best of my ability.

Yours respectfully,

J. J. HARTLEY

Business Management of City's Business

TO THE ELECTORS OF CENTRE WARD

In voting for A. H. STRATTON for Alderman for Centre Ward you are voting for a live go-ahead man who has the interests of Peterborough at heart. He is a large taxpayer and will use his best efforts to keep your taxes down to the low water marks. At the same time he is sure to encourage visiting manufacturers and endeavour to bring in a new industries. In regard to the important matter of Hydro Electric, while he favours it he is especially in favour of business-like management of the enterprise of seeing that the people, who voted so, almost unanimously for it, get the greatest benefit from it at the least possible cost consistent with efficiency. He is a good business man by the test of success in his own business and knows that to encourage the working men and find employment for them at good wages helps the business man and thereby helps to make a BIGGER AND BETTER CITY. Be sure and vote for

OTONABEE COUNCIL

On motion the reeve and clerk was authorized to sign a lease from the township to the trustees of Stewart's Memorial Church leasing for a term of 20 years part of the road allowance for a horse shed site. Miss Annie Sinclair was granted $5.00 per quarter on condition that the Foley estate pay $10 per quarter. Messrs Anderson and Deyell were authorized to have a railing erected on the dangerous part of the approach to Wallace Point Bridge. Mr. John Lang was present stating that he had been corresponding with the Board of Railway Commissioners to take steps to have the G.T.R. safeguard the travelling public at the very bad crossing on the 6th line near Keene Station; he had a communication from the Board saying that it had ordered the G.T.R. Co. to install within 60 days an electric bell. Mr. Laing is of the opinion that a overhead road bridge would serve the purpose much better than a bell, and requested the Council to urge this upon the Board, which was done by passing a resolution instructing the clerk to write to the Board urging the overhead bridge.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE NORTH WARD

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

In making an appeal to you for your support in the coming municipal elections, I fully realise the handicap I am under in being a stranger to quite a number of you, even though I have been practicing my profession here for seven years.

My policy briefly is this: An honest endeavour to show a dollar's value for every dollar expended, and the most economical and efficient government of the City's affairs. To attain this I have acceded to the wishes of a large number of the ratepayers in offering myself as a candidate for alderman in the North Ward.

Should I find it impossible to see you all personally before election day, I wish to make a most earnest appeal for your vote and influence, and can assure you that I will deem it my duty to fully merit your confidence.

Stock Markets

To-morrow may witness further profit taking with the same result as seen to-day. The market's restraining power is very good. Stocks sold are well bought by people who missed their market.

The signs of improvement generally are multiplying. The technical position continues strong. We think buying opportunities should be taken advantage of on all reactions. A feature not to be overlooked is the apparent return of confidence. It is becoming aggressive in its operations. Heretofore the buying has been timid and very circumspect. Now a more bold attitude is maintained, looking over the list we find the best character of buying for speculative account in Rdg., U.P. There is some very good buying in steel. It is said the investment orders small and large for S.P., U.P., G.Q. and St. Paul are increasing. Informative channels are more friendly to the copper shares, including A.C.P., Utah, I.C. and Chino.

A PARK SYSTEM FOR SMALL TOWNS

—Farm and Dairy.

C. E. Chambers, Park Commissioner, Toronto, Ont.

No town, however small, can afford to grow up without providing suitably for the parks and open spaces it will surely need if its beautification and healthfulness are to receive proper consideration. In practically all of our older cities we have examples of how rapid development and attending congestion have crowded out the open spaces which should have been preserved for the recreation and enjoyment of the people. Railways and other undesirable features have been allowed to thrust themselves upon the lake or river front, despoiling it for ever of its natural charm and beauty, and robbing the city or town of its chief attractiveness, and areas which at one time possessed infinite possibilities in scenic value are pre-empted and needlessly destroyed for commercial purposes. There is no excuse for such conditions obtaining in the growing town if the lesson of properly planning for its development is learned in due season. With the wide world furnishing, as it does, a school in which this knowledge may be freely had there is no excuse for neglect to learn this lesson.

PREPARATIO NOW PLAN

The early preparation of a comprehensive plan is the first step in the conservation of the features of natural beauty with which a town may be endowed or surrounded, and for the setting apart of areas for park and recreation purposes and the establishment of boulevards, playgrounds, squares or open spaces. This plan will have largely in mind not only the town's needs of to-day, as evidenced within its present limits, but the requirements when development has probably extended its boundaries far into the environs. In the preparation of the plan the location and distribution of the park areas should be given careful thought, to the end that each section or district may have its proper complement of parks, squares, recreation grounds and playgrounds, properly related, in their location, to the purposes to be served by them.

The most striking scenery of a district will naturally be reserved for park purposes, and especially the banks of a stream or the water front —where such exist. Waste or marshy areas may be profitably reclaimed and converted into pleasure grounds. Wooded areas adjoining the town will, of course, be conserved, and park lands will be secured within its probable boundaries, as financial means will permit.

THE PARK SITE

In selecting a park site, attention should be particularly paid to the matter of its boundaries. It is a somewhat common error to neglect this. Where necessary to a complete picture, the whole of a hillside should be secured, the whole of a body of water, or the whole of a glen or ravine. The appearance of many parks is marred by an impression of incompleteness, brought about by the unnatural restriction and limitation of their boundaries. The park within the town will necessarily be bounded by streets, but on no account should its boundaries be built upon. Back yards as a frame to a park should not be tolerated. The park should be an aid to the town's beauty, instead of being concealed in the rear of buildings, however desirable.

DEVELOPMENT OF SITE

The development of the park site involves a serious responsibility. It calls for the preservation of natural beauty, and the creation of that which should add its share of charm to the town's attractiveness. The location and topography of the site will, of course, govern to a considerable degree the treatment to be accorded it, but great care must be exercised in this, lest, in too great straining for ornamentation, the natural advantages which nearly every well-chosen area possesses be lost in the effort to improve, and an artificial and undesirable result be substituted therefor.

Drives and pathways will be necessary to lead from point to point. These should be so arranged as to disclose along the way the most striking of a park's scenery and lead to points of greatest vantage. It is particularly essential that the roadways be good, if the popularity of the park is to be developed. Let at least the foundation for this be laid in their proper location, while the work of improving them is undertaken as resources will allow.

Where planting is necessary, it should be the aim to have this in accord with the surroundings, and it should be made with a view to its future effect on the landscape. Use largely native trees and shrubs, and do not make formal beds of flowers in natural parks—there is plenty of room for these in the town park or square. Water courses should be preserved, and where feasible, may be supplemented by artificially created lakes or ponds, stocked with water fowl. This may be made a most attractive feature in the park.

Certain buildings will be necessary in the park: shelters in case of storm, and booths where refreshments may be obtained. These, while being located in the most useful situations, should not be unduly obtruded upon the landscape, but placed where they will best harmonize with their surroundings. They should be simple in design and quiet in tone, for if we gain in the outstanding appearance of the building, we almost surely lose in the appearance of the park.

Gateways of proper character may be made a pleasing feature of the park plan, and serve to indicate the separation of the life of the town from the quiet restfulness to be found within the park.

PARKWAYS

A parks system is lacking in one of its essential features where the park areas are not linked together by suitable parkways or connecting links. It is a usual practice to omit parkways from the town plan until the thoroughfares which might have been used for that purpose are rendered more or less unsuitable by the laying of ill-placed pavements, sidewalks and boulevards; while, on the other hand, with a properly conceived plan, a street of even usual width might have a boulevard reservation sufficient to allow of a planting of shade trees and shrubbery which would serve to carry the park through from point to point in a pleasing and appropriate manner.

BOULEVARDS OR DRIVEWAYS

The boulevard or driveway, as differing from the parkway, will aim to give access to all points of special interest within driving distance of the town, and reaches of mountain, woodland, lake or river front will preferably be chosen for it. Land not being held for building purposes in the country traversed, it will be mostly available at low cost, making reservation for the boulevard feasible, from the financial standpoint, before the up-building of the country has interfered with its possibilities. Adjoining municipalities might well enter into a concerted plan for the acquisition and construction of the country boulevard, and thus secure to each the advantage of the linking up of their respective external driveways.

It is imperative that provision be made in every town for its adornment with open spaces or squares. Reservation should be made for these at important street intersections, in front of the railway station and public buildings, and in the residential district. These may be furnished with fountains, monuments or ornamental lamps, or suitably planted, and lend much to the embellishment and attractiveness of the town, besides maintaining breathing spots where, as congestion increases, one may rest for a moment from the every-day stress and turmoil.

PLAYGROUNDS AND RECREATION AREAS

The supervised playground and the recreation area are among the most vital considerations in the life of a growing community, and it is the positive duty of every municipality to see well to it that every reasonable opportunity is taken to provide for the development of these features. The supervised playground, under the care of competent supervisors, and equipped with gymnasium apparatus, a swimming or wading pool, and a building in which are shower and other baths, and rooms which may be used during the winter for the instruction, enjoyment and entertainment of the young folks is an indispensable factor in their training for good citizenship, promoting, as it should, the development of the best qualities of body and mind. Locate the playground amid pleasant surroundings if possible. A relatively small part of a park will furnish the necessary accommodation, and the children will receive a lasting good impression through its elevating influence. If only a barren lot is available, plant the corners with shrubbery and flowers, and so bring to it something of beauty and refinement.

The recreation area is likewise indispensable, and here should be found facilities for the various summer games and winter sports, including baseball, cricket, football, tennis, skating and hockey rinks, etc., tending to the encouragement of a healthy, outdoor life, and offering enjoyment, near at hand, to the toilers released for a time from the workshop, factory or office.

The responsibility for the operation of the playground and recreation area should rest with a single organization, and should not be divided, as is commonly the case, between the school authorities, the town authorities or other bodies.

The carrying out of the phases of park development outlined will involve serious consideration on the part of the smaller town of the financial ways and means to that end, but with the needs of the situation fully recognized by its people, and with a plan of development determined upon, the raising and setting apart of a sum sufficient in each year to forward at least some part of its features should not be a task beyond those earnestly striving towards the ideals of a progressive municipality.

EX-ALDERMAN HICKS,

Progressive Candidate For Water Commissioner.

Big Day At The Armouries

New Year's Day will be a memorable one at the Armouries. In addition to the big programme of sports announced in another column, the officers will be at home in their quarters, the staff sergeants and sergeants in the Sergeants' Mess, and the corporals and privates in the recreation room.

EFFECT OF PERFUMES

Some people look on good perfume as a delightful extravagance, a luxury which they really ought to do without. Perfumes, however, made from flowers possess a special health value, according to a writer in an English journal. Violet bears away the palm from all rivals in popular estimation. It is the favourite alike of the society belle and the girl with "nothing a year," though the latter never, perhaps, inhales a whiff of the real essence, for this hautiful perfume has an odour so fine and delicate that it is most difficult to preserve, and is consquently expensive. Cheap violet scents, in fact, cheap scents of any kind, should be avoided; they are not made from flowers at all, but of skilfully compounded chemicals, and instead of soothing have an irritable effect. For the sick room nothing can equal eau de Cologne. In hot, crowded rooms, where the atmosphere becomes oppressive, it will often ward off an attack of faintness. So well recognised is the place of eau de Cologne in illness that many people do not care to use it as a perfume. All scents in which rose is the principal ingredient, such as the well known white rose, are highly tonic and invigorating. That is, of course, if they are of good quality as the cheaper sorts are often blended to such an extent with animal odours like musk and ambergris, that they become heavy and depressing.

Perfumes made from flowers never possess a strong pungent quality —they are delicate and insinuating, perfume seems to grow on one, but they do not appear very strong when smelled in a liquid state. Put a drop on a handkrchief and let it dry, however, and the odour is like a breath from a bed of fresh flowers and will linger for weeks. Jasmine is one of th most enlivening of perfumes; but, again, to satisfy the popular craze, it is often blended largely with the sickly tube-rose, of which there should only be just a suspicion. If one is run down and out of sorts, and slightly feverish in consequence, cedar or rosewood essence will often remove the symptoms. Lily of the valley is, like violet, of a soothing nature, but more powerful. It quiets the heart; and when your nerves are "like sweet bells, jangled out of tune," it will often give relief. As is well known, it was Queen Victoria's favourite flower and a perfume made from it was one which she most frequently used. Lavender is a soothing scent, and thyme a strong tonic.

NERVES ARE SORE AND PAINFUL

Neuritis, or inflammation of the nerves, is the most painful of nervous ailments. You may feel the soreness or tenderness throughout the body, or it may be confined to certain parts; in the head it is called neuralgia; in the hips and legs, sciatica; in the face, tiedoloureux, and in the chest, intercostal neuralgia.

The application of dry heat affords relief from the lance-like pains, but the essential thing is to build up the exhausted nervous system by the persistent use of such a restorative as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. You will have other symptoms to warn you of the depleted condition of the nervous system, and this is your opportunity to restore to the body the energy and vigour of health.

While this great food cure is instilling new vitality into the starved nerve cells it is also forming new, firm flesh and tissue, and, by noting your increase in weight, you can prove beyond doubt the benefit being obtained by its use. This is Nature's way of curing diseases of the nerves, and it is the only way to obtain lasting benefit.

Small Wonder Eggs Sell At High Figure

Government Report Shows Imports Into Canada Are Enormous —Other Factors

The main reasons for the exhorbitant price of eggs now ruling are made evident in a report just issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, whose representatives have made an exhaustive study of the question from all sides.

Not long ago Canada, an agricultural country, exported millions of eggs, the report points out. These exports have gradually declined from 10,187,906 dozen in 1900 to 126,854 dozen in the year ending March 31st, 1913, while during this year no less than 13,240,111 dozen eggs have been imported into Canada. In other words, our imports this year exceed our exports of 1900. The consumption both in city and country has grown enormously. Imports have practically doubled each year from 1900, as the following table will show:

	Exports Dozen.	Imports Dozen.
1901	11,383,064	951,745
1902	11,635,064	772,572
1903	7,404,100	559,236
1904	5,780,316	873,942
1905	3,601,427	305,567
1906	2,921,725	462,669
1907	2,591,205	661,104
1908	1,365,890	1,149,986
1909	552,850	1,136,120
1910	60,650	884,073
1911	99,164	2,378,640
1912	203,231	7,577,826
1913	126,854	13,240,111

The imports of eggs into Canada from the United States for the year ending March 3, by provinces, is as follows:

	Dozen.
British Columbia	5,529,414
Manitoba	2,664,320
Alberta	1,954,110
Ontario	1,724,620
Quebec	812,201
Saskatchewan	414,340
Yukon	414,340
Nova Scotia	1,896
New Brunswick	316
Prince Edward Island	0
Total	13,240,111

Summarizing reasons for the present shortage, the report says:

From the time that mixed farming became general in the central states the United States' egg crop has been able to keep pace with the demand, and heretofore when there was a shortage in Canada eggs have been available on the Chicago and other large western markets. This winter, however, increased consumption on the part of the Americans themselves, and through a slightly smaller egg crop this year, the usual surplus is not available. In recent years the Canadian storage crop was sufficient to meet the demand until the middle of December, or a little later. After that American eggs were imported to supply the shortage.

In actual receipts possibly the United States' crop was not much smaller than previous years, but, owing to the extremely mild weather, winter production was phenomenally large, with a corresponding falling off in spring production. This meant a short crop for storage, as those eggs are what largely supply the demand during the winter months. This accounts for the fact that the price of eggs is higher in the United States and that there is little or no surplus for export to Canada. In fact, since the revision of the tariff the United States is actually importing over 8,000 cases of foreign eggs, they having been received in New York alone during the week ending November 29. It is expected that th availability of foreign eggs for both the United States and Canada will have the effect of averting a serious shortage, and of reducing materially the price to the consumer.

LARKIN TO COME TO CANADA

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 26.—(Special cable.)—The fact that fiery, cross James Larkin will likely leave shortly for the United States and Canada to endeavour to raise funds for Dublin transport workers, is regarded as a sign of hopefulness, that with his going there will be a possibility of a settlement of the long drawn out struggle in the Irish capital. It is realised that with Larkin out of the way, the strikers will have a decent opportunity to get together and make a promise. This action would never be permitted by Larkin. Larkin expects to get much financial sympathy in Canada. He told the meeting yesterday that Canadian workers would put up at least fifteen thousand dollars to help the cause.

ORPHANS HAD A DELIGHTFUL DAY

Children at St. Vincent's Orphanage Had Christmas Tree and Big Dinner

The forty-five children at St. Vincent's Orphanage spent a happy Christmas. They attended mass in the chapel at 7 o'clock and had a real festive dinner with all the good things that appeal to the appetites of the small boy and girl. At two o'clock there was a big Christmas tree with presents for everyone and Santa Claus attending in his polar costume. An entertainment followed and the rest of the day was given up to amusements of all kinds, and a general try-out of the presents. From the sounds of horns and drums and miniature trains, the little ones were apparently enjoying themselves to their heart's content. There were a number of visitors during the afternoon, and friends of the Orphanage were most generous in thir remembrances.

"THE VERSATILES"

F. Stuart-Whyte's all-star English musical comedy company, the "Versatiles," will be the offering at the Grand Opera House on New Year's Day, Thursday afternoon and evening, Jan. 1.

This sterling aggregation of London comedians and comediennes bears the enviable reputation of being the foremost organization of its kind ever brought to Canada. The personnel of the company includes twelve singing principals, and as there are a score of song numbers in each of their offerings the term, musical comedy, may be used advisedly.

The opening bill which will be presented both afternoon and evening is entitled "The Canadian Express," and was written by F. Stuart-Whyte after a trip on one of the principal transcontinental lines between Halifax and Vancouver. All of the familiar characters to be found in a railway coach have been woven into the story. There are the commercial traveller, the emmigrant, the peanut butcher, with his last month's magazines, his stale lunches and his last year's peanuts, popcorn, chewing gum and candy, then there is the prosperous Western rancher, and the strong and virile types of young manhood and womanhood for which our Western prairies are noted. Last and most important to the comedy element of the piece is a party of English tourists who are on their way West to see one of their party, the Hon. Arthur Vincent, safely landed on his "rawnch," where he is to remain for a period of two years in order to prove his courage and gain his father's consent to his marriage with Miss Norah Langham, who is also a member of the party.

Two years seems a long time to Artie, so he aranges a fake hold-up and hires the services of a young Scotchman, a fellow pasenger, to impersonate the robber. After the agreement haa been made the Scotchman overhears a conversation in the smoker about the hold-up of a week past, when an accomplice was shot, but the leader escaped. He gets off at the next station.

About the time of the planned "hold-up" a masked man enters the car and proceeds to collect the money and valuables. Arthur, thinking it is the Scotchman, grapples with him and after a fierce struggle, in which he thinks the young fellow is more than earning his money, he manages to overpower him.

At this moment the train crew rush on and identify the robber as the leader of the gang who perpetrated the robbery the previous week, and upon whose head there is a reward of $5,000, dead or alive.

Of course the Hon. Artie is the hero of the occasion and he gets the reward, and the girl too.

The company carry a full scenic production for this piece, which shows the interior of a tourist car.

HAPPINESS AT THE HOUSE OF PROVIDENCE

Old Folks Were Not Overlooked on Christmas Day

The old people in the House of Providence were not overlooked on the holiday. At eight o'clock they attended mass, at which there was special singing by the Sisters' choir. There was a present from the House for every person, and many received gifts from friends outside the institution. The Christmas dinner and supper were real events, with everything from turkey to fruit.

During the day there was quite a number of visitors, including His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, Father Phelan and Father Cote. The old folks interchanged the amenities of the season, and the day was brought to a happy close with benediction.

POISE

By RUTH CAMERON

I love the word "poise." To me it is one of those words which sound like the quality they express — like "peace," for instance; or "serenity," or "graciousness." And I love the quality the word stands for. To my mind it is a quality which the young people of this country need to cultivate more than almost any.

The other day, at the request of a little friend of mine, I went with her to call on some people whom she admires but stands in awe of. She is a very bright little girl, but nervous and self-conscious. Before we made the call we had been discussing a new book and she had given me a most intelligent appreciation of it. The same book came up for discussion at her friend's home and what was my surprise to hear her say that she did not like it, and make a childish comment upon it which was exactly opposite to what she had previously said.

Afterwards I asked her what had made her change her mind so suddenly. "I didn't change my mind at all," she answered; "that was just because I was nervous. She asked me about it unexpectedly and I said the first thing that came into my head. I didn't mean to say that and I was ashamed afterwards. But that's the way I do when I'm nervous. I say the first thing that comes into my head and I'm often surprised at the things I hear myself saying."

Now, poise was what that girl needed. With a little better balance, a proper hold on herself, and a more thorough control of her faculties she could have made a good impression. As it was, I am afraid she made a poor one, for she showed her lack of poise not only by saying things she didn't mean, but by talking too fast and too much, by laughing too loudly, and by moving restlessly about in her chair and playing continually with a chain she wore instead of sitting at ease and letting her hands rest quietly on the broad chair arms as her gracious and well-poised hostess did.

I think a great many young people —and older people, too—fail to do themselves justice at critical times because of this nervous lack of poise. They say things they don't mean and fail to say the intelligent things they are capable of; they make tactless remarks and commit breaches of etiquette; and all simply because they lose hold of themselves and scarcely know what they are doing.

Learn to get hold of yourself. It is a necessary foundation for social success. When you see that you are losing yourself, stop, take a long breath and force yourself to regain your poise. Pause, if necessary, before speaking till you can collect your thoughts and know just what you want to say. Speak slowly but get the right words. Don't fidget, don't laugh or speak loudly, and don't be afraid; nobody is going to eat you. Remember that underneath, these people of whom you are so much afraid are nothing but just folks.

If you know thes imple rules of etiquette (and if you don't you should get a book to-morrow and study them) and if you cultivate the habit of poise, you will soon cease to do yourself injustice when you most desire to appear at your best.

CALEDONIAN CLUB DANCE

Miss Girvan is Honoured by a Presentation

The singing of Mrs. French appealed to the audience. Mr. Wilson sang to perfection "Thira." Mr. S. Leith gave a laughing song. The proceedings were brought to a close by the singing of Auld Lang Syne. On behalf of the Caledonia Club Mr. Moyer, president, presented to Miss Jean Girvan, pianist, who had given such valuable services to the club, and asked her to accept a handsome music cabinet, wishing her every success in her future endeavours. PRESENTATION TO TEACHER

Miss Mahoney is Honoured by the Children of No. 5, Douro

A very pleasant evening was spent at S.S. No. 5, Douro, on Monday, the 22nd., by the parents and friends of the children. A very entertaining programme was rendered by the pupils and was interspersed with gramaphone selections which were greatly enjoyed by all present. A Xmas tree and a visit from an ideal Santa Claus were a source of delight to the children.

During the programme, Miss Loreto Mahoney, who had previously tendered her resignation as teacher, was requested to take a seat on the platform and was presented with a handsome mantel clock, a pretty piece of silver, and a piece of china.

The presentation was made by Marie and Katharine McMurray, and the following address was read by Fred Crowe:

Dear Teacher and Friend,—We, your pupils and friends, desire to express at this joyful season of the year, our sincere regret at your removal from our school where you have given much of yourself during the past two and a half years, faithfully endeavouring to train and educate the young minds.

We greatly appreciate your contribution to the social life of this community and to show you that your work has not been unnoticed we ask you to accept this mantel clock, pickle cruet, and plate.

We wish you the choicest blessings in all your future career.

SHORTAGE IN TEA CROP

"There has been a 35 million pound shortage in the China crop this year. This only indirectly affects England and Canada, as practically all the teas used in these countries come from Ceylon and India, but as it forces Russia to purchase larger quantities of Indian tea this year the shortage in China affects the price of all teas, and gives the highest figure that tea has reached for twenty-five years."

CONTESTS IN SOME OF THE TOWNSHIPS ARE ASSURED

Up to date there are two candidates in the field for the Reeveship of Norwood, viz., Reeve A. Breault and Councillor B. W. Squire. For the council board, six parties have already signified their intention of running as candidates. They are Councillors Stanley Hendren, W. E. Pakenham and Thos. W. Morrison and Messrs. J. R. McKelvie, Richard Girven and Wm. Portway. It is also possible that some others may decide to come out during the coming week. However, there will be eight candidates at least, for the offices of reeve and councillar, to make their bow to the ratepayers at the nomination meeting on Monday next.

Dummer Township.

The election in Dummer Township this year also promises to be a hot one. No less than four candidates, it is said, are in the field for the Reeveship, namely Messrs. Nathan Payne, Jas. Greystock, John Darling and Hugh McDonald. For Councillors the names of Messrs. T. A. Webster, Bullock, Garfield Crowe, D. D. Nixon and Geo. Kirk are mentioned as aspirants for office.

Contest in Asphodel.

In Asphodel a contest for the Reeveship is assured. Reeve Brown will again be a candidate, while Councillor MacNaughton has signified his intention of being in the field. For councillor, the three old members of the council, Messrs. T. Davidson, A. Quinlan and John Scott will seek re-election. The only new name mentioned so far is that of Geo. Elliott, but others may be brought up at nomination Monday afternoon at Westwood.

TIRED OUT KIDNEYS

Kidney troubles are so frightfully common because the kidneys are so easily upset by overwork or excesses of eating and drinking. Cure is effected not by whipping them on to renewed effort, but by awakening the action of liver and bowels by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. This rests the kidneys and makes them well. Backache and urinary disorders then disappear.

SOME THINGS AND A FEW OTHERS

"There's no time for mirth and laughter,
In the cold grey dawn of the morning after."

Christmas belles and Christmas bells, wedding belles and wedding bells, were four features of yesterday.

Ever notice that although the old boys and girls are sometimes inclined to speak a little disparagingly of the old town, they always manage to get back home in time to drape themselves around the family mahogany and do execution to the Christmas turkey and the deadly plum pudding?

Woodstock Council, according to established custom, presented Mayor Scott with the official chair he occupied during two years' service.

Berlin has installed three Magnetite lamps and is delighted with the samples.

Homes for the aged have decided compensations these days.

that it is pretty and clean and sweet," writes Louis De Foe.

By this time, little Willie has discovered what made the noise in his rattle.

After all the weather man is not such a bad sort. He delivered a fine brand of Christmas weather.

The most of the merchants have reported record sales for the holiday season. Dry goods, stationary and jewellery houses appear to top the list.

By the time a man is father of three or four children he imagines that thoughts of the country's welfare urged him to marry.

SERENADING BROUGHT LIBERAL DONATIONS

Donations to the Salvation Army Band on Christmas eclipsed all previous offerings for that day, according to a report to the Examiner. The citizens were most generous, recognizing the musical ability of the band and the efforts the leader and his men have put forward to secure its advancement.

THE PITY OF IT.

It was Laughable If the Pathetic Side was Overlooked.

On Christmas Eve a man was seen picking out a devious course, homeward bound, with two dolls in his arms. Possibly during the evening he had met a friend or two and, as many friends do, they "set them up." Unfortunately the walking was treacherous, even for the sober. This man slipped on an icy spot and in falling to the ground, crushed the pair of dolls beyond recognition.

Pat (triumphantly)—Your reverence, two rights make a wrong when they're boots!"

ORCHARD AND GARDEN NOTES

—Farm and Dairy.

Perennials should not be covered with heavy material. Straw or hay is good. Aim to keep them dry without smothering.

The Carrie gooseberry is a heavy bearer, hardy and freer from disease than others, although the fruit is smaller. It is easier to pick since there are few spines.

Norway poplar is a quick-growing tree and gives shade quickly, but a good, well-grown, hard maple, elm, or hackberry lasts longer and becomes prettier as it grows older.

Do not use red cedar as a windbreak tree near an orchard. It gives a harbor to one stage of the apple rust which is very injurious to apples, especially the Wealthy.

Keep the palm and fern leaves free from dust by washing frequently in a tub of water.

Apples wrapped carefully in paper keep better than those unwrapped. Common newspaper may be used.

Was a pot of parsley saved for window garnishing? It may be easily grown in any light window.

Watch the orchard closely for rabbit injury. A wire tree protector is a splendid protection against both rabbits and sunscald.

Why not devote part of an evening meeting of the Farmers' Club to discussing ways of fixing up the school yard to make it more attractive as well as comfortable?

Hang suet or a bundle of grain out near the buildings so that birds may find them. It pays to feed birds in bad weather when they have difficulty in getting food.

A good windbreak about the buildings is comfortable at this time of year. White spruce is both ornamental and useful for this purpose, although slower-growing than many deciduous varieties.

Mr. Daniels Not to Blame.

A story that is going the rounds is as follows: At a recent visit of the secretary of the navy to the academy at Annapolis he was jostled in the crowd of visitors to such a degree that a man of proportions trampled heavily upon the secretarial toe.

Instead of apologizing when Mr. Daniels turned his head to see who had crushed his foot, the offender growled out:

"What do you mean by giving me such a nasty look?"

"Why," returned the secretary, suavely, "I notice that you have a nasty look, but I had nothing to do with giving it to you."

WEDDING BELLS

SUGDEN—BYRNE.

The wedding was solemnized yesterday morning at 7 o'clock of Mr. Albert Henry Sugden, to Miss Helen Jean Byrne, daughter of Mrs. Byrne, George Street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. G. Peever, pastor of the George Street Methodist Church. Quite a number of friends attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Sugden will reside in Peterborough.

McQUARRIE—HYNES.

Yesterday afternoon Rev. R. G. Peever, of George Street Methodist Church united in marriage, Mr. Tos. McQuarrie of Oshawa and Miss Mabel C. Hynes, daughter of Mr. Albert W. Hynes, Harvey Street. The wedding took place at the residence of the bride. The young couple were unattended.

YOUNG—BONNER.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bonner, Parnell Street, on Christmas eve, when their daughter, Miss Lillian Gladys Bonner was united in marriage to Mr. Harry Young, civil engineer with the C.P.R., and formerly of Dundee, Scotland. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. M. Clarry of St. James' Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Young will reside in Belleville.

CURTIS—JOHNSON.

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Wednesday afternoon at All Saints' Church by the Rector, Rev. R. B. Grobb, when Miss Mary E. Johnson, professional nurse of London, England, third daughter of Mr. H. Johnson, of Nottingham, England, was united in marriage to Mr. George Norman Darwin Curtis, of Devonshire, England, and grandson of Charles Darwin, the celebrated English writer and philosopher. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Henry Ward Johnson. The bride and groom were unattended. The bride was becomingly attired in a pretty grey dress with a large white plush hat with white ostrich plumes.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis will reside in this City.

OBITUARY

BABY YORK.

Yesterday afternoon the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. York, Water Street, passed away. The parents will have the sincerest sympathy of their many friends.

THE LATE MRS. McCALL.

The death occurred at her home in Douro last night of Alice Frith, wife of Chas. McCall, at the age of thirty-two. She had been ailing for some time before her death, and the news of her demise will be learned with sorrow by her many friends.

She is survived by her husband and a number of small children, all at home.

The funeral will be held to the Little Lake cemetery on Saturday at two o'clock.

GWENDOLYN ARMSTRONG.

After an illness extending over several weeks from fever followed by pneumonia, Gwendolyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Armstrong, formerly of Peterborough, passed away Wednesday night, aged 5 years, 2 months and 22 days. She was an exceptionally bright, winsome child, and had a friendly greeting for the neighbours on the street. She was loved by all who met her and the loss to her parents can not be told, for she was the delight of the home.

The funeral, yesterday afternoon, was attended by a large number of the friends of the family. The floral offerings were numerous.—Kenora Miner and News.

THE LATE MRS. ROBERTSON.

The death occurred last night about midnight of Alma Cox, wife of Mr. Hugh Robertson at her home in this City. The late Mrs. Robertson had been ill a month previous to her death, and was 40 years of age.

The deceased lady was born and resided for many years in Lakefield, and came to this City eight years ago.

During her residence in this City, she won a large number of friends, who will be sorry to learn of her demise. She was a faithful member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

The funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock to Ray's cemetery, Lakefield. There will be service at the house at 1.30 o'clock. Rev. Jas. Rollins will officiate.

S. SAWBRIDGE.

Sad, indeed, are the circumstances that surround the death of Mr. S. Sawbridge, a young Englishman, who has been in Canada for only a short time. His demise occurred in Nicholls Hospital on Wednesday afternoon, in which institution the deceased young man had been a patient for some time, a martyr to the White Plague. His illness has extended over a period of three months, and during that time many of his new-found friends have rendered him what assistance it was possible to give. On his arrival in Peterborough he secured employment at the Canadian General Electric Company's works where he remained until he was attacked with the disease which was his subsequent end. He was a young man who was highly esteemed by all with whom he came in contact, and the sterling qualities he possessed gained for him a host of friends.

The deceased gentleman has shown extraordinary fortitude during his lingering illness, and was fully cognisant of the fact that he would not last long.

He has no relatives in this country, but he leaves a mother and sister in England to mourn his loss.

The funeral was held this afternoon to the Little Lake Cemetery, and the arrangements were very satisfactorily carried out by the St. George's Society and St. James' Brotherhood, jointly.

A BAG OF MONARCH FLOUR

Among the staple good things for the Christmas dinner or, for any other day's dinner, for that matter—none can outclass good bread and pastry. Made right and made light, they "take the cake."

Good old Saint Nick knows good flour when he sees it, as well as most housewives, and he has decreed that a bag of "Monarch" flour, is one of the very best Christmas gifts in his mysterious cornicopia. Who among all our friends would not appreciate such a sensible token of good will? Bags of Monarch flour will do more good to hundreds of families this season than a barnful of toys and trinkets. GROVER HALPIN JUNIOR CAPTAIN

Chosen at Meeting Yesterday —Up-to-the-Minute Gossip of Teams and Players

HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

At a meeting of the candidates for the junior O.H.A. team held yesterday morning at Brock St. Rink, Grover Halpin, rover of last year's team, was elected captain of this year's seven. The players have made a wise choice in selecting the speedy little rover as leader for the year. He has had more experience than other members of the squad, having had a season in the Trent Valley League as well as last year's seasoning in the junior and intermediate O.H.A. series.

The juniors open their season on Tuesday, Jan. 6th, with the Kingston Frontenacs playing here. The players have been working hard to get into shape, although it has not been found possible to get a practice together yet. The squad had three weeks' conditioning drill and last week took every advantage of the skating outside. A week's practice in the rink should put the team in proper fettle for the opening.

There will be a battle for the goal position on the junior line-up. Four candidates will fight for the honours. Grant Latimer, who has played for the Midgets, C.G.E. office in the Mercantile League and other teams, Alex Darling, with the Y.M.C.A. last year, Pat. Walker, last season's goal-keeper of the Boston Exploits, and Max Swanston, of the East City and Examiner teams.

In fact there will be a fight all along the line for places. For defence the available candidates will be Long, who played right-wing on last year's team, but who is being moved back this year; Nagle Phelan, with Ottawa College Seconds last season; Leo Picard, Bruce Regan of last year's Mercantile League champions, the Tool Room; C. Legendre, Ed. Hogan, of the East City team; Roy Smyth, of the Collegiate team, and several others.

On the forward line the most likely of the candidates are Halpin, Rose, Barrie and Richardson, of last year's team, and Harold Knapman, who played for the Collegiate and Thistles last season. Phelan will also try out for the forward line as well as for the defence. Halpin and Rose in centre ice have no opposition, and the fight will be for the wing positions.

Orme Cavanah, point of last year's Peterborough Juniors, is a candidate for goal for the Woodstock College Junior O.H.A. team. A broken ankle, the result of a Rugby accident necessitated his retirement to the nets this season.

Harry Clancy, the speedy left-wing of the Bear Cats two seasons ago, spent Christmas at his home here. He will be with the Dominion Bank team in the Bank League as will Stan Cook and Hugh Burritt, both Peterborough boys. Clancy and Burritt will also try for berths on the Argonaut Senior team. There are five Peterborough boys in the Toronto Bank League, Harold Morrow being with the Royal Bank seven, and Ken Crane with the Bank of Commerce team.

The first local O.H.A. game of the season is scheduled for a week from to-night with the local intermediates entertaining Whitby here.

Kingston Frontenacs and Port Hope have by mutual consent changed the date of the first game in this Junior Group from New Year's night to Jan. 3rd, when the Sutherland aggregation will play in Port Hope.

The Y.M.C.A. Mercantile League team will raise funds by putting on a basket ball game in the Y gym on New Year's night. Either the Belleville Y.M.C.A. or a Peterborough Old Boys' team will play the local team.

With the Tool Room supplying the tools for the game, the Drafters looking after the League's plans, the De Lavals "separating money from the patrons, the Bankers taking charge of the funds, and the Examiners to do the advertising, the Plumbers say its a lead pipe cinch that the Mercantile League should worry.

DENISON DID NOT PLAY

CLEVELAND, Dec. 25.—The Cleveland team continued its winning streak to-night by defeating the Ottawa College seven by the score of 6 to 3, in the first of a three-game series. The game was fast throughout; and noticeable for the fine team work of both sevens. Cleveland got a lead from the start, and was never in danger, though the Ottawa puck-chasers kept the local goal man pretty busy during the last half. Line-up:

C. A. C.—G. Chapman; l.d., Winters; r.d., Elder; r., Poland; c. Treble; l.w., Verner; r.w., Debernardi.
Ottawa—G., Derocher; ld., Morrow; r.d., O'Leary; r., Cavanagh; c., Braithwaite; l.w., Davis; r.w., Duford.

Food For The Soccer Fans

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

John Laidlaw, who once played for Murkirk Athletic, has been signed by Aston Villa.

Robertson, of Johnston, has gone to Burnley for a month's trial. Dumbarton holds his transfer.

A wail from the capital. Hearts are kicking about gates. "Only" 12,427 attended their last game, and that was the smallest gate so far this season. Needless kicking.

Alex. Smith, the Ranger veteran, has resumed training and will probably play in the Bennet benefit on Jan. 2.

Tom Maley, of Bradford, made overtures to Clyde relative to Jackson's transfer, but the fee asked by the Shawfield officials, $5,000, frightened off the genial Tom.

Queen's Park have arranged to play the English Wanderers on New Year's day.

Hearts are 10 points ahead of their last season's corresponding record. Quite good, eh?

Burnley are making a bold bid for the services of McNeil, Hamilton's international outside left, and have offered $7,500 for the player's release. He has a fine turn of speed, and there is something about his play which is typical of Billy Meredith. It would be foolish to suggest that he is the great Welshman's equal, but there are great possibilities in the lad. Hamilton Accies say nothing doing.

Celtic did a good stroke of business in getting Owers, of Clyde, for the centre-forward position at Parkhead. All they pay meantime is the player's wages, but at the end of the season Celtic will have to stump up a transfer fee, or let Owers go back to Shawfield.

A dandy dribbler, a clinking shot,
Strikes the target on the spot;
Class throughout, a clever chap,
Undoubtedly deserves a cap.
Scorns to trip. Though Duncan "trains,"
To travel second Scott disdains.

There is a little prophecy contained therein, and if it comes off we should not be surprised.

Fern, who made his debut in goal for Everton along with Bobby Parker, cost the Toffees' management $7,500. He has a grand record with Lincoln City, and made a splendid showing in his initial game for Everton against Sheffield Wednesday.

There are very few clubs who have done so well at Sunderland's expense as Bolton. In 43 meetings, Sunderland have won 19 and Boston 18, leaving six drawn games. Bolton leads in goals, with 77 against 73. In the first engagement between the clubs twenty-five years ago Bolton won by 10 to 1, and they have held the lead in goals ever since.

Though there was not much of an inspiring character about the game played at Valley Parade between Bradford City and Oldham Athletic, there was some excitement in the clubhouse which adjoins the grounds whilst the game was in progress. A fire was discovered to have broken out in the cellar under the players' dressing rooms, and the local fire brigade was requisitioned. Under the guidance of the secretary-manager, Mr. Peter O'Rourke, however, the fire was extinguished without much damage being done. The outbreak is believed to be due to some waste paper having come in contact with the heating apparatus. Suffragettes, in this case, are not suspected.

In the semi-final tie for the London cup, played at Fulham, Bobby Templeton gave ample proof that he wasn't a spent force, and if he can put up as good a display against Chelsea in the final tie, played at Craven Cottage next Monday, his inclusion in the league team should follow as a matter of course. Templeton's bouts with Hapgood, of Tottenham, proved veryentertaining to the spectators, who, by the way, wanted entertainment badly, for the day was bitterly cold and the rain and sleet pelted down so pitilessly that the spectators on the sixpeny side stampeded across the ground and sought the shelter of the enclosure and stand without stopping to ask permission, and they were good judges, my friends.

Considerable sensation was caused in Sunderland on Saturday when it became known that Buchan had taken exception to some shouting on the part of a section of the spectators during the match with Bolton Wanderers. When seen after the game Buchan stated that it was his intention to ask the directors to place him on the transfer list. He admitted that he might have played badly, but pointed out that the state of the ground made it dangerous for a player to turn quickly.

Buchan added that, if required, he would play against Chelsea, which is the next match away, but not against Oldham Athletic at Roker, the following week-end. Whatever shouting, if any, did take place, was not heard by the occupants of the press box or on the stand, so far as could be ascertained. No grounds are free from a certain amount of so-called barracking, but players as a rule do not take any notice of it. Buchan is undoubtedly a fine player, and the directors are not likely to part with him in a hurry. No doubt on calmer reflection Buchan will reconsider his decision.

Yesterday's Results.

LONDON, Dec. 25.—This is a busy week in the big football leagues, with many games scheduled for three consecutive days, Christmas, Boxing Day and Saturday. Some big scores were registered to-day, and some results that change for the moment the league tables. Birmingham's 6-0 defeat of Glossop, and Blackburn's 5-0 win over Preston North End were the big figures.

The defeat of Manchester United while Blackburn and Sunderland were winning puts the latter two in the first and second places in the First League, and United drops to third.

The Southern League leaders, Swindon Town, were well beaten at Bristol, but still retain the premiership, with Crystal Palace now only four points away:

MANAGERS IN DEMAND

Only Three Canadian League Teams Have Leaders Yet—Baseball Chatter for the Local Fans

RED SOX WANT DENEAU

Mr. Leclaire, manager of the Federal Hotel, Ottawa, who has hung up a $300 trophy to be awarded the best all round player in the Canadian League each year, has attached additional features to the conditions. The trophy will be made a permanent one, and the successful player will receive a $25 gold medal. The club of which the player is a member will be given possession of the trophy for a year. The design is that of a baseball pitcher in the act of delivering the ball and is of solid silver mounted on a bronze base.

Red Rowe states he has retired from baseball and will reside in Canada permanently.

On Monday a Montreal daily published a photograph of the late Addie Joss, with the following inscription: "Joss is the most reliable pitcher on the Cleveland Naps' staff." Wake up.

The Canadian League is the biggest field minor league baseball for managers seeking berths. With the exception of Shaughnessy, at Ottawa, Craven at St. Thomas, and possibly Holly at Hamilton, all other clubs are open for leaders.

Baseball might still be a game of corner lots and wrangles; modern organization made it into the greatest pastime in the world, and one of the greatest of to-day's industries.

To-day not less than $25,000,000 is invested in the game, at a most conservative estimate. There are over forty leagues operating under the National Agreement, in which over 7,000 players are employed. The major leagues alone pay to their players over $1,500,000 annually. Those who put money in baseball plants are assured of the stability of their investments. A great number of college men are entering the game each year, attracted by its financial possibilities.

The business of bossing a gang of ball players will not be an entirely new thing for Charlie Herzog, now manager of the Reds. Herzog managed a bunch of Giant rookies a number of years ago with some success until he was punched out of his job.

Johnny Cocash, of rubber heels fame, with the London Canadian League Club in 1912, did the punching. He objected to some criticism Herzog made to his playing during an exhibition game in Dallas, Texas, sought out Herzog after the game and promptly and effectually dislocated Herzog's molars with one mighty swing to the mouth.

When McGraw arrived in Dallas next day and learned of the row, he chased Cocash back into the minors, and relieved Herzog of the job as rookie manager.

"They say in Canadian League circles that the enthusiastic London directors would like to buy the Berlin franchise. One of these directors, Mr. George O'Neil, has already grabbed the Guelph franchise, and can do what he likes with it. The former owner, in a moment of weakness, handed it to the London man on a silver plate. If London eventually secures ownership of all the Canadian League clubs London may eventually win a championship. Then we will hear about syndicate ball as it is played in the big show. If London proposes to form a baseball trust, we would strongly advise President T. J. Nelson not to sell his Brantford franchise. They say you can't beat a trust, but we believe Mr. Nelson can, especially one operated from London, where they call directors' meetings between almost every inning of a scheduled game, especially when the home team is behind.

"However, this brings us to the question of getting Rube Deneau here for manager in 1914. Most Brantford fans would like to have the Rube as manager. London, who owns him, swears they will have a new man next summer. Then what is Deneau's value to them. Is it as a player? The Rube at that is a good one in the field, but he would come too expensive when the salary limit is considered. Why won't these London directors hand him his release now? They know they won't use him. In the meantime, Brantford's flirtations with the Rube as manager for 1914 is about as simple and as harmless affair as could be imagined. It sure is no tango or turkey trot affair. The Brantford club is keeping on the level with London, having regard to the best interests of the Canadian League, and London should remain on the level with Brantford.

To Separate "Siamese" Twins.

PARIS, Dec. 26. — "Siamese" twin girls, a month old, who were joined face to face by a strip of flesh over an inch thick, between the two stomachs, have been brought to Paris to be separated by a surgical operation. A radiograph examination suggests that the twins have no vital organs in common. They fight so fiercely and continually with their little hands that they had to be clothed with woollen vests inside which their arms were imprisoned. This, however, does not prevent them from doing their best to bite each other.

Sentenced to Wash Face.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 26.—The dirtiest man in Kansas City, charged with vagrancy in the South Municipal Court, was sentenced by Judge Bland to wash his face. "You are the dirtiest man I ever saw," said the judge. "Go and wash your face and hands and let us see what you look like." Ten minutes later the man returned. The change as wonderful. His face was flushed from the vigorous rubbing. "You have been punished enough," said the judge. "Discharged."

Our dear old mothers used to do most of their turkey trotting when chasing the cows around the barn yard straw stack at the witching hour of milking time.

Giving Themselves Away.

The late Mayor Gaynor was one day censuring a hypocrite.

"Hypocrites," he said, "whether they are correcting the social evil or starving factory girls, always give themselves away. They remind me of the tramp.

"The gentleman who ran into this tramp had gone out on an all-day fishing trip, taking his lunch with him. When he reached the riverside he discovered that he had dropped his lunch somewhere on the way, and so he hurried back to look for it.

"After a while he met a fat healthy tramp, who strolled along sucking a toothpick and looking very well pleased with life.

"'Did you pick up anything on the road as you came along?' the gentleman asked.

"'No, sir; not me hoss,' said the tramp. 'I didn't pick up nothing. Couldn't a dog have found it and et it, sir?'"

WATER MAIN BREAKS

Montreal Faces a Grave Crisis if Fire Should Occur

MUST DRINK BOILED SNOW

MONTREAL, Dec. 27.—The entire city is now affected by the break in the intake pipe and the gravity of the situation is fully recognized by the authorities. Statements have been issued by Mayor Lavallee and Fire Chief Tremblay. The mayor, in his official statement issued yesterday afternoon says:

"We are threatened by a calamity by this interruption in our water, unless the general public stands guard against danger of fire, and absolute lack of water supply.

"The trouble may last four or five days, I am told.

"All manufacturing plants should close down at once to conserve what we have on hand.

"Particularly I want to warn the public against the use of water from the hot taps. There is serious danger of explosions if they do. Heat the water on the stove."

The mayor added that the city was, and would continue to, do all it could to repair the break.

The manufacturing and down-town sections were without water yesterday, owing to the break in the main leading from the intake pipe from the St. Lawrence at Verdun. While the water department of the city has made every effort to repair the break, it is known that a water famine will exist for several days in certain portions of the city.

The average consumption of water in the effected districts is sixty million gallons a day, and the city has only been able to make arrangements for 26,000,000 gallons a day.

The department early issued notice to people to use boiled snow for drinking purposes.

The hospitals and the factories were compelled to buy Laurentian water by the ton from companies handling it.

Most of the bakers are without water, and will get their supply of bread from Toronto and other cities.

A reserve of two million gallons is being held in a reservoir in case of fire, though it is recognized that a big conflagration would easily account for this supply and leave the city in bad shape to cope with it.

The districts affected have a population of 200,000.

Water carts are making rounds, supplying the hospitals, hotels, restaurantr and boarding-houses, and supply is being given citizens at the fire hydrants on certain streets, while all of the city snow is being gathered and melted for drinking and washing purposes.

The greatest danger in the circumstances is from fire. All first call alarms are being attended by the amount of apparatus which usually turns out on the second call, and at a small fire last night about a block from the Montreal General Hospital the firemen extinguished the blaze with hand extinguishers.

Both Look.

"Why don't you buy an automobile?"

"I get sufficient excitement out of the management of my fountain pen."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

MISS ZARA CANTON, Leading Comedienne With "The Versatiles" at the Grand New Year's Day Matinee and Night. Seats on Sale Tuesday Morning

PLEADS FOR POLITICIAN.

He Is the "Priest of Humanity" Says Lloyd George.

LONDON, Dec. 27.—Mr. Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, speaking at a social gathering at Criccieth, his Welsh home, on the loyalty of ministers and their duties in the face of difficulties, said in part:

"Some people talk enviously about the minister's lot as if it were basking eternally in comforting sunshine. I can assure you that there is not much basking, but a good many burdens, not speaking of those who have attained to high position through family or other influence, but of those who had attained it by exertion and strength.

"I am told that in America these methods of attack are keeping seventy-five men out of public life, although their services would have been invaluable to the state. I know many high-minded men in this country who have shrunk from such an ordeal, but somebody must face it, nay, more, if it is the obvious path of duty for any man it is not right to shirk it.

"In spite of attacks on politicians individually, and as a class, every sensible person knows that they are an essential part of the machinery of good government in every democratic state. Politicians are essential to bridle the excesses of selfish strength; they are the priests of humanity."

MONEY IS REJECTED

Fund of $25,000 Spurned by Calumet Calumet Strikers

PRES. MOYER IS DEPORTED

CALUMET, Mich., Dec. 27.—Inability to give away one cent of the $25,000 collected for relief of the families stricken by the Christmas Eve catastrophe, in which seventy-two persons were killed, yesterday confronted the committee which gathered the funds.

Every bereaved household that was approached told the men and women in charge of the distribution that they had been promised adequate aid by the Western Federation of Miners, and nowhere was there any assistance wanted.

Members of the relief committee selected at Thursday's mass meeting ascribe this unprecedented condition to the rumor that the man who started the panic among the striking copper miners' children wore the emblem of the citizens' alliance, an organization opposed to the continuance of the strike. To combat this sentiment they obtained from Anthony Lucas, prosecuting attorney of Houghton County, a statement that he was satisfied from the progress of his investigations that the man who raised the cry were no insignia of any kind.

In most instances the offers of relief were refused without show of any feeling other than confidence that the union would be able to take care of all wants. In one case two women were ejected from a home where two children lay dead. Mrs. John Vertin and Mrs. Marcus Stork met this rebuff, and after being shown the door gave up their mission and returned to report to headquarters.

Despite the evident determination of the stricken families not to accept non-union aid, the committee was not without hope of overcoming the prejudices, and held another meeting last night to consider various plans for getting rid of the money in its hands.

Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, was put on a train and sent out of the copper strike district last night. The deportation was the direct result of refusal of families stricken by the Christmas Eve disaster here to accept relief from a committee, the majority of whose members belonged to the citizens' alliance, an organization combatting the five months' strike of the federation.

Mona Lisa Many Times Offered.

ROME, Dec. 27.—Vincenzo Peruggia, in whose possession the police of Florence found the famous painting, "Mona Lisa," which mysteriously disappeared three years ago from the Louvre in Paris, was examined yesterday by the magistrate who is investigating the case. The prisoner said he had tried to sell the "Mona Lisa" to a representative of the late J. Pierpont Morgan and had also offered the portrait to dealers in London, Paris and Naples.

Perrugia's statements amazed the court because, assuming his confession to be true, none of the dealers notified the police.

MAY GET BIG JOB.

New York Woman Talked of For Commissionership of Correction.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—This city, for the first time in its history, is to have a woman at the head of one of its most important departments, according to those in close touch with the plans of Mayor-elect J. P. Mitchel, for filling the many city offices, which will be at his disposal on Jan. 1. The woman, it was understood yesterday, is Dr. Katherine B. Davis, superintendent of the Bedford Reformatory for Girls, and the office that of commissioner of correction, now held by Patrick A. Whitney. The salary of the office is $7,500, and all the complex and extensive correctional work of the city is under the jurisdiction of the incumbent.

Women suffragists were elated when they heard the news of the probable appointment of Dr. Davis. She has won high repute by her methods of administering the affairs of the Bedford institution.

Drowned In Paint Bucket.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Drowned in a bucket of paint, George W. Riggs, prominent insurance broker, was found dead in the bathroom of his home yesterday. Riggs mounted a ladder to paint the bathroom ceiling. It is supposed that he was overcome by the fumes of benzine and swooned. He was found lying in the bathtub, his head in the paint bucket.

TWELVE MEN DEAD

Fierce Storm Wrecks Barges on New Jersey Coast

BLIZZARD HITS ROCHESTER

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Two men drowned in the East River and ten men—the crews of two barges wrecked on the New Jersey coast—given up as lost, is the cost in human lives of the storm which swept over this city and vicinity early yesterday morning.

At Seabright, N.J., a fashionable summer resort 20 miles south of here, most of the houses have either been wrecked or are under water. Several hotels and many fine residences were among those undermined and badly damaged. Seventy families are homeless.

The damage to property is estimated at $1,000,000, most of it borne by Seabright and other points along the northern section of the New Jersey coast. Most of the property losses are due to bulkheads giving way under the onslaught of waves lashed into fury by a gale, which at one time reached a velocity of 90 miles per hour.

The two three-masted barges, whose crews have been given up as lost were in tow of the sea-going tug Edgar F. Luckenbach. While the storm was at its worst, the barges broke away and then drifted in shore midway between life-saving stations 15 and 16 miles south of Seaside Park, N.J. At 9.30 yesterday morning only one of the masts of the barges was visible, and on it the form of a man. A little later the mast disappeared.

Heroic efforts on the part of the life-saving crews have so far failed to reveal a single survivor of the wreck. The tug was reported safe in this port late last night. The two men drowned here were longshoremen whose boat was caught in the storm and swamped.

All doubt as to the fate of the crews of the wrecked barges was removed late last night when the revenue cutters Seneca and Onondaga, which were rushed to the scene early yesterday reported that no trace of the men had been found. Life-savers on shore had not been able to reach the wrecks and they declared it was out of the question that any of those on board could have lived in such a sea as prevailed all day.

Much damage had been done the pound fishing industry along the New Jersey coast for some distance south of Sandy Hook. The estimated loss to the various plants is $100,000. They supply a considerable proportion of the fish consumed in New York, Philadelphia and other eastern cities and surrounding territory.

Atlantic City Hard Hit.

ATLANTIC CITY N.J., Dec. 27.—Bulkheads were smashed, tons of lumber were washed up on the beach and other damage of a minor character was caused by a storm which raged here Thursday night and yesterday. The five miles of meadows between this city and the mainland resembled a turbulent sea all day. The tide was three feet above normal.

Hail, snow and rain fell, thunder pealed and lightning flashed during the storm's progress, and yesterday sea foam was piled like snow in drifts along the waterfront.

Waves Came Into Grill.

OCEAN PARK, Cal., Dec. 27.—Twenty-foot breakers tumbling in on the crest of the season's highest tide, broke over bulkheads guarding the strand yesterday and nearly drowned between 30 and 40 men and women who were breakfasting in the basement grill of a fashionable hotel. The combers swept over all barriers, smashing in the windows, and fell upon the guests at the tables. Waiters and guests got out before the second wave dashed in, but a few minutes later there was several feet of water in the grill.

Blizzard Ties Up Rochester.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Dec. 27.—A blizzard which raged all night and continued with less violence yesterday, paralyzed street traffic in this city. Reports from the country say roads are impassable on account of the drifted snow.

Spent Night In Cars.

ST. CATHARINES, Dec. 27.—Breaks Thursday night to the high-tension line which provides power to the Niagara, St. Catharines & Toronto Railway tied up the entire system of the railway for over fourteen hours—in fact, complete service was not resumed until yesterday afternoon. Several hundred Christmas travelers were inconvenienced, and many were obliged to spend the night in stalled cars.

The cause of the breaks is given as the heavy stress placed upon it by a high gale of wind on the sleet-covered wires.

Two Frozen To Death.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 27.—Death and considerable property damage resulted from storms which raged throughout eastern Pennsylvania on Thursday night and yesterday. Michael Clark, an inmate of the Schuylkill County alms house, and Dennis McFadden, a farmer, were found frozen to death in snow drifts in the vicinity of Pottsville.

As man was originally made out of dust, is it any wonder that he is still out for all the dust he can get?

U. S. Congressman Has Radium Embedded to Cure Cancer.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Robert Gunn Bremner, Democratic member of Congress from the Passaic Congressional district of New Jersey, spent his Christmas in a Baltimore hospital Thursday with $100,000 worth of radium temporarily imbedded in his shoulder in the hope that it would destroy the malignant growth of a bad cancer on his left shoulder.

The radium was imbedded in the growth in Mr. Bremner's shoulder by Dr. Howard Atwood Kelly, in the latter's private sanatorium, on Eutaw Place, and left there long enough to send its radio-active properties in a cross-fire that penetrated every part of the cancerous growth. Dr. Kelly placed the radium in eleven tubes, about one-third of an inch in and these tubes, measuring each about 2 1-2 inches in length and about one-third of an inch in diameter, were planted in as many incisions that were made in the case on Representative Bremner's shoulder. The tubes were inserted at 11 o'clock Christmas morning, several hours after the arrival of Mr. Bremner in Baltimore, and were removed at 11 o'clock at night. The result was very carefully observed by Dr. Kelly yesterday, and the tubes will again be embedded in Mr. Bremner's cancer to-day.

Mr. Bremner is one of the most popular of the newer members of the House, a man of splendid talents, and has borne his pain without a murmur while mingling among his colleagues in the House.

ECZEMA ON THE HEAD

Mr. Peterson, South Bay, Ont., writes: "For years I suffered a sort of eczema on the head. I tried four different doctors, giving each a fair trial, but the disease grew worse and spread to my arm. I got Dr. Chase's Ointment, and it has entirely cured me. I give you my name because I want other sufferers to know about this splendid Ointment."

"That Affair Next Door"

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN

It was Ruth Oliver who spoke. I recognized her voice as I had recognized her apparel; but the emotions aroused in me by her presence and the almost incredible claims she advanced were lost in the horror inspired by the man she thus vehemently accused. No lost spirit from the pit could have shown a more hideous commingling of the most terrible passions known to man than he did in the face of this terrible arraignment; and if Ella Althorpe, cowering in her shame and misery half-way up the aisle, saw him in all his depravity at that instant as I did, nothing could have saved her long-cherished love from immediate death.

Yet he tried to speak.

"It is false!" he cried; "all false! The woman I once called wife is dead."

"Dead, Oliver Randolph? Murderer!" she exclaimed. "The blow struck in the dark found another victim!" And pulling the veil from her face, Ruth Oliver advanced to his side and laid her trembling hand with a firm and decisive movement on his arm.

Was it her words, her touch, or the sound of the clock striking eight in the great tower over our heads, which so totally overwhelmed him? At the last stroke of the hour which was to have seen him united with Miss Althorpe died out in the awed spaces above him, he gave a cry such as I am sure never resounded between those sacred walls before, and sank in a heap on the spot where but a few minutes previous he had lifted his head in all the glow and pride of a prospective bridegroom.

XLI.

Secret History.

It was hours before I found myself able to realize that the scene I had just witnessed had a deeper and much more dreadful significance than appeared to the general eye, and that Ruth Oliver, in her desperate interruption of these treacherous nuptials, had not only made good her prior claim to Randolph Stone as her husband, but had pointed him out to all the world as the villainous author of that crime which for so long a time had occupied my own and the public's attention.

Thinking that you may find the same difficulty in grasping this terrible fact, and being anxious to save you from the suspense under which I myself laboured for so many hours, I here subjoin a written statement made by this woman some weeks later, in which the whole mystery is explained. It is signed Olive Randolph; the name to which she evidently feels herself best entitled.

"The man known in New York as Randolph Stone was first seen by me in Michigan five years ago. His name then was John Randolph, and how he has since come to add to this the further appellation of Stone, I must leave to himself to explain.

"I was born in Michigan myself, and till my eighteenth year I lived with my father, who was a widower without any other child, in a little low cottage amid the sand mounds that border the eastern side of the lake.

"I was not pretty, but every man who passed me on the bench or in the streets of the little town where we went to market and to church, stopped to look at me, and this I noticed, and from this perhaps my unhappiness arose.

"For before I was old enough to know the difference between poverty and riches, I began to lose all interest in my simple home duties, and to cast longing looks at the great school building where girls like myself learned to speak like ladies and play the piano. Yet these ambitious promptings might have come to nothing if I had never met him. I might have settled down in my own sphere and lived a useful if unsatisfied life like my mother and my mother's mother before her.

"But fate had reserved me for wretchedness, and one day just as I was on the verge of my eighteenth year, I saw John Randolph.

"I was coming out of church when our eyes first met, and I noticed after the first shock my simple heart received from his handsome face and elegant appearance, that he was surveying me with that strange look of admiration I had seen before on so many faces; and the joy this gave me, and the certainty which came with it of my seeing him again, made that moment quite unlike any other in my whole life, and was the beginning of that passion which has undone me, ruined him, and brought death and sorrow to many others of more worth than either of us.

"He was not a resident of the town, but a passing visitor; and his intention had been, as he has since told me, to leave the place on the following day. But the dart which had pierced my breast had not glanced entirely aside from his, and he remained, as he declared, to see what there was in this little country-girl's face to make it so unforgettable. We met first on the beach and afterwards under the strip of pines which separate our cottage from the sand mounds, and though I have no reason to believe he came to these interviews with any honest purpose or deep sincerity of feeling, it is certain he exerted all his powers to make them memorable to me, and that, in doing so, he awoke some of the fire in his own breast which he took such wicked pleasure in arousing in mine.

"In fact he soon showed that this was so, for I could take no step from the house without encountering him; and the one indelible impression remaining to me from those days is the expression his face wore as, one sunny afternoon, he laid my hand on his arm and drew me away to have a look at the lake booming on the beach below us. There was no love in it as I understand love now, but the passion which informed it almost amounted to intoxication, and if such a passion can be understood between a man already cultivated and a girl who hardly knew how to read, it may, in a measure, account for what followed.

"My father, who was no fool, and who saw the selfish quality in this attractive lover of mine, was alarmed by our growing intimacy. Taking an opportunity when we were both in a more sensible mood than common, he put the case before Mr. Randolph in a very decided way. He told him that either he must marry me at once or quit seeing me altogether. No delay was to be considered and no compromise allowed.

"As my father was a man with whom no one ever disputed, John Randolph prepared to leave town, declaring that he could marry no one at that stage of his career. But before he could carry out his intention, the old intoxication returned, and he came back in a fever of love and impatience to marry me.

'Had I been older or more experienced in the ways of the world, I would have known that such passion as this evinced was only short-lived; that there is no witchery in a smile lasting enough to make men like him forget the lack of those social graces to which they are accustomed. But I was mad with happiness, and was unconscious of any cloud lowering upon our future till the day of our first separation came, when an event occurred which showed me what I might expect if I could not speedily raise myself to his level.

"We were out walking, and we met a lady who had known Mr. Randolph elsewhere. She was well dressed, which I was not, though I had not realised it till I saw how attractive she looked in quiet colours and with only a simple ribbon on her hat; and she had, besides, a way of speaking which made my tones sound harsh, and robbed me of that feeling of superiority with which I had hitherto regarded all the girls of my acquaintance.

"But it was not her possession of these advantages, keenly as I felt them, which awakened me to the sense of my position. It was the surprise she showed (a surprise the source of which was not to be mistaken) when he introduced me to her as his wife; and though she recovered herself in a moment, and tried to be kind and gracious, I felt the sting of it and saw that he felt it too, and consequently was not at all astonished when, after she had passed us, she turned and looked at me critically for the first time.

"But his way of showing his dissatisfaction gave me a shock it took me years to recover from. 'Take off that hat,' he cried, and when I had obeyed him, he tore out the spray which to my eyes had been its chief adornment, and threw it into some bushes near by; then he gave me back the hat and asked for the silk neckerchief which I had regarded as the glory of my bridal costume. Giving it to him I saw him put it in his pocket, and understand now that he was trying to make me look more like the lady we had passed, I cried out passionately: 'It is not these things that make the difference, John, but my voice and way of walking and speaking. Give me money and let me be educated, and then we will see if any other woman can draw your eyes away from me.'

"But he had received a shock that made him cruel. 'You cannot make a silk purse out of a sow's ear,' he sneered, and was silent all the rest of the way home. I was silent too, for I never talk when I am angry, but when we arrived in our little room I confronted him.

"'Are you going to say any more cruel things to me?' I asked, 'for if you are, I should like you to say them now and be done with it.'

"He looked desperately angry, but there was yet a little love left in his heart for me, for he laughed after he had looked at me for a minute, and took me in his arms and said some of the fine things with which he had previously won my heart, but not with the old fire and not with the old effect upon me. Yet my love had not grown cold, it had only changed from the unthinking stage to the thinking one, and I was quite in earnest when I said: 'I know I am not as pretty or as nice as the ladies you are accustomed to. But I have a heart that has never known any other passion than its love for you, and from such a heart you ought to expect a lady to grow, and there will. Only give me the chance, John; only let me learn to read and write.'

"But he was in an incredulous state of mind, and it ended in his going away without making any arrangements for my education. He was bound for San Francisco, where he had business to transact, and he promised to be back in four weeks, but before the four weeks elapsed, he wrote me that it would be five, and later on that it would be six, and afterwards that it would be when he had finished a big piece of work he was engaged upon, and which would bring him a large amount of money. I believed him and I doubted him at the same time, but I was not altogether sorry he delayed his return for I had begun school on my own account and was fast laying the foundation of a solid education.

"My means came from my father, who, now it was too late, saw the necessity of my improving myself. The amount of studying I did that first year was amazing, but it was nothing to what I went through the second, for my husband's letters had begun to fail me, and I was forced to work in order to drown grief and keep myself from despair. Finally no letters came at all, and when the second year was over, and I could at least express myself correctly, I woke to the realization that, so far as my husband was concerned, I had gone through all this labour for nothing, and that unless by some fortunate chance I could fight upon some clue to his whereabouts in the great world beyond [illegible] would be likely t[illegible] mainder of my days in widowhood and desolation.

"My father dying at this time and leaving me a thousand dollars, I knew no better way of spending it than in the hopeless search I have just mentioned. Accordingly after his burial I started out on my travels, gaining experience with every mile. I had not been away a week before I realized what a folly I had indulged in in ever hoping to see John Randolph back at my side. I saw the homes in which such men as he lived, and met in cars and on steamboats the kind of people with whom he must associate to be happy, and a gulf seemed to open between us which even such love as mine would be powerless to bridge.

"But though hope thus sank in my breast, I did not lose my old ambition of making myself as worthy of him as circumstances would permit. I read only the best books and I allowed myself to become acquainted with only the best people, and as I saw myself liked by such the awkwardness of my manner gradually disappeared, and I began to feel that the day would come when I should be universally recognized as a lady.

"Meantime I did not advance an iota in the object of my journey; and at last, with every expectation gone of ever seeing my husband again, I made my way to Toledo. Here I speedily found employment, and what was better still to one of my ambitious tendencies, an opportunity to add to the sum of my accomplishments a knowledge of French and music. The French I learned from the family I lived with, and the music from a professor in the same house whose love for his pet art was so great that he found it simple happiness to impart it to one so greedy for improvement as myself.

"Here, in course of time, I also learned type-writing, and it was for the purpose of seeking employment in this capacity that I finally came to New York. This was three months ago.

"I was in complete ignorance of the city when I entered it, and for a day or two I wandered to and fro, searching for a suitable lodging-house. It was while I was on my way to Mrs. Desberger's that I saw advancing towards me a gentleman in whose air and manner I detected a resemblance to the husband who some five years since had deserted me. The shock was too much for my self-control. Quaking in every limb, I stood awaiting his approach, and when he came up to me, and I saw by his startled recognition of me that it was indeed he, I gave a loud cry and threw myself upon his arm. The start he gave was nothing to the frightful expression which crossed his face at this encounter, but I thought both due to his surprise, though now I am convinced they had their origin in the deepest and worst emotions of which a man is capable.

"'John John!' I cried, and could say no more, for the agitations of five solitary, despairing years were choking me; but he was entirely voiceless, stricken, I have no doubt, beyond any power of mine to realize. How could I dream that in consideration, power, and prestige he had advanced even more rapidly than myself, and that at this very moment he was not only the idol of society, but on the verge of uniting himself to a woman—I will not say of marrying her, for marry her he could not while I lived—who would make him the envied possessor of millions. Such fortune, such daring, yes and such depravity, were beyond the reach of my imagination, and while I thought his pleasure less than mine, I did not dream that my existence was a menace to all his hopes, and that during this moment of speechlessness he was sounding his nature for means to rid himself of me even at the cost of my life.

"His first movement was to push me away, but I clung to him all the harder; at which his whole manner changed and he began to make futile efforts to calm me and lead me away from the spot. Seeing that these attempts were unavailing, he turned pale and raised his arm up passionately, but speedily dropped it again, and casting glances this way and that, broke suddenly into a loud laugh and became, as by the touch of a magician's wand, my old lover again.

"'Why, Olive!' he cried; 'why, Olive! is it you? (Did I say my name was Olive?) Happily met, my dear! I did not know what had been missing all these years, but now I know it was you. Will you come with me, or shall I go home with you?'

"'I have no home,' said I, 'I have just come into town.'

"'Then I see but one alternative.' He smiled, and what a power there was in his smile when he chose to exert it! 'You must come to my apartments; are you willing?'

"'I am your wife,' I answered.

This Home-made Cough Syrup Will Surprise You

Stops Even Whooping Cough Quickly. A Family Supply 94 Small Cost.

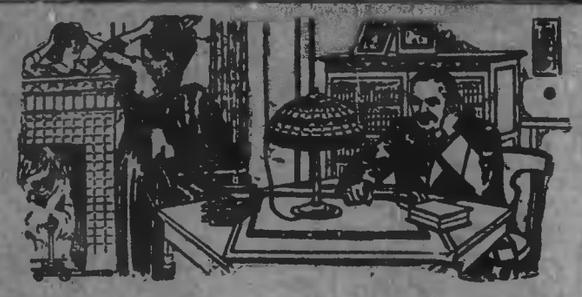
Here is a home-made remedy that takes hold of a cough instantly, and will usually cure the most stubborn case in 24 hours. This recipe makes 16 ounces—enough for a whole family. You couldn't buy as much or as good ready-made cough syrup for $3.50.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. This helps perfectly and has a pleasant taste—children like it. Braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

You probably know the medical value of pine in treating asthma, bronchitis and other throat troubles, sore lungs, etc. There is nothing better. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this inexpensive home remedy have made friends for it in [illegible] and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.



The Final Word.

"GOODBYE: We are just leaving the house."

Just before a journey when there are many last words to be said, final directions to be given and last minute details to be attended to, a telephone in the home is invaluable. By its aid a whole day's work is often compressed into a few minutes.

But a residence telephone is not for special occasions alone—it aids the housewife and lightens the burdens in a score of ways every day. In emergencies—and they are sure to arise some day—it is indispensable.

Good form

Wedding Stationery.

Above all, the invitation cards and announcements should be elegant, dignified and according to the accepted conventional style, which any first class stationer will be glad to show to you when you are deciding in this matter.

White or cream paper, with black engraving, is always in good taste. The exact proportions vary, but you can decide that from the various samples offered to you.

Plain script or block lettering is used, and if any crest or initials of the bride be added to the top it is embossed in white. This is really unnecessary. Monograms and other devices in colors or metals are not correct.

When you order your wedding stationery after choosing the style you will find that one invitation has two envelopes, one a little larger than the other. The smaller one is not sealed; the larger one is the outer one, on which the postal address is written.

Cards announcing the at home date of the bride and bridegroom and their new address are ordered and inclosed with the invitations.

The accepted form of an invitation is quite simple. It is arranged like this:

Mr. and Mrs. John Hall request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter Janet to
Mr. Richard Davis
on Monday evening, October the fifth at eight o'clock
St. Catherine's Church
New York

Another form has a dotted line on which is to be written by hand the name of the guest.

Sometimes when a church wedding is in danger of having uninvited strangers filling the pews, to the exclusion of the guests, a card of admission is inclosed with the invitation. It is a small white slip and has on it:

Please present this card at St. Catherine's church on Monday, October the fifth.

If the bride lives in the country the city guests are notified of the trains, etc., by small cards engraved:

Very rarely is R. S. V. P. used on a wedding card. These letters stand for the words of a French phrase that means, "Reply, if you please." They indicate that an acceptance or declination is requested. These letters are never added to an invitation to a church ceremony only. They are used when provision must be made for guests and the number to be entertained must be known in order to insure comfort to all.

Those brides elect that do not wish to go to the expense of wedding stationery, especially if the ceremony is to be a simple one and witnessed by a very few, are now writing personal informal notes inviting their friends to share the happiness by being present. Announcements can be ordered and sent to all friends and relatives. This plan simplifies matters and is growing in favor with women who feel that the wedding day must be shared only with the few dearest ones.

The Day at Home.

Most women whose circle of friends is at all large find it more convenient as well as pleasanter for all parties concerned to have what is called "a day." One afternoon each week or, more rarely, one afternoon a fortnight is set aside for the express purpose of receiving visitors. This is done by having engraved on the calling card in the lower corner, directly opposite the address, the word "Mondays," "Wednesdays" or whatever the chosen day may be. This, of course, signifies to all on one's visiting list that this is the day of the week set aside for receiving calls.

The woman who has a day should always mention it when inviting new friends to call. She says, "I am always at home on Wednesday afternoons, when I shall be delighted to see you," or something to the same effect. When a day has once been selected and announced to one's friends in the manner indicated it must be adhered to rigidly. It is most discourteous to be "out" on an "at home" day. A hostess should let nothing short of illness, the death of a relative or important business keep her from being in readiness to greet all comers. On all other days callers can without offense be turned away from the door with a simple "Not at home," but on the day she has herself set for receiving them a good and perfectly legitimate excuse must be offered if she is absent.

The maid who attends the door on an "at home" day should wear a black dress that is rather simple in style, white turnover collar and cuffs and a very small white cap and a white apron with a tiny bib. She opens the street door as soon as possible after the bell has rung and offers a small tray for the caller's card and directs her to the drawing room.

Courtship in Canada.

He gazed for a moment or two
Then pleaded, "Sweetheart, won't you give me
The lovely original too?"

"If you're positive, dear, that you love me,"
She said through a flood of tears,
"A negative I cannot give you;
I'm yours to the end of our years."

His courtship was quick to develop;
Their midnight was lined up in town.
And now in a middle class suburb
She is steadily toning him down.

Easily Identified.

While rambling around with his father one afternoon little Johnny came to a miniature lake on which two swans were swimming.

"Papa," said Johnny, pointing a chubby little finger out over the lake "is that the father swan or the mother swan?"

"Which one do you mean, Johnny?" asked the old man, glancing in the direction indicated by the boy.

"I mean the one over there," answered Johnny, "the one with all the feathers pecked off his head and isn't allowed to have the biscuit or nothing."

"Yes, my son," promptly rejoined papa, with just a suspicion of a sigh "That's the father swan, all right." Philadelphia Telegraph.

Interpreter Wanted.

Curling, like its sister Scottish game of golf, has its own vocabulary. Here is a dialogue in which a Scot in the antipodes tried to illustrate the "kittle pints" of the game to his New Zealand friends.

"What's a pat-lid, Mr. Macpherson?" asked an inexperienced member of the venerable "skip."

"Div ye no see, ye gowk?" said the skip. "Ye ding yer stane cannily, but nae sae fine as tae bog it; nae haiffs fleg nor jinkin' turn, ye ken, but tentiely, that it aye gangs smoovin' as straucht as an elder'd walk. Noo, shouldherin' among the gnarlies till ye fan' on the yerra tee. When ye're done that, laddie, ye've made a pat-lid and ye may bear the gree."

IN DREAD OF CROUP

Every mother dreads croup unless she knows about Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. Given in frequent small doses, at the first indication of trouble, this treatment loosens the cough and affords relief and comfort. Its use should be kept up until the child is entirely recovered.

Singing at Sight.

I never really got it through my head so as to read musical notation as to ordinary, conventional, civilized way. The fact remains that if today an opera were suddenly in place before me the score of "Robin Hood," "Pinafore," or "Fra Diavolo" I couldn't for the life of me tell whether a given note was A or G, or what key it was in. At the same time I could sing it correctly or any unfamiliar piece of music, although I should prefer to hear it played over once on the piano so as to get started right on the tempo. The celebrated Mme. Rudersdorff, who was one of the finest dramatic and coloratura singers I ever knew, once said to me when I confided to her this peculiarity:

"Never mind! you are all right. That's the true method of singing at sight anyway. The best of them don't really know anything about music more than that—if they know as much."—Henry Clay Barnabee in National Magazine.

Curran's Mistake.

It was difficult to subdue the high spirits of John Philpot Curran, the Irish lawyer and wit. Indeed, many of his most brilliant witticisms were uttered in the staid and somewhat musty atmosphere of the courtroom.

On one occasion when Curran was making an elaborate argument in chancery Lord Clare brought a large Newfoundland dog upon the bench with him, and during the progress of the argument he paid much more attention to the dog than to the barrister. Gradually the chancellor lost all regard for even ordinary courtesy. In the most important part of the case he turned himself quite aside and began to fondle the animal. Curran stopped at once.

"Go on, Mr. Curran; go on," said Lord Clare.

"I beg a thousand pardons, my lord," replied the wit. "I took it for granted that your lordship was employed in consultation."

Physical Energy.

Study of the blood furnished the clew to Julius Robert Mayer for his discovery of that fundamental law of physics, the law of conservation of energy. Mayer observed, while traveling as a ship's surgeon in the tropics that the venous blood of his patients (in the days when blood letting was still in general vogue) was appreciably brighter in color than in ordinary practice in the temperate zone. From this he concluded there was a definite relation between the chemical action going on in the blood and the amount of work or heat furnished by the body, and this, following up his argument point by point, he was finally led to the conclusion that the total amount of energy of a given system is constant, that energy can neither be created nor destroyed, but only converted from one form into another.

Her Usefulness.

"She is such a flirt."
"Is she?"
"I should say so."
"Well, I suppose she has to have something in the scheme of things to do."

Good Way.

"Hear about Brown?"
"No. What did he do?"
"Got rich quick."
"Is that so? How did he do it?"
"Married a rich widow."

WORRY AND HURRY.

There are two little demons we have to combat,
And their names are Worry and Hurry;
They play the deuce with our nerves and all that,
But still we keep on with our flurry.

We hurry through breakfast, then off like a shot;
We worry through work till the end of the day,
We hurry through dinner, after which, like as not,
We hurry again to be off to a "play."

We hurry the baby as fast as we can,
Kindergarten and high school and college, you bet,
Are raced through in our hurry to make him a man,
Till his brain is a jumble, his nerves all upset.

Then we wonder why half of the world's inefficient,
And we rampage along in our flurry,
I am sure this very good reason's sufficient—
It is due to our Worry and Hurry.

Do you think, after all, it is worth what we pay,
In nervous prostration and numberless ills?
Why can't we take time to live day by day,
For, truly and surely, it's hurry that kills.

WORK for the WOMANLY BRAIN and HAND

NEW GIFT BAGS TO MAKE FROM RIBBON

THIS is the season of gift making, and the woman who is talented in the art of making dainty sewing bags will find much inspiration if she pauses to examine the lovely bags pictured on this page. Each year the designs seem more beautiful than those of the preceding year, and any woman would appreciate a handsome workbag to carry with her when she attends the sewing club. These bags are fashioned of brocaded silk or figured ribbon, and if the remnant counters are closely watched you can purchase these short lengths of expensive silk or ribbon at much-reduced prices. If you decide to line the bags, use a soft silk or satin of a plain color. Do not stitch the silk on the machine. Hand sewing produces a much better result.

To make the pouch bag, follow these directions: From brocaded ribbon five inches in width cut five melon sections ten inches long and five inches wide at the greatest diameter. Then cut five more sections from plain satin ribbon, making them twenty inches long by five wide. Run a gathering thread through each side of the plain sections and draw them tightly, until the section measures ten inches long. Join the sections, using alternate sections of plain and figured silk until the bag is complete, allowing the points to fall free from within three inches of the top. Line the bag with plain silk and run two rows of stitching ½ inches apart. Through this thread drawstrings of half-inch ribbon. Finish each side of the bag and the end where it is drawn together with silk tassels.

The brocaded ribbon used for this bag is of tapestry blue, brocaded in a design of white and gold; the plain ribbon is a pale tint of blue, and the tassels are blue and white. Blue and gold color, pink and old rose and pink and pale blue are effective combinations for this bag.

Pompadour silk showing a cream background with a design in pink, yellow and blue is the material chosen for the oddly shaped bag with the circular top. A piece of silk twenty inches long by thirty-six wide is required to make this design. The length of the silk is folded over, making the bag portion ten inches deep. Neatly whipstitch the ends together. Bind this with inch-wide pale blue satin ribbon and gather the top over an embroidery hoop five inches in diameter.

Take ten inches of pale blue satin ribbon, five inches wide, and join the ends so that the ribbon exactly fits the circumference of the inner hoop. Run a gathering thread through each side and draw the ribbon tightly together at the center of the top and bottom of the hoop. Cover two flat button molds with the ribbon and finish the centers with these. Now run eight rows of stitching, a third of an inch apart, around the bottom of the bag, gradually increasing the circumference of the circle as the top row is approached. With two yards of two-inch pale blue satin ribbon fashion a hanger for the bag, finishing each side with a bow.

The pretty bag trimmed with bands of shirred ribbon is of pink ribbon in a brocaded design. Four widths of six or seven inch ribbon, ten inches long, are required. Whipstitch these neatly together and turn down a two-inch hem at the top. Cover a circle of cardboard, three inches in diameter, with the silk and sew to this whipstitch the bottom of the bag, after a gathering string has been run through it. Purchase a piece of inch-wide pale pink ribbon and gather it at both edges, making a band of puffing. Using this, form a figure eight on each of the four sides of the bag. Run two rows of stitching above the hem a half inch apart, and through this thread a drawstring of inch-wide pale pink ribbon.

Rows of narrow ribbon in plain and figured designs are effectively employed to make a dainty bag.

The strips of ribbon are gathered along both edges, and these are joined in alternate horizontal rows. The bottom is a circular piece of ribbon or silk, and the bag is stitched to this, allowing a frill of the plain ribbon to extend beyond the edge as a finish. The bag should be ten inches high, allowing for the three-inch heading. On the under side of the fifth row stitch a bias strip of silk through which the drawstring is threaded. Line the bag with silk or satin and finish each side with an ornament fashioned of ribbon. The colors used for this bag are pale yellow and pink, the dresden ribbon having a yellow background with a design in pink, and the plain ribbon is yellow.

A circular piece of silk, eighteen inches in diameter, is required for the bag, and this should be faced with a bias strip three inches in width. Run two rows of stitching at the base of this facing, and through this thread the blue ribbon drawstring.

Cover a thick cord with blue ribbon and with this form four ovals. With old blue ribbon, 1¾ inches in width, make a finely pleated frill and stitch it to the ovals. These are then placed at regular intervals about the bag. Other color combinations for this bag are deep violet and pale lavender, pale green and pale pink, rose and gold and yellow and pale blue.

Sewing bags are not difficult to make; the work goes quickly and they are gifts worth presenting to your best friend.

Duplicate one of each design and have a collection of gifts that are sure to please the recipients.

About a Silver Inkstand

WHEN the top of my silver inkstand becomes covered with ink, I find that an excellent way of removing it is to mix a little chloride of lime into a paste with cold water and rub the marks with it. This makes it look brighter than ever.

A Crocheting Hint

WHEN I am crocheting I find it very good to wear a piece of court plaster on my fingers as a protection in keeping the needle from pricking it.

To Wash Varnished Paper

WHEN the varnished paper in my kitchen becomes soiled I clean it in the following manner: Wipe all the dust from the paper, put a half wineglass of spirits of ammonia into half a pail of warm water. Then dip a piece of soft flannel in the water, wringing it out dry as possible, and wipe the paper. When this is finished, rub the paper with a rag saturated in linseed oil.

To Destroy Roaches

FOR destroying roaches I find the following excellent: Cut up green cucumbers at night and put them about where the roaches are troublesome. Remove the cucumbers in the morning and renew them at night again. Do this for three nights, and you will find the roaches have entirely disappeared.

A Preserving Hint

WHEN making jam I always add a piece of butter the size of a walnut. I find this excellent, as it takes away all the scum, makes it clear and a nice rich color, and keeps it a very long time from molding.

About Linoleum

HAVING discovered a good way to preserve and darken linoleum and make it look like new, I gladly give it to others: Take a half pint of linseed oil and add equal parts of vinegar. Apply this polish with a soft rag, then polish with another soft, clean rag.

FIREPLACES AND THEIR SURROUNDINGS

By Ethel Davis Seal

"Them as I sit a-looking at the fire I seem to see in the burning coal—like where that glow is now—"

"That's gas, that is," said the boy, "coming out of a bit of a forest that's been under the mud that was under the water in the days of Noah's ark. Look here! When I take the poker—so—and give it a dig—"

"Don't disturb it, Charley, or it'll be all in a blaze. It's that dull glow near it, coming and going, that I mean. When I look at it of an evening, it comes like pictures to me, Charley."

OUR MUTUAL FRIEND.

WE ALL love to remember Lizzie Hexam's "hollow down by the flare" and what she saw there in the burning coals, but I wonder how many of us have hollows of our own—dear, beautiful fireplaces to sit before of a cool evening and see absorbing stories acted out between the logs and maybe our fortune coming true there in the depths of the smoldering embers. We all know, anyway, how firelight transforms a room, how the rosy and golden light touches first on this thing and on that, dull as each may be in the daytime, but transforming each just now. How the shadows play hide-and-seek with each other and the world looks a mighty pleasant place in the dim firelight. And the fun—the toasting of cheese sandwiches and of marshmallows, the roasting of chestnuts and apples—how may not these be baked? Why, a fireplace has endless possibilities and endless pleasures for us—so

Unboard your fireplaces; or if they are not boarded up, so much the better—start to use them. If you haven't any andirons, use bricks instead, until it suits you to get some, but don't miss another minute of burning logs and firelight.

Why, a fireplace is the most wonderful thing in the world, as the fortunate possessors of such will attest, but even then, I suppose, they will admit that the possessing is only the beginning; there are so many pleasant details upon which to decide, the kind of a grate, the style of andirons, the colors to develop, perhaps the rug in front or the mantel ornaments—every detail planned with a view to making the very most of this most charming spot in the room.

In the old days the fireplaces were much bigger than they are today—so big, in fact, that grandfather, chair and all, could sit comfortably inside without getting scorched; and so useful, too, that great-grandmother could do her baking in a little "kitchen" placed in front; and the logs! why, the backlog was so huge it sometimes required a horse and chain to get it in position, and there were separate divisions in the firedogs, as the andirons were then called, to keep the knotting back and the forestick fore and the whole thing from tumbling out into the room. As the forests became more scarce, the fireplaces grew smaller and, in England especially, coal came into popular use, grates being then essentially necessary. And then things grew worse and worse—stoves took the place of fireplaces, and the wonderful things were boarded up, and wallpaper was often pasted right over the place where they used to be. And then, more horrible yet, they started to build the houses without them. But never mind, the worm always turns, and the fireplace is coming back to its own.

Best of all is the regular open fireplace, in which logs are used. The andirons are usually either iron or brass, and perhaps the brass might be favored. Such a fireplace is shown in the first illustration. The mantel and mantel base are of wood, with the fire frame of marble. The overmantel is of painted canvas, with wooden moldings, which is less expensive than it would be to be made entirely of wood. The central space in the overmantel lends itself well to decoration. A colonial mirror or a family portrait would look well, or a mural decoration painted directly on the canvas would be excellent.

The next fireplace shows a hob grate. These were invented about 1760, and are made to burn either coal or wood. This one is of brass. Dull sage-green tapestry bricks form the fire frame and hearth, and the woodwork is a creamy white.

With either of these fireplaces a metal fender could be used. These became popular in England, and soon were adopted over here. They prevent sparks and live coals from popping out on us unexpectedly, and they also prevent our children from falling into the fire—two very worthy objects—the latter impressed on us by the rhyme:

Little Willy, in the best of order,
Fell in the grate and was burnt to ashes.
By and by the room grew chilly,
But no one liked to poke up Willy.

Another fireplace appurtenance is the fire screen. These come in many shapes and styles, and are used to protect one from the heat of the fire or a stray draft. In the drawing a colonial mahogany fire screen is shown. The screen is attached to the rod, and will slide up and down. A cretonne filler is used, but some prefer plate glass, through which it is possible to see the fire.

The other fire screen is also of mahogany, and shows the use of the glass above mentioned. The side panels are of cretonne, or could be embroidered. Even though one does not feel a crying need of a fire screen, they are very decorative and add a pleasing spot to the furnishing of the fireplace corner.

Then there is really nothing which adds to or takes from the appearance of a fireplace as does the treatment of the mantel. So many people make mistakes in this. The mantel is either too crowded or the selection of ornaments is poor. This difficulty was especially impressed upon me lately, when I was furnishing a country house living room. It was a very simple room, with whitewashed walls and gray painted woodwork, and it had to be developed in an old-fashioned way, with cretonne hangings at the windows, which had those lovely square panes. Well, when I got to the mantel above the fireplace, I had the most awful time finding exactly the right ornaments. It really took a whole day of trying this thing and that and shifting around different combinations. It made such a difference in the room; it seemed as though its whole appearance stood or fell by that mantel. After duly taking into consideration the absence of pictures from the walls, requiring the mantel to be not too "thickly populated," thereby overbalancing that side of the room; and also remembering the dead white wall forcing into strong relief every article placed against it, and making me thought of getting the mantel too "sparsely settled" just as bad; the right effect was finally obtained with two green wickerbed jars, one at either end; two old candlesticks, brass with blue cloisonne bowls; and, in the middle, a beautiful watercolor in dull greens and gold. Everything was simple, but each thing filled a place which could have been filled with nothing else.

We almost learn the value of the parsimony of things instead of being surrounded by a riff-raff of odds and ends which mean nothing to us each ornament in a room should fill a special place and a special need. If it be a vase or a bowl, and made to hold flowers, it should be built to hold them and be fashioned in shape and color to set them off—to make of the flowers the most prominent thing. If a plate is used as an ornament, it should be a rare old plate, a real Canton, or an heirloom—not a beflowered, bedizened thing whose only excuse is a great quantity of gilt and color.

As William Morris says, we should only have in our homes those things which we know to be useful or believe to be beautiful—and he might have added with truth that the sense of real beauty needs to be educated into most of us. But it can be. All that is needed is a desire to know; for there are many shops, educational in themselves, which contain nothing which is not beautiful or rare—in fact, each article having character. And it costs nothing and takes little time to familiarize oneself with the spirit underlying the beauty of the things to be found there, so that it can always be recognized wherever seen, be it in a Fifth Avenue shop room or in a 10-cent store—for it could easily be found in both.

Our fireplace mantel should follow out the personality of the room, it should blend with the walls, and, while embodying a dignity and charm of its own, it should be a part of the whole and a unity; it is only a fireplace because and should in no way distract the eye from the real center of the room—the people, which stands for human.

A Birthday Party

FREQUENTLY there is a little invalid or convalescent in the home who must spend her birthday in bed or propped up with pillows in a large easy chair.

Mothers are always desirous of making these frail little ones happy and will exert every power to amuse them. It must always be remembered that time hangs heavy on the hands of the small invalid, and an occasional party will contribute much to her enjoyment.

Allow her to assist as much as possible in the preparations, consulting her regarding the refreshments, for you must have her favorite dishes and concoctions.

Make attractive invitations from the original watercolor paper and mat them. If the child is not too ill this will prove a pleasant diversion, if you cannot draw pretty sketches, cut out and plenty in the magazines which can be transferred to the paper by means of carbon paper. Write the invitation in rhyme and have the child seal and stamp the envelopes.

Decorate the bedroom with branches of evergreen, flowers or crepe paper, and against the wall opposite the child, where it will be in direct view of the child, place the table.

For the centerpiece make a large shoe from black cardboard and line it with pink, blue or red crepe paper. Cut several small windows in the shoe and form the small dietary paper doilies into narrow strips of white cardboard over the openings. On the windows paste a piece of the colored crepe paper to resemble curtains. You will find it a simple matter to fashion the shoe if a paper pattern is first cut and used for a guide. The top can be sewn to the other with strong black thread. About an inch from the top, pasted around the shoe paper, place the base with flowers and place in a small doily to represent the "old woman." When [illegible] the "old woman" doll should be several sizes larger.

Supply as many small dolls as there will be guests, and after the refreshments are served carry the shoe to the invalid and have her [illegible] dolls as souvenirs. The [illegible] is retained for the [illegible]

Suitable refreshments [illegible]:

Chicken Salad Sandwiches
Ice Cream Cake
Cocoa

Make the sandwiches of delectable ingredients; chicken sandwiches are always nice for children. Decorate the cakes attractively. If you have small round cakes, form a flower on top of each by taking six blanched almonds and radiating them from the center in petal fashion.

The large birthday cake is, of course, the crowning feature of the party, but unless the little invalid is allowed on a diet, should be her [illegible] cake. Place the candles in ornamental holders about the rim, and in the center arranging an [illegible] figure the child cut the cake after the candles have been removed from the icing.

Have the favors suitable to the season, and select favorites that are not too rich, for patients are restricted to a great many of the sweets.

[illegible] a drawing contest in the bed, and on this put [illegible] Then at the end of [illegible] to see who has the best [illegible] in the most amusing.

If the child is not very ill, a guessing contest may be arranged, and the person who guesses most correctly is given a prize. OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A Bit of Solder

A Story of Scotland Yard Efficiency Versus Yankee Cuteness

By MARION B. CURTISS

"Stivers, give me a room."

"I'm full, Clapham, but I've always made room for any of you fellows from Scotland Yard who has asked to be taken care of, for I know you're after game. Anything of importance?"

"Well, it's not exactly important, and yet it is important in one sense, seeing that there's a game to be played on us and we've got to make preparations to meet it. Have you any suspicious persons in the house?"

"Now you speak of it, a man came in yesterday. I don't think he's a regular crook, simply a measly chap that might be hired to do some dirty work."

"That fits exactly. I shall need your assistance, so I may as well show you my hand. You have this Mrs. Striker of Chicago here, whose coming to London has been made so much of in the society journals. These American millionairesses are, some of them, trying to beat the New York customs officers, and they do so quite often. The American detective is a very dull bird beside our English outlooker. This Mrs. Striker, I've learned, has bought the diamond that the Hardcastle family has been trying to find a purchaser for. They finally sold it to her for £20,000."

"Well?" said the landlord.

"Mrs. Striker is not going to pay American duty on a stone that can be carried in a shoe heel or a bouquet of flowers or a watch case with the works removed to make room for it or a dozen other places of concealment, but the trouble is that the news has gone over that she's bought the Hardcastle gem, and those muttonheads of New York will be on the lookout for her. She's to sail on the Romania on Wednesday, and they'll naturally expect that the diamond goes with her.

"Now, we of Scotland Yard are up to all these smuggling tricks and are on to this game. I don't need to give away how I got the story, but I got it all the same. Tomorrow morning Mrs. Striker will be found bound and gagged in her room and the diamond gone. The New York chaps will see an account of the loss cabled to the newspapers, and when the lady arrives she will not meet with the attention she deserves."

"But what's the need of a robbery if it's all a fake?"

"That's where our part over here comes in. Mrs. Striker will be bounding us Scotland Yard men to recover her diamond and giving talk to the newspaper reporters. There's doubtless some confederate of hers right here in your hotel who will take the blame of robbery."

"I see; he'll take it and return it to her secretly."

"No, he won't do any such thing. Do you suppose she'd trust it to a fellow like that? What she wants him for is to make it appear that he robbed her and. And how can we Scotland Yard men get it back from him when he hasn't got it?"

"There's that measly chap I spoke to you about now—that red headed fellow just going into the smoking room. He booked himself from Brumagem, but I know by his accent that he's an American. Lupnon is full of American crooks. I shouldn't wonder if they kept you fellows busy looking after them."

"So they do. I'm glad you've pointed him out to me; it will save my hunting him up. What's the number of his room?"

"No. 73. Come to think of it, Mrs. Striker's room is 75, directly opposite."

"Phew! What a simple game it is, to be sure!"

"What are you going to do?"

"Make sure he doesn't leave his room tonight after he goes up. I shall sprinkle a fine powder on the sill and in front of the door. He's not going to have anything to do with the matter except to take the blame for stealing the diamond. I'll prove in the morning that he didn't go into Mrs. Striker's room, for I shall put some powder before her door too. All the police will have to do when the newspapers howl at us is to bring forward my proof."

"You are a sharp one, sure enough. Well, I'll give you 72, a bit farther along the corridor. Going up now?"

"No, not till I've done some watching of this red headed chap. I must satisfy myself that he's the confederate. I don't propose to leave some one else to do the job while I'm watching the wrong man."

The landlord went behind his counter, and the detective went into the smoking room, where he found the red headed man, whom he did not lose sight of till the latter went to his room. Clapham, not satisfied with his powder device, sat up all night looking through a space made by leaving his door ajar. He saw nothing unusual. At 7 o'clock in the morning the door of No. 75 was opened, and a lady's maid hurried downstairs. She soon returned with the clerk, and the two made for Mrs. Striker's room. Clapham followed them into the room and saw Mrs. Striker bound in a chair and gagged. As soon as the gag was taken out she cried:

"It's gone!"

"What's gone?" asked the clerk.

"My diamond."

"Who took it?"

"I don't know. The lock of my door was picked. I heard some one working at it, but before I could decide what to do the door was thrown open and some one came in. There being no light in the room, I couldn't see who he was. I gave a cry, and he sprang upon me, put that thing in my mouth and tied me in the chair. Then he said that if I didn't tell him where the Hardcastle diamond was he would kill me. To save my life I told him that it was under my pillow on the bed. He took it and left me as you see."

The afternoon London newspapers published the fact of the loss of the diamond, but refrained from giving any clew to the robber. Scotland Yard officials looked wise and said nothing. They did not even watch the measly chap with the red head. But Mrs. Striker, to make sure that the news of the loss of her diamond reached New York, cabled the fact to her husband, and an account of the robbery appeared in all the afternoon journals.

People in London were surprised at the apathy of the police in the matter. But there was one man among them who was not apathetic, Clapham. There was a supplementary game on hand that he did not mention to Stivers. He wished to discover that the diamond was still in Mrs. Striker's possession and receive several thousand pounds hush money. When the lady left her room he entered it with a pass key and looked in every nook for the gem. There was not a hollow article or one that could be made hollow in the room that he did not take to pieces. The stone might be contained in one of a cluster of artificial grapes ornamenting one of a number of hats he found in the room, and he demolished every grape without finding what he looked for. Some bell shaped buttons he cracked, with the same negative result. At last he was obliged to give up the job.

Meanwhile the red headed man came and went in and out of the hotel. The landlord was anxious to get rid of him, but had no excuse to turn him out. Indeed, he was requested by Clapham not to do so. Clapham was not sure some cue might not yet be derived from him. But nothing turned up. At the sailing of the Romania, Clapham stood on the dock. After the gangplank had been removed and the vessel was well out, who should he see waving his hand to him with a sardonic smile on his face but the measly red headed man he had sat up all night to watch. The Londoner stood gaping at the fellow till he was out of sight, then turned away muttering imprecations on the whole "blarsted" Yankee nation.

Mrs. Striker kept her stateroom for a day or two, then appeared on deck. Everybody on board had heard of her loss, and those who had an acquaintance with her commiserated with her for it. She tossed her head and laughed as though the matter were of no great importance to her, as indeed it was not, for she was rich enough to buy more gems at the same price.

When the Romania was steaming up New York bay, among the crowd of passengers standing on the deck was Mrs. Striker. She wore a very large hat, trimmed elaborately, that she had bought in London not two hours before leaving her hotel for the steamer. She descried a motorboat flying a peculiar flag put out from Staten Island and heading directly for the steamer. When it had come within a few hundred yards of her a gust of wind took her beautiful hat and dropped it on the water. But the motorboat that arrived so timely received it and sped away merrily.

It did not get very far before it was stopped. Soon after the Romania passed Sandy Hook another motorboat was seen following her, and the red headed man from London from the stern was making signals to it, which were evidently understood. As soon as the first boat rescued the hat the second gave it chase, overhauled it and took it in charge.

When Mrs. Striker reached the dock in New York she was arrested for smuggling. The hat was produced, and in a large swelling ornament was the Hardcastle diamond. The face had been removed, the stone inserted and the face soldered in its place again.

"How did you get on to the business, Watkins?" asked the customs inspector.

"Well, you see, I was sent over to track the man who absconded from the —th National bank and was in London when the lady bought the stone. I reckoned she might try to get it in free of duty, and I took a room directly opposite hers at the hotel. She put up a job of robbery on the Londoners in order that it might be cabled over here and put you fellows off your guard. A Scotland Yard man got on to the business, but not on to its true inwardness. The way I located it was this: While shadowing the lady I saw her buy some solder, and the last thing she bought in London was the hat that blew off her head in the bay. Not long ago, you may remember, we had a case of hat blowing. I put the two together and cabled our agency to be on the lookout. The rest you know."

"Well, I'll report the case to the collector of the port. You go up to his office in a few days and you'll find out what the government will do for you. What do you expect?"

"I think, considering the goods are worth $100,000 and the duty will run up pretty well into the thousands, they ought to do something pretty nice for me."

"I think so, too, especially since they wouldn't have got a cent of duty themselves if it hadn't been for you."

Something pretty nice was done for Watkins, but since it was done from a private fund it was never known how much he got out of it.

Chinese Porcelain.

The Chinese have a national art in the production of porcelain. Not until the time of Palissy and Wedgwood can Europe be said to have entered into rivalry with the best works of China. But an enormous difference separates the work of China and Europe. Chinese work in porcelain represents ideals, symbolic usages and perhaps allegories, which have their counterpart in the medieval stained glass to be seen in many of the oldest cathedrals. While these are religious and attempt to embody in colors on a flat ground regardless of light and shade, but in symbolic colors, incidents in the lives of real personages or symbolic conventions associated with religious ceremonies or ideas, Chinese decorative art appeals to a sense of beauty in a manner that would have been appreciated by the ancient Greeks.

Gladstone's Taste in Sermons.

Gladstone, who never omitted attending service twice every Sunday, had his own idea of what a sermon should be like and the effect it should have upon its hearers. Sir Algernon West records that one morning, coming from the Chapel Royal, the G. O. M. "exclaimed against a very beautiful sermon of Mr. White's, of the Savoy, 'because,' he said, 'he has excited my brain by his quotations and given me anything but the rest which is what I want and expect to find in church.'"

The Crown That Fell.

Superstitious folks find their belief in omens strengthened by an incident which occurred at the wedding of the Empress Eugenie of France many years ago. After the ceremony the emperor and his bride entered the coach, that was surmounted by an imperial crown and gilded and adorned with paintings. This coach had been built for the wedding of Napoleon I. and Marie Louise a number of decades before. Just as the coach began to move forward the crown fell from the roof of the coach to the ground. The eight horses were at once halted, the crown was picked up, and in some fashion or other set in place again. Napoleon thrust his head out of the window to learn what had caused the halt, and when informed of the accident by Count Fleury said that it reminded him of an anecdote which he would tell him some other time. "But," remarks Fleury in his memoirs, "I knew it already. A virtually identical accident occurred to the coach at the marriage of Marie Louise."

Ancient Game of Football.

Football is probably the oldest of England's national games. At Derby a game of football was played as early as the third century in commemoration of victory over the Roman legion at Chester. The first football used in the annual game—still played each Easter—is said to have been the head of a Danish invader. In the Isle of Purbeck, too, the free quarrymen from time immemorial have perpetuated their claim to a grant of land by kicking a football across it. In the fourteenth century the game was so popular as to call forth an edict forbidding it, on the ground that it interfered with the practice of more martial exercises. In later times Shakespeare referred contemptuously to the game, but perhaps few would be able to turn up readily the passage in "King Lear" describing "a base football player."—London Standard.

How a Beetle Makes Love.

The deathwatch is always destructive. In its earlier stages of life it eats up books and furniture, and when it reaches maturity the damage it does is greater still, though not so costly. In length about a quarter of an inch and of a gray color, it does not seem to be a very terrifying creature; but it has a facetious little habit of butting its armor-plated head against anything hard it may meet with, such as wood or plaster, thus giving rise to a ticking sound which might, by a good stretch of the imagination, be thought to sound like the ticking of a watch. The poor little beetle, when he causes the ticking, is only serenading his sweetheart. He can play no musical instrument to please her, and so, to prove his devotion, he butts his head against the wall.—Family Doctor.

TIRE OF RAGTIME LILT.

Ragtime, for which the United States has been famous for many years is, if the prediction of experts comes true, doomed to soon join the ranks of the things that were. Of course, say the music men, there will always be a little ragtime now and then, just to liven things up a bit, but the craze for syncopated melody is waning, they declare.

"We do not sell nearly as much ragtime music as we did a year ago," said Mr. Colton, manager of the popular music house. "I don't know why it is that ragtime is dying out—where it is that people are cultivating a taste for the better things in music or whether they are just getting tired of the freakish ragtime. Anyway, the sales have dropped down a great deal from what they were.

"Of course, we still sell a lot of tango, turkey trot, and fish walk music, but pure, unadulteredated ragtime is fast getting to be a thing of the past. Take a couple of years ago and about nine out of every ten customers would insist upon purchasing the raggiest of rags. Now they insist upon buying the daintier music that is becoming popular. When they want music to play at a dance, they must have at least one or two of the ragtime pieces in order that the dancers can gratify their wishes to take part in them. Outside of that, ragtime is not very popular."

The dying of ragtime has been noticed in vaudeville theatres of late months. Almost any audience will give more applause to an artist who sings some of the latest waltz songs or high-class music. Ragtime still has its strong advocates, but they are in the minority.

A few years ago every one was wondering what sort of music would take the place of ragtime. Now they are finding out that the dainty waltz song and other lighter and prettier music is jumping in the place formerly occupied by the syncopated melodies.

The Skin Troubles of Childhood

School Records Show Much Time Lost From Eczema.

Chafing and skin irritation, whether from changing temperature, rough winds, strong soap or the action of the clothing, naturally develop into eczema, spread over the body and defy ordinary treatments.

Most doctors do not give much attention to skin diseases, and, consequently, it is necessary for parents to select some treatment which has proven a cure for such ailments. If records of cures count for anything, then you can turn to Dr. Chase's Ointment with fullest assurance that in this you will have the means of controlling itching skin diseases.

By affording prompt relief from the terrible itching, Dr. Chase's Ointment puts an end to suffering, and removes the cause of scratching. As the fires of eczema die away the ointment sets up the process of healing, and brings about thorough and lasting cure. As a treatment for the skin troubles of children nothing has ever proved so satisfactory as Dr. Chase's Ointment.

AFRAID OF REPRISALS.

Japs in Mexico Fear Rebels—Appeal Made to United States.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—The situation of foreigners in Mexico who have incurred the ill-will of the rebels is again giving some concern to State Department officials. Yesterday the Japanese ambassador called upon acting Secretary Moore to request that the United States Government do what it can to protect the Japanese in El Paso, and in other border points.

The apprehension that these Japanese may be made to feel the weight of resentment by the constitutionalists because the federals are receiving supplies of arms and ammunition from Japan, although it has already been appointed that these goods are being delivered under contracts made by Japanese merchants last April.

Acting Secretary Moore promised to instruct the American consuls in the rebel country to extend the same care to Japanese as they would to American citizens.

Rebels Received With Honors.

CULIACAN, Mexico, Dec. 27.—Constitutionalists officials of Sinaloa were accorded official honors when they visited the United States cruiser Pittsburg at San Blas, according to details of the visit related yesterday when the party returned here.

The insurgent state officials had visited the Pittsburg upon request of Rear Admiral Cowles, whom they had entertained at the state capital at Culiacan. When Gov. Riveros and Gen. Iturbe boarded the Pittsburg they were received with a salute of 16 guns. The Mexican tricolor floated with the stars and stripes over the American ship of war. The visitors were entertained at luncheon and inspected the ship and crew.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

A bullet smashed through a smoker window yesterday morning on a G.T.R. train about one-quarter of a mile south of Ripley. The miscreant could not be discovered.

After a few moments' illness, Dr. C. Heath Sweetapple, one of the most prominent men connected with the Ontario Veterinary College, died at his residence in Toronto.

Fred. Perkins, Warren Beaumont and Leonard Hanna, of Moncton, N.B., Intercolonial Railway employes, were yesterday charged with thefts from passenger on express trains.

A U. S. silver dollar bearing the date 1804, highly prized by numismatics, and quoted at $2,500 for collection purposes, was found here by a New Haven laborer yesterday.

John A. McLeod, druggist, of Los Angeles, Cal., while visiting his parents near Cornwall after an absence of twenty-three years, died in the General Hospital of appendicitis.

Robert Evans was sentenced to 21 months in the Central Prison for having enticed R. G. Thompson of New Dundee, a farmer, in a side room in a Berlin hotel and there attempted to rob him of $71.

Lined up in squads of ten, 200 mutinous soldiers and their commander were shot to death yesterday in Pekin by the order of President Yuan Shi Kai for their revolt against the Government at Kiang Yuan.

Gunner Burgin, who was being taken back to Tete De Pont Barracks, Kingston, from Brantford on a charge of desertion, managed to give his escort the slip at Ernestown station, and has not been recaptured.

Would Run Kitchen Themselves.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27.—The unemployed were given permission yesterday by the board of supervisors to organize their own culinary committee.

The men complained that they were kept too long in line and supplied with badly prepared and insufficient food by the co-operative employment bureau and a charity which has been caring for them.

The co-operative bureau would be rid of work which it is inadequately prepared to see through, and Secretary Bogart complained that the Y.M.C.A. and churches that had promised to aid were not living up to their pledges.

Two Hurt In Collision.

BRANTFORD, Dec. 27.—An engineer's disregard of his train orders and his taking a chance of making the next station in safety was the cause of a head-on collision between a G.T.R. engine that was running light and a freight train at Cainsville, east of here, yesterday morning. Engineer Smith of Sarnia and a brakeman were seriously injured. The light engine had orders to wait at Cainsville to let the freight pass, but instead of waiting started out, and just east of the station the engine came head-on into the freight on the curve. Both locomotives were wrecked.

BIG DEPOT BURNED.

Michigan Central Loses Heavily In Fire In Detroit.

DETROIT, Dec. 27.—A spectacular fire, starting from a cause undetermined, swept through the main depot of the Michigan Central Railway Co., here yesterday afternoon. The blaze which started in one of the office rooms in an upper storey, gained great headway before an employe discovered it, and although several hundred persons were in the building at the time, only one, a male employe, was injured. His condition, however, is not serious.

After three hours of hard fighting, firemen had the conflagration apparently under control. The damage to the depot proper was estimated at $150,000. Railway records, freight and express were also consumed, and officials of the road said the total loss might be a quarter of a million dollars.

GUNPOWDER IN TRUNK.

Man Who Shipped It in Trunk Gets Severe Lecture.

ST. CATHARINES, Dec. 27.—That twelve pounds of gunpowder were shipped in a trunk as baggage from North Bay along with several steel tools, developed in the police court yesterday, when George Trowbridge pleaded guilty to making the shipment without having notified the G.T.R. He professed ignorance of the law.

The trunk was leaking when it arrived at St. Catharines station, and after it had been moved a baggageman who dropped a match upon the platform where some of the loose powder had fallen had his face burned when the explosive became ignited.

Trowbridge was allowed to go on suspended sentence after a severe lecture by Magistrate Campbell.

Clasped Hands and Fought.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 27.—Word reached here yesterday from Pikeville, Ky., that Solomon Jackson and Tate Sanders, of that city, fought a peculiar duel there Thursday, in which both were killed. The men had trouble over a lawsuit and it was suggested that they clasp their left hands and with a pistol in the right hand of each, "shoot it out." Standing hand in hand they killed each other.

NEW PARTY FORMED.

Ex-Premier Briand Gathers French Radicals Together.

PARIS, Dec. 27.—The "Briandist party," a new political organization, was formed yesterday by 105 Republican Senators and members of the Chamber of Deputies. As its name indicates, the party is headed by Aristide Briand, former Premier. It includes among its prominent members J. Louis Barthou, Stephen Pichon, Alexandre Millerand, Jean Dupuy and L. L. Klotz, all of whom have served as Cabinet Ministers. The party is expected to draw supporters from all sections of the left who refuse to obey the newly-organized Radical party.

The object of the Briandists, as stated by its organizers, is to put the good of France as a whole before the considerations of local politics. In the words of M. Briand, the new organization cherishes no hostility of any Republican and has no intention to attempt the overthrow either of the Ministry or the Radical party, with whom, he says, it differs not so much in program as in method.

Two Firemen In Irons.

DELAWARE BREAKWATER, Del., Dec. 27.—The assistance of a revenue cutter has been asked to quell a disturbance among the crew of the British steamer Baron Delmeny, which arrived here yesterday with two firemen in irons and four others so badly cut that their recovery is doubtful. The trouble started among the Chinese firemen, but from what cause it could not be ascertained. Captain Gordon declares that knives had been smuggled aboard, and that he will not proceed to sea until his riotous crew is replaced. He has communicated with the British consul in Philadelphia.

Will Be Home Soon.

TORONTO, Dec. 27.—Sir James Whitney is on the high road to recovery. So rapid has been his improvement in the last two days that word has come simultaneously to the Cabinet and to his own home that he will be in Toronto very shortly.

"We have received very good news indeed," said Lady Whitney to the press last evening. "Sir James is very much better and we expect him home soon."

Hon. J. J. Foy stated that he had received the most welcome word yet. He was given to expect that the Premier would spend New Year's Day in this city.

RASH COVERED CHEST AND BACK

Itching and Burning Pimples Spread. Clothing Irritated. Used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. Well in Three Weeks.

High River, Alta.—"My baby was a sufferer from an itching and a burning on chest and back. The trouble began with a fine small rash and got quite a size. The pimples spread until his whole chest and back were covered. Some of them festered and on some the top looked clear. He was fretful and cross and was always rubbing. His clothing irritated him. The pimples caused itching, burning and loss of sleep. His chest and back grew worse and worse; they were a mass of itching pimples. The trouble had lasted two or three weeks and we tried remedies but they failed. Cuticura Soap and Ointment afforded relief in about ten days. I washed the eruption with hot water and Cuticura Soap four times a day, then used the Cuticura Ointment and in three weeks he was well again. He owes it to Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Mrs. Alice Wellbeck, Nov. 1, 1912.

For sad, rough, chapped and blemished hands, itching, burning palms, and painful finger-ends with shapeless nails, a cuticura Ointment treatment works wonders. Soak hands, as smirking, in hot water and Cuticura Soap. Dry, anoint with Cuticura Ointment and wear soft bandages or old kid gloves during the night. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. For a liberal free sample of each, with 32-p. book, send post-card to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. D, Boston.

Arsenic.

Excepting possibly the bichloride of mercury, few toxic substances are so common as arsenic, for the arsenates and arsenites are not only much used in medicine, but are likely to be encountered in commercial substances, wallpaper, dyestuffs, etc. Arsenic has been known since ancient times. The word means masculine or powerful. In the sixteenth century it was used for homicidal purposes in the form of aqua tofana and in literature has been the most celebrated of poisons. Although considered one of the most powerful poisons, it is less so in its ordinary forms than potassium cyanide and the alkaloids, though in combination with hydrogen it becomes one of the deadliest substances known, the slightest whiff of the gas being sufficient to insure death. In the common form, the trioxide or "white arsenic," one or two grains cause death.—Boston Herald.

Great Poets and a Little Girl.

James Russell Lowell used to walk along the gravel paths of his beautiful garden in Cambridge, Mass., hand in hand with a bright little girl, who was his neighbor, and discoursed with her upon fairies, paper dolls, roses and other important subjects. Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, a neighbor of Lowell's and of the little girl's, who wore a velvet coat and a big tie, was also her intimate friend. He used to tell her wonderful stories of ancient heroes and many other marvelous things. It was natural that the little girl should resolve even then to become a writer, and first of all a poet, for it was as a poet that the novelist, Eleanor Hallowell Abbott, first achieved recognition.—Century.

"What's the matter with it?"

"It lies. It doesn't register correctly."

"That's what they all say."

"But it doesn't register half the gas we use."

Applying the Lesson.

Your Own Strength.

Safety Pins.

Pins fashioned almost exactly like those of the sort known today as "safety pins" have been found in Etruscan and Roman tombs, and the date of these has, in some instances, been assigned to a period prior to the Christian era.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is Sign You Have Been Eating Too Much Meat

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid, which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds, and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

MUST PAY THE PRICE.

"Not infrequently people ask for advice as to the best way to attain health, happiness, success. In most cases it is pitifully evident that they seek an easy method. They would enjoy health without giving up wrong habits; come into happiness without deserving it; achieve success without putting themselves forth. But in no sphere of life can we get something for nothing. There are no short cuts to health, happiness or success. If we attain to anything worth while we must make up our minds to pay the price. Our eyes must be annointed, we must 'go wash in the pool of Siloam.' Knock and the door will open; seek and we shall find, and in persevering effort we shall attain."

SAYS HON. ADAM BECK FLATTERED THE COUNCIL

By Presuming That They Were All Business Men Who Would Take Ordinary Precautions, Says Mr. W. H. Collier.

THE POWER SITUATION

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Permit me, Mr. Editor, to express my appreciation for the frank and courteous reply of His Worship, Mayor Bradburn, to my open letter of Dec. 22nd.

The tangle or muddle of the whole Hydro-Electric scheme in which we find ourselves is only emphasized by the mayor's explanations. He is evidently a firm believer that Hon. Adam Beck is a great magician who, by means of the Ontario Legislature can extricate the ratepayers from all snarls and difficulties in which the Council have or may put us. I am myself a great admirer of Hon. Adam Beck, and a firm believer in his policy of municipal ownership, but Adam Beck is too busy a man to devote all his time to looking after the affairs of Peterborough. Over two years ago he came to our city and explained to us clearly all the necessary steps to take to acquire a municipal hydro-electric plant, but he flattered our Council by presuming they were all business men who would take ordinary precautions in carrying through the plans he outlined.

The mayor says that, at the time the act of 1913 was passed, the Peterborough Light and Power Company owned only a distributing plant worth about $94,000. By acquiring this property then the company's 30 years' franchise would have been cancelled. Who drew up the bill that became the Act of 1913? Did not our own City Solicitor under the careful supervision of our Mayor and Council? Why then did not the Act expressly state that it was this property, then owned by the company, that could be expropriated by a by-law, and thereupon the 30 years' franchise would be cancelled? It was this distributing plant only that the ratepayers had authorized the Mayor and Council to expropriate, but by a simple inexcusable blunder the Mayor and Council asked for more power than was at all necessary and thereby they have themselves defeated the expressed mandate of the citizens.

The by-law is passed and the company has been notified that all of their property in the city has been expropriated. Therefore the citizens of Peterborough at the present time are undoubtedly committed to a liability of approximately $600,000. The Mayor may think that this blunder has placed "the city in a position of being able to expropriate so vluable an asset as the Auburn Dam and Power Plant." But it is more likely to turn out, Mr. Editor, that the owners (The Power Electric Co.) of the Peterborough Light and Power Co. have found a good opportunity to force the city to purchase a property from them that they do not want themselves. The Auburn dam, raceway and power house cost the original company for construction more than they ever estimated, and if Peterborough takes it over we will have to pay a good figure above the construction costs. The Mayor admits that the company is a strong one, and its officers are shrewd business men, so it is only sticking our heads in the stands if we allow ourselves to believe for a moment that the company have placed themselves in any such position as the Mayor is trying to persuade himself and the ratepayers.

Who are the members of the present Power Committee of the Council, Mr. Editor? Are they not equally to blame with the Mayor for the blunder committed and the resulting present muddle? Each member of that committee owes an explanation to the ratepayers, and especially those members who are asking us to endorse them for office at the coming election.

Yours very truly,

W. H. Collier.

Peterborough, Dec. 27th, 1913.

TO-DAY'S POLICE COURT NEWS

Last night, a young man who must have just finished a session with John Barleycorn, and had by no means recovered from the inevitable effects, entered the Dominion Chinese Cafe and ordered a meal. This he consumed and paid for, but before he left the place he proceeded to upset the tables and things generally. The Oriental in attendance called a policeman, who arested the young man. This morning he was fined $2 and costs, amounting in all to $5.75.

An old man who resides at the House of Providence, was charged with being drunk and pleaded guilty.

"Do you expect the people at the House of Providence to pay your fine?" asked the Magistrate.

"No," replied the repentant old man. "I'll be lucky if they take me back at all. I deserve to be expelled for being found in such a condition."

The Magistrate discharged him, telling him to go straight back to the House of Providence and show his gratitude for their kindness by behaving himself.

CHANGE IN THE MUNICIPAL ACT

Renders Personal Declaration of Municipal Candidate Unnecessary

AN IMPORTANT CHANGE

A most important change in the Act governing municipal elections is that which does away with the necessity for any candidate to make the declaration necessary for qualification personally. Formerly the unavoidable absence from the City of some eligible candidate would of itself disqualify him, although he might be regularly nominated, and thus some valuable member of the Council might be put out of the running through no fault of his own. The Act says that when any candidate is unable, through illness, or absence, to qualify, the declaration of any person having knowledge of the fact that he can and would, if present qualify, can be taken in lieu of the personal declaration of the candidate.

RINK OPENS MONDAY NIGHT

Good Skating at Brock St. Arena For Beginning of the Week

Brock Street Rink will be thrown open to the skating public on Monday night, with a grand sheet of ice. The sudden change in the weather was taken full advantage of and by remaining throughout the whole of last night the rink staff has already secured good ice to such an extent that the hockeyists will get their first workout to-night.

The patrons of the Rink will learn with pleasure that Mr. Jack Thurnbeck is once more on the job as Manager. This is his twelfth season in the Brock Street Rink.

December 27th is a late date for the first ice, but not a record. Two years ago there was no skating in the rink until New Year's Day.

There promises to be a big crowd on hand for the opening skate of the season on Monday night.

"THE INNER SHRINE"

A Dramatic Version of This Great Story to be Presented at the Grand

A. G. Delamater, "producer of clean plays," looked on in New York city as a stranger in a strange land, will offer his latest production, "The Inner Shrine" at "The Grand" next Saturday, Jan. 3, matinee and night.

It is a book-play, a dramatic version of the great story of the same name by Basil King. Channing Pollick, another man who uses a little mental soap-weed, is the dramatist. He is one of the most proficient constructionists of the modern dramatic school and his selection by Mr. Delamater for the work of interpreting King's appealing story is a most happy one.

We are not going to accuse anyone of the three gentlemen involved of subordinating sanctity, for it is unfair to go behind the record of their consistent past performances, but it would seem that they all know what they are about. Each one is a successful man in his line, and yet he has dealt only in clean things. The magnificent geniuses of the New York theatre are giving the people what they they want and are losing money. Messrs. Delamater, King and Pollock, are making money with clean plays, notwithstanding, the frequent remark of the commercial New York manager that, "It can't be did."

"The Inner Shrine" as a book has proved one of the best sellers of a decade, and as a play is showing itself the equal of any that has had a novel for its inspiration. The story is one of unusual strength and teaches a severe moral to the type of man who bandies about a woman's name. It is the story of an all-conquering love, not the passion of the wishy-washy kind, but love born of tragedy and great sorrow.

A LETTER FROM THE MAIL CARRIERS

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—The letter carriers of this City regret the publication of the article headed "Postmen's Gifts" in last night's Examiner While the carriers appreciate the generosity of the citizens at large they do not wish to convey the impression that they are soliciting Christmas gifts from the public.

Thanking you for your valuable space and hoping you will give this the same prominence that you gave yesterday's article.

Signed on behalf of the Carriers,

Further positions of the Tower of London are to be opened to the general public. The portion which is shortly to be thrown open is chiefly the basement section of the Tower, which consists of three large rooms separated by enormously thick walls. This basement portion contains the cell of Guy Fawkes and also the little space in which Sir Thomas Moore was confined. Both these will now form entrances to the Little Ease, the famous dungeon in which Jewish money lenders and other were confined at times in the middle ages. The two large apartments which at present contain guns, were possibly occasionally used for torture rooms, but they were not regularly used for this purpose. The upper portion of the Tower has been elevated in the above drawing in order to show the disposition of the lower rooms. The positions of the cell of Sir Walter Raleigh, the chapel crypt, the chapel of St. John, and the various armories are also indicated. The present public entrance is shown on the extreme left.

CAN PROVIDE VEHICLES FOR CANDIDATES

Municipal Act Does Not Say That Candidate Must Ride to Poll With Voters on January 5th

ACT MISINTERPRETED

Much space has been given in the Ontario press during the last few days to the law that purports to say that a candidate for municipal honours cannot have his voters taken in vehicles to the polls unless the candidate himself accompanies the voter. In connection with this, which would have a very marked effect o the elections in this city a few days hence, The Examiner interviewed a leading legal authority of the city to-day and asked him what was his opinion of the above interpretation of the act. He replied, "All nonsense," and his opinion seems to coincide with that of all the reliable authorities.

The whole matter hinges on the meaning of the word "transportation" in sub-section two of the act, Section 188, which is given in full below. This says that "Every person who provides of furnishes transportation free of charge or at a diminished rates to a voter . . . shall be guilty of a corrupt practice and incur a penalty of $100."

If the word "transportation" refers to vehicles it would mean that supporters of a candidate could not use their outfits in his interest on election day. But, according to the best legal opinion, the word "transportation" refers only to railway trains, street cars, stages, etc., and is synonomous with provision (b) sub-section one of section 188 of the act, which refers more particularly to the candidate himself.

The law as it stands should be interpreted that all supporters of a candidate who wish to aid him with their own or hired outfits can do so without committing a breach of the act provided they receive no remuneration, or make any agreement for remuneration in connection with supplying the outfit. The candidate himself in this case does not need to accompany the voter.

Section 188 which aside from the ambiguity explained above, speaks for itself, reads as follows:

(1) A candidate who himself or by any other person on his behalf and every other person who (a) Hires or promises to pay or pays for a conveyance to carry a voter to or near or from or on the way to or from a polling place; or (b) Pays the travelling or other expenses of a voter in going to or returning from a polling place; and every person who for a valuable consideration provides or furnishes a conveyance knowing that it is to be used to carry a voter other than the hirer to, or near, or from, or on the way to or from a polling place, shall be guilty of a corrupt practice and shall incur a penalty of $100, and, if a voter, shall be disqualified from voting at the election; but this sub-section shall not apply to the carrying of voters to the poll in a conveyance used by the candidate personally on polling day.

(2) Every person who provides or furnishes transportation free of charge or at a diminished rate to a voter to, or near, or from, or on the way to or from a polling place, and whether passes or tickets or the like are or are not supplied, shall be guilty of a corrupt practice and shall incur a penalty of $100, and, if a voter, shall be disqualified from voting at the election.

(3) "Conveyance," for the purposes of this section, shall include a horse, team, carriage, cab, vehicle, boat or vessel.

HUSBAND OF PETERBOROUGH LADY APPREHENDS MURDERER

Detective Ricci Makes an Important Arrest Which Terminates a Chase Lasting Eight Years---Detective Ricci's Recent Captures Include the Heart of a Peterboro' Lady Whom He Led to the Altar a Few Months Ago.

A Vancouver exchange contains an interesting account concerning the apprehension of Francisco Tusone, who is wanted in New York on a charge of murdering an Irish labourer. Tusone's arrest was effected by Detective Joseph Ricci after a chase lasting eight years. Detective Ricci has made several notable captures lately, including the heart of a Peterborough lady, whom he led to the altar a few months ago.

The lady in question was Miss Mary De Long, daughter of Mr. Samuel De Long, and granddaughter of Mr. James Sutherland, 323 George Street. Mr. Samuel De Long resided on Albert Street prior to his departure for Vancouver, where he has since resided.

After a chase lasting eight years, in which time he had crossed two continents, and had narrowly escaped arrest on a dozen different occasions, Francis Tusone, alias Francisco Yusoma, is now on his way back to New York city to face there a charge of murdering James Rooney, an Irish labourer, in a factional fight in a low class saloon on the afternoon of Dec. 10, 1905.

Tusone, who was arrested nearly two months ago in this city by Detective Joseph Ricci, left Vancouver at noon to-day in charge of Police Captain A. EA. Wagner and Sergeant of Detectives J. G. Crocheron of New York. The officers, who arrived in the city yesterday afternoon from New York, had no hesitation in saying that Tusone is the man for whom they have been searching so long.

The murder with which the Italian will be arraigned, Sergeant Crocheron stated this morning, was committed in a saloon, known as 'The Jungle,' kept by a man named Flannigan, which is situated near the Latin quarter in the Borough of Richmond, New York city. There, on the afternoon of Dec. 10, 1905, a number of Italians congregated. They had not been drinking together long when an almost equal number of Irish workmen entered.

Some local trouble in the ward had excited the men and each side was ready to reply to the insult that was offered — by which side, it is not clear. In a moment the place was in a turmoil. Lining up on one side of the room the Italians prepared to defend themselves with their knives and the furniture of the place against the fists of the pugilistic Irishmen. The only man who stood apart from his compatriots was the man said to be Tusone. He took his place near the door and suddenly drew a revolver and fired. James Rooney dropped mortally wounded. The murderer turned and ran, as he did so another shot rang out and this time a man named Roach fell to the floor.

Hearing the shots, a policeman rushed into the saloon just in time to see the man, thought to be Tusone, and another Italian, run out of the back door. In the confusion that followed he was delayed a moment, but soon took up the chase, only in time to see one of the men vault a fence and make up the stairs of a tenement house.

The officer followed, but the man escaped down the fire escape and succeeded in reaching his friends in the Italian quarter. That night detectives almost surprised him, but he again escaped with the aid of several fellow countrymen. He was traced to a waterfront lumber yard, and here Sergeant Cocheron almost captured him, but he managed to get away from the police and disappeared.

Some months later he was located in Buffalo and when about to be apprehended, was warned in some manner and hid for three or four days in Rochester, N. Y. He again returned to New York city on a freight train and managed, with assistance from his friends, to get on board a steamer bound for Italy. There in the province of Campobesso he was safe for a time and the authorities were baffled. He joined the army and for about a year lived a life of safety, but a jail sentence which he had formerly had for an alleged stabbing affair, it is said, gave the New York detectives the clew they sought as to his whereabouts.

Again the chase was taken up and again the man commenced his long flight. His movements from the time that he escaped arrest in Italy until he was recognized by Detective Ricci are not clear to the police, but it is thought that he crossed several countries before venturing to cross the Atlantic.

'Look in Western Canada.'

For several years nothing was heard of the man whatever. Indeed the New York police officers admit that they were completely baffled, until several months ago, when an anonymous communication was received by them to the effect that if they looked in Western Canada they would find the man they wanted. The next day, however, came a telegram from the Vancouver authorities to the effect that Detective Ricci had recognised in the man that he and Detectives Levis and Tisdale had arrested on an assault charge, the alleged murderer of Rooney. Ricci had seen his picture in one of the old files and had instantly recognised the same man when he saw him eight years after the photo had been taken.

Ricci, Capt. Wagner said, would be required to go to New York when the case comes up for trial directly after the New Year. He will in all probability receive the reward of $1,000 which was offered for the capture of the man. Both of the New York officers are confident that Tusone is the man, and assert that his guilt can easily be proved by eye witnesses of the shooting.

Antonio ZereHia, a material witness, was also apprhended by Ricci and voluntarily accompanied the officers back to New York, where he has promised to tell all he knows of the affairs, having been present when it took place.

LAST LAP OF A WORLD-WIDE TOUR

"The Versatiles," who appear at "The Grand" New Year's Day, matinee and night, are on the last lap of their world-wide tour of the British Colonies, being due in England at the end of February when they open their London season. This combination of al English artists has appeared in nearly every country where flies the Union Jack, and their unequalled success has been achieved as much by their ability to adapt themselves to the conditions of the country as by their individual and concerted artistry. The "Canadian Express," which the Versatiles are offering for two performances only has been voted by Canadian and American audiences, to be one of the cleverest concoctions of wit and humour ever presented to the playgoers of this Dominion. The Canadian Express was simply manufactured for laughter, and judging by the unusual amount of merriment from rise to fall of the curtain, it has fulfilled its mission.

PITCH IN.

Now that the Christmas festivities are over, we can settle down to the most important business of the year—the election of our civic officials. We are normally too indifferent about these matters, we show an indifference we would not show in our private affairs, if we want them to succeed. If we wish to get an employee for a position of trust we do not accept the first offer. We investigate and ascertain his fitness, his capacity to fill the position he seeks. If he has failed in some other position of trust requiring business capability we don't want him. In selecting aldermen and other officials it is not unreasonable to prefer those who have shown business capacity in the management of, in the success they have given their private business. We do not want men who have failed in their own affairs or "fallen down" in some position of responsibility. In order to find out the facts we should "pitch into" aldermanic candidates—in a fair way, of course; we should subject them to some investigation to find out to what extent they can furnish certificates of qualification. That is why aldermanic candidates should be "pitched into"—should be investigated and made to show cause why the people should elect them. They should "hire a hall," and there should be opportunity for explanation. A hall could well be hired at the expense of the ratepayers, for the ratpayers are vitally concerned. All this means that there should be more publicity, more public discussion of the claims of aldermanic and other candidates. If we wish to succeed in electing the best man we must be put in a position to judge—we must not be compelled to accept what is offered without discrimination. Many an elector comes to the polls and is confronted with a ballot bearing the names of men he has never seen, of whom he knows nothing. All of this, or a great deal, would be obviated if we had a few public meetings that could be made good naturedly exciting and interesting, in which the candidates could be heard and explain themselves and form a speaking acquaintance, at least, with the electors. We don't take men on trust alone in our private business dealings. Why should we do so in our civic business, in which taxation to the amount of two hundred thousand dollars a year is involved? What is wanted is that the people take more interest in their own affairs and scrutinize more closely the list of aspirants to the honour of representing them in the City Council. We have a chance now to try and remedy the evil of this indifference. With the after-Christmas lull when, proverbially, the people have no money left and there is little business to do, our business men can take a larger interest in the vitally important matter of chosing men to do our civic business. Whether or not they are self-chosing or chosen by the ratepayers, rests largely with the ratepayers, themselves.

LET US DO BUSINESS.

Our evening contemporary makes a rather prominent and rather hysterical display of spleen in regard to alleged monopoly in the matter of electric power and lighting for the city—it wastes a good deal of muscle in flogging a dead horse—in deprecating hostility to the Hydro-Electric enterprise. This is needless, because there is no popular or other civic opposition to the Hydro-Electric principle. The people voted for it almost unanimously, and everybody wants to see the city get the benefit of it. All there is any difference of opinion upon is the causes and effect of the delay in bringing their wishes, as expressed by the vote on the bylaw, into operation. Our contemporary calls for the election of candidates, who are avowed supporters of Hydro-Electric. We elected a Council last year practically pledged to loyalty to Hydro-Electric installation. Have we benefitted by it? Have we Hydro-Electric, or are we even in sight of it? All the Council of the past year seems to have done is land us in a tangle at the end of their term. What the people would like explained is how an apparently simple matter has been allowed to drift a whole year without anything being done except execute a tangle for the next year's Council to unravel. A good deal of indignation is wasted upon a "monopoly." If there is any monopoly existing to-day it seems to be the fault of somebody that it does exist. The "monopoly" is charged with blocking the effectuation of Hydro-Electric The responsible officials of the "monopoly" has been looking after the intefests of the shareholders. Who is to blame if the City Council or the ruling majority has stood still and allowed the "monopoly" to "get in" its deadly work. If our civic rulers had worked as hard, had showed as much enterprise and as much industry in looking after the interests of the ratepayers who trusted them as the "monopoly" has done in its own interests, the "monopoly" would have been down and out. If a man stands with folded arms and shuts his eyes while his enemy hits him he is responsible for the black eye he gets. Who is responsible, and how, for the "black eye" the Hydro Electric enterprise and the people have got in the matter of acquirement of municipal lighting? Our contemporary does well to call for the election of "avowed supporters of the City's enterprise in gaining control of power and light." We need such men and need them more than ever. Last year we elected such men who had clear sailing before them. This year we need men who have the capacity to deal with a more onerous duty. Through somebody's delay and bungling the incoming council has inherited a tangle in regard to a matter that was clear sailing to last year's Council. The new Council will have to deal with the complications that have been allowed to develop—have to deal with an intricate matter that a year ago was a mere matter of doing something in a prompt, alert and business like way. The cry of "monopoly" and the appeal to prejudices to cover neglect of duty is natural. We want a Council that will do something—that will not sit down and watch while the "monopoly is "sawing wood."

A GOOD NAME.

"A good name," we are told, "is better than riches." And though we say it ourselves, Peterborough has got a good name, at least a new resident, who has had large experience, is prepared to give us a certificate—to our aldermen and business men, especially. Our City Fathers are sometimes charged with running away with a good deal of money; not in the eloping sense, but in the sense of not using the best judgment and business ability in giving us adequate value for city expenditures. But no one has, or has reason it seems, for charging them with "graft," or with using their official position for personal profit. Of course there is no more credit deserved for being honest than for the discharge of any other duty. But in this days where in cities across the line and in Canada we hear "graft" and municipal administration bracketted together, it is worth remarking that Peterborough is practically free from it. One may call in witness Mr. Breyfogle, Managing Director of the De Laval Company, who has had an opportunity of judging. Since the first sod of the great buildings of the Company was turned, a year ago, and the magnitude of the work, and the great things that have been accomplished with so much harmony and order are things to admire, he has necessarily come into contact with all sorts of interests—aldermen, contractors, business men, etc. Mr. Breyfogle says the aim of the Company has been to get everything, and everything done in Peterborough that could be got and be done here. He says to The Examiner:

"My experience since coming to Peterborough is that you have a pretty clean lot of city officials and aldermen here. Just a year ago today (yesterday) we put our first spade into the ground and I can assure you that not once have we heard of the least bit of "graft" on the part of any one of your people who have been connected with us in our undertaking. Even your newspaper men have been like Caesar's wife, and when we realize the assistance they have been to us, they have been clean as far as we can judge. Every one of your citizens, who have done work for us, has had to compete for it, and so far no favours have been shown. In fact more than one alderman has refused business from us on account of the positions they hold on your City Board."

This is pleasant to hear, and more so when we believe that it is meant and that it is substantially true. With all our enterprises or business we can be clean and fair and kep a good name.

GROWING CANADA.

According to the retiring postmaster of Liverpool the Canadian mails are now as great as the New York mails used to be when he was appointed. This is not a bad method of measuring our national growth. With an active and progressive people there must in these days be much correspondence both at home and abroad.—Ottawa Free Press.

WOMEN IN MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

The women of Ottawa and London, we are informed, are taking an active interest in municipal politics this year. At Ottawa they took part in a public meeting called to discuss the water supply question and other matters. The Free Press says that "they gave fair play at the Russell Theatre Thursday night to both the powers that be and the critics, and thus enabled the public to judge between the two policies, if the latter can be said to possess a policy." In London the women are actively engaged in the present campaign, and in Toronto there is a woman candidate for the school board.—Hamilton Times.

Cheering thought: For every woman who wants a divorce, there are hundreds who would not trade their "old man" for the best new stock eligible in the market.

Business Management of City's Business

TO THE ELECTORS OF CENTRE WARD

In voting for A. H. STRATTON for Alderman for Centre Ward you are voting for a live go-ahead man who has the interests of Peterborough at heart. He is a large taxpayer and will use his best efforts to keep your taxes down to the low water marks. At the same time he is sure to encourage existing manufacturers and endeavour to bring in a new industries. In regard to the important matter of Hydro Electric, while he favours it he is especially in favour of business-like management of the enterprise of seeing that the people, who voted so almost unanimously for it, get the greatest benefit from it at the least possible cost consistent with efficiency. He is a good business man by the test of success in his own business and knows that to encourage the working men and find employment for them at good wages helps the business man and thereby helps to make a BIGGER AND BETTER CITY. To the Electors of the West Ward

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Having been requested by a large number of citizens to stand for re-election as Alderman, I again respectfully tender you my services.

I have now represented you for four years, during which time I have made myself thoroughly conversant with the streets, sidewalks, sewers and other interests in the Ward.

By my services in the past, together with the past four years' experience, I ask you to judge my actions in the future, and confidently solicit your support and influence.

If elected, I again promise to conscientiously look after the interests of the Ward and the City in general, and to give all matters coming before your Council the necessary time and careful consideration, endeavouring to consider all questions in a fair and businesslike manner, consistent with economy and general progressiveness.

With season's best wishes, I am,

Your Obedient Servant,

JOS. J. DUFFUS

VOTE FOR

W. BULLER

THE PEOPLE'S CANDIDATE FOR

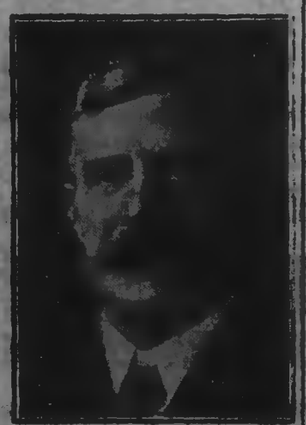
FOR 1914



J. J. HARTLEY

The Workingman's Candidate For

MAYOR

Unanimously Endorsed by the Trades & Labor Council

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen:—

At the urgent request of a large number of the ratepayers I have consented to be a candidate for the position of Mayor for the year 1914. Being born and lived my whole life in Peterborough, and a whole life's savings being invested in Peterborough, I naturally have a deep interest in the welfare and prosperity of the city. Should I be elected I promise you that I will guard to the very best of my ability the interests of the ratepayers and will oppose all unnecessary expenditure.

I will do my utmost to keep down the ever-increasing rate of taxation, consistent with the needs of the growing municipality.

I may say that I am in favour of municipal ownership, and in favour of having all city work done by our own people, instead of bringing in outsiders to do it. I will endeavour to see that the ratepayers get value for every dollar that is expended. I have had considerable experience in municipal matters, having served ten years in the Council and fourteen years on the Board of Education, being chairman of that board for two years. I was also chairman of the Board of Health for several years, so that you will see that I am not without a fair share of experience.

Should you do me the honour to elect me Mayor of our city, I will do my best to serve you to the very best of my ability.

Yours respectfully,

J. J. HARTLEY

TO THE ELECTORS OF PETERBOROUGH.

Ladies and Gentlemen,—Last year a large number of ratepayers requested me to be a candidate for Water Commissioner in opposition to Mr. Moore. I not only declined to be a candidate, but did what I could to prevent opposition. The Commissioners at that time had law suits on with the contractors, where about thirty thousand dollars of the people's money was at stake. Mr. Moore being a lawyer I considered he should be the best posted man on the Commission to fight the contractors and in the interest of the City it would be a mistake to remove him.

This year I have again been waited upon by a large representation of the ratepayers who believe that with my thorough knowledge of all the waters in this district and my many years' experience as alderman I should be a capable man for the position. I have consented to be a candidate and my past record in the Council I think is proof that if elected will give you faithful and honest service.

The taking over of the Hydro-Electric system will require a great deal of time—more than any man who had a large business to attend to can spare. Not being in business I can give all the time required, and if necessary will make a personal inspection of every house in the City and see that rich and poor are treated alike.

I can see no reason, with the large body of ready-made reservoirs of the Otonabee River there should be any shortage of water for either household or lawn service, or why there should not be a reduction in the water rates. A good supply of good water is a necessity in every house, and should be available for the people at a low rate.

To the ratepayers who are now residents of the City and not personally acquainted with me, would say that for a number of years I occupied the position of alderman, and always stood at the head of the poll both as a representative of No. 3 Ward and also after the Ward system was abolished.

General street railway extension and cheap transportation, like cheap light and water, should be the goal of our municipal government. When a worker can have his house and garden anywhere, and is not tied to a locality his prospects are greatly improved.

Trusting that the ratepayers who want good service in the future as I have given the past will give me their hearty support, I am,

Yours very truly,

J. B. McWILLIAMS.

TO THE RATEPAYERS OF CENTRE WARD

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

There is one thing on which the Council and people should stand together. That is our Hydro-Electric and Municipal Power and Light Policy. In their own interests the electors should assist in electing men who will see that policy through. A good beginning has been made. See that it is completed.

I am in with that policy as a Citizen and will be, if elected, as an Alderman, and shall be glad to receive your vote to place me in Council.

Yours respectfully,

F. H. DOBBIN

BIG PROGRAMME FOR THE EASTERN ONTARIO DAIRYMEN

President Gillespie's Address—De Laval Company Donates Valuable Cup to the Association.

A LIST OF THE SPEAKERS

Special to The Examiner:

CORNWALL, Dec. 27.—The thirty-seventh annual convention of the Dairymen's Association of Eastern Ontario will be held in the town hall here on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Jan. 7, 8 and 9.

The first day's session will open at 10 a.m. on Wednesday with the president's address and an address on "Management and Care of the Dairy Herd," by H. Glendinning, Manilla.

At the afternoon session three addresses will be delivered, as follows: "Cow Testing," by C. F. Whitley, dairy commission staff, Ottawa; "Common-sense Cow Feeding," by Prof. J. H. Grisdale, director experimental farm, Ottawa; "The Place of the Farmer in the Dairy Industry of Canada," by Prof. H. H. Dean, Agricultural College, Guelph. A general discussion will follow each address.

On Wednesday evening a citizens' meeting will be held, at which Hon. Senator Derbyshire, honorary president of the association, will preside. After an address of welcome by the Mayor of Cornwall and the replies thereto, J. A. Ruddick, dairy commissioner, Ottawa, will talk on "Dairying in Other Countries," illustrated by lantern slides, and Hon. James S. Duff, minister of agriculture, Toronto, will deliver an address.

At Thursday morning's session Geo. H. Barr, chief of the dairy division, Ottawa, will present the judges' report. L. A. Zufelt, superintendent of Kingston Dairy School, will speak on "Butter-Making and its Development in Eastern Ontario." An address on "Some Dairy Figures From the Census of 1911" will be delivered by J. A. Ruddick.

In the afternoon G. G. Publow, chief dairy instructor for eastern Ontario, will present his report. There will be an address on "Farm and Factory Water Supply," by Dr. M. T. Connell, bacteriologist, Queen's College, Kingston, and addresses by A. J. Ayer and A. C. Wieland, Montreal, export merchants.

On Thursday evening addresses will be delivered by J. C. Milligan, M.L.A., Cornwall; Dr. Creelman, president of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph; Andrew Brodeur, M.P., Morrisburg, and others.

The last session will be held on Friday morning, when Dr. T. Torrance, live stock commissioner, Ottawa, will speak. E. P. Bradt, district representative, Morrisburg, will give an address on "How the District Representative Can Assist the Dairy Farmer." The election of officers will bring the sessions to a close.

A winter dairy exhibition will be held in connection with the convention. Geo. H. Barr, chief of the dairy division, Ottawa, will lecture on the quality of the butter and cheese on exhibition. Valuable prizes have been offered for the exhibits. Among them is a valuable silver cup by the De Laval Cream Separator Co., of Peterborough, to be given to the maker securing the highest score in creamery butter manufactured from gathered cream.

The President's Address.

Gentlemen,—We have much pleasure in inviting you to attend the 37th annual Convention of the Dairymen's Association of Eastern Ontario, to be held at the town of Cornwall, on the 7th, 8th and 9th of January, 1914. The programme on the following pages of this book should assure a good attendance. It has been the aim of the officers of the Association to secure speakers of national reputation to address those who may attend, and they are sparing no pains to make this the best dairy meeting ever held on this continent.

Since the holding of our last Convention a large number of Special Dairy Meetings have been held in the eastern part of the Province, and we believe good results will follow. The meetings have been well attended and great interest has been manifested.

That part of Ontario over which our Association has control is divided into twenty-four (24) Groups or Syndicates, each being in charge of a competent Instructor, and each of these twenty-four Instructors was made under the personal supervision of Mr. G. G. Publow, Chief Instructor for Eastern Ontario. These men have done good and efficient service, visiting our Creameries and Cheese Factories, giving practical instruction to both makers and patrons.

We are pleased with the work our Association has been able to do for the dairyman during the past year, and we want your presence and co-operation at the Convention to be held at Cornwall on the 7th, 8th and 9th of January, 1914. Every Dairyman, who can reach there, will be amply repaid for attending. In these days of keen competition every man engaged in business of any kind should get all the assistance possible from those who have given time and practical study to that particular branch of business in which he is engaged, and every dairyman who attends this Convention will go home better fitted to make a success of his business by not only having more skill, but more of the requirements necessary for success and an enlargement of profit.

The gathering together of an enthusiastic, enquiring audience will bring one of the Convention its best service for all who attend, and also for thousands of others who, through the kindness of the Department of Agriculture of Ontario, will be enabled to read its report.

We are much gratified with the assistance received from the Agricultural Department of Ontario, over which Hon. James Duff presides, as well as assistance received from the same Department at Ottawa, and all we now require to make this coming Convention a grand success as an educator, is the attendance in large numbers of butter and cheese-makers, milk producers, and all interested in dairying.

We extend an invitation to all.

G. A. GILLESPIE,
President.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE NORTH WARD

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

In making an appeal to you for your support in the coming municipal elections, I fully realise the handicap I am under in being a stranger to quite a number of you, even though I have been practicing my profession here for seven years.

My policy briefly is this: An honest endeavour to show a dollar's value for every dollar expended, and the most economical and efficient government of the City's affairs. To attain this I have acceeded to the wishes of a large number of the ratepayers in offering myself as a candidate for alderman in the North Ward.

Should I find it impossible to see you all personally before election day, I wish to make a most earnest appeal for your vote and influence, and can assure you that I will deem it my duty to fully merit your confidence.

SCARLET FEVER IN LINDSAY

A Number of Cases Have Been Recorded

Dr. McAlpine, M.H.O., for Lindsay, states that the epidemic of scarlet fever which has broken out in town was not of a serious type. Three cases came under the officer's notice, two of which are in the south ward and one in the east ward. The cases are all of a mild form and no danger of death is anticipated in any one of them from the fever. The disease is caused by contagion, and it is the only possible way of becoming affected with the malady. The M.H.O. is keeping a strict watch on all parties quarantined, so that the spread of the disease will be checked.

Dr. Blanchard, M.H.O. for Ops Township, reports one family suffering from fever and said the disease was of a mild form, but had to receive the same attention that aggravated cases needed so as to arrest the spread of the malady.

The Secret of Good Digestion

In perfect health, with regular and healthful action of the liver and kidneys, you need not know there is such a thing as digestion or indigestion. Unfortunately, however, modern life is artificial, and not many people avoid suffering more or less from troubles of this nature.

The great secret lies in keeping the liver and kidneys in health and vigour, for then the food is passed quickly along the alimentary canal, the nutritive portions being assimilated in the blood stream and the poisoned waste materials are passed out of the body.

When the liver and kidneys get wrong you will obtain relief most promptly and effectively by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. If chronic indigestion is to be cured it must be by enlivening the action of these filtering and excretory organs. To persons who have thought only of the stomach as being the offending organ this may seem strange, but any competent physician will tell you this is correct.

ST. JOHN'S SUNDAY SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT

Successful Treat to the Scholars Last Evening—A Gigantic Christmas Tree

The treat to the senior scholars—as differentiate from the Primary school—took place last evening in the school house of St. John's Anglican Church. The school was represented in good force.

On entering, one could not but notice that the stage was concealed from view by the drop curtain representing the old City of London, a portion of the ancient town and a glimpse of the Thames as they existed some hundreds of years ago. This scene will probably be remembered by many of those who "took in" the "Lady Minstrels" show so successfully held in the same place some while ago.

This veiling of the stage doubtless added to the expectancy of many there, but for the present their impatience was not gratified.

The proceedings opened with a miscellaneous programme comprising instrumental and vocal performances, carols, recitations and so forth, while two tiny tots sang, in character, one of those songs so familiar in the "Lady Minstrels" show before referred to. These little mites reflected much credit on their painstaking trainer.

The whole of the numbers were performed by the scholars who each did their level best—and who can do more than that?

Unfortunately something must have gone wrong with the works of the airship, electric train, or what not, that His Highness, Santa Claus, intended to travel by. For it was announced that a telephone message had just been received from the Saint of Dutch origin regretting that unavoidable circumstances — circumstances over which he had no control—unfortunately prevented him from fulfilling his engagement at St. John's school house that evening.

Canon Davidson then made a few remarks suitable for the occasion, and then—up went the curtain and there was disclosed to view a Christmas tree of mammoth proportions, electrically lighted and laden with presents. There were presents for all and some to spare. The distribution naturally occupied some little time, but it was effected in a very methodical manner. It did one good to see the happy faces of the kiddies.

This event being over, "O Canada" and the National Anthem, "God Save the King" brought the function to a close, and a delighted party of little people wended their steps homeward shortly after nine o'clock

The treat to the little ones comprising the primary school will be given at a subsequent date.

THE CREAM PRODUCER RESPONSIBLE

The cream producer is responsible for the quality of the butter produced from his cream. Of course, a poor buttermaker will not make the highest grade of butter from even the best quality of cream, but the best buttermaker in the world cannot make the highest quality of butter from a poor quality of cream.

The world is demanding a better quality of butter in the general markets. This demand is becoming more and more insistent. It will not be long before it will become imperative, so that all manufacturers will begin to see the necessity of taking steps to meet the demand.

A word of explanation is necessary so that the ordinary cream producer may fully understand why the responsibility for the quality of the butter produced rests mainly with him. The peculiar flavor of June butter, which is so much desired and so much appreciated by particular butter users, is due to the presence in the butter of a certain kind of bacterium. In like manner the peculiar flavor of appetizing cheese is due to the presence in the cheese of a certain kind of bacterium that produces that particular flavor. To kill these bacteria destroys the particular flavor that they produce.

BAD BACTERIA KILL GOOD

Now, in cream, besides the bacterium already mentioned, there are other bacteria, some of which are insanitary to the last degree. In "rotten cream" the number and variety of these bacteria are multiplied indefinitely. In order to make the butter produced from such cream sanitary, it is necessary to kill these bacteria. This is done by the process of pasteurizing. The cream is then inoculated by adding to it a substance containing certain of these bacteria that are necessary for the production of butter, mainly lactic acid bacteria. This inoculating material is called a starter.

Scientists have been able to isolate certain of the bacteria found in sweet cream, and from the cultures of these bacteria the starter is made. But no scientist has been able yet to isolate all the bacteria that are found in sweet cream, and especially those that give to butter made from sweet cream that peculiar June flavor so much appreciated and desired. The result is that when "rotten cream" is pasteurized and inoculated with a starter that does not contain the bacteria which give the peculiar, desirable June flavor, the butter has a flat, insipid taste, which to many users of butter accustomed to the June flavor is neither pleasant nor palatable. All such pasteurized butter is perfectly sanitary, because all the disease germs in it have been killed. But to some tastes it is not palatable, because it lacks the peculiar flavor mentioned.

PASTEURIZED OR CLEAN CREAM

It is contended by some health food enthusiasts that all cream should be pasteurized before making it into butter in order to kill all the disease germs that may be in the cream. This undoubtedly is true from the standpoint of sanitation. But the market demand at present shows that a great many people are willing to run the chance of disease germs being in butter in order to secure the palatable flavor. The highest market price is paid, other things being equal, for the butter that has this flavor.

There are some creameries to which cream is delivered in such conditions that they are able to make this high quality of butter without pasteurizing the cream. These creameries command the highest market price for their product. Such a product cannot be made from "rotten cream." A perfectly sanitary butter may be made from such cream; but its sanitary character is gained at the expense of its appetizing quality. If, then, every cream producer would see to it that his cream is delivered at the creamery in first-class condition, it would ensure the possibility of the creamery turning out the very highest quality of butter.—Twentieth Century Farmer.

MAYORALTY RACE A DOUBTFUL ISSUE

The aldermanic candidates are working quietly these days. As to the final result on election day expressions of opinion on the street indicate that the contest will be a close one. All three candidates are looking forward to the polls with hope and confidence. Ask any one of the three how the wind is blowing and he will tell you that it is very favourable. The last week will probably see increased activity, but in any case the three-cornered fight admits of possibilities that may be surprising. The present indications point to a large vote, for public interest has certainly been attracted to the present municipal elections.

THREE AVIATORS LOOP THE LOOP

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 27.—In spite of a gale blowing sixty miles an hour three airmen looped the loop in England, yesterday. Mr. Chanteloup and Mr. Gustav Hamel at Hendon, and Mr. G. B. Hucks at Aintree, Liverpool, accomplished it, all receiving an ovation.

MAYOR BRADBURN IS NOT PROPOSING IT

In regard to a proposed public meeting at which municipal candidates would be given an opportunity of expressing their opinion upon current questions, Mayor Bradburn stated that he had not been directly approached and had had nothing to do with any proposals. The Examiner has heard the matter briefly discussed by one or two aldermen, but there has been nothing material suggested.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

"TEMPLE OF CHILDHOOD" SCHEME IS EXPOSED

Vast and Complex Scheme Has Been Exploited in the Principal Cities of Canada.

LOCAL PEOPLE INTERESTED

Are you a fond parent?"

Is your income $5,000 a year or upwards?

Then be on your guard, for you are more than likely to have your paternal or maternal pride "touched" in a most original way before long.

There is a vast and complex scheme on foot in the United States to discover all fond parents who earn not less than $5,000 a year and ring them into the "Temple of Childhood" scheme, which is a concession granted by the Panama-Pacific international exposition to be held in San Francisco in 1915.

If you receive a very dignified (as to stationery) and formal (as to wording) communication one of these days announcing that your Mary or Tommy "has been honoured by selection" for the display of Peterborough's beautiful children to be given at the exposition, don't permit your heart to grow warm toward these gentlemen who, away down in Frisco, have heard of the attractions of your child here in Peterborough. And don't reply to the letter at once. For, if you restrain your eagerness you will begin to receive letters which are known to the trade as "follow-up forms," and the anxiety of the writers to exhibit a portrait of your child will serve to make you suspicious.

The letters will tell you that your child having been "selected," all you have to do is to take him or her down to a certain photographer (name given), who will make a portrait of the child. It might do no special harm to try the scheme out thus far, but you will discover the photographer to be extremely anxious to sell you a dozen or two photographs on the side—and, if you don't "fall" for this, there is a chance that you will not receive the certificate of representation.

How the Plan is Worked.

Oh, yes, there is such a concession as the Temple of Childhood at the San Francisco exposition—that is, arrangements have been made for one. But it isn't an official baby show; it is a purely private money-making scheme.

The scheme is this: A company secured the concessions for the Temple of Childhood. This temple is to be hung with tens of thousands of child photographs and portraits — though many of them will, of necessity, be stored away in stacks of albums. The rest of the temple will be devoted to commercial exhibits of baby foods and other articles.

But who pays?

But who pays?

There's the rub. You and the photographer—the both of you pay!

But how—when it is so free and generous a proposition?

What the Photographer Does.

Here's the scheme as it relates to the photographer: In each city a pretty nifty photographer is selected as the "official" picture maker for the temple. If he bites, he is presented with a contract, the terms of which are:

1.—That he will pay $125 for his appointment. 2.—That he will collect and send to the temple authorities the names of 5,000 children of "prominent families. 3.—That for each name he sends in he will remit the sum of ten cents—making $800 that he sends with the 5,000 names. 4.—That he will remit to the temple authorities, month by month, 25 per cent. of all the business he does by reason of fond parents being sent to his studio and perchance inveigled into ordering more than one "free" picture.

This is the crux of the whole scheme. If the photographer falls for the proposition, the only way he can get his money out of it is by persuading parents to have a dozen or two more photos taken. But the negatives go to the kindly people in Frisco, and if you want one to give your friend when you tell that Tommy has been honoured by selection for the display at Frisco fair, you must get your photos from them at their price, through the nifty photographer aforesaid.

The money in this for the benevolent syndicate is enormous. They bleed the photographer in the first place and place him in a position where his only hope of making any money or even coming out whole is to help them bleed you—if you'll fall for it.

It is known that several local people are interested in the "Temple Childhood" scheme and arrangements have been made to include a number of Peterborough juveniles among the "honoured selection."

Presentation To Teacher

Miss Agnes Holland Honoured by Pupils

On the afternoon of Monday, Dec. 22nd, the parents and friends of the pupils gathered at S.S. No. 1 Douro, where a most enjoyable time was spent. An interesting programme was rendered by the pupils and later Santa Claus paid the school a visit and distributed gifts to all from a well-laden Christmas tree.

At the conclusion of the programme the pupils presented their teacher, Miss Agnes Holland, with a handsome umbrella and the following address. The address was read by Mamie Cavanagh, while Annie Cavanagh made the presentation:

Dear Teacher,—We, the pupils of this school could not allow this "Happy Festive Time" to pass over, without in some way showing that we have appreciated your most trying efforts on the behalf of our welfare.

And now in remembrance of us all we ask you to accept this umbrella, not for its intrinsic value, but as a memento of the years we spent together.

We each and every one join in wishing you a "Merry Xmas" and a "Happy New Year."

Signed on behalf of the school,
MAMIE CAVANAGH,
ANNIE CAVANAGH,
CHAS. WHIBBS,
JOS. SHEEHAN.

Miss Holland replied, thanking the children for their gift and good wishes, and the pleasant afternoon ended with the singing of the National Anthem.

"There must be," contended his mother. "else why did the little boy burst?"

James passed his plate for the fourth time, saying: "Not enough boy."

Why A Police Woman Is Needed Here

(Supplied by the Local Women's Council)

The women of Peterborough, through their representative body—the Womens Council — hold that health and morality have first claim upon public funds. They believe that, since a large proportion of our women and girls are now a part of the working world, they are legitimately entitled to the kind of police protection which women feel will be most effective. Our whole conception of the Police Department and its administration has been dignified, and a new insight and appreciation given, to all who heard Mrs. Alice Stebbens Wells' address. It was her remark that police work would, in the near future, rank equally with law, medicine and engineering. Arresting people is not the sum and substance of a police officer's duty—in a way an officer is the guardian of the community. We do not give our Chief the support he deserves. He cannot adequately discharge his responsibilities with a force ofonly nine men. The appointment of a police woman would insure the most useful service along preventive and protective lines where women are concerned—they hesitate in many cases to go to a policeman for advice or help.

"We have two police women and two police matrons and we find them of great service."— Colonel Denison, Magistrate of Toronto.

"None can deal so well with women as women. . . they can always get the desired information from women that a man cannot in many cases."— Staff Inspector Gregory, Toronto.

"Our opinion is that they will be of very great service in detecting and preventing breaches of the law that would otherwise escape the notice of men on the force. . . and in saving young people from entering upon a career of crime."— Chairman Police Commission, Ottawa.

"I am not opposed to the appointment of a police woman and will welcome her presence on the force should the Police Commissioners appoint one."—Chief Thompson, Peterborough.

GAVE A CONCERT AT THE HOME

Young People of All Saints Rendered a Splendid Programme

The Young People of All Saints' Church went to the Protestant Home last evening and entertained the inmates to a very delightful musical programme. The choir, under the direction of Mr. Geo. Chandler, rendered two anthems. Mr. Chandler sang in splendid voice, "Mary of Argye." Others who contributed songs were Miss M. Williams, "The Holy City," Mr. Geo. Allin, "My Ain Folk," and Mr. Boddy, "The Friar of Orders Grey." Mrs. Boddy gave a violin selection, "The Bohemian Girl." The old people were greatly pleased with the various numbers and should this organization ever return to the Home, they will be given a hearty welcome.

The Ideal Winter Resort

While Algonquin Park is far from being a sanatarium, its discovery as the ideal winter resort has been as much as anything due to recent developments in medical science. Those who have found the dampness and the frequent slush of eastern cities unpleasant at the best, but impossible in many cases, have been used to seek relief in the Southern States. It has seemed the simplest remedy both to physician and patient to seek for heat where the cold proved unendurable, but more recently there has been a keen appreciation of the dry frigidity of the north, and that is where the Park steps in. Two thousand feet above the level of the sea, it is always dry and cold, and usually bright. Days spent in snowshoe tramps through primitive forests where every leaf and bough bears its weight of glistening crystals, in the breathless flight of toboggan or ski, and in the ring of steel against the icebound waters of some lake; together with evenings spent in social converse around the cosy warmth of an old-fashioned log fire; these slip away unnoticed, but those who have once experienced them return to their avocations with renewed energies, with hardened muscles, and a grateful memory that forever blots out all thoughts of the relaxing South. Algonquin Park is 200 miles north of Toronto and 235 miles west of Montreal.

The Highland Inn offers most comfortable accommodation at reasonable rates. Write Grand Trunk Agents or resident manager of the Highland Inn for handsome descriptive booklet.

Following His Trade.

Speechless with wrath, a little man was ushered into the court. An ornament of the police force had found him loitering about and had arrested him as a suspicious character.

"What were you doing at the time of your arrest?" asked the weary magistrate.

"Simply waiting!" spluttered the prisoner.

"What were you waiting for?"

"My money."

"Who owed you the money?"

"The man I had been waiting for."

"What did he owe it to you for?"

"For waiting!"

"Do not jest with me," he said. "Now tell me, have you a trade?"

"Of course I have!"

"Then what is it?"

"I earn my living waiting. You see, I'm a waiter!"

TAIL OF NORTH MONAGHAN NOW WAGS THE WHOLE DOG

Residents Near the City, Says Farmer, Largely Responsible for Increased Expenditure Which Falls Equally Upon Whole Township.

INTERESTING SITUATION

Speaking of Byersville's participation in the municipal affairs of North Monaghan, a farmer from the vicinity of the town hall, six or seven miles from the City, stated that it is now a case of the tail wagging the dog.

A few years ago the Township's population was composed almost entirely of farmers. In the old days they built the Town Hall on the back forties. The bulk of the taxpayers lived close by the Gravel Road or south of it, with quite a sprinkling within hailing distance of Springville.

There were no problems in those days. Assessments were low, likewise expenditures and, in consequence, the tax bills received perfunctory greetings. The Township had not developed a tail then, and even up to seven or eight years ago it was like all other care-free, rural districts, running placidly along with scarcely a ripple.

But the City spilled over its south and west boundaries, the newcomers enjoying most of the facilities of City life and the pecuniary advantage of the Township's low taxes. The two particular suburbs "Brintonia" and Byersville have become lusty striplings. Together they would form a town of themselves. At any rate while they were daveloping "growing pains" the outlying part of the township stood still. To-day the tail wags the dog.

The farmer from the back forties points to the increase in this year's taxes—to the sidewalks in the "Brintonia" section, the big new school on the outskirts of Byersville and to certain new streets opened and graded. These were built for the citizens who, he said, "work" both the City and the Township. Up went the taxes, largely on account of the requirements of the new ratepayers who are virtually citizens of Peterborough, and the farmers on the western concessions were caught in the same movement.

The growth of the two suburbs has meant higher taxes for the man six miles out. He cannot help himself.

In addition to this the "citizens" want a stronger voice in the management of the Township affairs. And who is to blame them. Their numbers, even now, give them a certain authority, and it may only be a year or two when they would be strong enough to elect the entire Township Council. The farmer residents would be unable to help themselves.

There was a time when the Township might have cut off the two suburbs. But that was while the tail was in the sprouting stage. It is stated that the suburbs now hold the high cards and any proposal towards annexation will have to come from the "citizen" residents. At that, it is also understood that there is a sufficient number of people in the City holding land in the Township, and, therefore, qualified to vote, who could secure anexation if they so desired. But either they are not interested in the matter, or they prefer the City's southern boundaries to remain as they are.

The residents of "Brintonia" and Byersville have a natural right to the rule of the Township when they constitute a majority; and when more permanent sidewalks are to be laid, and more school accommodation is required, and streets kept in repair the Springville farmers will have to pay their share, as they are doing at present. It is a fine prospect for the "citizen" residents of the Township, up to a certain stage.

THE FORBIDDEN TOPIC

By RUTH CAMERON

"I don't suppose you are ever ill," I said to a friend of mine the other day. She is the hostess of a small private boarding house, she does all the buying and cooking herself, and is busy from morning to night, and yet never too busy to smile. Furthermore, in all our long acquaintance I never heard her make a single complaint about her health. Hence my envious inquiry.

"Never ill?" she said. "Well, since you ask me point blank I'll tell you that I often am. Only nobody knows it. I was sick abed last Wednesday, but I worked hard all day. That's the way I have to be ill, you know."

I recalled Wednesday and remembered that I had seen her sweeping off the front door steps, and that she had called a cheery good morning to me as I passed by, and commented upon the weather, but never a word about her health.

"What [illegible] different attitude [illegible] manner, more [illegible] business, to [illegible] health which the [illegible] woman shows!

I supp[illegible] scraps of [illegible] enormous [illegible] larity [illegible] have something to [illegible] way anywhere [illegible] mean [illegible] our lack of it, as a subject of conversation.

I met a woman whom I know but slightly on a trolley one other day. In answer to my conventional [illegible] she exclaimed, "Well, I am very ill, I'll tell you that much!" It was a perfect stranger to me, you know. She continued about [illegible] of it in general, and in [illegible] giving me an [illegible] of her illness, including a detailed description of the organ removed. "It was in such a terrible condition, my dear, that they didn't see how I lived. The nurse said it was the worst case she ever saw." And yet, as I said before, this woman and I are scarcely more than bowing acquaintances.

Nor are such confidences the exception. On the contrary. "It is a strong and silent man who can forbear telling his diet to a sympathetic listener," says Agnes Repplier. "It is a disciplined woman of the world who never says why she is not eating grape fruit at a luncheon."

Old and young, rich and poor, cultured and ignorant, all classes alike seem enamored of some branch of this universal topic.

"There is one topic peremptorily forbidden to all well bred, to all rational mortals," said Ralph Waldo Emerson, namely, their distempers. If you have not slept, or if you have slept, or if you have headache, or sciatica, or leprosy or thunder stroke I beseech you by all angels to hold your peace, and not pollute the morning to which all the housemaids bring serene and pleasant thoughts by corruption and groans."

If the gentle Concord philosopher was roused to speak thus warmly in the good old days when nervous prostration was unknown and the appendix had scarcely been heard of, I wonder what he would say if he lived to-day.

A DEMAND FOR FAIR PLAY IN ASSESSMENT

In Connection With a General Reference to Civic Matters—The Necessity of Good Business Men in the Council

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Would you kindly tell us how the average elector is to choose between the candidates for municipal honours under present conditions. While each and every one profess their intention if elected to see that the business of the city is carried on economically, yet not one has given the elector whose suffrage he solicits even a glimpse of his opinions on the questions of the hour. How can the elector intelligently exercise his franchise under such conditions. I certainly am in favour of economy, but I should like to know what the candidate I am to vote for has in mind as economy. A growing city like this is cannot stand still. There are improvements and developments that must be attended to. And to try to cut down expenses by neglecting these things would be to keep the city out of its own for years to come. Two years ago when Mr. Hartley was nominated for Mayor, he criticized in his address the growing expenditure of the city, but when I asked him what expenditure he would have cut down on if he had been in power, he could not tell us, can he tell us now? We want a doctor that can not only tell us the disease we suffer from, but one who can prescribe the remedy.

What we want, in my opinion, is some good business acumen to be brought to bear on the city business as it arises, and, not to have things brought on as Alderman Gordon said the Hydro-Electric by-law was, a by-law asking for authority to spend $130,0000 without any definite plans, only a rough survey, "more or less hurried."

This is where the opportunity to economize lies. In the present state of municipal business we want a good business man at the helm, and good business men to support him, and in the absence of any declaration of views, we must judge by the way the candidate has succeeded in his own private business and be guided by that.

In reference to the Dalhousie street bridge, while we all admit that some means of access to the south end of Ashburnham is desirable, yet I certainly think the citizens will wait to see the Hydro tangle unravelled before giving the Council another loose end to get wound around them.

But to my mind the spending of the money is by no means the only place where a change is required. But there is also required a thorough overhauling of the assessment roll. It is alleged that there are many valuable properties in the city that are not assessed at more than a fifth of their value while the workingman's cottage is often assessed up to the hilt. If this is so then I think it is high time that we had the assessment roll published, and have these things evened up, for if these properties were assessed on the same basis as the cottage there would be cash for improvements without raising the rates, and they might even be reduced. Let us have fair play in this matter, and pending a more equitable system of taxation, let us at least have equality of dealing as far as the present system will allow.

Let the rich man pay his fair share with the poor man. I remain,

Yours faithfully,

Geo. Leader.

FIRST DIVIDEND OF THE YORK LOAN

The Probability of About Six Cents Per Share to be Amount of Last Dividend

The York Loan, in spite of the perseverance of the liquidators, seems still far away from its final dividend. There are still many close ends in connection with the realization of the assets that remain to be gathered up. The probability is that the final dividend will be between five and six cents, making the total realized by the shareholders some 55 cents on the dollar.

C.P.R. Withold Salary Increases

TORONTO, Dec. 27.—It is stated on authoritative information here in Canadian Pacific circles that there will be no increases in wages in any department of the road this New Year, except those natural increases which the company is bound to give as result of agreements already entered into with labour unions in settlement of strikes or strike threatenings.

This decision on the part of the management is due to a tightening up of conditions all over Canada and the necessity for careful economy if not absolute retrenchment.

It is understood this will extend all along the line from the president to the humblest office boy on the road.

The supposition is that this order will also affect Canadian Pacific telegraph company, Dominion Express company, and other subsidiary companies.

TEMPERANCE AND POLITICS

(The Christian Guardian, Nov. 26.)

Speaking to the electors in the riding of East Middlesex last week, the Hon. Mr. Lucas, a member of the Government, referred to Sir James Whitney's oft-repeated declaration that he was desirous of doing everything in his power to lessen the evils of intemperance, and earnestly appealed to the electors to keep the temperance issue out of politics. He said; "If you make it a political question you will lose the support of many thousands of earnest people, and you will get in their place many thousands of nominal supporters, who care nothing for temperance, and who will only accept your temperance programme so long as temperance can help their political fortunes."

With this appeal we find ourselves in very hearty accord and so, we believe, will most of our readers. The Christian Guardian has argued this way again and again; the liquor men profess to be of the same mind; Mr. Rowell, speaking for the Opposition, has declared himself in the same way, and surely there should be no difficulty in taking the matter out of politics at once. We believe that this is the most sensible course, and one which would commend itself most heartily to the temperance people. Let it be understood at once that every member of the Legislature is free to deal with this question as a matter of conviction, and let the matter be settled regardless of politics. Surely this would be a wise thing.

But there is a difficulty. The liquor men, in spite of all their protestations, are not willing that this should be done, and so far, we are sorry to say, Sir James Whitney himself has not given the slightest hint that he would agree to such a proposal, and it is well that all should understand just where the difficulty lies.

At present, as we understand it, no temperance Conservative stands any chance of a party pomination, no matter how loyal he may be to the Hydro-Electric nor how much he may admire Sir James and his policy in general, if he is openly in favour of the abolition of the bar or provincial prohibition of the retail sale of intoxicants. If this be the case, and we shall be glad to know that we have been misinformed, the temperance issue is undoubtedly in politics — but it is not there by the action of the temperance men.

We heartily agree that this should be a non-political question, but if politicians persist in making it a matter of party politics and demand that temperance men shall either disavow or be silent concerning their temperance convictions, sooner or later there must inevitably come a break between the temperance and the liquor element in the parties. At present the temperance Conservatives who hate the bar must feel decidedly uncomfortable in opposing its abolition. If the Conservative party were well advised they would not further antagonize the advanced temperance section of their party, nor sacrifice it for the sake of the liquor vote. The open bar is a poor slogan for a political campaign.

Leeds Strike a Fiasco.

LONDON, Dec. 27.—The strike of the municipal workers in Leeds has ended in a farce. Despite the wishes of the leaders the men have returned to work on the city's terms. The strike lasted a fortnight, but there was no public sympathy with the strikers. Indeed, many citizens of all walks in life acted as strike breakers, ran street cars, drove garbage carts and did other menial acts in order to defeat the strikers.

What Dr. Vogt Says Of Miss Hinkle

Who Will Appear Here at Orchestra Concert on January 16th

Mr. Rupert Gliddon of the Peterborough Conservatory, has received the following letter from Dr. A. Vogt, conductor of the Mendelssohn choir, in regard to Miss Hinkle, who will appear here at the orchestra concert on Jan. 16th at the Grand Opera House:

Toronto, Dec. 26, 1913.

Dear Mr. Gliddon,—I am much pleased to learn that you are having Miss Hinkle with you at your forthcoming concert in Peterborough.

She is one of the most satisfactory and brilliant artists before the public at the present time. Our opinion of her may be best judged from the fact that she has now been engaged by the Mendelssohn choir for its Toronto concerts for the fourth consecutive season, besides having appeared with our society in its most recent Buffalo, New York and Boston concerts.

I trust that the people of Peterborough may give this sterling artist the fine reception which her splendid art entitles her to.

Wishing you every success, I am,

Yours truly,
A. S. VOGT.

ROYAL VISIT TO FRANCE

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 27.—It is stated here on good authority that King George and Queen Mary will shortly pay a semiofficial visit to Paris and spend a week or two at the British Embassy there. Already Paris is preparing to receive them with all kinds of festivities.

APACHES ARE BUSY IN PARIS

Examiner Special:

PARIS, France, Dec 27.—Apaches are again busy on the streets of Paris. Yesterday, in broad daylight, three of them, one man and two women held up and shot dead on the main street a wealthy gentleman named Duvre, rifling his pockets and getting away before pedestrians recovered their surprise. Later two suspects were taken by the police.

POULTRY ASSOCIATION

The Peterborough Poultry Association's annual show in the Market Hall on Jan. 6, 7 and 8, promises to be the best and biggest in the history of the Association. Entries from far and near are already coming in while every mail brings more applications for prize lists. Although fifty extra coops have been built, it was announced last night at an enthusiastic meeting that fifty more coops will be needed. The Association will have accommodation for fifteen hundred birds, and it will all be required. At the last show there were eleven hundred on exhibition, and it is plain to see that this number will be exceeded at the coming show.

It will be welcome news that Miss Yates, of Guelph, who has lectured and demonstrated at several shows in the past, has been secured for this occasion, and will lecture on winter egg production and give demonstrations on killing, plucking and shaping and boning and carving.

Prize birds will be denoted this year by handsome badges instead of the ticket formerly used.

There will be another meeting on December 30th, and local exhibitors are requested to have their entries in by that date.

PETERBORO TO BE CENTRE OF "HYDRO" FOR THE DISTRICT

According to Letter to Lakefield Council From Hydro-Electric Commission

The Lakefield Council has received the following reply to a recent communication to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, with reference to supplying power to Lakefield, which bears out the verbal report given by Reeve Fitzgerald, at the last meeting of the Council:

Toronto, Dec. 18th.

Gentlemen,—Referring to your letter of Dec. 10th, regarding the power situation in Lakefield, we wish to advise you that we are at present actively engaged in trying to find the best solution of the problem of supplying power to Peterborough. In considering this we are taking into account the fact that Lakefield will be a large consumer of power as well as Peterborough, and whatever arrangements will be made will be for sufficient capacity so that the requirements of Lakefield will be taken care of. As soon as we are far enough advanced in the settlement of this problem we will be glad to forward a proposition to your municipality.

The contract with Peterborough, as you may well imagine, is but the foundation stone of a system for your district, and you may be sure that the interests of Lakefield will be well cared for.

Yours very truly,
Hydro-Electric Power Commission, of Ontario.

EFFECT OF CATTLE EXPORTS IS FELT ON LOCAL MARKET

It is Believed That the Supply of Beef in Quarters Will Be Much Lower Than Usual This Winter —First Signs To-day

The outside market this morning showed a slim attendance, and it may be expected that throughout the winter season this condition will prevail. The country has been so depleted of meat that the supply remaining in the farmers' hands is decidedly limited. In the past, the winter markets have been characterized by big displays of beef. This morning there were very little offered, and it is likely that during the rest of the season the supply will not be as great as in past years. If this expectation is carried out, it will mean that the purchases of front and hind quarters of beef by citizens will be considerably reduced.

Sleighing Only Fair.

Farmers stated this morning that the sleighing was only fair. Another four or five inches are needed to make the going good. As it was, there were half a dozen loads of wood in, most of it tamarac and mixed wood. Potatoes were scarce and ranged around $1.15 a bag. The frost cut off apples and similar goods. The supply of pork was short. Evidently the farmers felt that the Christmas turkey would be dragged through as many meals as possible. Even the local butchers have stated that the meat demand during the holiday season strikes a low level.

Mutton was selling at 13 and 14c, and lamb at 15, 16 and 17c.

The Inside Market.

Like the outside market, the inside mart was reduced in size. Prices were unchanged. A few cold storage eggs were offered at forty cents a dozen, while a few of more recent vintage were disposed of at forty-five cents. Butter was fairly plentiful and sold for thirty cents a pound. The remnants of the Christmas poultry was offered at the following prices: Turkeys 22c a pound, chickens $1 per pair, geese $1.75 each, and ducks $1.65 a pair.

TANGO DEAD IN LONDON

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 27.—In the amusement world the main development is the decline of the tango. This craze was the shortest and sharpest on record. For one month London talked nothing but tango. Everyone from shop girls to Duchesses learned the tango. To-day the boom is dead. People said the dance was too difficult for general use. There are signs that it will be followed by the minuet. Dancing is London's favourite recreation this winter. More public and private balls are being held than ever before.

LAKEFIELD CEMENT PLANT IS CLOSED.

Mr. Wm. Graham, acting for the Lakefield Board of Trade, sent a letter to the Canada Cement Co., enquiring their reason for closing down their Lakefield plant, also when it would be re-opened, and received the following reply, which will no doubt be of interest to our citizens:

W. M. Graham, Esq.,
For the Lakefield Board of Trade,
Lakefield, Ont.

Dear Sir—Replying to yours of December 15th, I regret that lack of business made it necessary for us to stop operating our mill situated at Lakefield. We trust that business will soon revive that we shall again be able to operate this mill.

Yours truly,
E. P. Jones
(General Manager.)

Memorable Function is Anticipated by the Guests Invited

Th Police Department of the City of Peterborough will hold a banquet on New Year's Eve in the Court Room of the Police Station, which promises to be a memorable function. The members of the force are looking after the arrangements, and nothing that can add to the pleasure of the occasion will be overlooked in the preparations. Chief Thompson is superintending everything in connection with the dinner, and the guests are looking forward to the banquet with a good deal of happy anticipation.

The men of the City buildings, the Police Commissioners and their wives will be invited to attend, as well as a few others who will spend the New Year's Eve the guests of the Police Department and its efficient head, Chief Thompson.

FIVE DEGREES BELOW ZERO

The temperature showed a marked decline of many points on Friday evening, with the result the weather man was able to announce this morning a new low record for the season. The official reading was five degrees below zero. The way the frost king made himself felt brought joy to the hearts of the coal man, also the hockey fans.

The management of the Brock St. Skating Rink worked through until early morning in an effort to produce an initial surface of ice. Skating conditions on the canal were also improved as a result of the drop in temperature.

Railway Service Suspended.

The weather was conducive to the formation of anchor ice. This was responsible for a temporary suspension of the street railway service between the hours of nine o'clock and eleven. The cars were stalled all over the system, until finally sufficient power was secured to facilitate their removal to the car barns.

There is every likelihood that the present cold spell will continue for a few days. A fact which will be appreciated by the community generally.

WATCH NIGHT SERVICE AT THE ARMY TEMPLE

Adjt. McElhiney of the Salvation Army, is making arrangements for a memorial service in the early part of New Year's eve, followed by a big watch night service, extending from 10.30 to shortly after midnight. The first service will be in memory of members of the corps who passed away during the year. The Adjutant is endeavouring to secure picture slides of Capt. Watkins, Bandsman Arthur Jones, Mr. Naish and others, and will present them on a screen by the use of a lantern. Further details will be announced early in the week.

The arrangements for the watch night service have not been completed. It will likely be held in the Temple, although Adjutant McElhiny stated a service in which all the churches would be represented would please him. It could be held in some large hall, and the band would take part in it. However, there has been no intimation of a service of this kind, and it is probable that the Army will hold its own watch night in the Temple. It will be made a big feature and the programme will be announced in a few days.

HE WAS AFRAID TO GO HOME IN THE LIGHT

That the new Magnetite lights have their drawbacks is evidenced by the story of a local man who imbibed not wisely but too well the other day. He was not so far gone as to fail to recognise the insdvisability of his presenting himself to the public gaze in such a condition and decided to remain in the hotel until after dark before making an attempt to get home. He went to sleep and that evening sallied forth to make the break for his fireside. One glance at the brilliantly illuminated street was enough. He staggered back into the hotel, exclaiming, "This is worse than ever. What time do they turn those blanked lights out." He had to wait until midnight.

FAMOUS INSIDE RIGHT IS OUT AFTER A TRANSFER

Sunderland Directors Will Make an Effort to Smooth Matters Over--Morton Mean to Emulate the Celtic in Successive Victories--Old Country Soccer Notes of Interest

The startling news has come to hand that Charlie Buchan, Sunderland's famous inside right winger, has asked to be placed on the transfer list on account of certain alleged barracking he received at the hands of a certain section of the Wearside spectators in a recent game. There can be no doubting the Sunderland directors will make an effort to smooth matters over, as his loss would be in the nature of a grave calamity at the present time.

Don't be surprised if you hear of Bob Crumley shifting his quarters. The cup ties are coming on.

Faint heart never won a football match, but Gallacher's feints did against the 'Onians at Broomfield.

Morton mean to emulate the Celtic in successive victories. They have won their last seven games.

Even in the brightest Dundee days Lawson never surpassed the fine display he gave against Celtic last Saturday.

Falkirk are satisfied that Lennie will prove a valuable partner to Croal once he gets the rust of idleness rubbed off him.

Dundee is wanting to know all about Len Wall. They have heard about him, and I made it my business to meet him when he arrived in Dundee.

Said he: "I am glad to meet a friend. I have met plenty of the other sort."

You see, Leonard Wall has always been up against it.

"Then you are glad to be in Scotland?" I remarked to him, when he stepped off the train.

"Well," said he, with emphasis, "I am glad to be away from Manchester. I hope I never see the place again."

"They play football here, you know, Len."

"I'm glad of that."

"Don't They Appreciate Football in England?"

"They do when it spells goals. That's what they live for."

"What position do you prefer?"

"Well, to tell you the truth, I am willing to play in any position, but the place which is most to my liking is centre-half. I am coming amongst old friends. Tom Kelso met me at the station. We are going to fish for filleted haddocks on Friday—at the docks. We'll get there. What I am more concerned about, however, is points.

"I would not like it to be thought that I am capable of turning Dundee's luck because of any ability which I may possess. I hope I do, however. My wish is from a player's point of view, that I will be able to give what service I can to take Dundee up to that position which they were wont to occupy."

"How do you think you will get on in Scottish football?"

"Well, from what I know of my pals in Scotland, and from what they have told me, I think my style of play will suit all right. If it don't, well, it won't be for the want of trying."

"What did you think of Manchester?"

When I put the question to Len I knew what his experience with the city had been.

Said he: "I never wish to see the place again. I have come here to do the best I can for the club, and if my best is not good enough—well, I can't help it. I'll do my best. Can anyone do more?"

Scotch Nuggets.

I do not think Dundee will regret its latest deal with Manchester City. In Len Wall they have secured a half-back who ought to be a tremendous value to them at the present time, for not since Herbert Dainty left for Bradford, and Albert Lee went to Southampton, has the line been even a shadow in its former greatness.

I cannot understand the attitude of Manchester City towards Wall. I am rather inclined to the belief that they never thoroughly understood the lad. He had his peculiarities, but they were all wrapped up in the desire for fun. Humour oozes out of every pore of his skin, and never a more wholehearted fellow fought more strenuously for his side than Len.

While he was with Glossop, he was a player after one's own heart; in fact, I don't think there is a position on the field which he could not fill with credit to himself and value to his side. I have seen him at inside left and when he hits the ball with that left foot of his, there's usually something doing. It is, however, as a centre-half that his value is most apparent.

It may come as an interesting item of information to London as well as to Dundee people to learn that the Dens Park club were very anxious to secure George Hunter, but the price mentioned for his transfer proved an insuperble barrier to a deal. George would certainly have been a valuable addition to the playing strength of the team, but in Len Wall they will not be badly served. The one feature of his play which attracts me to him is his delightful slipping on of the ball to the forwards, and in this respect I fancy he will be appreciated to a greater extent in Scotland than in England, where speed is the quality which is most admired in a player.

Wall will be a success. Of that I am certain.

He arrived in Dundee on Wednesday night, had a canter on Thursday, and will play on Saturday.

The Tayside directors will make a great blunder if they do not avail themselves of the opportunity of playing Len at centre-half. Philip could occupy either wing position.

Leeds City Was Victorious

Many Surprises in English Soccer Circles

Many surprises were registered in English soccer circles in the Boxing Day games. The Rovers, who trounced Preston at Blackburn Christmas Day by 5 to 2, were only able to get away with a tie yesterday, while Everton repeated their victory of Christmas over Manchester United. Manchester were luckier at Hyde Road yesterday than they were at Anfield Lane and they break even with Liverpool, having one win each. Bradford City took two points off Newcastle at Park Avenue, beating them by 2 to 0.

Leeds City Again Victorious.

The "Peacocks" have a chance to crow now, having captured four points off Fulham in two days, the score Christmas Day at Leeds was 2 to 1, and yesterday at Fulham 1 to 0. Glossop avenged their 6 to 0 defeat at Birmingham Christmas Day by taking the "Brum" boys into camp Monday, and trimming them to the tune of 4 to 1. Hull City was another of the teams to get a 4 to 1 decision and thus two five successive games over the same team. Notts Forest, the tail enders of the second division, took a fall out of Notts County, the leaders, and beat them 1 to 0.

Swindon at it Again.

Swindon Town whitewashed Bristol Rovers yesterday by 5 to 0. The result yesterday was 5 to 2 in favour of the "Rovers." Crystal Palace and Southend United played a goaless draw at the Palace, while Gillingham were whitewashing Watford on the former's ground. Plymouth Argyle was another of the teams who reversed the decision of Christmas Day by beating Millwall Athletic.

Senators Are Already After New Players

OTTAWA, Dec. 25. — The Ottawa Baseball Club will certainly not be short of players next season, judging from the recent acquisitions to the mail of Manager Frank Shaughnessy. Yesterday he received a letter from the president of the Richmond club, of the Virginia League, in which he offered to trade or sell to the Ottawas six youngsters of exceptional promise. They all played in the Virginia League League last summer, and their records show that they did real good work. Two are pitchers, and another an infielder. An outer gardener is also included in the group offered to the Ottawas. Manager Shaughnessy intends to reply at once, and will probably take an option on three or four of the men. What the Ottawas will be in need of when the season begins is a shortstop to replace Crowder, who has been given his release; pitchers to substitute for Ed. Renfer, who will not return, and for 'Lefty' Rogers, who says that he has hurled his last game; an outfielder to pair off with Shaughnessy and Rogers, and an utility infielder to "sub" when necessary for "Dusty" Bullock or Frank Smykal. Teach, the Brantford shortstop, looks good for a position on the Ottawa team, and Smykal may have several rivals for second place. Several of the players who were let go at Fort Wayne want trials again.

Train in Fort Wayne.

It is the intention of the Ottawa club to report about twenty players. They will likely train at Fort Wayne again, as that is an ideal spot. The candidates will arrive about May 1, but Manager Shaughnessy and a couple of pitchers will go down earlier, in order to get in a little extra training.

The make-up of the Canadian League for 1914 will not be decided until a meeting takes place at Toronto early next month. Erie is enthusiastic about coming in, and may have the territory organized in time. On the other hand, Guelph citizens are so anxious to retain their membership that they have offered to buy back the franchise which Mr. George O'Neil, of London, purchased from Owner Mahoney. They are ready to form a joint stock company and guarantee to place on the field one of the strong est clubs that has ever represented the Maple Leaf club.

Will Incorporate Club.

It is probable that the Ottawa Baseball Club will apply for incorporation in the near future, and that some of the leading citizens of the capital will be added to the directorate. A limited issue of stock will be subscribed, but the controlling interests will be retained by the original promoters. The by-law, giving the Ottawas another year's lease on the Lansdowne Park field will be passed at the first meeting of the council next month. One thing the council ought to do is to patch up the holes in the fence, and thus help the club in its crusade against dead-heads. The Ottawas spent several hundred dollars last year for police protection, but it was impossible, because of the rickety old fences and the many open gates, to keep them out. The one solution would be a twelve-foot portable fence around the playing area.

"Lefty" Rogers states that he has pitched his last game and that he will insist on a proviso in his contract stipulating that his duties shall be confined to exercise on other parts of the field. Rogers would like to become a manager, but there is no chance of the Ottawas letting him go.

Frank Kubat, the Ottawa pitcher, will likely be sent to Richmond next year. He is anxious to spend a year in the south, and can be used in trade.

Petie Powers will be one of Ottawa's regulars next season. He showed great promise toward the close of last season. Petie is playing hockey at Cleveland.

Peterborough Club May Get Deneau In Trade With The London Club

The London Advertiser says: The Peterborough Club is the latest Canadian League Club to negotiate with Rube Deneau, London's late leader. The Peterborough management, at the club's annual meeting last week, decided to look for a new man to handle the team in place of Davy Rowan, and Rube Deneau was one of the men spoken of for the position. The Petes would like to get Deneau, and a trade may be pulled off with the London Club, whereby Frank Fox may go back to London and Rube may come to Peterborough. London needs a third baseman, and Fox looks as good as anybody for the position. He would have held that job with the London team last season had he not sprained his ankle. Frankie Fox is a good hitter and fast man on the bases. He would like to get back to London, and the Cockneys would be materially strengthened with him holding down the third hesitating point. Fox is a good shortstop as well as third baseman, and he is slated for Harry Brant's job with Peterborough next season.

The London Club would do well to grab Fox if such a trade can be arranged. The local club will have to dispose of Deneau some time, and to trade him for Fox would be a popular move with local fans. There is no doubt that Fox is a good ball player, and would round out the London infield to a nicety. The local club needs a shortstop and a third baseman, and will have some trouble securing men as good as Fox without having to purchase them. It looks like a good trade from both standpoints. Fox hit .273 with the Peterborough Club, playing in 38 games. He was handicapped badly by his injured ankle, which bothered him all season. He should be in good shape again by next spring.

PRACTICE TO-NIGHT

Juniors and Intermediates Will Work Out at Brock Street Rink

The first hockey practice of the season will be held to-night at Brock Street Rink, at 7 o'clock, when the Intermediates and Juniors will work out together for an hour. Next week, if the cold weather continues, both squads will be hard at work, preparing for the opening of the season. The Intermediates will practice on Monday and Wednesday nights of next week and on Thursday morning, while the Juniors will work out on Tuesday night and Thursday morning.

All candidates for the teams are expected out to-night at 7 o'clock, and are asked to bring their outfits, sticks, etc., with them.

Derocher Starred At Cleveland

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 26.—By scoring two goals in the second half of tonight's game at the Elysium, the Cleavland A. C. hockey team defeated the Ottawa College sextette in a fast but rather rough contest by the score of 2 to 1. The game was marked by an exhibition of ill-feeling on both sides which sometimes developed into a regular fight. No less than nine penalties were inflicted by the officials for rough tactics, and at a conservative guess, more than twice this number of fouls were committed outside the vision of the officials.

The Canadians got the edge in the first half, when Braitwaite caged a goal after two minutes and 48 seconds of play. The rubber had gone behind the Cleveland goal, and after it was brought out, a scrimmage occurred in front of the cage. Braithwaite hooked the puck from under the skates of several C. A. C. players, and with a short shot evaded Chapman, lodging the disc in the net. That score was the only one of the half.

During the first half the playing of Derocher, the Ottawa cage guardian, was a feature. Time after time some C. A. C. player would rush down the ice, horse the puck past the two defence men, and make a shot at the goal, but Derocher was always in front of these shots, and altogether he turned away twelve shots from his cage, no one of which was an easy task.

Hockey--That's All

The chief surprise to Toronto fans in the publication of the official N. H. A. list is the absence of Andy Kyle's name from the Toronto list. He has been signed, but the Maritime agreement evidently kept him off the official roll call. He will likely sub for the Toronto defence to-morrow night. Doherty appears on the Ontario list, and the news will bring joy to the hearts of those who will follow the fortunes of that team, for Doherty is a big husky forward who will fit in well with the rest of that husky Ontario squad.—Toronto Star.

Ed. Hogan, who was a candidate for a defence position on the local Junior O.H.A. team, will not be available this year. He is employed by F. R. J. MacPherson and Company, and was sent this morning to Smith's Falls, where that company is commencing a big contract. Hogan will be away all winter. He has been training for a month in an effort to catch the local team.

LONDON'S PAUPER PROBLEM

Special Cable to The Examiner.

LONDON, Eng., Dc. 27.—London, amid her Christmas prosperity, is studying the problem of pauperism. This city now supports over one hundred thousand paupers, excluding lunatics. Of these 72,000 are wholly maintained in institutions. The "Times" annual review, which is classic on the question, shows the total is steadily diminishing. Five years ago it reached the highwater mark of 130,000. Last year it was 110,000. The reduction is mainly due to old age pensions. Pauperism costs London nearly twenty millions, yearly. The "Times" pleads for greater simplicity in administration. Paupers are now being relieved by 29 separate boards of guardians. It also asks for the revision of our educational system, which will secure for children leaving school an equipment which will prevent them later on from stepping over the boundary line of pauperism. Voluntary agencies for dealing with paupers have greatly increased. Usually reformers while admitting that London must always have a large army of dependent poor, sick, orphans, and the like, it is believed the present total will be greatly reduced through the working of the Insurance Act and through land reform which will remove the conditions which now drive the country labourers to the City.

BUFFALO MAN SHOOTS HIMSELF

Examiner Special:

BUFFALO, N.Y., Dec. 27.—Returning from Utica with her two children, where they spent Christmas, Mrs. Gordon F. Mathews, found the body of her husband in the bathroom in their handsome residence in Park Side district. There was a bullet in his heart, apparently self inflicted. Mathews was to have joined his family in Utica Christmas Day. He was last seen by his friends at a banquet on Christmas eve. No motive is assigned. His business and domestic affairs supposedly being exceptionally happy. He was 38 years of age.

Stock Markets

A. H. Stratton & Co., Brokers, report the following:

There was some irregularity in the Stock Market to-day on account of realizing for profit and short selling by traders who think the recovery has gone far enough for the present. On reactions from present prices we believe the best issues, particularly those having good rallying powers, may be bought again. There is no doubt that the technique of the general market is not now what it was. Some element of strength has been taken from it and on that account certain groups of stocks may "rest" and hesitate. Then will come the list of the absorption. We believe the restoration of confidence will show itself at such times by purchases in reactions. The room trading element is endeavouring to bring reactions in U.P., Rdg., A.C.P., and U.S., which they say are entitled to hesitate. On recessions they will be well taken. Lower priced stocks in the railway list will be found more in favour, including Erie first, and St. Paul. The tractions may be put higher in the near future.

THE TIE THAT BINDS ALL HEARTS

They lived down on the south side, where houses were cheap — in more ways than one—this big family.

Seven children, father and mother —and very little else.

It was within a day of Christmas

John was a watchman in the foundry yards—but the strike had thrown him out of employment. He now worked at what he could get.

Too proud to beg, John tried to keep the wolf from the door. Thank God, as yet they were in good health.

It was the last crust—without butter. It was the last can of condensed milk—and no sugar. Bread and milk—and health—

And the day before Christmas.

John did not drink. He was a kind father and loving husband. He simply couldn't get work enough to save much ahead.

Mary looked squarely into her father's face that night and asked "Papa, are we goin' to have any Christmas presents?"

What an agonizing moment!

John's face paled at the inquiry.

His wife looked away in dread How her heart bled for the little ones! How well she knew that not a penny could they spare. But listen:

"Yes, dear girl, you children will all have Christmas presents."

"Why, John!" exclaimed the mother in astonishment. "You know—"

John left the table, swallowed the lump in his throat and went out into the night.

Snow was falling. He would sweep walks and earn money, but everyone would wait until the morning. He tried to get work. "Nothing available!"

He would not go back emptyhanded.

Then John told of how he had lost his job because of the strike, how he had hunted work in vain, how he had promised his children some Christmas presents, how he had stolen from the meter to fulfill that promise.

The judge had children, the big policeman had children, the reporter had a little one at home—

And tears trickled down their cheeks at the tale.

"Dismissed"—said the judge, and added—

"Here's a dollar. Come and shovel my walk in the morning."

"Here's another," said the policeman.

"I want a man to tend my furnace," said the reporter.

And John's children awoke on Christmas morning to find the promised toys. And the good wife was busy preparing a real Christmas dinner out of the supply that John brought home that night.

THREE FORMS OF EYE TROUBLE

Are commonly met with—any of which may have existed from birth Nature does not always make perfect eyes. We have near-sightedness, far-sightedness and astigmatism, which is a form of irregular sight. All of these defects require attention. If a child has any of these defects and is expected to do close work of any kind he must have his eyes carefully examined and wear such glasses as will correct the refraction of his eyes. As well expect a child born with one leg shorter than the other to walk without limping as to ask one born with imperfect vision to do accurate eye work without suffering the consequences. Call any day.

Dance Was Great Success

Enjoyable Affair in the Conservatory Hall Last Night

One of the most enjoyable dances of the season was the annual ball under the auspices of the gentlemen of Peterborough in the Conservatory of Music Hall last night. About one hundred and seventy-five were present, the guests including quite a large number of those home from outside points for the Christmas vacation. Fralick's orchestra provided enjoyable music. Mr. T. H. Hooper catered for the occasion very satisfactorily.

Preparations For Nomination Day

Municipal Gladiators Are Preparing to Enter the Arena—An Eleventh Hour Surprise

Monday is nomination day, or the day upon which the candidates for municipal honours will formally declare themselves. One week will then elapse before election day, when the fate of the candidates will be determined, together with the two money by-laws—one to provide the sum of $78,000 for the construction of a new bridge across the Otonabee river and the other to authorise the expenditure of $8,000 for a motor driven chemical fire engine.

A Public Meeting.

The week intervening between nomination and election day will doubtless witness some keen competition among the municipal gladiators. It is altogether probable that a public meeting will be held in the Grand Opera house sometime during the week, when the candidates will have an opportunity of soliciting the suffrage of the electors, from the public platform.

Very little interest is being manifested at the present time in the two money by-laws.

An eleventh-hour surprise is anticipated, in the announcement of Mr. James Kendry, ex-M.P., as a candidate for the mayoralty. There are many who are prepared to accept this as conclusive, and would not be surprised, if it were confirmed by the appearance of Mr. Kendry on Monday.

Hours of Nomination.

Nominations for aldermen will be held from twelve until one o'clock at the following places. Centre Ward, Council Chamber; South Ward, Louis Spry's, 210 Stewart street; East Ward, former Village Hall; North Ward, Mrs. Lee's, Smith street; West Ward, N. Routley's, 392 Brock street. Nominations for Mayor, Water Commissioners, and members of the Board of Education will be held in the Council Chamber between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock.

SEGDEN—BYRNE.

The marriage was solemnized on Christmas morning at 7 o'clock in the George Street Methodist Church by the pastor, Rev. R. J. Peever, of Miss Helen Jean Byrne, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Byrne, George street, to Mr. A. H. Segden, of this city, and formerly of Stratford. The bride, who was given away by her mother, entered the church to the strains of the wedding march, played by the organist, Mr. J. H. Renwick. The bride and groom were unattended. A large number of the intimate friends of the bride witnessed the ceremony. The bride was becomingly attired in a tailored suit of navy blue and white marquisette blouse, with a black velvet hat. She wore a corsage bouquet of white roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Segden, accompanied by Mrs. Byrne, left on the 8:45 train for Toronto, where a reception was tendered them at the home of Mrs. Byrne's niece, Mrs. Schunk, Dundas street. Later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Segden left Mr. and Mrs. Schunks' mid showers of confetti for Stratford, where they will be the guests of Mr. Segden's father. On their return they will reside with the bride's mother, on George street. Their many friends will extend them hearty congratulations.

XMAS CONCERT AT ST. JAMES'

The annual Christmas entertainment of the St. James' Methodist Church Sunday school was held last night and was a grand success, the occasion being featured by a very large attendance, which filled the gallery and the body of the Church. There were two big Christmas trees, artistically decorated and heavily laden with gifts, all the junior pupils being remembered. In addition there were some surprises for some of the leaders. Mr. C. B. Greene of the Willing Works, received a silk parasol, Miss Mary Collins, superintendent of the Primary Department, a pearl sunburst, and Mr. Prest, superintendent of the Sunday school, a study chair.

An enjoyable programme was presented. A pantomine, "Nearer My God to Thee," by Mrs. Brown's class, was a feature. The orchestra rendered some fine music and a number of slides on the "Life of Christ," were appreciated.

St. James' Sunday school is in a very flourishing condition. The attendance last Sunday was 359 and a year ago 246.

ASSAILS WATCHMAN

Hamilton Man Says Relative Attacked and Tied Him

CULPRIT STILL AT LARGE

HAMILTON, Dec. 29. — Frank Stevens, a middle-aged nightwatchman, who resides on Holmes avenue, West Hamilton, is in a precarious condition in the city hospital as the result of being brutally assaulted in the basement of Stanley Mills & Co.'s store in the neighborhood of nine o'clock last night. The first intimation that anything had happened was given by the victim when he rushed to James street from the alleyway in the rear of the store with blood streaming down his face, screaming at the top of his voice that he had been robbed. Stevens' hands were tied behind his back and his clothes were covered with flour. Constable Hardon rushed to the man, and after receiving the keys with the words, "He's got all the money and is in there yet," entered the building.

In the meantime police headquarters had been notified, and a squad of officers and constables quickly arrived. Despite a thorough search nobody was found in the building.

The victim affirmed that he was assaulted by a relative who had called at the store, about 8.30 o'clock, with a message.

An eye-witness stated that he saw the man rush from the building and disappear in the direction of York street, but the authorities were unable to get any trace of the man in that direction.

The police found the basement in a state of the utmost confusion. Flour strewn about, upturned stools and clots of blood on the flour told the story of a furious battle which had recently been waged. On a counter nearby was found the coat and hat of the culprit. In the pockets of the coat two revolvers, a length of wire rope and a blood-stained handkerchief were discovered.

Members of the firm were brought to the place, but a hasty investigation failed to reveal any theft.

Stevens was reported this morning to be in a serious condition, suffering from a severe gash over the temple and several minor lacerations about the face.

Servian War Minister Resigns.

BELGRADE, Dec. 29. — Another Cabinet crisis is imminent. The War Minister resigned yesterday owing to the refusal of the Cabinet to pass the war budget.

The Changing Age

Girls and boys from 14 to 19 years of age undergo physical changes which tax their strength to the utmost and the strain is always apparent from pale cheeks, colorless lips, and tired bodies—sometimes eruptions of the skin and the utter lack of the ambition and animation with which their younger years were filled.

Budding into womanhood and manhood, with the duties of school or business, demands concentrated nourishment which is readily convertible into red blood corpuscles, energy and strength, and the very best thing for this changing age is the medical nutriment in Scott's Emulsion—it possesses the rare blood-making properties of cod liver oil in a predigested form; hypophosphites for the nervous system, with the healing, soothing qualities of pure glycerine.

Its nourishing force promotes assimilation, yields direct returns in abundant, red blood, fills hollow cheeks, tones the nerves, makes all good food do good, and does it in a natural easy manner.

The sustaining nourishment in Scott's Emulsion is so helpful to this changing age that it should never be neglected—every druggist has it.

J. C. RYKERT PASSES.

He Was Sole Survivor of First Ontario Legislator.

ST. CATHARINES, Dec. 29.—John Charles Rykert, K.C., who was long prominent in the political life of the province and Dominion, died Saturday night after having been an invalid for over four years. He was born in St. Catharines three months less than eighty-three years ago, and was the oldest resident of the city in point of continuous residence.

His Parliamentary career began in 1860 when, as a Conservative, he was elected to the Parliament of Upper and Lower Canada. In the year following he was returned by acclamation, sitting until Confederation, when he was elected to the first Ontario Legislature, of which he was the last surviving member. In 1871 he was again returned to the Legislature by acclamation. In 1875 he was defeated by Capt. Sylvester Neelon, who was unseated and disqualified. Mr. Rykert was elected again in 1876. During his time in the local House he, with the late Sir M. C. Cameron and A. Boultbee, furnished the chief opposition in the House to the Mowat Government for several years.

In 1878 Mr. Rykert was elected to the Dominion House and was again returned in 1882, 1887 and 1891, going down to defeat with his party in 1896. He had campaigned in the Conservative interests in every constituency in Ontario, and had spoken as often as five times in a day.

Mr. Rykert was the son of George Rykert, U. E. Loyalist, who came from New York State and opened a banking business here, and who was defeated for Parliamentary honors by the late Hon. W. H. Merritt, the builder of the first Welland Canal. He was educated at Upper Canada College and called at Osgoode Hall in 1853.

He was a prominent horticulturist, and was one of the pioneers in the fruit growing industry. He was a judge of fruit at the Chicago World's Fair in 1893. For forty years he was a member of the Agricultural and Arts Association of Ontario, and was three times elected president.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 29.—That Enrique Gerostieta, Minister of Justice, will become President of Mexico early in the new year, and that Gen. Huerta will take the field against the rebels who refuse to conform to this arrangement, is the report that has been received with credence by some of the diplomatic representatives here. Gerostieta is to be named Minister of Foreign Affairs, according to the version of the story in circulation, and Gen. Huerta will retire from the Presidency, in which case the Foreign Minister succeeds him.

Senor Gerostieta is well along in years. He was a lawyer at Monterey, who was brought to the capital to take the portfolio of finance, but instead was appointed Minister of Justice.

VICTIMS ARE BURIED

DELEGATIONS POURED IN

CALUMET, Mich., Dec. 29. — The Western Federation of Miners buried its dead yesterday. Fifty-nine bodies, including those of forty-four children, were carried through the streets yesterday down a winding highway and laid in graves in a snow enshrouded cemetery within sight of Lake Superior. Thousands of saddened miners formed the escort of the funeral parties and passed between other thousands, who, as spectators, testified to the grief that has oppressed the community since 72 men, women and children were killed in the Christmas Eve panic in Italian Hall. Four hours the Sabbath calm was broken by the tolling of bells and the sound of voices intoning burial chants. In half-a-dozen churches services were held earlier in the day and the mourners went about the streets, passing from their homes to the church and back to their homes, after brief respites, and again to the churches to prepare for the last sad trip to the graveside.

Delegations of strikers began coming into Calumet early in the day. The special train of nine coaches brought hundreds of federationists from the iron mines of Negaunee and Ishpeming, and every town and mining location in the copper country sent members and friends of the union to swell the ranks of the marchers in the afternoon.

The supply of hearses was inadequate and there were only fourteen of these vehicles in the van. Then came three undertakers' wagons and an automobile truck, the latter carrying three coffins. These vehicles contained the adult victims and the older children.

Behind the hearses was a section of the procession which brought tears and sobs from onlookers. Thirty-nine white coffins, their size testifying to the short life of the little forms within, were carried by relays of strikers. Four men bore each coffin and as their arms grew weary or feet stumbled on the slippery roadway, companions relieved them of their burden.

The last marcher had scarcely started from Calumet before the head of the procession had reached the cemetery gates, two miles away. All but half a dozen of the burials were in common graves dug Saturday by members of the union. The ground belongs to the Federation, and it was stated that a monument will be erected there, the formal dedication to take place a year hence.

The cemetery is in two sections. One is consecrated to the dead of the Roman Catholic faith, the other to those belonging to Protestant denominations. In the former three trenches had been excavated and in these 25 bodies were laid.

RELIEF TOMORROW.

Montreal Hopes for Cessation of Her Water Famine.

MONTREAL, Dec. 29.—While the water situation here remains practically the same, there are hopeful prospects that the citizens will have water by Tuesday, according to a statement made by Controller Godfrey last night. All the excavation work considered necessary for the placing of the steel tubing has been completed, and the last section will be delivered to-day. Until the break in the intake is remedied, the city will have 140 vehicles distributing water to the places and people not already temporarily reached by the arrangement with the Montreal Water & Power Co.

A number of churches were affected. At the First Baptist Church a baptism had to be postponed owing to the impossibility of obtaining sufficient water to fill the large tank used for the ceremony of total immersion.

RUMPUS RIGHT OFF.

New Croatian Parliament Quarrels Over Its Next Meeting.

AGRAM, Croatia, Dec. 29.—The Neo Croatian Diet was formally opened yesterday and was informally adjourned after a brief and riotous session because of the inability of the members to agree peaceably on a date for the next meeting. Dr. Mileusenic, a member of the Opposition, who presided by right of seniority, named next Monday as the day of meeting. This, however, provoked such angry protests that he hastily vacated the chair in favor of Deputy Taskan, a member of the Government party, who ordered that the House should meet again at night.

Several members of the Opposition rushed to the platform and tried to drag him from the chair. His colleagues hastened to his assistance. Blows were exchanged and the fighting soon spread to the floor of the House. The deputies finally vacated the place, finding that it was impossible to transact business.

In accordance with Deputy Taskan's decision that the Diet reassemble Saturday night, Mileusenic and his friends were already in possession. Mileusenic sat in the presidential chair, but did not attempt to open the sitting. He read the newspapers and conversed with friends. This continued until 7.30 o'clock when a quaestor appeared and declared that as Mileusenic was not discharging his duties of the president, Taskan would like to take the chair. Amid a deafening roar on the part of the Opposition, Deputy Taskan advanced and took a position in front of the tribune, but the chairman declined to move. Taskan verified the credentials of some of the members amid a tumult and the sitting had to be suspended.

When the sitting was resumed at 9 o'clock in the evening, Mileusenic still occupied the chair, which he had not left in the interval. Taskan tried to begin the business of the House, but was greeted with an inferno of noise, the Opposition blowing trumpets, beating the covers of typewriting machines and shrieking insulting epithets. The rival presidents produced bells which they continuously sounded.

Fined For Pointing Gun.

STRATFORD, Dec. 29.—Clarence Flynn, for pointing a gun at Mrs. King, was fined $10 and costs by Police Magistrate O'Sloane and T. H. Beattie, J.P. The case arose from a quarrel which occurred two weeks ago at the home of Mrs. Cousens in Downie. Flynn, it appears, had pointed his gun in the direction of Mrs. King, exclaiming, "I can shoot and pay for it." In court he declared this was but an assertion of his rights to shoot in the neighboring bush, and not a threat.

Czarewitch's Condition Serious.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 29.—The Czarewitch's health, according to trustworthy reports, is again giving cause for anxiety. For the last two or three days he has not been well, the cause probably being an effusion of blood brought on by over-exertion. The news is more deplorable, as his health at Livadia previously had been excellent and inspired hopes that his recovery was complete.

UNIONISTS IN CONVENTION

MONTREAL, Dec. 29.—That universities of Canada and the United States while placing no numerical restrictions upon the attendance of Jewish students, as was the case in Europe, none the less observed certain unofficial restrictions against such students, was the statement of Louis Fitch, of Montreal, a graduate of McGill University, at the Zionist banquet Saturday evening. These restrictions, he said, were not officially recognized and were not published abroad, but were still a fact. As a McGill man he had himself felt that there had been a closed door, beyond which Jewish students could not pass. They were not wanted in the Greek letter societies or fraternities, and were seldom or never allowed a hearing in the debates at the McGill University Literary Society meetings.

There was no real sympathy for the Jewish student shown by those connected with the university, Mr. Fitch asserted. They were not treated as were others. In order to have any say at all in the affairs of the university, they had been compelled to form a society of their own and even this was not recognized by the student body, and was ignored altogether in the last issue of the McGill calendar.

It was furthermore, very difficult for a Jew to be elected to any office at the college.

The condition, said Mr. Fitch, were not confined to any one university, but were fairly common, and the young Jew who would obtain advanced education had practically no place to go where he could obtain fair and equitable treatment.

S. W. Jacobs, K.C., president of the Baron de Hirsch Institute, in proposing the health of Canadian Federation, made the announcement that the Jewish Colonization Society of Paris, of which he was a Canadian representative, was shortly to found a Jewish colony in Western Canada similar to that which had already been founded with so great success in the Argentine.

A second Canadian colony for Jews in Palestine was decided upon in the closing hours of the Zionist convention, and $8,000 of the $10,000 necessary for the purchase of land was subscribed by societies and individuals before the convention rose. This came as a result of the announcement of the work being done in the first colony founded since the 1911 convention. This had been named "Canadia" and consisted of 300 acres of land, a large track in that country, and included plantations, buildings and a complete equipment.

The question of what the federation should do next was answered by President de Sola, who made a strong appeal for the foundation of Canadia No. 2, suggesting that another $10,000 worth of land should be purchased and the subscription for this started at once.

MONEY EVERYWHERE.

But It Belonged to a Paymaster Who Dropped His Roll.

PERTH, Dec. 29.—James Montgomery, hardware clerk, experienced the fleeting feeling of richness suddenly thrust upon him Friday night when about half-past seven he picked up a big wad of ten dollar bills. They were blowing about everywhere, and satisfying himself that it was the real stuff, Mr. Montgomery scooped as many as he could in his arms, and soon attracted a number of people, who helped him chase the ten-spots which were being blown about by the wind. Later it was learned that it belonged to Harry Wright, who is not a resident of Perth, but is paymaster for a contractor who is building stations on the new C.P.R. line from Glen Tay to Toronto.

Saturday Mr. Wright was busy recovering what he lost the night before, and is understood to have it all now but $260. Considering all circumstances he is lucky in recovering as much of the roll as he did.

Will Move Leo XIII.'s Body.

ROME, Dec. 29.—It is understood that the negotiations between the Government and the Vatican relative to the transportation of the body of the late Pope Leo XIII. from St. Peter's to the tomb which has been erected in the Church of St. John Lateran have reached a satisfactory conclusion. It is said that the ceremony will take place in February.

Body of Rampolla To Be Exhumed.

ROME, Dec. 29.—In spite of the denial given out at the Vatican. The Messagero, a popular newspaper, says the exhumation of the body of Cardinal Rampolla has been ordered in consequence of the suspicions aroused by his sudden death and the disappearance of his will, which it is thought may have been connected with it.

Tried to Kill Himself.

HAMILTON, Dec. 29.—A foreigner whose name the police give as Mick Hicknell created much excitement at the G.T.R. station yesterday afternoon about four o'clock when he tried to throw himself in front of a locomotive which was drawing a train into the station. He was overpowered after considerable trouble and taken to jail.

MOYER WAS WOUNDED.

Head of Federation of Miners Badly Beaten by Mob.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Charles H. Moyes, president of the Western Federation of Miners, driven from Hancock, Mich., after he had been shot and beaten Friday night, slept well under the care of physicians in a hospital here last night.

The train ride of 600 miles, a bullet still in his body and his wounds having received only temporary care, so weakened the director of the copper miners' strike, that he was unable to receive visitors after he had reached the hospital.

The doctors said that the ease with which Moyer dropped to sleep would prove a factor toward his speedy recovery, and the indications were his wound would not prove serious.

Jury To Investigate.

CALUMET, Mich., Dec. 29. — The deportation of Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, and leader of the copper miners' strike, who was escorted from Hancock Friday night after being shot and clubbed, will be investigated by the special grand jury when it resumes its sessions to-morrow. Sheriff Cruse began an enquiry on Saturday into the facts of Moyer's departure in response to telegrams from Governor Ferris and George Nichols, the special prosecutor in charge of the grand jury. Both requested him to make a full statement of the results of his investigation.

Warrants were sworn out Saturday for the manager and a number of employes of a Socialist newspaper in Hancock on a charge of "inciting to riot."

The warrants were sworn under the statutes relating to felony, and the men were held in bonds of $1,000 each. The complaints were made by Sheriff Cruse and were a sequel to an extra edition published Friday, in which charges of grave misconduct were made against some deputy sheriffs and others. The article charged them with hindering the rescuers at the Christmas Eve tragedy.

"Oh, George!" cried the fair young vision in blue, as she floated into the drawing-room and found her lesser half reading the latest novel. "You really ought to have come to church with me this morning. Such a beautiful sermon. I'm sure it would have done you good. All about dishonesty and stealing, and petty meanness. No one could help feeling better for it. I do wish you could have heard it."

"Easily, my dear," murmured George, and tried in vain to stifle a yawn. "And—ah—did you walk home?"

"No, I took a tram. And, oh George, I had such a stroke of luck. The conductor never asked for my fare, so I saved five cents."

"That Affair Next Door"

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN

"He had taken me on his arm by this time and the recoil he made at these words was quite perceptible; but his face still smiled, and I was too mad with joy to be critical.

"'And a very pretty and charming wife you have become,' said he, drawing me on for a few steps. Suddenly he paused, and I felt the old shadow fall between us again. 'But your dress is very shabby,' he remarked.

"It was not; it was not near as shabby as the linen duster he himself wore.

"'Is that rain?' he inquired, looking up as a drop or two fell.

"'Yes, it is raining.'

"'Very well, let us go into this store we are coming to and buy a gossamer. That will cover up your gown. I cannot take you to my house dressed as you are now.'

"Surprised, for I had thought my dress very neat and lady-like, but never dreaming of questioning his taste any more than in the old days in Michigan, I went with him into the shop he had pointed out and bought me a gossamer, for which he paid. When he had helped me to put it on and had tied my veil well over my face, he seemed more at ease and gave me his arm quite cheerfully.

"'Now,' said he, 'you look well, but how about the time when you will have to take the gossamer off? I tell you what it is, my dear, you will have to refit yourself entirely before I shall be satisfied.' And again I saw him cast about him that furtive and inquiring look which would have awakened more surprise in me than it did had I known that we were in a part of the city where he ran but little chance of meeting any one he knew.

"'This old duster I have on,' he suddenly laughed, 'is a very appropriate companion to your gossamer,' and though I did not agree with him, for my clothes were new, and his old and shabby, I laughed also and never dreamed of evil.

"As this garment which so disfigured him that morning has been the occasion of much false speculation on the part of those whose business it was to inquire into the crime with which it is in a most unhappy way connected, I may as well explain here and now why so fastidious a gentleman as Randolph Stone came to wear it. The gentleman called Howard Van Burnam was not the only person who visited the Van Burnam offices on the morning preceding the murder. Randolph Stone was there also, but he did not see the brothers, for finding them closeted together, he decided not to interrupt them. As he was a frequent visitor there, his presence created no remark nor was his departure noted. Descending the stairs separating the offices from the street, he was about to leave the building, when he noticed that the clouds looked ominous. Being dressed for a luncheon with Miss Althorpe, he felt averse to getting wet, so he stepped back into the adjoining hall and began groping for an umbrella in a little closet under the stairs where he had once before found such an article. While doing this he heard the younger Van Burnam descend and go out, and realising that he could now see Franklin without difficulty, he was about to return upstairs when he heard that gentleman also come down and follow his brother into the street.

"His first impulse was to join him, but finding nothing but an old duster in the closet, he gave up this intention, and putting on this shabby but protecting garment, started for his apartments, little realising into what a course of duplicity and crime it was destined to lead him. For to the wearing of this old duster on this especial morning, innocent as the occasion was, I attribute John Randolph's temptation to murder. Had he gone out without it, he would have taken his usual course up Broadway and never met me; or even if he had taken the same roundabout way to his apartments as that which led to our encounter, he would never have dared, in his ordinary fine dress, conspicuous as it made him, to have entered upon those measures, which, as he is clever enough to know, lead to disgrace, if they do not end in a felon's cell. It was John Randolph, then, or Randolph Stone, as he is pleased to call himself in New York, and not Franklin Van Burnam (who had doubtless proceeded in another direction) who came up to where Howard had stood, saw the keys he had dropped, and put them in his own pocket. It was as innocent an action as the donning of the duster, and yet it was fraught with the worst consequences to himself and others. Being of the same height and complexion as Franklin Van Burnam, and both gentlemen wearing at that time a moustache (my husband shaved his off after the murder), the mistakes which arose out of this strange equipment were but natural. Seen from the rear or in the semi-darkness of a hotel-office they might look alike, though to me or to any one studying them well, their faces are really different.

"But to return. Leading me through streets of which I knew nothing, he presently stopped before the entrance of a large hotel.

"'I tell you what, Olive,' said he, 'we had better go in here, take a room, and send for such things as you require to make you look like a lady.'

"As I had no objection to anything which kept me at his side, I told him that whatever suited him suited me, and followed him quite eagerly into the office. I did not know then that this hotel was a second-rate one, not having had experience with the best, but if I had, I should not have wondered at his choice, for there was nothing in his appearance, as I have already intimated, or in his manners up to this point to lead me to think he was one of the City's great swells, and that it was only in such an unfashionable house as this he would be likely to pass unrecognized. How with his markedly handsome features and distinguished bearing he managed so to carry himself as to look like a man of inferior breeding, I can no more explain than I can the singular change which took place in him when once he found himself in the midst of the crowd which lounged about this office.

"From a man to attract all eyes he became at once a man to attract none, and slouched and looked so ordinary that I stared at him in astonishment, little thinking that he had assumed this manner as a disguise. Seeing me at a loss, he spoke up quite peremptorily:

"'Let us keep our secret, Olive, til you can appear in the world full-fledged. And look here, darling, won't you go to the desk and ask for a room? I am no hand at any such business.'

"Confounded at a proposition so unexpected, but too much under the spell of my feelings to dispute his wishes, I faltered out:

"'But supposing they ask me to register?'

"At which he gave me a look which recalled the old days in Michigan and quietly sneered:

"'Give them a fictitious name. You have learned to write by this time, have you not?'

"Stung by his taunt, but more in love with him than ever, for his momentary display of passion had made him look masterful and handsome, I went up to the desk to do his bidding.

"'A room!' said I; and when asked to write our names in the book that lay before me, I put down the first that suggested itself. I wrote with my gloves on, which was why the writing looked so queer that it was taken for a disguised hand.

"This done, he rejoined me, and we went upstairs, and I was too happy to be in his company again to wonder at his peculiarities or weigh the consequences of the implicit confidence I accorded him. I was desperately in love once more and entered into every plan he proposed without a thought beyond the joyous present. He was so handsome without his hat; and when after some short delay he threw aside the duster, I felt myself for the first time in my life in the presence of a finished gentleman. Then his manner was so changed. He was so like his oldtime and best self, so dangerously like what he was in those long vanished hours under the pines in my sand-swept home on the shores of Lake Michigan. That he faltered at times and sank into strange spells of silence which had something in them that made my breath come fitfully, did not awaken my apprehension or rouse in me more than a passing curiosity. I thought he regretted the past, and when, after one such pause in our conversation, he drew out of his pocket a couple of keys tied together with a strange look, easily enough to be understood by me now, I only laughed at his abstraction, and indulged in a fresh caress to make him more mindful of my presence.

"These keys were the ones which Mrs. Van Burnam's husband had dropped, and which he had picked up before meeting me; and after he had put them back into his pocket he became more talkative than before, and more systematically lover-like. I think he had not seen his way clearly till this moment, the dark and dreadful way which was to end, as he supposed, in my death.

"But I feared nothing, suspected nothing. Such deep and desperate wickedness as he was planning was beyond the wildest flight of my imagination. When he insisted upon sending for a complete set of clothing for me, and when at his dictation I wrote a list of the articles I wanted, I thought he was influenced by his wish as my husband to see me dressed in articles of his own buying. That it was all a plot to rob me of my identity could not strike such a mind as mine, and when the packages came and were received by him in the sly way already known to the public, I saw nothing in his caution but a playful display of mystery that was to end in my romantic establishment in a home of love and luxury.

"Or rather it is thus that I account for my conduct now, and yet the precaution I took not to change the shoes in which my money was hidden, may argue that I was not without some underlying doubt of his complete sincerity. But if so, I hid it from myself and, as I have every reason to believe, from him also, doubtless excusing my action to myself by considering that I would be none the worse off for a few dollars of my own, even if he was my husband, and had promised me no end of pleasure and comfort.

"That he did intend to make me happy, he had assured me more than once. Indeed, before we had been long in this hotel room, he informed me that great experiences lay before me; that he had prospered much in the last five years and had now a house of his own to offer me and a large circle of friends to make our life in it agreeable.

FOUR WINTERS OF RHEUMATISM

Cured of Sciatica And Muscular Rheumatism By "Fruit-a-tives"

RIDGETOWN, ONT., May 21st, 1913. "Fruit-a-tives" cured me of Rheumatism. It was the only medicine that made any impression on me. I was a terrible sufferer from Rheumatism. I was laid up for four winters with Sciatica and Muscular Rheumatism, and was completely crippled.

Some neighbor of mine told me that "Fruit-a-tives" helped him, and I started in to take them. I used "Fruit-a-tives" faithfully for two years, taking them every day as I saw they were doing me good, and the results were marvellous.

For over two years, I have been completely free from any Rheumatic Pains whatever, and I give "Fruit-a-tives" the credit." W. H. RACHER.

World's Unluckiest Boy.

A London Chronicle correspondent recalls a schoolboy who never played truant. He was being decorated with the badge of attendance, and his mother was asked if the boy had never been ill. She admitted that he had had measles and whooping cough and the other childish ailments. The board committee gasped. "But he had them all in his holidays," said the mother.

The unluckiest boy in the world, I should say.

Are You a Comical Fellow?

Nearly everyone has heard of Odd Fellows, of Freemasons, Rechabites, etc. But the annual report of the Chief Register of Friendly Societies in Great Britain shows that there are six orders of Comical Fellows, too.

Some friendly societies have even quainter names, such as the Poor Sons of St. Andrew's, the Grand Independent Order of Loyal Caledonian Yorks, the United Order of the Peaceful Dove, and the Philanthropic Order of True Ivorites.

New Wall Tie.

A Scotch builder has invented a new type of wall tie that grips half a dozen bricks instead of two, as usual.

Terminology of the Lie.

Mr. Lloyd-George, with Celtic directness, calls it "a lie." The Saxon prefers a periphrasis. Mr. Churchill's "terminological inexactitude" has become a classic, though Mr. Harry Pain did rather well with "mendacious diathesis." The parliamentary evasion is the most polite, for when "the honorable member opposite has been grossly misinformed" the compliment implied is frequently too subtle to carry across the floor of the house. The "Autocrat" defined the lie when he said, "The devil has many tools, but a lie is the handle which fits them all." Mark Twain's definition is equally neat. "A lie," he said, "is an abomination unto the Lord, but a very present help in time of trouble."—London Spectator.

PISA'S LEANING TOWER.

It Seems to Have Been Intentionally Built Out of Plumb.

That remarkable piece of architecture, the leaning tower of Pisa, has always been a subject for discussion and conjecture. Many architects have closely inspected its foundations, measured its columns and theorized as to its strange departure from the perpendicular. In 1773 Goethe explained it as intentionally so built for the purpose of attracting the spectator's attention from the ordinary straight shafts of which Pisa in the twelfth century is said to have had 10,000.

The baptistry of the cathedral is Pisa, built also in the thirteenth century, leans seventeen inches out of the perpendicular, and the plinth blocks of its foundations tilt down gradually and evenly for nine inches in the direction of this inclination. The Campanile of San Niccolo leans forward in the same way, as likewise do the facades of the Cathedral of Pisa. It is worthy of note, too, that they curve back toward the perpendicular.

In the leaning tower there is a deliberate effort above the third floor to return to the perpendicular. This is made by a delicate series of changes in the pitch of the columns on the lower side, evidence taken by some investigators as indication of an attempt to remedy an error made by the architects, the foundation according to one theory having subsided as the result of their inexperience with the peculiar soil of Pisa.

Careful measurements below the third floor show that the arches of the staircase were deliberately increased in height and that the downward dip was so arranged that the weight of the tower was thrown off the overhanging side, writes Mr. Isaac Bickerstaffe in The London Field. This would have been quite unnecessary if the architect had meant the tower to rise straight up from its foundations.

The Mysterious Gegenschein.

There is visible in the night sky, under favorable circumstances, a faint light, rounded in outline and situated always exactly opposite to the place of the sun. It is called the "gegenschein" and is one of the most inexplicable objects known to astronomers. According to a scientist, it may be a sort of cometary or meteoric satellite attending the earth. He supposes it to be composed of a cloud of meteors, situated about 1,000,000 miles from the earth and revolving around it in a period of just one year, so that the sun and the meteors are always on opposite sides of the earth. He estimates that the size of this ghostly satellite may be nearly the same as that of the planet Jupiter—viz, about 86,000 miles in diameter.

Professional Forging.

Forging is generally quite an amateur affair in England, but in India where the professional forger flourishes, it is the business of a lifetime. A father, for instance, who thinks he detects in his son an aptitude for the occupation, apprentices him to one of its masters. He learns among other things, engravings, photography, paper-making, chemistry, so as to deal with colored inks, and, above all, fine penmanship and delicate miniature-like painting. After several years hard work is pronounced proficient and, sets up in business for himself, generally commencing by counterfeiting government stamps.

A Plague of Cats.

The Australians, besides the plague of rabbits with which they have been afflicted for many years, are now obliged, it appears, to fight a plague of cats. The cats were introduced originally in the hope that they might take to killing off the rabbits, and now some planters are putting in dogs to kill off the cats. The canines having misbehaved in some instances, the victims are looking about for dog-killers, and apparently there is to be no end to this endless-chain game of The House that Jack Built.

Functional Disease.

Organic disease is so called in cases where the structure of the organ has become so affected as to alter its character. If the liver hardens or the kidneys decay this is organic trouble. The doctors call it a functional disease when the functions of any organ are deranged—that is, do not work normally, when, for instance, the liver pours its secretions into the system too freely or the kidneys, through a cold, do not remove the impurities from the system.

Sage And Sulphur Darkens Gray Hair

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Colour, Gloss and Thickness

Hair that loses its colour and lustre or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even colour, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it takes off dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Two Misses and One Miss.

A maiden lady, Miss Cooker by name, and her niece, who bears the same cognomen, went one evening to a reception at the house of a friend. "What name, please?" inquired the footman.

"Miss Cooker," answered the elder lady.

"Miss Cooker, too," joined the niece, hurriedly.

Whereupon the man of plush and buttons opened the drawing room door and, with all the dignity of his profession, ushered them into the midst of the company with the convulsive announcement: "Miss Cooker and Miss Cockatoo!"

HOMAGE TO HOLY NAME OF JESUS

Jesus the Center of God's Favors for Church and World.

THE DIVINE PLAN IS EXPLAINED

The Foundation of Blessings Was Laid at Calvary—God's Favor to the Elect Began at Pentecost—It Will Culminate at Jesus' Second Coming—Then Will Begin the Blessing of the Non-Elect—Christ and His Church Will Reign a Thousand Years—A Royal Priesthood—For the Restoration of the World to Human Perfection—The Willfully Wicked Shall Be Destroyed In the Second Death.

[The matter under this heading is supplied by the Pastor Russell Lecture Bureau, who conduct the Brooklyn Tabernacle (unsectarian) Bible Studies, and who have arranged for its insertion.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 28.—Pastor Russell preached here twice to-day, to a crowded house, as usual. We report one of his discourses from the text, "I have sworn by Myself * * * that unto Me every knee shall bow, every tongue shall swear." (Isaiah 45:23.) Pastor Russell said in part:

The Scriptures declare that at the name of Jesus every knee shall bow and every tongue confess, to the glory of God. Our careless reading of this passage has led some to assume that the bowing knee and the confessing tongue will be a mere formality while hearts are still in rebellion. But a careful reading notes the fact that these acts will be to the glory of God. Further, we find our text quoted in the New Testament with the assurance that every knee and every tongue will include those in Heaven as well as those on earth. (Philippians 2:10, 11.) In other words, the glory of Jesus and the great work which, as the Father's Representative, He will yet accomplish, will bring Him fame, glory and homage amongst angels and men.

The question arises, When will this be, and how will it be brought about? Nearly nineteen centuries have passed since Jesus came into the world to be man's Redeemer, and as yet comparatively few knees bow and few tongues confess, on earth, to the glory of God, although we do know that Jesus has already been highly exalted in the Heavens. The Father's prophetic statement has already been fulfilled, "Let all the angels of God do Him homage."—Hebrews 1:6.

Human theorizing has led us in the past into grievous misunderstanding of the Divine Word and Plan. It seems necessary for the people of God to first realize to some extent the confusion and error into which we unwittingly drifted and to feel heartily ashamed of our unreasonable conclusions—human creeds. Many are now reaching the place where in anguish of heart the cry goes up for the Bread of Life and the Water of Life—the Truth—the correct understanding of God's Word. Some have already reached this condition, and others are gradually coming to it. But alas, still others, caught in the snare of the Adversary, have had their faith dashed to pieces upon the rocks of Higher Criticism and Evolution.

The central teaching of the Bible is that the death of Jesus was necessary as man's redemption-price. This is clearly set forth by Jesus and the Apostles, as it was previously shown in the types of the Law, that "without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sins." The worldly-wise scoff at the thought that the shedding of blood is necessary and the rolling away of the curse.

But perhaps some of our objections have been illogical, for many have not stopped to think that the phrase, "shedding of blood," is merely another way of saying a sacrificial death. Then, too, our minds were prejudiced by the unreasonable theories of the past, which claimed that the death of the Creator was necessary for the cancelation of the sins of His creatures. But the Bible presents no such illogical statement. It assures us that the penalty upon our race was neither eternal torture nor purgatorial suffering, but "Dying, thou shalt die"; that this sentence of death was placed upon Father Adam, and by process of heredity came down through six thousand years to us—his legacy of evil, sorrow, weakness, alienation from God, death.

Is not the Bible logical in its declaration that the Supreme Judge could not set aside the death sentence of His own Court and yet be just? If Adam as a sinner was unworthy of eternal life and died under that sentence, he is no more worthy now. Moreover, his children, inheriting his sin and weaknesses, are no more worthy of life than was he. There can be no forgiveness of Original Sin and no one can be granted a second opportunity for life everlasting except by a redemption—a payment of the original penalty.

As from the first God designed one Redeemer for the race, so He provided that only Father Adam should be on trial, and that only he should be sentenced. Thus God prepared the way for redemption—that "as by a man came death, by a man also should come the resurrection of the dead; for as all in Adam die, even so all in Christ shall be made alive—every man in his own order"—the Church being of the first order, or resurrection.—1 Corinthians 15:21-23.

When we get rid of the foolish unscriptural idea that Jesus was His own father, we can understand the facts.

The Heavenly Father did not die for man's sin, nor did He compel His Son to die for us. On the contrary, the Scriptures assure us that He presented the matter to the Son and that the latter voluntarily carried out the work. Nor was this contract without reward. For the joy set before Him our Lord endured the cross, despising the shame, and is now glorified at the right hand of the Heavenly Father. (Hebrews 12:2.) The Logos was created a spirit being—not a man, a human being—and could not be man's Redeemer except by leaving His glorious spirit plane and becoming a man—"the Man Christ Jesus, who gave Himself a Ransom for all."—1 Timothy 2:5, 6.

In the past we have been too careless in our study of the Bible. Now we see that the word Ransom, antilutron in the Greek, signifies a corresponding price. And this is what was necessary for man's redemption, and what Jesus provided. As bulls and goats could not be a corresponding price because of inferiority to man, so an angel, or even the glorious Logos Himself, could not have ransomed man, could not be a corresponding price, because not on the same plane of being. Thus the Scriptures explain that it was necessary for the Logos to become a perfect man in order to effect the ransom of Father Adam, giving a corresponding price for his human life. How simple it all is when we accept the plain statements of God's Word.

Knowing that the Scriptures tell that God has provided redemption for the whole world in Christ, Christian people have been trying to make themselves believe that the entire world has been blessed through Christ ever since He died. "The Just for the unjust." Some even go so far as to imagine that in some way or other He must have accomplished some blessing of the millions who died during the four thousand years before He tasted death for every man.

How foolish we were in trying thus to deceive ourselves! Plain honesty would have helped us all a great deal. We should have said, it is plain enough that the millions of the four thousand years before Christ died got no blessing through Him; and that the masses of humanity, including the hundreds of millions of heathen, during the nineteen centuries since He died have received no blessing from Him. In honesty we must confess that not except the Church class have yet received a blessing from the hands of Jesus.

After making this candid admission we should have looked more carefully into the Bible for an explanation, and no doubt we would the sooner have become enlightened; but, deluding ourselves and claiming that all mankind are having a fair trial, we have increased our darkness. Dishonesty is never advantageous. It is especially disadvantageous when continued along the lines of religion. Now, as we become more honest with ourselves and the facts, the darkness begins to flee away; and the true teaching of the Bible begins to shine out luminously.

St. Paul draws our attention to the fact that God proffered certain great blessings to the Jewish people in their Law Covenant, which they were unable to acquire because of inherited weaknesses common to mankind. He tells us that when Jesus came, Israel's testing came; and that in rejecting Him they rejected the chiefest of God's blessings, but did not cut themselves off entirely from His favor; for God's gifts and calling to Israel have not been abrogated. He says, "Israel hath not obtained that which he seeketh for (the highest favor of God); but the Elect obtained it, and the rest were blinded."—Romans 11:7.

Here we have the key. God is making an election, or selection, from amongst mankind. He desires a Little Flock of extremely faithful, self-sacrificing, saintly ones, to be joint-heirs with their Redeemer in a great work which Divine Wisdom and Love have laid out for Him. This Little Flock, the Elect, are to be "Heirs of God and joint-heirs with Jesus Christ" their Lord, in the Messianic Kingdom.

That Kingdom, when set up in great power and glory, invisible to men, yet all-powerful in their midst, will bring to pass all the glorious promises of the Bible. St. Peter declares that at the Second Coming of Jesus will come Times of Restitution, times of blessing mankind in his earthly home, turning it into a paradise and bringing mankind back into the image and likeness of God. That great work is to be done by the Elect—The Christ—Jesus the Head and the Church His Body—Jesus the Bridegroom and the Church His Bride.

The work of electing the Church has been an individual one, requiring thus far nearly nineteen centuries. But God, who is rich in Wisdom, is using the various members of the Church during this period as His ambassadors, as His servants, to call one another, to build one another up in the most holy faith. Thus, as the Scriptures declare, the Bride is to make herself ready for the union with the Heavenly Bridegroom, which is to be accomplished at His Second Coming, when she shall have experienced the change in the First Resurrection—to Heavenly nature and Kingdom; for "flesh and blood cannot inherit the Kingdom of God."

Now, as Bible students, we are beginning to get the eyes of our understanding opened to the grievous mistake which our forefathers made and handed down to us. The mistake was in supposing that the Elect would be all that would be saved of the human family, and in not seeing that the Elect, now being called, are to constitute God's New Creation, not only far higher than perfect men, but higher than angels and cherubim. In other words, God took advantage of the reign of Sin and Death amongst humanity to select from amongst the redeemed human family some jewels of character, to constitute what He terms a royal diadem in the hand of our Lord.

With the completion of this diadem class, this Royal Priesthood class, this class that is to be made partakers of the Divine nature in the First Resurrection, the work of God for the human family will be only beginning; whereas we once supposed that there it would have ended. We now see that not until the Elect shall be glorified will God's blessing even begin to come to the non-elect—all of whom, as Adam's children, were redeemed by the precious blood of Christ.

Only the Elect have been dealt with thus far. The great mass of mankind, blinded and deafened, through the bewildering influence of error, have been led captive by Satan at his will. Only the comparatively few have escaped the condemnation which is upon the world, by accepting Christ and becoming members of the New Creation through Him.

When we get the right focus on the subject, we perceive that Messiah's great campaign against the reign of Sin and Death is only beginning. The Bible informs us what His procedure will be. First the Redeemer will take unto Himself His great power and begin His reign. Second, the first work of His Reign will be the binding of Satan for a thousand years. Then will follow the scattering of ignorance and superstition fostered by the Prince of Darkness. The great Prince of Glory, as the great Sun of Righteousness, will shine forth to chase the darkness away.

The Redeemer Himself tells us that the Church will be with Him, parts of that Sun of Righteousness, that glorious Kingdom of God so long promised and prayed for: "Thy Kingdom come; Thy will be done on earth, as it is done in Heaven." "Then shall the righteous shine forth as the sun, in the Kingdom of their Father."—Matthew 13:43.

Satan is an enemy of God and of righteousness, and his destruction is foretold. But, from the Bible standpoint, man is not to be so considered. In an official, or legal way all sinners are enemies toward God and toward righteousness, in that they have done wicked works. But in reality, as the Bible points out and as our experiences confirm, mankind are not enemies of righteousness and of God, but simply blinded, confused captives and slaves of Satan, Sin and Death. It is in recognition of this that God provided a redemption for Adam and his race. In recognition of this also God has provided for the thousand years of Messiah's glorious Reign. During this period Adam and all mankind will have an opportunity of coming to life everlasting and to the earthly, human perfection, lost by disobedience, and redeemed by the precious blood of Jesus.

Do we not see, then, that as this Gospel Age has been the time for selecting the elect class, so the Messianic Age, which is to follow this, will be the period in which the Elect with Jesus as their Head will bless all the non-elect?—as God declared to Abraham, saying, "In thee and in thy Seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed." (Galatians 3:8, 16, 29.) God's blessing through Messiah's Kingdom will not mean to the world joint-heirship with Christ, or the Divine nature, or a seat in the Throne. But it will mean a full opportunity for thorough enlightenment and for full assistance out of all the bondage of sin and death into the glorious liberty of the sons of God—everlasting life.

Jesus, the Captain of our salvation, was the first great Victor in conflict with Sin, Satan, Death. He was crowned because of His loyalty to God and His faithfulness even unto death. His victory was won by dying a martyr. Similarly, all of His followers of this Gospel Age must prove their loyalty unto death, if they would be associates in the Messianic Kingdom.

For nineteen centuries Satan, Sin and Death have seemed to triumph; while in reality, from the Divine standpoint, Christ and His Church were triumphing. Their triumph will be manifested in the First Resurrection, when will occur the "General Assembly of the Church of the First-borns, written in Heaven." Then the battle will take on a new phase. No longer will the victors die, but the foes will perish. During the thousand years of Christ's Reign, He will put down sin and death, proportionately lifting up mankind from under their weights and burdens back to human perfection. In His Day, the righteous shall flourish, and the evil-doer shall be cut off in the Second Death.

How grand the program! What honor and glory it reflects upon the Creator, who formed the Plan; upon the great Redeemer who is the Executor of that Plan; and upon the Church of the First-borns, who are to be associates with the Redeemer in the execution of that Plan! Finally the glorious consummation will be reached. All ignorance will have vanished. Sin and death will be no more. Willful evil-doers will all be destroyed. Then every knee shall bow, and every tongue will confess, to the glory of God.

"MY STOMACH IS FINE

Since Taking Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets"

Mrs. J. Merkhuger, Waterloo, Ont., enthusiastically recommends Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets. Her experience with them, as she outlines it, explains why.

"I was greatly troubled with my stomach", she writes. "I had taken so much medicine that I might say to take any more would only be making it worse. My stomach just felt raw. I read of Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets, and a lady friend told me they were very easy to take, so I thought I would give them a trial and really they worked wonders. Anyone having anything wrong with his stomach should give Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets a trial, they will do the rest. My stomach is fine now and I can eat any food."

One of the many good features of Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets is that they are so pleasant and easy to take. The relief they give from heartburn, flatulence, biliousness and dyspepsia is prompt and permanent. Try one after each meal—they'll make you feel like a new person.

Child Had Bronchitis

Once people get acquainted with the wonderful control which Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine exerts over bronchitis, whooping cough, croup and colds it is not easy to persuade them that anything else is "just as good." This is why the imitators never get very far.

In 1902 Mrs. Eugene Iler, King street, Truro, N.S., wrote as follows: "From an infant one of my children was troubled with bronchitis, and the least cold would aggravate the trouble. We could not get anything to help her, and were often greatly alarmed. Hearing of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a treatment for bronchitis, we used it, and are glad to state that it effected a complete cure. If any of the children take a cold or cough I give this medicine, and have never known it to fail to bring relief."

Mrs. Iler now writes that she has since proved this medicine to be a cure for whooping cough, and would not be without it in the house.

Forest officers have found that high power telescopes are not always satisfactory in fire lookout work. In some localities heat vibrations in the atmosphere are so magnified by the glass that clearer vision can be had with the unaided eyes.

THEY RESENT GERMAN.

Zionists Want Hebrew as Language of School In Palestine.

MONTREAL, Dec. 27.—At the Zionist convention yesterday by a standing vote a resolution strongly protesting against the action of the Jewish technical school of Haifa, Palestine, in adopting German as the teaching language, and heartily sympathizing with two of the Berlin officials of the board of that institution and practically the whole teaching staff of every Jewish school in Palestine, who had resigned their positions in protest. Over $1,000 was voluntarily subscribed to assist in the upkeep of these men until such time as Hebrew shall have been adopted as the teaching language of the school, and they can return to their positions on the staff.

The Rev. Meldola de Sola, who presented the resolution, pointed out that already voiced by Zionists throughout the world against the introduction of any foreign language to a Jewish school in Palestine.

Schmidt Shamming, He Says.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—That Hans Schmidt, now on trial for the murder of Anna Aumuller, has been shamming insanity, was the burden of testimony given yesterday by four alienists appearing for the state.

Dr. Carlos F. Macdonald, the first expert to be called by the prosecution, gave it as his opinion that Schmidt "is a man of superior intelligence," and that he has shammed insanity much more cleverly than an ignorant person could have done."

Nothing Daunts Larkin.

DUBLIN, Dec. 27.—James Larkin, the labor leader, it is said will start for the United States next week. Larkin, however, declines to say whether he is going or not. When it was suggested yesterday to Larkin that the American authorities might exclude him, he said: "If I wanted to enter the United States, all the Governments you ever heard of could not keep me out."

The First Monotheists.

So far as we are able to discover, the Egyptian priests were the first monotheists. There existed in Egypt two kinds of religious teaching, the "exoteric" and the "esoteric," that for the masses of the people and that for the select few, the little company of the "wise." The masses were polytheists, believing in the multitude of gods, while the few believed only in one god, of whom Osiris, head of the popular deities, was but a weak reflection.

Spoiled Children.

The child that is constantly indulged, who has every wish gratified as soon as expressed, is sure to be a very miserable child and man. It thinks that the world revolves about it, and when at school or in the world it finds that it must both give and take it is made utterly wretched. The spoiled child is not only a terror to all others, but most painful to itself.

FEARED FOR BOX.

Cardinal Rampolla Put It Under Pillow When Taken Ill.

ROME, Dec. 27.—All the evidence thus far adduced concerning the black box which was taken from the room of Cardinal Rampolla the day he died, tends to show the cardinal was fearful that it would be tampered with. The box, which is believed by some persons to have contained the last will and testament and other papers of Cardinal Rampolla, was placed under his pillow by the cardinal the day he was forced to take to his bed with the seizure which shortly afterwards caused his death.

Soon after the cardinal passed away, and while the body was being moved from the bed to be prepared for the coffin, the black box fell to the floor, some person picked it up and laid it on the cardinal's writing desk. Since that time all is a mystery concerning the box. No one can be found who has seen it. Whether it disappeared before, during, or after the streams of people were admitted to the death chamber to view the body, is not known.

Fifteen Thousand on Plate.

HAILEYBURY, Dec. 27. — The Christmas spirit had its effect on Dr. R. E. Allan of Leon, Mexico, when at the special services held on Christmas morning in the local Baptist Church, he deposited a marked check for $15,000 on the collection plate. When the elders first saw the offering they thought it was possibly a mistake, but a note attached stated that the money was to be used for a new church and parsonage. The gift solves the question for the congregation of a new church, and arrangements will be made to commence building operations in the spring.

CURRENT EVENTS IN LONDON AND BERLIN BY SPECIAL CABLE

Mrs. A. M. Thackara Receives a Splendid Service of Silver

Americans and Germans in Berlin Pay Tribute to the Popular Wife of the Consul General—The Ambassador and Mrs. Gerard Preparing for Their House Warming.

(Special Dispatch.)
Berlin, December 27.

UPON her return from Paris this week Mrs. A. M. Thackara found a delightful surprise awaiting her in a magnificent gift of silver from her large circle of American and German friends in Berlin, and which had been sent to Mr. and Mrs. Thackara's house and placed round the dining table. The gift consists of a huge silver bowl, either for punch or flowers; four double candelabra fitted with rose pink silver shades, four large compote dishes, four smaller bonbon dishes and a shallow cut glass salad plate, silver rimmed. The punch bowl is inscribed, "To Eleanor Sherman Thackara, from Her Berlin Friends," and each of the smaller pieces bears her monogram. Accompanying the gift was a portfolio bound in red suède and richly tooled in gold, in which were written the names of the 111 donors. The inscription reads:

"To Mrs. Alexander M. Thackara, from her friends in Berlin, as a token of her untiring zeal in every good cause, her kindness to the stranger and her loyalty and friendship."

As originally arranged, this mark of appreciation was to have been formally presented to Mrs. Thackara at a farewell reception at the American Woman's Club, but this had to be abandoned, owing to a death in the family.

Count and Countess Anton Bigray are expected at the Hotel Esplanade to pass the Christmas holidays with the American Ambassador and Mrs. Gerard, who will give a dinner for them next Tuesday. Mrs. Marcus Daly, of New York, mother of Mrs. Gerard and Countess Bigray, also is expected in Berlin a little later, to be present at the house warming of the new Embassy, which will not occur as contemplated on New Year's Day, owing to the amount of work involved in renovating and furnishing the Schwabach Palace, in the Wilhelmsplatz.

As soon as Mr. and Mrs. Gerard have taken possession of their new home they will be plunged into a round of official duties which make it necessary for them to postpone the first big gathering of their American compatriots until Lincoln's Birthday. This change will furnish Mrs. Gerard an opportunity to do special honor to her favorite hero in American history.

Mr. Willing Spencer, Second Secretary of the American Embassy, returned from Paris before the expiration of his month's leave of absence to await instructions concerning his transfer to Caracas.

As no official confirmation of the change has been received in Berlin, it is probable that Mr. Spencer will remain at his present post until late in January and thus be one of the Ambassador's staff at the official court functions of the season. Mr. Spencer will be greatly missed both in German and American social circles, as he has taken an active part in the manifold life of the capital. He is president of the Harvard Club in Berlin, is one of the Governing Committee of the American Luncheon Club and has done much toward establishing American prestige in golf and tennis matches throughout Germany.

Mr. Spencer, who came to Berlin from St. Petersburg, has occupied his present post for three years and has made hosts of friends. His post will be filled by Mr. George T. Summerlin, a graduate of West Point, who retired from the army and entered the diplomatic service. He comes to Berlin from the Far East, where he was attached to the American Legation staff at Tokio and Peking.

Mr. Allison V. Armour entertained thirty gentlemen at dinner at the Royal Automobile Club. Among the guests were the Imperial Chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg; the American Ambassador, the British Ambassador, Sir Edward Goschen; Mr. Joseph Clark Grew and Major George T. Langhorne.

Following the rotating idea adopted by the American Luncheon Club, the last meeting of the organization for the present year was held on Wednesday at the Esplanade Hotel, with Mr. Willing Spencer, one of the Governing Committee, as chairman and toastmaster. Mr. Frederic William Wile read an address of welcome, written by Dr. Stanley Shaw, who was to have presided on the occasion, but who unexpectedly was called out of town. The American Ambassador, who never has absented himself from one of these meetings of the Luncheon Club, was present; also the Consul General, Mr. Thackara. Among the guests brought by members were Mr. Allison V. Armour, Professor Archibald Coolidge, Mr. Robert W. Cassatt, of Philadelphia; Mr. Wilhelm Funk, the American portrait painter; Mr. Karl Kitchen, of New York; Dr. Khaller, the Privy Counsellor; Herr Hecht, of the German business world; Captain Henry C. Whitehead and Mr. E. Cyriacus.

Miss Halliday, an American painter living in Berlin, gave her friends the opportunity this week of viewing some of her recent work. In pursuance of her strongly marked preference for the color scale, her canvases were arranged in harmonious groups, the walls of a smaller studio being hung with pictures displaying some note of blue, while violet and yellow tones predominated in a larger room. A glimpse at the Teirgarten in autumnal coloring, upon which was projected a characteristic figure of an old brushwoman, was one of the most interesting canvases.

The figure and sketch of "The Convalescent," a picture which was given a place in the last Paris Salon, were also in the collection, and all round the interior was full of intimate charm. Miss Halliday is doing a great deal for the cause of art in her native town of Cairo, Ill., and in addition to the fountain and sun dial which she has erected she sends each year some work of plastic art to be placed in the public park of that city. She is leaving for America in January.

One of the chief topics of drawing room gossip is the transfer of the German Crown Prince from the Officers' Corps of the Death's Head Hussars at Danzig to the General Staff Officers at Berlin. With the Crown Prince and Crown Princess again in residence in the Berlin palace, the younger set of court society may expect a resumption of the round of gayeties of which the royal couple ever are the soul and centre. Both are passionately fond of dancing, and invitations to the exclusive dances given at the palace are keenly coveted.

It is understood that the Crown Princess was one of the first to succumb to the tango fever, but, of course, the royal edict put a quietus upon her inclinations in this direction. If all reports are true, however, she will not be here much during the season, as she is said to be in delicate health, and therefore a sojourn at some length in Egypt is talked of.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS IN ENGLAND

Lady Randolph Churchill, who, since the dissolution of her marriage with Mr. Cornwallis West, has reverted to her former and more famous name, took a prominent part in the picture ball at the Albert Hall. Looking, it is correct to say, younger than ever, she appeared as the Empress Theodora of Byzantium, wife of the Emperor Justinian, who flourished about the year 527 A.D.

The Prince of Wales Has Been Seen Much in the West End, Buying His Presents, but Some Alarm Is Caused by His Appearance, the Indications Being That He Is Not Any Too Robust.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, December 27.

THE last week has been given up chiefly to shopping, and social functions have been very few, as always is the case during Christmas week.

London is very full and there are few shooting parties in the country, the only notable exception being a small party given by Lord Burnham at Hallbarn for the King.

The general prosperity of the country is mirrored in the expensive nature of this year's Christmas gifts. Many young men, happily endowed with wealthy relatives, found small automobiles humming outside their front doors on Christmas morning, one firm alone having orders to deliver fifteen light automobiles on Christmas day, the majority for young university men, the gifts representing a value of $17,500. Another firm delivered six light cars. In some cases automobiles priced from $2,750 to $5,500 were given as Christmas presents.

Apropos of the shopping expeditions by the royal family, the Prince of Wales and Princess Mary went one day shopping quite unattended in Bond street. They were obviously enjoying the excursion, being free from restraint, judging by the laughter of the brother and sister. Strange to say, few recognized them, much to the delight of the Prince and Princess, all being so busily engrossed with their own affairs, but whenever he was saluted the Prince readily acknowledged the compliment.

It was noticed, however, that the Prince, though merry enough, looked rather pale and worn. His eyes were dull and heavy and he had lost much of that springy, boyish walk usually characterizing him. Indeed, he looked quite ill. Probably the rest of the Christmas holidays will do him good, but it is very well known that the Prince is none too robust, and there is more than a suspicion that he has been rather overdoing it lately, what with his studies and frequent dashes to town on social pleasure bent. But the Queen will look after him—none knows how better than Queen Mary.

Among the social events of the week the most important was the "Christmas in Fairyland" bazaar organized by Princess Alexander of Teck for the purpose of augmenting her scholarship fund at the Imperial Service College at Windsor on behalf of the sons of army and navy officers who through death or stress of circumstances have been unable to provide sufficient means suitably to educate them for the service of the empire.

It was opened by Queen Amelie, who wore a dress of black charmeuse, the bodice having a vest of ivory white embroidered net and lace. Round the net collar were two rows of large and beautiful pearls. She also wore a small black velvet hat with ivory white ostrich feather at one side and a white stole of magnificent Russian sable. A Christmas bouquet of white lilac and poinsettias and cypripedium orchids tied with scarlet ribbons made an attractive contrast to her dress.

Princess Alexander of Teck, who received, presided over the Snow Queen tive and wore a long coat of tailless ermine, bordered at the hem and down the front with skunk, and a brown velvet hat finished with sienna colored ostrich plumes.

Princess Louise of Battenberg, in charge of the Ali Baba tree, wore a coat and skirt of duvetyn of sombre shade almost black, known as tête de negre and a hat of velour of the same shade.

All the stalls were named after fairy tales. The Santa Claus stall was presided over by Lady Barrington, the "Peter Pan" by Lady Northbrook and Lady St. Cyres, the "Aladdin" by Lady Edward Churchill and Mrs. McCormack Goodhart, "Jack the Giant Killer" by Mrs. David Beatty and Mrs. Althorpe, "Hänsel and Gretel" by Lady Abinger, "Alice in Wonderland" by Mrs. De Rothschild, "Cinderella" by Lady Arthur Hill and Mrs. John Ward; the latter wearing a dull black charmeuse tunic and skirt, the collar of which was of white satin edged with dark brown fur. There was a collar and chemisette of ivory white net and over it one string of beautiful pearls. An Algerian capote of black glacé silk was bound round her hair and arranged in a big bow at the back. It looked

Mrs. Hamilton McCormack Goodhart wore a picturesque Welsh dress with a high hat and lace cap.

There also were interesting audiences at the Gaiety Theatre on Tuesday afternoon and evening to witness a repetition of the pictures seen in the Picture Ball at the Albert Hall two weeks before. Queen Alexandra and Princess Victoria attended in the afternoon.

The Duchess of Marlborough came to town for the purpose, as she was anxious about the success of the fund in which she is so interested.

Prince and Princess Arthur of Connaught occupied a box in the evening, but a lamentable story has to be told as a sequel to the great picture ball on December 8. As an outset a letter circulated by the honorary secretary, Lady Muriel Paget, needs no ornamentation.

"A number of opera glasses," she writes, "were provided for the convenience of the guests and fifty of these were not returned. The loss falls upon the funds of the charity for which the ball was given."

The ball was a great affair of wealth and aristocracy and many noble families were represented and many historic costumes worn. There was a tremendous blaze of jewels. Tickets were $5 and, save for the attendance of the chauffeurs, many who could not afford to pay $5 for the privilege was admitted, and thirty opera glasses provided for the guests were stolen.

King Manuel's arrival at Twickenham with his bride was something of a surprise. Up to the last moment nearly everybody was sceptical as to the news that they were on their way, as they had disappointed so often.

Some who were present say the presentation address by the municipal "bigwigs" was not nearly such an impressive and enthusiastic affair as several accounts would lead one to suppose. In fact, according to some, it was rather the other way.

Now the question of the bride's title is being discussed officially. It is quite incorrect to describe her as Queen Augustina, as some time ago King George made it known that as far as the British court is concerned she is always to be referred to as Donna Augustina de Braganza, and in the event of her desiring to appear at court this is the manner in which she will be described upon her invitation. Dom Manuel is extremely eager that she be recognized as a queen in this country, but for many obvious reasons this is out of the question, and Dom Manuel is rather inclined to take umbrage at the refusal.

TINT HAIR TO MATCH DRESS

(Special Dispatch)
London, December 27.

QUITE a new note was struck by Madame Lucile—and she is nothing if not original—at one of her receptions at home in Hanover Square, which was attended, as usual, by about a hundred women holding high places in society.

This was the tinting of the hair to match some of the evening dresses—red, purple and even green effects being given to the coiffure, of course by the wearing of wigs over the closely swathed natural hair. Bizarre though the idea may sound, in reality it was most successful. In the case of some black and white tango dresses green tinted hair was worn, with black satin hats.

Among the most effective of the evening dresses was one in ivory satin with a skirt draped at the knees in gauze of pale blue shot with gold and diamanté and silver fringe, and caught across the front with a diamanté clasp. With this dress a train was chosen to match the satin.

The dancing of the tango was one of the chief entertainments of the afternoon, although the ladies danced their own quaint version and their graceful undulations were admired. The fifty dancers made a brilliant event of it, each one being dressed with her hair tinted to match the color of the dress she wore with it and the effect was quite startling. One lady danced with green hair and a green satin dress, the skirt of which was draped with a tunic of green gauze and a quaint little hood of green satin and white striped taffeta completed the costume. Another lady danced with hair tinted to match her dress of pale blue satin, the skirt of which was draped with a tunic of blue gauze, short just above the ankle, the green shoes with high heels of their color.

Other dancing dresses were arranged in pink and silver gauze, mauve chiffon draperies, and one of white taffeta, the bodice of which was embroidered with gold. Long, flowing [illegible] in mauve, draped from the [illegible] black and caught up [illegible] added greatly to the [illegible] many of the evening dresses [illegible] was an extraordinary [illegible] about the unlikely [illegible] the dainty contrast [illegible] and the clever introduction [illegible] of the shimmering satins and [illegible] the white of the [illegible] and silver embroideries.

Germany's Rulers Suffer Under High Cost of Living

Even the Kaiser Feels the Strain on His Pursestrings and It Is Reported He Will Replenish His Coffers by the Sale of Some of His German Castles.

(Special Dispatch.)
Berlin, December 27.

THE continual increase of the cost of living does not only trouble the German working people; it is causing no little uneasiness among the German rulers. For the last three years most of these princes have been asking for "an increase of pay," the Kaiser himself being the first to lodge his complaint with his people, and the few who have not hitherto dared, or thought it advisable, to ask for a higher civil list are now busy preparing public opinion in their realm for the unpleasant and unavoidable necessity of giving more money for the keeping up of the chief of the State.

Still more significant, the two or three German federal princes who have so far had no civil list at all think very seriously of having one established, as their income, which is either derived from their own (or their wives') fortune or from the sale of titles, dignities, and decorations, cannot suffice much longer to "keep them going." One can therefore safely assert that all the German princes are hard up. If the clause of last year's Army bill, forcing them all to pay their share of the war tax, had been passed they would have been nearly ruined. Only exemption from taxation keeps them out of trouble.

This matter is regarded as serious, as one can see no satisfactory outcome. On one side, the princes state that everything now costs so much that the expense of court life has grown sixty per cent in the last twenty-five years. On the other side, the liberals, and more especially the socialists, sternly oppose any increase of civil lists, on the ground that the German taxpayers have to pay every year £125,000,000 for armaments and the like.

It will be the difficult task of Ministers to solve the problem of putting more money at the disposal of kings and princes without applying to the taxpayer's pocket. The squaring of the circle compared to this problem is childish.

The German States have always been very generous with their sovereigns, as every one here understands that royalty and the exercise of royal power, especially in a militarist country, cannot be maintained without splendour and pomp. The Kaiser, for instance, receives £1,000,000 a year as King of Prussia and £200,000 more as German Emperor, but this amount cannot and does not suffice to keep the court as well as himself and his family. Even the traditional "crown property" is insufficient, for the Kaiser insists on having a brilliant, and corresponding expensive court. He managed three years ago to induce the Reichstag to grant him an increase of "salary," but not without pains and fuss, and even the supporters of the increase hinted to His Majesty that no further increase could in any circumstances be granted as long as he reigned.

Still, we hear now that the Kaiser intends making a little money by selling some of his sixty German castles. This is not astonishing—first, because he owns castles and shooting boxes which he never manages to visit; second, because it is quite comprehensible that this year has been a heavy burden on the imperial privy purse. It is of course impossible to estimate even approximately what the Kaiser spends, generally speaking, and what additional expense was enforced upon him by the marriage of his daughter, Princess Victoria Louise, in May, and by the celebrations of the silver jubilee of his accession, in June last.

A court official told me that the expense had been borne by the Kaiser alone, without assistance from the State. If one takes into account the magnificent receptions given to King George, Queen Mary and Tsar Nicholas, as well as the uncountable princes who visited Berlin on both these momentous occasions, and their suites (for the Kaiser insisted on paying all the hotel bills of these ladies and gentlemen); if one takes into account the dinners, luncheons, excursions, receptions, the additional motor cars and carriages which were bought, and finally the beautiful and costly wedding presents the Kaiser and Kaiserin gave to their daughter, one can easily reach the conclusion that the silver rings and jubilee fêtes must have cost the Emperor something like £400,000.

As long as the civil list cannot pay this amount means must be sought and found to pay it from another source. If the Kaiser's intention to sell some of his castles is carried out it will be the [illegible] and the most melancholy—proof that life is becoming more expensive alike for those who labor in workshops and those who sit on thrones.

The new King of Bavaria, Ludwig III., was quick to seize the opportunity of increasing his civil list, and asked for an increase of £50,000 in the midst of the coronation festivities. The increase was granted, but, naturally enough, the grant of that harmony was dangerously dimmed the prospects of other kings and reigning grand dukes who might be tempted to ask for "rises," too, for the Diet debate on the civil list revealed some curious facts about the manner in which the Bavarian court is spent.

It showed, for instance, that £30,000 was expended each year for the bringing up of the "royal peace" in the palaces, the first list paying that amount, although the [illegible] peace all belong to the wealthiest [illegible] in Bavaria and could afford [illegible] expenses. It was also [illegible] private pharmacy [illegible] £2,000 every year, [illegible] member of the royal [illegible] said "caster [illegible] any amount [illegible] page vast [illegible] sums for the enjoyment (shooting parties, travelling, &c.) of the members, innumerable as they appear to be, of the royal household. And all that from a civil list of £250,000; One cannot help being surprised, not at the magnitude of the civil list, but rather at its smallness, comparing it with its tremendous and wholly unjustified liabilities.

The King of Würtemberg also asked, and was granted, an increase of civil list last years, but the fourth and last of German Kings, the King of Saxony, who has announced his intention of asking for an increase, too, is likely to meet with a rebuff at the hands of the Diet. First, socialists are very strong in Saxony, and any increase of royal expenditure is, by principle, banned by the extremists of the left; second, even court people in Saxony state that the King should not get more public money as long as he does not remarry, as the court functions in Dresden have been reduced to the indispensible because of the absence of a Queen; finally, the King is known to be one of the richest men, and especially one of the greatest land owners, within the German Empire. An increase of civil list would seem an affront to the Saxon people; and the King of Saxony, who knows that by this time, is sadly reflecting upon the advantage of observing the proverb, "First come, first served."

Trying to Grow British Tobacco

Experiments Being Made in Its Cultivation in England Are to Last Five Years.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, December 27.

"TOBACCO," wrote the Irish rhymster, "is an Indian weed," but however that may have been it is now being acclimatized in the British Isles. Already it is grown in Ireland and many experiments are being made in its cultivation in England.

The patch nearest London is the eight acres grown by Mr. Trevor Williams at Byfleet—about 1,300 pounds an acre; but the largest crop in the kingdom is grown at Fleet, Hampshire, by Mr. Brandon, chairman of the New Tobacco Growers' Society. At Methwold, in Norfolk, Major Whitmore has a tobacco farm of six acres, growing cigarette tobacco—yellow Orinoco and a little Latakia.

The experiment being made by the Tobacco Growers' Society and the Development Commission is to last for five years. By the end of that time it is expected that the question whether tobacco can be grown to profit on a very large scale in Britain will be settled.

In the new Nineteenth Century Mr. J. W. Robertson-Scott, in an article on "English and Welsh Tobacco," alludes to the fact that Britain imports £30,000,000 worth every year, and says there is no doubt that tobacco can be grown in England. It is not the question of English tobacco, he declares, for the tobacco of commerce is nearly always a blend. The Irish cigarettes now on the market are a blend of Irish and foreign tobacco. The problem is the problem of growing to a profit.

HOPE FOR AMERICAN TOBACCO.

What are declared to be anti-trust methods on the part of the Imperial Tobacco Company, which is believed to control eighty per cent of the business in this country, have fostered a discontent in the trade which makes conditions favorable for an American invasion, according to a statement made to the writer by Mr. Henry Jerrold Nathan, a cigar and cigarette importer.

Mr. Nathan thinks that if Mr. John Barbrug, who is here in London considering the entrance of the Tobacco Products Corporation of America into the English field, were to lay before the independent manufacturers a satisfactory plan of campaign the absorption of many of the best of them would be an easy task. It would also be advantageous to the latter, many of whom are doing little more than paying their way and some not even that. The only danger Mr. Nathan sees in such a scheme is that ultimately the two big companies, American and English, might amalgamate or enter into a working agreement. He thinks legislation should intervene to prevent this.

"The trader will welcome an opposition by a powerful combination," said Mr. Nathan, "as he is dissatisfied at the miserable return which he derives from the sale of the Imperial goods.

"Wholesalers and retailers obtain an average of 5½ per cent gross profit on the Imperial Tobacco Company's [illegible] goods. This includes a bonus of 2½ per cent, which they are liable to lose if they offend the company. If for some alleged offence they are blacklisted, their names are circulated around the trade with a threat that anybody supplying the offending trader in future to have his supplies stopped. Thus he is boycotted, and unless he can succeed in secretly obtaining the supplies he must fall to the ground.

METHODS OF THE TRUST.

"A trader will [illegible] stopped if he gives [illegible] in his window or [illegible] Imperial Company's [illegible] this is done the trader [illegible] give security [illegible] for which [illegible] upon the [illegible] trader [illegible] for which [illegible] upon the [illegible] trader [illegible] upon the [illegible] Tobacco Company [illegible] inspectors would [illegible] duty is to [illegible] these windows, and the trader is [illegible] on the [illegible] basement of one [illegible] inspectors, on the Imperial Company's [illegible] inspectors, before whom the trader [illegible] plead guilty, [illegible] of appearing to [illegible] fine [illegible] that many be made by these [illegible] officials.

"When Mr. Duke came from [illegible] to capture the English tobacco [illegible] in 1901, his first move was [illegible] Ogden's Liverpool business, [illegible] his American methods the Ogden [illegible] rapidly took the field. This brought about the amalgamating of the Ogden [illegible] and the Imperial, and Mr. Duke [illegible] land, with the end a half [illegible] share of the profit. Care of War Ships Means Efficiency, Declares Naval Expert

(Special Dispatch.)
London, December 27.

THE truth of the statement that war ships, even with trained crews on board, are of little use without yards and docks to keep them in fighting trim is illustrated by the contract which has been signed this week between the Ottoman government and the firms of Armstrong and Vickers. This contract provides for the complete reorganization of the Turkish arsenals and dockyards. Another step is thus taken towards the revival of the naval power of the Ottoman Empire.

The need for a thorough reorganisation of Turkey's naval establishments has long been apparent. Nowhere has the decline of her naval strength been more obvious than in the state of the dockyard at the Golden Horn. The circumstance that no battle ship has been built there since 1885 may be accounted for partly by the great advance in ship design and equipment. But it is not the failure to build vessels so much as the inability to keep them in good repair that has militated against the power and efficiency of the Ottoman fleet.

The modern war ship, unlike her predecessor of the sailing days, is a complicated box of machinery, and as such it is essential for her to receive periodical overhauls in dock at the hands of trained men with scientific and technical knowledge. Especially is this the case with those navies which have not a great number of specialist officers, and in which the proportion of long service seamen is not large.

If the British and American navies, with their highly trained voluntary personnel, find it necessary to devote so much attention and expense to dockyards for the maintenance of their fleets it seems manifest that fleets with much smaller navies, manned chiefly by conscription, must find it even more essential to do likewise.

Taking to heart the lessons of her two recent wars, Turkey has decided that any new vessels she is now building shall be provided with proper docks and machinery for their refitting.

Another Power whose navy has suffered defeat because of faulty administration in this respect is Russia, and she too has obtained the co-operation of foreign manufacturers of war material, first to overhaul her yards in the Baltic and Black Sea, and, second, to provide a new factory for the supply of ordnance. The terms of the concession just granted by the Russian government to Messrs. Vickers, Ltd., show that an Anglo-Russian company, with a capital of £1,600,000 ($7,800,000), will establish gunworks at Tsaritsyn, on the Volga, to supplement the existing output of guns and projectiles. Here the most up to date plant will be available for the repair and relining, as well as the manufacture, of naval guns.

The action of Spain furnishes another instance of the importance of efficient dockyards to support a fleet. At Ferrol and Cartagena the yards are being modernised by a syndicate under the direction of the firms of Armstrong, Vickers and John Brown, who have sublet the contract for a large graving dock to Sir John Jackson, Ltd. If this had not been done there would be nothing to prevent the new Spanish war ships deteriorating, as those of Turkey and some of the South American republics have done.

Of the latter, the First Lord said in his letter to Mr. Borden, the Canadian Premier, on January 31 last:—"It must further be borne in mind that the rapidity with which modern ships deteriorate, unless maintained in the highest state of efficiency by unremitting care and attention, is very marked. The recent experience of certain South American States in regard to vessels of the highest quality has been most painful, and has led to deplorable waste of money, most of which would probably have been avoided if care had been taken to supply, at the time the ships were commissioned, adequate refitting establishments and staffs of skilled and experienced personnel, both afloat and ashore."

No doubt the mistakes of their neighbors will not be lost on the Argentine naval authorities, for whom two dreadnoughts and some small craft are now completing in the United States. There seems to be a great field open here for the American firms concerned in the production of these vessels to become specialists in dockyard management as well as in shipbuilding.

If these firms were able to do for the South American dockyards what the British firms are doing for those of Europe, the new vessels built and building, both in Britain and America, would have fairer opportunities of proving their capabilities and giving an adequate return for the money invested in them.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

An Imaginary Feast

A Thanksgiving Day Story

By CLARISSA MACKIE

They had started out in Jack Henshaw's cabined launch for a cruise among the islands, with duck shooting as their object. It was a fair day in November, with an Indian summer warmth that did not hint of a sudden change in the weather. There were six in the party—Frank Carew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hayden and pretty Phyllis Hayden and Jack Henshaw. The three women occupied the cabin of the launch, and the men made themselves comfortable with blankets and sailcloth on deck.

The first day had passed uneventfully, without even a shot at a duck. The second passed likewise, and the third dawned in the same glow of amber haze and ruddy sun.

"It looks very much as though we would have to return without those promised ducks for Thanksgiving day," observed Jack restlessly as he took the wheel after breakfast.

"If it would blow up a bit colder we might bag a few today. If my prophetic instinct serves me right those clouds yonder look like wind and rain." Bob Hayden puffed out a cloud of smoke and leaned lazily over the rail.

"I hope it doesn't storm. If we don't hurry we won't get back to Cromore in time for dinner tomorrow," said his wife.

"What's the matter with Thanksgiving dinner aboard the Nautilus?" asked her owner.

"It would be perfectly lovely, of course, only you know it couldn't seem like a real Thanksgiving feast. Everything is tinned or bottled. All the Thanksgivings I ever remember are accompanied by the aroma of delicious goodies cooking in the kitchen."

"Enough said," returned Jack grimly. "You spurn my invitation to dinner; therefore it is up to me to turn and beat it for Cromore. We will have barely time to make it before nightfall."

They might have done so easily had not those threatening clouds gradually massed toward the zenith and slowly covered the rest of the blue sky. Then came a thick blanketing fog that blotted out the world and left them isolated in a dense white world of drippling moisture.

There was consternation aboard the Nautilus after that. Those November fogs were very deceiving, and it might be many hours, perhaps days, before they lifted. If they could keep in the winding channel among the islands they would be all right, but if they missed their way and nosed around outside in the track of the big steamers there was no knowing what would be the fate of the little craft and her passengers.

They anchored for awhile, and then, impatient of the delay that would prevent them from arriving home in time for Thanksgiving dinner, they started out again, feeling their way, Jack Henshaw at the wheel and Frank Carew blowing the siren at intervals. Bob Hayden and the three women remained in the cabin and played bridge by the light of the lamp. It was very cheerful in there, away from the fog.

Jack Henshaw stared at the lighted windows of the cabin and thought rather ruefully that his task would be more attractive if Phyllis Hayden would come out and share his turn at the wheel.

The little Nautilus felt her way among the hidden rocks in the channel that snaked among the little islands, and it seemed that hours passed before the fog thinned sufficiently for them to glimpse the dark bulk of an island near at hand.

With the lifting of the fog, which was driven before a nasty easterly wind, the channel became unpleasantly choppy, changing to dashing waves as the wind increased.

While they debated whether to go on or to make an anchorage among the islands their fate was decided for them. A big wave rushed along the narrow channel, lifted the Nautilus upon its crest and sent her crashing upon the rocks of the nearest island, where she wedged tightly between two bowlders.

It all came so suddenly that the duck hunters hardly realized what had happened before Jack Henshaw hustled them ashore with their belongings.

"She's sprung a leak, a big hole in her port bow. We can't do a thing except to carry a couple of lines ashore and fasten them to some of those large cedars."

He was hurrying them ashore with their burdens of hastily snatched clothing and bedding. He followed with all the provisions he could gather and later sent the small oil stove from the galley. By scrambling over the slippery rocks they could reach the firm white beach where ancient cedars fringed the foot of the sand bluffs.

Here the women waited while the three men made the Nautilus fast in her cradle among the rocks in the manner suggested by Jack. When all was completed the six pleasure seekers gathered ruefully about their possessions.

"Goodby, Thanksgiving dinner!" said Carew in a hollow tone.

"And nobody knows how soon we may get to Cromore for any meals," added Mrs. Carew mournfully.

Phyllis Hayden and Jack Henshaw exchanged glances of amusement. To them the adventure savored of romance. To be cast away upon a desert island was a novel experience enough, but to be cast away together, these two, who were in love with each other, made that island a paradise.

"Ah, you're a cheerful lot of Robinson Crusoes!" chided Jack at last. "You may never have the chance to be cast ashore again, and you sit here bemoaning because you can't spend Thanksgiving in the conventional way."

"Can't you be thankful without being prodded by the smell of pumpkin pie and roast turkey?" demanded Phyllis scornfully.

"Let us contrive a shelter from the tarpaulins, and you four may sit there and play bridge. Miss Phyllis and I will concoct a Thanksgiving feast for you to enjoy tomorrow."

The others shamelessly agreed to this unfair division of labor, and after a very practical shelter had been constructed against the sloping bluff and under the shade of two wind blown cedars the married people made themselves very comfortable with cushions from the boat and by the light of a ship's lantern played bridge.

They fussed around a hastily improvised shelter that Jack arranged for a little kitchen, and there they prepared the evening meal with the aid of the oil stove.

A creditable meal it proved to be, though canned beans formed the principal dish, and other canned and bottled delicacies rounded out the menu.

Morning brought sunshine and scudding clouds across the blue sky. The wind still blew heavily, but from another quarter, and the waves were dashing over the deck of the Nautilus.

The castaways tried to be cheerful, but it proved a dismal failure, except in the case of Jack and Phyllis. Those two seemed to have tapped some resourceful flow of good humor, for they laughed and jested and promised a most inviting dinner for the others, who clung to their bridge playing, now sitting on the sandy beach with their cards.

Jack and Phyllis disappeared and were gone for a couple of hours. While they were gone those left behind heard the report of Jack's gun.

"Aha! We'll have a duck, at any rate," murmured Carew.

"I'm afraid not," said his wife. "I notice that the supply of oil is gone, and the Nautilus is washed over with water. Every stick of wood on the island is too wet to burn. Cold canned beef and crackers and peanut butter will constitute our menu today," she ended drearily.

There was nothing cheering in the sight of Jack and Phyllis returning with a brace of ducks, for there was no fire to cook them by. When this evil news was announced to the young pair they merely laughed and said there was oil enough to boil coffee and heat some beans.

"Dinner's ready!" sang out Jack, and they gathered about the hastily prepared meal.

"I thought it was to be a big dinner with trimmings," remarked Carew as he unfolded a paper napkin and sniffed hungrily at the tinned soup.

To the four older ones of the party it was a ghastly feast. With most unseemly levity Jack and Phyllis insisted on referring to the various tinned foods as though they were delicious viands served at a well appointed Thanksgiving table.

"Do have some more turkey," insisted Jack, passing the tinned beans around.

"This chestnut stuffing is delicious," commented Jack, nibbling a crisp cracker. "Mrs. Carew, you are not going to pass up the mince pie?"

"I've eaten many a badly cooked meal," observed Bob Hayden bitterly, "and I've partaken of food from Bombay to Bangor, but this is the first time I've ever eaten an imaginary meal. It gives me mental indigestion to think of it."

"Then what we all need is exercise!" cried Jack. And, having disposed of the remnants of the meal by tossing them into the swift waters of the channel, he drove his guests before him up the steep bank and into a plowed field.

"This doesn't look like any of the islands I've met around here," marveled Carew, gazing thoughtfully around.

"We went a good deal farther than we realized in the fog. I'll lead you to a place. Well, ladies and gentlemen, welcome to Cromore!"

A surprised shout went up as they found themselves on the hill back of Jack Henshaw's home. A curl of blue smoke from the kitchen chimney bore witness that dinner might be expected there after all.

They looked at Jack for explanation.

"We struck the mainland instead of an island. I haven't been in that spot for years."

Musical Possibilities.

Modern composers who lack the facility of creating original melodies sometimes try to console themselves with the reflection that the melodic possibilities have been exhausted. How far this is from being true Dr. Ralph Dunstan has shown: "Even with such a short musical form as the Anglican single chant, which consists in its simple statement of the notes, no less than 60,000,000 different melodies are possible, without regarding the multitudinous differences formed by passing and auxiliary notes, harmonies and rhythmical accentuation. Supposing only one in a hundred of these tones to be musically interesting, we have a possible repertory of 600,000 single chants. And if this be true of such a simple and restricted form of melody, with what overwhelming force does it apply to longer and more important compositions!" The chromatic scale yields over 6,000,000,000 possibilities in the construction of melodies.—Chicago News.

London's First Stone Bridge.

London only gained its true position and importance when the first bridge replaced the ferry across the Thames. The first stone bridge there seems to have been begun in 1176; there had previously been a wooden structure. It is said that King John, pleased with the bridges that he saw in France, brought over a skilled French workman, and he decided to raise the necessary revenue from the rent of houses built upon this bridge. Its arches were narrow, sometimes causing accidents to boats passing beneath; and occasionally whole blocks of houses, falling into disrepair, would topple over into the stream. There were twenty arches, one forming a drawbridge. Many reasons made a drawbridge desirable—not only the passing of masted vessels, but the power of raising it against an enemy.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Food For a Poet.

"I have a vague but persistent yearning for something," murmured the poet—a constant yearning for something, I know not what."

"Maybe it's tripe," suggested the sympathetic landlady. "We haven't had any in a long time."—Washington Herald.

"That large bump running across the back of your head," said the phrenologist, "means that you are inclined to be curious, even to the point of recklessness."

"I know it," said the man who was consulting him; "I got that bump by sticking my head into the dumb waiter shaft to see if the waiter was going up, and it was coming down."

MARRIAGE IS POPULAR

Santals of India Taboo Celibacy Except Among Idiots

Along the banks of the lower Ganges, in India, there dwells a race of people known as the Santals, and they have an unusual claim to distinction. According to a writer on the subject, only idiots enjoy single blessedness among the Santals. Not only is marriage popular, but the Santals have evolved all sorts of ways by which they may obtain wives or husbands for themselves.

The methods followed vary from a purely commercial transaction to a romantic elopement; or, in the case of ugly and unattractive women, the prospective bridegroom may if he likes serve his future father-in-law for a stated period, after which he is free to go off with his bride, and usually some substantial presents as well.

"Buying the bride" is, however, the most common method of doing the business, though there exists also the alternative ceremony known as "buying the husband." The bridegroom has apparently very little choice in the matter, which is arranged by his father or friends, who revel in bride-hunting expeditions.

Having fixed upon a likely girl, they proceed to parables and business. "Have you," they ask the head man of the village where she lives, "any diamonds to sell?" "That," is the guarded reply, "depends upon the quality of your pearls," and the bargaining goes on until the price has been fixed, usually five rupees for a girl and half that amount for a widow, which is "only just, seeing that she rejoins her first love in a future life.

"Tearing the leaf," as divorce is called, is a very simple matter. A Santal leaf torn in half and a piece given to each of the parties is quite sufficient to dissolve the union, the woman, if necessary, being represented by an earthenware pot.

A SOLDIER'S MUSTACHE

When This Facial Ornament Was Lacking It Was Painted on

The hairy sailor compelled to shave suffered only rather more than the beardless soldier compelled to acquire a mustache. Marbot tells how, when he joined the 1st Hussars at Nice, his smooth face was brought to conformity with the rest of the regiment. Sergt. Perteiay "took a pot of blacking and with his thumb made two enormous hooks covering my upper lip, and reaching almost to my eyes. At that time the shakoes had no peak, so it happened that during reviews or when I was doing vidette duty, and was bound to remain perfectly motionless, the scorching rays of the Italian sun pouring down on my face used to suck up the liquid part of the blacking with which my mustache had been made, and the blacking, as it dried, drew my skin in a most unpleasant way."

British soldiers are debarred from wearing a beard, but may, if they choose, let their side whiskers grow. One of the army regulations reads: "The hair of the head is to be kept short. The upper lip is not to be shaved, and the chin and under lip to be shaved. Whiskers, if worn, to be of moderate length." William IV. appears to have been keenly interested in the observance of this regulation. Six weeks before his death an army order was issued stating that the King desired "to call the attention of general officers and officers commanding regiments to the repeated orders that have been issued by his Majesty's command against wearing long hair and whiskers. Lord Hill will be under the disagreeable necessity of reporting to his Majesty any officers who shall deviate from these orders."

ARABIANS MADE FIRST PAPER

They Manufactured It About the Middle of the Seventh Century

Although the fact is generally known that the Arabs transmitted from India to Europe, through Arabia, the figures with which we do our sums, says Harper's Weekly, it is not so well known that they are also to be thanked for paper.

At various times the scholars of different countries have tried definitely to determine the real discoverer of paper in the eleventh century. From time immemorial something answering modern paper was used in China, where it was manufactured from silk. About the middle of the seventh century of our era there seems to have been established in Arabia a manufactory of paper, and 50 years later the way was discovered to make it from cotton instead of from silk, silk being a rare commodity outside of China at that time and cotton relatively plentiful.

In the reign of Henry II. of France a Greek scholar was sent to Paris to arrange systematically a catalogue of antique manuscripts in the Royal Library, and a notation in his hand speaks of what was then known as "paper" as originating in Damascus.

The later invention of making paper from flax, linen or hemp has been attributed equally to Italy and Germany, but there is evidence that it existed prior to the fourteenth century.

Early marriages in Ireland have greatly decreased since 1864, in which year of the males who married 3.77 per cent. were under full age. In 1910 the percentage was 1.51, the lowest percentage being in 1906, when it was 1.37.

TRAGEDY OF RADCLIFFE

Radcliffe Tower at Bury, Lancashire, is the reputed scene of the tragedy told in the Lancashire ballad of "Fair Ellen of Radcliffe," daughter of Sir William de Radcliffe, whose terrible fate is also recorded in a ballad in the Pepys collection, entitled "The Ladye Isabella's Tragedy, or the Stepmother's Cruelty."

Ellen's mother died in giving her daughter birth, and Sir William married again. The stepmother was intensely jealous of her predecessor's beautiful daughter, so one day while Sir William was hunting she sent the girl into the kitchen with a message to the cook to dress "the white doe." The cook understood, and killed the girl, making her into a pie. On the knight returning he was told that Ellen, or Isabella, had entered a nunnery, but Sir William was suspicious, and the truth was revealed by a scullion who warned his master against eating the pie. For her share in the crime the stepmother was burnt, the cook being placed in boiling lead. There are several versions of the story, which undoubtedly, is based on fact.

CEREMONY OF PLOWING

Chinese Emperors Took Part in This Every Spring

While the old order of things remained in China, and before that country became a republic it was the business of the Emperor to attend to the important ceremony of the early spring plowing, which from time immemorial was performed by the rulers of the Flowery Kingdom in the sacred fields near Pekin.

This curious ceremony was observed for the purpose of impressing upon the Chinese people the importance of tilling the earth and sticking to the farm.

The emperor, accompanied by his retinue, was accustomed to proceed in great state to the sacred field. At each of the four corners of this field stood a pavilion, where the seeds of wheat and other cereals were kept. In the middle of the field numbers of magnificently attired courtiers held aloft many-colored flags, while thousands of farmers looked on, each holding some agricultural implement in his hand.

Placing his left hand on the plow, and holding a whip in his right hand, the emperor began the ceremony. By prearrangement the officers did their allotted share, some wielding hoes, and others scattering seeds out of baskets, as if sowing them, while the emperor was busy with the plow, which was hitched to a richly caparisoned bullock, draped in yellow, and led by two of the emperor's bodyguard.

When the emperor finished his stunt at the plow, the royal princes went through a similar performance, and after them nine of the highest courtiers took a turn. Thus the ceremony was completed, and the royal plowman and his train returned to the palace.

Landseer's Ambidexterity

Sir Edwin Landseer appears to have been one of the perfect examples of the ambidextrous persons on record. In Mrs. Cowden Clarke's reminiscences she records her amazement at "Edwin Landseer's wonderful feat, when some one was talking of being able to write or draw with the left hand. Landseer remarked, 'I think I can not only draw with my left hand, but I can draw with both hands at once.' Whereupon he took up two pencils and actually drew a horse with one hand and a dog with the other, at the same time."

INSULT TO INJURY.

Sheriff Drives Off Mob Then Deputizes the Leaders.

CHESTERTOWN, Md., Dec. 29.—The mob of men who Saturday night battled with Sheriff Brown and his deputies at the Kent county jail in an effort to lynch Norman Mabel, colored, the self-confessed murderer of John R. Coleman, a farmer, dispersed early yesterday after making a final ineffectual effort to rush the jail. The determined stand of the officers who thrice turned back an attack of the infuriated men finally broke the spirit of the would-be lynchers.

Daunted by the determined stand of the officers the men slowly filed out. States Attorney Vickers and Sheriff Brown followed and selected half a dozen who appeared to be the leaders, deputized them and ordered them to come into the jail and aid in its defence. The men selected obeyed although unwillingly.

Long Session Expected.

KINGSTON, Dec. 29.—A prolonged session of the reform commission is looked for if there are no confessions by guards at the penitentiary for having been guilty of trafficking in tobacco.

The intention is to take evidence in the cases if no confessions are made. Furthermore, confessions on the part of guards mean immediate dismissal. If there is no confession and a guard is found guilty it will mean six months' imprisonment in jail for the offence.

No intimation has been made by the commission as to what action will be taken against guards who gave their wrong age on their application papers.

Phantom Bandits Active.

CANNES, France, Dec. 29. — The people of the outlying districts are in the state of panic over what they believe to be the reappearance of the "phantom bandits," who terrorized the countryside for years by a series of murders and outrages, which long baffled the best efforts of the authorities.

Saturday night a farmer was shot dead through a window as he was sitting with his family at the supper table. The previous night another farmer was shot at but not hit. In each case a thorough search of the surroundings failed to reveal the slightest clue to the perpetrators.

Sailors Are Arrested.

LEWES, Del., Dec. 29.—The revenue cutter Seneca Saturday afternoon reached the British steamer Royal Dalmeny, which returned to the Delaware Cape Friday with several of the crew in irons and others injured as a result of a fight with knives among some of the men in the engine room. Officers of the Seneca are making an investigation and may land some of the crew. The steamer is bound from Philadelphia for Avonmouth and was far at sea when the fighting started among the crew, compelling the captain to return in a heavy gale.

Stratford's New Fire Bylaw.

STRATFORD, Dec. 29.—In a new bylaw drawn up by the fire and light committee th fire limits have been changed. A new limit, No. 4, has been added, and in No. 3 rearrangement has practically taken place. The provisions for building, too, have received attention in their applications to large buildings, such as churches, schools and assembly halls. The bylaw goes into effect at once.

Railway Telegraphers To Strike.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Dec. 29.—The strike committee of the Order of Railway Telegraphers Saturday night issued orders for the telegraphers on the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad to strike on Monday if the conference with the receivers of the Frisco to-day is fruitless. The telegraphers, it is announced, will make no concessions, and a strike is regarded as inevitable.

Nervous Energy is Limited

There is only so much energy in the human body. A few people have an abundance, but more have not enough. Hence the necessity of conserving vitality.

If wasted by mode of living, disease or worry there must be a reckoning, and trouble is sure to come. It may be headaches and weak, aching eyes; it may be nervous indigestion, or it may be merely lack of energy and ambition, and feelings of fatigue or helplessness. Of course, sooner or later exhaustion of the nerves leads to prostration, paralysis or locomotor ataxia, but there is no need to let the trouble develop that far.

By using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you can restore to the feeble, wasted nerve cells the energy they have lost. It will take some effort on your part to give up worry and anxiety, but you should realize your serious condition. Rest and use this great food cure and you are bound to improve in health and vigour.

CHILDREN'S SERVICE AT ST. LUKE'S

Christmas Music and a Christmas Sermon Last Evening

Last evening at St. Luke's Church, the annual Carol service and address to the children of the Sunday school was held. The scholars occupied the centre aisle. Every available seat in the Church was occupied, the congregation last evening being an exceptionally large one. A number of Christmas carols were sung, the children singing with zest and a spirit that was very commendable. In the carol, "We Three Kings of Orient" solos were sung by Masters Frank and Fred Logan and Sam Whitehouse. During the offertory, the choir sang in splendid voice, "Sing O Heavens," the soprano solo being very sweetly rendered by Master Sam Whitehouse.

The Rector, Rev. F. J. Sawers, delivered an eloquent sermon, making it especially interesting for the boys and girls. He told the story of the birth of Christ in language of striking simplicity, impressing upon the children some wholesome and significant lessons to be derived therefrom.

In the afternoon the teachers and scholars brought gifts which will be sent this week to less fortunate ones in the northern townships of Peterborough County.

QUIET AT THE CAPITAL

OTTAWA, Dec. 9.—The Capital will be a quiet place politically until the opening of the New Year. Premier Borden, Hon. Louis Coderre and Hon. Frank Cochrane, who has returned from Sudbury, are about the only ministers in the City.

IN SEARCH OF MISSING SHIP.

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Dec. 29—The Government steamer Montmagny has been sent in search of the barque Lona W. of Malone Bay, N.S., which has been twenty-two days out of Georgetown, P.E.I., for Liverpool. The vessel was last seen near Whitehead, N. S., and was then gaining her sails. Search is being made at the request of Dr. Stewart, M.P., for Lunenburg.

DEATH COMES AS RESULT OF ACCIDENT

Three-year-old Centreville Girl Falls Into Pail of Hot Water and is Terribly Scalded

DIED THIS MORNING

A terrible accident occurred at Centreville on Saturday night when the three-yearold daughter of Mr. Wm. Murney of that Village was so badly scalded that her death resulted this morning. It appears that the child's mother was working with a pail of scalding hot water while the little one was playing nearby. In some manner the girl fell into the water and was very badly scalded. Although everything was done to relieve her sufferings the child passed away this morning.

Did Not Commit Breach Of Law

Magistrate Dumble Rules That Defendant Keeps His Garbage in Suitable Place

James Morrison, who claimed Orillia was his home, appeared in this morning's Police Court, charged with being drunk and disorderly. It seems that after begging a meal at the Snowden House, James became abusive, and when the porter demanded to know the reason, answered him with what is known to some as a "shoot in the beak." He was arrested and appeared in Police Court this morning.

"Where do you come from?" asked the Magistrate.

"Orillia—generally," answered the prisoner.

"Well when you Orillia people come to a civilized place you must behave yourselves. I fine you $2 and costs, or 10 days in gaol."

Having no rating in Bradstreets James accepted the 10 days with the best grace he could command.

Mr. Andrews, an Antrim street resident, complained that his next door neighbour left the garbage to be collected, right under his bedroom window, instead of at the side of the street as demanded by the law. The Magistrate, however, ruled that the defendant left his garbage in a suitable place.

"If you want to live in a city you must take the stinks as you find them," he said to the complainant, "If you want fresh air move down to Byersville. We all sniff the garbage as we go down street, and ladies have to corrode themselves with perfume to get by it."

The case was dismissed.

THE CANDIDATES LAY THEIR CLAIMS BEFORE THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY

Nominees For the Mayoralty and the Public Utilities Commission Address Large Gathering of the Ratepayers in the Council Chambers This Morning--What the Rival Candidates Say in Support of Their Candidature.

Nominations, speeches, nominations and then some more speeches. This was the bill of fare that was provided in the City Council Chamber this morning between the hours of ten and one o'clock. Sixteen candidates in all were nominated to fill various municipal offices while nine were nominated in the other four wards of the city. The list includes three mayoralty candidates, two for the Board of Water Commissioners, eight for the Board of Education and twelve for Aldermen. The nominations for the Mayoralty, Water Commissioners and the Board of Education took place between the hours of ten and eleven o'clock and was followed by a speech festival lasting one hour. This was followed by the nominations for Aldermen and a few more abbreviated speeches.

The Council Chamber was crowded to capacity when Mr. S. R. Armstrong, city clerk, called for nominations. The three Mayoralty candidates were among the first comers, they were soon followed by other aspirants for municipal honours, and when eleven o'clock arrived, standing room in the hall was at a premium.

The first candidate who accepted the privelege of ten minutes' speech was Mr. G. A. Gillespie, Mayoralty candidate.

Alderman Gillespie.

It was my wish to have Mayor Bradburn occupy the chair for another year to finish the work he had begun, said Mr. Gillespie, but circumstances, for which I am not responsible, have prevented this, and I am asking your support on Monday next, realising that my opposition, Alderman Buller and Mr. Hartley, have the same right to advance their claims as well as myself.

For five years I have been a member of your City Council, and have taken my share of the responsibility in connection with the work accomplished by the various committees. I have kept in close touch with public affairs of the City, and in asking your support for the position of Chief Magistrate of our City, I fully realize the responsibility of the placing at the head of the council, for the year 1914, the best available man who can guide and direct to a successful finish, the very important undertakings now before the ratepayers.

Hydro-Electric.

Most important at the present time, is the light and power question, I wish to remove from the minds of the public, any apprehension they may have had in regard to the installation of the Hydro-Electric system. The enterprise is one where the profits go to reduce the cost to the people. There are no profits to pay to any shareholder, but each ratepayers is a shareholder and a partner in the enterprise. The Hydro-Electric policy has worked out well in other municipalities, and I believe it will work out well in the City of Peterborough. There are no doubt, difficulties to be overcome but I fully believe that with the help of Mr. Beck and the engineers of the Commission, all the difficulties will be overcome, and the public will have the advantage of an up-to-date lighting and power system at cost with the rates decreasing year by year and the advantage not only to ourselves, but to our children who come after us.

I have been chairman of the manufacturers' and on the Power Committee for two years, and while chairman of this committee, Peterborough passed through the most critical stage in her history of development. We were practically at a standstill in getting new industries to locate here, but by pursuing a vigorous campaign we were successful in locating three new industries in our City, i.e., the Vermont Marble Works, the Henry Hope and Sons and The De Laval Dairy and Supply Company. The latter company, I feel that I can claim. It was through my knowledge of the dairy business, able to demonstrate to them that Peterborough was the best place in the province for them to locate. They have now spent $900,000.00 in plant and buildings in our City, and have given employment to 150 of our ratepayers.

I have also been chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee for the past two years, and while chairman of this committee, we have succeeded in putting the fire department of our City in first-class fighting shape, believing that it is important that we protect the homes of our citizens and the industries of our City, so that the working man may not be deprived of his daily work through our negligence in not being prepared to fight fires on the shortest possible notice. Our loss by fire during this year has only amounted to $17,000.00.

Streets and Pavements.

We have this year started the paving of our streets, and we hope next year to continue this policy, believing that in the business section of our City, traffic is becoming so heavy that it is absolutely necessary to lay permanent work, believing that it is economy in the end, in the yearly upkeep of our streets. Our engineering department is fully alive to our need of better streets, and have recommended to the Board of Works, and to which they have approved, of the placing on our streets next year, a crushed rock, obtainable in the northern part of our City, the cost of which will be less than gravel, and far superior as a wearing material.

Taxation.

It has been said and truly said, that the rate of taxation in our city is too high. With this argument I agree, but circumstances have been such that your Council have been unable to prevent the ever increasing tax rate. Our growth has been enormous in the past ten years, practically doubled, and to provide for this, more sewers, sidewalks and roadways have had to be built, and just as in any private concern, the cost of expansion has to be undertaken and provided for before any revenue can be derived and returned back to the city treasury. However, I think I can safely predict that next year we will have a substantial revenue from the new industries lately located, and from the workmen brought into our city by these industries. We also have a statement from Mr. Patterson of the Canadian General Electric Company, that they expect to enlarge their plant by the manufacturing of electric locomotives, and will employ many more skilled mechanics who will also contribute towards the city's treasury.

Your Board of Education has also made very heavy demands on your Council in the past two years, and have been responsible for about one-half of the increase in taxes each year. Your Police Department has also been increased, and all combined, go to account for the higher rate of taxation. My own opinion is, that not until we get a change in our system of taxation and tax the land instead of improvements, will we be entirely rid of the burden of taxation. I have also been an advocate of publishing the assessment roll, so that all ratepayers may see just how his neighbour is assessed, and if he feels his assessment is unjust, he may apply to the Court of Revision for an adjustment, and if elected I will do my utmost to have this accomplished.

I place before you my five years' service as your Alderman, ten years' citizenship of your city, by own business dealings with the citizens and ratepayers and ask you to judge as to my ability to fill the chair of your Chief Magistrate. Cast aside any political influence and be guided by what you think is for the best interest of our city.

In closing I would like to say to the labour men of our city, that I am fully acquainted with their conditions, having gone through all stages of labour personally, I cannot but realize their needs under present conditions of high cost of living and taxation, and if elected on Monday next, will promise to see that they receive just treatment.

I have tried in a short space of ten minutes, to cover some of the important points in connection with our city government, and will be pleased to answer personally, or through the press, any questions relating to my past or future intentions of city expenditure.

Alderman Buller.

Alderman Buller, the second speaker, said he was pleased that he and his opponents were on the best of terms. Regarding the statement of the city's expenditure there was not one item, he said, which the ratepayers could find fault with. The Council cannot curtail the Board of Education's expenditure, and it forms one of the largest items.

"I was born and raised in Peterborough, and have been a working man here. I have been chairman of the Fire, Water and Light, Power and Manufacturers' committee, and Board of Works, and I expect to be elected to the position of Mayor.

"Alderman Gillespie mentioned a number of industries that came to Peterborough during his regime. He did help in securing them, and so did I. In fact if you look over that period of the Council I think you will find that some of the negotiations were begun during my chairmanship of the Manufacturers' Committee.

"My platform will be to use economy in the city's business which we have always done in this Council. You know my stand on the Hydro-Electric question and on other important matters. I am also in favour of an equalization of taxation, and I think it is time we considered the running of the city by commission. This has been tried out in other places with success. I am in favour of a free market, and I think more attention should be paid to food stuffs which the people want reduced. If I am elected Mayor I will do my duty in these matters.

"I have been a labouring man and I appreciate what the labouring men of the city require. I think I have a

A SERIOUS CONFLAGRATION IN MONTREAL

Handicapped by Water Famine, Brigade Has a Terrific Fight on Its Hands—Twenty Houses Burned

FIRE SPREADING

Special Wire to The Examiner:

MONTREAL, Dec. 29.—Handicapped by a water famine due to the break in the waterworks system, the the Montreal Fire Department is this afternoon fighting a fire which may prove very disastrous to this city. The flames broke out about one-thirty and spread with great rapidity. At two-thirty, twenty buildings had been destroyed and the residents for several blocks around were being warned to move out with such belongings as they could take with them. At the present time the fire is centred around St. Hubert and Ontario streets. After hours of work the firemen have at three o'clock conected up a line of hose from the St. Lawrence river several miles away and a steady stream is now being pumped in.

With the aid of several hose lines laid from the St. Lawrence river the firemen subdued the blaze after half a million dollars' damage was done.

Expect The Next Session To Be Short

Examiner Special:

OTTAWA, Dec. 29.—A short session with as little discussion as possible is the programme of the Government for the approaching meeting of Parliament. With the opening fixed for January fifteenth, Premier Borden and his colleagues are counting upon prorogation by the end of May or the beginning of June. In this time the government proposes to put through estimates covering a quarter of a billion dollars to pass the Naval Aid Bill, to put through the Redistribution Bill, to discuss the high cost of living, and prescribe a solution for it, while at the time passing some millions of railway subsidies. The closure rule will be applied with the utmost severity.

CANADIAN ALMANAC.

At the words "Canadian Almanac" the old-timer rubs his eyes and his memory takes him back nearly the Psalmist's span of human life—sixty-seven years, when the "Canadian Almanac" came into existence as "Scobie's Almanac." If wine had been put into wood three score of years ago, it wouldn't have ripened like the Canadian Almanac has done. This year this great tabloid encyclopedia is better than ever, if possible. It is a veritable mine—only its deposits are refined and ready for use—of miscellaneous information, full and authentic, bearing upon commercial, statistical, astronomical, educational and financial subjects, with a liberal stock of general information. Almost anything one wishes to know in the above list is to be found in the well-filled pages of the Canadian Almanac What one can't find in it is not much in demand by editors, professional men, business men, and the private citizen. Every year the scope of information is widened and new. This year it is a volume of more than 500 pages in fine, yet clear type. The Canadian Almanic is become indispensable. The Copp, Clark Company, Toronto, Limited, Toronto, are publishers.

THE FREE PRESS SOUVENIR.

The Manitoba Free Press should be put on trail of the causes of the high cost of living. If anybody or anything can find out things that are hidden it is the Free Press. Every Christmas, for the past dozen years, it has sent out to the press of Canada a Christmas box, always unique, always full of historic or national interest. What it will do next is a mystery—perhaps unsolved by itself till it gets to thinking and digging, and delving again to find something new and rare and interesting. This year it takes us back to beginnings, to the days when French enterprise had overrun and held sway over, or laid claim to, the greater part of North America. Accompanying a delightfully informing little booklet, printed and illustrated in the best style of the Free Pres—and that is saying much—is an exact reproduction in lead of a tablet of lead deposited 170 years ago—on March 30th, 1743, in a bluff overlooking the Missouri River by the Chevalier Verendrye, as evidenc that he had taken possession of the territory in the name of Louis XV. of France. The name Verendrye is familiar to evdry school boy and girl in connection with the early history of Canada. Some day, when we have more space, we shall reprint from the Free Press' booklet the interesting little history connected with the tablet, for which and the booklet, the Examiner gives its warmest thanks, to the Free Press, and reciprocates the kind Christmas wishes involved in its presentation.

ASHAMED OF THE SHOWING.

The supporters of the Borden Government are in a dilemma, a dilemma so embarrassing that it is a choice between frank acknowledgment of failure and frank lying. It would be an acknowledgment of failure if it were admitted that the country under the Borden Government was less prosperous; that lera business was done; that the purchasing power of the people was lessened; that the people had less money to spend. Yet all this would be told if it were admitted that there was a drop in customs returns a sure index of popular prosperity—of a demand for goods that would justify importation and mean collection of duties. In default of frank acknowledgement of this condition the government takes the baser course. Under the management of Hon. Dr. Reid, Minister of Customs, it has become the practice to feed the Conservative press "cooked" figures with the intention of deceiving the public. This has become more marked than ever, during the last few months, when the effect of "Tory" administration has become apparent in reduced income. The system is carried even to the extent of, as far as je possible, preventing Liberal newspapers from securing this public information until the "doctored" figures has been foisted on the public through the Government press. At times they rather over-step the mark. For instance, recently, Conservative organs appeared with two items, one reading, "Dominion's revenue greatly increased" and amongst the increases, "Customs .$615,583.18." In the same issue there appeared the following, "Drop in Customs revenue," with a statement that there was a drop during November alone of nearly $1,500,000 and a drop during the eight months of present year of 25 millions. Evidently the preparation of financial fiction makes too heavy demands upon departmental imagination. The Government has the grace to be ashamed of the showing the country is making under its administration.

WHAT SIR WILFRID SAW.

Sir Wilfrid saw the coming change in the cost of living and planned to avert it as far as possible. The plans were frustrated by a delusive campaign. Now the men who do not know what to do or how to do it will try to appease the people by a commission of inquiry.—Globe.

THE MYSTERY OF MR. FOSTER'S ABSENCES

From every point of view it is to be regretted that Hon. Mr. Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, has found it expedient to be off once more for other climes. We had hoped, after his recent denial of the rumour that he was going to England, that at last Government and Parliament were going to get at the benefit of his presence and experience. But no sooner is another session of Parliament announced than Mr. Foster is up and off — this time to place the Atlantic Ocean, instead of the Pacific, between himself and the people's forum.

As on previous occasions, Mr. Foster's excuse is that he goes to talk Imperial trade. But we cannot help thinking that there are other reasons why he displays such eagerness to do abroad what another might easily do instead of carrying out at home the work which the country naturally has a right to expect from a man holding his important position in the Cabinet. We suspect that in his heart Mr. Foster is as fond of these "tours de luxe" on vague Empire affairs, as he is proud of his position as a Cabinet minister. But, even if he is, that in itself is not sufficent to explain his absence every time Parliament is in session.

We remember, of course, that Mr. Foster, during the long period when he was in opposition, laid down his political principles in many a long speech and many a resolution now on record in Hansard. The action of the present Government in regard to many of the matters thus discussed by Mr. Foster must give him considerable misgiving at times—and possibly he hardly likes to risk appeals to himself from his fellow members to be true to his principles or recant them. But Mr. Foster cannot continually shirk his responsibility in this manner. Not only is he the most experienced member of the present Cabinet, but he has by far the most acute political intellect, and he should, from his opportunities as a former Finance Minister, have the greatest financial knowledge. His guidance and counsel are imperatively necessary in a Cabinet composed of inexperienced and extravagant politicians — and more than ever necessary in the coming session of Parliament, when so many matters of importance are coming up.

We are reluctant to believe Mr. Foster can look with approval on the extravagant expenditures of the present Cabinet; we refuse to believe that he is a party to the proposed spending of some $250,000,000, which is the sum commonly spoken of as the appropriation for the coming year. He is not the type of man to say "Let us eat, drink, and be merry, for to-morrow we die." Yet at every period when the Cabinet needs him—at every period when his presence might help materially in the counsels of the nation—he packs his grip, and is off. This may be a way of intimating that he washes his hands of Cabinet doings. But it is not the way of statesman, and it will hardly commend itself to thoughtful men in the Conservative ranks.— Montreal Telegraph.

The Star is glad to welcome its contemporary, the News, to the ranks of investigators of the high cost of living, and is glad also to note that already light is beginning to break. For some days the News has been publishing as account of an investigation by a special commissioner into prices of food supplies in Buffalo, and yesterday it printed a comparison showing the cost of a number of staple articles in Buffalo and in Toronto. These figures are reproduced below and an examination of them will repay the trouble.

Below them are reprinted the figures giving a similar comparison which The Star published two years ago and which at that time aroused some controversy. The Star figures were presented as averages, which explains the decimal points, and the News list contains a few articles not included in The Star of two years ago. Here are the figures:

MADE NO DIFFERENCE.

"Shave yourself, sir don't you?" said a barber who was trimming the hair of a customer.

"Yes," replied the customer. "How did you know?"

"Well," rejoined the barber, "I know I have never shaved you, and I do sometimes trim your hair. Besides that, I think a hair dresser would do a little better job than you seem to do."

"Very likely."

"We'd have pretty hard work making a living if every man was like you," pursued the barber, after clipping and snipping a few moments in silence.

"Perhaps."

"You're in business, ain't you?"

"Yes."

"Well, s'pose no barbers ever bought anything of you, how would you like that?"

"I don't think it would make any difference in my case," rejoined the customer. "My business is selling mouth organs."

And the barber finished the job in silence.

Business Management of City's Business

TO THE ELECTORS OF CENTRE WARD

In voting for A. H. STRATTON for Alderman for Centre Ward you are voting for a live go-ahead man who has the interests of Peterborough at heart. He is a large taxpayer and will use his best efforts to keep your taxes down to the low water marks. At the same time he is sure to encourage existing manufacturers and endeavour to bring in a new industries. In regard to the important matter of Hydro Electric, while he favours it he is especially in favour of business-like management of the enterprise of seeing that the people, who voted so almost unanimously for it, get the greatest benefit from it at the least possible cost consistent with efficiency. He is a good business man by the test of success in his own business and knows that to encourage the working men and find employment for them at good wages helps the business man and thereby helps to make a BIGGER AND BETTER CITY. Be sure and vote for

A. H. STRATTON

VOTE FOR

W. BULLER

THE PEOPLE'S CANDIDATE FOR

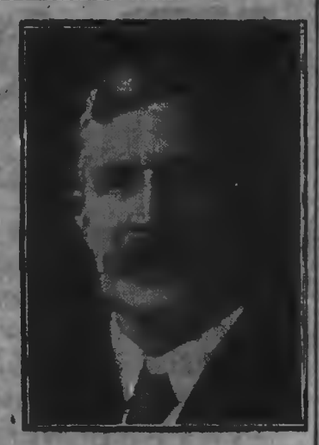
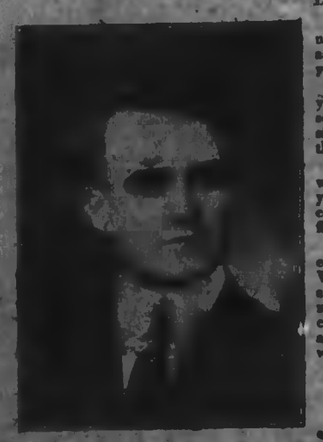
FOR 1914



To the Electors of the West Ward

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:



Having been requested by a large number of citizens to stand for re-election as Alderman, I again respectfully tender you my services.

I have now represented you for four years, during which time I have made myself thoroughly conversant with the streets, sidewalks, sewers and other interests in the Ward.

By my services in the past, together with the past four years' experience, I ask you to judge my actions in the future, and confidently solicit your support and influence.

If elected, I again promise to conscientiously look after the interests of the Ward and the City in general, and to give all matters coming before your Council the necessary time and careful consideration, endeavouring to consider all questions in a fair and businesslike manner, consistent with economy and general progressiveness.

With season's best wishes, I am,

Your Obedient Servant,

JOS. J. DUFFUS

J. J. HARTLEY

The Workingman's Candidate For

MAYOR

Unanimously Endorsed by the Trades & Labor Council

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen:—

At the urgent request of a large number of the ratepayers I have consented to be a candidate for the position of Mayor for the year 1914. Being born and lived my whole life in Peterborough, and a whole life's savings being invested in Peterborough, I naturally have a deep interest in the welfare and prosperity of the city.

Should I be elected I promise you that I will guard to the very best of my ability the interests of the ratepayers and will oppose all unnecessary expenditure.

I will do my utmost to keep down the ever-increasing rate of taxation, consistent with the needs of the growing municipality.

I may say that I am in favour of municipal ownership, and in favour of having all city work done by our own people, instead of bringing in foreigners to do it. I will endeavour to see that the ratepayers get value for every dollar that is expended. I have had considerable experience in municipal matters, having served two years in the Council and fourteen years on the Board of Education, being chairman of that board for two years. I was also chairman of the Board of Health for several years, so that you will see that I am not without a fair share of experience.

Should you do me the honour to elect me Mayor of our city, I will do my best to serve you to the very best of my ability.

Yours respectfully,

J. J. HARTLEY

J. J. HARTLEY'S COMMITTEE ROOMS

Open every evening from now until after polling day. Situated over 435 George Street, (next floor to Trade and Labour Hall). Friends of Mr. Hartley are asked to attend the rooms.

TO THE RATEPAYERS OF CENTRE WARD

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

There is one thing on which the Council and people should stand together. That is our Hydro-Electric and Municipal Power and Light Policy. In their own interests the electors should assist in electing men who will see that policy through. A good beginning has been made. See that it is completed.

I am in with that policy as a Citizen and will be, if elected, as an Alderman, and shall be glad to receive your vote to place me in Council.

Yours respectfully,

F. H. DOBBIN

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE NORTH WARD

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

My attention has been drawn drawn to the fact that some party or parties have circulated a report that I have been placed in the Aldermanic field by the Seymour Power Company. I wish to absolutely deny this as strongly as I can, and if I have as good evidence that the statements are made after this notice appears, as I have of the fact that they have already been made, I will take other means of correcting an absolute lie. I wish to state that I am entirely in favour of the Hydro-Electric system and its operation in Peterborough, but I will leave it to your own judgment as to whether it has been competently handled by the Power committee of the City Council, during the past year, of which Mr. Johnston is Chairman.

BILLY WEAVER'S CHRISTMAS REWARD

Billie Weaver stuck his cold hands into his pockets and strode away in silence. The other boys went on with their Christmas talk and Billy didn't like to hear of the good things of which he had no share. He remembered the last Christmas and how he had hoped for presents for Santa Claus always brought presents to good boys. Billy knew he had been a good boy but the last Christmas morning he had gazed wistfully out of the uncurtained window and seen the little Smith children come out of their house with a new cherry stained sled.

"Well," muttered Billy Weaver to himself, "it ain't any use of thinking about Christmas when no presents ever come."

He turned the corner abruptly and nearly bumped into old Deacon Johnson of the village church.

"How de do," drawled the parson.

"Well," continued the deacon, "You had better come over to Sunday School next Sunday and hear about the preparations for the Christmas exercises. Going to have a big time over there and they have a dandy young lady teacher for the boys about your size."

Billy said "Thank you," and spent the rest of the week in speculating on the advisability of going to Sunday School. The next Saturday night he gave the old shoes a good rub with a stock and a banana peeling and was ready for the services bright and early on Sunday morning.

He had a guilty conscience about going to that Sunday School, boys and girls always feel that way when they start in just about Christmas time. Billy reported, however, and was given a rude shock at the opening exercises. The teacher introduced him to all the other boys and instead of asking questions told them about a poor family living down by the railroad that were badly in need of food and clothing.

"Boys," said the teacher, "I want each of you to tell what you will do for these poor little children."

"A new wrinkle," thought Billy. "Our folks have always been on the charity list and here these Sunday School folks want me to begin supporting that family down by the railroad."

"How much will you earn next week that you can give to their Christmas basket?" interrupted the teacher.

"Twenty-five cents," said the first boy and the rest not wishing to be outdone by his generosity, all chimed in with the same amount.

Billy Weaver was in a quandary The first day at Sunday School had proven fatal. He had promised twenty-five cents to some other poor folks when his own mother did not have that much more to meet the household expenses.

"Kind of tough luck," murmured Billy, as he kicked his way home through the ever-increasing drifts of snow.

"Got to get that quarter, got to get that quarter," were the thoughts that went rumbling through his head all the way home and Billy Weaver was up against a financial proposition that taxed his ingenuity beyond comprehension.

The next day he remembered the snow shoveling job down in front of a big office building and Billy was on the job before the sun had scarcely peeped over the low factories down by the railroad. He earned ten cents from the first man and kept on down the street until he had collected all of thirty cents for his work of shoveling snow. Then temptation came and Billy Weaver wondered if he really had to give that twenty-five cents to the teacher for the basket

It was a hard pull but he thought, "No Weaver ever went back on his word," and he trudged down to the teacher's home and deposited his twenty-five cents. The night before Christmas was a lonesome time in the Weaver home. The mother and four little Weavers were not anticipating a Merry Christmas and Billy's three little sisters knew that Santa Claus would surely stop and see them Billy was not so sure but like a little stoic he sat by the old stove and talked of what he would do for them when he grew to be a big man.

Christmas morning came and when Billy opened the door a large basket trimmed with holly and lightly sprinkled with snow was the first thing that met his gaze. Billy brought it in and they all assisted in opening it before the stove. There were dolls for the little sisters and skates for Billy and there were nuts and candy and a fine yellow chicken. Way down in the bottom of the basket Billy heard a jingle and picking up a little bag emptied ten shiny silver quarters.

That was just the number of boys in the Sunday School class and Billy sat and thought for a long, long time His little friends had never known where their good deed was going to light and Billy Weaver's sacrifice had come directly home.—The Gleaner.

A READER ASKS SOME PUZZLING QUESTIONS

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Sir,—I wish to have a little space in your paper for a few lines. I wish to ask the reason why so many of your bright young men of Peterborough are out of work at the present day. I don't understand it. Why don't your paper state how many men are out of work? I know there are scores of them. Are you afraid to speak out for fear of the town or what? Why don't the business men of this fast growing town advertise in your Want Ad. column for men? It is only business like. We get your paper every night. The first thing we look for is the Want Ad. column; naturally coming from a much bigger city.

You have more factories for the size of the town than any town I know of yet. Why are the men out of work? I know for a fact that they don't employ half the men that they should. Why? I read about so and so getting a big contract from so and so. How is it that they don't employ more men? Can you tell me? I hear that these factories sign contracts to employ so many men. Do they live up to it? I wish you would look into it, it will prove a good story for the working men of the town.

How is it that these factories take advantage of the working men in their slack time by reducing the wages? What it is coming to I don't know. Now I think twenty-five cents an hour is the least a working man can get along with in these days of high living, yet I am sorry to say I know lots who don't get even that.

But how about the poor wretch who has no work at all?

It is all right for some fellow sitting in his office with a big fat cigar in his mouth saying he should get out and look for it. But when he can't find any after looking for it for three months and spends all his money, what then? Surely this world owes us a living, and a decent one at that, and if we can't get it in this town we will have to go where we can get it. Hoping to see this in print to the public, I remain,

Yours for a better time,

A Reader.

Dec. 28th. 1913.

The Examiner would give a good deal to be able to answer such questions, and a good deal more to be able to obviate the necessity of such questions being asked. These questions are new, not only in Peterborough, but in Canada. It is some sixteen or eighteen years since such questions have been presented. There is always more or less unemployment, but it is a long, long time since there have been so many men who are willing and anxious to work, out of work. "Reader" must look higher up than the newspapers for an answer to the question why so many are out of work. The newspapers give all the work possible, and do their best to help men get work. But if there is no work to get the newspapers, in this way, can do nothing. We were told that if we got a protective government we should have good times. The majority of us were foolish enough to put out a good government that had no "hard times," no "lack of employment" written upon its record. The representative of West Peterborough has a letter in to-day's issue, crowded out of Saturday's issue, in which he glorifies the beauties and beneficence of protection. Perhaps he can explain why a high-tariff government, such as he supports, does not give us work. It is cold comfort for a man to read piffling theories in the press while men are out of work all about. They don't want theories. They want work. Mr. Burnham, M. P., is naturally the local man to apply to for answer to the question "Why are we out of work?" Surely the man who did something he had nothing to do with—got November pay cheques for men employed on the Canal for a Christmas box—as if what a man had earned and owned could be regarded as the bounty of any man—surely a man with so much influence, a man who can make a country rich by theories of protection can answer a simple little question like "Why are we out of work". He made a mighty effort to make sure we were married; he might do something to get us work.

Really, we don't know what to say to "Reader." We feel deeply for the many men out of work. We have suggested to the city authorities that some public work like anticipating sewer construction work might be pushed forward this mild weather, so as to give employment. This may be impracticable, but in default of something like that it is hard to see where work is to come from. We have also suggested, when factories need to reduce their list of workmen that instead of laying off men the hours should be reduced so that the whole staff might be kept on. Even reduced wages are better than no wages—half a loaf is better than no bread.

MUST WAIT THREE WEEKS.

No Immediate Change Expected In Cancer Patient's Health.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 29.—There has been no marked change for the better as yet in the condition of Congressman Bremner, who is undergoing the radium treatment for cancer at Dr. Howard Kelly's sanitarium, on the most extensive scale ever attempted.

No correct prediction as to the curable effects of the treatment can be made under three or possibly four weeks. Owing to the malignant growth in Bremner being near the heart his condition is at all times critical, and as Dr. Kelly has observed in commenting upon the case the Congressman's nerve alone has kept him up. Congressman Bremner's case is the greatest in magnitude that has ever been subjected to the radium test.

Cook Started a Strike.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Dec. 29.—Because Rabt. Mackay, chief chef on the steamship Tyrolia, which docked Saturday, refused to cook for the firemen on the voyage from Trieste because he considered it out of his department and because eleven men in the steward's department of the steerage went on strike for the Saturday half-holiday and refused to work, Captain F. Carey gave them into charge of the police as soon as the ship docked. They were arrested and remanded to jail by Police Magistrate Ridehier.

TO DRIVE LAST SPIKE.

Mackenzie Will Give Finishing Touch to Eastern Section.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Dec. 29.—The last spike on the eastern division of the C.N.R. between Port Arthur and Sudbury, which makes the Mackenzie and Mann road practically a transcontinental, will be driven tomorrow. The ceremony will take place at a point 255 miles east of Port Arthur, and the hammer will be swung by Sir William Mackenzie, president of the C.N.R., who is leaving Toronto for a trip of inspection over the road.

In order to make the connection seven miles remained Saturday to be laid, and with only four days the contractors are hurrying that piece of work by keeping men on the job night and day.

Supplies For Canada.

OTTAWA, Dec. 29.—A report to the Trade and Commerce Department by Canadian Trade Commissioner Beddoe of New Zealand notes that the steamship Marama, leaving Auckland on Nov. 21 for Canada, carried 17,500 cases of butter, 278 carcasses of veal, and 1,350 carcasses of mutton for Canadian consumption. The food taxes will be collected at Vancouver, and the cost of living to the Canadian consumer will be increased by the amount of the duties.

The King's Congratulations.

GULFPORT, Miss., Dec. 29.—Among the many messages of congratulation received by President Wilson on his birthday was the following from King George: "I want to offer you my sincere congratulations on the anniversary of your birth, and trust that your health has not suffered from your arduous duties of the year." This was the only cablegram that was made public.

To Prevent Mine Disasters.

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—A mining engineer at Bochum has invented a successful wireless apparatus for signaling on the imminence or the actual outbreak of perilous conditions inside a coal mine to the station at the pit mouth.

ELECTRICITY AND EGG PRODUCTION

Some interesting details are now published as the result of experiments that have been carried out by Mr. W. H. Cook, at Orpington, Kent, England, where nearly 200 yards of fowl houses, containing 6,000 birds, on Mr. Cook's poultry farm, have been artificially lighted during the dark mornings and early nights since Christmas last, and he states that his total increased output in eggs during the dark months by this system has been between 30 and 40 per cent. His fowl houses are lighted by 300 lamps, divided into 32, 16 and eight candle powers. These are switched on at six o'clock in the evening. At 9.30 the 16 candle power lamps are employed, and at 10 o'clock the eight candle power lamps are substituted for a quarter of an hour before the hens are left in darkness. Mr. Cook explains that it is necessary to give a rough imitation of the setting sun, otherwise the hens would go to sleep on the ground and become a prey to parasites.

In the case of young, artificially incubated chickens the electric light is employed to make them feed longer and this Mr. Cook has found accelerates their growth during the winter months by almost one-third.

SHACKLETON FOR POLE.

Explorer Will Begin Another Expedition In 1914.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—Sir Ernest Shackleton, the explorer, in a letter to The Times, announces his intention to lead another expedition to the South Pole in 1914. He will start from a South American port with the object of crossing the South Polar continent from sea to sea, returning by way of New Zealand. He adds:

"I have been enabled to undertake this expedition through the generosity of a friend, and I have taken the liberty of calling the expedition 'The Imperial Transatlantic Expedition,' because I feel that not only the people of these islands, but our kinsmen in all lands under the Union Jack will be willing to assist towards the carrying out of the full program of exploration to which my comrades and myself are pledged."

Burned While Owners Away.

KINGSTON, Dec. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. Austin Gillies of Gillies Depot, New Ontario, while visiting Mrs. Gillies' parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. R. McCann, received a telegram bringing news of the total destruction by fire of their residence and all contents. The fire was caused by the bursting of a stove.

PLEASURE IN POULTRY

"There are two classes of poultry folks, one raising fowls to make money and the other keeping fowls for pleasure. As the deepest-dyed-in-the-wool cranks on fancy fowls are the Bantam breeders, it may not be out of place to record here a conversation between a Bantam breeder and a utility poultry farmer.

"Do you keep Bantams?"

"I do."

"What for?"

"For pleasure."

"But that don't pay, does it?"

"I think it does. But let me ask you a few questions."

"Go ahead."

"Do you keep fowls?"

"Yes."

"What for?"

"For profit."

"And why do you wish to make a profit from your fowls?"

"Because I want the money they will bring in."

"But what good does that do you?"

"It enables me to purchase things which give me pleasure."

"Ah, that is it! Is the last analysis it is pleasure after all which induces you to keep fowls. The difference between you and me then, is simply this, you raise fowls to obtain the means of procuring pleasure, while I keep them for the pleasure itself. In other words, your fowls afford you pleasure indirectly, and at second hand, while my Bantams afford me pleasure directly and consequently at first hand."

SUN SPOT TO AFFECT WEATHER?

Remarkable Discovery by Astronomer —New Sun Spot Visible Now—Is 2,000 Larger Than the Surface of the Earth —May Be Seen With Smoked Glasses in Near Future.

Have you seen the latest 'sun spot?' Father Jerome Ricard of Santa Clara University, California, discovered a smudge on the face of the sun the other day. And he called it a "spot"!!!

Just think of a "spot" that has a surface of more than 400,000,000 square miles — 2,000 times larger than the earth's surafce! And yet that is what the famous sun spots are. Vast splotches on the face of the great orb that are visible even without the aid of a powerful telescope—most of the time.

Point Disputed.

The spots are visible for varying lengths of time—from a few minutes up to a month. The sun rotates on its axis, as the world rotates on its axis, once every 25 1-4 days and, therefore, each side of it is visible for only about 12 1-2 days.

Exactly what the sun spots do, nobody knows. Father Ricard believes that they affect the weather of the earth. He has asserted that by observing the sun spots the weather can be foretold up to 40 days ahead. But other scientists dispute this.

Observers declare that the spots come and go in regular succession. It takes about 11 years for these periods to pass. That is from the beginning of the appearance of spots, to the time of their increase in number and size and their final disappearance.

Use Smoked Glasses.

The 11-year period of sun spots seems to be precisely the same as the period of intensity and decrease in those currents of electricity known as magnetic earth currents which sometimes affect and disarrange the telegraph service.

To observe the sun spots one does not need a telescope, although they can be seen and studied better in that way. A smoked glass will do. If a telescope is used a green or smoked glass must be used also. One of these days some one is going to discover exactly what the spots are and what effect they have on the earth.

The Music At St. John's

The Christmas services at St. John's were of a joyous character yesterday. The carol service at 7 p.m. was finely led by a choir of nearly fifty voices. Five carols, "Hark! What Mean," "Good Christian Men," "See Amid the Winter Snow," "Sleep, Holy Babe," and "Carol, Sweetly Carol," were given, also, six Handel numbers, "Pastorals," "There Were Shepherds," "And the Angel," "O' Thou That Tellest," "And the Glory of the Lord." Altogether the Christmas music at St. John's kept up the fine standard now expected, affording a fine illustration of what may be accomplished by a purely voluntary body of singers who faithfully attend practice and rehearsal. The rector and the choirmaster thanked the choir in the vestry afterwards, when a move was made to All Saints' Church to join the choir of that church in rehearsing for their choral evening to-morrow (Tuesday) night at 8 p.m.—a good example of the Christmas spirit and of "brethren dwelling together in unity."

Xmas Music Given Yesterday In The Churches

Splendid Musical Numbers Rendered by Different Church Choirs and Soloists

The music in the various churches of the City was enjoyed by large congregations at both morning and evening services yesterday. In many of the churches the Christmas music predominated for the first time this year, yesterday being the first Sunday after Christmas.

Presbyterian Churches.

In St. Andrew's Church the choir repeated the Christmas cantata, "The Hope of the World," by Schecker. In the different parts of this beautiful composition the work of the choir was splendid. Miss Olive Howell rendered the solo, "Oh Little Town of Bethlehem," in fine voice, accompanied on the violin by Mrs. Boyes. Mr. Herbert C. Treneer, organist and choirmaster, accompanied the singing in his usual style.

At Knox Church the anthems of the choir, both morning and evening, were greatly enjoyed. Miss Hinchcliffe rendered a beautiful solo, "Plains of Peace," at the morning service, and in the evening a duet by Miss J. Callander and Mr. C. B. Thornton was warmly appreciated.

The usual services were observed in St. Paul's Church, the Christmas music having been rendered the previous Sunday.

The Anglican Churches.

The Christmas music at St. John's Church was rendered on a grand scale. It made a deep impression on the large congregations both morning and evening, and was a splendid example of what can be accomplished in Church music. Mr. R. J. Devey was in charge of the music.

At All Saints' Church, the anthem, "We Have Seen His Star in the East," was rendered with splendid effect at the morning service, and in the evening Simper's "Arise Shrine" was given. Miss M. Flowers accompanied the singing and Mr. George E. Chandler deserves much credit for his splendid renditions.

At St. Luke's Church, the morning anthem was, "The First Christmas orn," by Newton, and in the evening, "Sing O, Heavens" by Simper. A splendid solo was rendered by Master S. Whitehouse. Mrs. W. A. Greenslade was in charge of the training of the choir, and accompanied both anthems.

At St. Georges Church a choral evensong was held, marked by its usual heartiness.

MISS JUSTINA WAYNE

As Diana Eveleth in Channing Pollock's Play "The Inner Shrine" at the "Grand" next Saturday.

The Methodist Churches.

At the Charlotte Street Methodist Church, the Christmas music predominated at both services. Miss Richardson rendered a solo, "Angels From the Realms of Glory," with a violin accompaniment by Mr. Whitehouse.

Appropriate Christmas music was rendered at George Street Church. Mr. J. H. Renwick is to be congratulated on having supplied two such musical services as were given last Sunday and yesterday. On both occasions the possibilities of the choir were displayed in a splendid manner.

At both St. James' and Mark Street Church beautiful Yuletide music was rendered by the choir and soloists.

Baptist Churches.

At the Park Street Baptist Church an elaborate and enjoyable programme of Christmas music was given. In the morning a solo was rendered by Mrs. W. Robinson and in the evening Miss E. W. Hill rendered "Night of Nights."

At the Murray Street Baptist Church appropriate Christmas music was also rendered.

THE WEATHER

After a couple of days of zero weather more moderate conditions are with us again. This morning the thermometer marked 25 degrees above zero, with 10 above as the lowest reached last night. Saturday morning we had it 5 degrees below zero, and Sunday morning 6 degrees below.—W. P.

YOUNGEST PRESIDENT IN THE HISTORY OF ST. PETER'S T. A. S.

Mr. V. J. Corkery Was Elected at the Semi-Annual Meeting on Sunday—He is the 29th President of the Society—The Other Officers

REV. DEAN McCOLL SPOKE

The semi-annual meeting of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society was held on Sunday afternoon when the following officers were elected for the first half of the new year:

President—V. J. Corkery.
Vice-President—J. V. McElderry.
2nd Vice-President—Jas. Condon.
Recording-Secretary—Vincent McCabe.
Financial-Secretary — Jas. Drain (acc.)
Marshall—J. Woodhouse.
Assistant Marshall—Thos. McCabe.
Guard—D. Sheehan (acc.)
Trustees—M. S. Donoghue (acc.), J. Dwyer.

Owing to the illness of Mr. Jos. Primeau, treasurer, there was no appointment to that office.

Rev. Dean McColl was present for the first time in six weeks, and addressed the society, giving an account of his trip.

The new president, Mr. Vincent J. Corkery, holds the distinction of being the youngest member ever elected to the presidency. He is also the 29th president of the society.

Stolen Jewellery Is Recovered

Special Wire to The Examiner:

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 29.—Eight years ago Edward Murphq, an Ontario man, was sentenced at Brandon, to fourteen years' imprisonment for burglarizing a jewellery store of five thousand dollars worth of goods. At his trial he said he was not guilty, but could show the police where the goods were hidden, if he got his liberty. They wouldn't accept the proposition and Murphy was sent to Stoney Mountain penitentiary to serve his santence. When Captain Passford of St. Thomas, Ont., took charge of the penitentiary, recently, he heard Murphy's story, and took it up with the Department of Justice. As a result Murphy led the authorities to an under-ground cache near a railroad round house, and the whole swag was recovered. He was liberated ysterday.

Sailing Under False Colours

Christmas Kindness Comes a Month Behind

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In the Morning Times of recent date, Mr. Burnham takes great credit upon himself of getting the pay cheques of those working on the Trent Canal for Christmas. As a matter of fact the only cheques which were sent up were the November cheques which had been earned sometime before, and the December cheques have not yet been received. As a matter of fact there is no one working outside of the office, on the canal, so it is a little hard to understand how the Government would give $35,000,000 for the building of three warships, when they cannot afford to give the working man work on the canal in the winter.

A Statement From Dr. Hollway

Candidate in North Ward Emphatically Denies That He is Opposed to Hydro Electric

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—My attention has been to the fact that some party or parties have circulated a report that I have been placed in the Aldermanic field by the Seymour Power Company. I wish to absolutely deny this as strongly as I can, and if I have as good evidence that the statements are made after this notice appears, as I have of the fact that they have already been made, I will take other means of correcting an absolute lie. Mr. R. J. Devey Is Honoured

His Services as Superintendent of the Sunday School Appreciated

After the evening service, last night, a very interesting presentation was made to Mr. R. J. Devey by the officials of St. John's Church and Sunday School, of a bronze timepiece of handsome design, to mark their appreciation of five years' services and superintendent of the Sunday School. The Rev. Canon Davidson spoke in feeling terms of the faithful services rendered by Mr. and Mrs. Devey and their sons, which were endorsed by Mr. H. W. Morphet, (Warden), who made the presentation, and Mr. Frank Linton. Mr. Devey, in thanking the speakers and all concerned for their splendid present, felt that much that had been said was undeserved, as he had stepped in at a difficult time, five years ago and only tried to do his duty. A beautifully engraved plate with the names and dates is affixed to the timepiece.

"THE INNER SHRINE"

"The Inner Shrine" promises to be one of the greatest book plays ever produced. A. G. Delamater will present it at the Grand Opera House on Saturday next, Jan. 3, matinee and night. This play is from the novel of the same name. It has proved one of the most popular of the decade, and will unquestionably have an immense vogue. The book was written by Basil King, also author of "The Wild Olive" and "The Way Home."

In order to secure an adequate transmission of the story into dramatic action, Mr. Delamater engaged one of the most masterful of American dramatists. He is Channing Pollock, the author of "The Red Widow," "The Little Gray Lady," "Such a Little Queen," and numerous other successes.

The story is that of an American girl who married and lived unhappily. In it is depicted the gradual awakening of a newer and perfect love through trials and tribulations.

The "Nemo" Banishes the Discomfort of The Long Skirted Corset

And is a veritable boon to the woman of full proportions.

IT STANDS TO REASON that no very long Corset if properly laced, can be really comfortable, unless some provision is made for the natural expansion of the figure when in a sitting position.

Elastic bands or gores are the logical means of meeting this requirement, but unfortunately, no ordinary elastic, even of the best quality is durable enough to be used.

And the problem remains to be simplified by "Lastikops Elastic Cloth," which is the special feature of the Nemo Self Reducing Corset.

These Corsets truly fit the figure when you stand, and when you sit down the "Lastikops Cloth" expands freely, thus providing for the natural spread of the body and limbs.

Nor will these gores lose their elasticity, but like all "Lastikops" fabrics, will outwear the Corset.

Model Number 506, which is equipped with the "In-Curve Back," is of fine white coutil, has a low bust and improved self reducing front.

It is procurable in sizes 20 to 36 and is priced $2.50, $3.50, $4.25 and $5.50.

Canon Davidson Is Bereaved

His Brother, Mr. Wm. E. Davidson, Dies Suddenly on Steamship "Mexico"

TORONTO, Dec. 27.—News was received by cablegram last night of the death of William E. Davidson, 6 Linden Street, secretary of the extensive Pearson interests, who died suddenly on Christmas Day on board the S. S. Mexico, en route for Mexico City. The cause of demise was a sudden attack of neuralgia of the heart.

Mr. Davidson left here for New York and Mexico on Dec. 18, when he was in excellent health, except for a slight attack of rheumatism. The suddenness of his death is attested by the fact that the family received Christmas greetings sent by cable on Christmas Eve.

Mr. Davidson was a son of the late Rev. Canon Davidson of Uxbridge, and was born in 1868. His parents were prominent in the Church of England and were of New Brunswick United Empire Loyalist stock. He received his schooling in the Uxbridge Public and High Schools and T.C.S., Port Hope, and commenced his business career in the Bank of British North America. He was manager of a branch at Rosthern, Sask., when he resigned from the bank six years ago and took the secretaryship of the Pearson interests.

In 1908 he married the eldest daughter of Sir Charles Moss, who survives him with one young son. He also leaves two brothers and four sisters, namely, Rev. Canon J. O. Davidson, Peterborough; N. F. Davidson, K.C., Toronto; Mrs. J. Ketchum, Port Hope; Mrs. C. A. Passage, Hespeler; Mrs. H. H. Loomis, Jr., and Mrs. H. C. Rae, Toronto.

On the arrival of the S. S. Mexico at Vera Cruz the body will be forwarded to Toronto for burial.

FUN AND LAUGHTER AT "THE VERSATILES"

London Company Drew Big Audiences and Provided Endless Merriment Says the Moose Jaw "Sun"

Something entirely novel to natives of Western Canada was in order at the Majestic Theatre last evening when F. Stewart Whyte's London Versatiles, who are returning to England via Canada, after playing Australia and South Africa, presented "The Canadian Express" to a crowded house. The production, which is in two parts, is screamingly funny from first to last, and one is safe in saying that Moose Jaw theatre goers never enjoyed such a hearty evening before. The first half of the programme alone is a regular show in itself, and it is no exaggeration to say that no vaudeville turns that ever visited Moose Jaw had anything on Part I of the 'Canadian Express."

Featuring the initial half of the programme was undoubedly the twelfth number entitled "The Quinsy Quartette Party," by Messrs. Hoyland, Bret Leonard and Cardel. These four sterling comedians were shown to great advantage in this number and their rendering of three popular selections was a distinct treat in itself.

The two outstanding roles in Part II. were taken by Mr. Billy Oswald, as Jock Mackey, a Scot man entirely new to the ways of the Dominion, and Miss Harrie Fawn as Liza Parker, the Cockney domestic who is such another comedienne as the world renowned Marie Lloyd. Throughout the part these two kept the audience in roars of laughter, especially Mr. Oswald, whose many witticisms in his broad Scotch accent provoked intense merriment. Time and again he was forced to stop in order to let the audience get over the effects of one of his best ones.

Nor were the other members of the cast much behind the above. All proved themselves to be decidedly "inimitables". Mr. Cardel has a splendid baritone voice and his rendering of "In the Trail of the Lonesome Pine" was encored to the echo. Miss Zara Clinton as Nora Langham, niece of Sir Charles Vincent, sang very sweetly and danced equally well, while Mr. George Bret as the News Agent on the express, and Mr. Harry Hoyland as Hon. Arthur Vincent, son of Sir Charles Vincent were also very entertaining. The Misses Edith Fawn and Jessie McLeod as Western Girls both sang and danced in a most amiable manner.

THE VIEWS OF A FARMER

They Touch Prices, Railways, Agitators and Friends of the People

(Letter in Winnipeg Saturday Post.)

Sir,—I have finished my ploughing and have sold as much of my grain crop as I intend to this fall, at the prices going, and having a little time to spare am writing you these few lines. I have been in this country a good many years, and taking one year with another cannot complain; but at the same time we farmers it seems to me, are not getting our fair share of the profits, which have been made in this country. There is something wrong between the prices paid by us and the prices paid by city people for the same article and the newspapers having, or pretending to have, the welfare of the farmers, who are the backbone of the country, at heart, should try to find out what the trouble is. During the twenty-one years I have lived here the newspapers have been full of about only three things, raising Cain with any government that happens to be in power; defending the actions of the government that happens to be in power, and raising the devil with the railroads. Now, I guess the railroads deserve all perhaps that has been said about them, and maybe a lot more, but at the same time what some of us farmers can't get through our heads, is why the papers are always slamming the railroads, and never take a crack at some other interests, because to a man of even ordinary intelligence there must be other sinners in the country besides the railroads, and it looks to me that some of the other said sinners have been urging the slambanging of the railroads to keep attention away from themselves.

The railroad foreman in charge of the track near my farm tells me that twenty-five years ago he got $2 a day, and now he gets $3 a day, and the engineer on the way freight gets nearly $5.50 a day now, and he used to get then $3.75 a day, and the way freight conductor was paid $3.00 a day then and now he gets $4.60 a day. This foreman says that all the men in the railroad have been raised about the same because they had strong organization behind them.

When I first started shipping grain to Port Arthur the rate figured up to about 14 cents a bushel for wheat, while to-day it is a shade less than eight cents a bushel, and there is about the same difference in other grains. On the farm machinery, hardware and drygoods, that I bring in I pay the railroad now twenty-five to forty cents less per hundred pounds than I did twenty-one years ago. I had some grievances against the railroads, because some years ago when they killed some of my neighbour's stock, and their engines burst up some of our grain, it took them a long time to get paid, the railroad trying to put them off with polite letters; but I can't get out of my head, that in slambanging the railroads all the time, the idea is to take away the farmer's attention from other people who are making more from them than they should. If the railroads can almost double the wages, reduce the rates and make a profit, it seems to me that those in other businesses ought to be able to do the same thing. The section foreman says the reason the railroads can do this is because they haul bigger trains, bigger cars, and have cut down the hills, etc. Not long ago when I was in Winnipeg a friend of mine from the Grain Exchange took me for a trip in his automobile, and I saw a great many beautiful houses, some of them like castles. These houses, I was told, were nearly all owned by people who came to the west with practically nothing, made their money out of hardware, drygoods, real estate and handling the farmer's grains, the butcher business, etc. I asked him to show me the castle of the railroad kings I heard so much about but he said those fellows lived in Montreal, Toronto and England, and everywhere else. Now if a man came West with nothing and made a fortune, why we cannot blame him, but it seems to me that we farmers have not had our share, and that convinces me in hammering the railroads and the government it was to take the minds of the people away from the conditions that allowed the people in these other lines of business to make such fortunes. It seems to me that we farmers are paying more all the time for everything we have to buy, but are not getting anything more for what we have to sell, and I often wonder why we should have to pay more for the goods we buy and get less for what we have to sell, when the railroads are able to raise wages and haul our stuff for less money.

I am all the time reading in the papers advice handed out to farmers, by bankers, railroad men, meat packers, ministers and editors. They are telling us how we should plow, what we should raise, how we should work, what a sin it is for us to never take a trip from the farm in the winter, how wasteful we are to leave our machinery out in the run and rain, what kind of chickens to raise, and so forth; and therefore it seems to me that we farmers should give the men in business that they should take means to cheapen the cost of distributing and do with less profits, and charge us less interest, and not squeeze us to pay our bills in the fall so that the majority of farmers are compelled to sell their grain at any old price.

I suppose that the dullest man cannot help see that if this country is to be permanently successful the farmer must be happy, and he cannot be happy unless he is prosperous. The only way he can be prosperous is to get more for what he raises, and pay less interest and get more for his goods. We have understood by our farm journals that the newspapers are controlled by their advertising departments, and my friends said that many of the advertisers would object to this letter, and therefore it would not be published; but I told them that I intended to send this to each of the papers in Winnipeg to see if they would be fair enough to allow a bona fide farmer, of good standing, who has been a long time in this country, to have his view published in the press.

—Yours very truly,

J. H. IRWIN.

SCHMIDT COLLAPSES

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW YORK CITY, Dec. 29.—Hans Schmidt, the ex-priest on trial for murdering his sweetheart, collapsed in his cell in the Tombs prison today, just before being removed to the court room, where his trial is still going on. It is quite expected that the jury, within a day or two, will bring in a verdict of insanity, and that he will be sent to Matteawan.

Labour Men Demand An Investigation

Special Wire to The Examiner.

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 29.—It is feared to-day that the bullet wound which furrowed the back of President Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners, when he was being hustled out of Calumet, may cause partial paralysis. Though the doctors agree that he will not die as a result. Resolutions of various labour bodies demanding a Congressional investigation into the Moyer deportation were sent to President Wilson to-day.

In connection with the demand for Federal investigation of the shooting of Moyer, Lieutenant Governor O'Hara said: "Those men fired a bullet not into the back of Moyer, but into the back of the American working man. Michigan is my native State, but I blush to say it is the Russia of the United States."

MR. BURNHAM ON FREE TRADE

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Just one more word with regard to modern tendencies and I have done. We have seen how an open or free trade competitive Labour market enslaved labour, or at least the largest portion of it. Slums and all ther horrors are also the necessary product of it and of all other forms of trade oppression. The cheap food of Free Trade appeared to be a move in the right direction, but it was at the expense of the British farmer and agricultural labourer, who have, practically speaking, gone down and out. It is plain, therefore, that both the disease and the remedy were bad. What should have happened, you ask. Simply this: Universal control alone will adjust universal conditions. We are struggling up to the light. We have a bad case of struggles on here, now. But the result will be some day, if we can hold the money-hogs down, that a surplus of supply will no longer mean at the same time, as at present, periods of starvation. This huge farce will soon be played out, we may hope, and then the great curse of unemployment will be next in order for treatment. When the standard of the living wage is likewise more or less realized the absurdity of expecting people to be decent on a less than decent wage will also be no more. But none of these wrongs can be remedied by perpetuating Free Trade. Extremes of poverty are the natural consequences of extremes of wealth where that wealth is improperly acquired by free, untrammelled power over the people. "Control" is the watchword of the future, and protection, embargoes, dumping-clauses, public ownership, etc., are only phases of it. Free trade, however, is not a phase of it. Free Trade is the daily enemy of all forms of control and bars the way to it. Therefore it must go. Free trade is like a splendid chariot well and piously named that has bound to its wheels those whose sole asset is their labour. The Globe is now chiding the Farmers' papers in Ontario for abandoning free trade.

Yours truly,
J. H. Burnham.

MORE LIKE IT

As a certain young artist of New York sat upon his stool one day in the Adirondacks, doing a bit of "mountain stuff," there approached him from the rear a native, evidently with ideas of his own touching art.

"Do you ever try photography?" asked the newcomer.

"No," was the curt response of the young artist, who continued his work.

"It's a good deal quicker," suggested the native.

"I suppose it is," sulily assented the painter, with another dab of the brush.

"And," the native added, with a dash of malice, "a good deal more like the place."

THE CANDIDATES LAY THEIR CLAIMS, ETC.

certain claim to the office, that I am in a position to ask for an honour I have earned. If you put me at the head of the list you will have my deepest thanks and my promise that I will do my duty."

Mr. Hartley's address.

"Three years ago I was nominated for the Mayoralty, but I felt that I did not have the time to devote to the work. So I dropped out and Mayor Bradburn was elected. Now, at the request of a very large number of ratepayers I have consented to stand for election. I am not seeking any honour in this position. If I did not feel that I could help the citizens by giving them my services I would not take the position.

"I have spent my life in Peterborough, and as I earned a few dollars I put them into bricks and mortar, and not into stocks and bonds. Thus, I have done my share to advance the city, and to keep money in circulation. Peterborough is the best place I have ever seen, and it is my earnest desire to see it progress.

I am interested in the taxes of the city. Mr. Buller and Mr. Gillespie claim that they have experience in the Council, but it must be admitted that the ratepayers have some experience too. The Council has the pleasant end. They spend the money, while the ratepayers have to pay it into the city.

"Although we are rated as having the third lowest taxe rate in Ontario, I can't see it that way. I think our taxes are as high as any place I know of. In the last year our rate advanced 3 mills on the dollar, and is now 25 mills. That means that the man having a house assessed at $1,000 must pay $25 taxes, and if it is a $2,000 house he has to pay $50 and so on. I claim this is a high tax, too high for Peterborough.

"The city should be guarded as a man guards his own interests. Years ago when I was in the Council we put down cement walks and paid for them out of the city's revenue. Now everything is by debentures and still more debentures.

"I am in favour of permanent improvements, and I think it would have been better if the street paving had been begun four or five years ago. If I am elected I will guard the city's interests to the best of my ability."

Mr. J. B. McWilliams.

Mr. J. B. McWilliams stated that he understood that one of the Water Commissioners was opposed to Hydro-Electric, and it was more necessary that he be elected to advance Hydro. "I don't feel excited about the present situation in the Hydro matter. If the Power Company can pay the interest on its bonds and a dividend as well, surely the City could pay the bond interest and revert the dividends to the people. Mr. Hicks and I are friends. He is a good business man. Whoever is elected should have ample time to spare during the next four or five months particularly, and Mr. Hicks will have to neglect his own business or that of the commission if he is elected."

Mr. McWilliams stated that there were a number of men in Peterborough who were not paying a just share toward the City.

I know of one case of a property worth $50,000, for which $75,000 was asked, and yet it is assessed for $25,000. I know of a property cut into building lots, for which $27,000 was asked, and it is assessed at $8,000. And I know of another valued at $10,000 assessed at $3,250. Is that fair? Those men are opposing me. Do they want to get a rake off on water and light as well as taxes? It looks as if they do. If a number of the wealthy men of Peterborough were paying just taxes, the poor man would not be assessed for his last dollar and all that his house would bring.

I am in favour of municipal ownership. I offered the City the Burleigh water power for $3,000, but it was refused. Some men in the Council at the time came to me and offered me $3,000 for a three-quarter interest in it. So it must have been of some value.

No. 3 dam was offered the Council at $1 a horse power with a proviso that it be developed in three years. This was also turned down. From these two sources the City could have obtained 5,000 h.p., which at $15 a h.p. would have meant a revenue of $84,000, or some of it could have used as an inducement, in the form of cheap power, to manufacturers.

Mr. McWilliams said that if any one was entitled to the labour vote he was.

When I was elected to the Council some years ago the labouring men were receiving from 90c. to $1.10 a day. I succeeded in having it raised to $1.25 and the hours reduced to nine. I was one of the arbitrators in connection with the claims of the workmen on the canal. Archdeacon Casey was selected to represent the contractors. He was a big hearted Irishman and agreed that the men were entitled to the same wages as were being paid by the City. I got credit from the labour men then, and I think I will receive it now. I have time to give to the work, I know all the waters in the Trent chain, and I will be able to devote my entire attention to the Commission's work, and if elected I will give the City my best efforts.

The Sins of the Father.

Mr. Robert Hicks, nominee for the office of Water Commissioner, compared the Board of Water Commissioners to a Board of Directors of an incorporated company, in which the ratepayers were the stockholders.

"What you have to consider," said Mr. Hicks, is the question of qualification necessary to justify a candidate's election to the Board. Do you want a mechanic or a labouring man. My opponent has said that if necessary he will make a house-to-house canvass. I will not do that; but will see that the Department is so managed that properly qualified men will see that the houses are properly served.

I number myself among those who have helped to keep the hide on Hydro, said the speaker, with considerable emphasis. Continuing, he said: "It makes no material difference whether your houses are lighted with power supplied by the Hydro Electric Commission or the Peterborough Light and Power Company. What you want is Hydro power furnished at cost. The reason you are paying a twenty-five mill rate to-day is because the sins of the father have been visited upon the children," said Mr. Hicks, in a reference to the tax rate. In conclusion the speaker pledged himself to reduce the water rates, leaving always a margin of safety. He asked the ratepayers to support his candidature, not for sentimental reasons but as a straight business proposition.

Mr. A. H. Stratton, in the course of a few remarks, said that the City was in need of representative men. He advocated the extension of the municipal lighting system and if elected pledged himself to exercise fearless and consistent support in the development of a bigger and better city.

Mr. F. H. Dobbin thanked his proposer and seconder for their interest in his nomination. He promised his support in the advancement of the City's interests.

Trades and Labour Council.

Referring to the nomination of Mr. Hartley, David Moore, President of the Trades and Labour Council has this message for the electors.

In placing Mr. Hartley's name before you, I do so believing that if elected, he will fill the office in an efficient and business-like way and to the entire satisfaction of the electors. Peterborough has reached that point in its history when with good management, steady growth and progress may confidently be looked forward to. It is therefore important that we elect able and honest men to fill the offices this day open for nomination. Those who fill these offices, of course, have many interests to consider, but "the greatest good to the greatest number" should ever be the guiding rule of "those in authority over us." It goes without saying, that by far the greatest number of our citizens are of those people known as workingmen. I consider it fitting then, that a man representative of the vast majority of our citizens should be honoured by a term in the Mayor's chair. Mr. Hartley has been intimately associated with the labour movement in Peterborough for many years, and it has been my pleasant duty to place his name in nomination. He is a man whose interest is centred in our city and who is, I am sure, zealous in the work of advancement of Peterborough. He is a successful business man and will look well after the present needs of the city. If, as some of the literature of the campaign would seem to suggest, the office of Mayor is to be regarded as a recognition of faithful services at the council board, then the claim of Mr. Hartley is equal to any of the candidates, for he has served ten years as an alderman, and in addition, was for fourteen years a member of the Board of Education. During the past six years in which I have been associated with Mr. Hartley in the labour movement, I have found him a man of good business ability, upright and honourable at all times, and if elected, I feel confident he will give a good account of himself in the Mayor's chair.

CONDITIONS AT BURLEIGH FALLS

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Permit me space to reply to a report given by Mr. Cochrane on the sanitary conditions as he thought they now existed at the Park Hotel, Burleigh Falls. I wish to state that the sanitary conditions at Burleigh Falls have been inspected by the Provincial Health Inspector of Toronto and in his report Mr. Bell stated he had found conditions all that could be expected, and "no complaint." But on the recommendation of the District Inspector, Dr. Clinton, conditions were improved. He suggested that ten yards of gravel might be used to advantage. Not only ten, but fifteen, have been used to comply with Dr. Clinton's request. I hope this will meet with Mr. Clinton's entire satisfaction when he next visits us. Thanking you for this valuable space and wishing you a happy New Year, I am,

Yours truly,
H. W. Darcy.

Mr. Jobs was not present at the meeting, so that it is not known yet whether or no there will be an election in Smith.

THE FOAM PROBLEM

Milk pumps, separators, and pasteurizers with revolving dashers are the usual causes of foam on milk, and it is the skim milk that usually bothers most in this respect.

We cannot always prevent foam, but we can frequently employ means of lessening the amount, says the N. Y. Produce Review. The higher the acidity of milk the more easily the air is incorporated, hence efforts to secure sweeter milk may help some.

When using pasteurisers or heaters with revolving dashers do not revolve the dashers faster than necessary. When using a pump be sure that enough milk is at hand in the feed to prevent the pump sucking air. It has been recommended that if, when pumping milk, the standpipe is narrowed at some point between pump and vat so that the milk is compressed somewhat considerable air will be expelled.

FOAM KILLING APPLIANCES

To kill the foam after it has been created a number of appliances have been manufactured, chiefly in Europe where the practice of pasteurizing skim milk is more general than among creameries in this country. Some years ago the Minnesota State Dairy Commission recommended the following plan of killing foam on pasteurized skim milk in a circular sent out to creameries in that state:

Set up an old bar churn or similar tank with the manhole on the side. Let the milk supply pipe enter from the top into a tee in which the exhaust pipe enters from the side. Make the outlet the larger and thus make the milk sputter. Milk is drawn from the bottom and overflow is arranged near the top.

To rid the skim milk tank of foam a large sprinkling pot full of cold water is a great convenience.

HALF TRUTHS

By RUTH CAMERON

"I overheard the other day a scrap of conversation which I take the liberty to reproduce: 'What I advance is true,' said one. 'But not the whole truth,' answered the other. 'Sir,' returned the first, (and it seemed to me there was a smack of Dr. Johnson in his speech), 'sir, there is no such thing as the whole truth!'" —Stevenson.

I agree with Stevenson that there is no such thing as the whole truth. There is always another side to every question. But there are two distinct kinds of half truths. One is the kind of half truth which he who offers it sincerely believes to be the whole truth. The other kind of half truth is that which is spoken with the deliberate intention of conveying an impression other than the truth.

For instance. We were talking about the various methods of teaching children to read which are used in our schools, when the proud mother of an only son announced "My boy was never taught to read. He learned by himself" The only son is not a particularly brilliant specimen, and it seemed difficult to me to credit this; so instead of taking it for the whole truth and receiving it with exclamations of wonder and admiration as she apparently expected, I put a few questions. And, as I expected, I soon brought out the truth that he had been taught his letters, and in a desultory way had been given almost as much training by his parents and a grandfather as the average child in a class of thirty or forty receives from a busy teacher.

Again. A woman tells me that her hat only cost $8. It is an elaborate hat and I cannot see how it could possibly have cost so little. And I suspect a half truth. In this case inquiry proves that the touch of fur which gives the hat its air is a remnant of her old sable set, and that if she had reckoned that the price would have been nearer $40 or $50.

"My baby isn't the least bit of trouble. She sleeps all the morning, so that I get my work done and have time to sit down before lunch," a new mother assures us proudly. Her neighbour listens with a quizzical smile and betrays the half truth by remarking after she has gone, "She forgot to say that her baby is awake about half of every night." Of course it's nice to be so optimistic and see only the bright side, but I don't think optimism need be inconsistent with truth.

The chief trouble with these half truths is that they soon get for those who speak them such a reputation that they are not believed even when they are speaking the whole truth—or as near as it is possible to get to it.

And that is sometimes inconvenient.

Ruth Cameron

CHESTERFIELD.

An old gentleman, always very polite to ladies, was asserting one day that he had never seen a really ugly woman. A lady with a flat nose, overhearing him, said:

"Sir, look at me, and confess that I'm truly ugly."

"Madam," he replied, "like the rest of your sex, you are an angel fallen from the skies; but it was your misfortune, rather than your fault, that you happened to alight on your face."

Small Urchin (to the owner of the horse which ought to have been cat's meat)—"Does yer want me to 'old 'im, guv'nor?"

The Owner—"No, thanks. He won't run away."

Small Urchin—"I didn't mean to hold 'im fast so's he won't run away. I meant to hold him up so's he won't drap."

Establishing A Factory

When planing to organize a creamery it is desirable to have present a man who fully understands the requirements for success, and if possible an officer of some successful plant. The chairman of the meeting should be a man of executive ability, one who can avoid unnecessary discussions.

At this preliminary meeting the location should be decided upon, also the amount of raw material necessary and whether it is available, and the size of shares. An organization agreement can be drawn up and signed by those present with the understanding that it will not be binding unless the amount of capital and the number of cows required are secured.

The amount of capital needed varies from $4,000 to $10,000 for a creamery and from $5,000 to $6,000 for a cheese factory. To start a creamery successfully about 400 cows will be needed and for a cheese factory from 100 to 200.

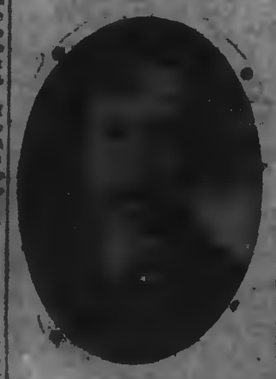
Hydro---Johnston



TO THE ELECTORS OF THE NORTH WARD

Ladies and Gentlemen,

I desire to heartily wish you and all the citizens of Greater Peterboro' all the compliments of the season.

As a representative in the City Council elected by the good people of the North Ward, I have had the honour of representing the people generally in carrying out their wishes for the introduction of the Hydro-Electric System into the City; and I respectfully ask you for a further renewal of this confidence by again electing me to that very responsible position.

I stand for a principle that I believe to be in the interests of the people, notwithstanding the opposition offered to the honest work of your Council of 1913. I will continue to help to carry out that work until Light and Power are in the hands of the Municipality, and being run in the interests of the people and not in the interests of a monopoly.

Yours in the good work,

W. J. Johnston.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

MANY SURPRISES IN THE SCOTCH FOOTBALL LEAGUE

Celtics Whitewash Ayr and Morton Do the Same With Falkirk—Liverpool Ties With the Leaders in the First Division

A few surprises were registered in British soccer circles Saturday. The doughy "Rovers" were only able to tie with Liverpool in the Mersey town, the score being 3 each. Preston North End sent the "Toffee" team back to Everton minus two points. This was perhaps the most surprising result of the day, as Everton beat Manchester United the day before and were looked upon as easy winners over the tailenders. Newcastle United gained a 2 to 1 victory over Sunderland at Newcastle, which was not expected in form. Chelsea and Bradford City were the only two away from home teams to capture two points each, the ofrmer beating the 'Spurs' at Tottenham and th latter the "Villans" at Birmingham.

Woolwich Lead Second.

The "Arsenal" now head the second division table, with the two Yorkshire teams, the "Peacocks' and "Tigers," close on their heels. Woolwich got a nice little away from home victory over the "Foxes" at Leicester, while the "Peacocks" had to be satisfied to halve the points with Glossop in the latter City. The "Wolves" waded into the "Forest' all right, and trimmed them to the tune of 4 to 1. Two 5 to 1 victories were made; one at Stockport, where the County beat Bristol, and the other at Bradford, where the boys from Birmingham were taken into camp.

Swindon Still Lead.

Swindon Town increased their lead in the Southern League table still further Saturday by notching two points off West Ham United. The "Palace," who run second, were only able to get away with one point from Portsmouth after what must been a strenuous game. A peculiar fact about the Southern League games Saturday is that, though there were four ties, no away-team was able to capture more than one point. Even Plymouth Argyle had to concede a couple of valuable points to Cardiff City, the score being 2 to 1 in favour of the latter eleven.

Big Score in Scotland.

Two 6 to 0 scores were registered in the Scottish League Saturday, one at Ayr, where Celtic whitewashed the United, and the other at Morton, where the home team took Falkirk into camp. Hearts were only able to make a tie score at Airdrie, while Aberdeen held Queen's Park down to a tie on the latter's grounds. The surprise of the day was the victory of Raith Rovers over Dundee at Kirkcaldy. The following are the league tables up to date:

Junior Squad Is Cut Down

Only Twelve Players Expected Out To-morrow Night

The Manager of the Peterborough Junior O. H. A. team states that owing to the fact that the local juniors play their first game a week from to-morrow night and that there will only be two or three practices before that time, he has found it necessary to cut down his squad at once in order that the regulars may get some team practice. A number of players who announced their intention of trying for the team, but have made no effort to get into shape, will not be given an opportunity now with the first game only a week away. The most promising of the candidates who fail to catch a place will be with the Junior City League team and will be available at any time for the O.H.A. squad.

There will be another Junior practice to-morrow (Tuesday) night, at 7 o'clock, and only the following players are requested to be on hand: Halpin, Rose, Barrie, Richardson, Long, Knapman, Phelan, R. Smyth, Latimer, Darling, Swanston, Walker.

Players whose names are not given in the above list will realize the importance of the regulars having an opportunity of perfecting their team work, an impossibility with a big squad out.

An Apology Due.

A country weekly says:
"We wish to apologise to Mrs. Orland Overlook. In our paper last week we had as a heading, 'Mrs. Overlook's Big Feet.' The word we ought to have used is a French word pronounced the same way but spelled fate. It means a celebration and is considered a very tony word."

NO CERTIFICATES FOR FIVE OF SARNIA TEAM

More Information Wanted in Regard to Status of Local Players

TORONTO, Dec. 29.—The adjourned meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association Executive was held Saturday afternoon at the Telegram office, with President Chas. Farquharson, of Stratford, in the chair. Other members present were: H. E. Wettlaufer, of Berlin; J. Ross Robertson, Toronto; Kenneth Casselman, London; James T. Sutherland, of Kingston; Dwight J. Turner, of Toronto; Louis Blake Duff, of Welland; C. L. Macnab, Orillia; Frank Hyde, of Woodstock; A. E. Copeland, Midland; Francis Nelson, of Toronto; Sheriff J. F. Paxton, of Whitby, and Secretary W. A. Hewitt.

Further information was received regarding Player John L. Schults, and the committee decided that he was qualified by residence for Stratford, and not for Goderich. Schults is a railroad brakesman, with headquarters at Stratford.

The Mitchell junior O.H.A. team will be told that there is nothing to prevent them playing intermediate hockey in the Northern Hockey League.

The committee decided that where teams are compelled to play their home games on foreign ice, the basis of mileage to visiting teams should be on the exact distance they have to travel, while in the return games they should receive milage from their own town to their opponents' ice.

Further information will be required from Lansfield and McMartin, who desire to play with Peterborough. They played last year with Syracuse.

A declaration was received regarding the residence of A. A. Hall in London, and the committee accepted the same. Hall is in business in London. He formerly played with Collingwood.

N. Jacobs, one of the suspended Waterloo juniors of last year, was reinstated.

Walter Fair, of Oshawa, and Charles Blanchard of Whitby, were warned about playing in town baseball leagues where outsiders have played. The boys claimed to have been innocent of any knowledge that there were any ineligible players in the game.

The investigation into the charges of professionalism against the Toronto Rowing Club was continued, and considerable evidence was taken on both sides. The case was not concluded.

Mr. E. J. Livingstone of the Toronto R. and A.A., appeared before the committee and stated that he had made references to professionalism in the Parkdale Hockey Club in the heat of an acrimonious debate at the annual meeting of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, which had been mutually withdrawn. At Saturday's meeting he desired to avoid either going on with the charges or making an apology to the Parkdale Club, but was informed that he must do one or the other in order to retain connection with hockey. He was also informed that he would have to deal directly with the O.H.A., which governed him and Parkdale, so far as hockey is concerned, and that he could not escape responsibility by writing letters to some other organization.

When forced to take a denfiite position, he put down as his charge a report that a player had been offered a pecuniary reward to play with Parkdale C. C. hockey team in the season of 1909-10, four years ago. The player in question did not play for Parkdale, and Mr. Livingstone said he had no personal knowledge of the matter, nor could he say who made the offer, but he gave the names of a couple of witnesses who, he believed, could give some information. He had no charges in connection with the Parkdale Club of any other year. The executive will endeavour to ascertain the truth of Mr Livingstone's statement. His suspension ended automatically when he put his name to the charge stated.

Playing certificates were refused to the following applicants who desired to play with Sarnia:

J. Granary, last year with London; J. C. Doro, of Arnprior, last year with Ottawa College; Louis Imbleau and H. G. Pront, from Detroit.

The next meeting will be held about the end of this week.

Hockey—That's All

One bright feature of the junior practice Saturday night was the work of the recruit goal keepers, Darling and Latimer. With Flowers too old for junior this year, it was thought that there would be difficulty in securing a net guardian, but both boys performed splendidly in the uncertain light. And there are two more goal keepers to try out.

The intermediates will practice tonight between 7 and 8 o'clock, and every intermediate player in the City is invited to turn out. The intermediates have their first game of the season on Friday night, and it is important that every player should attend the three workouts before the game.

The local O.H.A. season will be opened on Friday night with the fast Whitby team as the guests of the local intermediates. The Whitby aggregation went to the semi-finals last year and are counted the team to beat for the honours in this district. They have Blanchard, Shaw, Watson and others of yast year's stars in line again this season, and will take a lot of beating. The Petes will endeavour to get the jump on the district clubs by beating Whitby here Friday. It will be a hard-fought game all the way and will open the season with proper eclat. The lineup of the local team will not be definitely known until after several practices, as there promises to be competition for several places on the line-up. To-night's practice should be well attended.

Big Bunch Of Juniors At First Practice

Twenty Youngsters Had Lively Workout on Saturday Night

The hockey season was inaugurated at Brock Street Rink on Saturday night, when the first practice of the season was pulled off. There was a grand sheet of ice ready for the squad, undoubtedly the best ever available for the opening practice, in spite of the fact that the rink had been flooded for the first time less than twenty-four hours before.

There were only three intermediate players out but a whole raft of youngsters donned their skates, over twenty junior candidates being in action. All last year's junior players showed class, while Knapman, Phelan and R. Smyth were the pick of the new candidates, with Latimer and Darling displaying good form in the nets. The intermediate players on hand were Park, Bond and Flowers. Among the Juniors out were Latimer, Darling, Phelan, Regan, Clancy, Picard, R. Smyth, Barrie, Halpin, Richardson, Knapman, J. Smyth, Fitzgerald, Austin and Lowes Wilfrid Stratton, who will be with the 'Varsity Juniors this season, was out with the squad and showed a grand turn of speed. It is a pity he is not available for the local juniors as he would be a host of strength to the team.

The average young lady thinks it is perfectly awful if there isn't a bathtub in the house. Her mother used to splash around in the family wash-tub after the men folks went to bed.

SILO EXPERIENCE WANTED

Editor, Farm and Dairy, — I contemplate the erection of a silo in the coming year. There are, no doubt, many others in the same boat. It would be interesting, I think, to have the subject of the relative merits of concrete and stave silos discussed in Farm and Dairy by men who have had experience with the two kinds of structures.

I have been gathering the views of men who have built silos for some time past. They differ widely. When you talk to these men of experience there does not appear to be the same unanimity in favor of the cement silo that we find in the farm papers when the question is asked. Perhaps, seeing the large sums spent in advertising with farm journals by cement firms precludes them on business principles (the principle of "you scratch my back and I'll scratch yours") from dealing with the subject with perfect candour, for which we cannot altogether blame them.

A RUMOR OF DISSATISFACTION

I was told a few days ago by one of the largest and most experienced dairymen in Northumberland county that in Peterboro county, where there has been for some years a great cement silo boom, that many of the cement silos put up there about 10 years ago, are to-day largely played out. The action of the acids in the silage has eaten into the cement, leaving a very uneven surface, which prevents the perfect packing of the silage at filling time, and a lot of silage is consequently spoiled.

If there are any farmers among Farm and Dairy readers who have silos in this condition it would be interesting to hear from them. It is the life of the silo in perfect condition that interests us. It's no use putting up a structure which is claimed to "last for ever" (on the outside) if the silage will eat its inside away. What is the condition of the average silo that has been up 10 or 15 years?—W. L. Martin, Northumberland Co., Ont.

Note—Will some of Our Folks who have had silo experience extending over 10 years send Farm and Dairy a story of their experience for the benefit of Mr. Martin and other prospective silo builders? The subject is an interesting one.—The Editor.

JUMPS FROM FIFTH STOREY

Examiner Special:

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 9.—Nervous hysteria, caused by hard work, deranged the mind of Mabel Cullin, a prominent actress to-day, and she leaped to death from the fifth floor of the Revere Hotel in view of throngs on the streets.

PAPER BOXES FOR CHEESE

Owing to the increased scarcity of suitable cheese box material and the high percentage of breakage in the present type of box, several attempts have been made to place paper boxes for cheese on the market, but as yet without much success. Last season a few lots of cheese were exported in boxes made from pulpwood, but the results were not satisfactory.

Some of the defects were that the box was not strong enough to stand much vertical pressure, that it could not be trimmed down to suit an undersized cheese, and that if it was exposed to moisture it became so soft that it would not stand handling. In fact, this kind of box was looked upon with so much disfavor by the exporters that some of them threatened to cut the price on any cheese shipped to them in paper boxes.—Dairy and Cold Storage Report.

—Farm and Dairy.

There was a young man, vain of his accomplishments as a preacher, who, after officiating at a certain service for a Scottish minister who occasionally had to avail himself of the assistance of probationers, was met by the old gentleman with extended hands as he descended from the pulpit. Expecting high praise, he said: "No compliments, I pray."

"Nay, nay, my young friend," said the parson, "nowadays I'm glad o' anybody."

Reeve Howden By Acclammation

Mr. W. G. Howden was re-elected Reeve of North Monaghan at the annual nominations held in the Township Hall this afternoon.

Reeve Howden was nominated by Geo. Ward and Robt. Saunders, and no opposition was offered. A. W. Archbould is a Byersville representative. Mr. Young resides on the boundary line between Monaghan and Smith. His speech was exceptionally good. The meeting was marked by re-choes of grumbling about taxes. Mr. Archie Morton and Mr. Jos. Coombes expressed a sentiment favouring the annexation of Byersville by the city.

DEATH OF THE LATE JOHN PIPER

Last night word was received in the city of the death of the late John Piper, of Toronto, who has relatives in this city. In response to a telegram the Misses Mabel and Clara Warne, neices of the deceased gentleman, left on the 4:33 train for Toronto, t' is afternoon, where they will attend the funeral.

COUNCIL MEETING.

A meeting of the City Council will be held this evening.

"My son," said the father, who was somewhat addicted to moralising, "this is the age of specialties and specialists. Is there anything you can do better than any one else in the world?"

"Yeth, thir," lisped the small boy; "I can read my own writing."

SEVERE TEST.

Park Commissioner Stover of New York was talking about the abolition of "spooning" in Central Park.

"We have pretty well abolished spooning," he said. "The way to abolish it altogether is to have fewer copses and more cops. But those who persist in spooning in Central Park now, in the face of all the difficulties, are pretty well determined sweethearts, and when they marry they should be able to pass all their lives the 'happy marriage' test.

"According to the happy marriage test, you know, a marriage is a success as long as both husband and wife delight in reading their old love letters to one another."

THREE FORMS OF EYE TROUBLE

Are commonly met with—any of which may have existed from birth. Nature does not always make perfect eyes. We have near-sightedness, far-sightedness and astigmatism, which is a form of irregular sight. All of these defects require attention. If a child has any of these defects and is expected to do close work of any kind he must have his eyes carefully examined and wear such glasses as will correct the refraction of his eyes. As well expect a child born with one leg shorter than the other to walk without limping as to ask one born with imperfect vision to do accurate eye work without suffering the consequences. Call any day.

PAPER BOXES FOR CHEESE

Owing to the increased scarcity of suitable cheese box material and the high percentage of breakage in the present type of box, several attempts have been made to place paper boxes for cheese on the market, but as yet without much success. Last season a few lots of cheese were exported in boxes made from pulpwood, but the results were not satisfactory.

Some of the defects were that the box was not strong enough to stand much vertical pressure, that it could not be trimmed down to suit an undersized cheese, and that if it was exposed to moisture it became so soft that it would not stand handling. In fact, this kind of box was looked upon with so much disfavor by the exporters that some of them threatened to cut the price on any cheese shipped to them in paper boxes.—Dairy and Cold Storage Report.
—Farm and Dairy.

There was a young man, vain of his accomplishments as a preacher, who, after officiating at a certain service for a Scottish minister who occasionally had to avail himself of the assistance of probationers, was met by the old gentleman with extended hands as he descended from the pulpit. Expecting high praise, he said: "No compliments, I pray."

"Nay, nay, my young friend," said the parson; "nowadays I'm glad o' anybody."

Reeve Howden was nominated by Geo. Ward and Robt. Saunders, and no opposition was offered. A. W. Archbould is a Byersville representative. Mr. Young resides on the boundary line between Monaghan and Smith. His speech was exceptionally good. The meeting was marked by re-choes of grumbling about taxes. Mr. Archie Morton and Mr. Jos. Coombes expressed a sentiment favouring the annexation of Byersville by the city.

DEATH OF THE LATE JOHN PIPER

Last night word was received in the city of the death of the late John Piper, of Toronto, who has relatives in this city. In response to a telegram the Misses Mabel and Clara Warne, neices of the deceased gentleman, left on the 4:33 train for Toronto, this afternoon, where they will attend the funeral.

SEVERE TEST.

Park Commissioner Stover of New York was talking about the abolition of "spooning" in Central Park.

"We have pretty well abolished spooning," he said. "The way to abolish it altogether is to have fewer copses and more cops. But those who persist in spooning in Central Park now, in the face of all the difficulties, are pretty well determined sweethearts, and when they marry they should be able to pass all their lives the 'happy marriage' test.

"According to the happy marriage test, you know, a marriage is a success as long as both husband and wife delight in reading their old love letters to one another."

PATROL IS MISSING

Mounted Police Party Believed to Have Perished in North

INDIANS ARE SUSPECTED

OTTAWA, Dec. 30. — Comptroller Fortescue of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, has received reports from the far north of what he is inclined to believe is another tragedy. He fears that two of his best men and a companion have either been done to death by treacherous Indians or have perished in the heavy storms which have set in. He has sent out two patrols to search for the missing men.

On Nov. 3 Sergt. Harper and Constable Stevenson, with Richard Harrington, a packer, set out from Saskatoon Lake in the Grand Rapids district to make an arrest in a seduction case. Their destination was in the vicinity of the Porcupine river, and they were expected to be away about a month. It is a rough country, and the party had to be packed, hence Harrington went with them as packer.

On Nov. 11 the party was seen near Moose Mountain Creek and was expected to return to that point in a week. It is from there that the news has reached Comptroller Fortescue. The message comes from trappers, whether white men or Indians is not stated, that on Dec. 15 they found on the Moose Mountain Creek trail a gun and a rifle, the description of which tally with the weapons carried by the party.

The suggestion is made at headquarters in Ottawa that the mounted police party had been set upon and slaughtered by Indians, who in this vicinity are regarded as treacherous and unfriendly to whites, or that, as a result of the severe snowstorms which have been sweeping over the district snow blindness had affected the men, with the inevitable result that they were unable to battle successfully with the piercing cold and were overcome. The difficulties of the country are such that very heavy packs could not be carried, and the party had to forage for food. Heavy snow would interfere with their quest for game, in fact, render it almost impossible.

Comptroller Fortescue is suspicious of the message which he has received. It is not signed. It is very illiterate and it may be that it comes from Indians who are purposely leading him away from the actual scene of what he is disposed to think is a tragedy in which they have played a part. The Indians' fear of the mounted police also may have inspired the message.

However, two patrols have gone out from Grouard and Athabasca Landing and they are expected to report to Ottawa in about a month at the latest.

Foul Play Theory Dissipated In Jokinen Mystery.

TORONTO, Dec. 30.—No new developments were brought out at the inquest last evening concerning the disappearance of Annie Jokinson on Dec. 4, and the finding of her body in a field on the farm of John Dew, near the corner of Forest Hill road and Eglinton avenue on Dec. 21. The jury returned a verdict of death by exposure while in a demented condition.

Dr. Bond and Dr. Johnson, who performed the post-mortem, both stated that death was due to starvation and exposure. No evidence of violence was found on the body, and no poison was found in her stomach. The autopsy report showed that for several days raw corn was her only food. It was also found that she had not been criminally assaulted, which entirely does away with the idea that she had been enticed away by white slavers. The characteristics of her head, however, were such that she might have been liable to delusions and demented states.

MUST PASS TESTS.

Chauffeurs To Have Rigid Examination After Jan. 1st.

TORONTO, Dec. 30.—After the New Year paid chauffeurs in the province will require special licenses. Legislation to this effect was arranged for last session with an eye to reducing the accidents on highways and making chauffeurs responsible for their passengers. The law now takes effect.

The method of the Government involves a system of resident engineers in different centres, all of whom belong to the Ontario Motor League. These have already been appointed in North and East Toronto, Ottawa, Peterboro, Chatham, Fort William, Woodstock, St. Thomas, North Bay, Sarnia, and other traffic centres. Arrangements are incomplete as yet for Toronto, Hamilton and London.

The examination will be conducted jointly by the district representative and a police chief. Things demanded include technical knowledge, oral rules, speed laws, a road test, and physical and character testimonials.

There are twenty-seven points in all and the examinations will be universal.

Shot By Accident.

THESSALON, Dec. 30.—Two boys, Thomas Wardell and J. Boyd, living near Thessalon, were hunting together when the latter picked up a shotgun, which accidentally went off, piercing Wardell's body completely and killing him almost instantly. Dr. Spence, coroner of Thessalon, inquired into the circumstances and concluded that the shooting was accidental.

LAKES FUND IS $105,000.

Dispensing of Relief to Disaster Victims Begins To-day.

TORONTO, Dec. 30.—H. H. Gildersleeve, general treasurer of the Lakes Disaster Fund, said last night that over $105,000 had been subscribed to the fund launched following the disastrous storm on Lake Huron on Nov. 9 last when several ships, officials and many sailors were lost. While the fund has been closed, straggling subscriptions continue to come in.

A meeting of the committee having charge of the fund will be held this afternoon at the office of Mayor Hocken in the City Hall, when it is expected that final arrangements will be made for the dispensing of the fund to members and relatives of the ill-fated crews who were lost in the storm.

"The committee feel very grateful towards the public for the generous response," said Mr. Gildersleeve, "and we can assure the public that the money will be dispensed and distributed with the utmost care."

Mr. Gildersleeve stated that since the fund was started the committee had had agents inquiring as to the circumstances and needs of the relatives and families of officials and sailors lost in the storm, in order that the sufferers would receive just compensation.

Here is the Secret of Long Life

While looking forward to health and long life it is possible that you are unaware of the conditions necessary to attain healthful old age. Careful eating, and consequent preservation of the health and vitality of the digestive and excretory organs, is of the greatest importance.

Overeating is the usual cause of torpid, sluggish liver action, and when the liver fails additional work is thrown on the kidneys and they break down. Kidney disorders are the great source of suffering in old age. Rheumatism, bodily pains, aching arms and legs, backache and lumbago are the result.

By the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to regulate the liver, kidneys and bowels, as occasion requires, you not only overcome the suffering, inconvenience and unpleasantness of attacks of biliousness, indigestion and constipation, but you actually prolong life by keping these organs in good, healthful condition. This medicine is a wonderful source of comfort for people in old age.

FIRE IN MONTREAL

Lack of Water Gives Firemen Long, Bitter Struggle

BROUGHT WATER A MILE

MONTREAL, Dec. 30.—Fire broke out at one o'clock yesterday afternoon in the premises of the Auto Garage Co., Ltd., at the corner of Ontario and Providence streets, in the north-east end of the city, and was caused by an explosion of gasoline. It spread with lightning rapidity, due to three other explosions, to adjoining buildings, threatening the whole block on St. Hubert street.

The firemen were without water pressure, owing to the break in the intake, and had to bring water from the river, a mile away. The loss will be about $285,000, with $40,000 insurance.

The heat from the raging conflagration grew so great that the firemen, with their one stream, were driven back. Chief Tremblay then had a consultation with his sub-chiefs, and it was decided that if the fire spread much further resort would be had to dynamiting buildings around it to check its march.

After an hour's work, during which every bit of hose that could be collected, had been connected up, the firemen were just able to throw one end of the chain into the St. Lawrence river, nearly a mile away from the scene of the fire.

A tremendous cheer broke from the firemen when the first few spurts of the river water came through and fell with a hiss on the heated buildings near the fire. With this the progress of the flames was checked.

While attempting to throw chemicals on the fire on the fourth storey of the Automobile & Garage Co.'s building, Fireman James Rollahan lost his balance and fell to the street. He was rushed to the Royal Victoria Hospital, where is was found that his condition was most critical.

When the fire started the firemen and police saved 22 automobiles, but 60 were destroyed. The buildings destroyed were owned by Jas. Laurier and occupied by the Auto & Garage Co., the Dechnl Tools, Ltd., and several manufacturing firms.

As a result of the blaze and the absence of adequate water supply for the firemen, some of the sufferers have announced their intention of taking suit against the city.

Water Famine Nearly Over.

MONTREAL, Dec. 30. — Without being too definite, Controller Godfrey expressed the opinion that water might be turned on to-day. The situation at present is the same as it has been since the pumps were shut down on Christmas night. Water carts continue to supply citizens and material relief in some sections has been effected by the Montreal Water & Power Co. The lack of water has seriously affected the laundries and the drivers have had to advise clients to hold their orders until Friday. In those laundries where water is available, the management has been supplying their customers with water.

KENT CAN GROW CORN!

Children's Contest Shows Marvellous Yield Per Acre.

CHATHAM, Dec. 30. — Yesterday the announcement was made that in this northern climate of Kent 142 bushels of shelled corn to the acre have been grown by D. A. Caughill, a school boy, under the supervision of the Department of Education, which will vouch for the accuracy of the plot measurements and the weight of the corn grown. Another boy, John Wilson, had a yield of over 135 bushels, and a little girl, Edna Wills, secured 135 bushels per acre.

The above mentioned boys and girls were members of a corn-growing contest in Harwich Township that was organized by R. H. Abraham of the Department of Education. The object in having the contest was mainly to test the Wisconsin No. 7 corn, to try to find out if it was a suitable corn to recommend for Kent County. Pure Wisconsin No. 7 seed was secured and distributed to two hundred boys and girls who planted one-eighth of an acre in plots isolated from other corn fields.

Skater Drowned.

TORONTO, Dec. 30.—The first of the winter's skating fatalities occurred at five o'clock yesterday afternoon, when George Simmons, 18, 88 Morris street, skated to his death on the treacherous ice off Morley avenue, near the city's septic tank.

With Simmons at the time of the tragedy were two companions, one named Waters, also of Morris street, and another whom the police have as yet been unable to locate.

Tasman Is Badly Damaged.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 30. —A wireless message received at noon yesterday from the steamer Tasman, ashore in the Gulf of Papua, reported 15 feet of water in the hold and gaining rapidly. At that hour the steamers which had been despatched to the assistance of the Tasman had not arrived. It is considered possible that the Tasman will be a total wreck.

SHACKLETON'S PLANS.

Antarctic Expedition Will Use Clipped Aeroplanes on Sleighs.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—An interesting feature of the equipment to be used by Sir Ernest H. Shackleton on his proposed expedition next year across the Antarctic continent will be sledges driven by aeroplane engines and an aeroplane with clipped wings to aid in propelling the sledges over the ice.

The transcontinental party will consist of six men and 120 dogs. The animals chosen will be those accustomed to team and post work in Alaska and Siberia, and they will be handled by experienced Canadians.

Sir Ernest plans to land at latitude 78 degrees south, on Weddel Sea, at the beginning of November, 1914, and expects to arrive in Ross Sea, on the other side of the South Pole, in March, 1915.

The expedition will have two oil-driven ships.

News that Sir Ernest Shackleton is about to lead another British expedition to the Antarctic has awakened the greatest interest here. The main object of the expedition will be to cross the South Polar continent from Weddell Sea to Ross Sea, a distance roughly of 1,700 statute miles, making the South Pole a "half-way house" on the great journey, of which one-half will be over an entirely new route. It will be the biggest polar journey ever attempted, and if successful will open up in the Weddell quadrant a vast and unexplored region which is still a blank on the map.

Boy Shot by His Companion.

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 30.—George Flett, aged 13 years, was shot yesterday and died shortly afterwards by a playmate, Stanley Craig, aged 14, who told contradictory accounts to the police in explaining the affair. One version was that he was shooting at a trap and the other was that he did not know the rifle was loaded.

What a Poor Boy Did For Poor Boys.

Leaving the village school at the age of thirteen, Dwight L. Moody entered the army of wage-earners, never again to enjoy the opportunity of an elementary education. When in after years he made friends who had confidence in him, and were willing to aid in his work, his heart went out to the class to which he had belonged whes young, and he determined to do his utmost to afford an open door of opportunity for the youth of his country. The Northfield schools became the concrete expression of his sympathy for boys and girls who had been handicapped, and he determined to help them to acquire, as he expressed it, "such an education as would help me when I was their age."

"That Affair Next Door"

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN

"'We will go to our house to-night,' said he. 'I have not been living in it lately, and you may find it a little uncomfortable, but we will remedy that to-morrow. Anything is better than staying here under a false name and I cannot take you to my bachelor apartment.'

"I had doubted some of his previous statements, but this one I implicitly believed. Why should not so elegant a man have a house of his own; and if he had told me it was built of marble and hung with Florentine tapestries, I should still have credited it all. I was in fairy-land and he was my knight of romance, even when he again hung his head in leaving the hotel and looked at once so ordinary and uninteresting.

"The ruse he made use of to cut off all connection between ourselves and the Mr. and Mrs. James Pope who had registered at the Hotel D—— was accepted by me with the same lack of suspicion. That he should wish to carry no remembrance of our old life into our new home I thought a delightful piece of folly, and when he proposed that we should bequeath my gossamer and his own disfiguring duster to the coachman in whose hack we were then riding, I laughed gleefully and helped him fold them up and place them under the cushions, though I did wonder why he cut a piece out of the neck of the former, and pouted with the happy freedom of a self-confident woman when he said:

"'It is the first thing I ever bought for you, and I am just foolish enough to preserve this much of it as a keepsake. Do you object, my dear?'

"As I was conscious of cherishing a similar folly in his regard, and could have pressed even that old duster of his to my heart, I offered him a kiss and said 'No,' and he put the scrap away in his pocket. That it was the portion on which was stamped the name of the firm from which it was bought did not occur to me.

"When the coach stopped, he urged me away on foot in a direction entirely strange to me, saying we would take another hack as soon as we had disposed of the bundles we were carrying. H owhe intended to do this, I did not know. But presently he drew me towards a Chinese laundry, where he bade me leave one of them as washing, and the other he dropped before the opening of a sewer as we stepped up a neighbouring curb-stone.

"And still I did not suspect.

"Our ride to Gramercy Park was short; but during it he had time to put a bill in my hand and tell me I was to pay the driver. He also had time to secure the weapon upon which he had probably had his eye fixed from the first. His manner of doing this I can never forgive, for it was a lover's manner, and as such intended to deceive and cajole me. Drawing my head down on his shoulder, he drew off my veil, saying that it was the only article of my own buying, and that we would leave it behind us in this coach, as we had left the gossamer in the other. 'Only I will make sure that no woman ever wears it,' he laughed,' slitting it up and down with his knife. When this was done he kissed me, and then while my heart was tender and the warm tears stood in my eyes, he drew out the pin from my hat, meeting my remonstrances with the assurance that he hated to see my head covered, and that no hat was as pretty as my own brown hair.

"As this was nonsense, and as the coach was beginning to stop, I shook my head at him and put my hat on again, but he had dropped the pin, or so he said, and I had to alight without it.

"When I had paid the driver and the coach had driven off, I had a chance to look up at the house before which we had stopped. Its height and imposing appearance daunted me in spite of the great expectations I had formed, and I ran up the stoop after him in a condition of mingled awe and wild delight that was the poorest preparation possible for what lay before me in the dark interior we were entering.

"He was fumbling nervously in the keyhole with his key, and I heard a whispered oath escape him. But presently the door fell back, and we stepped in to what looked to me like a cavern of darkness.

"'Do not be frightened!' he admonished me. "I will strike a light in a moment.' And after carefully closing the street door behind us, he stretched out his hand to take mine, or so I judge, for I heard him whisper impatiently, 'Where are you?'

"I was on the threshold of the parlour, to which I had groped my way while he was closing the front door, so I whispered back, 'Here!' but found voice for nothing further, for at that instant I heard a sound proceeding from the depths of darkness in front of me, and was so struck with terror that I fell back against the staircase, just as he passed me and entered the room from which that stealthy noise had issued.

"'Darling!' he whispered, 'darling!' and went stumbling on in the void of darkness before me, till suddenly by some power I cannot explain I seemed to see, faintly but distinctly, and as if with my mind's eye rather than with my bodily one.

"I perceived the shadowy form of a woman standing in the space before him, and beheld him suddenly grasp her with what he meant to be a loving cry, but which to my ears at that moment sounded strangely ferocious, and after holding her a moment suddenly release her, at which she uttered one low, curdling moan and sank at his feet. At the same instant I heard a click, which I did not understand then, but which I now know to have been the head of the hat-pin striking the register.

"Horrified past all power of speech and action, for I saw that he had intended this blow for me, I cowered against the stairs, waiting for him to pass out. This he did not do at once, though the delay must have been short. He stopped long enough by the prostrate form to stir it with his foot, probably to see if life was extinct, but no longer, yet it seemed an eternity before I perceived him groping his way over the threshold; an eternity in which every act of my life passed before me, and every word and every expression with which he had beguiled me came to rack my soul and made the horror of this mad awakening greater.

"No thought of her, or of the guilt with which he had forever damned his soul, came to me in that first moment of misery. My loss, my escape, and the danger in which I still stood if the least hint reached him of the mistake he had made, filled my mind too entirely for me to dwell on any less impersonal theme. His words, for he muttered several in that short passage out, showed me in what a fools' paradise I had been revelling, and how certainly I had turned his every thought towards murder when I seized him in the street and proclaimed myself his wife. The satisfaction with which he uttered, "Well struck!' gave little hint of remorse; and the gloating delight with which he added something about the devil having assisted him to make it a safe blow as well as a deadly one, was proof not only of his having used all his cunning in planning this crime, but of his pleasure in its apparent success.

"That he continued in this frame of mind, and that he never lost confidence in the precautions he had taken and in the mystery with which the deed was surrounded, is apparent from the fact that he revisited the Van Burnam office on the following morning, and hung again on its accustomed nail the keys of the Gramercy Park house.

"When the front door had closed, and I knew that he had gone away in the full belief that it was my form he had left lying behind him on that midnight floor, all the accumulated terrors of the situation came to me in full force, and I began to think of her as well as of myself, and longed for courage to approach her or even the daring to call out for help. But the thought that it was my husband who had committed this crime held me tongue-tied, and though I soon began to move inch by inch in her direction, it was some time before I could so far overcome my terror as to enter the room where she lay.

"I had supposed, and still supposed (as was natural after seeing him open the door with the keys he took from his pocket), that the house was his, and the victim a member of his own household. But when, after innumerable hesitations and a bodily shrinking that was little short of torment, I managed to drag myself into the room and light a match which I found on a farther mantel-shelf, I saw enough in the general appearance of the rooms and of the figure at my feet to make me doubt the truth of both these suppositions. Yet no other explanation came to lighten the mystery of the occasion, and dazed as I was by the horror of my position and the mortal dread I felt of the man who in one instant had turned the heaven of my love into a hell of fathomless horrors, I soon had eyes for the one fact only, that the woman lying before me was sufficiently like myself to inspire me with the hope of preserving my secret and keeping from my would-be slayer the knowledge of my having escaped the doom he had prepared for me.

"For ascribe it to what motive you will, that was the one idea now dominating my mind. I wanted him to believe me dead. I wanted to feel that all connection between us was severed forever. He had killed me. By killing my love and faith in him he had murdered the better part of myself, and I shrank with inconceivable horror from anything that would bring me again under his eye, or force me to assert claims that it would be the future business of my life to forget.

"When the first match went out I had got courage to light another, so I crept away in the darkness to listen at the foot of the stairs. There was no sound from above, and a terrifying sense began to pervade me that I was in that house alone. Yet there was safety in the thought, and opportunity for what I was planning, and finally, under the stress of the purpose that was every moment developing within me, I went softly up-stairs and listened at all the doors till I was certain that the house was unoccupied. Then I came down and walked resolutely back into the parlour, for I knew if I allowed any time to pass I could never again summon up strength to cross its grisly threshold. Yet I did nothing for hours but crouch in one of its dismal corners, waiting for morning. That I did not go mad in that awful interval is a wonder. I must have been near it more than once.

"I have been asked, and Miss Butterworth has been asked, how in the light of what we now know concerning this poor victim's presence there, we account for her being in the darkness and showing so little terror at our entrance and Mr. Stone's approach. I account for it in this way: Two half-burned matches were found in the parlour grate. One I flung there; the other had probably been used by her to light the dining-room gas. If this was still lighted when we drove up, as it may have been, then, alarmed by the sound of the stopping coach, she had put it out, with a vague idea of hiding herself till she knew whether it was the old gentleman who was coming or only her suspicions and unreasonable husband. If it was not lighted then, she was probably aroused from a sleep on the parlour sofa, and was for the moment too dazed to cry out or resent an embrace she had not time to understand before she succumbed to the cruel stab that killed her. Miss Butterworth, however, thinks that the poor creature took the intruder for Franklin till she heard my voice, when she probably became so amazed that she was in a measure paralyzed and found it impossible to move or cry out. As Miss Butterworth is a woman of great discretion I should think her explanation the truest, if I did not consider her a little prejudiced against Mrs. Van Burnam,

"But to return to myself.

"With the first glimmer of light that came through the closed shutters I rose and began my dreadful task. Upheld by a purpose as relentless as that which drove the author of this horror into murder, I stripped the body and put upon it my own clothing, with the one exception of the shoes. Then, when I had re-dressed myself in hers, I steadied up my heart and with one wild pull dragged down the cabinet upon her so that her face might lose its traits and her identification become impossible.

"How I had strength to do this, and how I could contemplate the result without shrieking, I cannot now imagine. Perhaps I was hardly human at this crisis; perhaps something of the demon which had informed him in his awful work had entered into my breast, making this thing possible. I only know that I did what I have said and did it calmly. More than that, I had mind and judgment left to give to my own appearance. Observing that the dress I had put on was of a conspicuous plaid, I exchanged the skirt portion with the brown silk petticoat under it, and when I observed that it hung below the other, as of course it would, I went through the house till I came upon some pins with which I pinned it up out of sight. Thus equipped, I was still a person to attract attention, especially as I had no hat to put on; my own having fallen from my head and been covered by the dead woman's body, which nothing would induce me to move again.

"But I had confidence in my own powers to escape question, toned up as I was in every nerve by the dreadfulness of my situation, and as soon as I was in decent shape for flight, I opened the front door and prepared to slip out.

"But here the intense dread I felt of my husband, a dread which had actuated all my movements and sustained me in as harrowing a task as ever woman performed, seized me with renewed force, and I quailed at the prospect of entering the streets alone. Supposing he should be on the stoop! Supposing he should be in an opposite window even! Could I encounter him again and live? He was not far away, or so I felt. A murderer, it is said, cannot help haunting the scene of his crime, and if he should see me alive and well, what might I not expect from his astonishment and alarm? I did not dare go out. But neither did I dare remain, so after quaking for a good five minutes on the threshold, I made one wild dash through the door.

"There was no one in sight, and I reached Broadway before I ran across man or woman. Even then I got by without any one speaking to me, and favoured by Providence, found a nook at the end of an alleyway, where I remained undiscovered till it was late enough in the morning for me to enter a shop and buy a hat.

"The rest of my movements are known. I found my way to Mrs. Desberger's, this time without interruption; and from that place sought and found a situation with Miss Althorpe.

"That her fate was in any way connected with mine, or that the Randolph Stone she was engaged to marry was the John Randolph from whose clutches I had just escaped, was, of course, unsuspected by me, and, incredible as it may seem, continued to be unsuspected as long as I remained in the house. There was reason for this. My duties were such as I could well attend to in my own room, and feeling a horror of the world and everything in it, I kept my room as much as possible, and never went out of it when I knew that he was in the house. The very thought of love awakened intolerable emotion in me, and much as I admired and revered Miss Althorpe, I could not bring myself to meet or even talk of the man to whom she was in expectation of being so soon united. There was another thing of which I was ignorant, and that was the circumstances which had invested with so much interest the crime of which I had been witness. I did not know that the victim had been recognized, or that an innocent man had been arrested for her murder. In fact I knew nothing concerning the affair save what I had seen with my own eyes, no one having mentioned the murder in my presence, and I having religiously avoided the very sight of a paper for fear that I should see some account of the horrible affair, and so lose what small remnants of courage I still possessed.

WHOOPING COUGH

Mrs. Charles Lovell, Agassiz, B. C., writes: "Seven of our nine children had whooping cough the same winter and we attribute their cure to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. We always have it in the house, and recommend it as the king of all medicines. I was formerly completely cured of protruding piles by using Dr. Chase's Ointment."

NOT THE SAME THING.

Preparation and Properties of the Two Different Products.

To many persons the "cement" and the "concrete" that nowadays enter so largely into building construction are synonymous terms. They are by no means the same thing.

In the first place, Portland cement is a manufactured product obtained from lime rock and clay or similar aluminous raw materials. Its preparation involves drying, burning and grinding in order that, when finished, it shall be in the form of a light gray powder or flour. This powder is of such exceeding fineness that the grains thereof may be made to pass through a sieve containing 40,000 holes to the square inch of surface.

Modeled into any desirable form, cement shows a high crushing resistance, together with a high tensile strength. It will sustain almost any load without injury to itself, showing no cracks or other elements of decay that attack other materials.

"Concrete" implies the use of cement in conjunction with sand and crushed rock and in such proportions as will develop the highest value of the cement for practical purposes, at the same time bringing it within the range of buyers who do not wish to employ Portland cement.

"Re-enforced concrete" means the use of concrete in conjunction with steel so placed as to contribute the tensional value of the steel to the total mass. Columns thus constructed will sustain almost any concentrated burden and are being extensively used in engineering—Technical World.

The Quickest, Simplest Cough Cure

This recipe makes 16 ounces of cough syrup—enough to last a family a long time. You couldn't buy as much or as good cough syrup for $2.50.

Simple as it is, it gives almost instant relief and usually stops the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. This is partly due to the fact that it is slightly laxative, stimulates the appetite and has an excellent tonic effect. It is pleasant to take—children like it. An excellent remedy, too, for whooping cough, croup, sore lungs, asthma, throat troubles, etc.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water and stir for two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Pinex is one of the oldest and best-known remedial agents for the throat membranes. It is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the other natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this recipe have endeared it to thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

The Insulted Tiger.

In "Tigerland" C. E. Gouldsberg, its author, alludes to the belief, current among some of the natives of Bengal, "that tigers resent being discussed by human beings and should one overhear a man doing so will not rest till it has killed and eaten the offender." Therefore when a tiger is near at hand they speak of it as a "geedur"—Bengali for jackal—and so hope to deceive it. When it was pointed out to an old native that to insult a tiger by calling it a jackal—the smallest and most insignificant beast in the forest—was scarcely the best way of propitiating it he merely shrugged his shoulders and said, "Kya jane?" (who knows?), adding by way of explanation that "such was their 'dustoor' (custom)."

A Guest for Dinner.

"I'm bringing Mr. Wilson up for dinner."

When there's a telephone in the home, the thoughtful husband calls up his wife and tells her of the unexpected guest he is bringing home with him for dinner. Thus the housewife is not taken at unawares, but has time to prepare.

This is only one of the thousands of ways in which a telephone in the home is a boon, saving time, effort, worry, and often life itself.

With a telephone in the home, the housewife is prepared for any emergency, and her social and household burdens are immensely lightened.

Have you a telephone in your home?

Stage Gag.

Claude Flemming, the famous English actor and baritone, is an authority on stage history, and the other evening, at the Greenroom Club, he talked in a most interesting way about stage gags.

"The best stage gag in history," Mr. Flemming said, "was undoubtedly an impromptu of Mrs. Keeley's. Mrs. Keeley was playing a boy's part in 'Genevieve.' She was taken before a judge in this part, and the judge asked, sternly:—

"'Now, then, where are your accomplices?'

"To this question Mrs. Keeley roguishly replied, as she gave a nautical hitch to her trousers:—

"'I don't wear any. They keep up without.'

"This impromptu gag was so successful that from that night on Mrs. Keeley did not require to answer the judge's question—the gallery, in resounding chorus, did it for her."

BEAUTY CAUSED RIOTS

SEVERAL CASES RECORDED OF WOMEN WHO ATTRACTED MOBS.

The Celebrated Gunning Sisters Who Reigned Supreme Among the Belles of London in Eighteenth Century Drew Crowds Wherever They Went—Band Stopped to See Countess of Castiglione Go By.

"They can't walk in the Park," wrote Horace Walpole of the beautiful Gunnings in 1751, "or go to Vauxhall, but such mobs follow them that they are generally driven away." Elizabeth, Maria and Kitty Gunning were three beautiful sisters who, coming over from Ireland in 1750, took London by storm. Nor was the furore that their beauty created of brief duration, for nine years later we read in The London Chronicle of Maria Gunning, by that time Countess of Coventry, and Lady Waldegrave, "that two ladies of distinction (who had, it seems, been incommoded by the mob, as the phrase is, the Sunday before) walked up and down the walks in St. James' Park preceded by soldiers from the Guard —a precaution which gave no small offence to the rest of the company, who were frequently obliged to go out of their path to make way for the procession."

Equally potent was the beauty of the Countess of Castiglione, who, at her first appearance at a ball given by Napoleon III. at the Tuileries, created such a sensation on her entrance that the dancers stopped motionless and the strains of the band ceased, guests and musicians all pressing forward in their eagerness to catch a glimpse of the newcomer. Wherever she went afterwards her peerless loveliness produced a like effect, people climbing on to chairs and benches to see her pass, while when, in 1862, she visited the London Opera the audience stood upon the seats and struggled for every place of vantage from which to gaze upon the lovely Florentine.

Whatever opinions may be expressed on the character of Fanny Murray, who, about the middle of the eighteenth century, was one of the toasts of the town, her beauty was beyond question, and created such a stir at Tunbridge Wells, whither she went to drink the waters, as to necessitate the formation of a special guard of her admirers, who kept off the crowds that flocked and pressed round her when she walked on the Pantiles and other public resorts. Indeed, such was the fame of her beauty that from miles round the country folk came in wagons, carts, or any vehicle that could be procured — and when one was not available they hesitated not to walk—that they might feast their eyes on the celebrity from town.

The good looks of Julie Durrier always drew after her a crowd when she walked through the streets of Marseilles—a fact that the proprietor of an eating-house was not slow to avail himself when he engaged the girl to serve in his establishment. For a few days all went well, and Boniface was beginning to rejoice over his fortune, when he suddenly realised that one can have more than enough of a good thing when the crowd, of which the dimensions grew larger every day, swarmed into his establishment in their eagerness to view the beautiful Hebe, and, on his attempting to eject some of the most persistent, broke into open tumult, destroying the tables and chairs, breaking the glasses, and, in short, wrecking the restaurant, whence the cause of the uproar was lucky in escaping by a back exit. The next day the place was closed, and soon afterwards Mlle. Durrier left the town.

More extraordinary still was the sensation created at Toulouse towards the close of the sixteenth century by a paragon of beauty known only to fame as La Belle Paule. Whenever she appeared in public she was at once surrounded by a crowd of men and women belonging to all classes, whose admiration grew to be a positive danger to its object, who ran more than a chance of being crushed to death in the press, as, indeed, was more than one of her worshippers. In these circumstances, appeal was made to the civic authorities, who, after due consideration, agreed to supply her with protection against her too ardent admirers, on condition that she should at certain hours walk abroad so that the public might look upon her face. This, after some demur, she agreed to do, so twice a week the populace of Toulouse were permitted to collect in orderly throngs to view her whom they regarded as little less than a goddess.

Danger In Uncooked Food.

Never eat uncooked food. I plunge bananas into boiling water before eating. I always pass my knives, forks and spoons through a Bunsen burner before using. All dishes are cooked. But it helps to avoid the cancer germ.—Professor Metchnikoff in a Paris interview.

TALKING SIGN OF SAVAGERY.

Doctor Thinks Women's Fluency Sign of Slow Development.

Does the fact that the majority of women are fluent talkers mean that they are more closely allied to their savage ancestry than a man?

The question is suggested by the statement just made by a responsible writer that the higher types of savages have embarrassingly rich languages, and are gifted talkers.

If this is a marked attribute to savages, then it is certainly also one of women. For as far back as records carry, women have always been notorious talkers.

"A man may chat but a woman only chatters," said a famous doctor recently to The Daily Mirror. "Savages chatter all day long, mostly about nothing.

"The higher type of savage is particularly rich in his language; so is the higher type of civilised woman. You cannot restrain either type—both must have their way.

"Women are born talkers. And it is somewhat significant that girl babies usually speak much sooner than boy babies."

These are some of the chief points which are said to prove that woman has still much of the savage in her composition:

Lack of self-restraint.
Love of self-decoration.
Inordinate vanity.
Inherent cruelty.
Love of bright colors.
Wants at once what attracts her.
Passions still in a crude state and easily aroused.
Word not to be relied upon; will lie without hesitation, and without thinking of the consequences.
Easily pleased and depressed.

Mr. Walter M. Gallichan, the author of "Modern Woman and How to Manage Her," has some strong remarks to make about woman's savagery. Woman's belief, according to him is that she must be cunning and deceitful, mean, selfish, and cruel if she is to prevail.

"Nothing," he says, "can excel the callous and malignant cruelty which second wives often display in their treatment of children by the first wife.

"There are innumerable records of beating, burning and mutilating children which might lead us to believe that 'gentle sex' and 'a mother's love' are merely poetic figures of speech."

And, according to Mr. Gallichan, woman is no clumsy tyrant. On the contrary, she has carried her refined cruelty down until it becomes almost a fine art. Unlike man, her cruelty is not "a short madness," but is thoughtfully planned and deliberately carried through."

Dirt a Skin Protector.

Sir Francis Galton held that washing when on a journey has its drawbacks. In the "Art of Travel" he remarks that "there is no denying the fact, though it be not agreeable to confess it, that dirt and grease are great protectors of the skin against inclement weather, and that therefore the leade. of an exploring party should not be too exacting about the appearance of his less warmly clad followers. Daily washing, if not accompanied by oiling, must be compensated by wearing clothes. A dog will sleep out under any bush and thrive there so long as he is not washed, groomed and kept clean. There must be a balance between the activity of the skin and the calls upon it, and where the exposure is greater, there must the pores be more defended.

"This fellow's card reads like a time table: 'Jonas Smithers, A. M., P. M.'"

"Nothing odd about that. One of President Wilson's old pupils who's just been appointed postmaster for this village."—St. Louis Republic.

ROYAL NICKNAMES.

Every Scion of European Ruling Houses Has Some Pet Cognomen.

In Great Britain and also in Germany nicknames for the respective monarchs are popular, and almost every member of the royal families as well as prominent men generally have them.

His Majesty King George V. is frequently referred to as "Doddie" in Scotland, where "Dod" is the vernacular for "George," though his subjects south of the Tweed prefer the plain "George."

The late King Edward was often called "Edrex," a nickname very obviously derived from the royal signature, "Edward Rex." Before his assumption of the Crown he was familiarly known as "Bertie," and by the other members of the royal family as "The Guv'nor." Many of his humble subjects were wont to refer to him as "Teddy," especially in fond and favorable comment.

It would be impossible to give all the nicknames bestowed on that most active and interfering monarch, the Emperor of Germany, inasmuch as the cartoonists give him a new one every day or so. "Frederick the Greatest," "Ajax," "Gondola Willie," and "The Captain" are probably the most used. It is interesting from the psychological point of view that in each instance the intent is sarcasm pure and simple. "Punch" is responsible for "The Captain," it having printed the famous cartoon which represented the Kaiser as the captain of a ship watching the pilot, Bismarck, going down the gangway after his dismissal.

That the Emperor of All the Russias is beloved of many of his subjects, despite popular ideas as to the contrary, is easily proved by the familiar designation of "Nicky," which has clung to him since his boyhood. "The Father," as the late King of Denmark was usually termed, as well as the "Father Francis" by which the Emperor of Austria is known, are evidence of the depth of affection and reverence shown to each by their subjects.

"The Little Signor," as the King of Italy is called by his people, brings to recollection the endearing term of the war battered French for their "Little Corporal." While "The Friend" or "The Heart," as a popular designation of the King of Spain by many of his subjects shows clearly how they look upon him.

"Her Royal Shyness" is the nickname given by the Queen of Norway to her sister, the Duchess of Fife. The Queen Dowager has always been known to her relatives and most intimate friends as "Harry."

Many distinguished men bear queer nicknames, but among the most unaccountable is "Blue Monkey," applied to the Marquis de Soveral, so many years the ambassador of Portugal to Great Britain. King Edward himself applied this very appropriate name of "The Ancestor" to Lord Ribblesdale because of the latter's odd way of dressing. And is not the head of the British Peerage known as "The Dumpling" among the young scions of his line?

The Tree of Life.

The banana is believed by some people to be the forbidden fruit which is mentioned in the story of the Garden of Eden. In any case, it is one of the curiosities of the vegetable kingdom, being not a tree, a palm, a bush or shrub, a vegetable or a herb, but an herbaceous plant with the stature of a tree. Although it sometimes attains a height of thirty feet, there is no woody fiber in any part of the structure, and the bunches growing on the dwarf banana plant are often heavier than the stalk which supplants them. No plant gives such a quantity of food to the acre as the banana. It yields forty-four times more by weight than the potato and 133 times more than wheat.

A Candy Kid, So to Speak.

In the station at St. Margaret Styria (on the frontier between Germany and Austria), an elegantly dressed couple passed through the customs office, the man carrying a child in swaddling clothes, a very elaborate outfit. Only when the pair had taken the train for Bregenz did any doubts as to the genuineness of the child come into the customs official's mind. He immediately instituted search and discovered that the infant was a carefully concealed receptable containing a large quantity of saccharin. The "sweet baby" was at once confiscated and the pair of smugglers held.

A Tale of Red Tape.

Among the tales of red tape the following should hold a high place: M. Roger Cavailhon, a young French gentleman rider, who had won his hundredth steeplechase, was drawn for the conscription and had to serve for a year. He asked to be placed in the cavalry, explaining with due modesty that he was not unknown as a horseman. The military council of revision refused the request on the ground that as his period of service was only one year he would not have time to learn to ride.

Seemed Quite Natural.

"I understand burglars broke into your house while you were away the other night and ransacked the place."

"Yes, and they emptied every drawer in the house."

"What did your wife say when she saw the upheaval?"

"Burglars never occurred to her. She just thought I'd been looking for my shirt studs."

Not Written.

"How do you write 'horn?'" asked the teacher of a small boy at the blackboard.

"A horn isn't written at all," answered the little fellow. "Its blowed."

"Johnny, you naughty boy, you have been fighting again and lost two of your teeth."

"No, I ain't, mother. They are in my pocket."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A Queer Practice.

A queer practice which is general throughout all the tribes of Australia is the ribbing of the skin. When the children are still young long cuts are made across the chest, down the upper arm and leg and even across the back and ribs. While the wound is quite fresh the cut is opened and a mixture of mud is grafted in, the skin being pulled as far as possible over it. The skin eventually grows completely around the mud filling and forms ridges varying in length and size from an ordinary lead pencil to the thickness of a man's little finger and extending from armpit to armpit. —London Standard.

Saint Invented "Tawdry."

To St. Etheldreda, who is commemorated on Oct. 17, we owe the word "tawdry." The saint knew no such word, but the origin of it is clear enough. For St. Etheldreda was popularly known as St. Audrey, and at St. Audrey's Fair were sold St. Audrey laces, which in process of time became clipped into "tawdry laces." Finally the new adjective was applied to any finery of similar grade. The part played by the "t" in "Saint" is exactly that which has given us Tooley street from St. Olaf.

Left to Itself Eczema Spreads
The cause is often difficult to find, but you can readily obtain relief from the dreadful itching by the application of Dr. Chase's Ointment. This treatment cleanses the sores and soon sets up a process of healing which leads to complete cure.
Patient and persistent treatment is necessary in severe cases, but as you can readily see the improvement from day to day as Dr. Chase's Ointment is applied you will be encouraged to keep on until you have driven out the disease and restored natural, healthy skin.
Attention to the genral health is advisable in order that the cure may be lasting, but you can depend on Dr. Chase's Ointment to stop the itching and heal the skin. So well does it accomplish this that many cures it brings about are almost like miracles. Put it to the test and you will be surprised and delighted with the results.

When Vapor Is Dry.

A popular misconception is the supposition that aqueous vapor and ice are wet. They are in themselves dry, and become wet only when they turn to water. So dry is aqueous vapor that it will dry any moist object that it comes in contact with. Superheated steam, before it condenses, is a dry gas. Ice feels wet if the temperature of the hand is sufficient to melt it; as ice it is dry. Another misconception is that the air can be either moist or dry. It is condensed aqueous vapor in the air that is moist, and it would be moist if there were no air. A given quantity of aqueous vapor confined in a given space will be wet or dry according to the temperature. At 32 degrees, for instance, it might be partially condensed and consequently wet, while at 70 degrees, owing to expansion, it would be dry.

WATER FED THE FLAMES.

Hopeless Fight Against a Peculiar Conflagration at Sea.

When the freighter Hardy steamed out of Le Treport, France, she carried besides the mineral water in her hold a number of small wooden cases marked "metallic sodium."

The channel was rough. The vessel rolled and pitched violently. The captain saw that the ship was listing to port and, suspecting that the cargo was shifting, sent a boatswain below to investigate. As the boatswain entered the hold he saw that several cases of mineral water had broken and that the water was swishing about in the hold. Then suddenly he saw one of the wooden cases marked "sodium" burst into flame.

Immediately he gave the alarm, and the crew rushed to their fire stations. The captain directed the men to play the hose into the hold. As the first stream of water struck the burning case there were several explosions as package after package within the case caught fire. By this time two other cases of sodium had broken open, and their contents as they came in contact with the water from the hose burst into flames.

The crew could not believe their eyes. The more water they poured on the fire the more intense grew the conflagration. Then suddenly two cases flew into the air, crashed against the overhead beams and spread out in sheets of fire, the smaller pieces dropping back only to bounce and dance about, hot balls of flame, in the half swamped hold.

Panic stricken, the crew dropped the hose lines and fled above decks. But the captain ordered the cargo flung into the sea and led his men back into the hold. They succeeded in throwing several of the cases overboard. But as each case hit the waves it rebounded into the air, a flaming ball.

The superstitious crew was fast becoming unmanageable, and the captain saw that in any case he must abandon the ship. He ordered the crew to the boats not one moment too soon, for as the boats rowed away from the blazing hulk several loud explosions came from the hold. Then there was one mighty detonation. The freighter broke in two and plunged out of sight.

The origin of the fire was, of course, in the sodium. Sodium is a peculiar metal, which oxydises rapidly when water touches it and flames as soon as the water becomes warm. According to the chemist's classification, it is the second member of the alkali group that includes lithium, potassium, rubidium and caesium. All of these elements have the same characteristics as sodium in greater or less degree. The sodium should have been shipped in hermetically sealed tin cans inclosed in wooden cases. But the rolling of the ship and the careless stowing of the cargo broke open some of these cases, and the sodium, which was not properly packed, was liberated.—Boston Herald.

Air Pressure In Tunnels.

The effects of air resistance are well shown in the twelve and a half mile Simplon tunnel, where an exceptionally high amount of energy is required for running the electric trains. The tunnel, which is fifteen feet wide and eighteen feet high, with a sectional area of 250 square feet, has a ventilating current of 3,530 cubic feet of air per second, maintained by two blast fans at the Brigue end and two exhaust fans at Iselle. Trains going with this current encounter less resistance than in open air up to fifteen and a half miles an hour, but at higher speeds or in the opposite direction the resistance is much greater than outside. Coasting by gravity down the seven per 1,000 maximum gradient, a train, even though going with the current, cannot exceed thirty-five miles an hour on account of the braking by the air.

Distinctive Dress in Anglicans.

At Coutts' bank the clerical assistants must all wear frock coats, and no one in the employment of the bank is allowed to go about with his trousers turned up. At Hoare's bank it is the custom of all those employed to wear white ties. Members of the legal profession observe the etiquette of their calling by abstaining from the wearing of light or fancy colored clothes and always wear silk hats. The beadles of some Presbyterian churches in England wear dress suits instead of the Anglican cassock. Some brewers' workmen and draymen wear scarlet knitted wool nightcaps. In fact, nearly every trade and profession has its own conventions and unwritten laws concerning the dress of its members.—London Globe.

Business and Poetry.

Not every one can successfully combine banking and literature, as did Lord Avebury. William Sharp (Fiona MacLeod) attempted it when a clerk in the London office of the Bank of Melbourne, with the result that the manager quickly gave him choice of accepting an agency in an out of the way place in Australia or quitting the service. Sharp took French leave for a day in order to think the matter over and went into the country to hear the cuckoo. Next day the manager demanded angrily why he had been absent from his post. Sharp explained. "We can't do with one who puts the call of a cuckoo before his business," said the chief coldly, and—Sharp left the bank.—London Chronicle.

Japan's Dummy Editors.

There is a peculiar person on the staff of some of the Japanese newspapers, known as the "dummy editor," whose sole duty it is to go to jail in the interests of the journal. Whenever a paper publishes something unfriendly to the government it is suppressed and the "dummy editor" sent to prison while the real editor simply changes the name of the paper and continues to publish it as before.

Spider Charms.

Spiders, like worms and snakes, were formerly used as charms to cure disease. The spider was worn in a nut which was suspended around the neck. When the spider died the disease. It was affirmed, died with it, according to the claims made.

Talked a Lot.

"I never say all that I think," she remarked.

"Then," he replied, being unwilling to miss the chance, "you must think an awful lot."—Puck.

Life's Romance Hidden in Tales of Unclaimed Fortunes

Unsolved Mystery of Three Misers and Their Hoarded Treasures

HERE are the stories of the hoardings of three misers. One of these put his savings away securely, so securely that they cannot be found, the other two were more careful about hiding their identity than their money, so that their fortunes remain unclaimed.

The miser whose money has been lost was Richard Tilley Denton. He was an Englishman who inherited $20,000 as a young man, but with strict economy he managed to keep this money intact until he grew old. When he was sixty-five years of age his wife died, and feeling that he should make his home with a member of his family he decided to live with his daughter, a Mrs. Rachel Anne Hone, resident in Rahway, N. J. Accordingly he sailed from Liverpool in the latter part of 1868 and arrived in New York on a bleak autumn evening. His first night ashore he spent in a cheap lodging house on the water front, for he did not like the idea of finding his way through unfamiliar parts at night, especially as he had his $20,000 with him.

He arrived at Mrs. Hone's home next day without mishap, however, and that afternoon he and the Hone family had a feast for their eyes when he spread his fortune out on a table. It was an enticing pile of gold composed of 4,000 sovereigns. Mrs. Hone felt nervous with all that money in the house, and so she suggested that he bank the money at the first opportunity; consequently the two started for New York next morning with the gold in two canvas bags that were wrapped in newspapers.

They went to the banking district, which at that time centred around the City Hall, and while the daughter stood waiting at the corner of Broadway and Chambers street the father went on in search of a bank. She stood there only fifteen minutes, for at the end of that lapse of time he returned and told her that he had found the sort of bank he wanted and had deposited the money. But he was a shrewd and reticent old man, and to all her inquiries as to the location and name of the bank he would give no answer.

Not many months after he had done this Richard Denton was stricken with apoplexy and died without being able to give any directions that would lead to the locating of his money. There were no bank books found among his effects, nor did he leave any papers that gave a clue, and to this day those two bags of gold remain unfound. Every bank that was doing business in that day has been ransacked, but to no avail. A daughter of Mrs. Hone has continued the search down to the present, but it is not likely that she will find the money. Perhaps some bank clerk stole it and covered up his deed, or perhaps Richard Denton hid the money overnight and carried decoys on the morning he and his daughter went to Manhattan.

Michael King was another miser whose death brought about a mystery. King was born in Ireland, in 1837 and when he was three years old his parents died, leaving him and a younger sister to the care of their grandparents. The boy stayed with the old people until he was eighteen years old, when he went to America, and not long afterward his sister left Ireland to go to England. For a time the brother and sister kept in touch with each other, but after a while all correspondence between them ceased.

The years passed. Michael King grew to manhood and took a wife, Mary Russell, of Troy, N. Y., whom he married in 1862. A few years later his wife died. No children had been born to the couple, so, being lonely, Michael again married. This time he became the husband of a New York girl, Miss Elisabeth Cunningham. No children resulted from this union either, and when this second wife died he again found himself a lonely widower. Evidently King was not a man who had any dislike for the yoke of marriage, for he married a third time. He led Miss Hannah Reagan, of New York city, to the altar in the summer of 1885. This wife, who was the sister of Police Captain Reagan, bore King's first child, a son. But the boy lived only two years and was buried in Calvary Cemetery. King survived the mother, too, for she died in August, 1906, leaving him a widower for the third time.

After her death King moved to an old, rundown tenement at No. 8 Downing street, New York. Here he led the life of a sort of hermit. He had very little intercourse with his neighbors; they knew him only as a miserly old man of seventy who worked at night as a watchman and who kept to himself during the day. The few that ever caught a glimpse of the interior of the flat in which he lived were impressed with the meagreness with which it was furnished and the unkempt condition of the place. As the months went by this old carpenter (carpentry had been his trade in his youth) became one of the characters of old Greenwich Village, and such he continued to be until his death in June, 1907.

He died alone and without previous medical attendance. This latter circumstance necessitated a visit of the coroner, and while that official was making an examination of the place he came across bank books which showed that Michael King was a depositor in twelve banks. This old miser, who had managed to get along with almost less than a sufficient amount of food, died worth $12,000! As soon as the coroner found that the man had died a natural death, the effects were turned over to the Public Administrator and search was started for the man's heirs. Agents were immediately sent to Ireland to look up the man's sister, but they found not the least trace of her nor of any member of King's family. If she is still alive she is a woman of seventy-three, and quite possibly she would welcome an inheritance of $12,000. She is the only heir that the law will recognize, otherwise the money would have been disposed of a year or so ago when Patrick Russell, brother of King's first wife, put in a claim to it. And while the search for Michael's sister goes on the $12,000 lies waiting in the city treasury.

The third miser was a man who was known to frequenters of the Tenderloin as "Kane the Cabby." For forty years Frank D. Kane drove a cab about the gay part of town and during that time made the acquaintance of many "sports," saloon keepers, gamblers, policemen and others who haunt the Tenderloin for business or pleasure. That was before the advent of the taxicab, and a cabman had an individuality then. Hence Kane's alliterative nickname.

His stand for a good many years was in front of Rector's, and it was a lucrative one. But the fact that he took in goodly sized fees almost every night did not lead Kane to spend freely. He carefully banked all he got, and would draw out only such sums as he required to pay for his living. He was in fact a miser, and, like most misers, had a mistrust of banks which led him to divide his deposits among no less than ten institutions. For sixteen years previous to his death in 1908 Kane lived in a boarding house in East Fortieth street. He was friendly with his fellow boarders, but by no means intimate. Not even his landlady could break down the man's reserve, but it was understood in the house that he had a past. Quite evidently his right name was not Kane, for that is the name of natives of Ireland, and this man's features plainly showed that he was of Jewish extraction.

Only once did he let any information concerning his youth escape him. He remarked casually during an ordinary conversation that he had been born in Chicago, that his parents had died when he was very young and that his boyhood had been spent on a farm in Illinois. And that is all that is known about him.

His death was a sudden one. He was survived only by an old bay mare and an ancient cab. After waiting for the man's heirs to appear the Public Administrator sold both of these and with the money bought a grave in Kensico Cemetery. Frank D. Kane lies in that grave; "Frank D. Kane" is the inscription on the tombstone, but it means nothing. He might just as well have been buried under any other name, in so far as that one identifies him. And it is important that he be identified, for in the city treasury there are many thousands of dollars waiting for any one who will bring forth a legal claim to it.

A stirring tale, in which is divulged the secrets and operations of a band of wiretappers, will be the subject of next week's article.

Exiled Hindu Prince Student Declares Dancing Is Not for Men

"DO you tango?" asked the interviewer.

The countenance of Mr. D. S. Gill, student of the Columbia School of Mines, grew a little dark and haughty. Politeness struggled with distaste.

"No," he said somewhat sternly, "we do not dance; only women dance. Before their own people in their homes, the women of our families dance. In the public places, where only men can see them, the women not morally high dance; but as for men—never!"

"But you see all the men dancing, especially now when everybody is so enraptured with the pastime."

"Yes, for the men here; but there are some customs which we do not adopt, even when we come to your country. To us it would seem unsuitable for men to dance."

D. S. Gill has converted his sonorous name of Sirdar Dalip Singh Gill into the Americanized version which appears on the Columbia University register, in order that he may be a democrat of the democrats. He wishes to take no undue state during his university career, and has further demonstrated his desire for American simplicity by setting aside his title of Sirdar, which means military chief and which at home entitles him to deference from everybody in rank below a prince. Not only is he showing his determination to be very modern and very American in appearing upon the rolls in so unpicturesque a guise, but he has gone in for a far more vital innovation.

Mr. Gill has set aside the most insistent tradition of his ancestors—he is working for his living, and yet his father is a military chieftain and a Sikh, who traces his ancestry fourteen hundred years. Like all his race, he can see no reason why any son of his should wander to foreign lands and spend his days in hard labor for the acquirement of practical arts in no way necessary for the proper conduct of life of a Hindu of position.

In order that he may take back to his home the diploma of the Columbia School of Mines, Sirdar Dalip Singh, as he would be called in his home, is living in partial defiance of the will of his parents, who do not desire that he should stay in this country. For that reason he does not receive from his family the income which was at first sent to him when he started out to see the world, and his parents supposed that he would speedily return to them to settle down like the rest of his friends to a life of ease, broken only, perhaps, by military activity from time to time.

"I wanted to come to the United States even when I was a little boy," explains Dalip Singh. "I used to read about it in my first books and I was more interested in this country than in any other. When I finally got here I found it all that I had thought. I shall go back to my country when I have completed my studies, but I shall never return to the life that most of my friends lead. I shall make money for myself. I like the way that everybody in the United States starts out to make money for himself. At home my father would say, 'There is plenty of money for us to live well; why cannot you do as I have done and as your grandfather did? What has done for us will do for you. It is not proper that a son of mine should labor for money.'

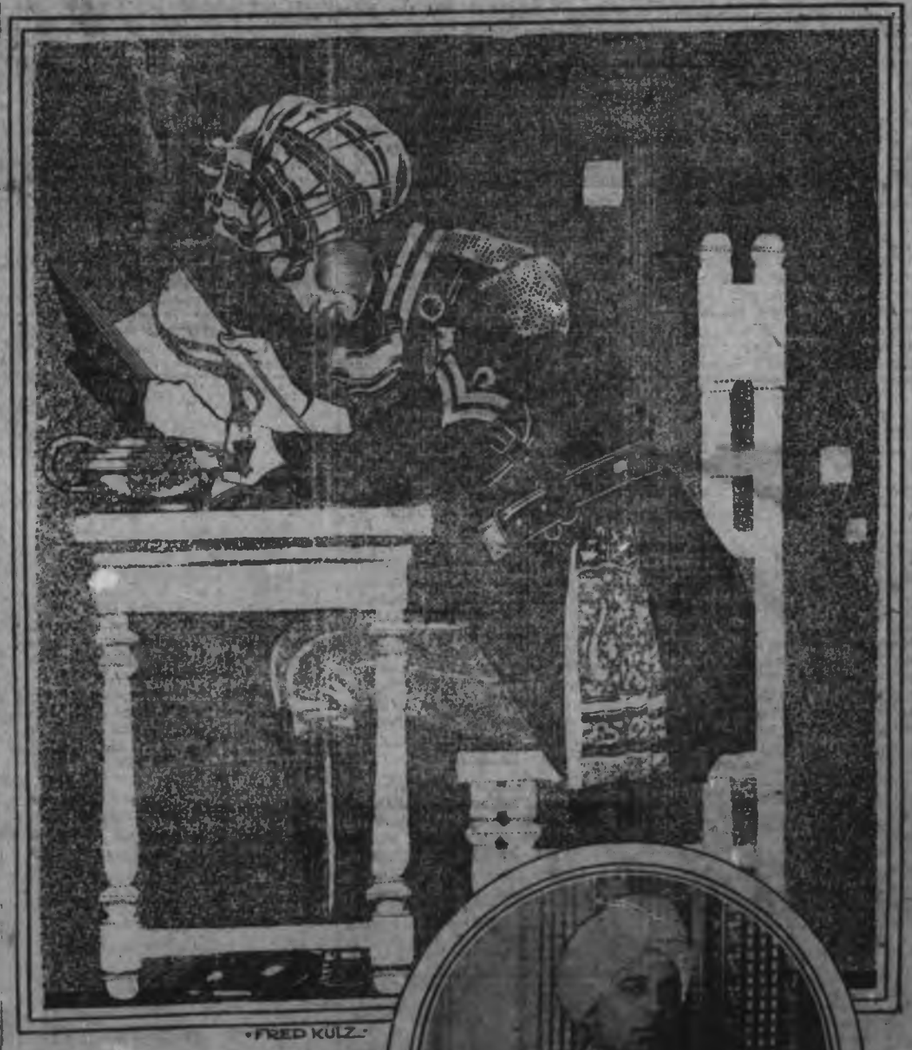
"Here also," said Dalip Singh sagaciously, "many persons will tell you that it is not right to run after money so very hard, but I notice that they are all running."

At home Dalip Singh might now be living either in the town residence of his father, in Patiala, or in the suburban villa in whose flower filled court the family gathers during the pleasant weather.

"There for my pleasure I could hunt tigers and lions in the jungles," said Dalip Singh, "or the wild boar, which is even more dangerous. I have often hunted the wild boar, but that was in my boyhood when I was too small and weak to use a spear. I used a rifle to shoot the deer, but this would not now be permitted, because it has been too easy to kill the animals in this way. Even children can shoot the beast, and this has led to an unwise slaughter. Now there is a law in the State of Patiala that the boar can be killed only with the spear. To throw the spear takes not only skill but strength, and a young boy can rarely accomplish the feat successfully.

"There is danger in hunting the boar unless the hunter keeps his head and remembers to step instantly aside after the shot is made. The boar goes straight ahead always, and apparently is unable to sense the fact that his intended victim has stepped out of this direct line. The ferocious animal—and there is none more furious—flies directly toward the place from which the shot comes, and if he has not been mortally wounded woe to the hunter who is in his path! But just one step aside and the beast is thrown off the trail; he cannot swerve to attack at the new point. Strangely enough many do not do this. It is not every man who can think quickly enough or act quickly enough upon his thought to make this simple effort to save his life."

In addition to being the only non-tan-going student in the university Dalip Singh possesses the distinction of being one of the rare students who never twang the light guitar or appeal to the fair maids of Morningside through the dulcet notes of a musical instrument. Here again, in spite of his advanced Americanism, the home traditions have prevailed with Sirdar Dalip Singh.



SIRDAR DALIP SINGH GILL.

"It is usually men who are not of so high station who play upon the musical instruments," he explains. "We have them come in to our entertainments to play for us. We sit and listen just as we watch the dance, but we do not ourselves afford entertainment for others."

Lightly placed as he is upon University Hermes, Dalip Singh has not failed to [illegible] interesting phases of [illegible] the parks of [illegible] conditions [illegible] at home, [illegible]

"And do they marry again?"

"No. For one thing they could get nobody to marry. A man will say of the girl, 'Well, she could not live happily with her husband, so she could not live happily with me.' A girl will also say that of a man who could not live well with his first wife."

"For one thing, there is not so much reason for divorce as here. You see everybody is married, every person. There are no unmarried men or unmarried women for the married people who are discontented with their own husbands or wives to go around with. When a man thinks he would like to have the wife of another man for his own wife it is soon found out by the husband, and then the husband shoots both of them. That is understood."

"You see," added Dalip Singh, as if presenting the universal solution, "it is entirely different. It is not possible for the wife to call up a man on the telephone and say, 'I'll meet you at the theatre!'"

"How do they manage to have things go peacefully with more than one wife in the house?" asked the reporter.

"Oh, that is so very rare that it hardly needs to be considered at all," said Mr. Gill. "You see the poor men cannot afford more than one wife and the well to do men do not want more than one. Also it is necessary that the first wife should agree that there should be a second wife. In the very rare cases where there is a second wife it is because the first wife has borne no heir and it is often she rather than the man of the house who decides that there must be a second wife. She selects the wife for him, usually from the women of her own family, her sister or cousin. This is the case where the man has a large estate which they desire to keep in the family. Then when the new wife comes and bears children the first wife is frequently given the care of the children while the second wife has household duties to perform. The two women live in harmony, because the newcomer is bound to give respect and obedience to the first wife. The husband must also give his respect and obedience in household affairs to the first wife and he must share his income with her. You see, after all, the only difference between there and here is that in my country the wives know when their husbands take a second wife while in this country the wives do not know.

"We haven't got suffrage in our country, but in many ways there are more rights for women than there are here. In the household the woman is the absolute ruler and her husband obeys her entirety in household matters."

"What happens if he does not obey?"

"Well, it would not be a happy home. The wife also has half of all the husband's income. If he is a poor man he divides all his money with her. If he is a rich man he puts the money in the bank and tells her what is there. Our word for wife means 'half.'"

Since he started out to be a self-supporting student Dalip Singh has found literary work and lecturing to be reliable and agreeable sources from which he may derive an income. During a walk across the Columbia campus he confided to the interviewer his earnest wish to be known as a peaceful person not interested in politics.

The interviewer promised. "But why?" he asked.

"Because of the detectives," said Dalip Singh. "You must know that wherever there are natives of India in foreign countries there also are the detectives of the British government, watching, watching to see if there is anything that they can write home about, anything that will make trouble for our people at home. They are suspicious that we have political interests and that we shall go home to make them trouble in the days to come. My ancestor, Colonel Budh Singh, had a much greater estate than has my father, but he fought with the native troops against the British in the uprising of 1849. He was killed in that war, and the British government took the estate from his line and gave it to a cousin, who had fought on their side. But this cousin was unwilling that his family should be destitute, and so part of it he returned to my father.

"I have no intention of returning to my home to take any part against the government. I am a man of peace. I shall go back to work at my profession, and I shall help my own people all that I can. That is, I shall help them toward an education such as is given here. In all ways possible I shall help my people toward progress, but in politics I have no interest. I will be one of four or five native engineers. Almost all of that sort of work in my country is now done by Englishmen or Americans."

Oldest Alumnus of Yale.

DR. DAVID FISHER ATWATER, said to be the oldest alumnus of Yale University, recently celebrated his ninety-sixth birthday at his home in Springfield, Mass. He is the only surviving member of the class of '39 and the senior alumnus of the class of '42, Yale Medical School.

Years have dealt kindly with Dr. Atwater, whose step is vigorous for a nonagenarian. His eyesight is still keen and his hearing is unimpaired. Most remarkable of all are Dr. Atwater's mental faculties. Not only does he retain a firm hold on the past, but the news of the present, art, science and literature, are of all absorbing daily interest.

Dr. Atwater was born in North Branford, Conn., October 20, 1817. His father, the Rev. Charles Atwater, was for many years pastor of the Congregational Church in North Branford. After Dr. Atwater's graduation from Yale in 1839 and the Medical School in 1842 he was appointed assistant physician at Bellevue Hospital, New York. During Dr. Atwater's service at Bellevue Charles Dickens visited this country, and Dr. Atwater attended a banquet given by the Mayor of New York in honor of the author.

Leaving Bellevue Hospital, Dr. Atwater located in Brooklyn. While in Brooklyn he was surgeon of the Sixty-fourth New York regiment. He was a charter member of the American Medical Society and one of the original members of the New England Society of Brooklyn. Dr. Atwater moved to Cleveland on account of ill health and later came to Springfield. His brother, George M. Atwater, who died a few years ago at the age of eighty-seven, was the founder and for many years controlling stockholder of the Springfield street railway system.

Indian Girl Writes Opera.

AT last there has been produced an indisputably American opera, "The Sun Dance," written by Zitkala Sa, a full blooded Sioux Indian, the wife of Mr. R. T. Bonnin, an employe of the government on the Uintah Indian Reservation at Vernal, Utah, collaborating with Professor W. Hansen.

The opera, which was recently given at the academy on the reservation, tells the story of the return of the sun from its death during the winter, of the significance of its light and warmth as it falls on the earth, of the plants and the trees that spring forth and grow under its rays, and of the whole world rejoicing in the sunshine.

For years Professor Hansen had witnessed the annual sun dance of the Indians, had watched the rhythmic shuffling of their feet, the postures of their bodies, in the historic pantomime that had come down to them from their forefathers, who danced the dance in the same fashion long before the white man appeared.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

John Jones' Find

It Was a Vacant House That Paid a Good Rental

By NATHAN B. TOWNSEND

Johnny Jones, a Maine farmer boy, went to the city to make a fortune, but, getting stranded, started to walk home, a hundred miles, usually sleeping out of doors.

One afternoon while wending his way eastward along the coast he came to a handsome country residence standing alone. Looking about him, he could not see another house, though the coast was open in either direction for several miles. But Johnny doubted if he could get any comfort in the place, for he could see no evidence of its being occupied. The shutters were closed, not one being left open. Then, too, there was an old look about the house. The shingles on the roof were black and crumpled, the woodwork in places was rotten, and only the brick of which the house was mainly built was solid.

"If I could get inside," said John to himself, "I could at least keep warm, and the night promises to be cold."

He had on only the thinnest clothing and shivered as a chill November wind struck him. Climbing the fence—the gate was fastened with a rusty chain and padlock—he went up on to the porch and began to look about him for a means of entrance. He was not long in finding a shutter with a loose fastening and a pane of broken glass behind it. Putting his hand inside, he unlocked the sash and raised it.

To his surprise, the room into which he looked was furnished. True, there was a moldy look about the furniture, but it was of a fine quality, though old fashioned. John climbed over the window sill and inspected the furnishings at closer range. He was in the drawing room among damask covered chairs and sofas and velvet curtains to the windows. A piano stood at one end, and John struck the keys. He was startled at the breaking of the stillness. It seemed to him that the shades of those who had once inhabited this house, who had years ago locked and left it, had cried out at his intrusion.

John fell to wondering why so much valuable property was left to rot. Though young, he considered the financial feature connected with it. Had the property been sold years before it would have brought what to him would have been a fortune. There must be some reason why it had been suffered to sink to ruin.

John hesitated about spending the night in so grewsome a place, and had it not been for the cold without he would have preferred to sleep under the stars. As it was, he looked about for a bed and, though he was hungry, finally got on to one of the couches upstairs. But it seemed to him that he was lying among worms. He took hold of a coverlet to draw it over him, and it parted through decay. This was too much for him; he arose and felt his way downstairs and, finding a lounge covered with leather, though it was stiff through age, stretched himself on it and fell asleep.

He was awakened during the night by voices. For a few moments he could not recall where he was. Then he listened for the direction of the sound and concluded that it came from under him. Presently a light flashed through a crack in the floor. Sliding off the lounge, he crawled to the crack and put his ear to it.

"We've got to run in some o' these goods," said one in a man's voice. "This cellar is full."

"Why not store the next lot above?"

"What rot! Don't you know we've taken every pains to keep any one from looking in here? Put goods on the floor above, and some boy or some tramp will look in, see them and report the fact."

"It's a wonder no one has got on to us as it is," remarked a third man. "They've gone around this depot often. Fact is, it's well known that Crawford owns it, and Crawford is above suspicion."

"We pay him enough rent for it."

"Rent be hanged! He's one of us."

"He tells me the place can't remain much longer as it is. A number of real estate men have been to him to buy it if they want to fix it up and make it pay."

"Crawford is making it pay well enough."

This was the last heard of a dialogue between different men, none of whom John could see. He heard something fall and thought a bolt was shot, though he could not be sure of this, then all was silent again. He lay awake, thinking about what he had heard, but couldn't make out anything except that the basement was used for the storage of goods. Were they stolen articles? Were they barrels of liquor unmanufactured illegally? The reason for the house remaining in its present condition was apparent. This man Crawford was keeping it for a purpose. It had doubtless long been shut up and was not an object of curiosity. Turning these things over in his mind, John fell asleep again.

When he awoke in the morning the sun was shining in through a broken blind. John arose from his couch and looked about him. He was in a library. Books were on the shelves, but they were dusty and dingy. He went through a door into a pantry and through the pantry into the dining room. He opened some cupboard doors in a vain hope of finding something to eat. There was not a crust, and not a crust had been there for years. He went to the stairs leading down into the cellar, but the door separating the cellar and main floor was fastened. He tried to kick it open, but failed to make any impression on it.

Leaving the house by the window through which he had entered, he looked about the brickwork below the first floor. There were but two small windows, over both of which boards had been placed on the inside. There was not a crack through which he could look within.

How were the goods taken in? There were no marks of wheels on the entrance road. Indeed, the grass grew on it as well as on the lawn. The chain and lock on the gate gave no evidence of having been moved in a long while. Toward the ocean a distance of several hundred yards there were no tracks of any kind. There was no opening from the cellar except within the house. This matter of the storage of goods was a mystery.

John walked out to the rocks which formed the shore. Here he was more at home, for he had been brought up near the water. Naturally his eyes fell upon the irregularity that marked the shore. There were many protuberances, many indentations. He descended to the sea level and, the tide being at the ebb, noticed a place where the water washed in under the rocks. John wondered how far in it extended. He couldn't tell without going in under the rock, and this was impossible without a boat or a raft unless he swam, and the water was too cold for swimming.

The boy pondered on what he should do. Should he go on home or remain and try to solve the mystery? Curiosity held him. He would go back to the house and see if he could not look into the cellar through the crack at which he had listened. He did so, but the cellar was too dark for him to see anything. His mind reverted to the overhanging rock, and he went back to have another look at it. The rising tide had partly covered the place, and he knew that it would be nearly twelve hours before the water would give him an opportunity to examine it again.

He resolved to improve the interval by securing a boat or building a raft to use in his investigations. Going to a wood near by, he saw plenty of fallen timber, and after walking several miles to a house where he was given some breakfast he returned and carried sufficient wood to the shore to make a float. He laced the pieces together with twigs and when the tide subsided in the afternoon put his raft into the water and paddled to the rock in question. Lying flat, he pulled himself in under the land some twenty feet, when he came to an iron door. It was fastened with an iron latch which, being covered by water at every tide, was so rusty that he could not move it. He scuttled out, got a stone, returned and by hammering opened the door. There before him lay a subterranean passage leading in the direction of the house.

Not having a light, the young discoverer did not attempt to investigate any farther. Besides, he had no mind to be caught in a trap by an incoming tide. He got out as quickly as possible and, sitting on a rock, bethought himself what next to do. He concluded to go on home and consult with some one about his find. He was not sure but that there was something in it for him, and he wished to find a way to get it out.

John was a secretive boy, and, though he told about his experiences in the city, he said nothing about the house by the sea. In a few days, armed with some carpenter's tools and a candle, he went back to it and, closing the shutter behind him through which he entered, took up a part of the floor, went down into the cellar and found it full of boxes and bales.

By this time it occurred to the boy that the house was a storage depot for smugglers. He found a door in the cellar leading into the passage to the water and presumed that the goods were carried in by that route. Replacing everything as he had left it, he made his way to the nearest port of entry and, calling for the collector, told him that he had discovered a depot for smuggled goods. He was too smart to give any clew to it till he had made terms with the government. This necessitated some correspondence between the officials and the government, and it was finally agreed that of any smuggled goods that John should point out to the revenue officers half the amount accruing by confiscation should go to him.

These preliminaries having been settled, John led the officers to the house and showed them the goods. But, being desirous of capturing the smugglers, they placed a watch in the house and waited for them to come again. It was several weeks before the unsuspecting men fell into the trap. When they did they found both the egress by the passage to the sea and the one up into the house stopped. They were all taken just after they had deposited a new, valuable boatload of goods.

Johnny received a small fortune for his information. He decided to go to college and is now a lawyer with a good practice. Inquiries as to the lonely house resulted in his learning that the parties owning it had gone abroad many years before and left it to be sold as it stood. It changed hands several times without being occupied and was finally bought by the Crawford mentioned by the smugglers as an available depot for smuggled goods. He had grown rich by this means.

MUSIC AS A PLAGUE.

A German Scientist Says It May Act as a Nerve Destroyer.

Professor Oppenheim, a great German nerve specialist, finds that music has become the plague of modern life. In his practice he has been struck by the fact that the largest percentage of sufferers come from the hotels where there is what he calls a "perpetual plague of music." He adds that the common method of going to a seaside or mountain resort for rest and stopping at one of the large hotels where the music plague rages as badly as in the cities, makes real rest for the worn nerves impossible. He objects, too, to the excessive meat eating indulged in by those afflicted with nervous troubles, but finds that music, so called, is the worst torture to jangled nerves.

"Against this evil there cannot be too energetic protest and action. I am not unmusical. I have had many enjoyable hours with music, and I have even written upon the healing value of music, but there is no longer a question of enjoyment and benefit, but of disorderly disturbance, which should be checked.

"A benefit that is forced upon us becomes an agony and a burden and wrecks nerves, and that is what results from hotel music, which you must hear whether you want to or not.

"Enjoyment and the beneficial effects of music are dependent upon the condition under which it is heard. There must be a free choice of where and when and what kind of music one wants in order that it be soothing instead of irritating. Hotel music should be played in a special room with thick walls."

If our hotels take the advice of Professor Oppenheim they will have music only in special dining rooms, notifying their guests as to which are the silent and which the "musical" dining rooms. Then we shall be able to eat in peace, if we wish to, or have all the noise we desire.

What Professor Oppenheim would say about music as played at the "dancing teas" might add to the severity of his pronouncement. No one doubts that nervous persons attend these teas, but what will be the result?

Hues of the Butterfly.

It is perhaps not generally known that butterflies close their wings like a book, and the underside of the hinder pair is often colored so as to match the surroundings, but they are not quite so large as the fore wings and therefore do not cover these up completely. The uncovered portion of the underside of the fore wings repeats in a great number of instances the pattern and coloring of the under surface of the hind wing and thus carried out to perfection the concealment, while the remainder of the under surface of the fore wing, covered when at rest by the hind wing, has often quite different coloring and is in many cases of most brilliant and conspicuous hues.

One great trouble about keeping boys on the farm is that so few of the big league games, including the world's series, are played in the old pasture field.

It is charged that there are too many kissing plays on the stage. Probably the excess is all the more noticeable because there are so few kissing plays at home.

Emmy Destinn, the grand opera star, sang in a cage with fourteen lions. Probably these lions, unlike human lions, were too polite to chat through the performance.

IRON-ROAD EPIDEMICS.

Why Railway Accidents Occur In Cycles and at Certain Times.

Like measles and smallpox, railway accidents are epidemic. One bad case, it would seem, breeds many others.

Take, for example, the terrible accident at Aisgill Moor which occurred recently in Great Britain, when fifteen passengers were killed. This was immediately followed by no fewer than eight others, only one of which, happily, was attended by loss of life. But this was due to sheer good luck.

The derailing of the Flying Scotsman at Chevington might just as well have developed into one of the most appalling catastrophes of modern times; while the two other week-end accidents which took place at Blackburn and Ludlow respectively, were of precisely the same kind that have been attended by many fatalities upon other occasions.

What causes these epidemics of accidents, which, by the way, occur regularly in cycles of years? It is hard to say. One theory, largely held by railway men, is that they are due to carelessness, begot of over-confidence, which is due, in its turn, to long immunity from serious disaster.

Another is that they are brought about—in part, at all events—by climatic causes, and this theory might quite conceivably account for a certain type of accident epidemic—like, for instance, the remarkable series of derailments that took place all over the various railway systems of the world during the cold and wet autumn and winter following the exceptionally sodden summer of 1888.

A landslide, destroyed in one case an entire excursion train running between Salandra and Grassano, in Italy, killing thirty-two people. This was on Oct. 30, and on the 29th of the same month the Imperial train was derailed near Borki, South Russia, from a similar cause, the Tsar being injured, and above a score of people killed. A little later a tunnel collapsed in the Rhondda and Swansea Railway, in Wales, causing the loss of seven lives.

Another kind of accident epidemic is, there is reason to believe, due to malice; in other words, and to put it bluntly, to deliberate train-wrecking.

This, although the guilty parties were never caught, is believed to be the explanation of the alarming series of minor accident to trains which took place early in 1907, in the Hucknall Tarkard district of Nottinghamshire.

And to this cause can be ascribed with absolute certainty the somewhat similar series of accidents to Midland passenger expresses in 1898; for the perpetrator, a man named Tomlinson, was actually caught placing his cunningly-devised obstructions upon the line, and received the well-merited sentence of twenty years' penal servitude.

Epidemics of railway accidents occurring at Christmastide are alarmingly frequent, and these are, no doubt, due to derangements in the ordinary working of the lines, occasioned by the heavy and unusual holiday traffic. In fact, this was the actual finding, in almost so many words, as regards the cause of five out of the seven accidents which happened in December, 1870.

No theory, however, that can be devised, will account satisfactorily for an epidemic like the one that broke out in the summer of 1873, when no fewer than twenty-three railway accidents, some of them of an exceedingly serious character, were recorded in seventeen days.

Two of these happened on the same day—August 23rd—and resulted in sixteen deaths. The worst, that near Wigan, which killed thirteen people, was due to a mysterious derailment; and a few days later another precisely similar inexplicable disaster occurred on the Northeastern Railway near Hartlepool, causing three deaths and enormous destruction of rolling stock. Yet another of this extraordinary group of accidents was due to a cow getting on the Southwestern Railway line near Guilford.

Why?

Talking of suffragettes, that talented English actress, Miss Eva Moore, says that the best answer to the eternal question, "Why should women have a vote?" was given to her by an anti-suffragist who went to a meeting with an open mind, but got no satisfaction of any kind till Mr. Austen Chamberlain made his famous epigram, when he gave as his reason for women not having the vote, that "Men are men, and women are women." "If," pertinently asks the anti-suffragist, "men cannot entirely understand women, nor women altogether comprehend men, why, then, should either be considered able to define and settle laws for the other?"

Spurgeon's Complaint.

Mr. Spurgeon once complained that his deacons were worse even than the devil.

"Resist the devil," said he, "and he will fly from you, but resist a deacon and he will fly at you."

HERPICIDE IS THE "ORIGINAL DANDRUFF GERM DESTROYER"

Just because you happen to see or hear the statement somewhere that another preparation will kill the dandruff germ, stop falling hair and is just as good as Herpicide, don't be fooled and allow yourself to be swindled out of your money.

You want Newbro's Herpicide, the remedy that has been tried, has stood the test of time and now has more satisfied users than all other similar preparations combined. Herpicide adds gloss and beauty to the hair, keeps the scalp free from dandruff and prevents the hair from falling out. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

It may be claimed that other hair remedies will do the same things, but Herpicide really does them. Its years of success prove this.

Send 10c in postage or silver for sample and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit Mich.

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

SEDITION CHARGED.

Many Ruthenians on Trial For Circulating Literature.

BUDAPEST, Dec. 30.—The trial of ninety-four Ruthenians on the charge of inciting rebellion against the Austro-Hungarian Government was begun yesterday at Marmaros-Sziget. It is expected that the trial will last five weeks. The chief prisoner is the Russian monk, Father Alexius, of Mt. Athos, whose real name is said to be Alexander Kabalyuk.

Great political interest attaches to the case, as it is alleged that the seditious movement was largely promoted and financed from Russia. Priests of Russian monasteries and Count Vladimir Bobrinsky, president of the Russian Constitutional Conservative party, and a member of the Douma, are alleged to be concerned in the movement, which, under the guise of a propaganda to convert the peasantry to the Orthodox Greek Church, caused the circulations of hundreds of thousands of foreign printed pamphlets denouncing the Emperor and the Hapsburg dynasty, with the intention of drawing the Ruthenians from their allegiance to Hungary and uniting them with Russia.

JEWELS ARE FOUND.

Convict Divulges Hiding Place and Gets a Parole.

BRANDON, Man., Dec. 30.—Edward W. Murphy, born in Toronto, who was sentenced in 1905 to fourteen years' imprisonment for stealing jewelry worth $5,000 from the store of W. H. Mallett here, has been released on parole under unique circumstances while still having six years of sentence to serve.

Though Murphy was arrested shortly after the Mallett store was entered by the window, the jewels were never recovered. Murphy, at the trial, offered to reveal them in return for his liberty, and repeated the offer when Capt. J. C. Ponsford, formerly of St. Thomas, Ont., took charge this year of Stoney Mountain Penitentiary, where he was confined. The authorities at Ottawa finally agreed to grant him parole on condition that he recovered the valuables, and he was brought here under guard.

After a long search, many landmarks having been removed in eight years, the jewels were found, barely hidden under the earth close to the C.P.R. roundhouse. Murphy says he will return to Toronto.

NEW CARTAGE SCHEDULE.

Railways Put Increased Rates Into Force on Jan. 1, 1914.

MONTREAL, Dec. 30.—The railways issued their new cartage schedule yesterday to take effect Jan. 1. They have established a rate in Montreal of four cents per 100 pounds, which is an increase over the present rate of one cent. Owing to the higher cost of cartage in Montreal and the shippers agreeing to pay the cost in all cases, Montreal shippers pay a higher rate than at any other eastern point.

The rates for the other centres are: Toronto, 3 1-4 cents; Hamilton, 3 cents; and the following points also 3 cents: Bothwell, Brantford, Glencoe, Guelph, Hamilton, Kingston, London, Ottawa, Sarnia, St. Catharines, St. Hyacinthe, St. Thomas, Thamesville, Valleyfield, Walkerville, and Windsor.

The minimum in all cases is 20 cents. A feature of interest to the shippers is the addition to the list of exceptions to the flat tariff of the following freight: Baskets, empty packages, furniture, (excepting brass and iron bedsteads).

Will Admit Women.

BERNE, Dec. 29.—The Synod of the Protestant Church of the Canton of Neuchatel, Switzerland, by a vote of 73 to 22, has decided to admit women to the faculty of theology This means that in the future women who take the theological degree at a university will be entitled equally with men to become pastors in this canton. Two years ago the Synod of Grisons took the same step and now has a woman pastor, the only one in Switzerland.

"Mona Lisa" on View Again.

MILAN, Italy, Dec. 30. — The "Mona Lisa," which was Sunday handed over to the keeping of the French ambassador at Rome, arrived here yesterday and was placed on exhibition in the Brera gallery. Great crowds gathered to view the masterpiece, which was first inspected by the Count of Turin and the civic authorities.

A special medal has been coined to commemorate the event. It bears the head of Leonardo da Vinci, and the inscription, "May her divine smile ever shine."

Sues Provincial Police Chief.

SHERBROOKE, Que., Dec. 30.—Yesterday morning an action for $5,000 damages was taken by L. C. A. Dufresne against Chief McCaskill of the provincial police force. The chief arrested Dufresne last June in connection with the death of Mrs. A. A. Boldeau, who was killed by the explosion of a bomb sent through the mails.

Boy Broke Through Ice.

CHATHAM, Dec. 30.—Fred. Larsh, a nine-year-old lad living in Tilbury East Township, was drowned Sunday afternoon in the Thames. He was out skating with companions and went through the thin ice when one skate came off.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against Kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grape and lemon juice, combined with Lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

POWER DEPUTATION WAIT UPON THE CITY COUNCIL

Otonabee Power Company's Poles May Remain on the Streets "Until Further Notice"—Portion of Original Resolution Was Repealed.

TIME CLAUSE EXCEPTED

The City Council has decided to let the wires and poles of the Otonabee Power Company remain on the streets until "further notice." The partial abrogation of a resolution adopted at a recent meeting of the City Council ordering the removal of the said wires and poles upon the expiration of the Company's franchise on December the thirty-first of this year, and the refusal of the Council to insert a "reasonable time" clause in a new resolution, constituted the outstanding feature of a special meeting of the City Council, that was held on Monday evening.

Those present were His Worship Mayor Bradburn, Aldermen McIntyre, Anderson, Langford, Johnston, Duffus, Gordon, Gillespie and Buller.

A Surprise Party.

The presence of Mr. D. O'Connell, representing the Otonabee Power Company, and Mr. W. H. Munro, manager of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, occasioned considerable surprise among the members of the Council. It dissipated for the time being, thoughts of the coming municipal elections, which are manfestly uppermost in the minds of some of the aldermen. They were inclined to blame the press for having announced the meeting and thereby invoking the exhumation of the much discussed power question. In fact it was believed by many that the matter would stand in abeyance until the first of the new year, when if circumstances demanded, it would be revised by the incoming Council, who would probably give it a fresh impulse.

A Legacy.

The net result of the meeting pertaining to the power question is contained in the following resolution which terminated an animated discussion lasting nearly two hours.

Moved by Ald. Johnston and seconded by Ald Duffus—Whereas since passing the resolution directing the removal of the poles of the Otonabee Power Company from the streets, the Council has learned that this would inconvenience a number of ratepayers.

Without prejudice to the rights of the City, the Council is willing that the poles of the Otonabee Power Company remain on the streets until further notice from the Council, and that if the proposition made by Mr. O'Connell is put in writing, it be referred to the incoming Council.—Carried.

This little legacy was prepared at the instance of City Solicitor Hall, carefully signed by the Mayor after its adoption by the Council and in due time will be presented to the incoming Council with the compliments of the season.

"Considerable Inconvenience."

The discussion which preceded the adoption of the above resolution was opened by Mr. O'Connell, who announced that he was present to submit a proposal worthy of the Council's consideration and which if acquiesced in, would prove of material benefit to the ratepayers dependent upon the Otonabee Power Company for a supply of power.—Whereas compliance with the original resolution of the City Council would incur considerable inconvenience to light and power users.

"I want to say frankly," said Mr. O'Connell, "that the Otonabee Power Company is exceedingly anxious to act in harmony with the City Council, as

MR. O'CONNELL ASKS RE-CONSIDERATION OF THE PROPOSALS

Power Company Agrees to Supply Power to Consumers After Expiration of Franchise

SUMMARY OF MEETING

Mr. D. O'Connell, representing the Otonabee Power Company appeared before the Council last night and asked for a reply to the joint proposition made by the Otonabee and Peterborough Light and Power Company recently, in which a solution of the difficulty arising from the expiration of the Otonabee Power Company's franchise and the City's order to it to remove its poles and wires from the streets on January 1st, was offered.

He pointed out that if the City was in doubt as to the fairness of the price at which it was proposed that the P. L. & P. Co. should take over the Otonabee system, the Hydro Engineers were invited to investigate the amount and confer with the Companies in readjusting it if grounds for so doing, should be found. Also, Mr. O'Connell pointed out that the Otonabee Power Company's system would be required practically in its entirety to properly complete the distribution system which the City would be in possession of from the Peterborough Light and Power Company, for without the Otonabee system to take care of areas in which it now operates, the P. L. & P. Co.'s system would require to be extended, increased in capacity and generally reconstructed, and that the cost of such work would exceed the cost of taking over the Otonabee Power Company's system and its continuance as an integral part of the future City system.

Careful Investigation.

Mr. O'Connell stated that the Company was quite aware that these were facts requiring careful investigation and consideration on the part of the City, and the City could not afford to come to a hasty conclusion in regard to them, firstly, for the sake of economy and efficiency of expenditure in rounding out the distributing system which it is was endeavouring to become possessed of, secondly for the sake of the consumers of light and power on the Otonabee system which are now in the position of being without service after January 1st; thirdly, for the sake of the Otonabee shareholders, a very substantial portion of which are ratepayers of Peterborough.

With these points in view, Mr. O'Connell appeared before the Council and informed them that if they saw fit to withdraw the resolution of a recent meeing by which they had ordered the Otonabee Power Company to commence the removal of its poles and wires from the streets on January 1st, that the Company would continue to serve its consumers until a reasonable time had been afforded next year's Council to carefully investigate and consider (in the light) the joint offer made by the Company in writing on Dec. 17th of the above.

HYDRO DEBENTURES

A special meeting of the City Council was held on Monday evening for the purpose of having a resolution passed, authorizing the payment of the interest on Hydro-Electric debentures at Peterborough, Montreal, and Toronto. This was done at the request of the brokers who purchased the debentures. The latter will mature at the end of thirty years.

Open Air Skating Rink.

A communication was received from the Board of Water Commissioners suggesting that open-air skating rinks be provided in each ward. The Board signified their willingness to supply the water and the necessary help with which to flood the rinks. The Council approved of the suggestion and agreed to look into the matter at once.

Mayor Bradburn's offer of a vacant lot on Hunter Street, adjoining the Bell Telephone Company's building was accepted.

Claim for Damages.

Matthew Carton, through the legal firm of Peck, Kerr and McElderry, has asked to have his claim adjusted for injuries alleged to have been sustained through negligence on the part of certain municipal employes. Mr. Carton was walking along the west side of George Street, between Murray and McDonnel Streets, when a large limb, which was being cut from a tree standing in Central Park fell, striking him on the leg. He suffered a compound fracture of the shin-bone and was incapacitated for weeks. The amount of the claim was not stated. It was referred to the Legal Committee of the City Council.

Compliments of the Season.

A letter was received from Lieut.-Col. C. H. Rogers, Commanding Officer of the Third Prince of Wales Dragoons, containing the season's greetings.

Miscellaneous Items.

The matter of opening up a new street between Sherbrooke and Bolivar Streets was left in the hands of the Board of Works. Mr. W. H. Huffman, who conducts a billiard parlour in connection with the National Hotel was granted an extension of license for two months.

A communication was received from the Peterborough Light and Power Company in reference to a break in the gas main at the Nicholls Hospital. The main is said to have been broken as a result of negligence on the part of certain civic employees while engaged in laying a sewer. No action was taken.

A PLEA FOR A WOMAN ON POLICE FORCE

Duty Measured by Service Better Than Duty Measured by Mere Dollars

The effort at present being put forth by the local Council of Women for the appointment of a woman on the police force is but the natural outcome of an active interest in our civic housekeeping. To-day woman is learning the lesson that home-making extends much farther than the four walls of her domicile. Goethe started with the theory that the highest life was to be gained by self culture, but afterwards copoluded that service was the way to true happiness.

The supreme motive of the Council of Women is service to humanity. Civic cleanliness, the humane treatment of children, the City beautiful, education, civic morality, the protection of children from immoral influences, child labour, organizations to protect neglected children and to reform delinquent children. All these are legitimately within the province of woman, and the attempt to improve conditions is a part of the duty of every woman.

It has been stated that the appointment of a police woman will be viewed by some of our citizens in the light of dollars and cents, but surely in a case of this kind we must of necessity spend in order that we may save—save not only the expenses to the State incurred by the State by unchecked crime, but also save the greatest asset of our Empire — the men and women of to-morrow. Men use their brains in order to get money; they must also use their brains while getting rid of it. There is no economic function higher than that of determining how money shall be used. The profitable expenditure of public money is a patriotic as well as a personal duty.

GOOD SKATING TO RICE LAKE SAYS FARMER

Little Lake is Frozen Over, But Skaters Are Warned to Keep Within Safe Boundaries for the Present

SOME HAVE TRIED RIVER

Skating on Little Lake is said to be of the finest and a farmer from below Stewart's says the river is frozen all the way up. In his opinion skating is possible from the Street Railway wharf to Rice Lake. It is years since these conditions prevailed on the lake and river, and a large number of young people have been enjoying the pleasure presented by a long stretch of ice. It may be necessary to counsel skaters to exercise caution and to avoid being venturesome. There is plenty of skating in safe places without going far afield. If another cool spell arrives minus a snow fall there should be but little danger on the lake and river, but in the meantime foolhardiness should be eliminated. A complete stretch of ice to Rice Lake cannot be vouched for but if it is good going to Stewart's the rest of the way should be frozen over. However, a long trip should not be attempted after dark.

Mr. Gillespie's Confident Appeal To The Electors

Ladies and Gentlemen,—Most of you are already familiar with my brief election address and my further public statements made on nomination day, and if any additional explanations of my views are desired on any of the live questions effecting the interests of the City, I will be glad to give them to any one between now and polling day. But as I will not be able, personally, to wait upon the whole electors before the day of voting, I desire to use this medium of soliciting your support.

The very encouraging indications of your support coming so generally from all classes, has served to strengthen my confidence in the result.

With a clear comprehension of the work that lies before the coming Mayor of your City, begotten of close attention to the City's affairs during the past five years as your alderman and a conscientious desire to contribute a further share of service, I now leave the campaign confidently in your hands.

Wishing one and all a happy and prosperous New Year. 4d-102.

BYERSVILLE IS ALMOST READY FOR ANNEXATION

Sentiment of Majority of the Residents Has Swung Citywards—Some of the Considerations Which Tend to Incline the Suburb to Join the City.

IS GENERALLY ACCEPTED

The annexation of Byersville is supported by a stronger sentiment among the residents of the section than has so far been expressed. Mr. Archie Morton a life-long resident of that district, who resided on Lundy's Lane when his neighbours were but a handful, was present at the North Monaghan nominations on Monday.

"What procedure would be necessary," he asked towards the close of the meeting, "to have Byersville joined to the City?"

Mr. McIntosh, (Chairman)—A vote would have to be taken among the owners of the property which would be affected.

Mr. Morton—"Would it be necessary to take a vote of the whole Township?"

Mr. McIntosh—"No. Only among the people who own the land that would become part of the City.

Mr. Morton's questions may mean anything, but apparently they indicate his personal leaning toward the much mooted proposal.

Mr. Jas. Coombes, referring to the same point, evidently had in mind the allusion to the tail wagging the dog, mentioned in the Examiner on Saturday.

"There are a lot of us," he said, who are quite willing that we cut the tail off right now."

There's A Reason.

A veiled reference was made to comparative taxes by one of the speakers, and it is more than probable that this was the case in point.

Mr. Alf. Cummings, another pioneer of the Byersville section, owns a piece of property in the City not far from the Monaghan boundary, for which he was taxed $13. Up on High Street, which runs south from Morrow's hill, is his old home. On this property his taxes were $12 this year.

On the former he has sidewalk accommodation, waterworks and other city advantages, including a lower fire insurance rate and adequate fire protection, in addition to other considerations.

His home is in the country as far as these facilities are concerned, yet the difference in taxes is only three dollars and the City property is of more recent construction.

This is quoted as an example and as it was mentioned to the Examiner by a third party.

The feeling for annexation is spreading, and if the City would come forward with a fixed tax rate for a number of years or some consideration of that nature it is possible that a majority of the property holders would accept it.

Any improvements for Byersville which may be paid for out of the general funds of the Township will save the City that much expenditure, for it is generally accepted that it is only a matter of time until annexation will be compulsory. This statement was made at yesterday's meeting. Residents who favour joining the City state that it is hardly fair to the ratepayers in the west of the Township that they should pay for work of this kind.

Of course there are quite a few who oppose all proposals that point cityward, but there have been many converts made during the past year. What will 1914 bring about?

A FINAL MESSAGE FROM ROBERT HICKS

Ladies and Gentlemen,—As it will be quite impossible for me to personally interview the whole of the electors before polling day, I take this means of soliciting your voluntary support for the important position of Water Commissioner for 1914.

Let me just add that to my mind the spirit in which the Water Commissioners in the past have sought to accomplish every problem which has confronted them, has been most exemplary, and that is will be my aim, if elected, to do my best to assist in solving every new problem of the future and to render the best public service in the interest of our rapidly growing City.

The valuation placed upon a public man in the midst of a campaign and an impartial review of his business ability, conduct, and stake in the City should enter into his fitness for office.

Your faith in me must be the strongest incentive to my usefulness, and if I am favoured with your confidence I will see to it that that faith has not been misplaced.

With best wishes of the season, I remain,

At Your Service,
ROBERT HICKS.

TUESDAY, DEC. 30, 1913

THE VOTERS' INNINGS NOW.

The flag has dropped; the race is on; the various candidates for municipal honours, which means, properly considered municipal responsibilities, are off in a "bunch." There is, in the main, fair opportunity for the making of an intelligent choice by the ratepayers.

For the mayoralty the three candidates come before the people as men well known, men who have served the city well, and whose capacity and fitness, for the position are well known to the electors who have a fair chance of exercising their judgment through their ballots.

The candidates for Water Commissioner are also well known and here the ratepayers have an opportunity of making a choice, if the matter of choice is admitted as a debatable question. The people know that what is required in this position especially, is good executive and business ability, backed by a substantial interest on the part of a commissioner. The larger the commissioner's personal and material interests in the city are, naturally the more careful he will be of the interests of the public who will be affected in the same manner as himself by good or bad, wise or unwise administration.

In regard to the two offices of mayor and commissioner, the whole body of the electorate will have a vote; but in the matter of aldermen the voting power is cut pretty fine. In the election of next year's aldermen, this year's electors will have a chance to vote for only one man; that is, by virtue of this year's vote each elector will only be represented in the Council by one alderman—as far as his individual vote is concerned. The effect of this is that each alderman only represents a very small fraction of the people of the city, while the mayor and water commissioner will represent the whole body of the citizens. When the people unwisely voted for the re-adoption of the ward system they did not realize as they are doing now that they voted to disfranchise themselves, to deprive themselves of a full voice in electing the aldermen that compose the Council and do their business.

AFTER THE WRONG SCALP.

Our local contemporary, apparently in some special interest, as much as in the public interest, advocates the establishment of a municipal coal yard; advocates the City going into the coal and fuel business as a means of lessening the exactions of what is regarded as a combine. In this view there's an easy possibility of rather overdoing the municipal ownership business. If the city goes into the coal business to lessen the power of the "trust" is is just as logical to go into the business of supplying nearly all the commodities that are cooked with fuel. It is a fact that nearly all the articles of food capable of being brought under the power of combines is so brought under; and if municipal shop-keeping is to affect the high cost of living and lessen the exactions of the combines the whole business of food supply must be undertaken by the city.

Combines in restraint of trade with the object, or with at least the result, of increasing the cost of commodities in daily use exist only by the good will of the government of the day. If, therefore, our local contmporary wants to get at the fountain head of the trouble, wants to do something that will be generally effective and beneficent, it will use its influence to urge upon the Government the inforcement of the law against combines and trusts. It will call upon the Government it supports to remove the taxes from our food. The present Dominion Government is not inclined to take either of these courses. An article printed on this page shows how the Borden Government refuses to use the law provided by a Liberal government to discipline the combines that exist all over the country and include almost every article the people want to buy. If the Government, which was brought into being, and is kept in being by the "big interests" will not antagonize them by enforcing the law which is being broken every day, it will not do the other thing — remove the duty on foods; for this would in a large way be death to the combines by inducing competition. A big shipload of food, meat, eggs, tc., is now on our way from New Zealand. Every ounce of it will be taxed, though it comes from one British dominion to another — the people who believe in making a country rich by taxation sacrifice their Imperialism rather than part with taxation. We treat the New Zealanders, our kinsmen and fellow-subjects like foreigners. The importation of New Zealand foods will not lessen prices; there will be no competition—the tariff sees to that. The Government won't deal with the combines; how can we expect it of a Government whose tariff in itself is a combine in restraint of trade, especially in the matter of food supplies; it keeps up prices as effectively as any combine of them all. Our local contmporary, instead of getting after the scalp of one of the candidates for the mayoralty and one of the candidates for Water Commissioner should make a dash for the scalp of the Borden Government, which is the chief offender in the matter of responsibility for the existence of combines, and their effect in increasing the cost of living. It would be acting more logically.

GOVERNMENT FOSTERS AND AIDS COMBINES

Borden Government Refuses to Enforce the Law Against Combines

Just how subservient the present Government, and especially Hon. T. W. Crothers, the "Minister of Play" is to "the interests" is shown by the recently published report of the Deputy Minister of Labour. In May, 1910, the then Liberal Government, in order to provide legal machinery to prevent the spoilation of the public by combines and "rings" passed the Combines Investigation Act. On November 10, 1910, the first action under this law was taken. Serious complaints were made by the manufacturers of boots and shoes in Canada that their business was hampered and made unduly costly by the trade methods of the United Shoe Machinery Company of Canada. It was alleged that this company which was an adjunct of the American Shoe Machinery Co., was a perfect specimen of a combine in restrain of trade. On February 25th, 1911, the investigating commission was appointed by Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, then Minister of Labour, under the Combines Investigation Act, to take cognizance of these charges. This commission was met with every possible legal opposition and delay by the United Shoe Machinery Company, but finally the validity of the law and its methods was established.

The investigating commission comprised a representative of the shoe manufacturers; a representative of th United Shoe Machinery Company, and Mr. Justice Laurandeau of Montreal as Chairman. They went into the matter thoroughly, investigating the trade conditions at all the leading centres of the shoe industry. Between their appointment and the presentation of their report, occurred the change of Government in September, 1911.

On October 26th, 1912, (the Borden Government being in power), the Board reported:

"The United Shoe Machinery Company of Canada is a combine, and by the operation of the clauses of the leases quoted in the foregoing, which restrict the use of the leased machinery in the way therein set forth, competition in the manufacture, production, sale and supply of shoe machinery in Canada has been and is unduly restricted and prevented."

"In view of the circumstances of the case, however, we consider it necessary that the delay of ten months prscribed in clause 23 of the Combines Investigation Act, 9-10 Edward VII. Chapter 9, Canada, be extended to an additional period of six months, and we recommend that such delay be granted."

A minority report was also made by W. J. White, K.C., of Montreal, who represented the United Shoe Machinery Company on the Investigation Board. Naturally Mr. White reported that in his opinion his employers were not an illegal combine.

The Combines Investigation Act provides that those held by the Board of Investigation to have been parties to a combine detrimental to the public interests, etc., are 'guilty of an indictable office liable to a penalty not exceeding $1,000 a day and costs' for every day after ten days from the publication of the investigation committee's report in the Canada Gazette.

In order to do full justice to the United Shoe Machinery Company, the Board ordered that this period of grace be extended to six months, so that the date on which its finding became operative was deferred to May 6, 1913. This was done in order to give the Company ample time in which to re-organise its business so as to do away with the objectionable combine practices. The Deputy Minister of Labour's report is dated July 15th, 1913. After citing the above facts it concludes with the following significant statement:

"The Board's report having been published in the Canada Gazette of October 26th, 1912, the date on which the company would be subject to the operation of section 23 was advanced to May 6th, 1913, and thereafter. At the date of writing the Department has not been made aware of any action taken as the result of the Board's Report."

Nor has any action been taken up to the present day. According to the Laurier Government anti-combine law, the United Shoe Machinery Company could be held liable up to a penalty of $1,000 a day, for every day after the operation of the investigation committee's report that it disregards such finding. Since then some 230 days have passed. Under the law the United Shoe Machinery Company, which has been condemned as a combine in restraint of trade and a breaker of the law, might be fined $230,000 and costs for its continued contempt of the law. Under the Borden Government which is a natural friend to all combines and "rings," no action has been taken as a result of the Board's report.

This company, which is the Canadian adjunct to a big American Combine, is permitted to do business right along in open contempt of Canadian law. The scores of thousands of dollars spent on the investigation have apparently been wasted. The shoe manufacturers and the people of Canada are just as completely under the heel of the combine as they ever were.

'Is it any wonder that Hon. Mr. Foster a few days ago said at Smith's Falls:

"The Lord knows we have enough commissions wandering around the country. Commissions are as plentiful as berries at Kazbauzua, and are wasting good ink and paper on reports that are put on shelves and forgotten."

When these reports mean the dismissal of Liberals from the Civil Service to make room for Conservatives they are strictly remembered; when they mean the enforcement of Canadian law for the protection of Canadian people against imported combines they are "put on shelves and forgotten."

Parliament meets on January 15th. Before that date Hon. Mr. Foster has started out again as the Government's wandering representative. It is not likely he will be back before Parliamnt prorogues, if Mr. Borden can keep him away.

We Sell The Earth

With the drawing to a close of the most happy of all holidays and the ushering into of a new year, everyone should prepare to start the year 1914 better than any previous year. One of the best starts is to make up your mind to save a little money out of every pay. Not everyone can do this, but a great number can who do not do so. This is the way in which a great number of people made their start in life. Why not you?

If you will take the advice of one who has made his start in this manner and who will not in any way mislead you, you will have obtained the first rung in the ladder to success. The larger benefit will come when you buy, hold for a time and you should be able to sell Peterborough property bought now at a good profit. You should not stop at one transaction, but if you are in touch with a man who will advise you honestly and keep turning over your properties, it will only be a short while before you will have a bank account and some real estate, as well.

Call at 324 George Street and talk the matter over, and in order to convince you that I can be of service to you, I can have you meet some Peterborough people who will tell you their experiences. If you will buy now and hold for one year, from the first of January, 1914, and then sell, a New Year's box of substantial proportions will be assured you, or you can buy now and take smaller profits, but more of them, if you can turn over your properties with me a number of times during the year. Any way you wish to transact your business will be satisfactorily looked after if you will call on me.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

If elected, I again promise to conscientiously look after the interests of the Ward and the City in general, and to give all matters coming before your Council the necessary time and careful consideration, endeavouring to consider all questions in a fair and businesslike manner, consistent with economy and general progressiveness

Business Management of City's Business

TO THE ELECTORS OF CENTRE WARD

In voting for A. H. STRATTON for Alderman for Centre Ward you are voting for a live go-ahead man who has the interests of Peterborough at heart. He is a large taxpayer and will use his best efforts to keep your taxes down to the low water marks. At the same time he is sure to encourage existing manufacturers and endeavour to bring in a new industries. In regard to the important matter of Hydro Electric, while he favours it he is especially in favour of business-like management of the enterprise of seeing that the people, who voted so almost unanimously for it, get the great est benefit from it at the least possible cost consistent with efficiency. He is a good business man by the test of success in his own business and knows that to encourage the working men and find employment for them at good wages helps the business man and thereby helps to make a BIGGER AND BETTER CITY. THE PEOPLE'S

CANDIDATE FOR

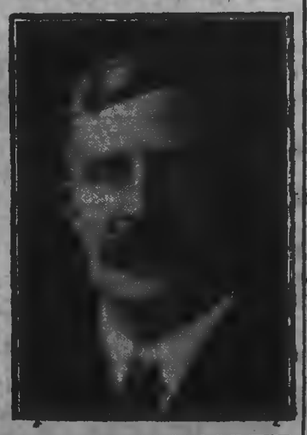
FOR 1914



J. J. HARTLEY

The Workingman's Candidate For

MAYOR

Unanimously Endorsed by the Trades & Labor Council

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen:—

At the urgent request of a large number of the ratepayers I have consented to be a candidate for the position of Mayor for the year 1914. Being born and lived my whole life in Peterborough, and a whole life's savings being invested in Peterborough, I naturally have a deep interest in the welfare and prosperity of the city.

Should I be elected I promise you that I will guard to the very best of my ability the interests of the ratepayers and will oppose all unnecessary expenditure.

I will do my utmost to keep down the ever-increasing rate of taxation, consistent with the needs of the growing municipality.

I may say that I am in favour of municipal ownership, and in favour of having all city work done by our own people, instead of bringing in outsiders to do it. I will endeavour to see that the ratepayers get value for every dollar that is expended. I have had considerable experience in municipal matters, having served ten years in the Council and fourteen years on the Board of Education, being chairman of that board for two years. I was also chairman of the Board of Health for several years, so that you will see that I am not without a fair share of experience.

Should you do me the honour to elect me Mayor of our city, I will do my best to serve you to the very best of my ability.

Yours respectfully,

J. J. HARTLEY

TO THE RATEPAYERS OF CENTRE WARD

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

There is one thing on which the Council and people should stand together. That is our Hydro-Electric and Municipal Power and Light Policy. In their own interests the electors should assist in electing men who will see that policy through. A good beginning has been made. See that it is completed.

I am in with that policy as a Citizen and will be, if elected, as an Alderman, and shall be glad to receive your vote to place me in Council.

Yours respectfully,

F. H. DOBBIN

EAST CITY VOTERS

To the Electors of Ward Five

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—

Having accepted the nomination for Alderman for the Fifth Ward I kindly solicit your vote and influence in my behalf. If elected I assure you I will give as faithful and careful attention to the business of the City as I would to my own business.

Wishing you all the Compliments of the Season. I am

Yours faithfully

T. W. OKE.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE NORTH WARD

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

My attention has been drawn drawn to the fact that some party or parties have circulated a report that I have been placed in the Aldermanic field by the Seymour Power Company. I wish to absolutely deny this as strongly as I can, and if I have as good evidence that the statements are made after this notice appears, as I have of the fact that they have already been made, I will take other means of correcting an absolute lie. I wish to state that I am entirely in favour of the Hydro-Electric system and its operation in Peterborough, but I will leave it to your own judgment as to whether it has been competently handled by the Power committee of the City Council, during the past year, of which Mr. Johnston is Chairman.

I stand for a principle that a believe to be in the interests of the people, notwithstanding the opposition offered to the honest work of your Council of 1913. I will continue to help to carry out that work until Light and Power are in the hands of the Municipality, and being run in the interests of the people and not in the interests of a monopoly.

GERMANY HOLDS OFF.

She Refuses To Give U. S. Tariff Preference Asked For.

BERLIN, Dec. 30.—Germany yesterday refused the request of the United States Government for the "most favored nation" treatment of American steel, rubber shoes, etc., but it was hinted that she was willing to bargain for this concession if the United States would make an equivalent offer in return for it.

The reply of the German Government to the application of the U. S. Government points out various features of the American tariff law, namely, the inspection of the books of manufacturers and the administrative regulations, which Germany would like to see changed.

Commercial circles here express the opinion that the German-American tariff negotiations will be extremely difficult without some such method of bargaining.

Dr. Emma Musson Dead.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 30. — Dr. Emma E. Musson, professor of otology at the Women's Medical College, and well-known throughout the country as a throat specialist, died Sunday at her home in this city. She was 50 years old and had done much research work in bronchoscopy. During the summer of 1909 she worked with Dr. Grenfell in Labrador, operating and giving medical assistance.

Dr. Musson was a leader in suffrage movements, and was a member of the County Medical Society and of the American Medical Association.

British Schooner Wrecked.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30. — Commander E. L. Beach of the tender Vestal at Pensacola, Fla., reported to the Navy Department yesterday that the British schooner Cheslie was waterlogged in latitude 27 degrees 26 minutes north and longitude 87 degrees 32 minutes west. Commander Beach added that he had despatched the tug Patuxent to the Cheslie's assistance in response to summons for help.

Invented Cash Register.

DAYTON, Ohio, Dec. 30. — John Ritty, aged 65, who is credited with inventing the cash register, died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Thomas Cooper, here yesterday.

He got his idea of a cash register from watching the distance-recording device in the boiler room of an ocean liner.

Although the cash register has made millions for those who developed the idea, Ritty died in only fair circumstances.

THREE REGIMENTS REVOLT.

Chinese Uprising In Southwestern China Is Reported.

PEKIN, Dec. 30.—A revolt o hree regiments of the Chinese army under the leadership of Gen. Yang Fupin, is reported from Laidu, in the far southwestern Province of Yunnan, about 100 miles from the frontier of Burma.

The soldiers, on Dec. 6, shot down their officers, raided the armory, killed a professor and then proclaimed the independence of the province in the name of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, former Provisional President of China.

Yang Hupin was surprised and burned to death in a house where he was hiding in a neighboring village.

The surrounding country is said to be terrorized by the remaining mutineers, who have looted many places. A column of loyal troops has been despatched from Yunnanfu to restore order.

POWER DEPUTATION WAIT UPON, ETC.

also the Peterborough Light and Power Company, and if possible arrive at some sensible solution of the power question. The Otonabee Power Company has made formal application to the City for permission to sell their plant to the Peterborough Light and Power Company for the sum of $48,000. In event of the sale being consumated, it would then be possible for the City to include the Otonabee Power Company in the expropriation proceedings which they have already instituted against the Peterborough Light and Power Company."

"Would Be a Mistake."

Continuing Mr. O'Connell said: "It would be amistake if the City turned down this proposal as the Otonabee Power Company would cease to exist and the City would be put to considerable expense in reconstructing a distributing system to serve the area now covered by the Company and not included in the distribution system of the Peterborough Light and Power Company."

"In a word, if you insist upon the Otonabee Power Company removing the system off the streets, you will be doing yourselves and the citizens of Peterborough a direct injury. Another aspect of the case is that justice should be done to the shareholders of the Otonabee Power Company. If the City of Peterborough can by purchasing the Otonabee Power Company save ultimate expense and carry out the present system on a much more economical basis, they will at one stroke confer a double benefit upon the community. They will be able to co-ordinate the two systems. The Otonabee Power system will amplify and complete what would otherwise be an incomplete system."

A Couple of Conundrums.

Ald. Gordon—"One point you emphasize and that is the sale of the Otonabee Power Company to the Peterborough Light and Power Company. Would the Otonabee Power Company be willing to sell out direct to the City?"

Mr. O'Connell—"I am not in a position to say."

Ald. Gordon— "Would they sell a portion of their system or assets?"

"I am just as much unable to answer that question as the former one," replied Mr. O'Connell. "In fact it is a misconception to suppose that the Comany would separate its assets. At the present time the whole City is served by the two systems. You cannot separate one and still serve the whole City without reconstruction."

"I understand that part of the system is duplicated?" interogated Ald Gordon.

"It's not exactly duplication," said Mr. OConnell. If the two companies cover one area and you remove one, it must of necessity involve reconstruction."

Mayor Bradburn—"Would it not be wise in event of securing possession of the two systems to have them reduced to one system and have one set of poles?"

Mr. O'Connell—Yes! You can buy the Otonabee Power Company cheaper than you can supplement the system."

Would Extend Franchise.

His Worship Mayor Bradburn then referred to a letter directed by the City to the Otonabee Power Company in which it was stated that at an informal meeting of the City Council it was deemed inadvisable to enter into an arrangement as suggested by the Company. The Council on that occasion also expressed their willingness to extend the Companys franchise from month to month.

Mr. O'Connell —"That letter is not an answer to my proposal. I am afraid I have not made myself quite clear."

"You have as far as I am concerned," remarked the Mayor.

"The proposal that I made in terms," said Mr. O'Connell, "was that the Otonabee Power Company be permitted to sell out to the Peterborough Light and Power Company, and that the Council have reasonable time in which to consider the proopsal. The Otonabee Power Company to supply power to the consumers in the meantime."

"A Reasonable Time."

The deputation was then invited to retire, whereupon the following resolution was drafted:

"This Council recommend that the incoming Council consider the proposal made by Mr. O'Connell."

Mr. O'Connell upon his return to the Council Chamber, declined to agree with the resolution, alleging that it was improperly worded and was therefore inconsistent with his proposal. He insisted upon the insertion of the clause allowing the "incoming Council reasonable time in which to consider the proposal."

His Worship suggested that Mr. O'Connell reserve his argument for the incoming Council and that the present Counciibe compromised by rescinding a portion of the original resolution relating to the removal of the Company's poles and wires off the City's streets upon the expiration of the franchise.

"All I ask," said Mr. O'Connell, "is that you state my proposal as I have put it and not something else."

$5,000 Worth.

Ald. Johnston—"The trend of the resolution is that the Council is perfectly willing to allow the Otonabee Power Company use of the streets for the purpose of supplying power to the consumers for a limited time after the expiration of the franchise. Mr. Jeffery, engineer for the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario, has stated that there was only about five thousand dollars worth of the plant of the Otonabee Power Company that would be of service to the City."

Ald. Gillespie—"Your proposal if accepted, could not be acted upon before the first of the year."

"Quite right," remarked Mr. O'Connel. "We are willing that you should give the matter business-like consideration. In the meantime we will go on supplying light and power even after our franchise has expired."

"That's reasonable," chorused several of the aldermen.

"We want to be reasonable," observed Mr. O'Connell.

Distinct Prohibition.

Mayor Bradburn suggested that the Council extend the Company's franchise from month to month, which he claimed the Council had a right to do until a maximum of one year was reached.

"We don't come here to-night recognizing any power to extend a franchise. We hold that a later act passed in 1913 is a distinct prohibition of the Council's right to extend a franchise without going to the people."

Mr. O'Connell and City Solicitor Hall after several minutes spent in an ante room, returned in jury fashion with the report that they were unable to reach an agreement whereby the "reasonable time clause" would be inserted in the resolution.

His Worship Mayor Bradburn again suggested that Mr. O'Connell reserve his arguments for the ipcoming Council, as the latter body was unwilling to change the resolution.

"The Onus."

"Very Well," said Mr. O'Connell, "it may mean some inconvenience to the citizens."

"The onus is on the company," interdicted Ald. Johnston.

"I don't think so," replied Mr. O'Connell.

Ald. Johnston admitted that the Council may have made a mistake in adopting the original resolution ordering the Company to remove the poles and wires off the City's streets upon the expiration of their franchise at the end of the present year.

In reply to Ald. Buller's query as to the company's assets, Mr. O'Connell said that as soon as the City was prepared to talk business the company would supply a statement of the assets, and that the company would be willing to have the City's engineer look into the matter.

The discussion was terminated with the adoption of the resolution as given above.

CANNOT GET CERTIFICATES

Canadian Teachers Cannot Teach in English Schools

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, ENG., Dec. 30.—(Special cable.)— That the standard of education in Ontario is not high enough for an English Board of Education, is the implication accepted to-day from the announcement that these teachers cannot teach in English schools as certificated teachers, although they hold first-class certificates from Ontario, Canada. This is a great disappointment to twenty or more teachers from Ontario who are here as interchanges from Canada in an imperial interchange scheme. Boards of Education, where Ontario teachers are employed, have offered them salaries of uncertificated teachers in some cases, but this is not sufficient to induce them to stay. The proposal is now being considered by the government that these teachers be granted temporary certificates for twelve months.

NORTH MONAGHAN PEOPLE TAKE DEEP INTEREST IN THEIR MUNICIPAL NOMINATIONS

Interesting Meeting in the Town Hall on Monday Afternoon After all the Nominations Had Been Made

MR. DOBBIN'S COMPLAINTS

For Reeve.

W. J. Howden—Nominated by Geo. Ward and Robt. Sanderson.

For Council.

Herb. Forster, George May, Robt. A. Dobbin, J. C. Morrow—Nominated by Geo. Ward and Robt. Sanderson.

Thos. O. Young—Nominated by Robt. Colin and T. M. Hunter.

A. W. Archbald—Nominated by W. J. Byers and Alf. Cummings.

Wm. Robson—Nominated by T. M. Hunter and Wm. Whitfield.

J. H. Bell—Nominated by A. E. Saunders and Jas. Coombes.

Wm. Whitfield—Nominated by Nelson Sage and Robt. Colin.

Messrs. Bell and Whitfield have declined to stand for election, leaving seven candidates from whom four are to be elected.

Although it was rumoured that Reeve Howden was to have opposition as director of the municipal corporation of North Monaghan, the contestant to be either a Byersville resident or a member of this year's Council, he was elected by acclamation at the annual nominations held on Monday afternoon in the Township Hall.

The hall hugs the road that runs west from Crawford's Grove, and is about five miles from the city. During the past year sundry repairs designed to cover the ravages of age and the elements were lost upon the historic old building whose principal need is that it be born again. Possibly with a May setting, budding trees, green sward and lilting birds, the civic sanctum of Monaghan may present the appeal of an old landmark. But on a leaden, grey December day its exterior was drab and cheerless. On the inside, however, a big box stove enfolded some eighty ratepayers in its warmth, and dimmed their eyes with a smarting smoke that leaked through a fractured elbow in the stovepipe system.

When the pipe had been stopped with a newspaper Mr. John McIntosh was appointed to preside while the nominee addressed the electors.

Reeve Howden Grateful.

Reeve Howden thanked the electors for the confidence placed in him by re-election without opposition. He reviewed the work of the year, expressing the opinion that the Township Council had been too economical. They did not borrow enough to cover the expenditure. Unless something unforeseen occurs during the coming year the taxes should be no higher than this year. They might be a little less. Monaghan enjoyed the cheapest taxes in the county. An Otonabee resident had told him that the taxes on his house were $23 last year, and he would not have built there had he anticipated that figure. Reeve Howden mentioned the case of a man on Western avenue who has two lots and three houses, taxed for $45.

"He must be a favourite," said some one near the stove.

"We have no favourites," said the Reeve.

Mr. Dobbin—What is the township's debt to-day? Where do we stand?

Reeve Howden—I can't answer that to-day. The City Council agreed to spend up to $350 for the work on the Park street drain. We agreed to pay dollar for dollar, and the city sent a bill for $175. It looked large and we found we were charged for work that had been done in the city. The bill was finally reduced to $88. There are other matters of a similar nature that require to be straightened out. With judicious management next year we should wipe out every dollar against us.

Mr. Herb. Forster.

Mr. Forster's speech was along the usual safe line of appreciation for his nomination and promises of his best efforts in the interests of the people. With an experience extending over five years in the Council, he would put forth his best efforts to promote the Welfare of the township.

Mr. R. A. Dobbin.

The year just about to close has not been the most pleasant for the Council according to Mr. Robt. Dobbin. "Things have been done that were not in a businesslike manner for North Monaghan."

Mr. Jas. Coombes—Well, what is it? Let us have it Mr. Dobbin.

Mr. Dobbin—I am not satisfied with the state of affairs. It is nice to meet here and pass things over smoothly, but I would like to know just where we stand. I told them to hold fast to the reins, that things would begin slipping away and now they are slipping."

The Township's M.H.O.

Mr. Dobbin's first complaint was directed at the appointment of the Medical Health Officer for the township. Dr. Greer, he said, had offered to apply for $200 a year, but would accept $100. Mr. May had spoken to Dr. Amys who consented to act on a fee basis of $2 a trip. The acceptance of the first offer when the figure had been cut in two did not look fair to Mr. Dobbin, who read a press report of the Council meeting.

Mr. Howden—Does it mention there, $2.00 a trip?

Mr. Dobbin—No.

Mr. Howden—No, it simply says that Dr. Amys would act under the fee system.

Mr. Dobbin—The bill sent in for last year was $71 under the fee system.

Continuing the report, Mr. Dobbin pointed out that Councillors Morrow and Forster voted for Dr. Greer and Councillors Dobbin and May favoured Dr. Amys. Reeve Howden broke the tie by supporting Dr. Greer.

Might Have Been Cheaper.

Mr. Dobbin claimed that before the appointment had been made there should have been more investigation in order to get the cheapest man.

Mr. Forster—It was agreed that if Dr. Greer would accept $100 that he be appointed, if not we were to engage any other doctor.

Voice from crowd—Were tenders called?

Mr. May—Yes, but no one made an application.

Mr. Bruce Johnston, clerk, explained that the M.H.O. holds the position as long as he gives satisfaction. The Council would have no power to remove him.

Mr. McIntosh—The man who pays him should have the say, I think.

Some one stated that the Medical Health Officer is now a law unto himself.

"Dr. McPherson does as he choses in Peterborough," one of the men remarked.

Another Complaint.

Mr. Dobbin then took up exhibit B which was a conference of the City and Township Councils regarding the Park street drain.

"They came down with their nice smooth way," he stated, "and some people like that kind of thing. But I wouldn't allow them hoodwink me. Any contractor could go and do the work that was done for $100 and still make money out of it.

Reeve Howden—I told you it cost us only $88.

Still Another Point.

Mr. Dobbin said that Councillor Morrow had received $2 a day to oversee the construction of the cement sidewalks near the Brinton Carpet factory. I understand he worked for the contractor too. Now did he derive pay from the contractor and the township both?

Mr. Coombes—I heard that myself.

Mr. Dobbin—Why did he not walk around and simply oversee the work?

Mr. Morrow—You have to work on the job. I helped run 600 feet of lines for the walks. That was part of my work and to see that the levels were right. If they were too low or too high I had them fixed. I wasn't working on it. If you think I was, go ahead and prove it. The township is still in debt to me $77.

Mr. Dobbin—There are debentures for twenty years for the work, and I understand that in that time they will need repairs.

Mr. Archbald—The people pay a frontage tax on the walks.

Re. a Petition.

Mr. Dobbin taking another tack—Mr. Morrow says I went around with a petition to get him out of office when he had the Government road grant at that time.

Mr. Morrow—That was eight years ago.

A voice—We don't want to go back that far.

Mr. Dobbin—I never did it, and no ratepayer can say I did. Mr. Morrow says I did, so what are we to do?

Mr. Coombes—Fight it out, but wait till we get through with the meeting.

This sally drew a big laugh.

John Williams—It is legal for a councillor to take a job like that? referring to Mr. Morrow acting as supervisor of the concrete walks.

Mr. Morrow said the Council had appointed him.

Mr. Coombes to Mr. Dobbin—And you are one of them.

Mr. T. M. Hunter—We might just as well drop this.

Mr. Dobbin firing a parting shot—I would not do it.

He concluded his address with thanks to the ratepayers and an assurance that if elected he would put for his best efforts for economy and progress.

Reeve Howden explained that the Medical Health Officer's duties had greatly increased under the new act, and the salary had to be named.

Mr. Morrow.

In his address Mr. Morrow expressed his thanks for his nomination. If the ratepayers desired him to remain another year he would do so, and endeavour to clear up whatever debt had resulted.

Mr. Robson, Mr. Archbald and Mr. Whitfield were the last speakers. Mr. Archbald, a resident of Byersville, said that two years ago he had been asked to run for the Council, but he had declined.

"I am satisfied with the way things were run, but I have decided to stand for election, and if elected I will make a big attempt to help things along."

Other Speakers.

Mr. Geo. Moncrief, Mr. T. M. Hunter, Mr. Jas. Coombes and Mr. Alfred Saunders, were other speakers. Some of them were inclined to criticize the expenditure of the last year, but the meeting closed quietly.

EXPLANATORY.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—In reply to your correspondent who charges me with sailing under false colours, re getting cheques for canal employees forwarded let me say that he is quite right. I had nothing to do with the absurd item in the Times and immediately telephoned them about it. That journal had been misled. I may say that cheques have often been deferred in the past, owing to the delay in signing the pay-sheets here, and when the men complained to me the other day I wired Ottawa to send in the overdue cheques and they were sent on. Certainly I claim no credit for that. Nor do I claim credit for stopping the infamous practice here of discounting casual employees' pay cheques by demanding discounts for cash payment. Such scandalous work as that, amounting to a large sum, compartively, in the past, has, been stopped, but you would hardly believe what a difficult job I found it. For this the Department at Ottawa was in no way to blame. In course of time we will get things on a fair and square basis around here once more, if we live.

Yours,

J. H. Burnham.

On New Fear's Day the new wing of the Nicholls Hospital will be thrown open to the public for inspection. From two o'clock until six in the afternoon, and from 7.30 o'clock until nine in the evening, the members of the Board of Trustees will be present to show the visiting public through the building.

When the people first go in they will be taken to the top floor in the elevator, and thus they will be given the opportunity of seeing the whole place without climbing stairs.

Already a few of the wards in the new wing are occupied by patients.

Memorial Service At The Temple

A memorial service has been arranged for to-morrow night in the Salvation Army Temple commencing at 8 o'clock in memory of the members of the local corps who have passed away. Among these is the late Captain Watkins, who was the officer in charge of the local Salvation Army immediately before Adjutant McElhiney. The favourite hymns of the deceased will be sung and short sketches of their lives will be given. The service should be a most interesting one. It will be followed by a watch night service, after which the Temple Band will greet the New Year with a programme on the street.

ST. JOHN'S NIGHT IS FITTINGLY CELEBRATED BY LOCAL MASONS

Officers of Corinthian and Peterboro' Lodges Were Installed Last Night---Mr. R. N. Dennistoun of Winnipeg Surprised the Banqueters.

The local Masonic fraternity celebrated the festival of St. John the Evangelist in fitting style last evening when the officers of Corinthian Lodge No. 101, and Peterborough Lodge No. 155, A.F. and A.M., were installed, and a most enjoyable banquet held. There was a very large turn-out of the members of both lodges while a number of visitors were present including Mr. R. Max Dennistoun, of Winnipeg.

Mr. Dennistoun, who is a past master of Corinthian Lodge, as his father and grandfather were before him, came down from Toronto for the function and arriving quite unexpectedly in the midst of the festivities was given an ovation by the banqueters and his speech was one of the features of the evening.

An enjoyable toast list featured by bright speeches was given. The oratory was interspersed with music. Rt. Wor. Bro. John Crane and Bro. R. J. Devey presided at the piano and helped to make the evening a success. Bro. Wm. Patterson sang "Ma Ain Folk" in excellent voice.

A REPLY TO MR. BURNHAM

MR. BURNHAM ON FREE TRADE

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—In your issue of today I find this remarkable statement. Just one word more and I have done. So says Mr. Burnham, M.P., for Peterborough, and then proceeds to give a garbled statement of conditions which arise from free trade. No, no, this won't do, Mr. Burnham. We must have proof of your statement. To say that free trade has enslaved labour; that the slums and all its horrors are the products of free trade and that the British farmer and the agricultural labour has gone down and out may sound well and be eagerly gulped down by the partisans. Will you therefore state in what period, say since the "Hungry Forties" that labour has been enslaved and give specific cases of the creation of slums and all its attendant horrors, and where have the English farmers and the agricultural labour gone down and out. If you will kindly inform your electors then I, as one of them, will be better able to prove to the contrary. No, no, not free trade. But royalties, way leave, no security of tenure drink, tithe and other causes which I will prove have attempted, but failed, to enslave labour and have ousted the farmer, and in a great measure created slumbs and all its attendant horrors. But does the Panacea of Protection cure all the social evils within its borders? If so, will Mr. Burnham explain to your readers why it is necessary at the present time, from one end to the other of Canada and the United States (both protected countries) for the generous public to provide meats for the starving thousands within their border. This certainly cannot arise from free trade. Why the cause? Why is it that I read in to-day's Examiner the following:

Ottawa, Dec. 28.—A report to the Trade and Commerce Department by Canadian Trade Commissioner Beddoe of New Zealand notes that the steamship Marmora leaving Auckland on Nov. 21 for Canada, carried 17,500 cases of butter, 278 carcasses of veal and 12,500 carcasses of mutton for Canadian consumption. The food taxes will be collected at Vancouver, and the cost of living to the Canadian consumer will be increased by the amount of the duties.

Lord Beaconsfield said once upon a time that protection was dead and damned. At present it is a lively corpse, so far as the workers of Canada are concerned. But there's an end to most things. Great Britain has done for ever with it. The United States has already given notice of interment. The increased cost of living so heavily pressing upon the workers of Canada will soon result in its demise. And the workers of Germany are crying aloud under its yoke of protection. And the solution of this can only be found by the breaking down of the protection barrier, when no tottering business shall be protected by the State at the cost of the consumers; but that the principle upon which all sound business men act upon shall also be the law of the State. That is, to buy in the cheapest market and sell in the best. In anticipation.

An Elector.

The Mayor's Retirement

From the Responsibilities of Office Was Referred to in a Resolution of Appreciation and Confidence

A few minutes before the close of the Council meeting on Monday evening, Ald. Johnston arose and moved a resolution expressing the appreciation and confidence of the Council towards His Worship Mayor Bradburn, upon his retirement from the civic administration. Mayor Bradburn has been a member of the City Council for upwards of six or seven years, and for the past two years has occupied the position of Chief Magistrate.

Ald. Gillespie referred to the able manner in which Mayor Bradburn, during his regime, has presided over the destinies of the City. "His actions," said Ald. Gillespie, "have been characterized by sound judgment and the votes that he has recorded, were always actuated by the best and highest motive, and in the interests of the City."

Mayor Bradburn, in reply, regretted his severance with his associates of the Council Board. He referred to the progress that has been made during the past few years, which included the inauguration of a municipal street lighting system and a street paving scheme.

LAST MEETING OF BOARD OF HEALTH

The last meeting for the year of the Board of Health was held this morning. Ald. Duncan presided and there were present, Mayor Bradburn, James Murty, Dr. McPherson and Sanitary Inspector Spence. The only business transacted was the passing of a number of accounts.

REV. J. H. EDMISON HAS AN ACCIDENT

Friends of Rev. J. H. Edmison will regret to learn that he was so unfortunate as to break his leg in Toronto, where he resides, a few days ago. Mr. Edmison is a son-in-law of Mr. Alex. Fitzgerald, East City. He is progressing as well as can be expected.

Watch Night Service At The Tabernacle

A watch night service will be held in Bethany Tabernacle beginning at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday evening. Those who attend will be favoured with an address by Dr. R. H. Glover, the Deputational Secretary of the Christian and Missionary Alliance. Dr. Glover has visited Peterborough several times and his many friends will be glad to hear him once more before he leaves for China as he expects to do in a few days. The service will be one of a devotional nature and will surely be made a spiritual blessing to all who attend. A cordial invitation is extended by the pastor to all Christian friends of the various denominations.

TO GET WORK FOR THE CITY'S UNEMPLOYED

There are many men out of work in Peterborough just now, men with families to support who are trying in vain to secure employment. At the same time there must be many little odd jobs of shovelling snow, etc., which citizens want done. Adjutant McElhiney, of the Salvation Army is endeavouring to bring the two together. He has a list of men who want employment and suggests that any one who has a little work to be done, telephone 4-4-0 and leave the message. Adjutant McElhiney will see that a satisfactory man is sent.

Bank Clerks May Meet

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Dec. 30.—J. P. Buschlen, author of "A Canadian Bank Clerk," who is at present endeavouring to organize a fraternal union amongst the bank clerks of Ontario, for the purpose of affording them representation in cases of injustice on the part of banks to their employees, has planned a meeting to be held some time in January.

COUNTRY ROADS NEED ANOTHER SNOW FALL

The boy with the Santa Claus skates is praying that the snow will keep away from the lake, but the farmers are looking for three or four more inches of the beautiful. The sleighing is good in parts, but there are lengthy stretches practically bare. The result is that the going is satisfactory for neither sleighs or cutters.

MR. R. M. DENNISTOUN IS EN ROUTE TO ENGLAND

Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, of Winnipeg; formerly of the legal firm of Dennistoun, Peck and Kerr, paid a brief visit to Peterborough last night. He came down from Toronto on the local, surprised a number of friends, and returned to Toronto again this morning. While in the City he was registered at the Oriental. It is understood that he is on his way to England, and was unable to remain longer in Peterborough.

Not Buying U. S. Lines

Special Wire to The Examiner:

MONTREAL, P.Q., Dec. 30.—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific, this afternoon denied the story that his road was buying out the Michigan Central, Pere Marquette, or any other United States railway running in Canadian territory. On the other hand he said, it was intended to double track not only the main line from Montreal to Detroit, but also several branch lines in the coming season, so that the C.P.R. could compete fairly with the United States roads.

FUNERAL OF MAXWELL E. WEIR

The funeral of the late Maxwell E. Weir took place yesterday afternoon from ther esidence of his father-in-low, Mr. Geo. Boiler, to Little Lake cemetery. Rev. R. G. Peever, of George Street Methodist Church officiated, and the funeral was under the auspices of the Orange Order and the Royal Black Knights of Ireland. Among the floral tributes were wreaths from the Toronto Street Railway employees and from the Royal Black Knights.

To the Electors of the

NORTH WARD

Ladies and Gentlemen,—When casting your ballot on Monday, I would ask you all to consider the results of last year's work of our Council—a tax rate of 25 mills and the Hydro tangle which must be straightened out.

If you elect me as your representative, I will do all in my power at least to prevent a further increase in the rate, and, if possible, to reduce it, and to assist in bringing about a speedy and satisfactory settlement of the Hydro question.

I am strongly in favour of the Hydro system controlled absolutely by the City, and until this is settled, I am not in favour of the expenditures proposed for the new bridge and chemical engine.

I will keep the welfare of our ward constantly in mind and will see that we in the north get our just due.

Wishing you all a bright and happy New Year, I am,

Yours sincerely,

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Games Were Postponed

Lack of Ice Prevents Opening of Intermediate Series

The lack of ice resulted in two games scheduled for this district of the Intermediate O. H. A. being postponed. Oshawa was slated to play Whitby, and Cobourg was to have gone to Belleville, but no ice was available. Unless cold weather sets in soon the games in this group will be in a beautiful tangle. Some of the teams have not been on ice yet. Whitby are scheduled to play here Friday, but there will be nothing doing unless there is another big drop in the mercury. The local Juniors have a game scheduled for a week from to-night with the Kingston Frontenacs.

Intermediates Worked Out

The first Intermediate practice of the season was held last night, and although all the regulars were not out it was a lively session with the going hard all the way. Among those out were Dwyer, last year's senior goalkeeper; Flowers, goal-keeper for the Juniors last season; Meldrum, formerly net guardian of the Collegiate Junior O.H.A. team; Park and Giroux, of last year's Seniors; Bond, of last season's Intermediates; Kenneally, captain of the Juniors last season; Paton from Lindsay, Murray from Omemee, A. Kelly. Weather permitting the Intermediates will work out again tomorrow night. The first game of the season will be played on Friday night when the Whitby Intermediates will be here. Fred Denison is expected home from his Ottawa College tour on Thursday in time for the first game.

EXAMINER HOCKEY TEAM.

A meeting of the above team was held last evening in the offices of the Examiner, Manager Russell presiding. Some routine business was disposed of, and the following executive committee was elected by ballot, viz., Messrs. J. Barringer, C. Mannion and M. Swanston.

Mr. F. Primeau was appointed assistant secretary, and the meeting then adjourned. Prospects look well for this bright, active team.

Hockey—That's All

The ice at Brock St. Rink was cut up so badly by the swaters last night that it is not in condition to be used, and hockey practices is therefore at an end until another cold snap comes along. The Junior practice scheduled for to-night haa been called off, but the Juniors will practice at the ring on Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock, if the weather conditions permit. If there is no skating in the rink on the holiday the squad will work out at Little Lake, meeting at the rink at 9 o'clock sharp. In the list of players wanted out at the next practice, the name of C. Legendre was accidentally omitted.

THE EXAMINER HOCKEY TEAM,

A Work-out Arranged on Thursday Morning.

The Examiner Team will have a work-out on Parker's Rink on Thursday next at 10 o'clock. Being a holiday—New Year's Day—it is hoped that every "boy" will be on the ice, so that Captain Heard may size them all up. The boys mean business and are red hot for a stick fray. Good, clean, straight hockey, is the order of the day with them.

Perhaps the sporting (?) Editor of the Review may hold that there is nothing new under the sun. Can't he coin a new expression. "Manager Russell's Scrubbers" is old; it's a last year's expression dished up again this year. But so stale that it needs salt to be sprinkled on it to keep it sweet. Is would-be-manager Curtis jealous because the "Examiner" not only beats the Review hollow in quality and in circulation but in hockey as well? Anyway "Russell's 'scrubbers'" showed some of the other teams last year that they could "scrub" them to a pretty good tune; and they intend to try their level best—and who can possibly do more than that—not to be at the tail-end of the aggregation this season.

Manager Russell wishes all his "boys" "a very Happy and Prosperous New Year." And his boys pass on the same felicitations to their numerous supporters and admirers.

WITH NINE TO GO.

He is an old caddie on the East coast course, and, being a noted figure on the links, he endeavours as far as possible to caddie only for thoroughly efficient golfers. Occasionally, however, he finds himself accompanying a "foozler," and on these occasions his dignity is injured.

One day last week he found himself caddyinb to an old gentleman who was out, clearly, more for exercise than for love of the game, and who was playing shocking golf.

By the time the twelfth hole was reached he had been in most of the bunkers en route, and had succeeded in breaking a club. "I think I shall give up this hole," he remarked at last to his indignant caddie. "Na, na," retorted the old worthy, bitterly, "feenish the course, sir, feenish the cours; ye've got other four clubs to smash yet, an' nine bunkers to dae it in!"

Doc Reisling To Manage The Cockneys

London Advrtiser: Present indications are that "Doc" Reisling, the Caldwell, Ohio, dentist, who was with Washington last season, will be manager of London's 1914 Canadian League team. The local directors are in touch with Reisling at the present time and it is only a question of terms between them. Reisling is anxious to come to London. So anxious is he, in fact, that he called up President Stevely on the long-distance telephone Saturday evening, and wanted to know if ther was still a chance to land the position. He has secured his release from Washington and is now free to sign up with any team. President Stevely informed him that a letter had been sent him Saturday by the London Club and it contained the terms of agreement offerd him by the local club. His reply is awaited with interest.

Just a Question of Terms.

"If the terms are acceptable to Reisling will the London Club engage him for next season?" the writer asked President Stevely this morning. "Yes, I think we will," he replied. "Reisling is the pick of the candidates we had for the position," he continued, "and if our terms are agreeable to him we will sign him up right away."

Risling Well Fitted for Position.

Reisling is a pitcher and one who has had a lot of baseball experience. H is well fitted for the position of manager, being capable of handling men and being blessed with a sunny disposition that make him a lot of friends. His big league experience would stamp him one of the best managers in the Canadian League, and the opinion of the London directors is that the London Club is exceedingly fortunate in being able to secure him. If he is signed up he will likely make a trip to this city shortly after the first of the year in order to get into touch with local affairs and get a line on the players already reserved by the London Club.

GOOD PINCH HITTING

On a Few Occasions It Has Saved No-hit Games

It is seldom that an emergency hitter shatters a pitcher's bid for a no-hit game as Larry McLean, of the Giants did when batting against George Tyler, of the Braves. The last time anything like this happened to the Major League was on July 28 1909. Lefty Pastorius, of the Superbas then was pitching against the Phillies, and he held them hitless until the ninth. Then Billy Murray, manager of the Quakers, lifted John Titus out of the controversy and delegated Dr. Leon Martel to bat for him. Martel responded with a triple, and Pastorius did not get his portrait into the pitchers' Hall of Fame.

Heinie Berger, of the Naps, was headed toward a no-hit game on Sept. 26, 1907, while twirling against the Yankees, until Clarke Griffith requested Norman Elberfield to bat for Jack Chesbro in the ninth. Elberfield made a single and Berger's chance was gone. That same season, on May 20, Tom Hughes of the Nationals had a similar experience when Harry Bemis of the Naps did a pinch hitting trick for Glen Liebhardt in the third inning.

On Sept. 10, 1907, Joe Doyle of the Yankees confined the Nationals to one safety, made by Mike Kahoe, who got into the game because Jack Warner had been injured.

The only National League contest in which both teams were held to one hit took place between Pittsburg and Chicago on the morning of July 4, 1906. Lefty Leifield and Mordecai Brown were the pitchers and the safeties were made by Jim Slagle and by Leifield himself.

Charley Buffinton of the Phillies, is, so far as is known, the only National League pitcher to hurl two one-hit games in succession.

In Canada it usually costs only 25 cents to see a bicycle or motor-cycle race, but in Paris the Frenchmen pay $4.50 for seats in the oval. It is carpeted there and otherwise made attractive, wines and refreshments being served within the exclusive area.

FINE SPEECH MADE BY THOS. S. YOUNG

Mr. Thos. S. Young, one of the new candidates for the North Monaghan Council made as neat a speech yesterday afternoon as one would wish to hear. He resides on the south side of the road that runs west from Jackson's Park, and is on the very northernmost limit of the Township. The community is what we help to make it Each man has a responsibility towards his township, and it is his duty to perform it in the best manner possible. While I have been nominated, I don't like the idea of going out for votes. The old saying is true, the office should seek the man, but it so often happens that the jovial, smiling fellow with funny stories gets into office, while the capable men are left at home.

Don't think that I won't make mistakes if I am elected. I have made them in my own business, and there is not a man in the hall who can avoid them. Every man has a right to his own opinions, but I believe that he should fall in with the majority when his opinion differs from that of his fellows.

A CORRESPONDENT WRITES ABOUT MR. GILLESPIE

December 29th, 1913.

Editor Examiner:

Dear Sir,—As Mr. Gillespie is a candidate for Mayor, I wish to say something as to his treatment of those who have been employed by him. I have a knowledge of his treatment of his employees, and I beg to say that through sickness or any other cause, no employee ever lost any time, but received money for all the time they were off, if caused by sickness, or circumstances beyond the control of the employee. Alderman Gillespie always paid a good fair wage, and no person can ever say that he has tried to cut down the wages of his employees in a period of hard times.

MILK PRODUCERS GIVE STATEMENT

Peterborough, Dec. 30, 1913.

At a meeting of the Milk Producers held last evening, Dec. 29th, 1913, an association was organized, called the Milk Producers' Association of Peterborough. There were twenty farmers present, and a very enthusiastic meeting took place, and much discussion over the wholesale price of milk.

It was pointed out that the milk producer could not put up milk as cheap as in the past, as cows were very much dearer, as was also feed and labour.

It was almost impossible to hire the proper help to milk and look after dairy cattle. The most of them thought it was a slavish job, for it was early in the morning and late at night, and Sunday and week day it was always the same. They always had to be on the job.

The retailer of to-day is the man who is making good money out of it. Some are buying at 3 1-2c. and some at 4c. per quart. It was decided, however, to leave the price at 4c. for the balance of the winter and 4c. for next summer.

COMMISSIONERS LEAVE BURLEIGH MATTER WITH DR. CLINTON

A meeting of the Water Commissioners was held on Monday afternoon, with all the members present, Mr. T. F. Matthews presiding.

A report was read from Mr. F. Adams, collector, regarding the water rates of J. L. Wyatt for Nos. 488 and 490 Driscoll Terrace, saying that the rate with the fixtures installed would be $7 and $14 a year, respectively. It was resolved that the adjustment by the collector be confirmed.

A letter was read from Dr. Clinton, District Health Officer, saying that he had given Mr. Darcy notice that he must take care of the sewerage at his place or he could not open his hotel in the spring. The secretary was instructed to acknowledge the letter, and to say that the matter was within his jurisdiction, and that the Commissioners look to him to see that his order is carried out.

A letter was read from the Peterborough Canoe Co. complaining of the quality of the water at their factory. The secretary was instructed to acknowledge the letter and to say that the matter would have the attention of the superintendent.

It was resolved that the chairman take up with the C.G.E. Co. the matter of the shutting off of the power and the removal of stop logs.

BRAHMIN WIDOW COMMITS 'SUTTEE'

IS Burn Alive on Husband's Funeral Pyre — Relatives Sentenced.

CALCUTTA, Dec. 29.—An important case exemplifying the slowness of Indian customs in dying has been decided in the Allahabad High Court.

The widow of a Brahmin committed "suttee" on her husband's death that is, was buried on the funeral pyre in the presence of the whole village. Five of the relatives were arrested for abtting her suicide, and were sentenced to imprisonment. They appealed to the High Court, the defence being that the fire was lighted by supernatural means, the flames descending from heaven. The High Court rejected the appeal and has increased the sentences in two of the cases.

The present case is only the fourth recorded in the united provinces and Bengal since 1829, when 'suttee' was prohibited.

FORTUNE SPENT FOR DOZEN PLAYERS

Some of It Was Real Money, But at Any Rate the Prices Were Record Breakers

A baseball statistician has completed figures to show that $144,000 was spent by major league clubs for a dozen players in the past few years. It doesn't seem so very long ago when the sporting world was agog over the announcement that $15,000 was paid for Jouet Meekin and "Duke" Farrell by the New York club. And the $10,000 paid for the famous Mike Kelly was thought to be a figure that would never in all the world be approached.

But big figures seem to talk these days. The rising market for "big-priced" ball players, or the lottery, as it might be called, started when John McGraw paid $11,000 for "Rube" Marquard. For two years "Rube" was hardly worth his travelling expenses. But he came around, and he lived up to his price.

Then along came Barney Dreyfus with his $22,500 beauty, Marty O'Toole, and his $7,000 catcher, Bill Kelly. That's "high," and it's probably going to stay right there. The nearest approach to it was when Charles Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox was reported to have paid $18,000 for Outfielder Chappelle. Other "big prices" were marked, including $15,000 the Giants were supposed to have paid for "Rube" Schauer, $5,000 the Yankees gave for Marty McHale, and the $12,000 the same club handed over for Thirdbaseman Fritz Maisel.

In these transactions, or in the majority of them, there has been more or less work of the imaginary kind. No such amount of cash as $10,000, $15,000 or the like was ever turned over for any player. The club getting the young star very probably handed over players who were figured as so much cash, and then some real, sure enough money in the bargain.

However, here is a list of the players whose combined abilities are reputed to be worth $144,500 in the aggregate:

Name and team	Price paid
Marty O'Toole, Pittsburg	$22,500
Larry Chappelle, White Sox	18,000
Rube Shauer, Giants	15,000
Ray Schalk, White Sox	15,000
Lefty Russell, Athletics	12,500
Rus Blackburne, White Sox	12,000
Fred Maisel, Yankees	12,000
Rube Marquard, Giants	11,000
Elmer Brown, Superbas	7,000
Bill Kelly, Pittsburg	7,000
Rube Benton, Reds	6,500
McHale, Yankees	5,000
Total	$144,500

Preparing in Time

Antwerp has already commenced to prepare for the Olympic games, to be held in that city in 1920. A committee has been formed, and the support of the most influential persons in Belgium obtained.

The town authorities are to obtain a vote of several million francs for the expenses, and everything is being done to make the event a huge success. In recent years Belgium has come to the fore in international sports.

Forgot Bride For Dog

So anxious was Charles Humer, of Carlisle, Pa., a noted wing shot, to recover a black and white pointer that he had lost that he forgot that it was his wedding day. When he was told an hour before the wedding by his kennel keeper that the dog had disappeared he rushed out of the house and started hunting through the wood of his estate and the wedding part was getting nervous when he was reached by phone after finding his dog. He hurried to the bride's home to explain as best he could that he had "forgotten."

"See Us and See Better"

THREE FORMS OF EYE TROUBLE

Are commonly met with—any of which may have existed from birth Nature does not always make perfect eyes. We have near-sightedness, far-sightedness and astigmatism, which is a form of irregular sight. All of these defects require attention. If a child has any of these defects and is expected to do good work of any kind he must have his eyes carefully examined and wear such glasses as will correct the refraction of his eyes. As well expect a child born with one leg shorter than the other to walk without limping as to ask one born with imperfect vision to do accurate eye work without suffering the consequences. WHY HE PREFERS MR. GILLESPIE AS 1914 MAYOR

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—My choice for Mayor, and my reasons for making the choice: I do not care how long a man has lived in the City. I estimate his worth by what he has done towards its upbuilding. Mr. Gillespie established a valuable and successful mercantile business. He purchased and remodelled the Creamery, making it an up-to-date plant and a credit to the City. He purchased a valuable farm just outside the City, which I compare in a high degree with the wisdom of ex-Mayor Rush's purchase of the Hilliard Farm. Last, although not least, he was mainly instrumental in inducing the heads of the De Laval factory to locate here. His creditable record entitles him to the position without opposition. For similar reasons I intend to support Mr. Hicks for Water Commissioner.

A COMMENT FROM AL FRESCO

Peterborough, Dec. 30th, 1913.

Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—By the ruling in the case of Andrews versus King, a neighbour may leave garbage where the neighbour's neighbour gets all the benefit?

This is a sad state of affairs. Who knows where we will find it next? On the back door step most likely, where we are apt to step into it one of these dark mornings. Surely a law once made [illegible] be upheld by our justices of the peace at least.

Would Mr. Dumble like to have the fragrance from some other mans garbage creep up the wall and invade the pure atmosphere of his bed room? We hope his neighbour will do as this other neighbour has done and let Mr. Dumble see things as they should be seen.

Of course every man is not a Solomon. Some we are sure of and others not, but in a case like this, even a magistrate should decide better than has been decided.

Yours truly,
Al Fresco.

RINK AND SLIDE AT THE PARK OPEN ON HOLIDAY

Mr. W. H. Munro stated to-day that with a continuation of the present weather the open-air rink and toboggan slide at Jackson Park will be open on New Year's Day. A staff of men have been active preparing a foundation for the rink and building up the slide. Frosty nights will put everything in good shape.

SOME THINGS AND OTHERS

St. Luke's Church have asked to be supplied with Hydro current as soon as the City is in a position to undertake the contract.

The City is in receipt of an account for $62.20 from the National Sanitarium. The sanitarium authorities assert that their representatives were barred from soliciting funds in Peterborough by the local Health Association and must therefore charge the statutory rate of seventy cents a day for Peterborough patients. There are three patients from this City receiving medical attention at the institution.

A resolution of condolence from the City Council has been forwarded to Ald. and Mrs. Duncan, who a few days ago suffered the loss of a four year old son.

OBITUARY

THE LATE MRS. GARVEY.

The death occurred at her home in Norwood shortly before 7 o'clock last evening, of Mary Fitzpatrick, wife of Mr. Wm. Garvey of that village. The late Mrs. Garvey was born in Norwood, and resided there all her life. She was a sister of the Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Ennismore.

The deceased lady was very highly respected in Norwood and throughout her native township. She had a very large number of friends and acquaintances, and everyone who came in touch with her were impressed with her sincerity of character.

She is survived by her husband, one sister, Sister Stanislus, of Norwood, and one brother, the Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, or Ennismore.

The funeral will be held from her late residence, to the Norwood Church and cemetery, at 9 o'clock, Wednesday morning.

W. W. EDWARDS.

On Dec. 29, 1913, at 8.30 in the evening, there entered into rest William Willcocks Edwards, at 500 George Street, in this City, at the age of 82.

The death arose from the rupture of an artery.

The deceased was born at Stourport, in the County of Worcester, England, in the year 1830. In February, 1908, he migrated to Canada, and arriving in Peterborugh, laid the foundation of the successful meat market business carried on under the style of J. W. Edwards, on George Street.

The deceased leaves a widow but no family.

In addition to his widow, the deceased leaves a father, mother, six sisters and three brothers to mourn his loss. Several of these relatives reside in the City.

The date of interment, which will take place at Little Lake Cemetery, will be announced to-morrow.

VERONICA YOUNG.

It is with regret the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Young, who left Douro some five or six weeks ago to make their home in Turlock, California, will learn of their sad bereavement, in the loss of their little daughter, Veronica. Upon the arrival of the family in Turlock, the little one was stricken with a severe cold, which rapidly developed into bronchial pneumonia. All efforts to check the dread disease were unavailing, and on the night of Dec. 23 she passed away, surrounded by her heart-broken parents and sorrowing relatives. Little Veronica was three years and eleven months old, and was the third child of Mr. and Mrs. Young.

Burial services were conducted from the Sacred Heart Church in Turlock, California, on Christmas Day, and interment in Turlock Cemetery.

Remembered By S. S. Class

On Tuesday evening last the members of Mrs. George Worlay's class called at her home on Sherbrooke Street and read the following address and presented her with a lovely piece of china. Mrs. Worlay thanked her girls for their kindness and wished them all a very merry Christmas:

Dear Teacher,—The members of your class approach Christmas with thankfulness for the many blessings of the year and not the least of these were the glad and profitable hours spent under your instruction.

We feel tat we cannot let this occasion pass by without showing in some way the high esteem and love in which we hold you and we ask you to accept this small present as a token which we hope will ever remind you of the pleasant times spent together.

Wishing you a Merry Christmas and a happy New Year, we are,

Yours faithfully,

BATTLE IS RAGING

Mexican Federals and Rebels Fighting at Ojinaga

HUERTISTS DISORGANIZED

PRESIDIO, Dec. 31.—The battle between 5,000 rebels under Gen. Toroblo Ortega and the northern division of the Mexican Federal army, entrenched around Ojinaga, Mexico, across the border from this place, still was in progress when darkness fell last night. No bullets came across the border.

The forces had been engaged for 36 hours and many had been killed and wounded on both sides.

Gen. Ortega, executing a series of flank movements, kept steadily on the offensive, gaining foot by foot the approaches to the Federal stronghold. The Federal forces, although crippled and disorganized by the first rebel onslaught, which drove in their outposts, clung to the hillside trenches, where their leaders had decided to make a last stand.

The Federals rallied somewhat from the panic which seized many of them with the first volleys of the rebels, when day light disclosed the position of Ortega's men and put up a plucky fight against heavy odds, although their losses were heavy, both from wounds and desertions.

Many wounded and deserters waded waist deep through the river to the American side.

It was impossible even to approximate the number of dead and wounded, although many are known to have fallen on each side. Fifteen of the Federal wounded who waded the river were allowed to remain and were cared for by United States army physicians, but several score unwounded Federal deserters were disarmed by the border patrol under Major McNamee, and sent back across the border.

Army officers were convinced, from the fact that 15 wounded were able to make their way across the river, that the casualties had been heavy and Red Cross representatives, therefore, sent requests for more help and hospital supplies. They also requested permission to cross the border to attend the wounded on the battlefield.

Neither of the opposing forces is provided with hospital facilities, and the wounded have been left on the hillsides where they fell.

Lind To Meet President.

VERA CRUZ, Dec. 31.—John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative, who has been in Mexico for several months watching the situation, announced yesterday that he expected to leave Vera Cruz last night aboard the cruiser Chester for the United States. He will proceed to Pass Christian, Miss., where President Wilson is spending his vacation.

Do Not Want To Join Mexico.

TOKIO, Dec. 31.—Francisco de la Barra left here for Paris yesterday having completed the mission entrusted to him by the Mexican Government of thanking Japan for her participation in the Mexican centennial.

Senor Pardo, the Mexican Minister here, gave out the following statement yesterday:

"Reports published in America that 50 Japanese officers had applied for permission to attach themselves to the Mexican Federal army are untrue."

Mexican Railway Defaults.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Disturbed conditions in Mexico have forced the national railways of Mexico and its affiliated properties to default in the payment of interest due Jan. 1, on bonds amounting to $111,600,000. E. N. Brown, president of the system, who made this announcement yesterday, said that in lieu of the regular cash payments, the company would issue three-year six per cent. notes.

The bonds on which default is declared consist of $84,000,000 of National Railways 4 1-2 per cent. prior liens, $26,000,000 of National Railroad 4 1-2 per cent. prior liens, and $1,374,000 of Mexican Central Railway 5 per cent. priority bonds. Semi-annual interest on these issues aggregate approximately $2,500,000.

PARENT SHOOTS SON.

Aged Father of Comedian Fragson Intended to Kill Himself.

PARIS, Dec. 31.—An extraordinary tragedy occurred in Paris last night. A popular English vaudeville performer, known on the stage as Harry Fragson, was shot and killed by his 84-year-old father, Victor Pott Fragson had dined at a restaurant, and on the way to the theatre where he has been appearing called at the apartment which he occupied with his father in the Rue de la Fayette. He found the door bolted and was kept waiting a long time before it was opened by his father. High words ensued, and suddenly the father seemed to lose all control of himself. He drew a revolver and the son fell with a bullet in his head.

The feeble old man was greatly shaken and trembled as he told in a somewhat rambling way his story to the police commissary. The father says he intended to commit suicide in his son's presence.

Two Injured by Flying Rock.

COBALT, Dec. 31.—A shower of rock broke through camps of the Northern Ontario Light & Power Co. at Fountain Falls on the Montreal river and struck down Y. Kankas and T. Oleman, two Finlanders. Blasting operations were being conducted 100 feet away. The men are in the mines hospital at Cobalt to-day, and Kankas is not expected to live. Both are unmarried.

BIG STORES FAIL

Siegel-Cooper Company of New York Goes Into Liquidation

CHRISTMAS TRADE WAS POOR

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Six enterprises, controlled by the Siegel Stores Corporation in this city and in Boston, were thrown into bankruptcy yesterday in a friendly proceeding instituted in the Federal courts. The concerns did an annual gross business estimated at $40,000,000, but it is understand that their Christmas business did not come up to expectations and they found themselves hard pressed by curtailment of banking credit. The failure has been discounted in the financial district and had no effect on the stock market.

The companies for which receivers were named are: The Fourteenth street store, New York; the Simpson-Crawford Co., New York; Henry Siegel & Co., bankers, New York; Henry Siegel & Co., wholesalers, New York; Merchants' Express Co., New York; Henry Siegel Co., Boston, a department store.

The Greenhut-Siegel-Cooper Co. of this city is not allied with the chain of stores in trouble and was in no way involved. Siegel Cooper & Co., of Chicago, although its stock is controlled by the Siegel Stores Corporation, is likewise not affected. On the other hand, its business is declared to be in a highly prosperous condition.

The banking business was conducted in connection with the Fourteenth street store in this city, but the amount of deposits or the number of depositors was not made known. Counsel announced, however, that Henry Siegel and Frank E. Vogel, principal owners of the stores, had pledged $3,500,000 in stock in the Siegel Stores Corporation toward the depositors' protection. The bank will proceed to liquidate.

Efforts will be made to reorganize the chain of stores as soon as possible. Meanwhile the business will be conducted by the receivers.

CRISIS IN GERMANY.

Zabern Affairs In Beginning of Constitutional Upheaval.

BERLIN, Dec. 31. — Indications that Imperial Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg's retirement may eventually be brought about as a result of the political crisis arising out of the trouble between the civil and military authorities at Zabern, Alsace, were given at the conventions of the Centre and Liberal parties, held on Monday evening.

The Clerical leaders, Matthias Erzberger and Adolf Groeber, in the course of speeches delivered at the party convention at Ulm, declared that the Zabern incident was probably the beginning of a great political struggle in Germany, in which compromise was scarcely possible.

The newspaper at Mannheim, which voices the views of the Liberal leader, Ernst Bassermann, stated yesterday that a grave crisis is impending in Germany.

SWALLOW A BALLOON.

And See Whether You Are Really Hungry or Not.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 31. — An apparatus by which blood may be removed, cleansed of impurities and returned to the system, and a contrivance by which it can be determined whether one is suffering from hunger or merely has an appetite, were among the inventions demonstrated yesterday by members of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology, in annual session here. Dr. A. J. Carlsen of the University of Chicago, demonstrated on himself the efficiency of the hunger-testing machine, his own invention.

Swallowing a small cigar-shaped rubber balloon which had been fitted with long rubber tubes he inflated the balloon in his stomach through the tubes and then attached the latter to sensitized paper. Hunger, he declared, caused the muscles of the stomach to grip the balloon and drive out the air which registered the amount of hunger on the sensitized paper.

CONVICTS ON ROADS

Scheme Would Solve Problem, Declare Automobilists

FEDERATION HOLDS MEETING

TORONTO, Dec. 31.—An effort will be made by the Automobile Federation of Canada to have convict labor used in the building of roads throughout the entire Dominion. The federation at its annual meeting, held yesterday afternoon in the Ontario Motor League rooms in the Lumsden Building, it was decided to appeal to the various Provincial Governments as well as to the Dominion Government with a view to having this system established.

This system of road-building has been in vogue in many parts of the United States for two years and has met with great success. It was first started in the Western States and has rapidly grown until now it has worked itself into the Eastern States and practically every state in the Union is building its roads in this manner. The convicts will be allowed out on parole and will receive a salary for their work if this system is established in Canada.

The federation is offering this scheme to the various Provincial Governments as well as the Dominion body as one means of solving the roads question.

A campaign will also be started in the near future with a view to establishing a uniform regulation governing automobiles in all the provinces of the Dominion. At present in nearly every province there is a different rule regarding the placing of license numbers, the rate of speed, the placing of lights and the levying of fines, and it is with a view to having these regulations made uniform throughout the entire Dominion that the federation is starting this campaign. By establishing this new uniform regulation it will mean that tourists from one province to another will know just what the regulations are and will not be continually breaking them as they are doing now.

The Good Roads Congress, to be held in Montreal early in the new years was endorsed by the federation, and delegates will be sent. This will be the first Dominion Good Roads Congress to be held in Canada, and it promises to be of great benefit in the way of solving of the problem of good roads.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: Oliver Hezzlewood, Toronto, president; F. Carroll, Quebec, first vice-president; C. H. Catterel, Vancouver, second vice-president; W. D. Robertson, Toronto, secretary-treasurer; H. W. Pellow, president Montreal club, chairman of the good roads committee; A. L. Gordon, president of the Regina club, chairman of the legislation committee, and A. C. Emmett, president of the Winnipeg club, chairman of the touring committee.

PROBLEMS SETTLED.

Anglo-German Disputes Believed To Be Agreed Upon.

BERLIN, Dec. 31.—Great Britain and Germany have as good as concluded a comprehensive political agreement which, optimists believe, will go far towards eradicating the danger of war between the two empires. It is learned that the announcement of the agreement is not likely to be deferred beyond the date of the approaching session of the British Parliament. The negotiations have been carried on exclusively in London, so that the first announcement of their result will be made there.

Although the agreement is far-reaching, it fails conspicuously to touch what impartial authorities in both countries recognize to be the issue of issues between Great Britain and Germany, namely, naval antagonism. Britain has made numerous overtures to bring about an understanding on this burning question, but Germany has rejected them on the ground that her naval policy is laid down by law and cannot be altered without an act of Parliament.

The approaching agreement mainly concerns future Anglo-German action in Portuguese Africa. Germany is left free to act in Angola and has also obtained the right to construct a railway terminating in the neighborhood of Rhodesia. This will join the Cape-to-Cairo line, the realization of which was Cecil Rhodes' great dream.

Germany on here part, renounces all interest in Mozambique, which supposedly, will fall to Britain. The agreement will specifically point out that neither power desires to "interfere with the sovereignty of Portugal," but merely to mark out "trading spheres" for itself.

Other points in the agreement concern the Bagdad Railway, on which Germany and Britain have hitherto failed to agree.

Schmidt Jury Disagreed.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—After deliberating thirty-six hours the jury trying the case of Hans Schmidt, the former assistant priest of St. Joseph's Church, accused of the murder of Anna Aumuller, reported about ten o'clock last night that it could not reach an agreement, and was discharged.

Frenchmen's Kindness Recognized.

PARIS, Dec. 31. — In recognition of the devoted care shown to Capt. D. Von Winterfeldt, the military attache of the German Embassy to France, who was seriously injured in an automobile accident last fall while following the French army manoeuvres, the German Emperor yesterday sent an autograph portrait to Eugene Etienne, the French ex-Minister of War.

His Majesty also bestowed decorations on a number of French officers, surgeons and civilian officials, and on several women who aided in nursing Captain Von Winterfeldt back to health. To the Mayor of Grisolles the Emperor sent $1,200 to be distributed among the needy persons of the town.

"That Affair Next Door"

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN

"This apathy concerning a matter so important to myself, or rather this almost frenzied determination to cut myself loose from my dreadful past, may seem strange and unnatural; but it will seem stranger yet when I say that for all these efforts I was haunted night and day by one small fact connected with this past, which made forgetfulness impossible. I had taken the rings from the hands of the dead woman as I had taken away her clothes, and the possession of these valuables, probably because they represented so much money, weighed on my conscience and made me feel like a thief. The purse which I found in a pocket of the skirt I had put on was a trouble to me, but the rings were a source of constant terror and disturbance. I hid them finally in a ball of yarn I was using, but even then I experienced but little peace, for they were not mine, and I lacked the courage to avow it or seek out the person to whom they now rightfully belonged.

"When, therefore, in the intervals of fever which attacked me in Miss Althorpe's house, I overheard enough of a conversation between her and Miss Butterworth to learn that the murdered woman had been a Mrs. Van Burnam, and that her husband or relatives had an office somewhere downtown, I was so seized by the instinct of restitution, that I took the first opportunity that offered to leave my bed and hunt up these people.

"That I would injure them in any way by secretly restoring these jewels, I never dreamed. Indeed, I did not exercise my mind at all on the subject, but only followed the instincts of my delirium; and while to all appearance I showed all the cunning of an insane person, in the pursuit of my purpose, I fail to remember now how I found my way to Duane Street, or by what suggestion of my diseased brain I was induced to slip these rings upon the hook attached to Mr. Van Burnam's desk. Probably the mere utterance of this well-known name into the ears of the passers-by was enough to obtain for me such directions as I needed, but however that may be, the result was misapprehension, and the complications which followed, serious.

"Of the emotion caused in me by the unaccountable discovery of my connection with this crime I need not speak. The love which I at one time felt for John Randolph had turned to gall and bitterness, but enough sense of duty remained in my bruised and broken heart to keep me from denouncing him to the police, till by a sudden stroke of fate or Providence, I saw him in the carriage with Miss Althorpe, and realized that he was not only the man with whom she was upon the point of allying herself, but that it was to preserve his place in her regard and to attain the lofty position promised by this union, he had attempted to murder me, and had murdered another woman, only less unfortunate and miserable than myself.

"It was the last and bitterest blow that could come from his hand; and though instinct led me to throw myself into the carriage before which I stood, and thus escape a meeting which I felt I could never survive, I was determined from that moment not only to save Miss Althorpe from an alliance with this villain, but to revenge myself upon him in some never-to-be-forgotten manner.

"That this revenge involved her in a public shame from which her angelic goodness to me should have saved her, I regret now as deeply as even she can wish. But the madness that was upon me made me blind to every other consideration than that of the boundless hatred I bore him; and while I can look for no forgiveness from her on that account, I still hope the day will come when she will see that in spite of my momentary disregard of her feelings, I cherish for her an affection that nothing can efface or make other than the ruling passion of my life."

XLII.

With Miss Butterworth's Compliments.

They tell me that Mr. Gryce has never been quite the same man since the clearing up of this mystery; that his confidence in his own powers is shaken, and that he hints, more often than is agreeable to his superiors, that when a man has passed his seventy-seventh year it is time for him to give up active connection with police matters. I do not agree with him. His mistakes, if we may call them such, were not those of failing faculties, but of a man made over-secure in his own conclusions by a series of old successes. Had he listened to me—But I will not pursue this suggestion. You will accuse me of egotism, an imputation I cannot bear with equanimity and will not risk; modest depreciation of myself being one of the chief attributes of my character.*

*My attention has been called to the fact that I have not confessed whether it was owing to a mistake made by Mr. Gryce or myself, that Franklin Van Burnam was identified as the man who had entered the adjoining house on the night of the murder. Well, the truth is, neither of us was to blame for that. The man I identified (it was while watching the guests who attended Mrs. Van Burnam's funeral, you remember) was really Mr. Stone; but owing to the fact that this latter gentleman had lingered in the vestibule till he was joined by Franklin and that they had finally entered together, some confusion was created in the mind of the man on duty in the hall, so that when Mr. Gryce asked him who it was that came in immediately after the four who arrived together, he answered Mr. Franklin Van Burnam; being anxious to win his superior's applause and considering that person much more likely to merit the detective's attention than a mere friend of the family like Mr. Stone. In punishment for this momentary display of egotism, he has been discharged from the force, I believe.—A. B.

Howard Van Burnam bore his release, as he had his arrest, with great outward composure. Mr. Gryce's explanation of his motives in perjuring himself before the Coroner was correct, and while the mass of people wondered at that instinct of pride which led him to risk the imputation of murder sooner than have the world accuse his wife of an unwomanly action, there were others who understood his peculiarities, and thought his conduct quite in keeping with what they knew of his warped and over-sensitive nature.

That he has been greatly moved by the unmerited fate of his weak but unfortunate wife, is evident from the sincerity with which he still mourns her.

I had always understood that Franklin had never been told of the peril in which his good name had stood for a few short hours. But since a certain confidential conversation which took place between us one evening, I have come to the conclusion that the police were not so reticent as they made themselves out to be. In that conversation he professed to thank me for certain good offices I had done him and his, and waxing warm in his gratitude, confessed how found himself in a strait would have found himself in a strait of no ordinary seriousness; "For," said he, "there has been no overstatement of the feeling I cherished towards my sister-in-law, nor was there any mistake in thinking that she uttered some very desperate threats against me during the visit she paid me at my office on Monday. But I never thought of ridding myself of her in any way. I only thought of keeping her and my brother apart till I could escape the country. When therefore he came into the office on Tuesday morning for the keys of his father's house, I felt such a dread of the two meeting there, that I left immediately after my brother for the place where she had told me she would await the final message from me. I hoped to move her one final plea, for I love my brother sincerely, notwithstanding the wrong I once did him. I was therefore with her in another place at the very time I was thought to be with her at the Hotel D——, a fact which had greatly hampered me, as you can see, when I was requested by the police to give an account of how I spent that day. When I left her it was to seek my brother. She had told me of her deliberate intention of spending the night in the Gramercy Park house; and as I saw no way of her doing this without my brother's connivance, I started in search of him, meaning to stick to him when I found him, and keep him away from her till that night was over. I was not successful in my undertaking. He was looked in his rooms it seems, packing up his effects for flight,—we always had the same instincts even when boys,—and, receiving no answer to my knock, I hastened away to Gramercy Park to keep watch over the house against my brother coming there. This was early in the evening, and for hours afterwards I wandered like a restless spirit in and out of those streets, meeting no one I knew, not even my brother, thought he was wandering about in very much the same manner, and with very much the same apprehensions.

"The duplicity of the woman became very evident to me the next morning. In my last interview with her she had shown no relenting in her purpose towards me, but when I entered my office after this restless night in the streets, I found lying on my desk her little hand-bag, which had been sent down from Mrs. Parker's. In it was the letter, just as you divined, Miss Butterworth. I had hardly got over the shock of this most unexpected good fortune when the news came that a woman had been found dead in my father's house. What was I to think? That it was she, of course, and that my brother had been the man to let her in there. Miss Butterworth," this is how he ended, "I made no demands upon you, as I have made no demands upon the police, to keep the secret contained in that letter from my much-abused brother. Or, rather, it is too late now to keep it, for I have told him all there was to tell, myself, and he has seen fit to overlook my fault, and to regard me with even more affection than he did before this dreadful tragedy came to harrow up our lives."

Do you wonder I like Franklin Van Burnam?

The Misses Van Burnam call upon me regularly, and when they say "Dear old thing!" now, they mean it.

Of Miss Althorpe I cannot trust myself to speak. She was, and is, the finest woman I know, and when the great shadow now hanging over her has lost some of its impenetrability, she will be a useful one again, or I do not rightly read the patient smile which makes her face so beautiful in its sadness.

Olive Randolph has, at my request, taken up her abode in my house. The charm which she seems to have exerted over others she has exerted over me, and I doubt if I shall ever wish to part with her again. In return she gives me an affection which I am now getting old enough to appreciate. Her feeling for me and her gratitude to Miss Althorpe are the only treasures left her out of the wreck of her life, and it shall be my business to make them lasting ones.

The fate of Randolph Stone is too well known for me to enlarge upon it. But before I bid farewll to his name, I must say that after that curt confession of his, "Yes, I did it, in way and for the motive she alleged," I have often tried to imagine the contradictory feelings with which he must have listened to the facts as they came out at the inquest, and convinced, as he had every reason to be, that the victim was his wife, heard his friend Howard not only accept her for his, but insist that he was the man who accompanied her to that house of death. He has never lifted the veil from those hours, and he never will, but I would give much of the peace of mind which has lately come to me, to know what his sensations were, not only at that time, but when, on the evening after the murder he opened the papers and read that the woman whom he had left for dead with her brain pierced by a hatpin, had been found on that same floor crushed under a fallen cabinet; and what explanation he was ever able to make to himself for a fact so inexplicable.

THE END.

NEARLY IN CONVULSIONS

With Acute Indigestion. "Fruit-a-tives" Cured Me.

NEWBURY, ONT., MAY 29th, 1913

"I am not a strenuous user of medicines or patent medicines, but I have taken nearly everything recommendkd for Indigestion and Constipation.

I have been so bad with Acute Indigestion that I was nearly in convulsions and had to be held. I have used "Fruit-a-tives" and I have not had another attack nor suffered at all with Indigestion since taking them.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the only remedy I ever used that did me any good, and I am grateful to "Fruit-a-tives" for making me as well as I am today, and everyone agrees that I look in firstclass health.

My husband likes "Fruit-a-tives" very much and takes them whenever he has occasion to use a remedy for Constipation"

Low Spirits From Weak Nerves

Low spirits, depression, discouragement are a form of nervous disease. You worry over little things, and at the slightest ailment apprehend the gravest dangers and diseases. You form the habit of looking at the dark side of things.

Indigestion is a frequent accompaniment, and you probably do not sleep or rest well. The cause of the trouble is to be found in the exhausted condition of the nerves. To get well you must build up the feeble, wasted nerve cells by use of such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

This great food cure forms new, rich blood, and thereby nourishes the nervous system back to health and vigour. There is nothing like new nerve force to bring back hope and confidence to the weak and discouraged. This treatment works in natural ways to restore health, and, therefore, cannot fail to prove of benefit to you. Put it to the test and you will be surprised with the building-up influence that will result.

The Strain Was Too Great.

Professor Brander Matthews, the American dramatic critic, was once presented by a playwright with a complimentary ticket, which he used. At the end of the first act there was a chilly silence among the audience, but Mr. Matthews applauded, as in duty bound. At the end of the second act the audience hissed, while Mr. Matthws kept a troubled silence. At the end of the third act Mr. Matthews went out and paid for his seat and came back and hissed with the rest.

Cookery Points

Way to Cook Steak.

The men of the family are sure to declare in favor of beefsteak when asked what they would like for dinner. This popularity never seems to wane, and the average man if served with steak and potatoes will leave the table carrying with him the impression of a good dinner. The choice cuts of steak are often expensive, so the clever cook has discovered a way of cooking ordinary cuts that makes them the equal or even the superior of the expensive meats. A dinner menu with steak is:

Cream of Pea Soup.
Swiss Steak With Tomato Sauce.
Hashed Browned Potatoes.
Cucumber Salad.
Apple Pie. Coffee.

Any favorite soup may be used for the first course if cream of pea is not desired.

Take an ordinary round steak cut at least an inch thick. Place it on a board and sprinkle it well with flour. Pound this flour into the steak with the edge of a plate or a regular meat pounder and when all the flour is absorbed turn the steak and treat the other side in the same fashion. Then turn to the first side again, alternating until it will take no more flour. Singe quickly on each side in an iron frying pan with hot butter. Take from the fire and pour over the meat enough water to half fill the pan. Slice two tomatoes and an onion, if desired, into the pan, cover and allow to simmer very gently for three hours, replenishing the water from time to time. Season an hour before taking from the fire. When tender there will be a rich brown gravy flavored with tomato. Serve on platter with the gravy poured over the steak.

Cooking Bananas.

In Hawaii the banana is a favorite article of food, not only as a delicacy, but as an actual food commodity. The natives of the island have dozens of disguises for the fruit, and visitors agree that the American knows little of the possibilities of the long golden tube, with its fragrant fruit filling. It is fried, baked and stewed in Hawaii, but there is a way in which it appears at dessert which is worthy of imitation by the American.

For banana pudding slice six bananas, ripe ones preferred, and stew them with very little water. Beat to a pulp when done, add four tablespoonfuls of sugar and turn them into a baking dish. Rub a tablespoonful of butter and one of flour, smooth and mix with a half pint of cocoanut milk. Place on the stove and stir until boiling. Remove from the stove and when cool add the yolks of three eggs. Beat the whites of the eggs to a froth, stir in the custard slowly, add four tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar and a quarter of a grated nutmeg. Pour over the bananas and bake in a moderate oven for a half hour.

Maple Fondant.

A delicious maple fondant is made as follows: Boil together three cupfuls of maple sirup, two of cane sugar and half a teaspoonful of cream of tartar until it forms a thread an inch long when dripped from a spoon. Pour it into a buttered pan and let it stand for twenty minutes. Then beat it with a fork until it thickens. Turn the mass out upon a large buttered platter and form it into balls or cut it into squares when it has cooled. If not too stiff it can be treated like an ordinary fondant, but it is delicious however it is treated. Balls of the fondant may be dipped in melted chocolate or rolled in fresh grated cocoanut. A ball of it pressed between two walnut halves makes a delicious bonbon.

Salt Mackerel For Sunday.

Salt mackerel is less popular than it should be because most people have not cooked it the way to bring out its best points. There is a way to make it the best Sunday breakfast dish in the world: Select a good, firm mackerel. Soak it over night in icy cold water. Wash side down. In the morning melt in the frying pan a heaping tablespoonful of butter. Put in the mackerel, fry one side, turn carefully, keeping the flesh whole. Lift out on to a hot dish and pour in the pan a pint of thick sour cream. Let it boil up well, stirring it thoroughly, and pour it over fish. The salt of the fish takes out all the sour of the cream and makes a delicious gravy. Serve with hot buttered toast.

Coffee Custard.

Put one-half cupful of good ground coffee in a little muslin bag and drop into four cups of cold milk. Let stand twenty minutes, then pour into the double boiler and heat until it reaches the boiling point. Cook five minutes, then remove the bag and pour the hot milk over four beaten eggs, and four heaping tablespoonfuls of sugar. Pour into a custard bowl and set in a pan of hot water in the oven, or, if preferred, turn back into the double boiler and cook until thickened. Strain and set aside to cool.

Halibut and Potato Cakes.

Break left over halibut into flakes, mix these flakes with mashed potatoes, add a small piece of butter and a seasoning of salt and pepper. Form the mixture into cakes and fry in hot drippings.

Energy and Work.

"What becomes of the energy of motion of a street car when suddenly stopped?"

Law—mass multiplied by velocity equals momentum. The mass of the car in pounds or tons multiplied by its specific speed in feet per second gives a product named foot pounds or foot tons. This momentum is expended at the instant of collision or impact in delivering a blow, as in the case of a cannon ball. If the body receiving the impact is movable part of the momentum will appear in it as motion. If immovable the car will be smashed or move backward. And the molecules of the matter at point of impact will be increased in temperature and also be moved somewhat. This requires energy, and work has been accomplished from instant of collision until rest obtains. The answer is the energy of momentum is transformed into work.—Edgar Lucien Larkin in New York American.

Three Birthdays a Year.

There is apparently plenty of fun for the child in Sweden in the matter of birthdays, but the parent can hardly be expected to feel the same, for the children there do not confine themselves to one birthday, but they must have three. Of course the first one is the real birthday, and the other two are those whose names the Swedish boy or girl bears. For every day in the year of the Swedish calendar has its own separate name, besides the weekly names which other nations have. Sometimes if the parent gives the child a second name or a first one that cannot be found in the calendar, the child loses out on one birthday. And considerable protest must follow, too, when the child becomes old enough to realize what he is missing. In the German calendar every day has a name also, but the observance of these days is not at all common in the latter country.

English Harvest Feasts.

The feasts that now take place at the close of the harvest season in England are small affairs compared with the old fashioned harvest suppers held formerly. In some of the northern counties the farmers would give churns of cream, and it was served out in cups to the laborers. Nowadays a glass of ale or cider is the substitute for the old time feast. In some parts of the north of Ireland the ancient custom still lingers as "the churn supper." A very old custom is the baking of a large cake by the farmer's wife. This is cut up and served out to every one, including children, accompanying the "horkey cart" into the farmyard. The "horkey cart" was the cart on which the last load of the season was drawn to the farm.—London Answers.

SOME SCHOOLBOY HOWLERS.

Interesting Information Given By the Students.

Some amazing "howlers" are mentioned as given in answer to examination questions in the report just issued on secondary education in Scotland. "Mammon" was quite commonly confounded with "manna" and also with "mammoth," "Mormon," "Mahammed"; Job with Jonah, and "muses" with "Mutes." One definition was, "A worshipper of mammon means a bigamist," another that, it "means an Israelite, since the people of that tribe were fed by mammon in the wilderness."

Muses, it was stated, were often seen at funerals in the olden days. A "Job's comforter" was described as "a woollen muffler worn round the throat," as "a thing to give the baby the patience of Job," and as "something very pleasing, for Job was placed inside the whale's belly, and it was very pleasing for him to get out again." There was a tendency to represent Isaac as "the fatted calf" who was to be killed, or to see in the phrase an equivalent to other familiar sayings like "the fat is in the fire," or "to kill the goose that laid the golden eggs."

But the acme of absurdity, it is declared, was surely reached by the candidate who stated that "Vanity Fair was a fair held in the time of Moses, where all the people gathered together and sold their goods—'Moses at the fair'."

The paraphrase of Gray's well-known "ode on the death of a favorite cat" proved rather subtle, and girls as a rule did it better than boys. In widely separated schools the odd mistake occurred of describing the "hapless nymph" as "a goldfish with no clothes on." In an essay on flowers the word "nature" was sadly abused—"All nature dies in the autumn," or worse still, "All nature leaves us when winter comes."

Of the pairs of characters in poetry proposed for comparison, Macbeth and Milton's Satan were first favorites. There was a strong tendency to treat Satan, not as a fallen angel, but as an erring mortal. "He resembles Macbeth," said one candidate, "because both were misled by their wives." "Placed in another walk of life," said a candidate, "Satan would have been a good man."

Some interesting blunders were found in the history papers. George Washington was confused with George Stephenson, Mr. Gladstone with David Livingstone, and Franchise with Franco-Scottish. One boy, after reference to the Boer War, solemnly stated that "Lord Roberts died last year at a good old age, and was head of the Salvation Army."

Two noteworthy definitions of franchise were given—"Franchise is a kind of cotton imported in bales," and "Franchise was the gold and silver treasure which the Spaniards in days of old got at the Isthmus of Panama." The event most often misdated was the foundation of the House of Commons; some regarded it as simultaneous with the passing of the Parliament Act! It is remarked as extraordinary that many children defined Presbyterianism as government by priests or by bishops.

Then There Was Trouble.

Young Wife—Today is the anniversary of our wedding. I shall have one of the chickens killed in honor of the occasion. Her Husband—Oh, leave it alone. It wasn't the chicken's fault!

The chicken wasn't killed and the dinner was a failure.

TOMMY ATKINS BEHIND THE BARS

British Soldier in Military Prison Does Not Endure the Hardships of Old Days

In old days there were only two punishments for the soldier—the lash or the gallows. It was a barbarous system, but the one that followed it was little better. When flogging was abolished in the Army and punishment by imprisonment was introduced, the military prisoner suffered hardships that are unknown in any prison to-day.

For instance, it was laid down that "all prisoners on reception are to sleep for the first week on a board, without undressing."

And instead of working in a "shop" at some useful employment, the unfortunate military prisoner of thirty years ago was condemned to meet maddening horror known as shot drill. For hours at a time he had to march round and round a bare yard, picking up an eighteen-pound round-shot from one corner and proceeding then to deposit it in another place. Absolute silence was enforced, and if a visitor came into the prison the unhappy prisoners were ordered to turn their faces to the wall. The treadmill was in common use, the food was barely sufficient to sustain life. Men went mad and committed suicide.

All is now changed, and very much for the better. The prison garb is abolished, men are no longer numbered instead of named, the old degrading associations of convict life have been completely banished.

There are several military prisons, but of these York is the principal one. A soldier sentenced to a term of imprisonment in York prison finds that he has exchanged ordinary barrack life for a similar, but, of course, much stricter regime.

He now brings his full kit and his rifle, for a large portion of his time will be spent in ordinary drilling. True, his punishment includes hard labor, but this is all useful work of one kind or another. For the first fortnight he has to break stones, but after that, if his conduct is good, he goes into one of the "shops," and is taught mat-making or how to sew sacks. Such useful trades as bread-making are also part of the course for military prisoners in York prison. Those who are only fit for light work are given wood to chop for the use of the troops in the district.

Gymnastics and Swedish drill keep the men thoroughly fit, and there is a good library with plenty of fiction as well as works of instruction.

The day in a military prison is at least as long and perhaps rather fuller than in an ordinary convict prison. It begins at six in the morning, and what between cell cleaning, drill, work, and meals, a prisoner has no leisure until eight in the evening. Then he has an hour to himself to read or write before, at nine, lights are put out for the night.

The staff of this and other military prisons is purely military, the governor is an officer, and the prisoner is never allowed to forget that—although in disgrace—he is still a soldier.

EGYPTIAN FLORA

Celery Used as an Ornament in the Days of Solomon

In the National Museum of Egyptian Antiquities at Cairo, which was founded by a Frenchman known as Mariette Bey, there is a department devoted to an interesting collection of specimens of plants, which have been found in sepulchral monuments of that country.

Although the collection is large and contains many varieties, every plant exhibited is still to be found growing in the valley of the Nile, remarks a writer in The London Chronicle. Moreover, the closest examination fails to reveal the slightest difference between the plants that flourished fifty centuries ago and those which the traveler sees any day on the banks of the river.

Flowers such as the boy Moses or the children of Joseph picked still bloom unchanged. There are to be seen blue sprays of larkspur, which loving hands laid upon the bodies of those who died 1,000 years before Abraham and Sarah went into Egypt.

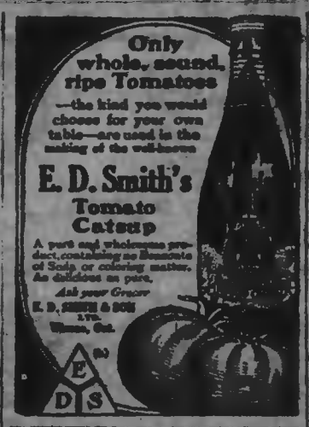
In the tombs of later date have been found, together with apparently simple ornamental flowers, such as hollyhocks and chrysanthemums, the various fruits, vegetables and grains for which the land has ever been renowned, such as figs, dates, olives, grapes, pomegranates, onions, barley and wheat.

Around the necks and upon the breasts of those who died at the time when Solomon reigned in Jerusalem, about 1000 B.C., were found garlands of celery, which does not appear to have been used at that time as a vegetable by the Egyptians.

Unwelcome Reminder.

"John, we have been married twelve years to-day."

"Oh, forget it. What's the use of trying to start a quarrel?"



BRITISH AUTHORS AND THEIR DRESS

Lord Beaconsfield was a dandy in the days when he was known rather as a novelist than as a politician. His dress was at times garish in the extreme. A velvet suit, with ruffles, was one of his earliest choices in the matter of clothes, and a few years later, when "Vivian Grey" had made him famous, he attended a dinner party wearing green velvet trousers, a canary-colored waistcoat, low shoes with silver buckles and lace cuffs to his coat.

It was in 1830 that he one day walked down Regent Street, during the hour of the day when it was most crowded, adorned with a blue surtout, military light blue trousers, black stockings with red stripes. "Quite made way for me as I passed. It was like the opening of the Red Sea, which I now perfectly believe from experience. Even well-dressed people stopped to look at me."

Charles Dickens may likewise be described as a gorgeous dresser. Miss Thiswell relates that she was passing the office of Household Words, "when a hansom stopped, and out stepped a gaily-dressed gentleman; his bright green waistcoat and vivid scarlet tie anyone would have noticed, but the size of the nosegay in his button-hole riveted my attention."

On another occasion, when sitting for his portrait to Firth, he arrived at the artist's studio encased in a sky-blue overcoat with red cuffs.

"His dress was florid," writes Sir Joseph Crown in 1848; "a satin cravat of deepest blue, relieved by embroideries, a green waistcoat with gold flowers, a dress coat with a velvet collar and satin facings, opulence of white cuffs, rings in excess, made up a rather striking whole."

R. L. Stevenson's ideas with regard to dress were distinctly novel. "He wore," says a fellow-member of the Saville Club, "a black flannel shirt, with a curious knitted tie twisted in a knot; he had Wellington boots, rather tight dark trousers, a pea-jacket, and a white sombrero hat. But the most astonishing item of all in his costume was a lady's sealskin cape, which he wore about his shoulders, fastened at the neck by a fancy brooch, which also held together a bunch of half a dozen daffodils."

THE BURDENS OF AGE

The kidneys seem to be about the first organs to wear out and fail to properly perform their work. The result is weak, lame, aching back, rheumatic pains and failing eyesight. Many people of advanced years have recovered health and comfort by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They ensure the healthful action of liver, kidneys and bowels.

Some Famous Pearls.

The discovery of some remarkably fine cave pearls at Matlock reminds us that there was a day when Britain was famous for its pearls. A breastplate studded with them was dedicated to Venus by Caesar. As early as 1355, too, Scotch pearls were well-known in Paris, and in the reign of Charles II. the Scotch pearl trade was flourishing. Even as late as 1865 Scotland produced pearls to the value of $60,000.

Within the Law.

An old Scotchman was a witness in a "Scott Act" case in Nova Scotia, and admitted that he had purchased liquor from the accused.

"Did you have a doctor's prescription for the liquor?" he was asked.

"Of course," was the indignant reply, "when I get drunk I want you to understand that I do it according to law." — Saturday Night.

ELEPHANTS USEFUL IN INDIA.

Children Are Taken Care of by Them —Children In Trunks.

In India it is not an uncommon thing for the children of a mahout—the keeper of one or more elephants—to be cared for by his animals. Instances are not wanting, of a mother's systematic placing of her baby in an elephant's care and within reach of its trunk while the mother herself goes to fetch water or to get wood or materials to cook the family meal.

It is pointed out that no jackal or wolf would be likely to pick up and carry off a baby which was thus confided to the care of an elephant. Most people who have lived in the jungle know how very possible it is for an animal of the first class to carry off a baby when it is lying in a hut or when the mother is unprovided with means to fight off the marauder.

Children brought up in the companionship of an elephant become ridiculously familiar with the big pachyderm and take all manner of liberties with him, liberties which the elephant seems to endure on the principle that they do not annoy him while they amuse the child.

One may see, it is averred, a little native child, quite naked, about two feet high, standing on an elephant's bare back and taking it down to the water to bathe, vociferating all the while in most unbecoming terms of native abuse.

On arriving at the water the elephant ostensibly in obedience to the child's command, lies down and enjoys himself, leaving just a portion of his body, like a small island, above the water. Upon this part of the elephant the child will stand and shout, yelling all the more if he has several companions of his own age also in charge of elephants, all wallowing in the water around him. If the child should slip off his island the elephant's trunk immediately replaces him in safety.

These urchins, when they grow up, become assistants to the mahouts, and in time eventually attain the dignity of becoming mahouts themselves.

Simple Pleasures.

To become again more joyous, more childlike, more naive than we are, to look into the world with clear eyes and to consign to the devil the problematical chimeras behind which only too often hides the unclean turmoil of the market place, chimeras which have made us unhappy, slavish and uncertain—that would do us all good.—Boston Transcript.

Decorate Spurgeon's Church.

Spurgeon's, famous tabernacle in London is to be closed for redecoration, but it is still to remain unique among London churches, inasmuch as its people refuse to have an organ, preferring that the singing should be led by a "precentor," after the old-fashioned Scottish style. This prejudice is a legacy from Mr. Spurgeon himself, who, though able "to smoke a cigar to the glory of God," did not think that an organist could play his instrument to similar purpose. When speaking on one occasion at a meeting to celebrate the installation of an organ in a brother minister's church, the great preacher listened to an exhibition of the instrument's power, then remarked, "Yes, it praises its maker very well."

His Own Medicine.

"If you marry him," said her papa, who was exhibiting symptoms of violent displeasure, "I will not only have to support him, but I will have to pay his debts too."

But the pretty girl and petulant young thing who was hanging to his coat lapels was not moved by the argument.

"Now, papa," she said, "you know well enough that Fred has to live just the same as other men, and as to his debts, I've heard you say hundreds of times that a man's debts ought to be paid."—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

What He Wanted.

There are times when the ingenuity of even a floorwalker is taxed to the limit. The floorwalker, understand, is supposed to be a general intelligence office in a departmental store. If the store keeps any article, he is supposed to be able to tell the prospective customer at what counter the article may be purchased, and just how to find that counter.

The other day a man, evidently just over from the tight little isle, walked up to a floorwalker in a New York store.

"I beg your pardon," he said, "but where can I find the raisers?"

"The cutlery department is in the basement," replied the floorwalker, and gave directions for finding the stairs.

"Oh, but I don't want the cutlery department. I want—"

"Well, come to think of it, the safety razors are in the men's furnishing department this week," said the floorwalker, who then told how to get to that department.

The Englishman was flustered. "I want to find the raisers."

"And I'm trying to tell you where to find them."

"But I mean raisers," insisted the Englishman.

"Exactly. I understand you; you want a razor."

"Not to shave with," said the customer, "but to go up in."

"Elevator?" asked the floorwalker. The Englishman breathed easy. "Yes, that's it. I knew you didn't call them lifts, as we do, and I thought I'd make myself plain."

Then he received directions as to how to get to the elevator.

Couldn't Be Fooled.

One night, when Mr. Arnold was going home, he saw a man in a very deep state of intoxication who was shouting and kicking most vigorously at a lamp-post.

"What's the matter, my man?" queried Mr. Arnold, of the energetic one.

"Oh, nothin', mister," replied the other. "Never min'. Thash all right. I know she's home all right, so she can't fool me much. I shee a light up shtairs."

The Spender.

At Christmas the millionaire filled his pockets with bills. To the postman, janitor, hallboy, barber, and waiter, each and all he gave a ten-spot.

"Ha, ha!" he chuckled, "I'm the guy who put the X in Xmas!"

The Angel Child.

Little Louis was a solemn-eyed, spiritual-looking child. One morning he came to his aunt, who was visiting the family, and asked:

"Auntie, is this God's day?"

"No dearie," replied the aunt; "this is not Sunday. It is Wednesday."

"I'm so sorry," said the boy sadly, as he went back to his play.

Each succeeding day he asked the same question of the aunt in his serious manner, and she said to his mother:

"Really, I don't think that child will live long. He is too good for this world."

When Sunday morning came the question was repeated, and the aunt replied:

"Yes, my darling; this is God's day."

"Oh, goodie!" cried the boy. "Then where is the funny paper?"

Not Properly Equipped.

Little Gardner, whose big brother had been presented with a bicycle, asked his mother if he could not have one, too.

"You're not old enough," she replied, "but I will buy you a velocipede."

"I can't use a velocipede on these rough roads," he exclaimed.

"The motor cars use the rough roads every day."

The youngster thought for a moment, then with a look of scorn remarked:

"Do you think I am filled with gasoline?"

Unduly Worried.

A farmer came into town recently and went to the best hotel. The only unoccupied room was one with a private bath and it was given to the rural guest.

The following morning, when the guest came to the desk, the clerk said:

"Well, Sir, did you have a good night's rest?"

"No, I didn't," replied the farmer. "The room was good and the bed was all right, but I couldn't sleep very much."

"Indeed!" said the clerk. "Why, was that?"

"Well," replied the other, "you see, I was afraid some one would want to take a bath, and the only door to it was thru my room."

Might Have Been.

Mr. Lang was a bachelor and was invited to dine with a friend on Thanksgiving.

"Ah," sighed the guest, "how I wish I could sit down to a Thanksgiving dinner with one of those turkeys we raised on the farm, when I was a boy, as the central figure!"

"Oh, well," replied the host, "you never can tell, you know, Lang. This may be one of them."

"Mummie, do lions go to heaven?"

"No, Dicky."

"Do missionaries?"

"Yes, of course."

"Well, what happens when a lion eats a missionary?"

Welcomed.

"I'll have to arrest you," said the policeman.

The man who was having trouble with his wife threw both arms around the officer and exclaimed:

"This isn't any arrest. This is a rescue."

What We May Come To.

"Why did you leave your last place?" a lady asked an applicant for the post of parlor-maid.

"Shure, mum," the applicant replied, "I left because they insisted on me usin' the old-fashioned biplane, with niver a chance at the smart new French monoplane that's all the go now."

Youth.

An old man said to a youth:

"My boy, when I was your age, I thought like you, that I knew it all; but now I have reached the conclusion that I know nothing."

The youth, lighting a cigaret, answered carelessly:

"H'm! I reached that conclusion about you years ago."

How the Horse Won.

A few days after the new farmer had purchased a horse from a thrifty Scot he returned in an angry mood. "You told me this horse had won half a dozen matches against some of the best horses in the country. He can't trot a mile in six minutes to save himself. You lied to me!" he denounced. "I didna lie. It was in ploughing matches he took sax prizes," calmly replied Sandy.

Judging From Appearances.

When Shimmerpate gave his little son, Sammie, a drawing book the latter gazed intently at the pictures of arms, legs, feet and heads on one of the pages.

"What do you think of it, son?" asked Shimmerpate.

"My word, father," replied Sammie, "it must have been an awful explosion."

ADVICE TO THIRSTY YOUNG MEN.

Don't leave your dog outside to be recognised by the lady for whose sake you have sworn off

The lady's young daughter, at the Christmas party, was made to sit down and electrify the assembled guests with her new piece.

"Now tell me, Herr——," said the fussy mother to the great artist, when her daughter had finished, "what do you think of my daughter's execution?"

"Madame," he replied, deliberately, "I think it would be a capital idea."

Guest (departing from Christmas party): "We've had a simply delightful time!"

Hostess: "I'm so glad. At the same time, I regret that the storm kept all of our best people away."

"Ah, yes," murmured Miss Screecher, after the first selection at the concert. "I have had some very exciting experiences. Coming over here from Paris, a terrible storm arose, and I had to sing to quiet the passengers. You should have seen the heavy seas running."

And the big, rude man in the pink necktie gazed out of the window.

"I don't blame the sea," he muttered.

"I'm going to have a fine time at Christmas," said one sprightly young lady to another. "Mr. Huggins is coming to our party, and he is color-blind, you know."

"Does his color-blindness add to your enjoyment?" asked her friend.

"Rather!" was the reply. "He thinks all the holly-berries are mistletoe!"

A little boy of five was invited to a children's party. The next day he was giving an account of the fun, and said that each of the little visitors had contributed either a song, a recitation, or music for the pleasure of the rest.

"Oh, poor little Jack!" said his mother. "How very unfortunate you could do nothing!"

"Yes, I could, mother," replied the young hopeful. "I stood up and said my prayers!"

A Thoughtful Parent.

He: "I have your permission to call this evening?"

She: "I shall be very pleased; but don't forget that father switches off the light at ten o'clock."

He: "That's kind of him. I'll be there promptly at ten."

Mr. J. L. Toole had a great antipathy to street music of any kind. About this there is a story told of him. The waits, one Christmas evening, played under his windows, greatly to his annoyance, and on boxing day they paid him a visit.

"We played under your window last night," said the spokesman of the party, when they were shown to his presence.

"Well, and what do you want?" quoth the comedian.

"We've come for our little gratuity."

"Come for a gratuity, have you?" exclaimed Mr. Toole. "Bless me! I thought you had come to apologise!"

"Oh, Mr. Flipperley," she exclaimed, soulfully, "have you ever felt a dim, uneasy sense of oppression as if the mere weight of life were a burden too heavy to be borne by the chained spirit panting with psychic longing to be free?"

"I invariably have such a feeling at Christmas-time," was the callous response; "but hitherto I have attributed it to pudding!"

A gentleman, rushing from his dining-room into the hall and sniffing disgustedly, demanded of Jeames, the footman, whence arose the outrageous odor that was pervading the whole house. To which Jeames replied:

"You see, sir, today's a saint's day, and the butler, 'e's 'igh church, and is burning hincense, and the cook, she's low church, and is burning brown paper to hobviate the hincense."

While traveling on a steamboat, a notorious card-sharper, who wished to get into the good graces of a clergyman who was on board, said to the reverend gentleman:

"I should very much like to hear one of your sermons, sir."

"Well," replied the clergyman, "you could have heard me last Sunday if you had been where you should have been."

"Where was that, then?"

"In the county jail," was the answer.

The story is told of a gentleman who, when he takes a glass of wine, always shuts his eyes as he lifts his glass to his lips. One day someone asked the veteran why he always shut his eyes in the way mentioned.

"Well," he said, "I am afraid if I looked at it my mouth would water and dilute the liquor."

Only a fool makes a mistake without learning something.

Where Brains Show.

"Why do you consider women superior to men in intelligence?"

"A bald-headed man buys hair restorer by the quart, doesn't he?"

"Er—yes."

"Well, a woman doesn't waste time on hair restorer; she buys hair."

Before His Time.

A reporter was interviewing Thomas A. Edison.

"And you, sir," he said to the inventor, "made the first talking machine?"

"No," Mr. Edison replied, "the first one was made long before my time—out of a rib."

Little six-year-old Harry was asked by his Sunday-school teacher:

"And, Harry, what are you going to give your darling little brother for Christmas this year?"

"I dunno," said Harry. "I gave him the measles last year."

"And what is the diplomatic corps?"

"The diplomatic corps," replied the one who takes a pun seriously, "is what the weaker nation is permitted to receive after the stronger one gets thru eating the apple."

A Little Conversation.

The workman was engaged in excavating operations, i. e., he was digging.

The wayfarer of the inquisitive turn of mind stopped for a moment to look on.

"My man," said the wayfarer at length, "what are you digging for?"

The workman looked up.

"Money," he replied.

"Money!" ejaculated the amazed wayfarer. "And when do you expect to strike it?"

"Saturday," replied the workman, and resumed operations.

An Expensive Affair.

Youth: "What do I have to pay for a marriage license?"

Facetious Clerk: "Well, you get it on the instalment plan."

Youth: "How's that?"

Facetious Clerk: "Ten shillings down and your entire salary each week for the rest of your life."

Thief (soliloquizing): "This is a fine fat turkey, and there's more where it came from, too."

Village Constable (from a shadow): "And where did it come from?"

Thief: "Er—mum—from an egg, of course; from an egg."

Didn't Matter.

Dick heard of Harry's engagement, and went round to congratulate him.

"Well, old boy," cried Dick, as he grasped his friend's hand, "my congratulations! It it true that you are engaged to one of the pretty Robbins twins?"

"Yes," replied Harry heartily, "I am happy to say it is."

"But," inquired Dick, "how do you ever tell them apart?"

"I don't try to," was the reply.

Mutual Joy.

"Were you glad to get back to school and see your dear teacher?"

"Well," replied the very observant boy, "I expect I was just about as glad as dear teacher was to get back and see me."

"The manager, you say, gave your part in the piece to another member of the company. Admitted. But you can't sue him for that!"

"Can't I? He took my character away, didn't he?"

The Pup (gaily advancing to the attack): I'm a devil for cats!

Take care of the pennies, and as for the dollars—well, some kind friend will take care of them for you.

The people who are always looking for trouble are mightily surprised when they stack up against a fellow who is willing to accommodate them.

Faith is largely an ability to believe things we suspect are not true.

"Well little boy, do you want to buy some candy?"

"Sure I do, but I gotta buy soap.

"Speed up a little, Jim. He's gaining on us."

All He Had.

A medical student was talking to a surgeon about a case.

"What did you operate on the man for?" the student asked.

"Two hundred pounds," replied the surgeon.

"Yes, I know," said the student. "I mean, what did the man have?"

"Two hundred pounds," replied the surgeon.

Hint To Uncle.

Miss Mary Garden, at a luncheon in Chicago, said, apropos of Christmas:

"To secure nice Christmas presents there's nothing like a delicate hint or two.

"I knew a Philadelphia girl whose uncle, having grown rich from a western mine, proposed to visit her at Christmas for the first time in seventeen years. She wrote to the old gentleman:

"'It will be glorious to see you again, dear uncle. I will meet you at Broad Street Station on your arrival at Christmas Eve. But I might not recognize you after all these years, and so I think it would be best for you to hold, for purposes of identification, a long string of pearls in the left hand, and a bit of fur—such as an ermine-lined sable stole, for example—in the right.'"

Some women wear well and some wear off.

After a somewhat hilarious Christmas Day a man called up his son before it was light and told him to go and harness the donkey. The young man obeyed, but did not take a light with him. It so happened that the night before had been very frosty, and an old cow had strayed into the stable and driven the donkey out. Thinking the young man a long time absent, the father went to ascertain the cause of the delay.

"Jack, what are you doing?" he called when he found the stable in darkness.

"Why, I can't get the collar over the donkey's head," replied Jack. "His ears are frozen!"

In an account of a social gathering a reporter described one of the lady guests, who was of exceptional stature, as possessing a form "that Juno might envy." The next morning, however, he read in the paper that the lady possessed a form "that Jumbo might envy!"

New Governess: "Now, Tommy, sit up and tell me what are weights and measures."

Tommy: "Please, Miss Jones, waits are people who come howling outside at Christmas-time, and measures are what papa says he will take to stop 'em."

"I'm so worried about the Christmas present I sent to Aunt Sarah," said she. "It only cost two shillings and I'm afraid I left the price mark on the thing when I sent it."

"I'm worried, too," answered her friend. "I got one that cost ten pounds for my uncle, and I'm afraid I didn't leave the price mark on it."

First Little Boy: "We've put the chest of drawers in front of the fireplace."

Second Little Boy: "Yes."

First Little Boy: "You tied the string to the handle of the door?"

Second Little Boy: "Yes, and I tied the other end of the string to the water-jug."

First Little Boy: "Then we ought to find out the real facts about Santa Claus."

An old nigger had been in trouble for stealing chickens, and was convicted on circumstantial evidence.

"What's circumstantial evidence?" he was asked.

"Well," he said, "as near as I kin splain it, I'm de way it has been splained to me, circumstantial evidence is de feathers dat you leaves lyin' around after you has done with de chicken."

It takes many a man an hour to tell his troubles that he could get rid of in ten minutes.

It is possible for a man to have too many friends, but it takes him a long time to realize it.

The Pup—I do believe he is trying to bite her!

At the annual dinner of the Farmers' Club the committee had a table set apart for their use at one end of the room. When the signal was given to commence, the carver, before whom was a large turkey, asked the waiter to inquire of each guest what portion he would like before he started carving.

Each one professed a desire to have a leg, and on this being told to the carver, he was somewhat confused; but, rising, he exclaimed:

"Gentlemen, I should like to oblige you all, but this is a turkey I'm carving, not a blessed spider."

Sir Robert Ball, the famous astronomer, who has just died, was rather fond of telling the story of a correspondent who wrote to him saying that, altho he was a grocer's assistant, his great ambition was to become an astronomer. But he got his ideas somewhat mixed, for this was one of his sentences: "My mind finds no rest for the sole of her foot save on one of the heavenly bodies."

Don't give yourself away if you have any idea that the world takes a man at his own valuation.

Any lawyer will tell you that some people won't take advice even when they pay for it.

Extremes meet, but they don't always speak as they pass by.

An American millionaire was bringing his beautiful young wife to Europe in order to have her portrait painted.

"But why don't you try home talent?" a friend asked him.

"Oh," he answered, "we've tried home talent in vain! Now we're going over to see what the genuine old masters can do!"

Actor: "What, back so soon? Didn't the play take?"

Actress: "Yes, the play took; the manager took the receipts, the bailiffs took the scenery, the landlord took the trunks, and the author took to drink!"

A man tries to live up to his ideals almost as hard as a woman tries to live up to her photographs.

To flatter a woman, talk about the hearts she has broken.

Seasonable Dialog.

The shades of the goose and turkey were discussing the circumstances which had attended their respective deaths.

"Did you offer any objection when first the cruel farmer laid hands on you?" sympathetically inquired the gobbler.

"Yes," replied his gooseship; "I cried out, 'Haiioa! what's this?'"

"What did you say next?" inquired the now thoroly interested turkey, as the other paused for a moment.

"Oh," the goose replied, "I did not say anything more just then; I was wrung off."

Lots of people could help more by not saying so much.

Too many of us regard a true friend as one who won't hold us to-morrow for things we say today.

ANYTHING TO ORLIGE.

Mistress (engaging new maid): "And have you any followers?"
Maid: "No, mum. But I could easily get some."

THE PROMISE—WITHOUT PREJUDICE.

Young Scottish Emigrant (to his sweetheart): "What are ye standin' there cryin' for, am I no comin' back frae Canada tae marry ye?—I think—mebbe."

The other day a man, evidently just over from the tight little isle, walked up to a floorwalker in a New York store.

"I beg your pardon," he said, "but where can I find the raisers?"

"The cutlery department is in the basement," replied the floorwalker, and gave directions for finding the stairs.

"Oh, but I don't want the cutlery department. I want—"

"Well, come to think of it, the safety razors are in the men's furnishing department this week," said the floorwalker, who then told how to get to that department.

The Englishman was flustered. "I want to find the raisers."

"And I'm trying to tell you where to find them."

"But I mean raisers," insisted the Englishman.

"Exactly. I understand you; you want a razor."

"Not to shave with," said the customer, "but to go up in."

"Elevator?" asked the floorwalker.

The Englishman breathed easy. "Yes, that's it. I knew you didn't call them lifts, as we do, and I thought I'd make myself plain."

Then he received directions as to how to get to the elevator.

Couldn't Be Fooled.

One night, when Mr. Arnold was going home, he saw a man in a very deep state of intoxication who was shouting and kicking most vigorously at a lamp-post.

"What's the matter, my man?" queried Mr. Arnold, of the energetic one.

"Oh, nothin', mister," replied the other. "Never min'. Thash all right. I know she's home all right, so she can't fool me much. I shee a light up shtairs."

The Spender.

At Christmas the millionaire filled his pockets with bills. To the postman, janitor, hallboy, barber, and waiter, each and all, he gave a ten-spot.

"Ha, ha!" he chuckled, "I'm the guy who put the X in Xmas!"

The Angel Child.

Little Louis was a solemn-eyed, spiritual-looking child. One morning he came to his aunt, who was visiting the family, and asked:

"Auntie, is this God's day?"

"No dearie," replied the aunt; "this is not Sunday. It is Wednesday."

"I'm so sorry," said the boy sadly, as he went back to his play.

Each succeeding day he asked the same question of the aunt in his serious manner, and she said to his mother:

"Really, I don't think that child will live long. He is too good for this world."

When Sunday morning came the question was repeated, and the aunt replied:

"Yes, my darling; this is God's day."

"Oh, goodie!" cried the boy. "Then where is the funny paper?"

Not Properly Equipped.

Little Gardner, whose big brother had been presented with a bicycle, asked his mother if he could not have one, too.

"You're not old enough," she replied, "but I will buy you a velocipede."

"I can't use a velocipede on these rough roads," he exclaimed.

"The motor cars use the rough roads every day."

The youngster thought for a moment, then with a look of scorn remarked:

"Do you think I am filled with gasoline?"

Unduly Worried.

A farmer came into town recently and went to the best hotel. The only unoccupied room was one with a private bath and it was given to the rural guest.

The following morning, when the guest came to the desk, the clerk said:

"Well, Sir, did you have a good night's rest?"

"No, I didn't," replied the farmer. "The room was good and the bed was all right, but I couldn't sleep very much."

"Indeed!" said the clerk. "Why, was that?"

"Well," replied the other, "you see, I was afraid some one would want to take a bath, and the only door to it was thru my room."

Might Have Been.

Mr. Lang was a bachelor and was invited to dine with a friend on Thanksgiving.

"Ah," sighed the guest, "how I wish I could sit down to a Thanksgiving dinner with one of those turkeys we raised on the farm, when I was a boy, as the central figure!"

"Oh, well," replied the host, "you never can tell, you know, Lang. This may be one of them."

"Mummie, do lions go to heaven?"

"No, Dicky."

"Do missionaries?"

"Yes, of course."

"Well, what happens when a lion eats a missionary?"

Welcomed.

"I'll have to arrest you," said the policeman.

The man who was having trouble with his wife threw both arms around the officer and exclaimed:

"This isn't any arrest. This is a rescue."

What We May Come To.

"Why did you leave your last place?" a lady asked an applicant for the post of parlor-maid.

"Shure mum," the applicant replied, "I left because they insisted on me usin' the old-fashioned biplane, with niver a chance at the smart new French monoplane that's all the go now."

Youth.

An old man said to a youth:

"My boy, when I was your age, I thought, like you, that I knew it all; but now I have reached the conclusion that I know nothing."

The youth, lighting a cigaret, answered carelessly:

"H'm! I reached that conclusion about you years ago."

How the Horse Won.

A few days after the new farmer had purchased a horse from a thrifty Scot he returned in an angry mood. "You told me this horse had won half a dozen matches against some of the best horses in the country. He can't trot a mile in six minutes to save himself. You lied to me!" he denounced. "I didna lie. It was in ploughing matches he took sax prizes," calmly replied Sandy.

Judging From Appearances.

When Shimmerpate gave his little son, Sammie, a drawing book the latter gazed intently at the pictures of arms, legs, feet and heads on one of the pages.

"What do you think of it, son?" asked Shimmerpate.

"My word, father," replied Sammie, "it must have been an awful explosion."

ADVICE TO THIRSTY YOUNG MEN.
Don't leave your dog outside to be recognized by the lady for whose sake you have sworn off

The lady's young daughter, at the Christmas party, was made to sit down and electrify the assembled guests with her new piece.

"Now tell me, Herr——," said the fussy mother to the great artist, when her daughter had finished, "what do you think of my daughter's execution?"

"Madame," he replied, deliberately, "I think it would be a capital idea."

Guest (departing from Christmas party): "We've had a simply delightful time!"

Hostess: "I'm so glad. At the same time, I regret that the storm kept all of our best people away."

"Speed up a little, Jim. He's gaining on us."

All He Had.

A medical student was talking to a surgeon about a case.

"What did you operate on the man for?" the student asked.

"Two hundred pounds," replied the surgeon.

"Yes, I know," said the student. "I mean, what did the man have?"

"Two hundred pounds," replied the surgeon.

Hint To Uncle.

Miss Mary Garden, at a luncheon in Chicago, said, apropos of Christmas:

"To secure nice Christmas presents there's nothing like a delicate hint or two.

"I knew a Philadelphia girl whose uncle, having grown rich from a western mine, proposed to visit her at Christmas for the first time in seventeen years. She wrote to the old gentleman:

"'It will be glorious to see you again, dear uncle. I will meet you at Broad Street Station on your arrival at Christmas Eve. But I might not recognize you after all these years, and so I think it would be best for you to hold, for purposes of identification, a long string of pearls in the left hand, and a bit of fur—such as an ermine-lined sable stole, for example—in the right.'"

Some women wear well and some wear off.

After a somewhat hilarious Christmas Day a man called up his son before it was light and told him to go and harness the donkey. The young man obeyed, but did not take a light with him. It so happened that the night before had been very frosty, and an old cow had strayed into the stable and driven the donkey out. Thinking the young man a long time absent, the father went to ascertain the cause of the delay.

"Jack, what are you doing?" he called when he found the stable in darkness.

"Why, I can't get the collar over the donkey's head," replied Jack. "His ears are frozen!"

In an account of a social gathering a reporter described one of the lady guests, who was of exceptional stature, as "possessing a form "that Juno might envy." The next morning, however, he read in the paper that the lady possessed a form "that Jumbo might envy!"

New Governess: "Now, Tommy, sit up and tell me what are weights and measures."

Tommy: "Please, Miss Jones, waits are people who come howling outside at Christmas-time, and measures are what papa says he will take to stop 'em."

"I'm so worried about the Christmas present I sent to Aunt Sarah," said she. "It only cost two shillings and I'm afraid I left the price mark on the thing when I sent it."

"I'm worried, too," answered her friend. "I got one that cost ten pounds for my uncle, and I'm afraid I didn't leave the price mark on it."

First Little Boy: "We've put the chest of drawers in front of the fireplace."

Second Little Boy: "Yes."

First Little Boy: "You tied the string to the handle of the door?"

Second Little Boy: "Yes, and I tied the other end of the string to the water-jug."

First Little Boy: "Then we ought to find out the real facts about Santa Claus."

An old nigger had been in trouble for stealing chickens, and was convicted on circumstantial evidence.

"What's circumstantial evidence?" he was asked.

"Well," he said, "as near as I kin splain it, fum de way it has been splained to me, circumstantial evidence is de feathers dat you leaves lyin' around after you has done with de chicken."

It takes many a man an hour to tell his troubles that he could get rid of in ten minutes.

It is possible for a man to have too many friends, but it takes him a long time to realize it.

"Ah, yes," murmured Miss Screecher, after the first selection at the concert. "I have had some very exciting experiences. Coming over here from Paris, a terrible storm arose, and I had to sing to quiet the passengers. You should have seen the heavy seas running."

And the big rude man in the pink necktie gazed out of the window.

"I don't blame the sea," he muttered.

"I'm going to have a fine time at Christmas," said one sprightly young lady to another. "Mr. Huggins is coming to our party, and he is color-blind, you know."

"Does his color-blindness add to your enjoyment?" asked her friend.

"Rather!" was the reply. "He thinks all the holly-berries are mistletoe!"

A little boy of five was invited to a children's party. The next day he was giving an account of the fun, and said that each of the little visitors had contributed either a song, a recitation, or music for the pleasure of the rest.

"Oh, poor little Jack!" said his mother. "How very unfortunate you could do nothing!"

"Yes, I could, mother," replied the young hopeful. "I stood up and said my prayers!"

A Thoughtful Parent.

He: "I have your permission to call this evening?"

She: "I shall be very pleased; but don't forget that father switches off the light at ten o'clock."

He: "That's kind of him. I'll be there promptly at ten."

The Pup—I do believe he is trying to bite her!

At the annual dinner of the Farmers' Club the committee had a table set apart for their use at one end of the room. When the signal was given to commence, the carver, before whom was a large turkey, asked the waiter to inquire of each guest what portion he would like before he started carving.

Each one professed a desire to have a leg, and on this being told to the carver, he was somewhat confused; but, rising, he exclaimed:

"Gentlemen, I should like to oblige you all, but this is a turkey I'm carving, not a blessed spider."

Sir Robert Ball, the famous astronomer, who has just died, was rather fond of telling the story of a correspondent who wrote to him saying that, altho he was a grocer's assistant, his great ambition was to become an astronomer. But he got his ideas somewhat mixed, for this was one of his sentences: "My mind finds no rest for the sole of her foot save on one of the heavenly bodies."

Don't give yourself away if you have any idea that the world takes a man at his own valuation.

Any lawyer will tell you that some people won't take advice even when they pay for it.

Extremes meet, but they don't always speak as they pass by.

Where Brains Show.

"Why do you consider women superior to men in intelligence?"

"A bald-headed man buys hair restorer by the quart, doesn't he?"

"Er—yes."

"Well, a woman doesn't waste time on hair restorer; she buys hair."

Before His Time.

A reporter was interviewing Thomas A. Edison.

"And you, sir," he said to the inventor, "made the first talking machine?"

"No," Mr. Edison replied, "the first one was made long before my time—out of a rib."

Little six-year-old Harry was asked by his Sunday-school teacher:

"And, Harry, what are you going to give your darling little brother for Christmas this year?"

"I dunno," said Harry. "I gave him the measles last year."

"And what is the diplomatic corps?"

"The diplomatic corps," replied the one who takes a pun seriously, "is what the weaker nation is permitted to receive after the stronger one gets thru eating the apple."

A Little Conversation.

The workman was engaged in excavating operations, i. e., he was digging.

The wayfarer of the inquisitive turn of mind stopped for a moment to look on.

"My man," said the wayfarer at length, "what are you digging for?"

The workman looked up.

"Money," he replied.

"Money!" ejaculated the amazed wayfarer. "And when do you expect to strike it?"

"Saturday," replied the workman, and resumed operations.

An Expensive Affair.

Youth: "What do I have to pay for a marriage license?"

Facetious Clerk: "Well, you get it on the instalment plan."

Youth: "How's that?"

Facetious Clerk: "Ten shillings down and your entire salary each week for the rest of your life."

Thief (soliloquizing): "This is a fine fat turkey, and there's more where it came from, too."

Village Constable (from a shadow): "And where did it come from?"

Thief: "Er—mum—from an egg, of course; from an egg."

Didn't Matter.

Dick heard of Harry's engagement, and went round to congratulate him.

"Well, old boy," cried Dick, as he grasped his friend's hand, "my congratulations! Is it true that you are engaged to one of the pretty Robbins twins?"

"Yes," replied Harry heartily, "I am happy to say it is."

"But," inquired Dick, "how do you ever tell them apart?"

"I don't try to," was the reply.

Mutual Joy.

"Were you glad to get back to school and see your dear teacher?"

"Well," replied the very observant boy, "I expect I was just about as glad as dear teacher was to get back and see me."

"The manager, you say, gave your part in the piece to another member of the company. Admitted. But you can't sue him for that!"

"Can't I? He took my character away, didn't he?"

The Pup (gaily advancing to the attack): I'm a devil for cats!

Take care of the pennies, and as for the dollars—well, some kind friend will take care of them for you.

The people who are always looking for trouble are mightily surprised when they stack up against a fellow who is willing to accommodate them.

Faith is largely an ability to believe things we suspect are not true.

"Well little boy, do you want to buy some candy?"
"Sure I do, but I gotta buy soap.

An American millionaire was bringing his beautiful young wife to Europe in order to have her portrait painted.

"But why don't you try home talent?" a friend asked him.

"Oh," he answered, "we've tried home talent in vain! Now we're going over to see what the genuine old masters can do!"

Actor: "What, back so soon? Didn't the play take?"

Actress: "Yes, the play took; the manager took the receipts, the bailiffs took the scenery, the landlord took the trunks, and the author took to drink!"

A man tries to live up to his ideals almost as hard as a woman tries to live up to her photographs.

To flatter a woman, talk about the hearts she has broken.

Seasonable Dialog.

The shades of the goose and turkey were discussing the circumstances which had attended their respective deaths.

"Did you offer any objection when first the cruel farmer laid hands on you?" sympathetically inquired the gobbler.

"Yes," replied his gooseship; "I cried out, 'Hailcs! what's this?'"

"What did you say next?" inquired the now thoroly interested turkey, as the other paused for a moment.

"Oh," the goose replied, "I did not say anything more just then; I was wrung off."

Lots of people could help more by not saying so much.

Too many of us regard a true friend as one who won't hold us to-morrow for things we say today.

ANYTHING TO OBLIGE.
Mistress (engaging new maid): "And have you any followers?"
Maid: "No, mum. But I could easily get some."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Stolen Portemonnaie

She Forgave the Thief Twice

By LILLIAN SHARPE

A young lady sat in a waiting room at a railway station watching the clock as its hands moved slowly toward the time of departure of her train. Presently she turned to a satchel on the seat beside her, placed it on her lap, opened it and took out her portemonnaie, which she laid in the place where her satchel had been.

A young man with curly auburn hair and brown eyes was sitting at the other end of the seat and observed that the girl had forgotten to put her portemonnaie back into the satchel. He kept his eyes on her and it until suddenly a railroad official called.

"Train for Hampton!"

The young lady started, glanced at the clock, saw that the hands stood at fifteen minutes before her train time, remembered that trains are opened to travelers some time before they leave and, grasping her satchel, hurried away. Seeing the words "Ticket Office" over a window, she remembered that she had forgotten to provide herself with a ticket and, turning aside, took position at the end of a line of several persons.

"If that isn't just like a woman!" said the young man with auburn hair to himself, and, reaching for the portemonnaie, he put it in his pocket and followed her, taking position next to her in the line. When it came her turn to purchase a ticket she asked for one to Hampton, at the same time opening her satchel. First there was a quick movement of the top articles, then a plunge of the hand down into the bag, after this a convulsive stirring up of everything.

"Oh, heavens, I've been robbed!"

"Permit me to pay your fare," said the young man behind her, and, taking out his wallet, he bought a ticket for her and one for himself. Then they both made room for those behind them.

"What shall I do?" wailed the girl.

"You had better get aboard the train. You haven't time to investigate the loss of your portemonnaie, and it would probably avail nothing if you had. Was there much in it?"

"Only $7.53, four postage stamps and some samples."

"What exactness! I wish I could remember things like that. Never mind I have advanced the amount for your ticket. You haven't lost very much. Good morning." And he lifted his hat deferentially.

Now, the young man knew very well the girl would not let him go without asking his address that she might return his loan. She asked him for it, and he said that it would be more convenient for him to give it to her in the train, so the two went on. He handed her on to the car, took a seat beside her and, producing a card bearing his name, Nathaniel Meriweather, wrote his address on it and handed it to her.

"Why, you live in Hampton!" she exclaimed.

"I don't live there, but I am going there."

That he was going there was perfectly true, but when he had entered the station he had just left he had no such intention. He was going to his home, fifty miles beyond.

"But you have given your street and number there."

"That's the address of a friend."

The girl put the card in her satchel, and Mr. Meriweather took up the matter of the lost portemonnaie.

"Was any one," he asked, "near you while you were in the station?"

"No one near enough to get possession of anything that belonged to me. Now, I think of it, some one was sitting on the other end of the bench while I was waiting for the train."

"Man or woman?"

"I think it was a man."

"Did you take out your portemonnaie while he was there?"

"Yes, I did. I tired of waiting, and took out this magazine." She still held it in her hand. "To do so I was obliged to remove the portemonnaie and some other things which I laid beside me. After getting out the magazine I put them all back again into the bag."

"Are you sure you put them all back?"

"Perfectly."

"Then there can be no doubt about the matter. The man who sat beside you must have been an expert at sleight of hand and contrived to get your pocketbook away from you. I was in the station and saw a man sitting beside you."

"How careless of me! Could you identify the man?"

"I think I could."

"What was he like?"

"Well, he was not a very attractive looking person, but I wouldn't have taken him for a thief."

"Did you notice his features?"

"I noticed one feature. He was a red-headed chap."

The young lady cast a side glance at her companion's hair.

"Anything else?" she asked.

"Nothing especial. He was looking at you admiringly. I wonder that he stole from you."

A girl can't help being pleased at admiration even from a thief. The young lady instinctively put her hand to her back hair.

Not long after this, when the train was nearing Hampton, Mr. Meriweather thought it better that he should have the young girl's address; he might need the man who he declared had stolen her pocketbook and if he did it would be essential that he communicate with her. She gave him her name, Alice Deane, and her address. When Hampton was reached Mr. Meriweather handed Miss Deane off the train, and they parted. The next day the former received from the latter the amount he had expended for her ticket.

Within a week Mr. Meriweather wrote Miss Deane that he had seen the man who sat beside her in the station, had shadowed him and learned where he lived. Should he have the fellow arrested? Miss Deane replied that if Mr. Meriweather could induce the thief to return a sample of ribbon there was in the pocketbook he was welcome to the rest of the contents. The next day Mr. Meriweather rang the doorbell of Miss Deane's home and sent up his card. She came down to receive him becomingly dressed, and as she entered the room he held out the missing sample. She received it with some surprise.

"So the man who stole my portemonnaie," she said, "was he who sat beside me in the station?"

"He was."

"And he was quite willing, I suppose, to give up the sample on condition that he might keep the other things."

"Yes."

"That was very nice of him."

"Was there anything else in the portemonnaie that you especially desire?"

"No; there were only the money, a few addresses and the samples. The addresses I know, and the other samples I don't care for."

"The fellow seems quite willing to return everything except the money. He seems to have admired you."

"And yet he stole my portemonnaie!"

"You are wrong in permitting him to go free; you are encouraging vice."

"Do you really think so?"

"I do, indeed. I consider it my duty, being cognizant of his criminal act, to inform the police of it."

"And would he have to go to jail?"

She raised her eyes to Meriweather's pityingly. He would have liked to take her in his arms and confess that he was chaffing her, but that time had not yet come.

"Yes; he would have to go to jail, and that would surely make a criminal of him for life."

"Don't do it."

"How would it do for him to come to you, confess his crime, restore the other articles and throw himself on your mercy? You could tell him how wicked he had been and picture to him his end if he continued in crime. Then you could forgive him, and he might hereafter live a blameless life."

"I think that would do very nicely. It would be infinitely preferable to sending him to jail."

Mr. Meriweather left after a two hours' visit, promising to propose the plan he had suggested to the thief and ask if he would consent to make restitution and ask forgiveness. Miss Deane would be advised of the result.

A few days later Mr. Meriweather called and handed Miss Deane the money that had been lost with her portemonnaie, saying that the heart of the thief was slowly softening and he thought that if he could be taken under her influence he might yet make a man of himself. There was another two hours' chat, after which Mr. Meriweather departed, intimating that he expected the next time he came to bring the penitent with him.

Nevertheless it required several more calls, each lasting from two to three hours, before the gentleman assured the lady that the criminal was ready to confess his fault and ask forgiveness.

Meanwhile, as may be supposed, other matters than this proposed reformation engaged Mr. Meriweather and Miss Deane. In fact, one evening after a visit that was prolonged till midnight Miss Deane consented that Mr. Meriweather should go to her father to ask for her hand. The suitor, being an estimable gentleman and a good catch, received the required consent, and the couple became duly engaged.

A short time after the betrothal Mr. Meriweather announced to his fiancee that the next evening the penitent thief would call upon her to restore the remainder of the stolen property, listen to a lecture on his dishonesty and receive her forgiveness. When the appointed time came round there was a ring at the doorbell, and a man in an ulster, wearing a heavy beard and glasses, was admitted to the Deane residence. Miss Deane came down, and the stranger in a broken voice said:

"Pardon me for a miserable sinner."

He bowed his head and waited.

"I have been told that this is your first criminal act," said the girl, "and I sincerely hope that it will prove your last. You may have a sweetheart, and think how glad you will make her by your reformation. You are forgiven."

The man threw off his ulster, tore away his beard and his glasses, and her lover stood before her.

"The confession," he said, "comes after your forgiveness. You left your portemonnaie on the seat in the station, and I picked it up. I did so for an excuse to make your acquaintance and prolonged the deception to win you."

Miss Deane stood thunderstruck for a few moments, then turned and was striding indignantly out of the room when the penitent caught her around the waist and held her despite her struggles to be free till she recovered something of her calmness.

"You have forgiven me!" cried her lover. "You can't go back on it."

But she did go back on it, and it was two long days before she repeated the forgiveness spoken to the supposed thief. She does not even now, ten years after the episode, refer to it pleasantly.

TEA AS A MEDICINE.

Freshly Made and Taken in Moderation It Helps the System.

The use of tea, as opposed to its abuse or misuse, is highly beneficial to the system. There is no remedy equal to it for a tired headache. It washes out the stomach and gives it a fresh start for the next meal. A cup of tea in the early morning will often enable a better breakfast to be taken, and one in the afternoon between 4 and 5 o'clock helps to complete the digestion of the midday meal.

Furthermore, it serves a good purpose in making the blood circulate more freely and in dilating the vessels of the skin, thus assisting in the elimination of waste matter. In this respect it is much better adapted than cold drinks in hot weather, particularly for those engaged in active outdoor games, such as tennis, for it makes a more efficient thirst quencher and by flushing out the tissues helps to prevent the onset of fatigue. Have it freshly made, take it in moderation, and it will never do any harm. Especially is this the case with China tea.—From "Nervous Breakdowns."

Homer and Humbug.

I do not mind confessing that for a long time I have been very skeptical about the classics. I was myself trained as a classical scholar. It seemed the only thing to do with me. I acquired such a singular facility in handling Latin and Greek that I could take a page of either of them, distinguish which it was by glancing at it and, with the help of a dictionary and a compass, whip off a translation of it in less than three hours.

But I never got any pleasure from it. I lied about the pleasure of it. At first, perhaps I lied through vanity. Any scholar will understand the feeling. Later on I lied through habit, later still because, after all, the classics were all that I had and so I valued them. I have seen a deceived dog thus valne a pup with a broken leg and a pauper child nurse a dead doll with the sawdust out of it.—Stephen Leacock in Century.

All Alike.

Miss Agnes Repplier tells in the Atlantic a story about a New York social worker, a woman of earnest character and intelligent methods, who had worked hard to establish respectable dance halls for poor girls. The woman had delivered an address at a meeting. A young married woman of a wealthy and fashionable set inquired whether the girls for whose welfare the work was being conducted never stayed at home. "Never," replied the speaker, "and you will pardon me for saying it, neither do you."

Easy Bravery.

Jinks—From what you told me of your mother-in-law I should think you'd have heard enough from her in person, without having cared to induce her to talk into your phonograph. Filkins—Oh, you can't imagine the pleasure it gives me to start the machine going and then shut it off right in the midst of a sentence.—Puck.

To Banish Care.

"COME over and play bridge, or if you like, we'll have some music."

With a telephone in the house there is no need to become careworn. You can summon your friends for a game of bridge, or an evening's music at any time, and so do much to make life brighter and happier. It keeps you in touch with your friends.

As an aid to your wife's social life, as well as a constant help in her household duties, there is nothing to equal a residence telephone. And if an emergency arises, it is invaluable.

MARRIAGE BY FORCE.

Greenland Youths Have a Rough Way of Showing Their Love.

The courtship and marriage customs among the Greenlanders were in early times simple and unceremonious. When a lovelorn youth made up his mind as to the girl he wanted to adorn and be useful in his hut of ice or snow he went to her house and dragged her forcibly to his own domain, where she was expected to stay without any further marriage ceremony.

If an affluent bridegroom he would perhaps soothe her lacerated feeling by presenting her with a new lamp or some other article of household utility. No matter how willing and even eager the bride was to marry a young man Eskimo etiquette demanded that she should resist every attempt to drag her to her new home, and she must weep and wail bitterly once she was there, indeed, she must continue to weep and wail for some days, run to her own home, only to be dragged back again.

It is said that this extremely simple marriage ceremony is the only one still in use on the east coast of Greenland and the laws governing divorce are as informal as the laws of marriage.—London Telegraph.

Insects' Eggs.

A butterfly lays 600 eggs, the wasp 3,000 the ant 4,000 to 5,000, while one species of white ant produces 80,400 eggs in a day.

Youth Should Be Idle.

R. L. Stevenson is one of the few writers of distinction who have been bold enough to enter a plea for laziness. "It is surely beyond a doubt," he wrote, "that people should be a good deal idle in youth. For though here and there a Lord Macaulay may escape from school honors with all his wits about him, most boys pay too dear for their medals that they never afterward have a shot in their locker, and begin the world bankrupt. And the same holds true during all the time a lad is educating himself, or suffering others to educate him .... If you look back on your own education, I am sure it will not be the full, vivid, instructive hours of truantry that you regret; you would rather cancel some lack-lustre periods between sleep and waking in the class."—London Chronicle.

Takes Place of "Lines."

The idea of instituting some form of compulsory exercise in place of the old-time "lines" in school has found favor in England as well as in France. At one boys' school it is customary for the penalty for breaches of rules to be paid in so many dandelion roots, whilst in another the task resolves itself into the more arduous one of digging up thistles from the playing fields. At a large girls' school in Yorkshire one of the punishments for having things unmarked is to have to take a walk round the grounds solemnly holding the offending article—be it boot, bag or glove—in one hand.

Facts in Nature

FOR centuries it has been known that Nature's most valuable health giving agents for the cure of disease are found in our American forests. Over forty years ago Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N.Y., used the powdered extracts as well as the liquid extracts of native medicinal plants, such as Bloodroot and Queen's root, Golden Seal and Stone root, Cherry bark and Mandrake, for the cure of blood diseases. This prescription as put up in liquid form was called and has enjoyed a large sale for all these years in every drug store in the land. You can now obtain the powdered extract in sugar-coated tablet form of your medicine dealer, or send 50c in one-cent postage stamps for trial box of Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N.Y., and tablets will be mailed, postage prepaid.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" makes rich, red blood, invigorates the stomach, liver and bowels and through them the whole system. Skin affections, blotches, boils, pimples and eruptions—result of bad blood—are eradicated by this alterative extract—as thousands have testified.

Send 50 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only on a free copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, cloth bound.

ODD BIRTHDAY GIFT

Prince Oscar of Germany Received an Old Railway Ticket

Probably the oddest birthday gift on record—an old unused railroad ticket—was received by Prince Oscar, the Kaiser's fifth son, on the occasion of his twenty-fifth birthday.

The story connected with this unusual present is as follows:

A simple inhabitant of a small neighboring town was in Berlin on business, and by chance happened to be standing before the royal palace, when the salute announcing the prince's birth, was fired. The visitor, filled with patriotism, returned home. By some oversight the guard neglected to collect the ticket, which bore the date, July 27, and which was carefully preserved during the ensuing years.

The ticket was sent to the prince with an explanatory letter on his twenty-fifth anniversary. The prince accepted the simple gift in the spirit in which it was given, and sent the donor, through the adjutant, a letter of thanks, accompanied by a signed photograph.

BITTERNESS REIGNS.

Citizens and Miners in Calumet on Verge of War.

CALUMET, Mich., Dec. 31.—A tense situation has developed here with more than five hundred armed citizens walking the streets looking for an outbreak on the part of the striking copper miners. A feeling of bitterness has developed since the testimony was offered at the coroner's inquest over the deaths of 72 victims of the Christmas Eve panic that the man who shouted "Fire" in the Italian Hall wore a Citizens' Alliance badge.

The citizens have determined that the Western Federation of Miners shall be forced out of the Calumet copper district. They blame the present strike conditions and panic disaster on representatives of the miners' organizations. The miners are just as bitter against the citizens, and declare that the attitude of the business men of Calumet, Hancock and Houghton has had more to do with keeping the strike in force than the attitude of the mine owners.

Fears of reprisals are entertained by many persons in the district, and all public meeting places, including churches, where many Christmas entertainments for children and Sunday schools are being held each evening, are being closely guarded by deputy sheriffs.

All the homes of prominent merchants at Calumet, Hancock and Houghton were guarded yesterday by armed citizens. Every member of the Alliance carried a 44-calibre revolver.

None of the leaders of the Miners' Federation ventured on the streets of the three towns yesterday without an armed guard of three or four men.

President Moyer, it is understood, goes from Chicago to Denver to-day, although Judge Hilton says that Moyer will return to the copper country at once, he believes.

QUEEN MOTHER DEAD.

Swedish King's Surviving Parent Was Chronic Invalid.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 31.—Queen Mother Sophia of Sweden died here yesterday, in her 78th year. She had suffered acutely for several days, and succumbed to an attack of inflamation of the lungs.

Her Majesty had been practically an invalid for more than a quarter of a century. She was subject to melancholia, which necessitated a constant watch being kept on her by her medical attendants. She took very little part in court functions, devoting herself whenever her malady permitted it, to enterprises of a religious nature. She was a great sympathiser with the Salvation Army, whose operations in Scandinavia she followed with intense interest. At the same time she was a strong advocate of temperance.

DISPENSING LAKE FUND.

Beneficiaries of Relief Contributions Must Be Classified.

TORONTO, Dec. 31. — First steps were taken yesterday to distribute the Lakes Disaster Fund to the relatives and dependents of the sailors who perished in the fall gales on the Great Lakes. Mark H. Irish of Toronto was appointed representative of the Ontario Government.

Committees were formed to negotiate for a proper administration. Messrs. Playfair, Gildersleeve and Irish were appointed as a subcommittee with instructions to confer with the American committee and to classify the beneficiaries.

One of the important problems to arrange is whether the fund will be pooled or whether each of the committees will distribute to their own countrymen.

Germans Escaped Cannibals.

BERLIN, Dec. 31.—The escape of Dr. Deinger and Dr. Kempf, two German Government foresters, reported to have been killed by cannibals in the interior of Neumecklenburg, in the Bismarck Archipelago, was telegraphed to the Government yesterday from German New Guinea.

The cannibals killed nine of the detachment of native soldiers accompanying the officials.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 50 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

COMING TO ALBERTA.

Big Colony of German Dairy Farmers Provided For.

EDMONTON, Dec. 31.—The Dominion Government is understood to have granted 16 townships in the centre of Alberta for a German immigration project which is likely to bring the greatest and richest influx of settlers into this province that has ever been. From meagre details announced yesterday the undertaking is to mean the expenditure of millions of dollars.

Everything necessary for the settlers is to be provided. The farms they will take up will in some measure be patterned upon the ready-made farms of the Canadian Pacific Railway, but will be more complete.

The object of this immigration scheme seems to be to develop immense dairying industry by the Germans who will settle here. This will be encouraged by the actual accompaniment of $5,000,000 subscribed capital.

Dropped Dead on the Street.

TORONTO, Dec. 31.—Daniel McCarthy, late storekeeper at the Hamilton Asylum, and formerly storekeeper at the Central Prison, Toronto, dropped dead at the corner of Lansdowne avenue and Dundas street yesterday morning. It was not known who he was at the time and his body was removed to the morgue, where it was identified later in the day by his son, Herbert McCarthy.

The late Mr. McCarthy was 82 years of age and was born in Cork, Ireland. He came to Toronto about 65 years ago.

Three Escape; Two at Large.

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 31.—Three prisoners escaped from the Charles street jail early yesterday by lowering themselves from the high walls by means of a rope of tied sheets taken from their beds. Two of them, Arthur Quinlan and John J. Black, are still at liberty, and despite the heavy cordons of police thrown about the city have apparently made good their escape.

Pope In Good Health.

ROME, Dec. 31.—Pope Pius X. is in excellent health, despite reports which have been circulated to the contrary, according to a statement issued yesterday at the Vatican. The Pope spoke to a delegation of foreign diplomats yesterday, joking on his familiarity with the French language.

Shoe Factories To Close.

QUEBEC, Dec. 31.—Nineteen boot and shoe factories will close their doors to-day and over 2,000 workmen will be locked out on account of the differences between the shoemakers' unions and the John Ritchie Co. and Gals Bros.' firms.

The nineteen factories which will close to-day are paying about $35,000 in wages every week, and the retail trade in the lower part of the city will suffer a great deal from the coming conflict.

The association decided to make it a rule not to keep a workman in any boot and shoe factory without a contract. To this the unions refuse to submit.

Le Pas Is Without Snow.

OTTAWA, Dec. 31.—So little snow is there in Le Pas district that the Mounted Police patrol which leaves Le Pas every winter for Port Nelson and Fort Churchill, has been kept waiting there since Dec. 2, unable to get away. Dog trains are used for the transportation of supplies and mail. Such an experience is unusual.

Fire Proved Fatal.

MONTREAL, Dec. 31.—M. Patenaude, who was on Monday taken to the Notre Dame Hospital, suffering from nervous shock and the effects of the smoke from the fire on Ontario street, which filled his room where he was lying ill, died yesterday.

Dr. Chabot Has Blood Poisoning.

OTTAWA, Dec. 31.—Dr. J. L. Chabot, M.P. for Ottawa, is in a local hospital suffering from blood-poisoning, contracted a month ago when he scratched a finger while performing an operation. Two operations have since been performed on his arm and it is expected he will recover.

To Probe Will Mystery.

ROME, Dec. 30.—The crown prosecutor has begun an investigation into the matter of the will of the late Cardinal Rampolla. He has been enabled to take this action because of the denunciation of the testament of 1889 by relatives of the cardinal, who were excluded as beneficiaries from his will, on the ground that a later testament has been stolen or concealed.

One of the interested parties in the new move is the Duchess of Campobello, who is of the opinion that her children may be included in a later testament, the testament of 1889 antedating their birth.

Policewoman Subdues Man.

CHICAGO, Dec. 30. — Mrs. Mary Boyd, one of Chicago's ten policewomen, is not a large woman, but she is muscular. Sunday she boarded a street car while a powerfully built man and the conductor were engaged in a fight about a transfer. Mrs. Boyd showed her star and separated the men, telling the passenger he was under arrest.

When he resisted the officer she pulled him from the car, stood him against a post, and rang for the patrol wagon. Mrs. Boyd rode to the station with her prisoner and preferred a charge of disorderly conduct against him.

Child Almost Strangled

You never know what minute a child will develop a bad cold or be seized by croup. For this reason it takes a great burden off every mother's mind to have at hand Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

Mrs. E. W. Silver, South Milford, Annapolis County, N.S., writes:—"I have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for my little boy with most satisfactory results. His throat would fill up with phlegm so bad that he could scarcely make a sound, and I thought he would surely strangle. He grew worse, and had frequent bad attacks, so I began using Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. Scarcely half a bottle was used when the strangling ceased. This medicine had a wonderfully soothing effect, and when he had taken two bottles I could not tell that he had any throat trouble. We have also used Dr. Chase's Ointment with equally good results. It is a grand medicine for salt rheum."

There are imitations, but the genuine Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine bears the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author.

CHINESE TELEGRAMS

How the Myriad Characters Are Sent Over the Wires

The Chinese written language has several hundred thousand different characters. None of these can be spelled so as to indicate accurately how they are pronounced. Besides, there are hundreds of ways of pronouncing each character, as there are hundreds of spoken dialects in China, although the book language is the same throughout the country. How is it possible to send a telegram in such a country and in such a language? The difficulties have been overcome, and it is really less trouble and less expensive to send a message in Chinese than in English.

There is in every Chinese telegraph office a special dictionary, or catalogue, or code book, whatever you may choose to call it, in which the characters are numbered from one on up. A total number of 9,999 may be catalogued under the present system. A certain number of blank spaces have been reserved to add special characters from time to time. The sender of the telegram simply writes his message in the usual way. The operator will probably know the numbers of most of the characters. If not, he can readily find them in the catalogue. For each character he sends five Morse signals, e.g., 5913, 0013, 0414, which represents the characters "Yuan Shi Kai," the name of his Excellency the President of China. It will at once appear that only 10 different signals are needed for telegraphing 9,999 different characters in Chinese. By splitting up an unusual character into its common parts it may be easily sent. Private codes are readily prepared with this system.

MODERN "ANCIENT BRITONS"

Little Colonies of These People Are Found in England

Practically every Englishman is Anglo-Saxon by blood, but there are, according to scientists, one or two corners in England where there are colonies directly descended from the Ancient Britons, the blue-painted gentlemen who, according to the history books, inhabited England before the Anglo-Saxons killed them off.

They do not look like Englishmen at all. They are short, as swarthy as Spaniards, with very narrow heads, and with curiously cut profiles.

There are whole villagefuls of these modern Ancient Britons, though the villages are very few and very out of the way. It is this out-of-the-wayness that has kept them so distinct from the country people around them. Some of these villages have not even had road communication with the rest of the world till comparatively recent times. One of these curious colonies is at Dunsford, in Surrey. Bedfordshire, too, has some villages of "black men."

National Tastes in Pearls.

It is estimated by a writer in the Paris Revue that a necklace bought for $100,000 at the end of the nineteenth century might now be expected to fetch $1,000,000. With the constant increase of wealth the value of pearls is likely to continue to increase, and a good collection may be regarded as one of the most profitable of investments. The taste of different countries in the matter of pearls differs. Some of the national predilections are as follows: England—White pearls. The Argentine—Slightly colored or cream. North America—Pink. Germany—White. France—Pink or slightly cream.

IN HONOUR OF CHRISTMAS

By RUTH CAMERON

On the day after Christmas last year I met a dear old friend of mine who is the proud and adoring grandmother of six fine grandchildren.

I mention that fact about her because it describes her so completely. For her vocation, her avocation, in short her whole life nowadays consists in being a grandmother. And for the last two months she has spent every spare moment—and many she could ill spare from sleep and rest, for she is a delicate little person—in making Christmas gifts for her daughter and these wonderful children.

She is not well off in this world's goods and her gifts also represented many painful bits of self-denial. And yet I should not call them painful for all her labour and denial was sweetened and blessed by her love and by her anticipation of the children's pleasure in her gifts.

Two or three days before Christmas I saw her light in her sewing room burning long after eleven o'clock. When I asked her the next day what kept her up late she explained that she was finishing Ruth's doll. It was a wonderful creation dressed in the latest Parisian style with a beautiful evening gown and a complete set of the most elaborate lingerie. She showed it to me as it lay in state in its tissue nest; ready to be sent, with a touching delight. "I can hardly wait to hear what Ruth says when she sees that on the tree," she said. Her eyes shone and her delicate old face was beautifully lit up with her tender anticipation of another's delight.

So it happened that my first question the day after Christmas was, "And what did Ruth say when she saw her doll?"

A shadow crossed my dear old friend's face, throwing the tired lines into pathetic prominence. "I wasn't there," she answered. "They had the tree before I got there. The children were so impatient and Gertrude wanted to get things cleared up so they could get ready for the dinner party. You know we couldn't get there before eleven. I was disappointed but of course it was all right. Gertrude telephoned to ask me if I minded and I understood perfectly how it was."

All the courage with which the brave little grandmother bore her disappointment could not hide its keenness. All the forgiving love with which she defended her daughter could not quite cover the hurt. And as I listened to her I could have wept if that would have done any good.

Gertrude "married well." She has plenty of money at her command. She gives her mother handsome presents. That year she gave her an expensive set of china. A beautiful present, was it not? But in the eyes of the Lord of Christmas how much do you think it counted against that thoroughly selfish deed?

To-morrow is Christmas. It is the one day of all the year when everyone ought to be happy. Suppose you and I do our part in making our housemates so, not only by gifts but by unusual tenderness and thoughtfulness. Suppose we celebrate by making an extra effort not to speak one hasty word or do one thoughtless, tactless thing on Christmas day.

"All Christmas pleasures," someone has said, "are imperilled by the anxiety and rush of antecedent preparation, and it is high tribute to the influence of the day that so many are able to survive it without losing digestion and temper as a result of over training."

Here's hoping that you and I may be among the many who pay that worthy tribute to the Lord of Christmas.

Obvious Lesson.

"Now, little boys," said a Sunday school teacher as she beamed at the little faces before her, "what lesson can we learn from the busy bee?"

"I know," said Tommy.

"Yes, Tommy," said the kindly faced young woman, "and what is it?"

Promptly said Tommy: "Not to get stung."

EIGHT PEOPLE PERISH IN FIRE IN CROWDED N.Y. TENEMENT BUILDING

Courageous Work of Firemen and Policemen Saved Many Lives and One Hundred and Twenty Had Narrow Escapes.

FIRE EXITS BLOCKED

Special Wire to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, N.Y., Dec. 31. — Three women and five men perished early this morning in a fire which swept a five-storey brick tenement on Munroe Street, in a thickly-populated tenement district on the east side. Four other persons were seriously burned. Courageous work in the face of danger by firemen and policemen saved the lives of scores of others, and one hundred and twenty all told had narrow escapes. The fire was discovered by policemen and when the firemen arrived they found the exits and fire escapes blocked by all kinds of furniture. There will be an investigation. It was found on inspection of the ruins that the victims were suffocated in their rooms, no fire escapes being available.

ACTS WERE NOT JUST WHAT COUNCIL WANTED SAYS CITY SOLICITOR

Were Changed by Private Bills Committee of the Legislature and City Had to Take What That Body Would Give.

A REPLY TO MR. COLLIER

Peterborough, Dec. 31, 1913.

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—As Mr. W. H. Collier's letter in your issue of the 27th inst. refers to me I think I might be permitted to correct some of the statements in it, probably made through want of knowledge of the facts. He seems to assume that the Acts relating to the city's power of expropriation passed in 1912 and 1913 were passed exactly in the form the Council wished them to be in, and has forgotten or did not know that the Acts as prepared under instructions from the Council, had to pass the Private Bills Committee of the Legislature and undergo in that ordeal many changes and the city had to take what the Private Bills Committee would give, not what the Council wanted or asked. Both the Acts of 1912 and 1913 were very strenuously opposed before the Private Bills Committee not only by the companies engaged in the supply of electricity and their friends, but by many of the ratepayers who did not agree with the Council's policy and although the representatives of the Council made every effort to have the Acts put in the shape they wanted, they had to be accepted as they are now and the Council had to proceed under them, and although the Acts are not as the Council desired, it is not to be assumed that the rights of the city under the Acts are not sufficient for the purpose of acquiring the property of the Light and Power Company or that the Council is in any "tangle or muddle" as asserted by Mr. Collier. Several of Mr. Collier's other ideas, as expressed in his letter are also erroneous, but at this juncture it is not advisable to set him right through the public press.

Yours truly,

E. H. D. Hall.

RAN AWAY FROM HOUSE OF REFUGE

And Was Sentenced to Six Months in Central Prison—Man Fined $25 for Supplying Liquor to Minors

OTHER CHARGE DISMISSED

It may come as a surprise to many citizens who are positive they traversed the main thoroughfare to-day, that George Street was sent to Toronto yesterday. This undertaking was ordered by Magistrate Edmison in yesterday's session of the County police court, as George has recently run away from the House of Refuge at Lakefield.

Street was charged yesterday with vagrancy. A year or two ago he became a resident of the House of Refuge, but a short time ago he took French leave of that institution. Since that time he has been begging throughout the County, and finally landed in the toils. In court yesterday he expressed the wish that he did not want to go back to the House of Refuge, so, partly in deference to that, the Magistrate sentenced him to six months in Central Prison. Street is less than 50 years of age.

A man answering to the name of Pearson, from the north, was charged with supplying liquor to minors. He pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and costs.

In connection with the handling of the same liquor, he was charged with selling liquor contrary to the provisions of the Liquor License Act. This charge was dismissed, the Magistrate holding that he acted merely as an agent in buying the liquor. The charges were laid by License Inspector Stewart.

The Duke To Hold Levee

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Dec. 31.—His Royal Highness the Governor-General will hold his New Year levee in East Block to-morrow. It will commence at noon and continue for an hour, during which time the Duke will receive all who wish to present their New Year wishes. It is a trying ordeal for His Royal Highness, for he shakes hands with everybody, and his grip is always firm and cordial. His Royal Highness will receive the Boy Scouts prior to the levee. He will be attended on both occasions by his Cabinet Ministers. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, as a member of the Privy Council, will also be present.

NOMINATIONS AT NORWOOD

Examiner Special:

There was quite a lively time at the Town Hall on Monday night when about eight men were nominated for Reeve and a large number nominated for Councillors and school trustees. However, there will only be two of those nominated who will run for Reeve, and six for the Council. The names of these are:

For Reeve.

Mr. A. Breault.
Mr. B. Squire.

Councillors.

TO-DAY'S POLICE COURT NEWS

In this morning's Police Court, a local man was charged with stealing $180 from his partner, another Peterborough resident. Mr. G. N. Gordon conducted the prosecution for the Crown, and Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared for the defendant.

The case arose out of the defendant's selling a team of horses, owned jointly by the two men, and pocketing the money from the sale, which amounted to $360.

This morning the defendant, through his counsel, admitted that the charge was true, but offered to pay the money and costs of the case. In consideration of that the case was withdrawn, and $90.50 was paid into court by the defendant. An order was made by the court, to the effect that $180 be paid the complainant.

Louis Bourbonais, the man who has been held on the charge of attempting to cut his wife's throat with a razor, came again before Magistrate Dumble this morning. The chief asked for another remand, so that Bourbonais will come up for trial on Wednesday next.

William Graham was called upon to answer to a charge of being drunk. But he was not in condition to appear in court, so he was remanded till next year—Saturday, Jan. 3, 1914.

A North Monaghan man, who a few days ago appeared before Magistrate Dumble two mornings in succession charged with being drunk while on the blacklist, should have answered to a like charge this morning. He was not present, however, although a summons had been served upon him. A warrant was issued for his arrest, and he will likely spend New Year's Day in the cells.

CHIMES WILL RING.

The People's Chimes will be rung round about midnight to-night, and after the 10 a.m. service on New Year's Day.

the manner in which the clauses in the Municipal Act, pertaining to the use of vehicles on election day, should be interpreted. The Solicitor for the City of Toronto interprets the Act as follows: "Friends may provide vehicles to assist candidates in getting out the voters, but that no vehicles may be hired for the purpose."

ALDERMANIC CANDIDATE HAS RETIRED

James Brown Will Not Stand For Election in the west Ward

LIST OF CANDIDATES

The municipal campaign is in full swing. The last official act incident to Nomination was consumated last evening, when each and every candidate, with the exception of one, filed their declaration, and thereby signified their intention of remaining in the field. The one exception was Jas. Brown, who on Monday was nominated as an Aldermanic candidate for the representation of the West Ward. The campaign promises to be a warm one and may be featured by a public meeting.

Public interest, generally, is focused on the Mayoralty campaign. It is four years since Peterborough had a mayoralty contest, consequently the electors may have justifiable reasons for exhibiting some of their suppressed interest. For the past four years the office of Chief Magistrate has been filled by Messrs. W. G. Morrow and W. H. Bradburn, respectively, who were appointed by acclamation.

The municipal field, as it stands to-day, is as follows:

For Mayor.

G. A. Gillespie,
W. H. Buller,
J. J. Hartley.

For Aldermen.

North Ward—W. J. Johnston, W. T. Holloway.
South Ward—W. S. Robinson, J. Saunders.
East Ward—T. W. Oke, J. C. Anderson.
West Ward—J. W. Worth, J. J. Duffus.
Centre Ward—A. H. Stratton, F. H. Dobbin H. P. Morgan.

For Water Commissioners.

R. Hicks,
J. B. McWilliams.

For Board of Education.

Dr. J. E. Middleton.
W. H. Hill,
J. Crane,
Dr. George Burnham,
J. W. Miller,
C. H. Rogers,
J. H. Smith,
J. M. Greene.

In all there are twenty-four candidates, one-half of which will be elected on Monday next. One alderman is to be elected in each ward. The aldermen who retain their seats for another year are as follows:

North Ward—Ald. Wm. Langford, Jr.
South Ward—Ald. G. H. Duncan.
East Ward—Ald. J. C. Anderson.
West Ward—Ald. G. W. Green.
Centre Ward—Ald. G. N. Gordon.

Altogether there are are about fifty-five hundred electors in the city who are qualified to exercise the franchise at the municipal elections. This comprises 2497 tenants, 2650 freeholders and 31 income voters, divided as follows:

Centre Ward	861
West Ward	1322
North Ward	1322
East Ward	705
South Ward	1328
Total	5478

To the above number must be added about twenty-five additional voters who were placed on the list by the Court of Appeal.

There still exists some doubt as to

WILL CHARGE THE COMPANY FOR WOOD

Consumed at the Incinerator —Getting the Ballot Boxes Ready for the Fray on Monday

CIVIC ITEMS

The Secretary of the Central Charity Board has been instructed to send an account to the A. H. Reid Incinerator Company for three and one half cords of wood used by them at the incinerator, namely, two and one half cords at $6.25 a cord and one cord at $6.40 a cord; a total of $22.03. The wood is said to have been consumed in the course of starting the incinerator.

Have Qualified.

All the candidates that were nominated on Monday last have qualified with the exception of James Browne, aldermanic candidate for the west ward. There are nineteen in all. Three for the Mayoralty, two for the Board of Water Commissioners, eleven for the aldermanic representation of the various wards, and eight for the Board of Education.

110 Ballot Boxes.

One of the many duties incident to the municipal elections is that of preparing the ballot boxes. There are twenty-two polling sub-divisions in the City and five ballot boxes are allowed for each division, making in all one hundred and ten boxes in which the vote will be deposited on Monday.

Leave of Absence.

At a meeting of the Central Charity Board, which was held on Tuesday evening, Mr. F. W. Miller, Relief Officer, was granted leave of absence. Mr. Miller is contemplating a trip to Winnipeg.

A FINAL MESSAGE FROM ROBERT HICKS

Ladies and Gentlemen,—As it will be quite impossible for me to personally interview the whole of the electors before polling day, I take this means of soliciting your voluntary support for the important position of Water Commissioner for 1914.

Let me just add that in my mind the spirit in which the Water Commissioners in the past have sought to accomplish every problem which has confronted them, has been most exemplary, and that it will be my aim, if elected, to do my best to assist in solving every new problem of the future and to render the best public service in the interest of our rapidly growing City.

The valuation placed upon a public man in the midst of a campaign and an impartial review of his business ability, conduct, and stake in the City should enter into his fitness for office.

Your faith in me must be the strongest incentive to my usefulness, and if I am favoured with your confidence I will see to it that that faith has not been misplaced.

With best wishes of the season, I remain,

At Your Service,
ROBERT HICKS.

SIX YEARS' RECORD OF THE CITY COUNCIL

"A Burdened Taxpayer" Reviews the Situation and Says That the City's Debts and Liabilities Have Increased 225 Per Cent., the Ratepayers Annual Tax Bill Has Increased 123 Per Cent. and the City's Annual Interest Bill Has Increased 137 Per Cent., While the Population Has Only Increased 25 Per Cent. and the Cost of Street Lighting Our Down Town Section Has Increased 1444 Per Cent.—Claims There Has Been Amazing Extravagance.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—I have taken the trouble to go into the financial position of the city as thoroughly as it is possible to do, and give the following facts from the printed auditor's reports of the city, which I wish you would be good enough to have appear in your paper.

City's Debts and Liabilities.

Debenture debt on December 31, 1912	$1,562,989.34
Debentures issued during 1913	75,971.42
In addition to this money borowed and spent during 1913	76,000.00
Liability incurred in expropriating Peterbor-Light and Power Co...	600,000.00
Total debts incurred and liabilities contracted to date	$2,314,940.76

To this must be added liabilities pressingly in sight, such as sewage disposal system inited upon by the Provincial Board of Health, which will probably cost $110,000.00; new bridge across river at Dalhousie Street now before the people for their approval, $78,000.00; additional fire equipment now before the ratepayers for approval, $10,000.00; street paving completion and new lighting system for the whole city; new elevated bridge across Hunter Street, etc.

It is quite apparent that another half million dollars will be added to the city's indebtedness in a very short time.

Past Rate of Increase in Debts.

The city's debts and liabilities at the close of 1913	$2,314,940.76
The cityfs debt at the beginning of year 1908..	916,787.51
Increase in debts and liabilities in six years.	$1,398,153.25
Average annual increase in city's debts during this last six years....	$ 233,025.54

The city's debts and liabilities have increased two and a quarter times more than they were six years ago.

During this same period the population of Peterborough increased from 16,000 to 20,150, thereby showing an increase in population during this last six years of 4,150; that is to say, during this last six years our population has increased 25 per cent., and at the same time the city's debts and liabilities have increased 225 per cent., or to put it in another way, the increase in our population of 4,150 during this last six years has meant an increase in the city's debts and liabilities during this ame period of $1,398,153.25.

City' Assessment.

The assessment for the year 1913 is	$11,327,194.00
The city's assessment for the year 1907 was....	7,067,331.00
Showing an increase in the assessment of....	$ 4,259,863.00

during six years; that is to say, the city's assessment has increased 60 per cent. during this last six year, while the population has increased 25 per cent.

Ratepayers' Annual Tax Bill.

The city's taxes for the year 1913 amounts to..	$ 251,375.25
The taxes for the year 1907 were	113,192.92
Showing an increased tax bill during this last six years of	$ 138,182.33

That is to say, during this last six years the ratepayers' annual tax bill has increased 123 per cent., while the city's population during the same period has only increased 25 per cent.

City's Annual Interest Bill.

The city's annual interest bill for the year 1913 (underestimated)	$ 65,946.00
The interest bill for the year 1907 was	27,792.86
Increase in amount of interest to be paid by the ratepayers in this last six years	$ 38,153.14

That is to say, the annual interest charges now paid by the city are 137 per cent. greater than they were six years ago, while during the same period the city's population has only increased 25 per cent.

Rate of Interest Paid.

The city has $308,000.00 borrowed at as low a rate as 3 per cent., 3½ per cent., and 3¾ per cent., but as these old loans are being paid off, the city has to replace them with other bonds bearing interest at the rate of 5 per cent. In some cases the city's bonds are disposed of at a discount which makes the rate still higher. Even if the indebtedness of Peterborough stood still there will be an annual increase in the rate of interest. If the city is compelled by the Peterborough Light and Power Company to carry out the purchase of its property in Peterborough in accordance with the city's agreement on taking expropriation proceedings, then the city would be forcede to borrow an additional $700,000.00 to pay for the lighting plant and other outstanding obligations. The city's credit decreases in inverse ratio to its increasing debts, and lie all other debtors who are going behind, the rate of interest the city has to pay increases with its increasing debts.

Extravagance.

It is idle to say that the members of the City Councils for the past six years have not been extravagant. Their record on increasing the city's debts and liabilities 225 per cent. during this last six years, and in increasing the ratepayers' taxes 123 per cent. during this last six years, and in increasing the city's annual interest charges 137 per cent. during this last six years, while our population has only increased 25 per cent., is in itself the strongest condemnation that could be urged against the present City Council and those, for five years previous. It is usually difficult to give instances of extravagances because they are covered up and concealed by a compact family of Councillors that mutually admire each other and hermetically seal in the city vaults the evidence of their joint and several extravagances.

An Instance of Extravagance.

The statement has been made publicly, and not contradicted, that the present down town part of the city has been lit for this last ten years at an average cost of $450.00 per annum by nine lamps placed on nine poles. The present Council under Alderman Johnston, as chairman of the Power Committee, and coincided in by the rest of the Council, have replaced these poles and substituted in their place 100 lights, which cost this city $6,500.00 a year to maintain. This statement has been made publicly and has never been contradicted by Alderman Johnston, chairman of the Power Committee, or any other member of the Council. If, therefore, one mile of our down town section costs $6,500.00 a year to light, then what will it cost to light the remaining 65 miles of the city's streets if the ratepayers of Peterborough leave it in the hands of men who do not know the value of other people's money. Either one of two things will happen—the cost of street lighting will be excessively high and the annual rate of taxation will increase or else the cost of domestic lighting will have to be increased to pay for the extravagance in street lighting.

Ratepayers, Examine Your Tax Bills

If any ratepayer desires to verify any of these figures regarding his increased taxation, let him look at the amount of his tax bill for the year 1907, and compare it with his tax bill for the year 1913, and let him ask the question, "What benefit am I getting for this increase in my taxation that I did not get in the year 1907?"

Is it not about time that the ratepayers of Peterborough in their own interests voted to have new men placed in the Council who are pledged to economize and adopt business methods in our expenditures?—Yours,

A BURDENED TAXPAYER.

WATCHNIGHT SERVICES

Watchnight service will be held in George Street Methodist Church this evening, commencing at eleven o'clock. The services will be appropriate of the closing of the old year and the incoming of the new. All are welcme.

Charlotte Street.

A service similar to the above will be held in Charlotte Street Methodist Church, commencing at eleven fifteen o'clock.

TURKEYS FEATURE OF TO-DAY'S MARKET

New Year's turkeys numbered about 100 and 125 on the market to-day. Their quality was decidedly good, and in price they ranged from $2.00 to $3.00, with most of them selling at $2.50.

Geese were only a handful, selling at from $1.50 to $2.00. They looked scraggy and had a remnant appearance. They could not approach the quality of the turkeys that were offered.

The quantity of butter was decidedly negligible.

On the outside market hardwood sold at $6.00 a cord. It was cut in stove lengths. Dry cedar was offered at $5.00 a load.

It was a turkey market with demand and supply equalized.

Mr. Gillespie's Confident Appeal To The Electors

Ladies and Gentlemen,—Most of you are already familiar with my brief election address and my further public statements made on nomination day, and if any additional explanations of my views are desired on any of the live questions effecting the interests of the City, I will be glad to give them to any one between now and polling day. But as I will not be able, personally, to wait upon the whole electors before the day of voting, I desire to use this medium of soliciting your support.

The very encouraging indications of your support coming so generally from all classes, has served to strengthen my confidence in the result.

With a clear comprehension of the work that lies before the coming Mayor of your City, together of close attention to the City's affairs during the past five years as your alderman and a conscientious desire to contribute a further share of service, I now leave the campaign confidently in your hands.

Wishing one and all a happy and prosperous New Year. 4d-189.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 31, 1913

GOOD BYE 1913.

What eloquence of wholesome aspiration is expressed in the lines of Tennyson—

Ring out the old; ring in the new,
Ring happy bells across the snow.
Ring out the shapes of foul disease:
Ring out the narrowing lust of gold;
Ring out the thousand of wars of old,
Ring in the thousand years of peace.

If we could enter the coming year with a vision like this, realized 'the thousand years of peace" the millenium would be at hand. If we cannot realize these things we can make the best of what we have, and thus we can face the New Year bravely and hopefully. We can see that the world is getting better every year. If this does not apply to ourselves individually it is in our power to make it so. We, as a city and country, have had a good year and can take courage. It lies with ourselves to make the coming year better the past. We can join as a united citizenship in the work of making Peterborough bigger and what is better, better. We can work in harmony and so doing we can succeed. Let us all put our shoulders to the wheel, our hearts in the right place, and with the blessing of divine Providence we can look forward to what the New Year in its course may bring us at the end, with large hope. Thankfully we can look back on the past and hopefully upon the future; and so we may have, what The Examiner wishes to all its readers, to all our citizens, and to all the world,

A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

LIGHTS AND OTHER THINGS.

The Review thus says:

"Citizens may rest assured that George street is not the only street that is to have the benefit of the Hydro-Electric scheme. There shall be no more dark alleys when the city gets hold of the lighting."

Is this to be regarded as a threat or a promise? George street is beautifully lighted, but the cost is something that reflecting ratepayers will take into account. If a comparatively short stretch of George and other streets costs two-thirds as much as the lighting of the whole city did under the old contract, the cost of doing away with "dark alleys" will be something very formidable. While well-lighted streets are desirable and even necessary but there are other things as desirable and necessary. We have many things we want more than overlighted streets, and many parts of the city want improvements that are necessary to their comfort and essential to their rights to a fair share of the civic expenditure. We want a god deal of improvements on our streets, and when it comes down to the fine point street improvement should take precedence of extravagant lighting. Streets are to use, not to look at, and the citizen of good sense will vote in favour of spending more money to get good streets rather than spending more money to light bad streets. The East City people cannot be expected to grow unduly enthusiastic over the extra-brilliant lights of George street—they haven't even a much-needed bridge to cross over the river to get a good view of the lights. We should have good lights, but if we cannot have both expensive lighting and other things we need we should compromise—should have as much of both as we can afford and not put all our eggs into one basket as we should be doing if we spend all our resources in lighting the whole city on the same liberal scale of cost as we are applying to George street and other streets. To be consistent and sensible we must distribute the expenditure over as many needed conveniences as possible. A boy at Chirstmas time can well rejoice in a new toy, but if it is purchased at the expense of the warm school overcoat he needs he hasn't the making of a good financier in him. A house wife wouldn't be thought wise if she expendd all her money in furnishing her state parlour with especial splendour and left the rest of her home to Windsor chairs and cheap carpets. Our incoming city fathers have pretty difficult financial problems to solve. They will have to provide a great many public conveniences and there is a limit to the money available. There's a limit to what the people will stand in the way of taxation, and the wise way for us is to do as much general good as we can with the money we have to spend, and not concentrate an undue amount upon one service and starve others.

THE PEOPLE AT FAULT.

The Mail and Empire tells an important truth in the following words:

"If the citizens would only take as much interest in municipal affairs in April or October as they do the last week of December, the city would be better governed."

There's a word of truth and abundant food for useful reflection in these few simple words. They indicate the existence of a radical evil in our system of chosing representatives and necessarily in our representation and its results. Our way of doing things is contrary to reason and good sense. We choose men to do our business with less thought and consideration than we would devote to the purchase of a new hat.

We do not put ourselves in touch with conditions from day to day; we do not watch the course and actions of our civic representatives during the year. We crowd the duty and vigilance of a year into the last week in December. We do not in the true, the real sense, select our representatives—they select themselves and we vote for them with generally little personal konwledge of them and with no practical knowledge of their fitness for the duties we blindly impose upon them. If by chance we get good men, it is a stroke of luck.

In the final analysis, the people are to blame, if they are not well governed. Outside of a few "steadies" who, more perhaps, from habit—just to pass the evening—than from interest, attend the meetings of the Council, nobody ever sees a Council at work. Even the newspapers, if they subject councillors to a little criticism, be it ever so kindly, are accused of being "knockers" by the very ratepayers perhaps, who grumble over the view of their tax bill and groan over paying it. The reports of Council meetings should be the study of every ratepayer. In this way ratepayers would get some idea of the way their business was being done. If they would take an interest in the way their business was being done—for it is their business, not the aldermen's—their representatives would be inclined to be more careful — on the principle of the saying that "every man is honest if he is well watched. Discussion of civic affairs, at election time, if it is not the culmination, the conclusion, of year-round discussion, is of little effect.

At election time, in the dying days of the year, the newspapers are flooded with letters from ratepayers, more or less indignant, upon civic matters. These letters, in the main, are of little practical use, no matter how much to the point they are—they are simply locking the stable after the horse is stolen. A case in point is the letter of a "Burdened Taypayer" in this issue. Assuming that the facts it sets forth are correct, what is the good of their presentation at this time? The letter covers several years, and in it we have bunched the short-comings of five or six years. If as much zeal and energy had been put forth by somebody during each of the years covered; if events had been watched and dealt with as they arose from time to time, something effective might have been done in arousing the interest of the ratepayers. But a mass of figures, thrown at the ratepayers in a heap, and incapable of speedy digestion, come at a time when their appeal to ratepayers is necessarily imperfect and ineffective. If we want to criticise the actions or the results of the actions of our city or other councils, and do so with effect, we must, to use the slang of the hour, "be on the job" all the time.

The best and most promising business or industry would speedily go into the hands of the sheriff if dependence were placed solely on the report of the auditors at the end of the year; if constant inspection, supervision and watchfulness were not exercised the year round—every day and every hour.

The ratepayers show an almost complete indifference to the management of their affairs and to the selection of managers fifty weeks in the year and only wake up to some show of interest for the other two weeks — at the end of the year, when they complain of being misgoverned and of being burdened with taxation—a self imposed burden so far as their interest and watchfulness in the management of their business are concerned.

EPITAPH OF 1913

The Rebels, and the Federals, been fighting very hot;
We hope this war, in Mexico, will soon come to a stop.
So that the world all over, may be again at peace;
That wars and strivings of to-day, will ever soon shall cease.
The Turkish war is at its end, with such a heavy loss—
The Crescent was defeated, with a victory for the Cross.
And the time is drawing nigh, when war shall be no more;
Then, gathering of all nations, along the other shore.

And now the year is nearly passed, at times, it's been distressing;
And there's been countless deaths, maybe for man's own blessing.
Th time is quickly passing by, and we do not discern so,
We may be called from Earth's great shore, like those beloved we mourn so.

Another scene, we look upon, in the Canadian lakes,
One Sunday morn, there came a storm, and tragedy it makes,
When several largest boats went down, crossing these lakes over
Thoughtless when they started forth, that they would cross no more.

When stormsand tempest around us rise, and times look dark and dreary,
We well ask God's guidance on our way, to try and not be weary.
And if we love the Lord our God and take His paths to guide us,
He will help us through our burdens, here, and stay just close beside us.

Again we gaze on Fate's great list of those gone to the Master,
Will be remembered in many homes, the great Welsh mine disaster,
And will not we remember these and smaller things omitting,
All may be found on that great day, on God's right hand be sitting.

O, Christian people of this world, us to our God confessing,
Will try and help those in distress, to gain the Heavely blessing.
And now the year is at its close, don't matter what is o'er us,
We will try and serve the Lord our God this coming year before us.

—H. C. Gerrish, 350 Charlotte Street.

GOOD WISHES and SOUND ADVICE FOR 1914

With the drawing to a close of the most happy of all holidays and the ushering into of a new year, everyone should prepare to start the year 1914 better than any previous year. One of the best starts is to make up your mind to save a little money out of every pay. Not everyone can do this, but a great number can who do not do so. This is the way in which a great number of people made their start in life. Why not you?

If you will take the advice of one who has made his start in this manner and who will not in any way mislead you, you will have obtained the first rung in the ladder to success. The larger benefit will come when you buy, hold for a time and you should be able to sell Peterborough property bought now at a good profit. You should not stop at one transaction, but if you are in touch with a man who will advise you honestly and keep turning over your properties, it will only be a short while before you will have a bank account and some real estate, as well.

Call at 324 George Street and talk the matter over and in order to convince you that I can be of service to you. I can have you meet some Peterborough people who will tell you their experience. If you will buy now and hold for one year, from the first of January, 1914, and then sell, a New Year's box of substantial proportions will be assured you, or you can buy now and take smaller profits, but more of them.

Any way you wish to transact your business will be satisfactorily looked after if you will call on me.

Business Management of City's Business

TO THE ELECTORS OF CENTRE WARD

In voting for A. H. STRATTON for Alderman for Centre Ward you are voting for a live go-ahead man who has the interests of Peterborough at heart. He is a large taxpayer and will use his best efforts to keep your taxes down to the low water marks. At the same time he is sure to encourage existing manufacturers and endeavour to bring in a new industries. In regard to the important matter of Hydro Electric, while he favours it he is especially in favour of business-like management of the enterprise of seeing that the people, who voted so almost unanimously for it, get the greatest benefit from it at the least possible cost consistent with efficiency. He is a good business man by the test of success in his own business and knows that to encourage the working men and find employment for them at good wages helps the business man and thereby helps to make a BIGGER AND BETTER CITY. J. J. HARTLEY

The Workingman's Candidate For

MAYOR

Unanimously Endorsed by the Trades & Labor Council

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen:—

At the urgent request of a large number of the ratepayers I have consented to be a candidate for the position of Mayor for the year 1914. Being born and lived my whole life in Peterborough, and a whole life's savings being invested in Peterborough, I naturally have a deep interest in the welfare and prosperity of the city.

Should I be elected I promise you that I will guard to the very best of my ability the interests of the ratepayers and will oppose all unnecessary expenditure.

I will do my utmost to keep down the ever-increasing rate of taxation, consistent with the needs of the growing municipality.

I may say that I am in favour of municipal ownership, and in favour of having all city work done by our own people, instead of bringing in outsiders to do it. I will endeavour to see that the ratepayers get value for every dollar that is expended. I have had considerable experience in municipal matters, having served ten years in the Council and fourteen years on the Board of Education, being chairman of that board for two years. I was also chairman of the Board of Health for several years, so that you will see that I am not without a fair share of experience.

Should you do me the honour to elect me Mayor of our city, I will do my best to serve you to the very best of my ability.

Yours respectfully,

J. J. HARTLEY

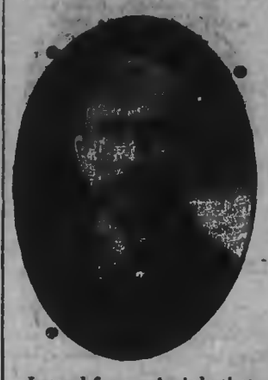
Hydro---Johnston



TO THE ELECTORS OF THE NORTH WARD

Ladies and Gentlemen,

I desire to heartily wish you and all the citizens of Greater Peterboro' all the compliments of the season.

As a representative in the City Council elected by the good people of the North Ward, I have had the honour of representing the people generally in carrying out their wishes for the introduction of the Hydro-Electric System into the City; and I respectfully ask you for a further renewal of this confidence by again electing me to that very responsible position.

I stand for a principle that I believe to be in the interests of the people, notwithstanding the opposition offered to the honest work of your Council of 1913. I will continue to help to carry out that work until Light and Power are in the hands of the Municipality, and being run in the interests of the people and not in the interests of a monopoly.

Yours in the good work,

W. J. Johnston.

To the Ratepayers of Centre Ward:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Should not your Council for 1914 have your support, without reservation, on the City's light and power enterprise? It is to your interest.

Have your Candidates pledged to this. Let no man in who, so far as you can judge, will trifle with the question or flirt with the opposition.

Get the candidate's assurance that he is right. If he isn't, leave him at home.

I am flatly and wholly in favor of the City's Hydro-Municipal Operation as planned out. It will come out all right in the end, temporary blocking will not hinder the result.

Yours respectfully,

Frank H. Dobbin

J. M. GREENE---Board of Education

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

Having been requested by a number of ratepayers, I have consented to a candidate for the Board of Education. I here ask for your vote and support and will assure you that my best service and ability will be given and used if honoured with election.

Yours very truly,

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SMITH

LADIES' AND GENTLEMEN:—

At the urgent request of many of the electors of this township, I have consented to become a candidate for councillor for 1914.

I think I can confidently appeal to you from my past services as councillor, that I will use my best efforts to manage the affairs of the Township with prudence and good judgment.

With best wishes of the season, I remain yours,

J. A. JOBE

Bridgenorth, Dec. 31, 1913 3d-153-1w1

To the Electors of the NORTH WARD

Ladies and Gentlemen,—When casting your ballot on Monday, I would ask you all to consider the results of last year's work of our Council—a tax rate of 25 mills and the Hydro tangle which must be straightened out.

If you elect me as your representative, I will do all in my power at least to prevent a further increase in the rate, and, if possible, to reduce it, and to assist in bringing about a speedy and satisfactory settlement of the Hydro question.

I am strongly in favour of the Hydro system controlled absolutely by the City, and until this is settled, I am not in favour of the expenditures proposed for the new bridge and chemical engine.

I will keep the welfare of our ward constantly in mind and will see that we in the north get our just due.

Wishing you all a bright and happy New Year, I am,

Yours sincerely,

W. T. HOLLOWAY

TO THE ELECTORS OF PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—Last year a large number of ratepayers requested me to be a candidate for Water Commissioner in opposition to Mr. Moore. I not only declined to be a candidate, but did what I could to prevent opposition. The Commissioners at that time had law suits on with the contractors, where about thirty thousand dollars of the people's money was at stake. Mr. Moore being a lawyer I considered he should be the best posted man on the Commission to fight the contractors and in the interest of the City it would be a mistake to remove him.

This year I have again been waited upon by a large representation of the ratepayers who believe that with my thorough knowledge of all the waters in this district and my many years' experience as alderman I should be a capable man for the position. I have consented to be a candidate and my past record in the Council I think is proof that if elected will give you faithful and honest service.

The taking over of the Hydro-Electric system will require a great deal of time—more than any man who had a large business to attend to can spare. Not being in business I can give all the time required, and if necessary will make a personal inspection of every house in the City and see that rich and poor are treated alike.

I can see no reason, with the large body of ready-made reservoirs of the Otonabee River there should be any shortage of water for either household or lawn service, or why there should not be a reduction in the water rates. A good supply of good water is a necessity in every house, and should be available for the people at a low rate.

To the ratepayers who are now residents of the City and not personally acquainted with me, would say that for a number of years I occupied the position of alderman, and always stood at the head of the poll both as a representative of No. 3 Ward and also after the Ward system was abolished.

General street railway extension and cheap transportation, like cheap light and water, should be the goal of our municipal government. When a worker can have his house and garden anywhere, and is not tied to a locality his prospects are greatly improved.

Trusting that the ratepayers who want good service in the future as I have given the past will give me their hearty support, I am,

Yours very truly,

J. B. McWILLIAMS.

EAST CITY VOTERS

To the Electors of Ward Five

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—

Having accepted the nomination for Alderman for the Fifth Ward I kindly solicit your vote and influence in my behalf. If elected I assure you I will give as faithful and careful attention to the business of the City as I would to my own business.

Wishing you all the Compliments of the Season. I am

Yours faithfully

T. W. OKE.

To the Electors of the South Ward

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Your vote and influence to secure my return as Alderman for the South Ward are solicited. Economic administration of Civic affairs consistent with progress is my policy.

Yours truly,

W. S. ROBINSON

For Board of Education

MOTOR LAW IS FAULTY

TORONTO, Dec. 31.—"Not until Ontario adopts the same system as other Canadian provinces will its motorists be relieved of the expense of a state license when they cross the line," said Secretary W. G. Robertson of the Ontario Motor League yesterday, when asked for his opinion of Michigan's new law, which requires every Ontario tomobile, but the new rate is 50 cents ritory to have a permanent license. The former state tax was $2 for an automobile, btu the new rate is 50 cents a horsepower. At this rate Windsor motorists, owning 25 horsepower cars, who desire to run through the streets of Detroit, will find it necessary to spend $12.50.

Ontario is the only Canadian province that does not reciprocate with the United States in the use of motor licenses. An American's license is good in Quebec, and a Quebec license is sufficient to run into the States. In Ontario an American must have an Ontario license. Consequently the States impose the same rule on our motorists.

PARALYZED LIMBS

To-day it is electricity. Yesterday digestive trouble, and irritability. Next thing you know some form of paralysis has developed. Mr. Alex. Rodrigue, 58 Moore Street, St. Catharines, Ont., writes: "Nervous trouble developed into paralysis of the limbs so that I became helpless. Doctors failed me, but after using two boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I resumed work, and now feel better than I did for 15 years."

Goose pimples are now in style again, and many people, all of them, in fact, in this country, are wearing them. They are at their best early in the morning.

ENTERTAINMENT GREAT SUCCESS

Given by the Methodist Sunday School — Standing Room at a Premium

HASTINGS, Dec. 29.— The entertainment held in the Town Hall on Christmas night, under the auspices of the Methodist Church Sunday school, was as usual, greeted with a bumper house, standing room being almost at a premium. It would be a difficult matter to tell which one of the selections was worthy of particular mention, so creditably did each one perform their part. Perhaps, however, the numbers which showed the most thorough training among the younger element were, "The Gifts of the Seasons," "The Boys' Brigade," "The Pantomine" (the Holy City), and the dumb bell drill, while the sketch entitled, "From Pumpkin Ridge," provoked such bursts of merriment that it was at times a somewhat difficult matter for the performers to proceed with the different scenes. The band was present and gave some fine selections. Altogether the committee in charge have every reason to be pleased with the result of their efforts.

Dec. 25th was ushered in with ideal Christmas weather, the snow just coming in time to make the best of sleighing, and crowds of people were out enjoying a sleigh ride.

A number from this section drove over to Westwood on Wednesday evening to attend the concert given by the pupils and friends of the Sunday school. Those present report a good programme and a full house.

Friends of Mr. Jas. Stevenson are pleased to see him so far recovered as to be able to return home. Although pretty badly shaken up, he is able to move around, and is very grateful that he escaped with his life.

The public auction sale at the home of Mr. Wm. Glance on Tuesday was well attended and bidding is reported as very brisk.

ANOTHER COMMENT ON MR. BURNHAM AND FREE TRADE

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I read with interest the letter which appeared in your valuable columns in reference to free trade and which bore the signature of the Federal member for West Peterborough. I wonder where he got his information? It has been my privilege to participate as an elector in every general election that has taken place in England for the past thirty years, and I have never yet seen my way clear to support any party that would do away with English fre trade. Mr. Burnham seems to be possessed of a vivid imagination. His conclusions could not have been based on the last three general elections in England which returned a free trade Government each time. Does he claim to know more about free trade than Premier Asquith, Lloyd George and his followers?

Now sir, to prove to the workingman that the free trade is the workingman's policy I need only to refer to the forty labour members that sit in the British House of Commons, who vote free trade every time. These men are not duffers. The fact they are labour leaders is sufficient evidence of their worth and proves that they have studied the social and economic conditions of the Old Land. The fact that such prominent men as Arthur Henderson, Stephen Walsh, Keir Hardie, are giving their undivided attention to the free trade policy proves its efficacy beyond a doubt.

I was told that politics were different in this country. A man who was a Conservative in England was invariably a Liberal in this country and vice versa. Does Mr. Burnham say that? Workingmen don't be gulled. Go in for free trade and free food.

Yours truly,
An English Free Trader.

Successful Xmas Concert Held Under Auspices of Methodist Sabbath School

Examiner Special:

MOUNT PLEASANT, Dec. 31.—Mr. M. and Miss F. Rosenberg of Peterborough, have been spending the Christmas holidays with their mother in town.

Mrs. H. J. McLean and Mrs. Wm. Greig were business visitors to Millbrook on Monday.

The Methodist Sabbath school held a very successful Christmas tree and cantata on Monday evening, Dec. 22, in the Church. There was a large attendance to enjoy the proceedings. The programme was followed by the serving of dainty refreshments and then followed the unloading of the Christmas tree by a real, live Santa Claus. This number created much excitement and considerable joy and laughter.

The Sabbath school is to be congratulated on the success of so pleasing an entertainment.

WORK CONDITIONS IN PETERBOROUGH

The December issue of the Labour Gazette has the following to say of labour, as reported in Peterborough, during the past month:

The general condition of the labour market differed little from last month. The state of employment was not quite so good as in November of last year. The building trades were very busy for this season, and the prospects are good for the winter. The Canadian General Electric Company has orders on hand that will carry it well through the coming year. A contract has been secured from the Canadian Northern Railway for the complete equipment for the electrification of the Canadian Northern Railway tunnel under Mount Royal, Montreal. The Wm. Hamilton Company is also enjoying busy conditions. It has just closed a contract to supply the Ford Motor Company with a year's supply of castings. The contract for the new Government dam at Nassau has been let, and the contractors are getting material ready and will start operations as soon as possible. The contract price is in the neighbourhood of seventy-five thousand dollars. The Canadian General Electric Company will also make extensive improvements around its power house at Nassau. At the beginning of the month an effort was made to raise the price of milk to eight cents a quart, but there was so much opposition that it only lasted a few days. There s considerable activity among the wood-workers, carpenters, and joiners at the present time, a general reorganizing going on.

Caring for stock and marketing produce occupied the farmers' attention. Hay is selling at $18 to $20 pr ton. The Quaker Oats Company is paying eighty-eight cents a bushel for Ontario winter wheat.

Lumbering operations are in full progress, and large parties are going to the shanties. The lumbermen are anticipating a heavy cut this season, and preparations are being made accordingly.

The Canadian Pacific Railway is building a new swing bridge over the Otonabee, this being necessary on account of the heavy traffic. The new freight sheds are completed.

The new street lighting system is in operation.

The Merit System Obtains Among The Street Car Men

Sixty "Demerits" Earn a Walking Ticket — Commendable Acts Bring Merit, Cigars and Good Standing.

HOW SYSTEM WORKS

The merit system obtains among the employees of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company. For instance, a few days ago an incipient runaway was stopped by the motorman and conductor of a George Street car. The affair possessed an element of gallantry in so far as the occupants of the cutter were women. The affair was reported to the office, the two employees were summoned into the manager's office, were complimented, Mr. Munro's cigars with a gilt band were extended to them, ten "merit" marks were chalked up on the credit side of their conduct accounts, and the men possibly began to feel their coat lapels for imaginary medals.

On the other hand, if a man is impertinent to passengers, if he misses a fare, if there is an "aura" or aroma of liquor about him, if he is positively drunk, and should the office receive a report of such misdemeanors, an entry is made on the debit side of the account with demerits.

Sixty Means Discharge.

As soon as the number of demerits reaches sixty the individual is automatically discharged unless there are some particularly extenuating circumstances. And there are some offences that draw down sixty demerits. A state of intoxication on duty is one of the capital sins and sets the individual back just sixty points, and out he goes to look for a new job.

One of the weaknesses of the system is found in the fact that only a small number of the sins of omission and commission are reported to the office, and the majority of merit winning acts gets by unnoticed. It is recognized that the most of the employees of the street car system are considerate and courteous. The performance of ordinary duties is necessary if the man expects to continue the pleasure of jangling a fare box, or clanging a bell. But, on the other hand a breach of the ordinary rules may draw down demerits. When the debit side of a conduct account shows an entry or two, it devolves upon the employee to earn a few merits in order to square his account. The best plan is to strengthen the credit side, and keep the debit side spotless.

Hence, the patrons of the street cars can render a service to employees by reporting the little acts which they consider meritorious. In the same way, incivility and carelessness, if reported to the office, will probably mean a walk on the carpet without any disturbance to the drawer containing the cigars for visitors.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN HOLMES CELEBRATED THEIR CRYSTAL WEDDING DAY

A most delightful re-union of old and newer friends was held last night at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Holmes on MacKellar street. The occasion was the celebration of their crystal wedding and right royally was the day marked. About 45 to 50 guests were present and some very suitable and many gifts, mostly in the appropriate form of cut glass and crystal, accompanied the hearty congratulations of those invited. At eight o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Holmes received their guests, the house having been most beautifully and tastefully decorated. After an interval spent in conversation, alternated with music, a most elegant luncheon was served at the close of which the health of the host and hostess was proposed in a very fitting speech. Needless to say the toast was received with an ovation. Cards, games, music and singing then followed until close on 2 o'clock in the morning, when the assembled happy guests having sang Auld Lang Syne and God Save the King, dispersed after having spent a most enjoyable evening.

By the kind forethought of their hosts, a special street car conveyed the guests to their respective destinations north and west.

Old England Has Had A Great Year

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 31—England's annual stock-taking is affording supreme satisfaction for 1913. It has been the most prosperous year of modern times and almost every gloomy prognostication of a year ago has been falsified. International alarmists like Frederick Harrison, who depicted war with Germany as certain, have been falsified by the events. To-day, relations with Germany are exceedingly cordial, and England stands supreme in the councils of Europe. Our exports have risen by over thirty million pounds. Shipping has never before known so prosperous a year. Trade, despite the world depression, still continues amazingly good. Even farming has flourished. Our only shadows are the decline in financial securities and the many signs of growing labour unrest. The great doctors' campaign against the insurance act, which was to have ruined it, has collapsed because the doctors are so busy earning good money that they have no more time to quarrel. Yesterday the "Times," which led the medical opposition to the act, admitted that "the situation is remarkable and unprecedented, so far as the doctors in cities and industrial centres are concerned. It has produced something very like an embarrassment of riches." The Irish difficulty means solution. Liberalism's only real problem is the navy question, and the widespread discontent existing against Winston Churchill's ever increasing expenditure.

TOM TERRISS COMING

It is our great pleasure to record an event of unusual interest and importance in the visit of Mr. Tom Terriss to the Grand Opera House next Monday, Jan. 5th, in a series of Charles Dickens' playlets. Each piece has been personally and studiously rehearsed in London, England, by Mr. Terriss, with the result that a series of productions of unsurpassed excellence are to be placed before the public on a scale never before attempted. Each production is entirely new and carried in its entirety, the costumes having been made by Morris Angel of London, England. The immortal works of Charles Dickens are to be portrayed by an exceptionally clever cast, comprising seventeen well-known English artists, in addition to Mr. Terriss, and the triple bill for the performance will be selected from "The Christmas Carol" "The Chimes," "Oliver Twist," "Cricket on the Hearth," "A Tale of two Cities," "The Old Curiosity Shop," and "Nicholas Nickleby."

REASONS FOR APPOINTMENT OF POLICE WOMAN

On what grounds will our Police Commissioners be asked to appoint a police woman on the local force?

We have 3,628 yonug people between the ags of 5 and 16 years—the proportion of women wage-earners in Peterborough is unusually large. One-fifth of the voters are women. The industrial development of this 20th Century is exposing all women whether willing or unwilling, to that social process which is changing the old home-world into the new world home. We must prevent crime in our city if we would protect our homes.

Under these new conditions women have a right to what they consider to be in the best interests of the community.

This is not an untried thing which we are advocating. The movement is endorsed wherever it has been tried and this fact should appeal to Peterborough for truly there is little of the pioneers about us. The only truly original (?) thing tried in Peterborough was, I believe, the Chamber's street pavement!

"I cannot refrain from stating that the value the police woman has rendered to this city and the public in an educational way is incalculable. The police woman is no longer a curiosity or a stranger. She has shown the skeptic that a woman is capable of attending to certain phases of police work with greater results than police men, and her services in connection with cases concerning women and children are such that every city has before it the suggestion that this angle of the police service be placed in charge of women."—H. H. Rose, Mayor of Los Angeles.

"I can say nothing but good of the women's work in my department. Their work has passed the experimental stage and I would not, if I could, dispense with their services." C. E. Sebastian, Chief of Police, Los Angeles.

But let us come much nearer home. Mayor Hocken, of Toronto, tells us: "We have two police women and two matrons in connection with our police force. The result of their appointment has given complete satisfaction."

Col. Dennison, Police Magistrate, Toronto, says: "We have two police matrons and two police women, and we find them of great service."

And our own chief tells us he is not opposed to the appointment of a police woman, and will welcome her presence on the force should the police commissioners appoint one.

MR. JOHN BELL'S HINT TO MAYORS

Dear Editor,—At this juncture, when men all over Canada are wanting to sit in the Mayor's chair is the time for them to speak out and say whether they are in favour of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's policy of free food and a separate navy, or Mr. R. L. Borden's policy of fair protection for Canada and stand by the old British navy. I believe the most of men who aspire the Mayor's chair, that is if they spoke out, would be in favour of Mr. R. L. Borden's policy. Because our new Dominion of Canada is young and needs protection; our lands are broad and wide and need protection; our resources are great and need protection; our population is small and needs protection. I might go on from now to dooms day to show how Canada needs protection, both by her tariff and her British navy.

Now is the time for all who aspire for mayor to speak out and let Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. R. L. Borden see how we stand on their two policies. I believe that free food would mean low wages, and protection would mean high wages, and a separate navy would mean no navy, and our British navy should be, as it has been, one navy. I remain,

Yours,
JOHN BELL.

INFORMATION RE AUTO LICENSES

As there seems to be some doubt as to whether the application forms for 1914 licenses, which have been received by a number of local motor owners, should be forwarded to Toronto, we have been advised by Mr. Rackam, the local issuer of automobile licenses that all licenses for this district can be procured from him, and that any who have not already received application forms can procure and fill same at Mr. Rackam's office, 181 Charlotte Street, and at the same time receive their licenses.

Grant To May's School Dwindles Under Tory Gov't

as $175 Four Years Ago and is Now $75—S. S. No. 2 North Monaghan Trustees Remain Unchanged

BYERSVILLE FRUSTRATED

The supporters of May's school in section No. 2 had a merry meeting this morning in the new $10,000 school building, the cost and location of which has been the subject of endless comment, adverse and otherwise. Between thirty and forty ratepayers were present, and only the fact that the time conflicted with working hours kept the attendance at that comparatively low figure.

This year's Board was comprised of Henry Robinson, Harry Webber and Ernest Saunders. Mr. Webber was the retiring member. He was renominated by Mr. Jas. Morrow, and was opposed by Mr. Wm. Stevens of Byersville, nominated by W. J. Byers and Alf. Cummings.

The balloting returned Mr. Webber with 14 votes against 8 received by Mr. Stevens. The attendance of Byersville ratepayers was small, nearly all of them being at work. Had the meeting been at night, it is claimed that the suburb's representation would have been very much larger, and a different result might have been recorded.

The auditor's report was presented by Mr. W. Anderson and was adopted.

Re School Grant.

In his address, Mr. Webber dealt for a time on the government grant to the school. Four years ago, he said, under the Liberal government, the grant was $250. The next year it was down to $175. Said Mr. Webber, "All you Tories take notice that the grant two years ago was cut to $135, and last year it was only $75. This was the influence of a 28 p.c. in the grants to schools throughout the entire Dominion.

Financial troubles have not been of the lightest for the S. S. No. 2 Board of Trustees during the past year. Not only has the government grant been reduced to a mere "shoe-string," but the raising of the $2,000 school and the erection of the $10,000 building have raised the cry that the trustees were going ahead too fast. It is stated that on a 100 acre farm the increase in taxes this year was as high as $60, mostly for school purposes.

It was pointed out by the trustees that meetings had been called and the ratepayers had not objected to the new school. Some of the residents claimed that they had not been notified of the second meeting when the final preparatory steps were taken.

Some remarks were passed to-day regarding the location of the new school. Had it been south of the Driving Park it would have been more central for the children from Brintonia and Byersville. It is a long walk from the east end of the township to the new school and report has it that some 25 children from that district are attending the King Edward school and of course paying a certain fee.

To-day's annual meeting opened at 10 o'clock, and had not been concluded at 2 p.m. On the whole, everything passed off according to specifications, with an occasional brush that enlivened the proceedings.

PROVINCIAL HISTORY OF LOCAL OPTION

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Dec. 30.—At this season of the year when local option contests loom large and when the temperance issue becomes acute in many municipalities, attention is naturally directed to the history of local option in this Province, a truly notable movement. Even a cursory examination reveals the fact that the Conservatives are not justified in claiming, as they sometimes do, that local option is a Conservative policy. Sir James Whitney, while still leader of the Opposition, took the opposite ground in a speech delivered on the 29th of March, 1897, in debate on the liquor question. He said that when the time came for the Conservatives to act they > 'would not put the liquor question on the shoulders of the municipalities (Opposition applause). They would bear it upon their own and stand or fall by the decision come to. If they succeeded, to their credit it would be said of them, that they were manly enough to deal with this question, to take the responsibilities and abide by the circumstances."

This statement of Sir James which fairly represents the attitude of the majority of the Conservative party at that time, was obviously opposed to the principle of local option.

As a matter of fact, it was the Liberal Government which in 1884 passed a local option law and opened the pathway to all future development. It is true that in the early years of the Act it was not taken advantage of by the temperance people as it was later on. To begin with, the liquor interests disputed its constitutionality and the temperance people themselves instead of using it as one good method together with others, concentrated their efforts rather exclusively on an attempt to secure a Province-wide measure. Another difficulty was the refusal of many municipal councils to submit to the electorate a local option by-law. The Liberals in their anxiety to have the benefits coming from the law as many and as untrammelled as possible, included in their platform in 1904 the following clause:

> "This convention would approve of legislation whereby a vote of a municipality must be taken under local option on the petition of 25 p.c. of the ratepayers without reference to the Municipal Council."

In 1905 the Liberal Government went out of power before it had an opportunity of putting this policy into operation. The temperance people asked the Whitney Government to do what the Liberals had already promised them. The Conservative administration did pass legislation to this effect but the advantage was much more than counter-balanced by the simultaneous enactment of the three-fifths requirement. Whatever we may think of this three-fifths clause it has had the effect desired by the liquor interests at the time of its enactment. It has successfully retained licenses in 207 municipalities where they would have been cut off under the majority vote.

To-day local option is one of the big facts in Ontario life, one of the real accomplishments of Ontario people and it is encouraging to find Liberals and Conservatives alike fighting for this common object. It was to be hoped that the Conservative temperance men who cooperate so wholeheartedly with the Liberals in a cause which was inaugurated by the Liberals will do the same in regard to the next step in the temperance policy proposed by the Liberal party — the Abolition of the Bar.

COMMUNICATIONS ON THE MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

ALD. JOHNSTON'S CAREER.

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Have the people of Peterborough forgotten the bungle Alderman Johnston made of the Fire Department the short time he was chairman of it. The same bungle was repeated this year, on the Power Commission so far as his part was concerned as its head, or for that matter any proposition which he manages. The heavily burdened taxpayers of this city require clear-headed men at the present time, who do their own thinking, and are not eternally playing to the gallery. Yours,

Citizen.

SHOULD EXERCISE CARE.

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Sir,—In view of the fact that under the chairmanship of Alderman Johnston the city's bill for lighting its down-town section has been increased from $450.00 a year to in the neighbourhood of $6,500.00 a year, is it not about time that the ratepayers should exercise more care in the choice of their representatives in the City Council? If the balance of the City of Peterborough were lit up one-tenth as well as the business section of George street then on the same basis the total lighting bill of Peterborough would be no less than about $42,500.00 as against the present lighting bill of $8,250.00. There is no ratepayer in the North Ward who cannot justly complain of the fact that it is very poorly lighted and some of the streets are practically not lit at all, and still Alderman Johnston, the representative of the No. 4 Ward has seen fit to have the ratepayers taxed, to brilliantly light the down-town section of No. 2 Ward. There are two candidates before the electors of the North Ward, namely, Alderman Johnston and Dr. Holloway. Those who know Dr. Holloway during this last seven years that he has been in Peterborough, have justly sized him up as a careful and successful business man, who possesses every qualification to properly represent the North Ward in the City Council.

Yours, etc.,

G. B. Boucher.

THE MAYORALTY FIGHT.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—There has come into my hands an extraordinary communication from the City Temperance League, signed by H. B. Gowan, President, and A. B. Cunningham, Secretary. It is of the late date of Dec. 29th, and looks like a last-minute spasm in fear and favour for Alderman Gillesp. It states amongst other things, these words: Mr. Hartley is a good man and is a temperance worker, but he has not had the opportunity to assist us that Mr. Gillespie has had ". . . . . ". Then follows the following objection: "Under the circumstances your Committee has come to the unanimous conclusion that the candidate most entitled to receive the temperance vote is Alderman G. A. Gillespie". I would like to ask why Mr. Hartley, if he is a good man and a temperance worker, should be attacked in this underhand manner by the Temperance League. Is it not politics, Mr. Editor? Some people are training Mr. Gillespie for the future and they do not hesitate to sacrifice Mr. Hartley when they admit that Mr Hartley is in every way an acceptable man. Is this fair play, Mr Editor? I say it is not.

Yours truly,

Citizen.

To the Editor, The Examiner:

In your evening issue of December 29th, you bring to light, under the heading of "A Reader Asks Some Puzzling Questions," the labour conditions of our city. The writer of same must have congratulated himself on having it published in such a prominent and appropriate page, right along side of all the business men now engaged in a municipal warfar. It is to be hoped that these gentlemen, to whom the above mentioned article is written, (since your correspondent says "Why don't the business men of this fast growing town advertise in your want column for men?"), will not merely glance at their election notices, but spare a few moments to consider the letter of your reader, and thus give us, at their meetings and in their addresses, some solution to the various questions put forward.

The correspondent again says "Why don't your paper state how many men are out of work?"

Would it not have been better to have said: Why don't your paper send a representative to the numerous factories and works, such as the C.G.E., and endeavour to find out the exact situation of the matter, namely, "How long will it be before these companies will commence their large contracts and in so doing employ hands again?" Will it be with the advent of 1914, or are we to wait until the opening of spring? Every one knows that there is "Work in Peterborough" for we read that large contracts are let to various works. Yes there is the work and the power to do same (the men), but where is the money? There is no sense in keeping men in if you cannot give them their wages. Mr. Editor suggests just what the railroads have done, namely, shortened the hours, but kept all hands, and winds up by saying, "half a loaf is better than none." I think Mr. J. J. Hartley (the workingman's candidate), would be a good hand to enlighten us on this all important matter, since he is unanimously endorsed by the Trades and Labour tracts are let to various works. Yes! position to speak either in a pessimistic or optimistic tone, as to the future for us unemployed. So in a few days I hope to see through the medium of your paper how long we are to remain unemployed, or whether at the advent of the year 1914, many homes will be brightened by their men leaving for work in the mornings instead of having to wait for the spring to open. Hoping to hear more on this subject and wishing your paper and the previous correspondent a Happy and Prosperous year, I remain,

Yourst ruly,

W. S. D.

PARCEL POST SYSTEM AT END OF NEXT MONTH

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Dec. 31.—Canada's new parcel post system, as already announced, will in all probability go into effect about the end of January. It was thought probable that a definite announcement as to the date would be made on the eve of New Year. But owing to the absence from the capital of Hon. L. P. Pelletier, who has yet to pass on some of the details of the plan, announcement cannot yet be made. Railways are still holding out for an increase from two millions to six millions for carrying mails with parcel post.

Splendid Concert At All Saint's

A most enjoyable choral evening was given in All Saints' Church last night by the combined choirs of All Saints' and St. John's Church, assisted by representatives from Knox Church, St. Paul's Presbyterian, and Park Street Baptist Churches—over seventy voices in all. A splendid programme was provided, the offerings of the chorus consisting of a number of gems from Handel's "Messiah," including the Hallelujiah Chorus. Mr. George E. Chandler conducted admirably and the work of the combined chorus was a splendid exhibition of choral work. The soloists acquitted themselves most creditably and the programme was altogether a most delightful one. Rev. F. J. Sawers conducted the devotional exercises. Miss M. Flowers and Mr. R. J. Devey presided at the organ. The programme follows:

Hymn 383, "Onward Christian Soldiers".

Choral, "Sleepers Wake a Voice is Calling" Mendelssohn's St. Paul; chorus—"Send Out Thy Ligh,t" Ch. Gounod.

Recit. tenor, "Comfort Ye"; aria "Every Valley" — Mr. George L. Chandler.

Chorus "And the Glory of the Lord' air, "The People that Walketh in Darkness"—Mr. H. Hill.

Recit. Alto, "Behold a Virgin" — Mrs. Lloyd.

Chorus—"Oh Thou That Tellest".

Hymn 79, "Angels from the Realms of Glory".

Part II.

Chorus, "Glory to God," (Handel); air, "Come Unto Him"—Miss B. Greenhalgh.

Chorus, "Behold the Lamb of God" (Handel)—air, "How Beautiful are the Feet"—Miss Ruby Quartermaine.

"Hallelujah Chorus"—(Handel).

At the Organ—Miss M. Flowers, Mr. R. J. Devey.

Conductor—Mr. George E. Chandler.

A DECREASE IN CUSTOMS

HAVE MONEY TO LEND.

Farmers Are the People With the Money These Days—A Recent Example.

Farmers are the moneyed class of to-day. During the past week seven farmers visited a local lender with sums averaging $2,000 which they desired to loan at seven per cent. Most of the farmers of the neighbouring counties are said to be fairly well "fixed" and it is no surprise to learn that some of them are looking for opportunities to put their money out at a good rate of interest.

Has Been Called To Winnipeg

Mr. F. W. Miller will leave Peterborough on January 10th for Winnipeg, where he has been called in connection with the damage claim arising out of the death of his son, the late Herbert Miller. The claim which is being pressed against the City in accordance with the terms of the Workmen's Compensation Act, will be, in all probability, determined by the County Judge.

Mr. Miller expects to be away about two weeks. He has been granted leave of absence by the Central Charity Board, from his duties as City Relief Officer.

Ald. Duffus States His Platform

To the Electors of the West Ward:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—There are several subjects which should receive the especial attention of the City Council during 1914, in addition to firm efforts to keep the general expenditure down to the lowest figure consistent with good service. To these subjects, if you honour me with re-election, I will give close attention.

It is in the highest degree in the interest of the people that the Hydro-Electric project should be carried through, and this will receive my earnest support.

The extension of permanent improvements is an important subject, and in close connection with this question, the desirability of the city owning its own street paving plant should be carefully taken up, in order that the Board of Works and Engineering Departments may do as much of this work as is in the best interests of the city, and at such time as is most suitable in order that we may have all the work done by our own ratepayers.

The extension of sewers and sidewalks, and the subsequent grading and water-tabling of same on such streets as may be requested by the ratepayers living therein.

A more adequate system of surface drainage, in order to improve the general appearance and sanitary condition of our streets.

I have already asked for a report from the Engineering Department on the advisability of adopting civic conduits, in order that all wires may be placed therein, thus eliminating the undsirable necessity of having poles placed in front of the people's property. Space in these conduits to be rented to the different companies at such charges as will pay the cost and maintenance of same. If a favourable report is received this matter will have my further attention.

A better and more extensive system of street lighting and police protection for the outlying districts will receive my attention, in the interest of the general and moral welfare of the city.

I will give all the time and assistance necessary to endeavouring to secure further new industries, of such character and upon such terms as will be in the best interest of the city.

Owing to the orders of the Provincial Board of Health sewage disposal works will have to be constructed, and my object will be to have this done in the most economical and efficient manner.

Every question that will come before the Council will receive my best attention with a view to serve the best interests of the ratepayers, and my experience in the Council will, I believe, be of advantage in their consideration.

Upon these grounds I solicit your support for re-election.

Yours most respectfully,

JOS. J. DUFFUS.

FOOTBALL COUPON BETTING SOME AMAZING EVIDENCE

Pennington Took the Money But He Tried to Win--Alleged Briber Committed for Trial---Fixtures for New Year's Day.

At the final investigation into the charge against Pascoe Biolette of attempting to bribe Jesse Pennington, the West Bromwich Albion back, the evidence was most interesting and revealed how the game of football might be spoiled by folks who are none too honest in their dealings. The chairman and secretary of the West Bromwich Albion Club gave formal evidence and William Barber, the club's trainer, related how, on the night prior to the match, the prisoner, who was a stranger, called upon him and enquired if he could see the captain of the club privately. Witness gave him Pennington's address, and he drove away in a cab with a lady.

Pennington's Evidence.

When Pennington was asked "If in the matches that you have to play, do you recognize it as of the utmost importance to the company that they should be won?" he promptly answered in the affirmative and went on to speak of the prisoner's visit to his shop in High Street, Smethwick, saying that he was a perfect stranger. After a few preliminary inquiries prisoner asked him: "Are you going to win to-morrow?" Witness replied that he hoped so, but that it was impossible to tell how football results would go. Prisoner then told witnss he was an Everton man, and Pennington remarked: "I expect you want your team to win." Prisoner said: "Do you think it is possible to make it a draw?" and he went on to offer witness, in the event of a draw or a loss, £55, or £5 for each player. Witness demurred, saying it was a rather tall order, and warning prisoner to be careful how he talked. They then left the shop together, as witness' wife had entered. Outside witness said to the prisoner: "You have made a proposition to me. What security are you going to give me that you will fulfill that promise? Will you give me the money?" Prisoner replied: "No. I won't loose the money till after the match."

Told the Chairman.

Pennington at once communicated with the chairman of the club and handed him the memorandum. On the day of the match prisoner unexpectedly called again at his shop and asked: "Is it on?" Witness explained that he could not tell him, as they did not meet from Thursday afternoon until Saturday dinner time. Prisoner said he would be on the ground on the 1s. 6d. portion of the stand, and he arranged with witness to signal to him from the ground if the bargain held. He also produced a bag and shook it, making the contents jingle. Witness saw prisoner on the stand, and made the signal. Witness tried to win and none of the other players knew what had been arranged. The game rsulted in a draw, and the prisoner handed over the bag, which containtd 55 sovereigns.

Pennington took It.

Police evidence was called showing that when the prisoner was searched there was found in his possession a book of football betting coupons for a £5,000 sweepstake on the English Cup, initiated by White, Fisher and Co. When charged prisoner said: "I did not give Pennington the money unil he came asking for it. It was practically forced from me. I was just getting into the cab when he came up to me. I had no idea I was doing anything wrong until I had parted with the money, and then I suddenly thought I had done wrong.

Stormy Weather For Last Day Of Old Year And First Of New

Rev. Iri Hicks' Weather Predictions for the Month of January---What There Is In Store

A regular storm period is central on the 1st, covering the last two days of this month (December) and extending to 4th January. By the 1st, rising temperature and falling barometer will be advancing from western extremes, and storms of rain, turning to snow, will reach most parts of the country in their progress eastward from the 1st to the 4th. The moon being on the equator on the 2nd, a marked rise of temperature will culminate on and touching that date in winter lightning and thunder, followed by freezing, sleet, and snow. Rising barometer and change to cold, north-westerly wind and weather are inseparable aftermaths of all winter storm periods. The van of the storms is, as a rule, oevr the Mississippi valleys b ythe afternoon or evening of the 2nd to 3rd day after the centre of the storm periods. Meantime, change to rising barometer, blizzard, great cold, and later to clearing weather, will be spreading eastward from the north and west. The area of storm and precipitation should reach the Atlantic Coast states by the 3rd and 4th, and the anti-cyclonic conditions, or area of high barometer, with colder, clearing weather, should spread into those regions by the 4th to 6th. This law of storm movement we have constantly and persistently explained and insisted upon for forty years. By a proper understanding and application of this law, the people in each section of the country—from the west, eastwardly—can practically and safely figure out, and prepare for, the different phases of storm and weather incident to this and all storm periods.

A reactionary storm period is central on and touching the 6th, 7th, and 8th. As a rule, change to storm conditions begins to show in the west as the high barometer, winding up the preceding period, disappears to the east. Two to four days are usually required for the disturbances of the reactionary periods to pass across the country from west to east. Change of barometer, temperature, cloudiness and winds, will announce to each section the approach of storms, or the cold wave and clearing weather following.

A regular storm period, which is central on the 13th, promises to be prolonged by moon's being in perigree and on the celestial equator on the 15th and 16th. The barometer will show growing change in western parts by the 10th and 11th, and for several days following, rain and snow will cover wide areas in the general march of storm conditions eastwardly across the country. Unless the Mars influence, which was central on 25th December, has a modifying, instead of an intensifying ecect, severe winter storms, ending in blizzards and a cold wave, will result at this period. Keep the period well in mind, carefully watch developments as it comes on, and no extremes can come upon you unawares. tI will be safe to expect the same general character of storms and weather at this and other January periods that prevailed in December, 1913. The Mars and Jupiter inutuences will dominate storm and weather conditions through January all marked extremes that may appear in December. By "marked extremes," we mean that if storms and general weather conditions are mild and moderate through December, the same conditions will prevail in January. On the other hand, should hard winter storms and extreme cold dominate December, the same will prevail through January, or at any rate until after the middle of January. We are satisfied that careful observation and correct records through a proper period of time, will prove not only that this theory of the Mars inuuence is correct, but that phenomenal opposites prevail in different parts of the globe during the same periods. The destrauctive cold and frosts in California and other semi-tropical regions, in the winter of 1912 and 1913, while the weather was phenomenally mild in most sections to the north, was a marked illustration of this truth. It is also quite evident that these peculiar and unexplained conditions reach a maximum in connection with the Jupiter equinoctial periods. At such times, the electrical, magnetic, and other storm and "weather breeding" causes seem to be segregated, and crowded for he time into different parts of the earth.

A reactionary storm period will follow closely on the heels of the preceding disturbances, being central on the 18th, 19th, and 20th. Higher temperature and electrical disturbances will be natural on and touching the 16th—followed by a sudden and extreme rise of the barometer and great cold. But these conditions will break down as suddenly, and reactionary storms of rain and snow will pass eastwardly over the country on and touching the 18th, 19th, and the 20th. Another reaction to very high barometer and cold wave will follow these storms.

A regular storm period is central on the 24th, extending in its inuuence from the 22nd to 27th. Storms at this period will reach the crisis from he 24th to 27th. Change to warmer, falling barometer, and cloudiness will begin in the west by the 22nd, growing into very decided storms of wind, rain and snow, as they move eastward during the 24th to 27th. A blizzard and cold wave will hug the northern flanks of these storms.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 29th, 30th, and 31st. During this period marked changes of temperature and barometric pressure will take place, bringing much warmer weather, low barometer, cloudiness and storms. On the 30th the moon will be in apogee and on the celestia equator. A Mercury equinoctial disturbance will also begin at this time, reaching into February. Winter lightning and thunday, the 30th vrt-ka-, koreM –q ?7hm der, especially in southern parts of the country, are quite probable on and touching Friday, the 30th. The Mercury disturbance will prolong a state of cloudiness and continued storms of rain, sleet and snow into the opening days of February. Students of these forecasts know that heavy and general sleet is almost a certain result of the Mercury periods in winter. It is also a breeder and intensifier of blizzards, when combined with other astronomical causes. Such results will be in evidence before the close of this Mercury period in February.

The first seismic, or earthquake, period, will be central on the 11th of January. About the 9th to the 16th inclusive, careful readers of the world's current events will note frequent earthquake reports from various parts of the earth. The second seismic period for the month will be central on 26th January, including about the 24th to the 30th. This period promises to be more pronounced.

In order that we may have more space for amplification, we have reduced the number of halftones in this year's Almanac. A picture on every page consumes much space.

Readers may well surmise that we have hundreds of flood and tornado scenes, after the horrors of March, 1913.

During the past few months there has been an unusual subsidence of earthquake disturbances in all the planet. Correspondingly there has been a remarkable absence of sun-spots, and general solar perturbations on the face of the sun.

EXAMINATION FOR CHAUFFEURS

On Thursday next the new regulations regarding the running of automobiles will come into force. After that date every man who runs an automobile must pass an examination respecting his capacity as a chauffeur, and the record of his test will be filed at the office of the provincial secretary.

There will be 26 divisions in Ontario for the issuing of licenses. In each of these examiners have been appointed to issue licenses after testing the mental, physical capacity, his conception of rules of the road, his knowledge of the car and his capability for handling the same under all circumstances.

When the test has been made the applicant must present himself to the chief constable for a certificate of character, without which he will not be able to secure a license. He must provide his own car for the purpose of demonstrating to the automobile examiner ability to handle the same. The license fee is to be raised, a charge of one dollar will be made for each examination and test. This money will go to the examiner.

An effort is to be made in Toronto to have the examiners issue the licenses the same as is done in other cities, instead of at the Parliament buildings. Conservatives in Toronto can see no reason why they should not be given a fee for every license issued here the same as is paid in Hamilton, London, Ottawa and other places.

Some weeks ago letters were sent out asking members of the Legislature to select men for the positions of examiners, and these have been named in the majority of the divisions in the province. Each man so appointed will be one of a board of 26 to regulate matters regarding automobile traffic and make recommendations to the Government.

Baseball General of Bygone Day Believes in Real Warfare on the Diamond

Patsy Tebeau, one of the gamest of old-time managers, has no use for "kid glove" baseball. When he heard that President Ban Johnson regarded Manager Birmingham's Cleveland players as "too rough" Patsy expressed the opinion that the mollycoddle days had come.

"Show me a ball club that is fighting every inch of the way and I'll show you a team that is after the pennant," he said. "This having players shaking hands every time they meet is foolish. It gives the fans the wrong impression. You've got to get the fighting spirit to win.

"We never thought of greeting our opponents. Our idea was to get out and beat them. I can see a runner sliding to first with me playing the bag and getting his head pumped with the ball. Think I'd apologize? Not Patsy Tebeau! 'Get your head out of the way and you won't get hurt.'

"Rush the other fellows off their feet. Make them think you're tough, scare them to death and you've got them licked. We used to sit on the bench and file our spikes. They had to be sharp to give when they cut into the ground and at the some time the other team knew we wouldn't give an inch in a pinch. One day I was sharpening my spikes when I heard a man on the other team say, 'When Tebeau slides into you bet I'm going to get out of the way.' I had him scared, see?

"There's a difference between rowdyism and aggressiveness. The aggressive player will be on top when the parlor boy is at the bottom. Off the field, oh, well, that's different. On the field fight them to the last."

THREE FORMS OF EYE TROUBLE

Are commonly met with—any of which may have existed from birth Nature does not always make perfect eyes. We have near-sightedness, far-sightedness and astigmatism, which is a form of irregular sight. All of these defects require attention. If a child has any of these defects and is expected to do close work of any kind he must have his eyes carefully examined and wear such glasses as will correct the refraction of his eyes. As well expect a child born with one leg shorter than the other to walk without limping as to ask one born with imperfect vision to do accurate eye work without suffering the consequences. GETS TWO MILLIONS WHEN HE MARRIES

Has Two Years Yet But Can't Find Right One — Where's the Difficulty?

WINNIPEG, Dec. 30.—A curious story was told in the Royal Alexandra last night by W. Kennedy, New York. Mr. Kennedy stated that, under the terms of his uncle's will he will inherit a fortune of two million dollars, provided that he is married when he is 28. He is now 26, and, according to his own statement, he has been travelling round the world for the last two years searching for an eligible lady, but up till the present time his quest has not met with success. Mr. Kennedy proposes to remain in Winnipeg for several days.

SOME THINGS AND OTHERS

The "I Resolve" League opens to-morrow.

The Examiner will bulletin the Toronto elections on New Year's night.

Montreal and New York will greet the New Year with popping corks.

"Byersville will be a going concern when they ask us to take them in," said a citizen to-day.

The arguments and bets over the Mayoralty contest are a legion already.

Resolve to be unselfish and to show consideration to others and you will make 1914 not only a happy year for yourself, but for all those you meet.

There were hundreds skating on Little Lake yesterday.

The Salvation Army Band will greet the New Year to-night with a short concert on the main street.

HOGMANAY

The Coming of the New Year Will be Celebrated by Local Scots

Once more the circle of years has made a revolution and we are at the last day of 1913.

The day is recognized by Scotsman especially, the world over in British possessions by high holiday. In "Caledonia stern and wild," the evening of the 31st of December each year is prepared for by the purchase, by those who "tak' a taste," of the bottle and bun. "How bright these glorious spirits shine."

The custom from time immemorial is for all who care to repair to the city or town square, and there await the last "chap o' the toon clock."

On the completion of the twelve strokes of the "Big Ben," a mighty cheer emanates from the leather lungs of the assembled thousands, the bottles are tapped, hearty handshaking and good wishes ensue, and most of the serenaders betake themselves on the custom dear to most of us—that of "first-fittin'" their friends in New Year's Day morning.

Here again the festivities are continued with bun, short-bread and "wine," with a snatch of song between the "mootfu's." This procedure continues often till late that morning, when the serenaders retire to their homes to touch up and look "anod" for the rest of the day. The celebrants are mostly very orderly, however, and never taste to excess; and many of the boys are only cake hands.

In our own City here may be seen, ere the clock strikes "twal'" a number of Scotia's sons—and daughters, too—wending their ways to the houses of "neebors" to "first-fit" and wish well. And many voices will lilt out the words:

"A guid New Year tae ane an' a',
And mony may ye see."

The custom is old, and will survive as long as Scotsman are to be found in the world.

WEDDING BELLS

AHERN—DOHERTY.

A very quiet wedding was solemnized at St. Peter's Cathedral at 8 o'clock mass by the Rev. Father McColl, when George V. Ahern, eldest son of George Ahern, Petrborough, was united in the Holy bonds of matrimony, to Josephine Doherty, youngest daughter of the late Thomas and Mrs. Doherty, Hawthorn Terrace, Londonderry, Ireland. The bride was attended by the groom's sister. The groom was supported by his brother. Mr. and Mrs. Ahern will reside in Peterborough.

FAUX—SHEARER.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Christmas Eve at the home of Mr. Thos. Shearer, [illegible] when his daughter, Margaret [illegible] united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Faux of Asphodel. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. G. [illegible], Pastor of the Westwood Presbyterian Church, in the presence of about seventy guests. The bride entered with arm of her father, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Vina Shearer, sister of the bride. The bride was beautifully attired in a gown of Alice blue silk with bridal veil caught up with orange blossoms. After the ceremony the guests sat down to a sumptuous dejeuner, the rooms and tables being prettily decorated for the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Faux left on the 8.10 (G.T.R.) train for points west, amid showers of confetti, the bride travelling in a tailor-made suit of dark blue serge. On their return they will reside in Asphodel.

GERMANY GROANING

New War Tax Comes Into Effect in the Vaterland

EVERYBODY MUST PAY UP

BERLIN, Jan. 3.—Every man, woman and child in Germany with an income of over $250 or a fortune in excess of $2,500 is brooding over the new army taxes, which now come formally into effect. Although the tax hits the middle class and others of moderate means only mildly, it permits them three years to pay it. There was never a more unpopular burden imposed upon the people of the fatherland. A total of $250,000,000 requires to be raised for increasing the Kaiser's military establishment. The declarations must be turned in not later than Jan. 20.

High hopes are expressed at the Treasury Department that more taxpayers than ever before will tell the truth on this occasion. General amnesty is conferred upon all persons who hitherto unconsciously or otherwise cheated the Imperial Exchequer.

"The contribution to defence," which is the sugar-coated title of the new tax, is not a respecter of persons. The Kaiser, Kings and Princes must pay their full quota. Royalty hitherto was exempt from taxation in Germany. The army tax law does not specifically assess them, but the Government gave an informal pledge to the country that the ruling sovereign would pay the same proportion as the humblest subject. The Kaiser's fortune is estimated at $35,000,000. His "fortune" tax under the defence contribution will be roundly $500,000, while on an income of $5,500,000, which is the largest in Germany, he will pay eight per cent., or $440,000, making the royal total stipend close to $1,000,000. Prince Thurntaxis of Bavaria, who is reckoned to be the richest person in Germany, with a fortune of $82,000,000 and an income of $1,250,000, will contribute between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000.

Frau Bertha Krupp Von Bohlen und Halbach, the "Cannon Queen" of Essen, Europe's richest woman, has an estimated fortune of $71,000,000 and an income of $4,500,000. Her contribution to the "war tax" will be about $1,250,000.

The middle class man worth $25,000 pays a property tax of $62.50. If he has an income of $5,000 a year his income tax will be an additional $70.

Wouldn't Administer Oath.

BERLIN, Jan. 3.—The papers here say that the judge of a municipal court has refused to administer the oath to witnesses in a court proceeding because they were not members of the church. The judge said he doubted the validity of an oath administered to such persons.

The incident is considered important because of the general movement throughout Germany of member to withdraw from the state church in order to escape payment of compulsory church taxes.

HAIR CAME OUT BY HANDFULS

With Dandruff and Itching Scalp. Scalp Covered with Small Pimples. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Now No Trouble At All.

503 Jane St., Toronto, Ont.—"I was first troubled with my hair getting brittle and later dandruff and itching scalp. I was afraid to comb my hair as it came out by handfuls and the itching was so severe I was miserable. The trouble kept me from sleeping. My scalp was covered with small pimples which seemed to run into one another and form a scab. The dandruff was so bad I was afraid to comb my hair as it made it show so plainly. It looked very badly. I was thinking of having my head shaved.

"For a long time I tried ——, ——, —— and several other remedies but they did not cure it. After some months I picked up a paper with the Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertisement and sent right away for a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. On using just the sample my trouble was better. I used six or eight boxes of the Cuticura Ointment also the Cuticura Soap and my scalp healed, the itching stopped and my hair came in quite thick and now I have no trouble at all." (Signed) Mrs. H. Singer, May 27, 1913.

To costs nothing to learn how pure, sweet, effective and satisfying Cuticura Soap and Ointment are in the treatment of poor complexions, red, rough hands, itching scalps, dandruff, dry, thin and falling hair, because you need not buy them until you try them. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. book. Send post-card to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. D, Boston, U. S. A.

SOUTHERN PARTY WELL.

New Arrival From North Gives News of Stefansson Party.

OTTAWA, Dec. 3.—Captain L. L. Lane of the schooner Polar Bear has written the Department of Naval Service confirming reports of the safety of the Anderson section of the Stefansson expedition. Captain Lane states he spent four days with Dr. Anderson and his associates, who are safe in winter quarters with the vessels Alaska and Mary Sachs. No further word has been received from Stefansson, but the officers of the Department here have no fears for his welfare.

Captain Lane left his vessel frozen in winter quarters at a point between the ships of the southern section of the Stefansson expedition and Herschel Island, and came ashore, working his way down to Seattle. The Polar Bear carried a party of sportsmen and scientists, who will winter in the north. He declared that reports concerning damage done to the Alaska and Mary Sachs were untrue, and stated that the vessels were undamaged, and the party well and in good spirits.

He had no news of the northern section, which is under the command of Stefansson, who, as previously reported, was ashore with some members of the party, while others were on the Karluk, which had drifted out of their sight.

Captain Lane will proceed north with another ship in the spring.

Three-Year-Old Suffocated.

COBALT, Jan. 3.—Maxwell Dowell, the three-year-old son of Hiram Dowell, died yesterday morning from suffocation at a fire which destroyed his father's house on Baker street on Thursday night. The child was sleeping in a room upstairs. The father entered the room through a window and handed the child to another man on a ladder. The fire was caused by one of Mr. Dowell's daughters cleaning her gloves with gasoline, when the fumes exploded. The girl ran out and rolled herself in the snow.

Whitelaw Reid's Will Filed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—The estate left by Whitelaw Reid, ambassador to Great Britain, and editor and part owner of The New York Tribune, was valued at $1,398,854 in a report filed at White Plains yesterday by the tax appraiser. With the exception of $53,500, the estate consists of personal property. The inheritance of Mrs. Reid, the widow, and principal beneficiary, is appraised at $1,289,385.

REBELS FALL BACK

General Ortega Desists for Lack of Ammunition

FEDERALS HAVE ADVANTAGE

PRESIDIO, Texas, Jan. 3.—After driving a raging cannon fire into the Federal army at Ojinaga, Mexico, for four days Gen. Ortega's rebel army yesterday fell back, it was reported on the American side, to await the arrival of more ammunition. The ammunition is on the way from Chihuahua.

The impregnable position of the 4,000 Federals, entrenched in the heights of the village, from which they command a sweeping range on the advancing rebels, enabled them to hold out against superior numbers. Each time the rebels charged they were compelled to fall back. Though they were flanked on three sides and the United States border patrol had prepared for a possible retreat of their whole army to American territory the Federals fought persistently.

It appeared that Gen. Ortega's rebels were drawing the Federal fire merely to exhaust it. The plan of driving out the Federal force by skirmishing would be in line with the usual guerilla tactics of the rebels, who seldom make aggressive charges.

So far the losses have been heaviest on the rebel side, owing to the Federals' superior range. Federal deserters reported that they had fewer than 100 killed with an unknown number of wounded, while the rebel losses would exceed that number. No Americans were permitted to cross the river, and anything like an accurate estimate was lacking.

Few Federal deserters attempted to reach the American side yesterday. The wounded were cared for by the Red Cross.

Besiegers Worsted.

LAREDO, Texas, Jan. 3.—While the desultory fighting last night was indecisive, whatever advantage there was at the end of the second day's battle in the siege of Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, seemed with the Federal defenders of the town last night. In the most important engagement yesterday a constitutionalist machine gun detachment of 100 men was dislodged from its position, 1,000 yards from the Federal lines. [illegible] ned after thirty-five of their number had been killed. The number of Federals killed was placed at five. Estimates of the wounded were not available. The main line of the besiegers was unbroken, and the Government held their position. Rebel leaders declared they would prolong the siege indefinitely, and promised a more vigorous attack when the artillery arrives.

Seven constitutionalists were summarily hanged by Federals yesterday "as a warning." It also was reported, but not confirmed, that the Federals had put to death wounded constitutionalists left lying on the field.

One act of barbarism was witnessed from the American side of the river. A captured constitutionalist was trussed up with a rope to the tail of a wild horse, which was then sent plunging across the plain dragging the body behind. The prisoner had been shot, but it was not known whether he was dead.

Another story in general circulation, but unconfirmed, was that a wounded constitutionalist, his arms tied behind his back, and his knees tied to his body, was spitted on a pole and paraded in front of the Federals' line.

Cardinal Puts Ban on Tango.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3. — Cardinal Farley started an active fight on the tango here yesterday when he announced through his secretary that he deplored the trend of the present vogue as immodest, and had determined to do all in his power to discourage it. Invitations already out for a dance to be given by the junior auxiliary of the Catholic Institute for the Blind at Delmonico's next Monday night were immediately recalled and the affair abandoned.

A monsignor close to the cardinal further stated that no priest will permit the societies connected with his parish to hold dances while the present vogue of dancing exists, nor will parish charities, schools or other parochial institutions accept funds raised in such a way.

FRAUD IS CHARGED

New Religionist Claims to Confer Immortal Youth

AGED WOMAN IS ACCUSER

TORONTO, Jan. 3.—Frank Dalton Jackson, who gives as his nom-de-plume Francis H. Wright, and says he is also known as "Theo Horace" and "Theo the God," was arrested at 790 Euclid avenue yesterday afternoon by Detectives Twigg, Taylor, and Plainclothesman McElroy. It is charged "that he did with intent to defraud by restraint, compel Harriet Sharpe to execute three valuable securities in order that they might be afterwards used by him."

The case came to the hands of the police when Mrs. Sharpe, a woman of 72 years of age, with whom Wright lived, disappeared two or three days ago, and while at first the matter was not considered serious the police were eventually called in to investigate, and found the woman living at a friend's house on Clinton street. Questioned, she stated she had run away from Wright because she was afraid of him and that he was mesmerizing her. Her nerves were in such a condition that she deserted the place, leaving Wright in possession of the house.

The warrant was then sworn out for Wright's arrest, and he was at once taken into custody. He was found at Mrs. Sharpe's home, and was much disturbed when arrested. Questioned by Inspector Kennedy he said: "I belong to the Philadelphian Order, a body which promises immortality to its members. Our Canadian headquarters are at 790 Euclid avenue, and our members are Mrs. Sharpe and myself. The money obtained by promising immortality to Mrs. Sharpe was invested partly in the company and the distributing of our book."

Wright says he is a doctor. To rejuvenate Mrs. Sharpe, he told the inspector, he was massaging her regularly, and declared she was taking the treatment well, and shortly would be immortal. "How old do you think I am?" he asked the inspector. "Well, if you wou'd take off that wig I'd say about 25 years," replied the officer. Not in the least discomfitured by the discovery that he wore a wig in his life of "perpetual youth" Wright rambled on, declaring he might be near a hundred years of age.

Wright is five feet six inches in height, wearing rubber collar and shirt front, low shoes, pink socks, black wig and gray suit. A ticket from England to Canada, gives rise to the theory that he came to this country in August.

DIED GUARDING CZAR.

Russian Sentinels Killed by Trains In Raging Blizzards.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 3.—Telegrams from wayside stations yesterday tell of a series of miserable tragedies along the Moscow Railway after the passage of the Czar's train, which arrived Thursday evening at the Tsarkoe Selo. For two days and nights before the arrival of the Czar's train the soldiers were posted at a distance of a few yards from one another along the entire road, 400 miles long, between Moscow and St. Petersburg.

Throughout this time a furious storm from Europe raging eastward, to Siberia was raging, in consequence of which the men were numbed and dazed by the cold. After the Imperial train passed they staggered toward their rendezvous, some using the open track where the lines were obliterated under the snow, and the noise of the storm prevented them from hearing the trains. The first message yesterday morning announced that the bodies of two soldiers of the guards were found on the line killed by an ordinary train 45 miles out from St. Petersburg. Other messages report two separate causes of soldiers killed by trains nearer Moscow. The roll-call of soldiers who were employed as sentries is still incomplete.

Nail Almost Fatal.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 3. — In the absence of his family, William Harding, of Wireton, went to his chicken house to investigate a disturbance.

Standing on a box and peering into the coop, he lost his footing and plunged through a small window. The seat of his trousers caught on a stout nail and he hung there. Efforts to release himself were futile, and he quickly lapsed into unconsciousness.

Harding's wife and son, who had been visiting relatives, returned early and, not finding him, started a search. He was discovered, almost dead from exposure and exhaustion. His condition is considered critical.

Archaeologists In Session.

MONTREAL, Jan. 3.—Three sessions were held yesterday by members of the Archaeological Institute of America, in annual meeting here, and business and pleasure were judiciously mixed in the program provided. Many interesting and instructive papers were read and discussed, and various committees disposed of matters affecting the different branches of the institute's work.

Morgan Firm and Baker Quit Interlocking Directorates.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3. — The withdrawal yesterday of J. P. Morgan & Co. from more than a score of great corporations, and the statement shortly afterwards by George F. Baker, an almost equally dominant figure in American finance, that he soon would take similar action, gave Wall street generally a thrill which almost brought trading on the Stock Exchange to a halt.

While it is probably true that many of the prominent bankers had information foreshadowing this momentous move toward ending interlocking directorates the public and brokers had no advance knowledge of what was taking place in the inner councils of the greatest of all American houses of finance. Wherever telephone and ticker flashed the news about the streets, groups of men gathered to discuss what was the all-absorbing topic.

Mr. Morgan, departing from his firm's traditional policy of silence, made a public statement announcing the withdrawal of five members of J. P. Morgan & Co. from directorships in twenty-seven corporations and the intention to withdraw from more.

In Wall street that part of Mr. Morgan's statement in which he spoke of an apparent change in public sentiment in regard to directorships was referred to as a sign of the times. A well-known international banker said:

"For ten years we have had open antagonism between the public and men of affairs. Our big men have now decided to meet the spirit of unrest on the part of the public by so adjusting their affairs as to comply with public sentiment, and I believe that to-days' announcement and those that will follow will be met by the public in the right spirit. In brief, the events of the past few days regarding corporation affairs have encouraged me more than anything that has happened in many years."

HOW THIS WOMAN FOUND HEALTH

Would not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for All Rest of Medicine in the World.

Utica, Ohio.—"I suffered everything from a female weakness after baby came. I had numb spells and was dizzy, had black spots before my eyes, my back ached and I was so weak I could hardly stand up. My face was yellow, even my fingernails were colorless and I had displacement. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I am stout, well and healthy. I can do all my own work and can walk to town and back and not get tired. I would not give your Vegetable Compound for all the rest of the medicines in the world. I tried doctor's medicines and they did me no good."—Mrs. MARY EARLEWINE, R.F.D. No.3, Utica, Ohio.

Another Case.

Nebo, Ill.—"I was bothered for ten years with female troubles and the doctors did not help me. I was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work and every month I had to spend a few days in bed. I read so many letters about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound curing female troubles that I got a bottle of it. It did me more good than anything else I ever took and now it has cured me. I feel better than I have for years and tell everybody what the Compound has done for me. I believe I would not be living to-day but for that."—Mrs. HETTIE GREENSTREET, Nebo, Illinois.

SCREAMED WITH PAIN

Nearly Died With Kidney Trouble Until "Fruit-a-tives" Gave Welcome Relief and Completely Cured The Disease.

CHARLES CALVEART, Esq.
St. Thomas, Ont., April 1st., 1913

"In 1911, I was laid up with Kidney Trouble and not able to get out of my chair. The pain was excruciating and my screams could be heard in the street. I tried many different remedies without any results and I was steadily growing weaker. One day, a friend from Ottawa came in to see me and when he found me in such poor health, said he would send me a sample of "Fruit-a-tives," which he did and I commenced taking them. They did me good from the start and in a very short time I was up and around. "Fruit-a-tives" completely cured me and I have enjoyed the best of health ever since.

I would not have any other remedy for Kidney Trouble and would strongly advise anyone suffering from this trouble to cure themselves with "Fruit-a-tives."

CHARLES CALVEART

It is simply wonderful, the relief that "Fruit-a-tives" gives in Kidney and Bladder Troubles. In the great majority of cases of "acid urine," pain in the back, "kidney cramps" and Rheumatism, the kidneys are not actually diseased. They are merely overworked. That is, they are doing more than their share of the work of ridding the system of waste matter. In most cases of Kidney and Bladder Trouble, there is also Constipation and faulty Skin Action. "Fruit-a-tives" relieves the Kidney Trouble by correcting the action of the Bowels and Skin. This marvellous fruit medicine acts directly on the liver kidneys and skin, and is the only medicine in the world that does act on all three of these great eliminating organs. "Fruit-a-tives" will always cure Kidney Trouble when caused by poor skin action, constipation and acid indigestion. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c., at all dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA

"My nerves were very bad, and I could not sleep at night, nor could I control my arms or legs," writes Mrs. Robert Bustard, Maxwell, N.B. "Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cured me of what I believe was the early stage of locomotor ataxia or paralysis. I cannot describe what I suffered, but now I am entirely cured."

Wishing my Customers one and all, A VERY HAPPY NEW YEAR

JAS. J. SHADGETT

THE SILVER LINING

By RUTH CAMERON

A year or two ago a friend of mine passed through a terrible experience. For several weeks her adored husband lay constantly between life and death; night after night they hardly expected he could live until morning; it almost was a miracle that he finally came back to health and strength. The other day this woman and I were talking about trouble, and she said, "You remember when my husband was sick? Those six weeks were the most dreadful weeks I ever lived through. You see this lock of grey hair? It came to me then. I suffered until I couldn't suffer any more. I would far rather dies than go through six more weeks like those. And yet, do you know, even if I could, I wouldn't erase that experience out of my life.

"You see, I never had any real trouble in my life before. Little things, as everybody does, but nothing real and big like that. And it seems as if it had opened my eyes and made me see the world in a different and bigger way. Books and plays mean more to me now because I can understand about the people who suffer as well as those who are happy. And then the people I know and the folks I read about in the papers and see in the streets—why, it just seems as if I were nearer them all."

Experience is a great and wonderful teacher and not only in the sense that it teaches us how to conduct our own lives better but that it teaches us how to understand other folks' lives.

As we are looking placidly out upon some narrow corner of the world the great Teacher-Surgeon — Experience—passes by, wields his scapel and leaves us blind with pain, but by and by the pain passes and when we look out on the world again, lo, we can see farther and wider than we could ever see before.

Nor is this true merely of big experiences. Every new experience, big or little, widens our field of vision and broadens our sympathies. Not long ago I had my first experience of hospital existence. I didn't like it a bit while it lasted, but as I look back I wouldn't have missed it, for it gave me a new angle of vision on the subject of sickness and a fuller understanding of what it means to suffer and wait.

To welcome bitter experiences because of the wider sympathies they are sure to give, or to see in them anything but a trial while they last, is beyond human ability. But to fail to get that wider sympathy from experience, and even after the wound has healed, to be still too bitter to value their blessings is surely to be "a stupid pupil in the school of life, well birched and none the wiser."

The Real Question.

"My son," said the father, impressively, "suppose I should be taken away suddenly, what would become of you?"

"Why," said the son, irreverently, "I'd stay here; the question is, what would become of you?"

ACROSS ATLANTIC IN FIFTY HOURS

Noted Birdman Says It Is Possible In Huge Aeroplane Carrying Two Hundred Passengers

Louis Bleriot, the first airman ever to fly across the English channel, has some interesting things to say about the possibility of trans-Atlantic flight. One of the most interesting is that he thinks it impractical. Bleriot is as great an expert in the mathematics of aviation as he is in the art of actually handling a machine.

"Do you think it is possible to fly across the Atlantic?" he was asked.

"Perhaps, but I would not wish to try it with the aeroplanes we have to-day. Only the very best of luck—miraculous luck—could get a flyer across. An attempt would be full of danger, with many odds in favor of failure and death."

"Why would it be dangerous?"

"Because, on the wastes of the Atlantic, the flyer would have to alight beside ships several times to secure fuel, and how could he be sure that he would find the ships. Even if there were a string of ships 200 miles apart—and that is not a long distance for a non-stop flight—how could he find his way from one ship to the next? There is no known way by which an aviator can follow a trail across the Atlantic; his compass might show that his course headed for the west, but, in reality, the moving air might be carrying the flyer southward, without his knowledge, away from the next ship that he is seeking. It would be much the same as being lost in a desert!"

"But would it be possible to build an aeroplane that could carry enough fuel for a non-stop flight across the Atlantic?"

"If I had the money and there was a commercial demand for it I could build an aeroplane within two years that would cross the Atlantic ocean in 50 hours! I have figured it all out and made all my calculations," answered the French flyer. "It would easily carry two hundred persons, in addition to the fuel!"

The great airman drew a pencil from his pocket and made some hurried calculations.

"My plan would be," he said, "to have an aeroplane of 10,000 horsepower. You see," he explained, "we figure that every horsepower carries 22 pounds, so our big trans-Atlantic aero-plane might weigh 220,000 pounds or 110 tons. The engine and the fuel together with the necessary lubricating oil, would weigh about 35 tons. I could build a very safe aeroplane that would weigh 40 tons, aside from the engine, and this would leave us 40 tons for the passengers. This would mean about 500 passengers, unless it was desired to use some of this passenger-tonnage in supplying luxurious surroundings for the passengers."

LOUIS BLERIOT

"How soon, do you suppose, will such aeroplanes carry passengers across the Atlantic?"

"Just as soon as there is a demand for such transportation. It is a problem of commercial demand; not of aeroplane building. But I do not think that aeroplanes will ever take the place of ships, for I doubt their commercial usefulness in crossing oceans. Airships will always be dependent on the weather."

Was Expert Ground-keeper

The late John T. Murphy, for more than ten years ground-keeper at the Polo Grounds, New York, was known almost from coast to coast for his remarkable ability at turning up a baseball diamond.

Mr. Murphy was born in Toronto sixty years ago, and when 20 years old moved to Indianapolis, where he took up the profession of landscape gardening. It was this knowledge gained in early manhood that made him recognized as the most expert keeper of athletic fields on this continent.

Most Pitchers Poor Batsmen

A pitcher who can bat as well as twirl is the chief jewel in the crown of a baseball club, the prize that is sought by every manager. Taken as a whole the men of the mound do not shine when they are called upon to do some stick work, and many times a game has been lost because it was the twirler who stepped to the plate when a crackerjack pinch hitter was needed.

Fatality of Whooping Cough

Many parents think lightly of whooping cough, and treat it as a necessary evil, not giving the child who has it any special attention.

The seriousness of whooping cough was emphasized by the Medical Health Officer in Toronto a few months ago, when he reported 14 deaths during the month from whooping cough, and only ten from scarlet fever, typhoid fever and measles combined.

So many people write to us about the relief and cure of whooping cough by the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine that we can recommend it with the greatest confidence.

It loosens the cough, aids expectoration, and by its soothing influence prevents the terrible paroxysms of coughing which are so distressing to witness, and which wear away the strength of the child. By using this treatment the disease is held in check, and cured in a few weeks, instead of months. Look for the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., on the bottle you buy. There are many imitations.

CAMERAS SNAP FINISH

Races Judged Automatically When Winner Breaks Thread

Successful trials of an automatic photographic apparatus for judging races were conducted at Maisons-Lafitte, and the system may be put into general use on the French tracks. A camera is placed in line with the winning post, and the winning horse, by breaking a thread, releases the electrically controlled shutter of the camera, and a photograph of the finish is taken. The apparatus was tried in Belgium for horse racing, and was used in all the track events at the Olympic games at Stockholm, but there the photographs were chiefly used as additional evidence in case of a disagreement between the judges. One critic thinks this method can hardly be "successful" owing to the thread stretching before it breaks, and thus releasing the shutter when the horse is partly past the lens. But this difficulty has long been known, and it is not impossible to overcome it. Muybridge, a pioneer photographer, years ago took successful photographs of horses in motion by this very method.

Tall men are not ambitious. It has been found that only one man in 26 is over 6 feet in height.

Society Was "Snookdom."

There is an amusing reference in the present Lord Tennyson's biography of his father to Frederick Tennyson, a number of whose poems have just been published for the first time. "Frederick Tennyson described himself as 'a person of gloomy insignificance and unsocial monomania.' Society he dismissed contemptuously as 'Snookdom,' and likened it to a street row. The 'high jinks of the high-nosed' (to use another phrase of his) angered him, as did all persons who 'go about with well-cut trousers and ill-arranged ideas'."

The First Ironclad.

The French were the first people to apply in a practical shape the idea of reviving the use of armor on the sides of ships. They constructed five floating batteries clad with four inches of iron. Of these the first was the Tonnante, mounting sixteen guns. She was launched at Brest in 1855. The first ironclad warship proper was the La Gloire, launched in November, 1859. La Gloire was of 5,600 tons displacement and 900 horse power. The famous Merrimac and Monitor gave the world the first fight between ironclads, but they were not the first mailed battleships. The La Gloire was afloat more than a year before the historic encounter in Hampton Roads.—New York American.

Mustaches.

A mustache is what you choose to make it. Almost every man has the raw materials at his command, and he can cut them or cuddle them as he sees fit. Some men beat their mustaches savagely back into their upper lips, refusing them growth, shave them remorselessly once or twice a day and never let a hair of them see the light of day. Other men coax and cajole their mustaches to emerge, pet them, pamper them, protect them and view the resultant hirsute effects in the light of artistic achievements. But not all mustaches are artistic. Some are stubby, and some are scraggly, and some are simply unmowed hair. Now and again we encounter a work of superior excellence, an accomplishment in mustache making, a feat in facial foliage.—Saturday Evening Post.

CONCERNING HEALTH and BEAUTY

By MRS. HENRY SYMES

Paint the Edge With Olive Oil

AIDS to the EYE'S EXPRESSION

Cut Off the Uneven Hairs

Brush the Eyebrows Every Night

Walnut Stain Will Darken

Remove Crow's Feet

"On women Nature did bestow two eyes,
Like heaven's bright lamps, in matchless beauty shining,
Whose charms do seemed captivate the wise,
And warp heads, made fine by art's refining."

HAS nature or God—it is the same thing—not been kind to us? Surely. And so, when we willfully neglect to care for and preserve the beauty of the eyes we are guilty of base ingratitude to the donor and gross injustice to ourselves.

It has been poetically said that the eye is the window of the soul, and poets were ever noted for getting at truths for which we are oftimes loth to give them credit.

The eyes are expressive of character, perhaps even more than the mouth, and for this reason, if for no other, they should have at least five minutes of our time each day.

The eyebrows should be brushed night and morning. Little eyebrow brushes should be obtainable at any place where toilet articles are sold. However, if they are not to be had, a not too stiff nailbrush—one of those little bone-backed affairs with a bone middle—or an even-bristled toothbrush will answer the purpose. At night the brows should be brushed to stimulate them, and in the morning they should be neatly brushed into place for the sake of beauty. Begin, of course, at the nose, and brush each eyebrow toward the ear. The brushing should be done with a gentle firmness, and each stroke should be even and the full length of the eyebrow.

Occasionally there is an abnormally long hair which mars the symmetry of the eyebrow. This should be either clipped off with the scissors or removed by a professional.

When the eyebrows meet they give a sinister expression to even the most guileless face, and greatly mar beauty. I advise you, therefore, to have them removed with the electric needle. When home remedies are used the hairs invariably return. Bleaching the hair between the brows is sometimes effective. If you clip the occasional long hair with the scissors, it is best to use manicure scissors, because they are small. Great care should be taken that the scissor points do not slip and injure the eye. To get another person to do the clipping is safer.

Then there are the scant eyebrows and lashes; for these we must find a remedy. Not long do we have to search, for the ever-accommodating household friend, olive oil, is at hand, and the old standby, vaseline.

Each night before retiring, after the eyebrows have been brushed to stimulate circulation, dip a small camel's-hair brush into the oil or vaseline and brush it well in. Warm the olive oil before applying it. This will thicken the fluid and prevent it from running down into the eyes. The bottle or receptacle containing the olive oil can be placed in a basin or bowl of hot water, and the contents will soon become heated through. For scant lashes, apply the oil or vaseline to the edges of the eyelids. These applications should be made every night.

The eyelashes should never be cut. It is incorrectly believed that cutting stimulates the growth.

It sometimes happens that the brows and lashes are so light that they cause the face to have almost a characterless expression. There is no harm in touching such eyebrows and lashes with walnut stain. It may be just the needed touch to an otherwise beautiful face. These harmless little aids to beauty are perfectly legitimate if done artistically. The crime is in being discovered, not in the doing. To remember that "art conceals art" will often inspire us to take infinite pains with our toilettes. I sometimes think that the French woman must have that quotation for her motto. How madame would gasp and shrug horrified shoulders at our American whirlwind toilettes! But the formula for walnut stain:

Four ounces of walnut skins, beaten to a pulp, to which is added pure alcohol sixteen ounces.

Let stand eight days and strain. Then apply to the hair with a small brush.

The crowsfeet, those forerunners of age, should be speedily attended to. The sooner the better, but it is never too late to begin. The drawback is that crowsfeet of long standing require more patience to eradicate and more persistent effort. Massage morning and night will remove crowsfeet. For this a good massage cream should be used. Care should be exercised that the cream does not get into the eye. It is, therefore, best not to apply too much at once. The following massage cream is pure and effective:

Lanolin	2½ ounces
Spermaceti	4 drams
White vaseline	2½ ounces
Cocoanut oil	2½ ounces
Sweet almond oil	3 ounces
Tincture of benzoin	½ dram

Melt the first five ingredients together, and beat until the mass congretes, adding the benzoin, drop by drop, during the process. Extract of violet, or any perfume may be added if agreeable.

Apply a small quantity of the cream and rub gently into the skin.

Stretch the space to be massaged apart with two fingers of one hand and rub gently and firmly, to cause friction, with the finger tips of the other hand. For the lines about the eyes apply a tiny quantity of the cream and stroke with the tips of the fingers, the motion being toward the temples.

The eyes are such delicate little cameras that to one who has always been taught to take great care of them it is sometimes difficult to credit the carelessness with which many people in their ignorance treat them. From infancy children should be taught that fingers must not come into contact with the eyes only in rare and very necessary instances. In this way many injurious substances will be kept from the eyes and irritation resulting from rubbing will be avoided. As for the idiotic—nay, criminal—practice of putting belladonna into the eyes to enlarge the pupil, I am taking it for granted that none of my readers would be guilty of it. Blindness is sometimes the result of such indiscretion.

To remove foreign particles from the eye a most effective method is to put a whole flaxseed into the eye and allow it to circulate under the lids. It becomes gummy from the tear moisture, and the foreign substance nearly always adheres to it. Another way is to pull the upper lid well down over the lower lid.

Never rub the eye, even though the irritation causes a torturous itching. This often imbeds the particle in the eyeball, whereas, if the eye is let alone, the tears, receiving word of the intruder, will rush to the rescue, and usually rout him without assistance. I know of a woman who travels much and who never goes on a railway journey without having in her handbag a small packet of flaxseed. I assure you that she has quite a number of relieved sufferers to her credit.

If the eyes have been overstrained and are tired, a bathing in warm water will soothe them wonderfully. Let me beg of you not to read in trolley or train, and certainly never do so at night or on the home ride from the office. Then the poor eyes are desperately tired and crying out for rest. Have you not had that dull, heavy, almost a sick feeling when you have reached your destination in the evening after a day's work? It is very likely because you were reading, and the book or paper was wabbling and wiggling. Try studying for a week the types of people about you instead of reading on the car or train. The trial once made, you will not return to the practice of forcing your poor eyes to work overtime.

Eyebrow and Eyelash Grower

Dear Mrs. Symes.
Will you please give me the recipe for an eyebrow and eyelash grower?
E. P.

Following is the recipe for increasing the growth of the eyebrows and eyelashes:

Quinine	2½ ounces
Glycerin	1½ ounces
Tincture of jaborandi	1 ounces

Admix ingredients till thoroughly incorporated. Apply to the eyebrows with a comb and to the lashes with a tiny camel's-hair paint brush. The brush must be dipped in the drop and passed lightly along the edge of the eyelids, exercising extreme care that no minutest portion of the mixture gets into the eye itself.

The Pupils of the Eyes

Dear Mrs. Symes.
Would you let me know if there is anything I can do to keep the pupils of my eyes large without injuring them.
CLARA.

You cannot possibly enlarge the pupils of your eyes by an artificial means without endangering the health of those very delicate organs. The pupil is really a hole in the eye, made by the drawing back of the iris or colored curtain. This is done to admit more light to the retina. Nature has arranged this mechanical operation in order that you can see always to the best advantage. If you are in the dark the pupil will grow larger in order to let in more rays of light. In the bright light the pupils are very small; sometimes the size of a pinhead. In people of nervous temperament the pupil is sometimes larger, but I would hardly suggest that you acquire a case of nerves in order to get this result. My advice is never to tamper with the eyes. Sight is too valuable a possession to run any risk in following foolish and artificial practices.

Tooth Paste

Dear Mrs. Symes.
Some time ago you published a recipe for tooth paste. Will you please print it again?
A READER.

I presume this is the recipe to which you refer:

Tooth Paste

Orris root powder	8 ounces
Myrrh powder	2 ounces
Oil of cloves	2 drams
Oil of lemon	2 drams
Oil of rose	30 drops

Solution of carmine sufficient to color. Honey enough to form paste.

A Liquid Powder

Dear Mrs. Symes.
Do you have the recipe for a liquid powder which I can use on my face?
ANNA J.

Here is the recipe for a liquid powder:

For Whitening the Skin—A Liquid Powder

Pure oxide of zinc	1 ounce
Glycerin	1 dram
Rosewater	4 ounces
Essence of rose	15 drops

Sift the zinc, dissolving it in just enough of the rosewater to cover it; then add the glycerin; next, the remainder of the rosewater. Add the essence of rose last. Shake well, and apply with a soft sponge or clean antiseptic gauze. The face must be well wiped off before the liquid dries, or it will be streaked.

A Corn Cure

Dear Mrs. Symes.
Please tell me what I may use to remove a corn.
HELEN.

Following are the recipes for two corn cures from which you can select one:

Corn Cure

Salicylic acid	30 grains
Extract cannabis indica	5 grains
Collodion	½ ounce

Corn Cure

Borate of sodium	1 dram
Extract of cannabis	1 scruple
Collodion	1 ounce

Paint over the corn once or twice a day and scrape away superficial growth in three or four days.

Ill-fitting shoes are usually the cause of corns. You should make an effort to get comfortable shoes every time you buy a new pair.

A Cold Cream

Dear Mrs. Symes.
As soon as convenient will you please let me have the recipe for a cold cream?
MAUD.

Following is the recipe for a very good cold cream:

Honey and Almond Cream

Honey	1 ounce
White soap, in powder	½ ounce
Oil of sweet almonds	15 ounces
Oil of bitter almonds	½ dram
Oil of bergamot	½ dram
Oil of cloves	7 drops
Balsam of peru	½ dram
Liquor potassæ	½ dram

Mix the oils with the balsam, then mix the honey with the soap in a mortar and enough of the potassæ to produce a nice cream. Add this to the first mixture and continue to beat until you have a thoroughly incorporated emollient.

If this cream does not suit your purpose, you may find witch hazel more satisfactory:

Witch Hazel Cold Cream

White wax	1 ounce
Spermaceti	4 ounces
Oil of almonds	¼ pint

Melt; pour into a mortar which has been heated by being immersed some time in boiling water. Very gradually add 2 ounces of rosewater and 1 ounce of witch hazel, and assiduously stir the mixture until an emulsion is formed, and afterward until the mixture is nearly cold.

This cream is particularly useful for sore or stretched skin.

A Skin Food

Dear Mrs. Symes.
My face is loading, and the skin especially looks as though it needs nourishment. Please tell me what to do to fix it.
ELSIE.

It is evident that you are not taking the proper care of your face. To cleanse it you should use warm water (rainwater is best), or, if you can't get this, use boiled water. Select an agreeable soap and use a complexion brush if your skin will permit. Be sure to rinse the skin thoroughly with cold water so that no trace of the soap will be left and that the pores will be reduced to their proper size.

Once a day rub into the skin the cream for which I am giving the recipe. This will nourish your skin, giving it a smooth and healthy appearance:

Orange-Flower Cream
(A Skin Food)

Oil of sweet almonds	4 ounces
White wax	6 drams
Spermaceti	6 drams
Borax	2 drams
Glycerin	1½ ounces
Orange-flower water	2 ounces
Oil of neroli	15 drops
Oil of bigarade (orange skin)	15 drops
Oil of pimento	15 drops

Melt the first three ingredients, add the glycerin to the orange-flower water and dissolve the borax in the mixture; then pour it slowly into the blended fats, stirring continuously.

Along with this you should exercise for an hour in the fresh air every day. Retire at an early hour and do not worry. The condition of the mind is reflected in the expression of the face.

Superfluous Hair

Dear Mrs. Symes.
Will you please tell me what to do to remove superfluous hairs from the arms?
GRACE.

Following is the recipe for a depilatory which will remove the hairs temporarily. The electric needle is the only thing which will remove the hairs permanently.

A Depilatory

Sulphide of soda or calcium sulphide	30 grains
Chalk	100 grains

Mix thoroughly and keep dry in well-corked bottle until wanted for use. Take enough to cover the part to be depilated and add warm water to it until the proper consistency is secured. Spread over the hairy surface, and allow to remain for from one to five minutes, according to the nature of the growth and the sensitiveness of the skin; then scrape off with a blunt blade—a paper knife, for example. It should be removed, as in every case with a depilatory, when the burning sensation is produced. Too long contact with the skin should be avoided, and immediately after the hair has been removed the denuded surface should be gently washed with warm water and a cold cream or a bland oil applied to prevent irritation.

Oily Skin

Dear Mrs. Symes.
I have a very oily skin which really mars my appearance. Do you think the eating of candy and sweet cakes makes this condition worse?
EUNICE.

You should refrain from eating candy, sweet cakes and all other rich and greasy foods, for diet has a great influence on the condition of the skin. Wiping off the face occasionally with diluted alcohol (25 per cent strength) is beneficial in the case of an oily skin. A few drops of ammonia or a pinch of borax in the water with which the face is washed is also helpful.

To Whiten the Skin

Dear Mrs. Symes.
Will you kindly tell me if benzoin is good for whitening the skin? How is it used?
EMILY.

A teaspoonful of the tincture of benzoin to an ounce of rosewater forms a well-known lotion, which is excellent for whitening the skin.

To Remove Blackheads

Dear Mrs. Symes.
What can I do to remove the blackheads that are on my chin and around my nose?
DOROTHY.

Daily cleansing with hot water, a good soap and a complexion brush will help to remove the blemishes. The green soap treatment will also suit your case:

Green Soap Treatment for Blackheads

Tincture of green soap	2 ounces
Distilled witch hazel	3 ounces

Let this mixture stay on only a few moments, then wash off with hot water.

If the green soap irritates the skin, as it sometimes will, use it every other day. Apply a cold cream.

Green soap may be purchased at any drug store. It is not a regular "toilet soap," but is of about the consistency of custard.

Open each seed acne with the point of a fine cambric needle. The hardened mass must be pressed or picked out. The empty sac of the gland should then be bathed with a little toilet vinegar and water, or with a very weak solution of carbolic acid and water. Sterilize the needle before using it by dipping into boiling water, as the use of any instrument, unless the skin as well as the needle is thoroughly cleansed, is always dangerous.

A Powder Recipe

Dear Mrs. Symes.
Please give me the recipe for a powder which can be used in case of perspiration.
A. D.

Following is the recipe for a good powder which will suit your purposes:

Orris Powder for Perspiration

Phenic acid	2 fluid drams
Alcohol	6½ fluid drams
Pharco	6½ ounces
Florentine orris	3½ ounces
Essence of violet	12 minims

Dissolve the acid in the alcohol; add the violet essence, then the starch and orris root. This powder can be used to advantage on a powdering hands, and it is an agreeable glove powder.

ADVICE ON SOCIAL CUSTOMS

Mrs Charles Adams
most cordially invites her friends to bring to her Any Social Problems and Perplexities by Letter at any time

[If a personal reply is desired, a self-addressed stamped envelope should be inclosed.]

YOUR HALLOWEEN PARTY

SO OFTEN have I given suggestions regarding invitations for parties and formal entertainments that it is unnecessary to talk of cards or written invitations that are already out. So today we are going to consider the little things that really mean much in the success of a Halloween entertainment.

I hope that you have been clever enough to choose your company with an eye to the congeniality, friendliness and entertaining qualities of the members. With the right people the success of your party is half won.

If the guests have come masked, there will be much merriment as a result, and the good times will suggest themselves. But the successful hostess will keep the general plan of entertainment well in mind, and will not allow things to lag and guests to grow bored.

Games are expected on Halloween, and accent is placed on the mysterious kind. The foretelling of the future is always enjoyed, although we say that we don't believe a word of it. The forecasting of our husbands and wives, or the lack of them, is always great fun.

If you can choose a clever man or woman to dress as a gipsy or a brigand, have the guests assemble, and a reading of the hand, the cards or the tea-leaves.

The candle, mirror and dark closet afford much amusement if you can improvise a surprise for each guest. Harmless jokes, such as a dash of cold water to one's hopes, will help in the fun. I do not recommend any practical scares that suggest the foolish hazing in schools.

Bobbing for apples is an old-time game and can be played if no handsome dresses are worn. A tub filled with water, with apples floating in it, is placed on the floor, and the apples are taken out by the teeth, the hands held behind the back.

Furnish each guest with a set of three little candles, and have them name them Fame, Fortune, Love, and the test will be to light them and find which one will burn the longest and, therefore, be the gift of the future.

A stretching of a sheet across an empty picture frame, and the casting of silhouettes on the sheet, will afford a change, especially if the persons are in costume. Guessing the actors and the quick composition of short verses about each picture will give an excuse to a hostess to award prizes.

At the table there is a great chance for the display of cleverness. Place-cards always contribute to the merriment of the feast and places the right ones at the right places. The simple ones you will find the best, and the quickly made paper forms that are apples, pumpkins, witches' caps, black cats, broomsticks and mirrors can be contrived for a very small outlay. These decorate the table, and with the centerpiece and large bowls of fruit, will give the table a festive air that is attractive. A large pie, made by covering a dishpan with wrapping paper and crinkling the edges, after filling it with souvenirs, can be the last course, and if you can attach a couplet to each one, the fun will be the greater. Have ribbons tied to each gift and, after passing through a slit of paper, running out to each plate.

If you have a maid whose service can be called into play, have her enter the dining room in a sheet and pillowcase with a white mask and serve the guests in ghostly silence.

The decoration of jack o' lanterns, candles in tin holders and cornhusks will add one more touch to the table and another measure to the enjoyment of the evening.

SOLUTIONS TO SOCIAL PROBLEMS

Place Cards

DEAR Mrs. Adams.
Please tell me if it is advisable to use place cards at a birthday party.
ANXIOUS

Place cards always save a great deal of commotion and hesitation in the seating of the guests. I think it is always well to provide them. If they are cleverly designed they often afford a way to start conversation.

A Widow's Cards

Dear Mrs. Adams.
I am a widow and expect to be married next month. I have no parents to announce the wedding. Will you kindly tell me how my announcement cards should read?
W. T.

The cards may be worded in the following form:

Mr. George Baxter Smith and Mrs Katherine Little Burns have the honor of announcing their marriage
on Saturday, October the fifth, nineteen hundred and thirteen, at
The First Presbyterian Church,
Cleveland

Dignity and Pleasure

Dear Mrs. Adams.
As you have hinted so many who have sought advice from you, I am going to ask you to enlighten me on a certain subject. Do you consider it worth while to sacrifice one's dignity for pleasure? I have been out with a crowd of boys and girls, and at times did not approve of their actions. I am naturally quiet and feel that I have lost quite a little pleasure and sound times through my backwardness. However, in looking back at some of the actions of my rather forward friends and considering what results they have wrought, I don't altogether regret my backwardness.
A CONSTANT READER

I heartily agree with you when you say that you do not regret your backwardness. I do not think that sacrificing dignity for pleasure ever pays. Those girls who have been what you call popular or successful are really getting very little out of life. There is a semblance of enjoyment, but it is not really the kind that counts for anything in character building or permanent worth. I disapprove heartily of the freedom of action between young girls and their men acquaintances. To my mind, it is vulgar, and it decidedly places a girl at a disadvantage. I wish you could hear the opinions exchanged between these very men who have taken advantage of liberties allowed them by foolish girls. They are far from laudatory, and intimate that there is a lack of respect on the part of the very men who have fooled the girls into thinking that they are attractive, entertaining and popular. Keep your self-respect, my dear girl; it is a greater jewel than the worthless, foolish pleasures which you have mentioned. After all, do you think that these girls whom you envy really enjoy making fools of themselves? Try to get your own natural, sweet self, and be glad that you are not ashamed to look yourself straight in the mirror every night and morning.

At an Early Wedding

Dear Mrs. Adams,
I expect to be married at 7 o'clock in the morning. Please tell me if it is proper for me to wear a white serge gown with a train and a veil. What should the groom wear?
E. F.

The costume suggested for the bride is in good taste for an early morning wedding. The bridegroom should wear a frock coat, gray or black trousers, white waistcoat, light gray neckties and light gloves.

The Groom's Suit

Dear Mrs. Adams,
Will you kindly let me know if it is necessary for a bridegroom to wear a full dress suit at a 6 o'clock wedding?
PERPLEXED.

A dress suit would not be proper. The bridegroom should wear gray or black trousers, frock coat, white waistcoat, light gray neckties and light gloves.

What to Say

Dear Mrs. Adams,
When leaving the home of a girl friend whom I have just met a man who should I say to him?
DOUBT.

Merely bid him goodby, and if he expresses any pleasure at having met you, thank him pleasantly.

Entering a Dance Hall

Dear Mrs. Adams,
When entering a dance hall with a man friend, should I place my hand on his arm?
MARIE.

It is not good form for a [illegible] to enter a ballroom arm in arm. A woman should precede her escort.

Giving the Order

Dear Mrs. Adams,
When a woman takes tea other women out to a restaurant, who gives the order to the waiter?
IN DOUBT.

The woman who is the hostess gives the order to the waiter after learning what her guests desire.

For Women Who Work.

Abbey's Effer-Vescent Salt

is the best tonic. It prevents headaches and biliousness by stimulating the liver and digestive organs to natural action.

Rosy Cheeks

follow its daily use—because this pleasantly bubbling drink is mildly laxative in its action and clears the blood of impurities.

How to Make Better Cough Syrup than You Can Buy

A Family Supply, Saving $3 and Fully Guaranteed.

Sixteen ounces of cough syrup — as much as you could buy for $3.50—can easily be made at home. You will find nothing that takes hold of an obstinate cough more quickly, usually ending it inside of 24 hours. Excellent, too, for croup, whooping cough, sore lungs, asthma, hoarseness and other throat troubles.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir for two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, then add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

This is just laxative enough to help cure a cough. Also stimulates the appetite, which is usually upset by a cough. The taste is pleasant.

The effect of pine and sugar syrup on the inflamed membranes is well known. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe is now used by thousands of housewives throughout the United States and Canada. The plan has been imitated, but the old successful formula has never been equaled.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

ACTIVITIES ARE GROWING.

Canada's Trade and Immigration Show a Big Increase.

In spite of the world-wide depression of which Canada is getting her share, or perhaps a little less, the year has been a record one in almost every department of the national life.

That this is Canada's century is shown by the marvellous growth in the volume of trade. Figures just compiled for the twelve months ending Oct. 1 show that the total trade of Canada was $1,113,997,253. This is an increase for the corresponding period of 1910, only four years ago, of nearly four hundred million dollars.

Of this enormous total $688,292,457 was imports, and $425,704,796 exports, so that the balance of trade is still greatly against Canada, though the past year has seen a large increase in exports as against imports. Our exports in manufactures are particularly growing, increasing from $39,047,905 in 1912 to $50,280,990 in 1913.

For the eight months of the present fiscal year, ending November last, the exports of agricultural produce easily take the lead. During this period domestic agricultural exports were $142,338,000; for the corresponding eight months of the last fiscal year, domestic agricultural exports were $96,349,000. During the eight months of the present fiscal year the exports of domestic animals and their produce was $38,834,000, compared with $32,949,000 for the corresponding period of 1912. The fisheries were also in a more flourishing condition. For the eight months of the present fiscal year Canada exported of domestic fish $13,556,000, compared with $10,499,000 for the corresponding eight months of 1912.

In many instances the rapid growth of the country has required that any former surplus stock should be sold at home. The cattle export trade is steadily decreasing. In 1905, 1,000,000 head of cattle were sent out; in 1912, the figure had dropped to less than one-twentieth with 49,000 exported, while in 1913 it was much lower.

The influx of new citizens into the Dominion has gone ahead by leaps and bounds. The total immigration to Canada during the first eight months, April to November, of the present fiscal year was 340,399; made up of 132,461 British, 86,272 American and 122,166 from all other countries.

During the eight corresponding months of the last fiscal year the total number was 321,058, composed of 124,613 British, 108,035 American and 88,210 from all other countries. The increase is six per cent.

With these two factors of increased population and smaller supply of necessities the natural result has been the now dominant problem of the high cost of living. The index at Ottawa, where statistics are kept, is creeping up. In October the tell-tale pointer stood at 136.8. At the end of November it read 138.4. The increase was due to the advance in the prices of grains and fodder, beef, sheep, dairy products, (especially eggs), and fresh vegetables. These increases, however, were somewhat offset by declines in flour, glucose, honey, raw cotton and silk, coke, iron, pipe, linseed oil, resin and raw rubber.

The level was higher than a year ago in animals and meats, dairy products, textiles, hides, leathers, boots and shoes, lumber, miscellaneous building materials, furniture and crockery. A lower level than last year appeared in grains and fodders, fish and paints and oils. Fruits and vegetables were slightly higher, but miscellaneous groceries were somewhat lower than last year.

The feature of the month in retail prices was the advance in eggs, but the movement was also upward in butter, potatoes, coal, milk and prunes. Beef, veal and mutton advanced in some localities, but fresh pork and lard declined in a number of Canadian cities.

Centre Door In Car.

A certain number of cars on one of the London underground roads have been fitted with a centre door opening inward. These doors are completely under the control of the conductor from his platform and can be either bolted or unbolted by merely pressing a small lever. Each doorway is connected with electric lights on the conductor's platform and in the driver's cab, which light or go out, according as the doors are bolted or unbolted. No train is, therefore, started until the light by the driver's side assures him that all the doors are closed.

Wonderful Sermon Maker.

A wonderful sermon-maker was C. H. Spurgeon. He had no need to repeat himself, for his powers seemed inexhaustible, and moreover, he made repetition impossible by publishing his sermons week by week. The weekly issue began in 1861, and though the great preacher died in 1891, he left behind so much material that the publication has continued till this day and is likely to go on for at least another dozen years. No other published sermons ever attained such popularity as Spurgeon's. Of one sermon alone more than 300,000 copies were sold.

Enormous Antarctic Coal Field.

The deposits of coal discovered by the Shackleton and Scott expeditions in the Antarctic will perhaps prove to be one of the largest unworked coal fields in the world. Wild, of the Shackleton expedition, discovered seven seams of coal outcropping in a great cliff face of sandstone and shale. The thickness of these seams, inclusive of a few clay bands, was seven feet. Specimens chopped out by Wild with his ice axe have been analyzed at Sydney and show the coal to be of workable quality. Scott's geologists traced this field for a distance of 650 miles, extending northward from the head of the Beardmore glacier.

Starting the Day Right

Do you begin the day with a "grouch"? Are you tired in the mornings? Do you fail to benefit by the restorative influence of sleep, which should make good the energy and vitality consumed by the day's work?

Then you are rapidly becoming bankrupt so far as health is concerned. You should look to your habits of eating, make sure that you get lots of fresh air in your sleeping apartments, and restore wasted vitality by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

This great food cure does not induce sleep by any drugging effect, but when you have been using it for a few days and get the nervous system into condition you find yourself resting and sleeping naturally and healthfully. By keeping up this restorative treatment you will be able to make good the waste and fill the exhausted nervous system with new vigour and energy. This means thorough cure of such symptoms as headache, sleeplessness, indigestion and tired, listless feelings.

Kept His Word.

An amusing tale is told in "Police Work From Within," by Hargrave L. Adam, of Charles Peace, the celebrated burglar. He once went into a chemist's shop smoking a choice cigar, which he had burgled in a recent "exploit."

"The chemist, noticing the aroma of the cigar, remarked, 'That's a nice cigar you're smoking. Where did you get it?' Peace promptly replied, 'I stole it.' At this the chemist laughed and said, 'I wish you would steal some as good for me.' Again Peace promptly replied, 'I will.' Shortly after he again secured some good cigars upon the occasion of one of his nocturnal jobs, several of which he took to the chemist in question. As he handed them to him he remarked, 'There you are—I stole them for you.'"

Gold Filled Wire.

Since the perfection of gold filled metal the number of spectacle and eyeglass frames and mountings made of this material has shown a very large yearly increase. Considering the importance of gold filled wire and the many uses to which it is put it seems surprising that so little is really known of this and how nearly equal to solid gold it is for many uses. The term gold filled is somewhat misleading. Merely reversing it almost thoroughly explains both the material and the process.

Filled gold, as it might well be called, consists of a gold shell filled with an alloy of base metal. The popularity of gold filled is demonstrated by the fact that nearly $1,000,000 of fine gold is used annually in one plant alone, and half of this is used in the manufacture of the gold filled wire from which spectacles and eyeglass frames and mountings are made.—American Machinist.

Gladstone and Disraeli.

It was Disraeli at the Academy banquet who said that "the noble, distinctive trait of British art was its boundless fertility in imagination and fancy." In the reaction after the banquet, as he was going home with Mr. Goschen, he "descanted on English painters and deplored their total want of fancy and imagination." Being reminded by his companion that this was not exactly what he had led people to believe was his opinion in his speech at the banquet, "No," replied Dizzy, "but, then, my friend, one must be pleasant after dinner."

Very characteristic was the comment next morning of Mr. Gladstone, who glared at the companion and roared out: "Do you mean to say that he carried his ghastly insincerity within those walls! It's hellish!"—Independent.

for years and didn't recognize it till Phyllis and I went out this morning. We shot a brace of ducks, and I believe mother has prevailed upon Chloe to include them in the dinner"—

"A real dinner!" yelled Hayden and Carew in chorus.

"Yes." Jack laughed as the two men broke away pellmell toward the house.

Mrs. Carew and Mrs. Hayden looked at blushing Phyllis and happy Jack.

"I believe you two have found something else to be thankful for," said Phyllis' mother softly.

BLUE-BLOOD STEALS PURSE.

French Viscount Deliberately Incurs a Jail Sentence.

PARIS, Jan. 3.—Viscount Charles Enguerrand de Marigny, scion of an old French family, penniless and starving, yesterday snatched a pocketbook from a woman in the street here in order, as he explained to the police commissary, that he might be sent to prison, where he would at least be given food and shelter from the bitter cold. The viscount's father once was very wealthy, but lost his all in a bank failure.
Viscount de Marigny served with the French cavalry force in the Morocco campaign and was awarded a medal. Recently he was discharged from the army, his term of service having expired. He spent all his savings, he said, while vainly seeking employment.
The police commissary complied with the request of de Marigny and sent him to jail.

Murderer Is Executed.

WINDSOR, Vt., Jan. 3. — Arthur Bosworth was hanged at the state prison yesterday afternoon for the murder of Mae Labelle at Essex Junction in June, 1911.
Hereafter all murderers condemned to death in Vermont will be electrocuted.
Bosworth shot and fatally wounded Mae Labelle, the 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Labelle, on the platform of the railroad station at Essex Junction on June 7, 1911. She died two days later. Bosworth was immediately arrested and was found guilty of murder in the first degree.

Fire Turns Cheese Into Rarebit.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Struggling through tons of sticky, melting cheese, firemen fought for hours early yesterday against a fire in the five-storey warehouse of O. Roth & Co., cheese importers, at 15 Jay street. The firm's stock was turned into a huge rarebit by the fire.

HOW TO PREVENT ACID STOMACHS AND FOOD FERMENTATION

By a Stomach Specialist.

As a specialist who has spent many years in the study and treatment of stomach troubles, I have been forced to the conclusion that most people who complain of stomach trouble possess stomachs that are absolutely healthy and normal. The real trouble, that which causes all the pain and difficulty, is acid in the stomach, usually due to, or aggravated by, food fermentation. Acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach and food fermentation causes wind which distends the stomach abnormally, causing that full bloated feeling. Thus both acid and fermentation interfere with and retard the process of digestion. The stomach is usually healthy and normal, but irritated almost past endurance by these foreign elements—acid and wind. In all such cases—and they comprise over 90 per cent. of all stomach difficulties—the first and only step necessary is to neutralize the acid and stop the fermentation by taking in a little warm or cold water immediately after eating, half a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, which is doubtless the best and only really effective antacid and food corrective known. The acid will be neutralized and the fermentation stopped almost instantly, and your stomach will at once proceed to digest the food in a healthy, normal manner. Be sure to ask your chemist for the bisurated magnesia, as I have found other forms utterly lacking in the peculiarly valuable properties.—F. J. S.

TO CONSERVE LANDS.

Power Sites Will Be Held by Dominion Government.

OTTAWA, Jan. 3.—An order in Council has been passed amending the regulations governing the granting of licenses and permits to cut timber on Dominion lands in the Prairie Provinces, the Northwest Territories and certain parts of British Columbia. The amendment provides for the withdrawal from timber berths held under license of land required for water-power purposes.
The condition for such withdrawals is that the lessee of the water power pay the licensees of the berth the value of all timber of ten inches and over in diameter at the stump.
The regulation of water powers by the Government in the west is an indication of the fact that it has no intention of handing over to the provinces their natural resources.

24,000 Executions In Year.

PEKIN, Jan. 3.—It was officially estimated yesterday that 24,000 executions were carried out in the province of Sze-Chuen alone in 1913.
Most of those ordered to be killed were robbers, but in the total were included a large number of political offenders, who had been concerned in various movements during the transition period from an empire to a republic.
It is hinted by officials that the actual figures regarding the executions would, if they could be known, probably exceed the estimate.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally if you eat meat regularly

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.
The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.
Jad Salts is inexpensive; and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

WIFE HAS NEW CLUE.

Mrs. Lavell Is Following Up Traces Near Chatham.

CHATHAM, Jan. 3.—Mrs. A. C. Lavell, wife of the university professor, who nearly two months ago lost his reason and identity while traveling through Hamilton and since that time has not been located, is in the city to-day investigating the reports that have been recently circulated to the effect that he is in this part of the country.
Jack Gillette, a Chatham farmer, reported to the county authorities that about two weeks ago a man answering the description of the missing professor had called at his home one evening and had been supplied with food. The next day, in the city, he again ran across the stranger and bought him his dinner. Since that time he has neither seen nor heard of him. Mrs. Lavell met Mr. Gillette yesterday morning and plied him with numerous questions concerning the stranger's appearance. She admits that the farmer's description tallies almost exactly with that of her husband.

CAN IT COME BACK?

A Lone Bustle Gets an Exciting Reception In Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 3—Hooted from its position of popularity among the modish dressed women of an earlier decade, and thrown into the discard, the "bustle" has come back, or at least one of them. Adorning one of the latest creations of the Parisian modiste's art, it arrived here yesterday and was placed on display by a beautiful young miss who passed down Fifth avenue, the cynosure of thousands of eyes and to the accompaniment of an ever-increasing babble of voices, hoots and hisses. When Miss Collingwood turned into Fifth avenue from Smithfield street yesterday afternoon there was a gasp from the crowd on the busy thoroughfare and then a simultaneous "it's a bustle."
By the time the fair young dame had traveled a block Pittsburg's fashionable thoroughfare was congested with a wildly curious mob of men and women, eager, as one of the latter species said, for "just one glimpse." Two big corner policement finally took Miss Collingwood in tow and urged her i to one of the avenue's big banking houses. Later she was whisked away in a big motor car, bustle and all.

EXPEDITION FITTING OUT?

Troops May Be Sent To Punish the Mad Mullah.

LONDON, Jan. 3.—A punitive expedition to operate against the Mad Mullah in the British protectorate of Somaliland is being organized, according to an evening newspaper.
Since a camel corps of British native troops was cut up by the Mad Mullah and his followers on Aug. 12 last year, the dervishes have devastated the country of the friendly tribes to such an extent that thousands have fled to the coast.
In the engagement in August, a white British officer was killed and wounded, while there were 50 casualties among their native troopers.
It is assumed that the expedition will consist of seasoned troops from British India and that it will be of considerable strength, as the Mad Mullah's successes have attracted thousands from the desert hordes to his banner.

THREATENS ANARCHY.

Letter From "Unemployed Leader" Promises Trouble For Regina.

REGINA, Sask., Jan. 3.—A strange communication signed "The Chief of the Unemployed Gang" was published here yesterday. It threatens direful things for Regina, nothing less than the immediate and total destruction of the city by fire and dynamite if the "white unemployed" are not found immediate work. The matter was not very seriously regarded but impelled the police to issue a warning to citizens to report any untoward happening as quickly as possible.
The letter states that the "unemployed gang" will take the city by "rioting, shooting and burning property," if some help is not immediately vouchsafed them.

FAMINE IS OVER.

Montreal Has First Full Supply of Water Since Christmas.

MONTREAL, Jan. 3. — Montreal's water famine, which started on Christmas Day, was ended last night when the city's pumps were set in motion, forcing millions of gallons of water into the mains leading to the famine stricken district.
After repeated tests of the repaired conduit, and a consultation among the engineers, the gateway at the intake in the St. Lawrence river was opened at 6.45 p.m. At 8.10 the water reached the suction well at Point St. Charles and at 8.36 the pumps were started, forcing the water direct into the city mains.
The famine-stricken district embraced what is known as the second level of the city, and it was not until 10 o'clock that a dribbling stream began to flow from the taps. At 11.45 o'clock six of the seven city pumps were in motion, and the water at that hour had reached the highest point of the stricken district.
While the repaired joints of the conduit were leaking slightly at midnight the engineers expressed the opinion that there was no danger of another break, and promised a liberal supply of water from now on.

Deadly Pellagra Not Very Bad.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 3. — That a pellagra is not due to corn and that the disease is by no means as dangerous as the public may believe were two important conclusions reported by the Thompson-McFadden commission yesterday to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.
Dr. J. S. Siler of the U. S. Medical Corps, senior member of the commission, said he believed that "within a year or two the cause of pellagra will have been discovered or the investigation will have gone so far that we can define precautions for preventing its spread."

German Soldiers Abused.

ZABERN, Alsace, Germany, Jan. 3. —A local newspaper, The Anzeiger, yesterday printed detailed charges of abuse of soldiers and civilians by Lt. Baron von Forstner, Lieut. Bottige and Sergt. Hoedich of the 99th Regiment. Capt. Von Kistowsky of the same regiment is also accused by The Anzeiger of insulting and permitting insults to private soldiers.

YOUR VOTE IS SOLICITED BY H. P. MORGAN AS ALDERMAN IN CENTRE WARD

INCREASE IN THE NUMBER OF FIRE ALARMS FOR 1913

The Fire Record Grows With the City—The Need For a Motor-Driven Chemical Engine is Patent to Property Owners—Why Ratepayers Should Endorse the By-law.

WILL VOTE ON MONDAY

On Monday next the ratepayers will have an opportunity of voting on a by-law to increase the efficiency of the fire department. The rolling stock of the department at the present time consists of a steam engine, two hose waggons and a hook and ladder truck. It has been proposed to add one piece of motor driven apparatus which will cost in the neighbourhood of eight thousand dollars. It is further proposed that the money for the purchase of the motor truck be raised by means of what is known as instalment debentures. That is, the purchase price is spread over twenty or thirty years, with the result that the expenditure is scarcely felt by the individual ratepayer. The by-law will be submitted to the electors on Monday. Its defeat will spell retrogression for the City's fire fighting facilities. The Underwriters have intimated through their inspector that an increase in the insurance rates is inevitable, unless something is done to increase the fire-fighting facilities of Peterborough.

Chemical Vs. Water.

The equipment which eight thousand dollars will provide for Peterborough, is what is known as a combination motor-driven chemical fire engine. Five gallons of chemical as supplied by this engine will put out more fire than two hundred gallons of water. Besides, water not infrequently destroys more stock than the actual fire. The use of chemicals will obviate this condition. Imagine a couple of fire-lines turned into your front parlour or bedroom with a hundred pounds pressure at the nozzle. It would literally eat the heart out of yourself and home, and would do indefinitely more damage to the contents than the fire. A fire-destroying chemical will will subdue a fire quicker than tons of water.

The Equipment.

A chemical engine such as eight thousand dollars will buy, is equipped as follows: Two thirty-five gallon tanks, two five gallon tanks, two three gallon tanks, two thousand feet of standard fire hose, ladders, etc.

In event of lack of water pressure, the engine that is used to propel the motor truck can be thrown into service on the water line, increasing the water pressure at the hydrant from sixty to two hundred and fifty pounds.

The Passing Fire Horse.

It has been said that the motor truck will not travel through snow. The Montreal fire department has been partly motorized. This year Chief Tremblay has recommended the total abolition of the fire horse and the substitution of motor driven equipment. Montreal is favoured with a great deal more snow than Peterborough, and in the outlying districts the motor driven trucks are frequently put to severe tests. Yet Chief Tremblay asserts that the power driven trucks are preferable to those patrolled by horses. Motor trucks are fitted with exceptionally wide tires with a bearing surface that has a grip like a bull dog. They will go where horses will fall down.

The motor is no longer in an experimental stage. It is a practical every-day machine.

A Local Incident.

A few days ago the fire department had a particularly arduous run to a fire at 708 Aylmer Street. It was necessary to rest the horses twice before

MONEY WAS RETURNED TO S.A.

Contributors Conflict the Maple Leaf Band With That of the Salvation Army

While serenading on Christmas Day, the Maple Leaf Band received a number of envelopes intended for the Salvation Army. Upon discovering the mistake the members of the band immediately turned the funds over to the proper authorities, but not before the police had been notified of the occurrence. The money which did not exceed three or four dollars, had been returned however, before the police arrived on the scene. The members of the band regret the fact that the police should have been notified as they had no intention of infringing upon the rights of the Temple Band. The money came into their hands inadvertently, and was returned as soon as the mistake was discovered.

Bottles Strewn Along The Road

Are a Menace to the Public—Little Girl Sustains Severe Injury

Automobile owners have of late been complaining of glass bottles and other refuse which is strewn along the road. This morning a little girl belonging to Mr. Jack Donovan fell on a piece of glass that was lying in the road and sustained a severe gash in her leg. Medical aid was summoned and the wound treated.

It has been stated that a considerable quantity of the glass in question falls from the garbage waggons.

Owing to a rearrangement of the Grand Trunk Railway system, which comes into force to-morrow, the numbers of all the trains on the company's tracks will be changed. This effects the trains passing through this city on the Belleville-Lakefield subdivision.

Train No. 21, from Port Hope to Toronto, will be No. 93. Train No. 22, between Toronto and Port Hope, will be changed to No. 92. Train No. 24 (the 9 o'clock from Toronto, will be No. 94.

The train due to arrive here at 8:20 a.m. from Belleville, formerly No. 10, will now be No. 98, and the 1:30 train to Belleville will be No. 100, instead of No. 12.

KILLED BY FALL

Workman at Fort William Meets Sudden Death

Special Wire to The Examiner:

FORT WILLIAM, ONT., A workman by the name of Percy Jones, was instantly killed by a fall at the new plant of the Fort William starch works late yesterday afternoon.

A plurality in favour of the by-law to purchase a motor-driven chemical engine will not only increase the fire-fighting facilities of the fire department, but will help to keep the insurance rates down. The above depicts the type of engine that eight thousand dollars will buy for Peterborough. It will not only carry two thousand feet of standard fire hose, but in case of emergency, can be converted into a powerful pumping engine, capable of increasing the water pressure from sixty to two hundred and fifty pounds.

WHAT THE NEW LIGHTS WILL COST

In an interview with The Examiner this morning, Ald. Johnston, Chairman of the Power Committee, stated that the cost of lighting the business section of the City, based on a fully equipped sub-station, would be aproximately $2926 a year, not $6000 or $6500, as has been stated. The cost of operating each lamp per year would be $35, making a total of $3500, from which must be deducted the cost of the thirteen arc lamps and two incandescent lamps that have been removed —$674 in all—leaving the net cost at $2826.

SPECIAL PRIZES FOR POULTRY SHOW

Are Exhibited in Oak Hall Store Window

The annual poultry show to be held in the Market Hall Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week, promises to be a great success. Up to last evening over one thousand entries had been made, and it is likely that by to-night when the entries close the above number will be greatly increased. A few of the special prizes are on exhibition to-day in Oak Hall's Clothing Store window. They are worthy of note and should excite keen interest in the competitions for which they have been secured. Everything points to a bigger and better show than ever before and that is saying a good deal, as the reputation of past exhibitions is well known to everyone.

SENTENCED TO YEAR IN CENTRAL

James Heagan Charged With Stealing $100 Last Night wrs Summarily Dealt With This Morning

TO-DAY'S POLICE COURT

In this morning's Police Court James Heagan, a local young man, was charged with the theft of $100 from William McGee. He pleaded "not guilty" to the charge, and at first elected to be tried by jury. But when he found that he would have to stay in jail until the sittings of the court, he changed his election and elected to be tried summarily.

Heagan was accused of stealing the $100 bill from Wm. McGee, in a bedroom of the American House yesterday. He admitted taking the money but claimed that he did so to keep it in safety as McGee was drunk. The Magistrate, however, refused to believe his story, and sentenced the prisoner to a year in Central Prison.

In the witness box, Wm. McGee told how Heagan had invited him to use the bed in his room yesterday afternoon. He went up stairs to it, and fell asleep. When he awoke an hour later, he went to the bar to get a drink. Taking the money out of his pocket he found that a $100 bill was missing. He had over $300 when he lay down to sleep, and only a little over $200 when he awoke. When he found his money gone he reported it to the proprietor of the hotel and then to the police.

P. C.s Reid and Haywood testified that last night they were informed of the robbery. They went to work on the case at once and about 11 o'clock arrested Heagan. When arrested he had $103.26 on his person.

In his own defence Heagan swore that he took the money so that McGee would not lose it. He could not give any reason for taking the $100 and leaving over $200 in McGee's pocket.

In sentencing him the Magistrate said: "I am sorry you are an Irishman." He was given a year in Central Prison.

Mr. Ed. Wood conducted the prosecution in the absence of his father, Crown Attorney Wood, who is ill.

Elizabeth Steel, a local woman, came before the Magistrate charged

Attractions At The Royal

Big Bill of Fare Arranged For Next Week

An All-Star Vaudeville Troupe will open the week commencing Monday at the Royal Theatre. They comprise Russell-Taylor and Company, Sprague and Dixon, the Thurston Sisters and the Thrillers. This is one of the best vaudeville aggregations that have been seen in this City for some time, and is an indication of what the patrons of the Royal Theatre may expect throughout the year. When the alterations are completed, a programme that promises to eclipse all former records, will be introduced.

Eight acts will be put on each week and each day will see a new change of pictures, songs, etc. Without a doubt, it will be the greatest show for the price ever put on in Ontario. Henceforth the price of admission to children will be five cents and for adults ten cents. A big surprise is in store on Tuesday for the patrons of this high class theatre. On Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week, Keene, the fun maker, Silver and Silvette, Ed and Rolla White, and Malcom and Company will make their initial appearance in Peterborough, bringing to a close a plethora of high class comedy, seldom attempted before in Peterborough.

MAYOR BRADBURN ON FINANCES OF THE CITY

His Worship Replies to the Letter of "Over-burdened Tax-payer" —Says the Latter Has Made Many Misstatements.

CITY'S CREDIT THE BEST

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—I have seen in the local papers a letter from one who signs himself "A Burdened Ratepayer," in which he savagely and most unfairly attacked the members of the City Council for the past six years.

He magnifies the debt of the City, and the way he does it is cool. He is not satisfied with taking the amount of the outstanding liabilities, but assumes that $800,000 for the Peterborough Light and Power Company and a number of other large items will be added, and then counts them as if they were already added. He has great confidence in the Power Trust, as well as a liking for it, although he has little or no confidence in the Council or City, and assumes that everything the Trust says must be true and be carried out. On such assumptions as he has made, as to what will, or may, be done, the debt could be easily raised at any figure he pleases.

He takes 1907 as a starting point. Very well, the items in the increase of the debt, including work done for which debentures are not yet issued, since the close of the year 1907 are as follows:

Waterworks	$300,000.00
Schools	181,000.94
Sewers	90,500.00

Market Was Slimly Attended

Difference of One Cent in the Price of Eggs

Eggs on the outside market were worth thirty-nine cents a dozen and on the inside market forty cents was asked, a difference of one cent. The latter, however, were classified as strictly fresh eggs. A small quantity of butter was offered at thirty cents.

There was a small attendance on the market with a consequent falling off in supplies. A few turkeys changed hands at from two to three dollars each. Geese sold for one dollar and fifty cents each, and chickens one dollar a pair.

On the outside market potatoes were sold at $1.15 a bag, and a few loads of meat sold as follows: Mutton 13c to 14c a pound, lamb 15 and 16 cents a pound.

SEARCHING FOR HUSBAND

Special Wire to The Examiner.

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 3.—Mrs. Cecil Lavell, wife of the mining professor, was here to-day, trying to run down the various clues that she hoped would result in finding her husband, who disappeared so mysteriously at Hamilton some weeks ago. Mrs. Lavell spent yesterday morning scouring the country around Chatham in a big automobile. She stated positively that the man seen there, while resembling her husband, was not him.

MR. GILLESPIE ANSWERS UNFOUNDED RUMOURS

TO THE ELECTORS:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

In view of a number of unfounded rumors that are afloat intended to affect my election, I desire to make the following brief but emphatic denial of the same:

1st. Subscribing Money to the Home Rule Fund.
2nd. Monopolizing the Milk Trade of the City.
3rd. Entering the Butter Combine.
4th. Controlling the Cheese Market.

To each and every one of these charges I desire to publicly record my emphatic denial; and in order to substantiate my denial I hereby offer $100 to any Charitable Institution in the City if any ratepayer can furnish proof that any of the above charges are correct.

Let me say with regard to these rumors:

1st. I have never been approached regarding Home Rule in any way. In fact, I have been entirely ignorant of any such Fund as a Home Rule Fund.

2nd. I confess that I am responsible for introducing an Up-to-date Sanitary System of Handling Milk, such as is being demanded by all Cities in the Dominion; and if I have been the pioneer of this blessing to Peterborough citizens, I am certainly not guilty of creating a monopoly thereof. There are some forty other Milk Vendors in the City delivering Raw Milk at Seven Cents per quart, while my price for Pasteurized Milk One Cent More. Had it not been for my being in the Milk Business, the Citizens of Peterborough would to-day be paying Eight Cents for Raw Milk. No one is compelled to buy Milk from me. We have some four hundred customers and I will let them say whether or not I have not given them perfect satisfaction.

3rd. I know of no Butter Combine in this City. The Peterborough Creamery has been able to dispose of all its products at a price entirely controlled by supply and demand. There are a dozen other Creameries shipping Butter into Peterborough in competition with me and many of our City Grocers do not buy a single pound of Butter from the Peterborough Creamery.

4th. It is true I am a heavy buyer of Cheese for export; but the local demand and retail price of Cheese does not in any way come under my control. The charge that I control the Peterborough Cheese Market is pure imagination.

Any intelligent ratepayer must see that none of these charges can have any bearing upon my actions as Alderman, or, if elected, as Mayor, but that they are only intended to influence the electors against me.

I again appeal to you on my past records as Alderman for five years, and as a citizen of Peterborough for ten years, confidentally believing that the ratepayers are intelligent enough to cast aside any spurious election cries and vote for the man they believe best qualified to fill the position of Chief Magistrate for the City of Peterborough.

Respectfully yours,

G. A. GILLESPIE.

SATURDAY, JAN. 3, 1914

DON'T SPOIL YOUR BALLOT.

You may not think so, but you will spoil your ballot, on Monday, if you mark it with any other motive than that of securing men for the positions in your gift with the very best qualifications. You will spoil your ballot if you vote for any man on personal grounds, or from considerations that do not have to do with fitness for the office sought or recognition of past efficient service. You are electing men to do business; and you spoil your ballot if you do not vote for the men whom general consent and past experience have marked as possessing the business ability, the position of civic business managers demands.

HOW YOU CAN VOTE.

In another column of this issue is given a list of places where electors may vote. What you may vote for is important. In the matter of aldermen, owing to our absurd antediluvian ward-system, this year each elector will have only one vote—only one voice—in electing the ten aldermen that compose our council. Every elector, however, may vote for mayor, water commissioner and school trustees. In regard to trustees it is to be remembered that while our school expenditures are very large generally we get fairly good value. The city of Berlin paid $76,000 for a twelve-room school. Peterborough built two twelve-room schools for the same amount; so it will be seen that while the sites of our new schools are pretty well "up in the air" the cost, by way of compensation, is correspondingly low.

GET SQUARE.

The beginning of a new year is the starting point of new resolves, new impulses and new beginnings in betterment of our conditions or actions. The place to begin to be good or better is to be neighbourly—a demand upon us with scriptural warrant. We are enjoined to "love our neighbours as ourselves," and the other commandment is like unto it—"do unto others, etc."

If we heed these, we shall, especially in our business relations, make haste to "settle up" at the beginning of the year—pay our debts and start the new year with a clean slate and a clear conscience. This will not only be to our own advantage—our peace of mind, but from a business point of regard, it will be good business. Nothing can more effectively oil the wheels of business than universal or, even, general payment of accounts, especially at the beginning of a new year. We meet our neighbour and shake his hand, and wish him a happy new year. Do we mean this always? Can we expect our wish will take effect if we owe him a bill and neglect to pay it? It needs no argument to prove the advantages that will come to business in general, from a general, prompt payment or settlement of obligations at the beginning of the year. The payment of every account and indebtedness, helps the payment of another and, in progress, of hundreds of others. Your own particular account may be small, and you may think neglect of adjusting it will make little difference; but scores of others thinking the same way, and acting similarly, would land many merchants and business men in the embarassment that comes from failure to get the sums due them. If we wish to show ourselves good neighbours and good citizens, we shall see that we follow out the golden rule of business—Pay others as ye would that others pay you.

THE BY-LAWS.

In addition to electing mayor, utilities commissioner, aldermen and school trustees on Monday, the people will be called upon to approve two important by-laws—one of $76,000 for a bridge over the river at Dalhousie Street, and another of $10,00 to purchase a motor driven chemical and hose truck combined.

In regard to the latter, the electors are invited to consider the importance of having the best possible fire fighting equipment. We are fairly well provided now, as the city was two or three years ago. But the city has grown, and the outskirts are well built up with homes that demand more prompt aid in case of fire than what was considered necessary before such building was done.

We have a splendid record for immunity from serious fires. We do not owe that to luck so much as to the possession of a good fire-extinguishing equipment, and it would seem to be good business to see that our equipment keeps pace with our growth.

If we sleep sound in our beds at nights it is because we feel safe from the dangers of serious fires. But we don't know the moment when we shall, by some accident, need just such a fire extinguishing apparatus as is called for under the by-law to be voted on on Monday. Montreal has recently had a disastrous baptism of fire through the breaking of a water main. Property to the value of fifty motor trucks was destroyed in a few hours because of the failure of the water supply.

We have the best and safest waterworks in the country, but they are not above accident. Low water such as at present may get lower, and it is possible that there might be a lack, or absence of pressure that in the case of fire would leave us unprotected, and the loss from fire might and would be many times greater than would be the cost of a motor chemical which would operate independently of water pressure.

Everything considered, it seems that the ratepayers would be acting in the best interests of the city in voting for the motor chemical by-law.

The Dalhousie street bridge by-law is also worthy of careful consideration. There is no doubt that an additional bridge across the river is badly needed, not only in the interest of factory employees, but in the interests of commercial and social interchange between the river-divided sections of the city. East City has long been demanding and deserving street railway extension. This is practically impossible without an additional bridge.

We place a good deal of importance upon new industries. We are committing ourselves to untold obligation to get power to supply new industries. To get the fullest benefit from new and existing industries we must have the best possible means for our citizens getting to their work. This is the main reason we encourage new industries—to give employment—and employment is robbed of much of its advantages, if the advantage of short and easy communication is absent or denied. A bridge across the river would do much to consolidate the city—to unite it socially, commercially and industrially, as it is united municipally. The bridge by-law is commended to the fair and careful consideration of the electors.

THE CANADIAN ANTHEM.

In western Canada "O Canada" is becoming very popular. In the Calgary theatres it is played at the opening of the performances and "God Save The King" at the close. A Calgary paper declares that as "a piece of music 'O Canada' ranks with the great national anthems of the world. It has all the grandeur of the German national anthem, combined with the solemnity and spiritual appeal of the Russian hymn and something of the stirring ring in parts, of 'The Marseillaise' or 'Men of Harlech.' Its prevailing tone, however, is that of a great aspiring psalm, instinct with calm yet earnest feeling, lofty, confident and yet tinged with true humility. It lacks the jingling superficiality of 'The Maple Leaf,' and is well fitted to be the national song of a people strong, purposeful and bent on excelling in the arts of peace"—Toronto World.

WILL TAKE CHARGE OF $25,000 HOSPITAL

Institution is the Gift of Mrs. Hugh Waddell, of Peterborough

TORONTO, Jan. 3.—A most interesting gathering assembled here on Friday night at the Deaconess Training Home on Grosvenor street, where a reception was tendered to Rev. Edwin Herbert Gray, a graduate in Arts, Theology and Medicine of McGill University.

Dr. Gray leaves for Canora, Sask., to take charge of the Hugh Waddell Memorial Hospital there, which is the gift of Mrs. Hugh Waddell, of Peterborough. Mrs. Waddell was present last night, and she is taking a deep interest in the work of the Presbyterian Women's Home Mision Board. The hospital is situated upon the block of land, ten acres in extent, and cost $25,000. Over 200 guests assembled last night. They were received by Dr. A. S. Grant, Superintendent of the Home Mission Board, and with him were Mrs. J. H. Thom, and Mrs. H. M. Kipp. Dr. Grant addressed the meeting, and Dr. Gray spoke of the future of the work among the immigrants in the Northwest.

Missed Something.

Wife (at breakfast)—"I didn't hear you last night when you came in?"

Hubby—"No, I thought at first I'd got into the wrong house!"

Ladies and Gentlemen,

I desire to heartily wish you and all the citizens of Greater Peterboro' all the compliments of the season.

As a representative in the City Council elected by the good people of the North Ward, I have had the honour of representing the principle generally in carrying out their wishes for the installation of the Hydro-Electric System into the City; and I respectfully ask you for a further renewal of this confidence by again electing me to that very responsible position.

I stand for a principle that I believe to be in the interests of the people, notwithstanding the opposition offered to the honest work of your Council of 1913. I will continue to help to carry out that work until Light and Power are in the hands of the Municipality, and being run in the interests of the people and not in the interests of a monopoly.

Yours in the good work,

Yours faithfully,

John Armstrong,

Rural Route No. 1.

TO THE ELECTORS OF PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen.—Last year a large number of ratepayers requested me to be a candidate for Water Commissioner in opposition to Mr. Moore. I not only declined to be a candidate, but did what I could to prevent opposition. The Commissioners at that time had law suits on with the contractors, where about thirty thousand dollars of the people's money was at stake. Mr. Moore being a lawyer I considered he should be the best posted man on the Commission to fight the contractors and in the interest of the City it would be a mistake to remove him.

This year I have again been waited upon by a large representation of the ratepayers who believe that with my thorough knowledge of all the waters in this district and my many years' experience as alderman I should be a capable man for the position. I have consented to be a candidate and my past record in the Council I think is proof that if elected will give you faithful and honest service.

The taking over of the Hydro-Electric system will require a great deal of time—more than any man who had a large business to attend to can spare. Not being in business I can give all the time required, and if necessary will make a personal inspection of every house in the City and see that rich and poor are treated alike.

I can see no reason, with the large body of ready-made reservoirs of the Otonabee River there should be any shortage of water for either household or lawn service, or why there should not be a reduction in the water rates. A good supply of good water is a necessity in every house, and should be available for the people at a low rate.

To the ratepayers who are now residents of the City and not personally acquainted with me, would say that for a number of years I occupied the position of alderman, and always stood at the head of the poll both as a representative of No. 3 Ward and also after the Ward system was abolished.

General street railway extension and cheap transportation, like cheap light and water, should be the goal of our municipal government. When a worker can have his house and garden anywhere, and is not tied to a locality his prospects are greatly improved.

Trusting that the ratepayers who want good service in the future as I have given the past will give me their hearty support. I am,

Yours very truly,

J. B. McWILLIAMS.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WARD ONE

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

A number of ratepayers requested me to offer myself as a candidate for the representation of the above Ward in the coming Aldermanic election. I have consented to stand, and ask for your vote and influence.

If elected, I will seek to the utmost of my power, to promote the highest interests of the City.

Yours respectfully,

Joseph Saunders

To the Electors of the NORTH WARD

Ladies and Gentlemen,—When casting your ballot on Monday, I would ask you all to consider the results of last year's work of our Council—a tax rate of 25 mills and the Hydro tangle which must be straightened out.

If you elect me as your representative, I will do all in my power at least to prevent a further increase in the rate, and, if possible, to reduce it, and to assist in bringing about speedy and satisfactory settlement of the Hydro question.

I am strongly in favour of the Hydro system controlled absolutely by the City, and until this is settled, I am not in favour of the expenditures proposed for the new bridge and chemical engine.

I will keep the welfare of our ward constantly in mind and will see that we in the north get our just due.

Wishing you all a bright and happy New Year, I am,

Yours sincerely,

W. T. HOLLOWAY

READING AND ITS PLEASURES

(BY F. M. DELA FOSSE)

LITERATURE—PART I.

The Letters of Junius.

In an age when literature is a marked feature of study not only in our schools and universities, but also in the reading circles of our towns and cities it is hard to realize that many have never heard of the Letters of Junius. Possibly, also, on some who have heard of them the title has acted as a deterrent and their curiosity has been chilled under the impression that investigation might only lead to the discovery of some musty, fusty old classic of the time of the Caesars.

If these lines should happen to be read by any to whom this applies let them read the history of the reign of George III. and they will get enlightenment. It was a period resplendent in literature, but notable from the depths into which the country had descended in the reign of Charles II. Bribery and corruption were rampant; all classes were infected; even the clergy were more noted for their wine-bibbing, sport-loving proclivities than they were for the pursuit of their sacred calling. As the long reign of the monarch progressed, matters became worse. A series of unsuccessful ministries and of weak and obsequious parliaments succeeded in creating discord at home and in earning the contempt of nations abroad. In the year 1767 matters reached a climax owing to the refusal of the government to allow John Wilkes, the elected member for Middlesex to take his seat. In keeping with this unconstitutional act they appointed Luttrell, one of their own supporters, in his place. It was this disgraceful proceeding that was the immediate cause of the publication of the letters. From the middle of 1767 to the middle of 1772 they con-mm fwypcmfwyuppupp Public Advertiser, the most widely read periodical of the day and the excitement they created was boundless. To rightly understand the tremendous effect of their publication one has to have some knowledge of then existent conditions. The press had not yet attained to its full power. Writers who had grievances drove their points home by inference and insuendo rather than by direct onslaughts. The public also were not so well informed of the doings of parliament as they are at the present time for they were entirely at the mercy of reporters who juggled the debated to suit the policy of their respective papers. Even so honest a man as Dr. Johnson was not above declaring that when he was reporting in the House he "always took care not to let the Whig dogs have the best of it."

Upon this devil's carnival of unrest and confusion the Letters of Junius descended like bombshells. Nothing like them had ever been seen before. To add to their piquancy nobody knew who was the author. They attracted rich and poor alike, the rich because they never knew which of their number might next be chosen for the lash of the writer and the poor because they revelled in the novelty of seeing a class from whom they received little else but abuse and injustice getting a well-deserved chastisement. To quote words of an able writer, these letters "are remarkable for the classical chastity of their language, the exquisite force and perspicuity of their argument, the keen severity of their reproach, the extensive information they evince, their fearless and decisive tone and above all for their stern and steady attachment to the purest principles of the constitution. This acquired for them a popularity which no series of letters have ever possessed, nor perhaps ever will; but what is of far greater importance they have diffused among the body of the people a clearer knowledge of their constitutional rights than they had ever before attained and animated them with a more determined spirit to maintain them inviolable." This extract tells better than I can express them, the salient features of the letters.

Nobody knows to this day who the individual was who masqueraded so long and so successfully under the name of Junius. Notwithstanding the frantic exertions of the ministry, in spite of all sorts of traps baited for his capture, he succeeded in so completely concealing his personality as if he had been a transient visitor from another sphere. Not even Woodfall, the printer of the paper was aware of his identity. No less than forty persons have at one time or another been put forward as the likly author of the Letters, among them Lyttelton, Sackville and Burke. Burke, however, emphatically denied the authorship and his word was regarded as conclusive. The claims put forward for the others are so slight (save in one instance), as to be held by competent authorities to be altogether untenable. The general consensus of opinion, however, now centres on Sir Philip Francis as the author. His name was not brought into the controversy till the publication of the edition of 1812. The writer was undoubtedly a man of independent means, patriotic sentiments with the doings of the court and of the government, and imbued with the loftiest ideas of patriotism. He was furthermore, well grounded in the law, as his letter to Lord Mansfield, the Lord Chief Justice, abundantly testifies. His general characteristics, as well as the exceptional advantages he possessed for obtaining information point almost conclusively to Sir Philip Francis as the man. The amount of circumstantial evidence in favour of this contention Macaulay declared would hold good in any civil or even criminal action. But, after all, the evidence is entirely circumstantial, and nobody, in all probability will ever discover the absolute identity of the author. That the writer enjoyed exceptional advantages for obtaining information can be gleaned from the fact that within twenty-four hours of Garrick acquainting the king with some news concerning Junius that mysterious personage was in possession of the circumstance. This is how he addressed Garrick:

Nov. 18, 1771.

To Mr. David Garrick:

I am very exactly informed of your impertinent inquiries, and of the information you so vainly sent to Richmond, and with what triumph it was received. I knew every particular of it the next day. Now, mark me, vagabond—keep to your pantomimes, or be assured you shall hear of it. Meddle no more, thou busy informer! It is in my power to make you curse the hour in which you dared to interfere with Junius. This is another specimen of what Matthew Arnold would have termed a "serviceable prose style" but the reader needs to read the whole course of the letters in order to enjoy the full force of the fiery invective of which the writer had such wonderful command. His letters to the men who have already been mentioned and to Sir William Draper and Horne Tooke are wonderful pieces of eloquent satire and should be read for the beauty of their diction if for no other reason. The boldness of the language and the stinging rebukes conveyed in such fearless style have a charm that no invective couched in less polished phraseology could possibly produce. As an instance of the writer's audacity may be cited his advice to the king to remember that "while the crown was acquired by one revolution, it may be lost by another." It can easily be conceived that a person writing in such a vein would desire to remain anonymous. "I am the sole depositary of my secret," he wrote, "and it shall die with me." This was no empty boast nor it would seem, was his further statement that the Letters would be immortal. At the present time, 150 years after their production they enjoy as much popularity as ever, for "their matter and their manner, the times they describe, the impression they produced on the public mind and the triumph of most of the doctrines they inculcate all concur in stamping them for a passport to posterity."

The Letters of Junius deserve to live in history, for there can be little doubt that they were in a large measure responsible for a timely awakening in the conscience of Parliament as well as an incentive to the manful upholding of their birthright by the people. They will be always looked upon also as the groundwork on which the leading articles of our present day newspapers have been patterned.

WOULD HYDRO CARRY NOW?

"If people had known as much then as they do now the Hydro by-law would never have gone through last January."

That seems to be the view taken by many of our citizens to-day. And yet it appears a little surprising to find a number of the candidates for alderman, almost vehemently insisting that they shall be known as strong supporters of Hydro.

Have you not asked yourself, Mr. Reader, what would likely be the fate of a similar by-law as the one we voted on last January, if submitted on Monday next? in the light of what the people now know?

People were lured into voting in favour of the by-law because it was simply a question of—"Are you in favour of Hydro-Electric Power for Peterborough."

At that time, Power was the all engrossing subject with the electors. We were all eager for new industries; and the question was raised "How were we to secure new industries if we could not offer them power?"

Time and again our large industries had been shut down for want of sufficient power, or from some disturbance of the existing power facilities; and we felt that Hydro would be a speedy settlement of the power problem.

The mass of the people were not troubling themselves about light, because they had no cause to complain about the quality or the force of the light that they were getting.

So, I wholly mistrust the electors if, in the midst of the present alarming mess which the Power Committee of the Council has involved the city, the electors do not rise up and cast their protest by their votes on Monday against the rule of men who have brought all this trouble upon us.

COMMUNICATIONS ON THE MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS VIEWS OF THE RATEPAYERS

ALD. DUFFUS' RECORD.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—In these days of hand-grasping and back-slapping, we scarcely get time to think for our selves. The papers are full of addresses and good wishes, telling us what the would-be aspirants for office are going to do. Few can boast of what they have done.

Alderman Duffus, in No. 3 Ward, is going to do a great deal. He sees very little of No. 3 Ward, and pays little attention to it after election day. He is a member of the Board of Works. Can he explain why he has never taken any interest in the McDonnel Street sewer, petitioned for over two years ago? Practically all the contagious disease in the Ward are confined to the area where this sewer and water works service is asked for.

What about the beaver dams and swale created on Gilmour street after each rain? The Board of Works knows all about this. Will he tell us, too, when was done regarding a petition for curb and gutter construction on Gilmour Street? Was it thrown in the waste paper basket? He speaks of civic conduits. Why does he talk of these after the Hydro-Electric underground work is done in a make-shift way without conduits, and the permanent pavement is largely completed in the business section without mention of Mr. Duffus' bright thought being expressed? Does he purpose tearing this up again for civic conduits?

We all know the "would-be" Aldermen have wide visions previous to election day, but these fade and narrow down to the point of their own business after election.

Give us new blood in the Council, give us business men, young, energetic and enterprising. I believe we have an opportunity in this election to make a change.

Truly yours,
N. F. Said.

Peterborough, January 3.

THE NEW MOTOR ENGINE.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—In the consideration of this important subject several points have suggested themselves which have not been mentioned by the respective gentlemen who are doing stunts in order that we will be willing to have them become our City Fathers.

Question 1.—Granted we buy an $8,000 fire engine, how many cents will it be worth after one trip over the pitch holes at the end of Smith Street bridge or the lower end of Park Street, or even George Street, in numerous locations?

Question 2—Is an equipment worth while, good for only nine months a year. Will we have double equipment (horses and motors) for nine or none for three?

Question 3.—Have the Committee obtained Police Magistrate Dumble's permission to run this new waggon on the streets at over six miles an hour. They probably do not realize what a terribly huge, momentous question this is. By what kind of shortsightedness can they imagine that Police Magistrate Dumble, who demands absolute justice for all alike, rich and poor, will permit the Fire, Water and Light Committee to run their big red $8,000, forty-miles-an-hour "devil" motor car, which will take half a block to stop, which will crush all before it like caterpillars, that he will allow them without his expressed permission to run in this way over the streets for which he has made laws just to put out a burning chimney, when he will not allow the physicians to travel faster than six miles an hour, to save our valuable lives.

We would hate to see Chief Howard on the carpet for overspeeding.

Question 4.—Will we need a new bridge to get this heavy "toy" over to Ashburnham?

Question 5—If we divide this $8000 over a space of years will it not buy new houses for all those burned?

Signed,
One Who Enjoys the Pitchholes.

A WORD FOR ALD. JOHNSTON.

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Re a letter appearing in recent issue, signed by Mr. Boucher.

As a voter in No. 4 Ward, I think it would be much more satisfactory to have the contest between Alderman Johnston and Dr. Holloway decided on the business merit of the two men. Who is this Mr. Boucher? He does not appear on the assesment roll or the voters' list. If he is not a taxpayer, what inspires him to get so "wrought up?" It has been whispered that Dr. Holloway has been put in the field by interest opposed to Hydro-Electric, and Mr. Boucher's helping hand goes to sustain suspicion. Few bona-fide ratepayers flat-footedly oppose Hydro-Electric, and wrapped up in it as the city is at the present time, it would mean sure defeat for any would-be alderman to come out with the opposition as his platform. Dr. Holloway is playing good politics, in his present stand, but what will he do in the mix-up, bound to come if elected?

To Alderman Johnston we owe a great deal regarding the Hydro-Electric, to the Council in general, from the Mayor to the City Solicitor, we owe the muddle we are now in, but Alderman Johnston, as chairman of the Power Committee has been handed the burden of fault to carry, and it is not right. Let Hydro-Electric difficulties be straightened out by the men best qualified to do it, the makers.

Truly yours,
N. F. Said.

THE POWER QUESTION.

Peterborough, Jan. 3rd, 1914.

To the Editor, The Examiner:

We, the ratepayers of Peterborough, have been assured by three of our public men that we will secure the exact measure of the Hydro-Electric scheme that we authorized the Council to obtain for us a year ago.

His Worship, Mayor Bradburn, our Provincial member, E. A. Peck, and City Solicitor, E. H. D. Hall, are all very able men and worthy of the high offices they respectively hold. They are unanimous in declaring that, (to quote from Mr. Peck's letter of Dec. 30th) "the matter will at no distant date be arranged in accordance with the wishes of the people and with no undue expense to them." We are, therefore, in the opinion of these three able men, "to obtain possession of the pole line and other distributing equipment of the Peterborough Light and Power Company for an approximate sum of $94,000, and upon payment thereof the company's franchise will cease."

I am delighted, Mr. Editor, at these prospects and I can assure Mr. Peck that I will be the first to congratulate the Council and the other officers of the city when this has been accomplished.

It may be presumptuous on my part to express an opinion differing from these three worthy officials but; much as I hope they are right, I am convinced from the facts I have been able to gather that we will have to take over the Auburn Dam and all their other property before the company's franchise will cease, and that is not the expressed wishes of the people. The ratepayers of Peterborough will never consent to pay $600,000 for that property unless we are compelled to do so through some "tangle or muddle" now existing.

But Mr. Hall assures us that there is no "tangle or muddle," however he is careful to explain that the Private Bills Committee of the Legislature materially altered the draft bill as submitted by our Council, and he wishes us to believe that the said committee is to blame if, through some "tangle or muddle" we do not get what we authorized our Council to obtain for us. I would like to ask Mr. Hall if Section 4, Chap. 114 of the Statutes of Ontario, 1913, is now as his original draft? This is the important section of the amended act and I quoted it in my letter of Dec. 22nd. Had this section contained the words "as at present used and operated within the City of Peterborough" instead of "so used and operated, etc." then the company could not have forced us to take over the Auburn Dam and all that other extra property which Mayor Bradburn assures us the company have acquired since the act was passed. Again, the amended Act was passed on May 9th, 1913, and had the Council immediately thereafter passed their by-law expropriating the property the company then owned we would have secured what we wanted. But the expropriating by-law did not pass the Council until Oct. 21st, 1913, and with the Act wide open it gave the company plenty of time to slip in the Auburn Dam and other property.

Both Mr. Hall and Mr. Peck think that at this juncture it is not advisable to have the facts given to the ratepayers through the public press. Mr. Peck censures me for my letters and admonishes me as a citizen of Peterborough, "to back up the Council in their effort to carry out the instructions given them" whether their efforts have been full of faults or not I suppose Mr. Peck, like Cassins, believes—

"A friendly eye could never see such faults."

But he should remember the answer Brutus gave—

"A flatterer's would not, though they do appear as huge as high Olympus."

Since I am in this discussion, Mr. Editor, I will show, with your permission, in a subsequent letter why the ratepayers of Peterborough will never agree to pay any $600,000 for the Auburn Dam and other property connected therewith.

Yours very truly,
W. H. Collier.

FAVOURS THE PURCHASE.

To the Editor,
Peterborough Examiner,
City.

Dear Sir,—I would like to call to the attention of the ratepayers of this City, the by-law which is being submitted for their approval, of an expenditure of eight thousand ($8,000) for the purchase of a new hose, ladder and chemical waggon.

Being intensely interested in adequate fire protection for the property of our Company, I want to endorse this by-law in the most emphatic manner, and shall support this by-law by voting for the same.

The City of Peterborough covers such a wide area that one fire station is not sufficient. If a fire broke out in one extreme end of the City, and another, at another extremity, it would be almost impossible for a horse drawn vehicle to properly serve and protect the property of the citizens.

I understand that last year there were one hundred and ninety-six (196) alarms of fire, and that there were only small losses is to be considered most fortunate, largely due, probably to an efficiently managed Fire Department, but as the City grows year after year, we cannot expect to get along with the same fire department.

I think the motor driven apparatus, which the City has submitted to the ratepayers for their approval, will be one that will keep down the fire losses, at the outlying portions of the City, because of its ability to cover the ground rapidly, and I think it is more in the interests of the small property owners than the large concerns.

Peterborough is an industrial City and is growing rapidly, and we hope it will continue to grow. One of the first questions a prospective manufacturer will consider in seeking a location for a new factory is: How efficient is the fire protection? In general, I should say that we have not adequate fire equipment, and I am sure that this fact, of adding to our equipment, as per this by-law, will tend to keep up our rating, rather than allow it to decrease. Continued employment depends largely upon proprty being kept intact, and I strongly recommend this by-law to the favourable consideration of the ratepayers.

If the citizens vote favourably on the expenditure of eight thousand dollars ($8,000) and the City Council decide not to issue debentures covering the purchase price, and decide to pay for it out of 1914 revenue, which would be raised by taxation it would mean that on every thousand dollars of assessment, the taxpayers would pay seventy-eight cents (78c.), so each taxpayer can figure out for himself how small an increase there would be in his taxes, and I am sure that he will conclude that for the increased protection, he will very gladly spend this small amount of money.

These figures were obtained from the City Clerk.

Thanking you for the space, I am,
Yours very truly,
E. G. PATTERSON.

THE BRIDGE AND OTHER THINGS.

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I would like to ask Mr. G. A. Gillespie when he made his appeal to the voting population of this city if it occurred to him at all that when he tried to get the dairy men of this city to go in with him and form a combine and raise the price of milk that it was adding to the high cost of living.

Well, I don't think we want a man at the head of our city who is trying to increase the high cost of living any more than it is. There is a story going around that Mr. Gillespie keeps the farmers posted as to what to charge for their product on the market, and if so I think it is time he had his wings clipped and be kept out of the mayor's chair. We don't want such men as that. Mr. Gillespie is a fine man, but he is too much for Mr. G. A. Gillespie.

Honours he claims in obtaining or influencing the De Laval Separator Company locating here. Well, if we are indebted to him for this great benefit to my mind Mr. Gillespie will obtain the greatest value from it, as it will make a larger market for his product.

Now, as to the bridge question. In the first place I wish to ask you to take a walk down to the C.P.R. station and just say to yourself: Now I am working at that saw mill over there. Then walk right around to Hunter street, cross the river and then back to the mill, and in the same time try and place yourself in the man's place after working hard all day, and have to do the same thing again at night. Then go along to Mr. J. Scott's on Maria street and walk right around to Matthews Packing house, and when you have done this think how often you would like to do this, and when you have given it a careful consideration, try and tax the whole of your Christian sympathy and generosity and vote for the bridge. Never mind the man, who said in the Morning Times, the man who voted for the bridge was crazy. I think there will be quite a few crazy people that day any way, and I doubt not that same man would be glad to cross the bridge too, especially if the Hunter street bridge were to collapse any time. Well, as I am a working man and a taxpayer, and of East City, my taxes have increased more than double since we joined Peterborough, and I wish to ask what we have got for it, and this is one of the things we want as well as the south end of the city; and as for the extravagance of lighting George street or the centre section of the city, I think it is ridiculous. Well, I think that will do for this time, wishing you all a prospgrous and happy New Year.

Workingman and Ratepayer.

A SUGGESTION FOR 1914 COUNCIL

Public Play Grounds for Peterboro's Young People

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—In Toronto, Montreal, Halifax and others of our big cities playgrounds for younger people are already well established and meeting with unqualified success. In Toronto the free winter sporting grounds take the form of toboggan slides and open air skating rinks, eight or ten of the latter being provided on the Don Flats and elsewhere in the City. The same line is being followed in Montreal. Ask any Montrealer about them.

What these cities have done Peterborough can do and even excel. The need here is great. We have practically no outside public grounds for winter sport. The need of such is already keenly felt, but no citizen or civic official has made any decided move in this direction. Our 1914 Council could readily solve this problem by providing a couple of large, open-air skating rinks. They are assured of the appreciation and active co-operation of our different Church organizations and of the public in general. The expense would be trivial, the results both morally and physically to our young people inestimable.

What about a good, large open-air rink of several sections in Central Park, in front of the Armouries? Portable fences could be provided that could be readily erected and removed in Spring. But quick action is required. In one week from today we could have a public skating arena of which Peterborough could well boast.

Of course some one will say it would spoil the beauty of the park. True it is that it may grate the artistic eye for a month or two, but it looks too good to our younger generation to let sentiment be the factor preventing it. Then, too, the physical health and moral welfare of our younger generation is more vital than sentiment. It would provide labour for a few of our unemployed, be self sustaining and, at the same time, cheaply provide healthy outdoor pleasure for many of our people who cannot afford to patronize the more expensive places of amusement.

I suggest it for the consideration of our 1914 Council. Peterborough can have thse public winter grounds; yes, have them this winter, if just a little extra energy is put behind the venture during the coming week.

A. H. STRATTON ON PUBLIC QUESTIONS

A Final Word to the Electors

The chief need in an efficient alderman is business ability. We should have as good business methods employed in running the enterprise of civic government as in running any other business. One of the best tests of a man's business ability is the success he makes of his own business. Business ability, sound business judgment, applied to city government, the expenditure of the people's money, are what is needed. If the electors think I possess these qualities, and without boasting, I think I do, I on my part, if elected, will do my very best to deserve their confidence, and give them satisfactory representation.

A Heavy Taxpayer

Need I remind the ratepayers that my taxes are much above the average, that I am deeply interested in the conduct of civic affairs. An increase in the tax rate would affect me just as materially as any of my neighbours.

For years I was engaged as a George street business man. I know the problems of the merchant, and I understand his needs, a fact which, I believe, should not be overlooked by the ratepayers of the Centre Ward.

Furthermore, I have spent my life in Peterborough, and I am familiar with every ward. There are some details of civic business which I suppose I have to learn, but my executive experience should counter-balance minor matters with which every new alderman must acquaint himself.

True Economy

The economy desired by the ratepayers is not merely the refusal to spend money. In the handling of large sums economy is largely a matter of education derived from experience. What is required is the application of sound business judgment in the handling of the city's finances. My experience in my own business taught me a meaning of economical values, when to buy, and when to turn aside a purchase. This is the spirit of economy that I promise the ratepayers to apply in civic business if I am elected.

By the word expression "economy" I do not allude to parsimony which is a totally distinct thing. I refer to the orderly arrangement and management of the community directly concerned with its maintenance and productiveness.

Hydro Electric

The Hydro-Electric scheme can hardly be regarded as an issue in the coming election. It was not left to the Council to decide whether the measure should be adopted in Peterborough, but rather to the people who on two successive occasions signified the approval of the scheme, by an overwhelming vote. Upon subsequent Councils then devolved the responsibility of carrying out the wishes of the people, as instanced by the inauguration of the present street lighting system. Hydro-Electric is a going concern and it remains for the incoming Council to keep it going, and push it through to a successful conclusion.

I am heartily in favour of the measure, and as a member of your City Council, would do all in my power to see that the wishes of the people are fulfilled.

Civic Abattoir

The solution to the problem of assuring to the citizens a wholesome meat supply, lies in the erection of a civic abattoir, where every animal intended for consumption will be slaughtered under the supervision and inspection of a qualified veterinarian. At present the public have no portection beyond what is afforded by the Sanitary Inspector, and it is impossible for him to inspect every carcase brought into the city. When is is remembered that tuberculosis may be contracted by eating the meat of a tubercular animal, and that a large percentage of cattle are infected with the disease, it will be readily acknowledged that this question is of vital importance to the public.

If elected I will advocate the establishment of a municipal abattoir.

Street Paving

Steam up and move ahead—is one maxim that I would apply to street-paving, and such local improvements as would tend to place the city on a plane where it properly belongs. Street-paving not only constitutes a benefit to the district which it serves, but to the whole community. The money that in the past, has been expended in the maintenance of the streets in the business section of the city, can be used to better advantage in the residential parts of the city. This applies to street watering and other tasks incident to the maintenance of our public streets.

I am also an advocate of the removal of all poles and other encumbrances from the city's streets, and the substitution of conduits. The conduits could be constructed by the city and a revenue derived therefrom, in the form of a rental, based on the number of ducts used by the tenants.

Dalhousie Street Bridge

One of the most important matters to a city is communication, involving bridges and streets. If the electors approve of the Dalhousie street bridge, and if I am given the power, I shall give my best attention to carry their wishes into effect with the greatest possible economy. If the by-law is defeated and I am elected I shall feel it my duty to work for some means of improving connection between the two parts of the city as a matter of justice to East City, and of advantage to our merchants and business men. In regard to our city streets I believe that some system can be adopted that will secure much better value for the money expended, with greater permanency of result.

In Conclusion

I trust the electors will see that I have a fair appreciation of some of the prominent needs of the city, and that I possess the business and executive ability and the energy, as I have the time, to give them effect. I humbly submit that my past business career will prove that if I undertake a responsibility I will do my best to meet it. I recognize that the position of alderman is not an ornamental one, but one charged with a good deal of hard work, and if I am honoured with the confidence of the electors, I shall leave no stone unturned, no effort unemployed, to justify the choice of the electors of Centre Ward.

It will be interesting announcement to local people, that Controller James Simpson of Toronto, the labour candidate who headed the polls on New Year's Day, will visit Peterborough on February 3rd and give an address in Knox Church on the subject "The Church and the Workingman." Invitations will be extended to the different unions of the City.

A STATEMENT FROM THE CITY TEMPERANCE LEAGUE

Peterborough, Ont., Jan. 3, '14.

Editor,—Criticism having appeared in the daily papers in regard to the endorsement of Mr. Gillespie's candidature by members of the Executive committee of the City Temperance League, an explanation of the reasons which led to this action being taken, may be in order.

Early in the campaign the officer of the League had reason to believe that the anti-temperance forces favoured th election of one of the mayoralty candidates. Mr. Gillespie had proved his sympathy for the temperance cause on numerous occasions. His election was, therefore, desired.

Later, Mr. Hartley, who is also a well known temperance worker, intimated his intention of entering the mayoralty contest. Several prominent temperance supporters interviewed Mr. Hartley. It was pointed out to him that one temperance candidate was already in the field and that if he entered the contest it might have the effect of splitting the temperance vote. Nevertheless, Mr. Hartley thought it best to announce his candidature.

Immediately temperance supporters began to ask which of the candidates should receive the support. A meeting of the officers of the League was called. Regret was expressed that two such strong temperance men were in the field at the same time. It was found that many temperance supporters had promised their support to Mr. Gillespie before Mr. Hartleys candidature had been announced. It was unanimously decided, therefore, in order to keep the temperance vote as intact as possible, to let it be known that Mr. Gillespie was favoured as the temperance candidate. A notice to this effect was sent out to a number of the leading temperance workers. Had conditions been reversed, Mr. Hartley would have received the same support.

Beyond recommending Mr. Gillespie as the temperance candidate, the officers of the League do not purpose taking any other part in the campaign beyond what a few of them may do as private individuals interested in Mr. Gillespie's election. No organized effort will be made to get out the temperance vote nor any canvass of electors be made.

In supporting Mr. Gillespie for the mayoralty, the officers of the League believe him to be a man eminently well qualified to fill the position with advantage to the City. They feel also that his record as a private citizen and as a member of the Council entitle him to receive this honour at the hands of his fellow citizens.

(Signed.) H. B. COWAN, President.

Names Will Go On The Ballot

People Will Have an Opportunity of Voting for Ald. Anderson, the Only Remaining Candidate in the East Ward

Notwithstanding the fact that Mr. T. W. Oke has withdrawn from the two-man aldermanic contest in the East Ward, the names of the two candidates will go before the electors on Monday. This is in accordance with the municipal act which denies a candidate the privilege of withdrawing after he has duly qualified.

Mr. Oke's withdrawal from the contest leaves Ald. Anderson, the remaining candidate in possession of the field, and practically ensures his re-election.

Big Bear Shot Near Deer Bay

Skin of Animal on Exhibition at E. N. McWilliams'

An immense bear skin, hanging in front of Mr. E. N. McWilliams' fur store, is attracting considerable attention to-day. Mr. McWilliams secured it during the week from an Indian by the name of Johnson, from the Chemong reserve. The animal was killed near the cottage of Mr. John Nicholls of Burleigh Falls, on Deer Bay. Johnson was out hunting with his dog. The dog suddenly began to bark, and turning around Johnson was face to face with Mr. Bruin. It was not long before the bear was downed.

The skin measures six feet from tip to tip, and is of the same width. It is of beautiful fur and altogether a very valuable one.

What Is Coming During The Year

Worst of Winter Will be Over by Middle of January

The worst part of the winter will be over by the middle of January, 1914.

About the following dates will occur the principal cool, cold or very cold spells of weather due after the middle of January, and this list of cool and cold spells should result in almost a normal average of temperature and rainfall. There should be abnormally warm and dry weather from Jan. 15 to April 15, but, fortunately, the planetary and lunar conjunctions occurring every few days throughout the season will be adequate to counteract the warm and dry effects and cause normal weather as the rule until April 1. Among the cool or cold spells due, except when counteracted, will be those about:

Jan. 16 or 17, 21, 23, 26 and 27.
Feb. 1, 8, 14, 20, 22, 25 and 27.
March 1, 5, 7, 8, 9, 12 and 28.

The cool spells in May will cause backward spring weather. About May 3, 13, 17 or 18 fruit and early vegetation may be injured in some localities by low temperature changes.

June and July, cooler than the average.

Aug. 13 to Sept. 13, very hot.

Sept. 20 to Nov. 7, moderately cool.

Nov. 7 to end of the year will average moderate for that time of the year.

Agricultural growth during the year 1914 will be enormous. It will be one on record.—Toronto Telegram.

the scene of the conflagration was reached. While the horses were struggling desperately to negotiate the steep grade, the neighbours wer putting up equally as great a struggle to save the burning house. The neighbours won out, thanks to the incipiency of the blaze. This is only one of the many strenuous runs that fall to the lot of the brigade throughout the year. One horse in the department has suffered a strained shoulder on three distinct occasions. The remedy is to motorize the department.

Work is Increasing.

It is interesting to note that the fire department during 1913 responded to one hundred and ninety-six alarms. This is an increase of fifty more alarms over any previous year in the history of Peterborough. The fire record grows with the City. The trouble is that fires do not come singly, but in branches. Then there is the ever present danger of two fires breaking out simultaneously.

A few years ago the residents of East City petitioned for a sub-station. When the matter came up in Council, the claims of the north and south wards were also advanced. The purchase of a motor driven chemical engine will serve the needs of the entire City for some time to come.

Nearly every manufacturer and merchant in the City has pledged himself to support the by-law. It is just as much in the interest of the ratepayer in the outlying districts to take a similar stand as for the manufacturer. Industries constitute the backbone of th City and you cannot have industries without fire protection.

MAYOR BRADBURN ON FINANCES OF THE CITY

Concrete walks	117,986.05
Bridges	42,000.00
Isolation Hospital	12,500.00
Protestant Home	10,000.00
Street paving	22,302.21
Incinerator	10,000.00
Industries	55,000.00
Parks	3,000.00
Street extensions	21,500.00
	$775,795.19

Have these not all been expenditures for the benefit of the ratepayers? Some might question the expenditures for industries, but these were all voted upon by the people and carried by very large majorities, so that very few will find fault.

Of the increase in debt given above the $200,000 for waterworks is carried by the business of that department both as to interest and sinking fund and it is "no burden" to the ratepayer. $12,000 of the amount expended under the head of industries will be returned, as it was a loan. These two items should be deducted to make a fair statement, and the result shows that the writer overstated the per cent. of increase in the debt by 138 per cent.

Another mis-statement is that as the debentures issued at three, three and one-half, and three and three-quarters per cent. are being paid off the City has to replace them with bonds bearing five per cent. All these debentures are taken care of by the sinking fund, and will not have to be replaced but will be paid off as they mature. To give the impression that there is not a proper sinking fund to meet these debentures is a most unfair attack upon the standing and the credit of the City.

"The City's credit decreases in inverse ratio to its increasing debts," says this writer. Suppose we take him at his word, and compare the standing of Peterborough's credit with that of other cities? This week a Toronto brokerage house advertised Peterborough debentures to net the purchaser five per cent., and in the same advertisement offered debentures of Belleville and other cities to net the purchaser five and one-quarter per cent. and over. These men of the money markets understand finance, and they rate Peterborough's credit high, in spite of the knocks of irresponsible critics.

But a debt to provide for an investment that is revenue-producing does not injure credit. The purchase and improvement of the water works system increased the City's debt, but the revenue from the water works pays both the interest and the sinking fund, and its possession, notwithstanding the increase in the debt, improves the credit of the City.

In the same way the Hydro-Electric debt will be carried by the Hydro Electric business, as to interest and sinking fund, and will improve the credit of the City as well as give cheaper light and power.

In making an estimate of the interest paid by the City this writer includes, as he does in the debt, the interest paid on the debentures issued to pay for and improve the waterworks and which is paid by the waterworks business.

This "ratepayer" also says: "It is usually difficult to give instances of extravagance because they are covered up and concealed by a compact family of councillors that mutually admire each other and hermetically seal in the City vaults the evidences of their joint and several extravagances."

There is only one fitting way to characterize that statement; it is a malicious falsehood, born of the malice and meanness of the person who wrote it. Every document is open to any ratepayer and always has been.

What spite this person, who in a cowardly manner hides behind a non de plume, has against myself and Mr. W. G. Morrow, and Mr. H. Rush, and others who have served in the City Council in the past six years, I do not know certainly, but I believe the attitude of the Council in regard to Hydro Electric power is at the bottom of his malicious work.

Yours truly,
W. H. Bradburn,
Mayor.

Sentenced To One Year In The Central

with stealing a quantity of goods from the Woolworth Co. She elected to be tried summarily, and pleaded "not guilty" to the charge preferred against her.

It was charged against the woman that on Tuesday afternoon she went into Woolworth's store in this city, and filled her leather hand-bag with many kinds of articles, without paying for any of them.

Susie Baxter, a saleslady in Woolworth's, told in the witness box how she had seen Miss Steel come into the store on Tuesday. She picked up a collar and put it in her purse, trying to conceal the act.

She went to her and asked:

"Do you want to buy anything?"

"No!" the woman answered.

"Well, what about that collar you put in your purse?"

"I didn't put any in!"

"Yes you did! I saw you."

"Well, tell me what it is worth and I will pay you?"

"No You must see the manager."

So Miss Steel was taken down to the basement, and there a quantity of goods were found in her purse. The police were notified and she was arrested.

Mr. Gale, local manager of Woolworth's Co. store, told how he received word to go to the basement, and found the prisoner and Miss Baxter there. At first she denied having taken the things, but later she admitted it and wanted to pay for them.

Detective Newhall told of searching the woman's room where a large quantity of goods was found. Mr. Gale identified a lot of goods (which had been found in her room) as stock from the Woolworth store.

In spite of her evidence that she paid for everything, Miss Steel, who appears to be more than forty years of age, was found guilty of the theft. Judgment, however, was reserved in the case for a week.

ANOTHER REPLY TO MR. BURNHAM

Peterborough, Jan. 2, 1914.

Dear Sir,—I am pleased to find that Mr. Burnham did not mean what he said in the letter which appeared in your columns of the Examiner on the 29th of Dec., 1913. "One word more, etc., and I have done said Mr. Burnham." But finding that comments have been made by genuine workingmen, he very kindly put pen to paper and we have the result in your columns last night. But to my great surprise Mr. Burnham does not in any way attempt to prove the statements he made on the 29th, and to which I particularly called his attention, and which I again challenge, viz.: That Free Trade had enslaved Labour. That the slums and all its horrors are the products of the same. And that the British farmer and agricultural labourer had gone down and out. Upon these points he is silent, and your readers will find that instead Mr. Burnham gives us the assurance that all is not well, that a change is necessary. But what change is essential he is careful not to commit himself. But rather than further comment upon the hon. gentleman's reply last night I must respectfully have proved or otherwise. The statements at issue. "One thing at a time and that well done," is an old maxim which to me is of great importance. Or must I conclude that Mr. Burnham is a typical protectionist or tariff reformer, who when having made a certain statement either carefully avoids the issue or otherwise attempts to explain it away in such a manner that its possible for him to drop on either side of the fence. Or if I may use a Churchillism: They indulge in terminalogical inexactitudes. So much so that to the average workingman they leave him in doubt, and only by experience can he be convinced of what tariffs mean and their effect upon the purchasing power of the dollar. It is possible to fool the electors sometimes, but some one said you cannot fool the people all the time. And the time is now opportune for an explanation, and I shall be prepared to readily assist so far as a workingman can, in any honest attempt to adjust the inequality of things as they exist at present, for I am convinced that government by the people and for the people can be realized only to its fullnes when tariffs cease to have effect, and the happiness and well-being of the people as a whole will be the honest endeavours of all who take upon themselves the responsibility of being our representatives either in the Imperial, Dominion or Provincial Parliaments. Proof! proof! I respectfully ask from Mr. Burnham, and then with your permission I will avail myself of further space to give your readers a workingman's view of what Free Trade has done for the worker, and what it is doing.

In anticipation,
An Elector.

POINTS TO BE EXPLAINED

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I should like Mr. McWilliams, candidate for Water Commissioner, to explain clearly his standing as a citizen. It seems to me he is only half a citizen; and half a citizen should be of the very best quality in every way to be equal to one whole and sound citizen. He only lives in Town half the year, and in a house assessed to him at less than half its value. He is the reformer who is to improve and make just our assessment. His house, that he lives in half the year, is assessed at $2,000, and is certainly worth $5,000. He is not only half a citizen in the matter of residence and assessment, but it seems that he isn't a citizen at all in the matter of paying taxes—the tenant who occupies his house the other half of the year, I am told, pays the taxes. I can vouch for the substantial truth of the above statements, and enclose my card, but do not wish my name known—I remember the experience of a certain High School Master.

Yours truly,
Taxpayer.

BULL FIGHTER HAS MADE A FORTUNE

The hero of all Spain, Ricardo Torres, the famous matador, known to countless admirers as Bombita, has retired from the ring with an enormous fortune at the early age of 34. In the eighteen years of his active professional life he has engaged in three thousand bull fights and now, with fifty-two glorious wounds he says he will become a farmer. He delivered his last blow one Sunday in October at the Plaza del Toros at Madrid, in the presence of the King and Queen. Every seat had been sold long before this eventful afternoon and $50 on this day would not buy a $2.50 place. Eight bulls were killed by three of Spain's gallant matadors—Gallo, Regatoro and Gallito. Then came the great Bombita, the idol of the ring, who dispatched his last bull with a perfection of skill and with a grace and address that threw the onlookers into ecstacies of delight. They bore him on their shoulders to the Royal box, where the king and queen gave him a present. Then, Bombita, the tender-hearted bull killer, overcome by his motions, wept. The proceeds of the fight, say the Spanish journals, will go to that beneficent organization, the Society of Toreadors, for the fund for old and disabled bull fighters.

A FEW WORDS OF CAUTION TO THE ELECTORS

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Mr. J. B. McWilliams, one of the candidates for Water Commissioner, in the course of a long address to the electors of Peterborough, says: "I "offered the City the Burleigh Falls "water power for $3,000.00, but it was "turned down by some of the Council "at that time, although the same men "a short time after made me an offer "of $3,000.00 for a three-quarter interest."

This is a singular statement to come from a candidate who desires to administer, on behalf of the citizens of Peterborough, an important trust in which in the neighbourhood of $500,000.00 of the people's money is invested.

What are the facts?

Mr. McWilliams bought this property from a man named Freeburn for the sum of $125.00 a few months before he made this offer to the City to buy it for $3,000.00. It is quite apparent that this little transaction was being "manipulated" so that Mr. McWilliams would make a profit out of the ratepayers of Peterborough of about 4000 p.c. on his little investment. He evidently was disappointed that he did not make the profit, because he says "the same men a short time after made me an "offer of $3,000.00 for a three-quarter interest." If that is so, then why did Mr. McWilliams sell out his interest in this same piece of property to Mr. J. A. Culverwell for only $2,850.00?

Mr. McWilliams also claims in his address to have a high appreciation of his opponent Mr. Hicks, and speaks of him being "a successful business man," but he evidently cannot resist the temptation to say of this successful business man that he has "manipulated the coal business." Is Mr. McWilliam's ideal of a business man that manipulation is the foundation of success? If that is so, then the ratepayers of Peterborough do not desire at this important juncture, where the people's money is flowing out of the City Treasury like water, to have a trusteeship (that Mr. McWilliams says is "a far more important position than Mayor of the City"), to be "manipulated" by a gentleman who endeavoured to get out of the ratepayers a modest little profit of 4000 p.c. on his investment, and has not substantial interest in the City.

It is quite apparent in the whole of Mr. McWilliam's address that he is living entirely in the memory of the past. He evidently feels sore against the ratepayers of Peterborough because that twenty years ago they did not accept his offer.. What the ratepayers of Peterborough really desire is an active and aggressive young man like ex-Alderman Hicks, who is up to date and whose hopes and prospects are laying plans for the future, and who has already demonstrated by business ability and integrity, that he is worthy of the position of Trustee for such an important trust.

Mr. McWilliams says in his address, "not being in business, I can give all the time required, and if necessary will "make a personal inspection of every "house in the City, and see that rich "and poor are treated alike." So Mr. McWilliams has nothing to do. This is one of the worst qualifications that a candidate can have, because "Satan will some mischief find for idle hands to do."

Yours, etc.,
AQUA PURA.

Peterborough, Jan. 3rd, 1914.

IN ALD. JOHNSTON'S BEHALF

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—There seems to be a good deal of attack centred on Ald. Johnston in his campaign during the past two or three years.

I have watched Ald. Johnston's course in municipal life, and it appears to me that he has shown intense desire to watch the interests of the public, and the manner in which he outlined his work in connection with the Hydro Electric System of Peterborough has been very satisfactory, and the time he has spent performing his duties as an alderman, has taken from his work very much of his time.

Ald. Johnston has shown a sympathy for municipal ownership which will warrant the ratepayers in voting for him, to carry out the Hydro Electric system, as it was framed and outlined by the Hon. Adam Beck. If the people will only wait, and not pass judgment unfairly, they will see the best lighted city in Eastern Canada, which will be a credit and a pride to the citizens of Peterborough, and the cost will not be substantially greater than what we are now paying for city street lighting. This with the reduced rates to the householders will put the ratepayer ahead and give him a saving on the expense he is put to in paying for electric light. Ald. Johnston has carried out a very thrifty, saving and progressive policy during the last two years, and the ratepayers who thoroughly understand the situation will do well to use their efforts in getting Ald. Johnston in the City Council for another year at least.

Yours truly,
RATEPAYER.

An Appreciation Of Miss Hinkle

The Detroit Free Press has the following to say of Miss Florence Hinkle, who sings at the Grand Opera House on Jan. 16th:

Miss Hinkle won her audience from the first moment, and before the end of the evening of delight, audience and singer felt themselves to be old friends. The singer's statuesque beauty is relieved by her winning charm of manner and her bubbling humour that was shown in many of her songs. Her voice is fascinating, marvellously smooth and, sweet of wide range, and of distinctive timbre, produced easily and evening and varying quite remarkably with the different types of music so that one not seeing the singer would scarcely realize that the programme was given by one person.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

FIRST INTERMEDIATE GAME OF THE SEASON RESULTED IN LOCAL LOSS

Whitby Out-lucked and Out-scored the Homesters by 5 to 4 in a Hard Battle Between Two Teams Not in Shape.

WAS EVEN AT THE HALF

Whitby defeated Peterborough 5 goals to 4 in a heart-breaking battle in the first intermediate O. H. A. game of the season at Brock Street Rink last night. One thousand fans saw the homesters go down to defeat after a game that was anybody's until the call of time. There was not much hockey—much couldn't be expected when it is realised that each team had only been on the ice once before the game—but there was a bunch of excitement all the way.

The Peterborough team was in a weakened condition with Denison away and Kelly sick, but at that they should have copped the big end of the scoring, having considerably the best of the play during the second half. They peppered the Whitby nets continuously for a long period in the second half, but could not score more than two goals in spite of the frequent opportunities. Both teams were in terrible shape and th players tired badly within a few minutes of the start. The result was a contest of spasmodic rushing with little or no combination and backchecking, and an almost total lack of team play. Everybody gave the last minute they had and had nothing left to finish on.

The Petes opened with a rush and inside the first ten minutes Maurice Park had caged the rubber twice. Whitby came back and tied the score before the half and when they opened the second period by scoring two goals it looked to be all over. The homesters fought them back, banged in a pair of counters, and evened up the count with seven minutes to go. Four minutes later Whitby fluked a goal on a scoop shot from the side, which Flowers did not see, and although the Petes tried desperately they could not bag the tying goal.

Both goal keepers played a sterling game. They had lots of work and did it well. For the Petes, Park was the most effective, the little centre man scoring three out of the four goals credited to the homesters. Although like the rest of the players, he was in poor shape, he never let up and his individual efforts nearly turned the scale in the locals' favour. Bradshaw jumped into the game at the last moment and gave an excellent account of himself on the defence.

For Whitby, Charlie Blanchard and Rice were the best outside of Goalkeeper Jubb. Blanchard was always working while Rice showed great speed in streaks.

Lawson Whitehead refereed the game most satisfactory. The teams were:

The game opened at a lightning clip, much too fast to last. Both teams took turns in rushing, and both Jubb and Flowers were called upon to handle shots. Lansfield broke his skate and retired for repairs, Lavery being dropped with him. From a face-off, near centre, Park wriggled his way inside the Whitby defence and fooled Jubb with a neat shot.

A few minutes later Giroux and Park came down together and, with the visitors' defence drawn out Park sailed in all alone and beat Jubb.

It was a promising opening for the Petes, but the cheering had hardly subsided before Rice got away and, tearing in on top of Flowers, scored Whitby's first goal.

Blanchard drew a penalty for tripping. Rice was hit in the head with a lift shot and there was a delay until he was patched up. Lansfield and Lavery came back at this stage and for some time the going was even. Watson took the count on a heavy body check and there was another delay. Bradshaw, Lavery and Giroux in turn served penalties. Finally, after fifteen minutes' playing Blanchard went in all alone and beat Flowers with a pretty shot, tying the score.

Kennealy was benched for slashing. Blanchard followed him for tripping. Bradshaw was the next offender and just before the half ended Lavery was ditched for tripping Park.

Whitby took the lead early in the second half. Less than two minutes from the opening Blanchard went down the side and beat Flowers with a shot was deflected into the nets off the goaler's pads.

Lavery drew a penalty for loafing, but he was back when Blanchard slammed in goal No. 4 from a rebound.

Two goals behind the Petes woke up and forced the play. In a minute Lansfield closed the gap to one goal by a neat shot from the side.

The homesters moved all hands up on the attack and kept the play around the Whitby nets. They had opportunities in plenty, but poor shooting and good goal-keeping by Jubb kept them out, and it was not until after seventeen minutes' play that Park scored the tying goal.

Smith, the visiting defence man, received a bump on the nose and there was a delay.

The Petes continued to press and their chances for a win looked bright until with three minutes to play, Blanchard slipped down the side. Bradshaw, apparently, had him covered up, but he scooped at the puck as the big defence man crashed into him, and the rubber went into the nets, putting the visitors in the lead.

The Petes tried hard but could not score. With 35 seconds to play Rice was sandwiched accidentally between Bond and Park, and was accidentally knocked out. Bond had his eye cut in the collision and both retired. In the few seconds left to play Park nearly tied up the score on a nice rush but his shot was wide and the game was over.

Summary.

1—Peterborough, Park, 3 mins.
2—Peterborough, Park, 2.30 mins.
3—Whitby, Rice, 1 min.

KINGSTON FRONTENACS HERE TUESDAY NIGHT

First Junior Game of the Season on the Cards for Next Week When Jimmy Sutherland's Speed Bunch from the East Will Invade Peterborough.

The first local junior O. H. A. game of the season will be staged at Brock Street Rink on Tuesday night next, when Jim Sutherland's fast Kingston Frontenacs will be here to clash with the Peterborough youngsters. The game should be one of the choice offerings of the season, as the contest will have a lot to do with deciding the district honours. Sutherland can always be counted upon to produce a good junior team and he will be here with a bunch that will be going all the time. The local youngsters have been working hard to get into shape. They had a good workout after the intermediat game, last night, will practice again tonight and wind up their training with a short work-out on Monday night. Five of the team, which finished out last season with the Petes, are again available and the local team for Tuesday night is a strong one. There is keen competition for several places and the line-up is not yet decided. Hockey fans cannot afford to miss the Kingston Frontenac-Peterborough Junior clash on Tuesday night.

Terriss Is A Splendid Actor, His Scrooge One Of Classics Of The British Stage To-day

FROM OTTAWA FREE PRESS

"Marley was dead. There was no doubt about that. He was dead as a door nail—as a coffin nail."

As these old Dickens' sentences rolled out from the Tom Terriss players in the Russell theatre last night, at the beginning of the double bill, the large audience—for almost every seat of the two thousand was filled—settled back in its respective seats with a feeling of real enjoyment. It did not take more than a couple of sentences for the audience to realise that the true Dickens' spiritt was preserved in every word uttered by the British players.

Indeed, it was so all through the two bills. Tom Terriss, who made his first appearance in Ottawa, will, in future, rank with that list of actors—mostly English—the announcement of whose appearance here is sufficient to fill the Russell on the mere word of their coming.

Terriss is a small man. His appearance is clean cut and manly, most of those in the theatre as they saw him in the double bill, could hardly realise that the Scrooge of the first part of the performance, was the Sydney Carton of the second part. For, in Scrooge, he appeared to be the tall cadaverous individual that Dickens so wonderfully portrays. And in "The Tale of Two Cities" immortalised for local theatre-goers by Martin Harvey, in "The Only Way," he was the typical Dickens' characters again, but not within six inches of the height of Scrooge, and in a hundred ways different.

"The Christmas Carol" is known to most readers. The firm of Scrooge and Marley—with Marley dead seven years—is known to all London as a shrewd corporation, in which no sentiment exists. The first act, where the philanthropic gentlemen, collecting for charity enter, and ask for Mr. Marley, and on finding he is dead, remark that his "liberality is doubtless represented by the surviving partner," was exceedingly good. As Dickens of this liberality: "it certainly was, for two more tight-fisted gentlemen could hardly be found in the whole of London."

And when the philanthropists make their plea and Scrooge asks in his clean, incisive voice—by the way, all English actors have fine voices—"Are there no prisons, are there no poorhouses?" the audience broke into a ripple of applause, that lasted for some time. The atmosphere was so essentially Dickens that the legion of lovers of his work could almost imagine they were re-reading his works again, in the first heyday of their youth—when, of course, Dickens should be read.

The dream of Scrooge was splendidly worked into the play. And the device of merging the dream into the reality was fine, too.

Of course Tiny Tim, played by a girl by the way, came in for a lot of attention, and his father received one of the best hands of the night when Scrooge, regenerated and changed, came to the office one day after Christmas, and threatened to raise his salary, and Bob, accustomed to years of abuse and bad treatment, for a moment thought his formidable master had gone crazy, and almost called in a "strait waistcoat."

And when the last act came and Scrooge explained, when he told Bob how he would help his struggling family, and told him to pile more coals on the struggling fire that had been existing for years by sufferance, in the "tank" in which Bob worked, there was hardly a dry eye in the whole theatre. Moreover, this is not a figment of fancy, but an actual fact. All the girls and women were audibly crying, while the men satisfied themselves, like Mr. Carter of the Daily Dialogues, by blowing their nose.

Terriss, in Sydney Carton, was as good artistically, as in Scrooge, but as Ottawa has seen Martin Harvey—some years ago—in "The Only Way," a longer version of "The Tale of Two Cities," Terriss suffered by comparison, but only because of the shorter version.

But Martin Harvey cannot act better than Terriss. Terriss is just as good as Harvey, but his version of the wonderful dramatic French revolution tale suffers by comparison with the longer one. Harvey's tale ran two hours and a half, Terriss' but an hour and a quarter. And so, many who had seen Harvey looked in vain for little bits, like that wet towel episode, and the conversation of the French aristocrats as their names were called in the prison for execution.

But there were many who thought that "The Tale of Two Cities" aimed last night in repressed power, and in dramatic force for its repression.

Terriss is a true son of the great theatrical family from which he has sprung, and of his great father. There was not a note of pathos and not an anti-climax—things so easy to happen in Dickens—during the entire evening.

The supporting company was excellent. The charming English girl who played the part of Sydney Carton's girl, or, rather, his inspiration in the second play, had all too little work to do.

But it would be superfluous to praise any one in particular, for the company, like most English companies, was up to a general standard of excellence.

To-night the Duke of Connaught and Princess Patricia will attend. Last night the boxes were filled and the audience was a brilliantly dressed one.

Petes Have Still Every Chance To Win The Intermediate District

There is no need of the local fans growing down-hearted over the defeat of the local intermediates, last night. They had to do battle with only one practice, shy two or three stars and with a lineup that had never played together before, against a team that has been together for several years. They were out-lucked and outscored, but not outplayed, after a hard game between two teams not physically fit for such a contest.

One game will not decide the district honours. There are six clubs in the district and each has twelve games to play. The defeat last night will not put the Petes out of the running, and with Kelly and Denison on the line-up the homesters have a team that will take some beating.

OSHAWA WON FROM BOWMANVILLE

OSHAWA, Jan. 2.—The O.H.A. was ushered into Oshawa to-night before a crowd of five hundred spectators when the home team met and defeated Bowmanville by a score of 9 to 3 in an intermediate game. The half-time score was 6 to 0. The ice was soft and prevented any chance of combination. The teams:

Oshawa—Goal, R. Fair; point, F. J. Freeman; cover-point, L. Quinn; rover, W. Fair; centre, J. Smith; right wing, R. Murphy; left wing, Bone.

Bowmanville—Goal, Spry; point, R. Jones; cover-point, C. Williams; rover, Hooper; centre, Dunston; left wing, Higginbottom; right wing, Cryderman.

Referee—H. Broule.

JUNIOR PRACTICE AT 7 TO-NIGHT

The Juniors will practice to-night between 7 and 8 at the Brock street rink, and a full turn out is expected. The team will also have a short work out on Monday night at 7, in final preparation for the game with Kingston on Tuesday night.

Cyril Giroux was elected captain of the Intermediate Peterborough team before last night's game. The choice was a worthy one as the sturdy little player has won his spurs in many a hard-fought game.

There will be a meeting of the Intermediate players at the Brock street rink to-night at 8 o'clock. Captain Giroux wishes a full turn out of all Intermediate players.

An Endorsation Of Ald. Duffus

Peterborough, Jan. 2nd, 1914.

To the Editor of The Examiner,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir,—I am glad to note that Alderman Duffus continues to be such an ardent supporter of the Hydro-Electric system, and that one of the planks in his platform is that this important matter will have his earnest support towards a speedy completion.

On the other hand, it is a positive fact that Mr. Worth, of the Bonner-Woth Company, Limited, journeyed to Toronto last spring, together with the other sympathisers of our local Power Companies, who opposed, before the Private Bills committee, the granting of the Private Act which the City got, allowing them to expropriate the Peterborough Light and Power Company's plant, and therefore to block and injure the scheme outlined by the Hon. Adam Beck, which the ratepayers of Peterborough endorsed so highly at the polls last January.

Alderman Duffus is doing good work in the West Ward. If it had not been for his support there would not have been areas restricted from the building of stores, livery stables, boarding stables, etc., which has made this section worth thousands of dollars more as a residential centre. He has always been a very active member of the City Council, and it will need just such a man as him to give the West Ward its fair share of attention, and assist in solving the important questions which will come before the Council of 1914.

Yours truly,
WEST WARD.

ROBERT HICKS HAS THE FLOOR

To the Electors:

The following paragraph appears in Mr. J. B. McWilliam's farewell address to the electors:

"MR. HICKS AND I ARE VERY OLD FRIENDS AND HE HAS PROVED HIMSELF A GOOD BUSINESS MAN°°°but he has a large business to attend and would either have to neglect the City business or his own, and I leave you to judge which would suffer. Besides, we know that the men who brought him out and are working for his election are in active opposition to the Hydro-Electric."

I feel extremely obliged to J. B. for his frank little New Year's card as conveyed in the first sentence of this paragraph. But I know that he is too fair-minded a gentleman not to accept my denial of the statement in the second sentence, that "the men who brought him (me) out, and are working for his election are in active opposition to the Hydro-Electric."

Now, J. B., that's not a very nice thing to say of your "very old friend" who happens to be your opponent in this election, is it?

Tell me, J. B., are such men as J. J. Turner, Jr., Walter J. Oke, ex-Mayor Bradburn, Ald. Gordon, Ald. J. W. Green, H. Rush, Robert Fair, and a whole galaxy of stalwarts, known to be Hydro-Electric supporters, and whom I have the pleasure to count among my supporters—are these some of those you refer to as being in active opposition to the Hydro-Electric? I trust not. The mention of such names is the best answer I can made to Mr. McWilliams' uncalled for insinuation.

JACKSON—HENRY.

LINDSAY, Jan. 3. — On New Year's Day, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henry, 75 St. Patrick street, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when their daughter, Lillian Henry, was united in marriage to Mr. C. Jackson, of Lindsay, by Rev. Mr. McMullen, pastor of Queen Street Methodist Church.

The bridesmaid was Miss Eva Stenton, of Peterborough, and the groomsman, Mr. Victor Henry, also of Peterborough. The groom's gift to the bride was a silver mesh purse. The groomsman was presented with a gold stick-pin. And to the bridesmaid a gold brooch set with rubies and pearls. The presents were very numerous and costly attesting to the popularity of the bride and groom. They included a well filled purse from the parents of the bride. Between forty-five and fifty guests were present for the occasion. Friends from a distance were: Mrs. W. J. Allan, of Ottawa, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Finley, of Peterborough, and many other friends from different points.

MACKENZIE—HALL.

Th marriage took place on New Year's Day at St. Paul's Church, Peterborough, of Gwendoline Fraser, youngest daughter of Mr. James A. Hall, Sheriff of the County, to Tom Percival Mackenzie, son of Mr. David Mackenzie, C.E., City Engineer of Dunfermline, Fifeshire, Scotland. The Rev. Robert Pogue, minister of the church, officiated. The bride wore a travelling dress of Alice blue velvet with a hat to match, and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. She was assisted by Mrs. P. C. C. Campbell, of Kingston, who wore a blue silk gown with a black velvet hat trimmed with white ostrich plumes, carrying a bouquet of Richmond roses. Th groom was assisted by Mr. R. H. Marlow, of Toronto. The wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Mr. John Crane, as the bride walked up the aisle with her father, and Mendelssohn's wedding march as the happy pair left the church. Mr. and Mrs. Mackenzie will reside at Toronto.

HOW WE ARE TO GET FAIR TAXTATION

One more hole has been made in our income tax legislation whereby a numerous army of tax dodgers may get through without harm to their pockets. Judge McGibbon of Brampton, has rendered a decision which, unless reversed by a higher court, will allow all the numerous army of Federal officials in Ontario to laugh at the tax collectors so far as income taxes are concerned. Judge McGibbon holds that no authority can be found in the British North America Act authorizing the imposition of an income tax upon Dominion Government officials by or through municipalities under the authority of provincial legislation, and further, under our Federal system of government, one Government cannot tax another. His Honour's decision makes it clear that all Government officials, such as judges and other court officials, all post office officials, customs officials, etc., to the number of tens of thousands in Canada, will hereafter escape every species of income taxation.

No doubt in time other loop holes will be discovered; indeed, they are now found in a great many cases, whereby all but the poor devil will either entirely escape paying a tax upon incomes or pay only part of what the original framers of these absurd laws intended they should.

Since the beginning of time the poor man has paid the taxes for the rich, and the case of Sir Henry Pellatt and his castle on the hill in Toronto is only a recent example. In this particular case the bungle occurs owing to an attempt to tax improvements. Now, if Sir Henry's acres had been assessed in the same proportion as the fifty-foot lots in the neighbourhood the assessors would have found themselves richly rewarded without taxing the "castle" for a dollar. But in place of this we find them attempting to establish the real worth of a structure of this character without paying proper attention to the land upon which it and the generous outbuildings stand, or taking into account the gardens and lawns surrounding them. Of course, they failed, ad they deserved to fail, and no thinking man will under the circumstances blame Sir Henry Pellat for taking advantage of Sir James Whitney's fool taxation legislation, any more than can Federal Government officials be blamed for taking advantage of a loop hole in the laws regarding the collection of income taxes.

Back in the old days, when the barons ran the earth, they naturally framed taxation to meet their own requirements. They had plenty of land and few buildings in proportion to the acres occupied. On the other hand, the poor man had a little bit of a plot of land and a building thereon, all out of proportion to the value of the land. So the baron, who was the boss, evolved the taxation on improvements. If he taxed the land heavily he would be hitting his own pocketbook. But if he taxed improvements he would hit the other fellows—the little fellows—who must necessarily have a roof over their heads, but not necessarily any great amount of land surrounding the habitation. Much to the consternation of the more recent barons, Mr. Lloyd George has been straightening out some of these peculiar kinds and no doubt in time our own lawmakers will awake to the fact that there is only one tax that will meet the full requirement of a live, up-to-date nation, the only one which cannot be dodged—the tax upon land.—Toronto Saturday Night.

"You Do and See Better"

THREE FORMS OF EYE TROUBLE

Are commonly met with—any of which may have existed from birth Nature does not always make perfect eyes. We have near-sightedness, farsightedness and astigmatism, which is a form of irregular sight. All of these defects require attention. If a child has any of these defects and is expected to do close work of any kind he must have his eyes carefully examined and wear such glasses as will correct the refraction of his eyes. As well expect A child born with one leg shorter than the other to walk without limping as to ask one born with imperfect vision to do accurate eye work without suffering the consequences. Call any day.

The Right Of Appeal

At the annual meeting of the Ontario Bar Association, held in Toronto on Monday, Sir Allen Aylesworth referred to the right of appeal to the Privy Council in London as a bond of Empire. Curious that no appeals to the Judicial Committee lie from English courts of law, nor Irish, nor Scotch. Where, then, does the Empire begin?

The practice of carrying appeals from colonial courts of law to England rests on the ancient idea of the King redressing the grievances of his loyal subjects, and in modern times there was accompanying this a lack of confidence in the ability of untrained colonial judges deciding questions of law. This latter consideration might yet apply to the numerous small crown colonies and to India. It can hardly apply to Canada, whose courts have for a century been adorned by jurists of repute and eminence.

When Canada established a federal Supreme Court at Ottawa the statute contained a clause making it the final court of appeal. The English law lords who could scarcely point out Canada on the map, and the English lawyers enjoying fat fees from appeals to the Privy Council, procured the disallowance of the clause making the Supreme Court of Canada the supreme court.

There was during last session of parliament a demand for the abolition of this right of appeal, following a decision derogatory to the rights of the municiality in Toronto over the right of a company to erect poles and string wires on the streets. Toronto is pretty strong on bonds of empire but that dose was too strong and the agitation found expression in parliament. Referring to this case, Sir Allen said he "recognised the exercise of the inherent right of anyone to abuse the judge who has decided against him." Then according to Sir Allen's theory tha' the appeal is from the King's judge in Canada to the King in Council the loyal citizens of Toronto find themselves in the uncomfortable position of abusing the King. As a matter of fact three or four English lawyers gather round a table in Downing Street, ascertain as much of the case as they thing necessary from counsel, and reach a conclusion that, in its final judgment, takes the form of an order in-council, signed no doubt by deputy In the Manitoba school case the decision of the Queen-in-Council was ignored and there was the spectacle of a further appeal to the Governor-General-in-Council at Ottawa, who made an order in contempt of the judgment of the Privy Council in England. Can Sir Allen Aylesworth recall anything in his reading of history more ridiculous than this?

That same case recalls something however, much more serious. When it was being argued before the Supreme Court at Ottawa Mr. Justice Taschereau, one of the judges, said: "What's the use of us bothering by giving judgments? No matter which way we decide the case will go to the Privy Council. The court did not feel the responsibility it would have assumed if its judgment had been final. And that aspect of the subject is, we submit, far more important than any antiquated exploded and untenable theory of the right to go "to the foot of the throne."—Montreal Herald.

COAST DEVASTATED

New Jersey Towns in Grip of Terrific Gales

SEABRIGHT IS WORST HIT

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—With a 76-mile gale from the northeast driving great seas against bulkheads already weakened or broken through by the great storm of Christmas night, the New Jersey coast point yesterday and last night underwent, perhaps, the worst experience they had had in many years.

One man dropped dead from excitement at Seabright, N.J., and two are reported missing at Coney Island.

The total damage to property already amounts well into the hundreds of thousands. Most of this has been done to dwellings and other structures which the storm of two weeks ago left without protection by breaking down bulkheads and weakening others.

Seabright, as in previous storms, again bore the brunt of the sea's attack because of its exposed position on a narrow sand pit between the ocean and the Shrewsbury river. Yesterday bulkheads that had withstood the previous storm, gave way, additional sections were flooded and more summer dwellings were wrecked or badly undermined. The Octogon Hotel, damaged already to the extent of $60,000, may become a total loss.

The worst damage was a flood-tide early yesterday, when the waves swept across the strip of land containing the town and flowed into the Shrewsbury river. Gangs of men were strengthening the foundations of some buildings and removing others on rollers to points of safety. When the wind switched around to the northwest, the storm abated and the waters receded.

The old St. Peter's Church at Galilee is imperilled. It is in an exposed position and is in great danger of going into the sea. The strong bulkhead was badly damaged and the lawn washed out. Fishermen worked hard to save the church.

On Long Island, as well as on the New Jersey coast, the situation in many places was regarded to-day as critical. Many of the temporary bulkheads erected after the storm on Christmas night have been swept out to sea, with the result that much property is at the mercy of the high waves.

Steamers Driven to Shelter.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 5.—Steamers on the Providence, Fall River and other lines, as well as smaller craft, were forced to seek shelter in the harbor here early yesterday morning, as the result of a gale that blew more than 50 miles an hour.

The steamer Priscilla of the Fall River Line, from New York to Providence, unloaded here 500 passengers who made the remainder of the trip by rail. Other steamers that put in were the Tennessee, Georgia and New Hampshire. Many schooners and barges are in the harbor to-day. A heavy sea is running.

Illness Opens Prison Door.

WINDSOR, Jan. 5.—The telegraph wires Saturday carried from Washington a message which opened the prison doors for Roy Lounsberry, aged 19, of Wheatley, Ont., but the pardon comes to late, for the youth is dying from tuberculosis, and can live but a short time, the prison doctors say.

Lounsberry was indicted for Chinese smuggling.

CONDITION IS GRAVE

Premier Sir James Whitney Is Very Ill in New York --Heart Trouble is Cause

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Sir James Pliny Whitney, Premier of Ontario, is resting quietly to-day at the Hotel Manhattan, where he has been ill for more than two weeks. While it is admitted that his condition is serious, both Dr. R. A. Pyne, the Ontario Minister of Education, and Dr. Herman Biggs, the nerve specialist, who is in charge of the case, stated that they apprehend no immediate danger.

Dr. Biggs visited Sir James shortly after five o'clock yesterday afternoon, and after leaving the patient he said that Sir James was no worse, but was resting comfortably.

Dr. R. A. Pyne and Horace Wallis, the Premier's private secretary, spent some time with the patient, and Lady Whitney early in the evening, and stated that they considered him in no immediate danger.

The news that a rumor of the Premier's death had reached Toronto caused a distinct shock to the members of the party. There was nothing in the condition of the Premier, they maintained, to justify any rumor even of danger.

"He is poorly," was Dr. Pyne's comment, "but we have every hope that he will rally."

Dr. Biggs said: "His condition is serious, but I apprehend no immediate danger of a fatal termination."

Toronto Stunned.

TORONTO, Jan. 5. — When the alarming news reached Toronto yesterday morning that the illness of Sir James Whitney in New York had taken a serious turn, and that he could not last out the day, it caused a great shock. Variations of this were spread through the streets during the succeeding hours, reaching at one time the definite report that Sir James had passed away.

For several days Sir James' colleagues in Queen's Park have known that he was not progressing towards recovery as the first week of his trip south promised. Two weeks ago yesterday he left Washington for New York, intending to return to Toronto by Christmas. But the excitement of the journey, in view of his then weakened state, developed complications that forced him to obey the emphatic mandates of his physician and go to bed.

Shortly after ten o'clock yesterday morning Hon. J. J. Foy, Attorney-General and acting Premier, received the startling news in the following words from Dr. Pyne:—

"Sir James is seriously ill with a disease of the heart, and the public ought to know it."

Subsequent message from New York stated that the condition of the Ontario Premier, was precarious.

Suiting the action to the word, Mr. Foy caused the news to be communicated to Bishop Sweeney, Archdeacon Cody and Rev. Father Canning, with the request that it be transmitted generally to the clergy throughout the city.

Messages were sent to members of the Government out of the city. Hon. James S. Duff was reached at Cookstown; Hon. I. B. Lucas, after some great difficulty, at Markdale; Hon. W. J. Hanna was in Montreal, Hon. Adam Beck and Hon. J. O. Reaume are abroad, and only cable messages could reach them.

During the day the telegraph and telephone offices were deluged with inquiries for confirmation of the worst aspect of the news. As soon as the newspaper offices opened the switchboard staffs had to be doubled, and messages rained in from every corner of the province. Twice the rumor was started that the end had come.

Sir James left Toronto early in December for a tour in the south in an effort to restore his health. He had suffered a nervous breakdown, and Dr. Pyne considered that a short trip would be sufficient to put him back in good condition.

On the way back from the south, Sir James became seriously ill in New York, and took apartments at the Manhattan on Dec. 14. Since that time he was constantly in charge of a nurse, while the two physicians were in attendance. All telephone communication was cut off from his apartment, and Lady Whitney was with him most of the time.

After a few days he rallied, then fell back once more, but even then Dr. Pyne thought a prolonged rest and quiet would restore him. On Friday last, however, his heart action began to cause some alarm. He rallied, but had several attacks of the same nature. While these would not alarm the physicians in a young man, the fact of Sir James being over 70 caused them to watch him closely.

VESSEL FOUNDERS.

Seven Are Drowned In Wreck of the Schooner Ionia W.

HALIFAX, Jan. 5.—The Nova Scotian schooner Ionia W., with her captain and crew of six men, has been lost in the vicinity of Sable Island. More evidence of the fate of the vessel was discovered on the treacherous sands of the island.

The superintendent of the island has sent a wireless despatch to Chas. Harvey, the local agent of the Canadian Marine Department, reporting wreckage on the western end of the island. This consists of a schooner's cabin, a ship's compass, a barrel of fish nets, some fish hooks and a Norwegian fogborn.

Written on the cabin was the following: "Wind south June 22, 1913. Cold weather. Caribou harbor. Waiting for bait. Angus Zwicker."

The vessel left Georgetown, P.E.I., early in December with a cargo of produce for Liverpool, N.S.

She was built in 1903, registered 93 tons, and was by Jacob Ernest of Mahone Bay.

Raising Funds For Navy.

PARIS, Jan. 5.—E. Venizelos, the Greek Premier, announces a visit to Paris for the end of next week. It is known that his principal object is to get funds to put the Greek navy on an equal footing with the Turkish navy, which at present is superior to the Greek, owing to the Sultan's acquisition of the Brazilian Dreadnought Rio de Janeiro. M. Venizelos hopes to secure an additional loan of $60,000,000 to complete his naval program. He will come to Paris via Rome, and will visit London before returning to Athens.

J. W. ASKIN DEAD.

Registrar of Deeds For Essex County Dies Suddenly.

WINDSOR, Jan. 5.—J. Wallace Askin, Registrar of Deeds for Essex County and one of Windsor's most prominent citizens, died suddenly on Saturday afternoon at his office in Sandwich from acute angina pectoris.

There was no premonition of the attack, death coming swiftly and mercifully, Mr. Askin dying as he sat at his desk closing up his duties for the week-end. He was 65 years old.

For three generations the Askin family has held the office of Registrar in Essex, the position having been handed down from father to son since 1831, at which time James Askin, grandfather of J. Wallace Askin, first took office. Eleven years later John Askin succeeded to the place, and upon his death in 1888 his son, who died Saturday, and who had been Deputy Registrar, became Registrar. The terms of the three totalled 83 years.

Born in Sandwich in 1848, J. Wallace Askin was educated at Assumption College and St. Hyacinthe College, Quebec. In later years he served in the Fenian outbreak as captain in the old 21st Regiment until the border strife was ended. He studied law in Windsor.

Rebel General Makes a Fierce Attack on Ojinaga

GEN. VILLA GOADS HIM ON

PRESIDIO, Texas, Jan. 5. — Six thousand men composing the rebel forces made a desperate charge at the west wing of the Federal entrenchments in Ojinga yesterday afternoon. Reinforcements have trailed across Lamula Pass and have been directed to join Teraidad Rodriguez on the west of the plateau for a flanking attack against the forces which Orosco and Salazar have massed at that point. Gen. Ortega, who is determined to retrieve his lost prestige, is directing this fight in person with Rodrigues following him as second in command. This charge started soon after 12 o'clock and was well under way by three o'clock.

Two thousand Federal cavalry were seen to leave the main positions at 2.30, wind down the narrow ladder-like trail to the desert, and charge across the low-lying plain to gain the banks of the Conchos river in a desperate effort to flank the rebels and drive them from their position.

Many riderless horses galloped back to the base of the plain, and the whinnies of the wounded animals added their mite to the pandemonium of battle cries as the big charge of the biggest day started.

Anticipated as the fiercest fighting of the week, the Sunday engagement was equal to expectations, although at the hour of sending the despatch the battle was still indecisive.

The fight began at one o'clock yesterday morning, when under the cover of artillery fire and with the darkness as an ally the rebels leaped to the fight like thoroughbreds at a barrier. Up the steep slope of Ojinaga Plateau came the charging column in personal command of young Carranza. Not a shot was fired until they had reached the top of the slope. Then, at a prearranged signal, the points of flame shot from the gun barrels sweeping down the double line like burning powder following a trail. Asleep on their arms, the Federals were soon squatting in their entrenchments, the machine guns started their knitting again, and the booming of big guns made the plateau tremble like the passing of a heavy train.

Villa, the Constitutionalist commander, has sent one of his characteristic messages in code to General Ortega. Translated it says for him to take the town or to be tried as a traitor. Men who know Ortega say that he will never stop until he has led his men up the sides of the plain and into the Federal trenches, preferring death in the line to disgrace and death in front of a firing squad.

Villa Rushing to Ojinaga.

JUAREZ, Jan. 5.—Francisco Villa is rushing to the front from Juarez on board a special train. Raoul Madero, brother of the dead President of the republic, is with him as his military adviser, and all of the rebel troops in the State of Chihuahua are hurrying to Ojinaga for the supreme assault.

Villa, who was in Juarez on civil business, became desperate yesterday when he learned that Ortega and Natera had not taken the town with the early morning manoeuvres and swore to go there in person and shoot Salazar, Orozco and Castro, his three deadly enemies, who were directing the Federal fight so skillfully.

BUFFALO, Jan. 5.—Dr. Frederick C. Busch, widely-known as an authority on cancer, died here yesterday from malignant cancer and pneumonia. Two months ago he was operated on in the John Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore. Radium was used.

New York state officials urged the operation as a last hope. Dr. Busch's cancer was of the incurable type, and at the most, radium, in his case, could only alleviate suffering.

Dr. Busch for ten years held the chair of physiology in the University of Buffalo. Two years ago he identified himself with the State Cancer Laboratory here, and his researches here and in Europe were important in the study of cancer. He was the author of several medical works. He was 40 years old.

Opposed to Church Union.

SOFIA, Jan. 5.—Orthodox Exarch of Bulgaria, in an encyclical addressed Saturday to the Orthodox Bulgarian clergy, expressed strong opposition to the proposals for a union of the Christian churches now occupying the earnest attention of some religious circles in America and England.

The exarch exhorts the Bulgarian people "To mistrust the idea of a union with the Catholic Church, entertained by interested propagandists," and asserts that the safety of Bulgaria lies in the attachment of her people to orthodoxy and "Slavism," at the head of which is the great Russia.

Farmer, Buggy and All Get Thrilling Ride In Storm.

HOLSTEIN, Jan. 5.—To be lifted up with his buggy and horse, carried along at a rapid rate for a mile, and then tumbled into a huge but soft snow bank was the experience of George Keith, a farmer of Egremont township, Saturday night. When he had collected his thoughts Mr. Keith found that he had been struck by a train which he had neither seen nor heard because of a blinding snowstorm.

The men in the cab of the engine knew nothing of the human freight carried on the butterfly snow plow in front of the engine until during a lull in the storm the engineer saw a hat in front. He immediately stopped the train, and walking to the front of his engine found a buggy top and the hat. Fearing that some one had been killed he backed the train up a quarter of a mile and found Keith scrambling out of the snow bank little the worse for his experience. Backing up another mile and a quarter, the horse was found dead, and back another mile and a quarter they found William Yake, Keith's companion, walking up the track to Holstein, a distance of two miles.

It seems that the two men were driving home from Mount Forest and in the snowstorm lost the way. Yake got out to make some inquiries, while Keith remained in the buggy. He apparently drove on to the tracks and the G.T.R. train hit him.

Mr. Yake, failing to find the buggy, started walking back along the track to Holstein. He was uninjured, and Mr. Keith is only suffering from shock.

COAST DEVASTATED

New Jersey Towns in Grip of Terrific Gales

SEABRIGHT IS WORST HIT

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—With a 78-mile gale from the northeast driving great seas against bulkheads already weakened or broken through by the great storm of Christmas night, the New Jersey coast point yesterday and last night underwent, perhaps, the worst experience they had had in many years.

One man dropped dead from excitement at Seabright, N.J., and two are reported missing at Coney Island.

The total damage to property already amounts well into the hundreds of thousands. Most of this has been done to dwellings and other structures which the storm of two weeks ago left without protection by breaking down bulkheads and weakening others.

Seabright, as in previous storms, again bore the brunt of the sea's attack because of its exposed position on a narrow sand pit between the ocean and the Shrewsbury river. Yesterday bulkheads that had withstood the previous storm, gave way, additional sections were flooded and more summer dwellings were wrecked or badly undermined. The Octogon Hotel, damaged already to the extent of $60,000, may become a total loss.

The worst damage was a flood-tide early yesterday, when the waves swept across the strip of land containing the town and flowed into the Shrewsbury river. Gangs of men were strengthening the foundations of some buildings and removing others on rollers to points of safety. When the wind switched around to the northwest, the storm abated and the waters receded.

The old St. Peter's Church at Gallilee is imperilled. It is in an exposed position and is in great danger of going into the sea. The strong bulkhead was badly damaged and the lawn washed out. Fishermen worked hard to save the church.

On Long Island, as well as on the New Jersey coast, the situation in many places was regarded to-day as critical. Many of the temporary bulkheads erected after the storm on Christmas night have been swept out to sea, with the result that much property is at the mercy of the high waves.

Steamers Driven to Shelter.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 5.—Steamers on the Providence, Fall River and other lines, as well as smaller craft, were forced to seek shelter in the harbor here early yesterday morning, as the result of a gale that blew more than 50 miles an hour.

The steamer Priscilla of the Fall River Line, from New York to Providence, unloaded here 500 passengers who made the remainder of the trip by rail. Other steamers that put in were the Tennessee, Georgia and New Hampshire. Many schooners and barges are in the harbor to-day. A heavy sea is running.

Illness Opens Prison Door.

WINDSOR, Jan. 5.—The telegraph wires Saturday carried from Washington a message which opened the prison doors for Roy Lounsberry, aged 19, of Wheatley, Ont., but the pardon comes to late, for the youth is dying from tuberculosis, and can live but a short time, the prison doctors say.

Lounsberry was indicted for Chinese smuggling.

CONDITION IS GRAVE

Premier Sir James Whitney is Very Ill in New York --Heart Trouble is Cause

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Sir James Pliny Whitney, Premier of Ontario, is resting quietly to-day at the Hotel Manhattan, where he has been ill for more than two weeks. While it is admitted that his condition is serious, both Dr. R. A. Pyne, the Ontario Minister of Education, and Dr. Herman Biggs, the nerve specialist, who is in charge of the case, stated that they apprehend no immediate danger.

Dr. Biggs visited Sir James shortly after five o'clock yesterday afternoon, and after leaving the patient he said that Sir James was no worse, but was resting comfortably.

Dr. R. A. Pyne and Horace Wallis, the Premier's private secretary, spent some time with the patient, and Lady Whitney early in the evening, and stated that they considered him in no immediate danger.

The news that a rumor of the Premier's death had reached Toronto caused a distinct shock to the members of the party. There was nothing in the condition of the Premier, they maintained, to justify any rumor even of danger.

"He is poorly," was Dr. Pyne's comment, "but we have every hope that he will rally."

Dr. Biggs said: "His condition is serious, but I apprehend no immediate danger of a fatal termination."

Toronto Stunned.

TORONTO, Jan. 5. — When the alarming news reached Toronto yesterday morning that the illness of Sir James Whitney in New York had taken a serious turn, and that he could not last out the day, it caused a great shock. Variations of this were spread through the streets during the succeeding hours, reaching at one time the definite report that Sir James had passed away.

For several days Sir James' colleagues in Queen's Park have known that he was not progressing towards recovery as the first week of his trip south promised. Two weeks ago yesterday he left Washington for New York, intending to return to Toronto by Christmas. But the excitement of the journey, in view of his then weakened state, developed complications that forced him to obey the emphatic mandates of his physician and go to bed.

Shortly after ten o'clock yesterday morning Hon. J. J. Foy, Attorney-General and acting Premier, received the startling news in the following words from Dr. Pyne:—

"Sir James is seriously ill with a disease of the heart, and the public ought to know it."

Subsequent message from New York stated that the condition of the Ontario Premier, was precarious.

Suiting the action to the word, Mr. Foy caused the news to be communicated to Bishop Sweeney, Archdeacon Cody and Rev. Father Canning, with the request that it be transmitted generally to the clergy throughout the city.

Messages were sent to members of the Government out of the city. Hon. James S. Duff was reached at Cookstown; Hon. I. B. Lucas, after some great difficulty, at Markdale; Hon. W. J. Hanna was in Montreal, Hon. Adam Beck and Hon. J. O. Reaume are abroad, and only cable messages could reach them.

During the day the telegraph and telephone offices were deluged with inquiries for confirmation of the worst aspect of the news. As soon as the newspaper offices opened the switchboard staffs had to be doubled, and messages rained in from every corner of the province. Twice the rumor was started that the end had come.

Sir James left Toronto early in December for a tour in the south in an effort to restore his health. He had suffered a nervous breakdown, and Dr. Pyne considered that a short trip would be sufficient to put him back in good condition.

On the way back from the south, Sir James became seriously ill in New York, and took apartments at the Manhattan on Dec. 14. Since that time he was constantly in charge of a nurse, while the two physicians were in attendance. All telephone communication was cut off from his apartment, and Lady Whitney was with him most of the time.

After a few days he rallied, then fell back once more, but even then Dr. Pyne thought a prolonged rest and quiet would restore him. On Friday last, however, his heart action began to cause some alarm. He rallied, but had several attacks of the same nature. While these would not alarm the physicians in a young man, the fact of Sir James being over 70 caused them to watch him closely.

True Tales of Adventure

ALASKAN HUNTERS RETURN WITH THRILLING ACCOUNTS OF KILLING FEROCIOUS BLACK BEAR

IT has been a great season for bears, especially in Alaska. If you are skeptical you need only listen to the reports of the sportsmen who have been returning from the North and who stop over in Tacoma long enough to add to the list of remarkable shots and the even more wonderful ones that almost got even bigger and more difficult quarry.

Tacoma is fairly surfeited with "b'ar" yarns, yet the latest man who gets in with the report of his achievements is convinced that it is worth telling.

Maybe it is because of the number and persistence of the invaders that the bears in Alaska have shown a peculiarly ferocious disposition this year. M. William Melvin, a mining man of Democrat Pup—perhaps that name had something to do with stirring up the bear—was following the trail to his home when he was confronted by a large black bear who, coolly taking his measure, decided to contest the right of way. Melvin accepted the gage of combat and made the first move by pulling his .38 revolver and firing quickly. His shot hit the animal—a miner from Democrat Pup would not be likely to miss—but the bear, being enraged by the wound, rushed upon his adversary. When the bear was within ten feet of him Melvin fired again rapidly three times, but the bear, ignoring his injuries, continued to charge. Then the revolver failed to work and the man took to his heels, finally outdistancing the pursuing bear. As soon as he could get a rifle Melvin retraced his steps and at a distance of about three miles came upon the wounded bear. One more shot did for him.

In the same neighborhood a prospector by the name of Isaac Isaacson was attacked by a bear as he was splitting wood near his cabin. He had barely time to escape to the roof of his cabin with his .22 rifle. From this point of vantage he fired several shots into the bear and was able to drive it away.

One of the biggest bags of the season was reported by Mr. and Mrs. James Morris, of Paris, and Mr. C. T. Summerson, who spent the summer in Alaska. No less than six brown bears, three grizzly bears, one black bear, to say nothing of caribou, moose, mountain sheep, mountain goats, a wolf, ducks, geese and other game birds, with fine catches of fish, proved their prowess as sportsmen.

The party started north in June, and as soon as they reached Alaska they chartered a small power vessel in which they cruised among the islands of southeastern Alaska, trolling for salmon and fishing in the streams until the shooting season opened in British Columbia. Then they crossed the White Pass and chartered another power vessel in which they ascended the Pelly River and the McMillan River from Fort Selkirk, covering a distance of 580 miles. This brought them into the foothills of the Rocky Mountains, where they found the big game so abundant that in fourteen days they had killed as much as they were permitted to take under their licenses.

Melvin Fired Again Rapidly Three Times.

Mr. Summerson on his return to Tacoma said that his only complaint in regard to his season's sport was about the licensing. Alaska and the remote parts of British Columbia were, he said, two of the very best places for sport in all the world, but the cost of a license in Alaska is extremely high. He and his two companions paid an aggregate of $1,500. Then the law prohibits the shipping of brown bear outside Alaska, so it is necessary to go into British Columbia for them if a sportsman wishes to send them home.

Even with this handicap Mr. Summerson believes that Alaska is a paradise for sportsmen, and in addition makes one of the finest summer resorts to be found anywhere—far surpassing Norway and Switzerland in its scenic beauty.

Another sportsman from the East who returned from his expedition to Alaska full of enthusiasm is Dr. Arthur W. Elting of Albany, N. Y., who went north with Captain Frank E. Kleinschmidt last summer. Dr. Elting had shot big game in Newfoundland and New Brunswick and in the Rocky Mountain country, but after this adventure into Alaska he acclaims it the finest hunting ground of them all. The party obtained two brown bears, four black bears and five polar bears, besides a number of caribou moose and mountain sheep. Even an experienced sportsman does not always get the bear he shoots. One evening, just at sundown, when Dr. Elting and his guide were at a considerable distance from the other members of their party, they saw standing above them on the mountainside and within a few feet of the trail a large brown bear. They had hardly seen it before the animal charged upon Dr. Elting.

At a distance of about twenty-five feet he shot her in the shoulder, but before he could fire again she rolled over into the underbrush. By that time it was too dark to find her, but the next day they trailed her and her three cubs, but finally lost them. Three days later, however, they crossed the trail of the three cubs going in a different direction, and accepted this as an indication that the mother bear had succumbed to the effects of Dr. Elting's shot.

There is one famous bear still alive now that the sportsmen say has invaded Alaska and gone away again. Several persons claim to have seen the tracks of Old Resurrection, but they all agree that they were not able to get him. Old Resurrection is a famous giant brown Kenai Peninsula specimen, believed from his monster footprints to be the biggest bear now alive out of doors in North America.

For years men have set forth gayly at the beginning of the season vowing to bring down Old Resurrection. At its expiration they have returned sadder and wiser. Every one believes in the existence of this great brown bear and many a man feels confident that he will get him next time. The bear takes his peculiar name, by the way, from the headwaters of the Resurrection River, where he is supposed to have his haunts.

Last summer when the Duke-Cotter party went out into the hills in that region they announced that they would not return without Old Resurrection. They never had a peep at him, but "Larry" Duke asserted that he would go back to the Kenai Peninsula later in the season for one more try.

Two other sportsmen, Andrew Simon and Henry E. Lucas, who went after the old bear, reported on their return from their unsuccessful quest that they had found tracks too large to have been made by any other animal in the hills except Old Resurrection, and that they had followed the trail for four days. During that time they travelled across the glacier flat at the end of Shiluk Lake and down the Kenai River, then up to the head of the Kelly River. Always the great tracks lured them on, but they never came up with the wily animal that had made them.

Similar testimony of other sportsmen has put a keen edge on the desire to bag this elusive and ponderous bear. Great will be the prestige of the man who can get Old Resurrection as his trophy.

Mr. W. W. Perkins, who got a bear in Oregon this year, claims that one portion of that State yields almost as good sport as Alaska. With a party he spent about six weeks in Panther's Gulch, between Grant's Pass and the coast. After leaving the railroad at Roseburg they proceeded by stage 125 miles into the mountains.

Here they found a country covered by native forest, unsettled except by an occasional pioneer. Several of the party got bear and deer up to the limit of the law, and Mr. Perkins got a cougar, a wary old fellow that kept him on the chase for several days, there being always the chance that the pursued might get the pursuer.

Mr. C. D. Melville, of Edmonton, Alberta, a member of the Dominion Fisheries Board, with Mr. John McKenna, of the same place, travelled thirteen hundred miles in a wooden canoe on swift northern rivers during the last season, and three hundred miles overland through a wilderness. All this was accomplished in nine weeks. Shooting from the canoe while spinning along the Peace and the Wabasca rivers, Mr. Melville killed two bears and two bull moose. These rivers drop more than nine hundred feet in a distance of 320 miles, the banks being from fifty to one hundred feet above the water level.

Thus, from Oregon to Northern Alaska under all sorts of conditions the bear has paid tribute in 1913 to the skill of the American sportsman.

New Type of Railway Locomotive

A COMMON competitor is now arising to railway traction to both types of prime mover, the electric and the steam locomotive. This is the Diesel or high compression oil engine, which, after its recent achievement in ship propulsion, enters at length this field so far closed to its activities, says the Scientific American. It is significant of the high development reached by the oil engine that the first Diesel motor operated locomotive should be, not some modest engine designed to haul a suburban or slow train, but an express locomotive destined for service on the Berlin-Magdeburg trunk line.

The motive part of the locomotive mainly consists of a driving engine direct coupled to the driving axles and an auxiliary engine working quite independently of the driving axles. This has an output about one-fifth to one-fourth that of the main engine, and serves to generate compressed air for operating the main engine in starting, on heavy gradients, &c., with high charges. Moreover, in order to increase temporarily the output of the auxiliary engine there have been inserted between it and the driving engine air tanks from which a certain amount of air can be derived during standstills of the auxiliary motor or even while this is working.

The express train locomotive is 16.6 metres in length between buffers and 95 tons in weight in full working order. The coupled wheels are 1.75 metres in tread circle diameter. The driving energy is transmitted from a loose shaft to the coupled wheels by coupling rods designed in the usual manner. The heads of the rods are fitted with adjustable journal brasses.

The driving engine is a reversible four-cylinder single-acting Sulzer motor, designed on the two cycle principle. The four working cylinders are set by pairs at an angle of 90 degrees to one another, and all of them at 45 degrees to the plane of the track (in V-fashion), and are of 360 millimetres bore and 360 millimetres stroke. Each pair of working cylinders is situated in the same plane and made to act on a common crank pin, the rods being forked so as to insure perfectly symmetrical effects. The two cranks are set at 180 degrees and are designed to run at 300 revolutions a minute at a travelling speed of 100 kilometres an hour. The crank shaft carries in addition to the two working cranks at the outside two pressed-on crank discs with balance masses, transmitting their rotation through coupling rods to the driving axles of the vehicle. By this patented arrangement a perfect balance is insured between the primary forces of the reciprocating masses of the working cylinders and the centrifugal forces of the cranks, coupling rods and masses.

AT THE SIGN OF THE CHIANTI BOTTLE.

"TO your pleasure!"

This toast is drunk every day at the Sign of the Chianti Bottle by the most cosmopolitan society in New York.

By another name is the caravansary known to the dwellers in Mulberry street, to which thoroughfare it contributes stray odors of its delicious cooking.

But although its cognomen is otherwise in commerce, to those who know when the summit of human attainment has been reached in song, in art, in veal with mushrooms and spaghetti with clams, the pleasurably suggestive name the Sign of the Chianti Bottle rings ever in the memory.

Desert the wistaria hung palaces of the tango belt for a brief period at the noon hour and take your way to the Chianti Bottle. Threading narrow streets you come to a modest café, enter a low ceiled room and find yourself facing a long table around which men of all nations are crowded. A toast is being drunk, and these men are on their feet, their right hands clasping their glasses, the index finger extended above the bowl. This is the characteristic sign of the order.

For a moment it looks ominous. The extended finger, the black flashing eyes that take in the intruder with dramatic glance, the mysterious foreign atmosphere of the little place suggest secret gatherings at which momentous purposes may work out their fell intention.

"The Black Hand," the stray visitor who has blundered upon the aggregation whispers to a no less terrified guide.

But it isn't the Black Hand; it is only the white forefinger. It is the daily meeting of the Digitis or Index Finger Society, which has a membership of more than one hundred men, men of all nations, whose callings are as diverse as their native languages, but who come together as brothers at luncheon time in a bond of union wrought by good cooking and good fellowship by which all national barriers are levelled.

Business men, writers, artists, musicians, city officials, journalists are among the members of the club, which, modest organization as it is, has entertained many of the most important foreign visitors to New York.

At the head of the table sits Dr. Joseph Gullino, proprietor of an Italian journal. He is president of the society and no Oriental despot ever exercised a more unquestioned sway over his subjects than that of the president of the Society Digitis over its members.

"The Society Digitis," explains Mr. Maurice Halperson, musical critic of a German paper and old time member of the society, "comes together for just a quarter of an hour daily. This quarter of an hour extends from half-past twelve to two o'clock. There are no taxes; politics, religion and business are barred; it is just for fun. There are three departments of the government, all of which are filled by the president. He asks what we want and then does what he wants. He elected himself and the election was unanimous. He is full of temperament and spirit. We have a constitution, but it has never been written, so that no one but the president knows what it is. He can change the articles whenever he wants to. He is very strict in punishing members who do wrong, but he may inflict article No. 32 as a punishment for crime No. 62, and as no one knows which is which it is very comfortable and nobody cares at all. The usual punishment for everything is making the offender purchase a bottle of wine. For a second offence the sinner must buy a large bottle of wine."

The Digitis Society in Session.

Dr. Gullino is a Piedmontese, but he has the ruddy face and the blond hair and beard of a Teuton, so that he is known to many of his devoted followers as "Frederick Barbarossa." One of the rules which he enforces absolutely at the luncheon meetings of the society is that no member may change his seat at the table without his permission. This makes it impossible for the tabooed subjects to lay their deadening touch upon the gathering insidiously. He also prohibits absolutely the bringing of a paper or magazine to the table.

Woe to the reckless member of the Society Digitis who drinks the first or last drop of wine from his bottle. The first has it a heavy thump upon the board may and the last drop are for the president, in token of his oath of fealty to the president, according to the traditions of the society. Then comes the call of the society, their which are rigidly enforced. The blue eyes [illegible] call it, a deep growing "Barbarossa" will flash in anger, his bellowing sound that sends the [illegible] gavel will fall in fury upon the oval desk or the [illegible] of the table, and them will be sent on its roaring [illegible] among the [illegible], so that each by [illegible] we thought it best to forego human speech altogether for our college yell,' explains a member, 'so we went up to the menagerie and got a cry from the animals that any man can learn, whether his native tongue is Hindustani or Greek."

It is a big drop that must be left in the bottle for the president if his dignity is to be appeased. When suddenly it becomes apparent that a member is contemplating lese-majesté by consuming the last drop he demands and examines the bottle.

On the days when there are initiations of new members Dominico, the servitor of the Chianti Bottle, places the blue banner of the society back of the president's chair. Then every hand is slapped on the bowl and the index finger is raised. That is the salute to the flag. There used to be initiations all the time until the president found that he couldn't sing the society anthem so often, since when the new members are admitted only on Friday. The society anthem begins with the motif of the prologue of "Mefistofele," which is followed by the ensemble of the first act of "Aida." Latin of the sort used by the priests of the first Christian era is the official language of the society. Socially a little of everything is spoken by everybody. The society is a genuine melting pot, for at its board are gathered Italian editors of German newspapers, natives of Switzerland who are married to Irish women and German citizens who were born in Italy and have lived all their lives in the United States.

"I feel perfectly at home here," said Magistrate John J. Freschi, who is one of the society, when he addressed that body recently. "Not long ago I had a case come up before me in which a Japanese sought to have a German restrained from fattening a goose in his back yard in violation of the sanitary code. The Japanese brought an Irish witness to substantiate his contentions, while the German produced a Swiss and a Russian. That is what one has to expect in New York nowadays."

Mr. Alfred Hertz, of the Metropolitan Opera House; Mr. Ottokar Bartik, Mr. Frank Coppicus, Mr. John C. Freund, Mr. Victor Ridder, Mr. Josiah Zuro, Mr. Leo Slezak, Mr. Antonio Zucca, Mr. Giovanni Vicario, Mr. Oscar Fraenkel, Dr. Lobert Bieri, Mr. Mario Caroli, Dr. M del Vecchio, Mr. John Gagliano, Mr. Ernest J. Cuneo, Mr. Adolph Schaffer, per and Professor Anna Domina are some of the men who from time to time gather around the luncheon table with the Society Digitis.

To become a member a man must be above all things companionable, for no member of the society is expected to bring a silent, sour or sad individual to the luncheons, no matter how acceptable the new recruit may otherwise be. Two brothers of the society must vouch for the member and he must, in addition to that [illegible] to the president

Where Tennis Came From.

We must dive far back into the annals of antiquity to find the beginning of this popular game. One of the earliest playthings to be invented by mankind, the ball, was in high favor among the Greeks, and according to Herodotus was invented by the Lydians.

When it first found its way into English speaking countries it is difficult to say, but bishops played with balls as early as 450 A. D.; an old writer of the fourteenth century says of St. Cuthbert that "he plaide atte balle with the children that his fellowes were;" and in the thirteenth century the London schoolboys are depicted as going into the fields and playing at "the celebrated game of ball."

Numerous suggestions have been put forward for the derivation of the word "Tennis." Perhaps the most likely is that it is an anglicised form of "tenes" ("catch it"), a term frequently used by the French in their ancient game of jeu de paume, or palm play.

For tennis as we know it originated on the Continent. In the earliest form of the game, known in medieval England as "Handball," the players simply passed the ball from one to the other by means of the naked hand. In due course gloves were invented by the Italians, and when later cords or tendons were stretched across them the ball was enabled to rebound with much greater force. From these gloves it was an easy step to the racquet, the face of which was at first composed of wood, parchment or loosely stretched gut, and such primitive implements are mentioned by Chaucer in 1390.

Racquets were first strung diagonally, but by 1632 they had attained to some resemblance to their present form. Between handplay and the general use of the racquet there was a transition period when one player used his hands and the other a bat.

The first courts were simplicity itself. At one time the French played jeu de paume with a cork ball across a line marked on the ground. Presently a bank of earth, about two feet in height, was substituted, and this in turn was replaced by a single cord stretched across the centre of a prescribed space. Sometimes a short fringe hung from the cord, and this gradually increased in length until it developed into the modern net.

Uncovered courts were at first the fashion, but so rapidly did the game come to the fore that in order to make the players independent of the humors of the weather cleek roofs were added.

By the end of the sixteenth century there were 1,000 courts in Paris alone. Now there are under a dozen in the whole of France, those in the Tuileries, at Cannes, Deauville and Versailles being the most famous.

Of existing English courts the most ancient is that at Hampton Court, which was built by Henry VIII.

A new two wheeled gasoline engine tractor which may be used to draw almost any cultivating implement on a farm also is equipped to supply power for stationary machinery.

The entire street railway system of a city in Australia was tied up when a pet parrot escaped from its home and dragged its chain across two wires causing a short circuit.

Wishing my Customers one and all, A VERY HAPPY NEW YEAR

A PURE HEART IS A PURE FOUNTAIN

We Are Learning Power of the Will, Says Pastor Russell.

STARTING THE NEW YEAR RIGHT

Pure Thoughts—Two Ways of Fighting Vice, Sin—We Must Copy God's Methods—Impurity is Devouring Our Race—Its Ramifications—In Business, In Society, In Politics, In the Home, Everywhere—The Fight Against Impurity—Its Progress—Its Soldiers—Its Efforts and Results, Present and Future.

[The matter under this heading is supplied by the Pastor Russell Lecture Bureau, who conduct the Brooklyn Tabernacle (unsectarian) Bible Studies, and who have arranged for its insertion.]

New York, Jan. 4. — Pastor Russell, of the City Temple Congregation, took for his text today St. Paul's words: "Whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things." Philippians 4:8. He said:

More and more we are learning the power of the will. "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." The heart represents the real man, whom we are not always able to properly recognize, weigh and value. God looks upon the heart, and each man should carefully scrutinize his own heart—especially all who desire to be pleasing in God's sight. But the Apostle uses the word think as representing another process of the mind, the will. We must do some thinking in order to will properly, wisely. As a man thinketh, he will gradually come to do, because the mind, the thoughts, give us our ideals for the activities of life, just as the architect's drawings give ideals in respect to the construction of a house.

The man who does no thinking has not properly begun to live. The man who thinks upon wrong things, who has set before his mind wrong ideals, is worse off than the man who has no ideals. We must admit the truth of the Apostle's proposition that we should think upon the good, the honorable, the just, the pure, the true, the loving things, if we would have our lives just, loving, true, noble, pure, lovely and lovable.

I have chosen this subject, not because I believe that this congregation is devoid of good ideals, but because we are apt to let slip some of those noble ideals which we set before our minds and which God has set before us through the words of Jesus and the Apostles and others of His servants. We need to set our affections on that which is just, noble, true and good— the Heavenly things of Divine approval; and as they slip away to earthly ideals, we are to set them afresh. The opening of a new year is a time especially favorable for resetting our heart affections upon things that are just, noble, pure, lovely, the time for calling to our aid all the will power and resolutions which we can command. Thus we make character.

Moreover, we are all preaching, by our words in public and in private, and by our actions. Our neighbors and our friends are influenced more by our actions than by our words if the two are in conflict. As God's people we are all to be ministers of the Truth, ambassadors for God, to show forth His praises as we have opportunity. Our ordination, our authorization, is of God through the Holy Spirit.

In November last I received appointment as a delegate to the World's Purity Congress, which met in Minneapolis, November 7th to 12th. Although I hesitated because of pressure upon my time, I was afterward glad of the experiences gained. There I made the acquaintance of some noble men and women who, so far as I could judge, are laying down their lives in debate against sin, impurity, wrong, and to uplift humanity. Nearly all seemed to be having a considerable fight against the powers of darkness in their various fields of activity; and all seemed earnest, zealous, courageous and hopeful. Some labored as followers of Christ; others labored apparently merely from a humanitarian standpoint. But, I reflected, the Lord declared that there are but two masters; so I said to myself, As between God and mammon, these dear people seem to be seeking to serve God and to fight against mammon, against sin, against vice. They are on the Lord's side, whether they realize it or not.

You will be interested respecting the scope of that Congress, and the various fields of activity of the workers. The Congress did not discuss evils merely, but rather the good, and what must be accomplished in order to have the good prevail. I was pleased to notice that even when they discussed the immoral characters whose work they seek to overthrow, there was a proper spirit of moderation and an appreciation of what I have for years been trying to present; namely, that apparently much of the sin and vice in the world results from ignorance and superstition, and should not be accredited wholly to deviltishness of intention. Nevertheless, we must all agree that whatever the inspiring motives, there are people whose vicious conduct can scarcely be characterized as other than wicked, sensual, devilish; and the Apostle Jude is our authority for using these terms.

The welfare of children was carefully discussed. It was demonstrated that in the families of the very poor, ideals of chastity are unknown. These children possess knowledge of sex matters beyond their years; and, mingling with others in the public schools, like an infectious plague they poison the moral atmosphere of the entire school, suggesting immoral practices to those whose parents have sought carefully to maintain their purity.

The parental duty of giving children proper conceptions of the sanctity of their bodies was set forth. The child needs, not large instruction, but simply confidence in the parent, and the information that its body is sacred, pure, holy, and belongs to God, and that whoever violates its sanctity sins against God. This much information should be given to the child before it enters the public school. Indeed, first lessons in vice are sometimes given in the kindergarten, notwithstanding the teacher's watchful eye. The child should have the assurance that the parent will give further instructions later on; and should have such confidence in the parent that it would be content to wait for the further information which every child's mind seeks regarding itself and its origin.

It was pointed out, however, that comparatively few parents know how to broach this subject in a profitable manner. Alas, what have our schools and churches done, or not done, for these fathers and mothers! If they had received useful information helpful to their lives, no doubt church attendance would be much larger than it is to-day. Are we to see young boys start in bad habits that will injure their health and that of their posterity? The answer is, No! Yet great care should be exercised that thorough sex instruction be not given too early, lest the very evil be encouraged which it was sought to guard against.

The age of thirteen to fifteen, according to the child's intelligence, seems to be the critical age when clear knowledge is quite necessary to save the child from the evil which has already overtaken so many. Statistics indicate that boys and girls are especially subject to temptation through ignorance between the years of thirteen and eighteen, when the forces of nature are breaking forth, just as trees bud in springtime. The parent who rules his child with loving intelligence rather than brute force should have the child's confidence at this age. The parents are the God-given instructors and protectors of their families. Nothing can excuse them from this, either church work or slum work, or even Bible study.

It was brought out that five of our great states have already legislated on the subject of the minimum wage for female employes and of the hours during which they may be legally employed. Amongst these the three highest in appreciation seem to be Oregon, Iowa, and Minnesota, with evidences that the laws of the last named state represent the best features of all previous legislation on the subject.

The story of the battle to secure better regulations of rice and better hours and wages for female laborers was told in detail. In various ways the opponents of righteousness sought to circumvent the legislation so imperatively needed by the people whom they represented. And so far as we could learn, female suffrage and the active and intelligent labors of self-sacrificing women have been largely influential in effecting the rectification of the laws. We surely did rejoice in this. If the giving of the franchise to women shall mean better laws, more righteousness and purity in our nation, we surely all would agree that female suffrage could not come too soon.

Our thought therefore has been that in God's order the family is a unit, of which the husband is the head; and that the votes of these heads should properly protect every family interest. There is another side to the question, however, well worthy of consideration; namely, the fact that sin has disordered all the affairs and interests of life. It may be that under the stress of present conditions no wiser thing could be done than to give the ballot to women. The most powerful argument to the contrary is the conduct of some extreme suffragettes who wait neither for God, order and time, nor for the ripening of human thought on the subject, but seem utterly reckless as respects life, property and principles of righteousness.

Perhaps many of us have considered the expression "white slave traffic" a fiction of some over-zealous reformer; but not so. On the very best authority we learn that this immoral traffic has its agents and operatives in all parts of the civilized world. These operators control as a money-making arrangement approximately 68,000 women, reaping from their immoral traffic about $188,000,000 per year. These large profits enable them to exercise great influence at the polls and at the lower courts.

Although not a corporation, they co-operate with each other in all parts of Christendom. They are constantly on the lookout for recruits, as they are continually losing some through death, disease and the ravages of age; for as soon as these white slaves cease to be profitable to their owners they are dropped, and become the lowest of the low. They are generally obedient slaves, faithful to their masters, even to the extent of transfer from one to another. Many of them undoubtedly would die of despair or by suicide, were it not for the hope continually held out by their masters that soon sufficient money will be realized to justify them in settling down in a respectable little business.

The 68,000 regular slaves constitute only about one-half of the immoral women of this land who support themselves solely by immorality.

The great centre of traffic appears to be eastern Germany and Austria. From there white slaves are shipped with considerable regularity in all directions—to South Africa, South America, and latterly to China. Goodly numbers are coming to the United States; but finding it difficult to escape the government inspection, they are mostly brought in by way of Canada. The audacity of these immoral traders is illustrated by the fact that one of their agents recently was found on a committee organized for the destruction of the vice. This man enthusiastically offered $250 for the conviction of white slavers. He was wealthy, had a son at college and a daughter completing her education in Europe.

Recent developments have shown that some high schools are deeply infected with vice, and every young woman, especially if attractive in appearance, is beset with dangerous pitfalls. The ignorance of the innocent respecting these things contributes to the success of the enemy. The unpreparedness of parents to do their duty seems to leave no alternative to the suggestion that sex hygiene must be taught in all grades of the high school and in the upper grades of the grammar school.

One of the most mortifying thoughts in connection with the entire matter is that there are men and women willing to sell themselves to such a vile business—to traffic in the morals of the young. The matter has gone so far that not merely on account of dangers from consumptives, but also from those who have venereal diseases, drinking cups for general use are no longer permitted at public fountains. Indeed, authorities charged with responsibility for such matters are at their wits' end to know how to overtake the spread of venereal diseases and those which outcrop from them to the third and fourth generations.

Surely it is time that white slavery and every form of immoral traffic shall be rooted out. To these calls from the Purity Congress people who love righteousness and hate iniquity and love their fellow men should acquiesce; and many should join the crusaders against vice in its many forms.

I speak to-day from a personal standpoint, and call for a crusade in your own heart, and in your own home, if you are parents. Do not allow false delicacy or the fear of being considered a prude to hinder you from doing your duty—from opposing everything in sympathy with vice. At the Congress it was clearly demonstrated that one of the curious tendencies of our time is what is termed "upcoming."

Every Christian desiring the Lord's approval, and hoping eventually to hear His "Well done," should determine to-day that he will take a more active part in opposing vice, especially within his own home, and particularly in his own mind. God wants resolute Christians—overcomers. Our minds must be loyal to the Lord, to Truth and to Purity, and our bodies must be brought in as close harmony with these renewed minds as possible.

Burdock Blood Bitters.

Mr. A. W. Dryden, Amherst, N.S., writes:—"I am going to tell you what Burdock Blood Bitters has done for us. My son "Vance," when only nine months old, got an abscess on his cheek bone. I took him to a doctor in St. John, N.B., and he lanced it, and told me it would get well in a few days, and wanted me to keep it squeezed out. It did not seem to get any better, so my wife took him back. The Doctor told her to take him home and it would soon get better. It would gather and break, and it went on that way until he was over four years old.

"He lost four pieces of bone out of where it was lanced; and two pieces came from his mouth; he has lost all of his cheek bone, and his eye was drawn down. I took him to doctors in St. John, Moncton, and Amherst, and all wanted me to let him go under an operation. He was so small I told them that if he was going to die he might as well die as he was as to go there and be all cut to pieces, so I declined to have the operation done. I told them I was going to try Burdock Blood Bitters, as I had heard my mother talk so much about it. I got a bottle, and when it was about half gone noticed it was doing good, and before many days the sore stopped running, and healed up, and the abscess has never broken out again. This happened nearly six years ago, so you can see I have great faith in Burdock Blood Bitters, and I can say with all my heart that it is the best blood medicine in the world."

PILES Do not suffer another day from Piles. Dr. Chase's Ointment will relieve you at once and positively cure you. 60c. a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

I am not urging you to give all your time toward moral reforms, nor am intending to do myself. According to our view, there is a still greater work than that of moral reform, good though that work be. The greater work in the one in which you and I are engaged, by the grace of God. We are preaching the Gospel, for the purpose of gathering out the Bride class, in order that the Church being completed, the glorious Millennial Reign of Jesus and His Church may begin. In that glorified spiritual Kingdom of God we see the only hope of effectually, thoroughly, stamping out the social evil and every other evil, born of selfishness and sin, and associated with the present reign of Sin and Death.

We do not believe that present institutions will be able to accomplish the laudable desires for which we praise them. They will, we trust, however, be able to accomplish further good; and we take pleasure in bidding them Godspeed. The speaker would certainly be with them, heart and hand, in the battle against vice and for civic and moral uplift, purity, were it not that we have the still higher commission of finding the members of the Bride class and helping to prepare them for the Kingdom. Thus we are working for the effectual suppression of vice and the establishment of the Reign of Righteousness, even though from outward appearance not all may be able to perceive our relationship toward these noble co-laborers who are seeking their victorious new.

Let us all, dear brethren, put on the whole armor of God, and be first pure, fighting against sin of every kind as we have opportunity, but especially serving the Household of Faith, as directed in the Lord's Word. Let us not give the impression to others that we are careless of their work and of the interests of the present time. Let us have a word of encouragement for them, and a hearty grasp of the hand; and if time permit let us be ready to do them good, in whatever way will not conflict with our higher opportunities of doing good to the Household of Faith. "Let not your good be evil spoken of." Take heed lest through your failure to express sympathy any should mistake you for an opponent of righteousness, truth, purity, loyalty to God and all the interests of His cause, great and small.

Forever.

She treated him as if he had
Been some unworthy thing.
It seemed, indeed, to make her glad
To see him worrying.

She seemed to study how to make
His moments doubly sad.
She seemed to want his heart to break
His sorrow made her glad.

At last, believing her to be
Unworthy and unkind,
He ceased his pleading, sensibly
Declining to be blind.

The moment that he turned away
And seemed to cease to care
She humbly called to him to stay
And wilted in despair.

He tenderly forgave her when
Her tears began to flow,
For so it is with maids and men—
It always will be so.

The Professional Optimist.

Sing hey, the professional optimist,
Who seeks in a casual way
To give all your troubles a genial twist!
His efforts are mostly for pay.
He talks of the weather, which you will admit
Is a topic exceedingly sad,
And he thinks he is making a wonderful hit
When he tells you it isn't so bad.

Sing hey, the professional optimist:
He talks of your worries and ills
As if he were truly a hypocrist
Or a vender of happiness pills.
In private you'll find him in grim distress
Inventing his maniac wiles,
While he rails at the turf and the weary mass
Of the man who must optimize.

The Meaning of a Name

"SALADA"

means everything that is choicest in fine tea. "SALADA" means the world's best tea—"hill-grown Ceylon"—with all the exquisite freshness and flavor retained by the sealed lead package.

BLACK, GREEN or MIXED

STARTLING POLITENESS.

In Sicily a Friendly Salutation May Scare a Stranger.

In Sicily you must not believe everything you think you hear, and above all you must not act rashly upon first impressions. When a Sicilian is feeling well his "Good morning, sir!" sounds like "Spartacus to the gladiators." When any one addresses you as if murder was contemplated, with yourself as the victim, be easy. He is probably expressing a polite wish for a pleasant journey. In "Vistas in Sicily" Mr. Arthur Stanley Riggs gives his own experience of this characteristic Latin fervor and infection:

On our first morning in Taormina a wild looking peasant beauty, bearing upon her shapely head a huge dripping amphora, stopped us with unsmooth gestures and a laugh so childish that it startled us. Jerking her finger at la signora, she poured forth a torrent of impassioned Sicilian dialect that we could not understand, although I suspected she was saying that we were unfit to be in Taormina and had better leave immediately.

Unpleasant thoughts of the Mafiusi, the Black Hand we loosely call them, swept through me. The girl's utterance was so fierce, her expression so menacing, I wondered whether she might not be really an agent of the dreaded band. But before my combined annoyance and alarm led me into difficulties, two Taorminians came up and explained in Italian, "The signorina is afraid your signora will lose her handkerchief. It is falling out of her belt."

I was glad I had not shouted for the police!

When I asked the girl, who could understand Italian perfectly, although she spoke none herself, if I might photograph her, she consented and refused any gratuity. Then she wished us a torrential good day and vanished up the black and smoky stairs of a stone hut on one side of the side streets.

When Hanging Pictures.

An annoyance to all good housekeepers is the line of dirt on the wall that forms at the backs of all pictures at their lower edges and requires frequent dustings to prevent the paper or paint from being permanently marred by an ugly discoloration. To obviate this, take small nails, called brads, that are about the thickness of an ordinary pin and about half an inch long, and drive one in each lower corner of the frame where it touches the wall, leaving out perhaps a quarter of an inch. This will prevent the picture from resting against the wall; no dust can possibly settle there; it permits of a free circulation of air, and the tiny heads of the nails will not mar the most richly-decorated wall.

Reading Between the Lines.

To get the good of the library in the school of life you must bring into it something better than a mere bookish taste. You must bring the power to read between the lines, behind the words, beyond the horizon of the printed page. Philip's question to the chamberlain of Ethiopia was crucial, "Understandeth thou what thou readest?" I want books not to pass the time, but to fill it with beautiful thoughts and images, to enlarge my world, to give me new friends in the spirit, to purify my ideals and make them clear, to show me the local color of unknown regions and the bright stars of universal truth.—Henry van Dyke.

Dew Point of Air.

To determine the air's dew point, Heygendorff, a German meteorologist, fills with water a cup of silver or other good heat conducting metal and introduces sal ammoniac, hyposulphite of soda or other salt that lowers the temperature in dissolving. As the salt is slowly added the mixture is gently stirred with a thermometer bulb. At the instant when the cooling causes a deposit of moisture to begin on the outside of the cup, the indication of the thermometer is taken and gives the desired dew point or temperature at which the moisture present in the air would become complete saturation or 100 per cent. of humidity.

Removal of the Tonsils.

The operation of removal of the tonsils is a much more serious one than it is popularly considered and should certainly not be entered upon lightly, but discreetly, advisedly and soberly. Tonsils should not be removed for trivial symptoms. Tonsilotomy is not justifiable simply because the tonsils protrude in front of the pillars, or because they look ragged or for occasional sore throat, or because they contain plugs, or because the patient is under other for adenoids, or for any remote symptoms not of a serious nature, or to protect the child from indefinite infection, or for an occasional attack of simple acute tonsilitis.

How To Acquire Riches.

In "Maximilian, the Dreamer" is this anecdote: A certain beggar once stopped the emperor on his way and appealed to him for help on the ground that "all men were brothers." Maximilian smiled and gave him a penny, with the remark: "Well, my friend, go and ask all your other brothers for the like sum and you will be richer than your emperor." The emperor himself was ever in debt and had constant recourse to the banker Fugger (with whom he pledged the crown jewels) for loans.

BUTTERMILK FOUNTAIN

Equipped With Agitator for Use When Desirable

A buttermilk fountain that resembles the type of fountains used with bottled spring water has been designed by a Canadian dairyman. The ice chamber is almost exactly the same, having a receptacle in the centre into which the buttermilk flows, when a jar is placed over it, and a space surrounding for ice. The spigot, however, is unusually large, so the flow of the liquid will not be impeded, and so that it may be easily cleaned. The jar containing the buttermilk is of a special type, with an agitating device running through it and operated by a handle at the top. By revolving this agitator a few times, or moving it up and down, the buttermilk will be sufficiently stirred. This same apparatus may also be used for sweet milk or cream, where agitation is desirable.

A Valuable Autograph

Princess Mary, in accordance with a promise made to her by the Duchess of Fife, secured the last maiden signature of Her Royal Highness—excepting the signature in the marriage register. A lady who is a noted autograph hunter offered the Duchess $500 to be paid to any charity Her Royal Highness might name for her last maiden signature.

Suffered Intense Agony With His Back.

Kidneys Were The Cause.

Weak back is caused by weak kidneys, and on the first approach or evidence of kidney trouble Doan's Kidney Pills should be used, and serious trouble avoided.

Doan's Kidney Pills go right to the seat of the trouble, cure the weak aching back, and prevent any further complications arising.

Mr. John Briggs, Whitewood, Sask., writes:—"I am sending you this testimonial out of pure gratitude, as I am not a believer in patent medicines, but I got so run down, that I became quite willing to give anything a trial. I paid a visit to our local druggist, and told him I was suffering intense agony with my back. He told me I had kidney trouble, and handed me a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, saying it was the best thing he could possibly give me. I tried them, and the effect was certainly marvelous. They are worth $10.00 a box of anybody's money, and I would not be without a box by me. I certainly owe my present condition to Doan's Kidney Pills."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

When ordering direct specify "Doan's."

READY FOR WAR

Germany Has a Mass of Hoarded Treasure in Reserve

In the Julius Tower of Spandau, a Prussian fortress eight miles from Berlin, a vast quantity of specie and $20,000,000 in gold are stored and held in reserve, ready for immediate use should Germany go to war.

Needless to say, elaborate precautions are taken to guard this mass of hoarded treasure. The gold coins are stored in chests, piled one upon another, in rooms, to which access only is possible by passing through three doors, each fitted with several locks.

Each of these doors weighs a ton, and is made of steel, with an oak core; whilst each of the keys is held by a different Government official, so that it is impossible for any one of these officials to gain admission to the treasure chambers unaccompanied.

Is the money ever counted? No, never. The task, of course, would be almost impossible; but periodically each chest is weighed—and the correct weight, it may be said, is known to the smallest fraction of an ounce; whilst occasionally the seals are broken, the chests opened, and a careful inspection made by certain high officials, to make sure that the contents have not been tampered with in any way.

SURREY ZOOLOGICAL GARDENS

Zoo of Bygone Days Was Very Popular in London

The old Surrey Zoological Gardens in London, were established in 1831 by a menagerie-keeper named Cross, who conducted the gardens with conspicuous success for many years. A huge conservatory, which contained upwards of 6,000 feet of glass, was one of the features of the gardens, and was at that time the largest building of its kind in England. It was afterwards used to enclose the cages of wild animals, and of one of these, a lion, a fanciful story is told. A small black spaniel was thrown into the cage, but the "king of beasts," instead of eating it, took it under his protection, and when it died was so deeply grieved that he survived the loss only a few days! In the height of their popularity fashion flocked to the Surrey Gardens, and once at least Queen Victoria, with Prince Albert and the late King Edward, then a little boy, visited them. The famous preacher, Charles Haddon Spurgeon, used a hall in the grounds as a chapel for some time. After the death of Cross the place lost favor with the public, and was finally closed about 1875.

Rugby Still Unspoiled

Rugby is a great amateur sport, one of the truly amateur sports in Canada. Professionalism has not invaded the field and there are no immediate prospects. It will, no doubt, be a sorry day for the game when Mr. Money-Bags forms a league and begins to swing the big bundle to lure and entice away the amateurs. The Canadian Rugby Union, which is a strong body controls the situation and so far the game has been managed properly.—Toronto Sunday World.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

They Had A Fire

"That was a terrible fire," said Mrs. Pilker, when she finished reading the newspaper.

"Sure thing," agreed Pilker brightly, as he filled his pipe.

"People can't be too careful," Mrs. Pilker declared, as she tucked the Boston terrier into his blanket by the register. Then she wound the clock. "My, but I'm sleepy," she said next. "I'm so glad w didn't have to go anywhere this evening, and can get a good, long night's rest!"

Pilker had gone comfortably to bed with a light at his elbow and was reading a magazine story, while Mrs. Pilker was brushing her hair 150 strokes. Presently he became aware that the brush was poised motionless in the air and that his wife wore the expression of a detective in the atc of detecting.

"Tom!" she shot at him, quivering ly. "Do — do you smell anything queer?"

"No," declared Pilker, after wriggling his nostrils a second. He went back to his story.

"You must!" Mrs. Pilker insisted, laying down the brush and raising a hand warningly. "It smells like smoke or something burning!"

"Nonsense!" said Pilker. "You're nervous after reading that article! What could—"

His voice trailed o and his face wore a startled expression. He sat up in bed.

"I knew you'd smell smoke!" Mrs. Pilker cried, hysterically struggling into Pilker's dress coat under the impression that it was his bathrobe. "Something's burning."

Pilker arose and put on his bathrobe and his golf shoes with the idea they were his slippers. "It's strange," he said, trying to be calm. "Maybe it's the fireplace in the upstairs sitting room.

Together they investigated the sitting room. The fireplace was black and the chimney odourless.

"I can smell it dreadfully over the register!" Mrs. Pilker announced. "It must be the furnace!"

Shivering because all the upstairs windows were raised, they descended two flights of stairs to the basement. The furnace was behaving as a respectable furnace should, the fire was properly banked, there was no kindling or paper within two rods of it.

"I think it's dreadfully funny!" Mrs. Pilker half wailed. "Something certainly is burning! I can smell it, and then I can't." She sniffed at the air indignantly.

The basement was gloomy and chilly. After a while, with suspicious backward glances at the furnace, they went upstairs. The first floor was dark and undisturbed—yet pervading all was the subtle fragrance of smoldering wood.

"Oh, if my rugs should burn! And how could I get all the silver out without spilling it from a sheet?" cried Mrs. Pilker, wringing her hands. "I wish you'd telephone the fire department, Tom!"

"See here," said Pilker, firmly, at last. "From the odour there ought to be a fire, but there isn't a fire — so come along and go to sleep and forget it."

The lights were put out and tense quiet resigned for 15 minutes. Then Mrs. Pilker suddenly sat up and grabbed her husband. "I do smell smoke!" she insisted, wildly. "And you needn't pretend that you're asleep, because I know you're just as wide awake as I am! Oh, it must be inside the walls! That's why we couldn't find it! And it may smolder for hours and then when we're sound asleep—"

"Just to satisfy you," Pilker said, as he slid out of bed and switched on the light. Then he made a circuit of all the upstairs walls, sniffing and feeling. There was some excitement when Mrs. Pilker shrieked that her hand was burnt as she pressed it against a certain part of the wall. Then they remembered that the furnace chimney ascended at that spot.

"Pshaw!" Pilker said at last, irritably. "There isn't any fire! Now let's go to sleep."

Some ime later he arose with a jerk. "Confound it!" he growled.

"I can sm-mell it, too!" sniffed Mrs. Pilker. "I'm so n-nervous and shaky! Oh, let's get the fire department!"

Again Pilker descended to the basement and again he felt all the walls, on the first floor as well as the second. Mrs. Pilker looked out of the rear windows to see if the neighbouring houses were smoking and out of the front windows to examine the houses across the street. Then they went back to bed and tried to snatch a little sleep. But all the weird noises of the city night startled and jarred them.

Just as Pilker sank into the slumber of exhaustion five minutes before the morning alarm went off he was roused by Mrs. Pilker shaking him violently. he was beaming with pleasure in spite of her weariness.

"I've found the fire!" she cried. "There were a lot of partly burned matches in the dish where you emptied your pipe and a spark must have lit them. They are all charred and burned clear to the ends. It's exactly the same smell!" She thrust the dish under Pilker's nose.

"Thank you so much," said Pilker, as he spurned the dish. "Anyhow, a woman always gets what she goes after."

Disheartening Effect of Piles

It is not only the itching and stinging of piles that is to be dreaded but also the depressing and debilitating effect on the whole system. The victim of pile cannot do efficient work. There is an uneasiness and discomfort by day and at night the distress from the itching prevents sleep and rest, and undermines the general health.

From almost the first application of Dr. Chase's Ointment you get relief from the annoying itching and burning, and gradually the ulcers are healed up and the disease thoroughly cured. Do not make the mistake of discontinuing treatment as soon as relief is obtained. Dr. Chase's Ointment is a proved cure but it depends on you to apply it persistently until a cure is effected.

Even the most severe cases of long standing yield to the soothing, healing influence of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Surgical operations are no longer necessary for, as a matter of fact, Dr. Chase's Ointment has cured cases that were not cured by operations. No sufferer from piles can afford to delay the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Comb Sage Tea In Hair To Darken It

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Keep Her Locks Dark, Glossy, Thick

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening grey, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even colour, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the musky mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the grey hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 5.—One of civilization's martyrs who suffered intense agonies for seven years following 34 years' work among the Indians in the Mackenzie river and Great Slave Lake district, Rev. Father Gascon of the Oblate Fathers died Saturday at the Juniorat.

Born at St. Anne des Plaines, near Montreal, 87 years ago, Father Gascon came west on missionary work when he was forty years of age and went into the Great Slave Lake territory, where he worked among the Indians.

He later went to Edmonton, where he lived for a few years, and twelve years ago, was called to Winnipeg by the archbishop. The dimensions are: length, 1,150 feet; depth, 40 feet, and width, 130 feet. It is understood that a similar drydock is to be built at Halifax.

The Double Work of the Blood

The circulation of the blood is one of the most perfect pieces of mechanism in the universe. Besides carrying nourishment to every part of the body, the blood collects the waste products and passes through the kidneys in order that these poisons may be eliminated.

Hence you see the tremendous importance of keeping the kidneys in healthful working order so that they free the blood of these impurities before they find lodgment in some weak spot and set up serious disease.

Aching back and aching head, troubles with the digestion, deposits in the urine, constipation and biliousness—such are the symptoms which indicate the need of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. The liver is awakened to action, the bowels regulated, and the kidneys made vigorous in their work of purifying the blood.

In the great majority of homes Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are kept at hand for use in just such cases. They save many doctor bills, and by keeping the digestive and excretive systems in health do much to prolong life and bring comfort in old age.

NO TRUTH IN RUMOR.

False Report of Pope's Death Caused Excitement in Rome.

ROME, Jan. 5.—A rumor which spread rapidly throughout the city last night that the Pope was dead, caused intense excitement for a time. The Vatican was overwhelmed with enquiries, but at that very hour the Pope was quietly conversing with Cardinal Basilius Pompili, who had not long before congratulated the pontiff on his vigorous appearance.

The police instituted an enquiry relative to the origin of the rumor and learned that it was the work of a so-called practical joker, who had telephoned to a friend at one of the big hotels that he knew the Pope was dead.

A sergeant of the Swiss Guard, commenting on the incident, thus moralized: "Threatened people live long. Like Pope Leo, the present pontiff will reign a quarter of a century."

STARTING YOUNG.

Burglars, Aged 10, 11 and 12, Caught In Act In Toronto.

TORONTO, Jan. 5.—Aged only 10, 11 and 12 years, three west-end youngsters were arrested Saturday evening by Constable Clarke of No. six division, charged with burglary. They were caught at the residence of Mrs. Ella M. Campbell, at 210 Dovercourt road, where one had entered, another was left to keep watch on the verandah outside, and a third stationed on the sidewalk to give the alarm should a police officer appear.

In spite of their extreme youth, the lads have given the west-end police more trouble during the past year than adult offenders. Earlier the same evening a residence at 252 Dovercourt road is believed by the police to have been entered by the same trio. Not only this, but petty thefts of all kinds, including shop-lifting, in the west end, are thought by the police to be more of the lads' operations.

The action was brought for $50,000 damages because of an article published in Collier's Weekly about five years ago concerning Mr. Conners in connection with the harbor elevator contract in Montreal. The case was to go on trial this morning.

I gave it to him and he took it willingly, as the taste is delicious. In a short time I noticed a great improvement in his appetite. He soon had more colour in his cheeks. He is now well like other children and romps about every afternoon after school. I am so happy with what Vinol did for my little boy, that I want every mother to know about it."—Mrs. C. R. PEARL FISHING.

Western Australia Now the Home of a Profitable Industry.

Pearling is both a great adventure and a great industry; it has its romance and its commercial aspects. The pearl, ornament of Neptune's crown, is the only jewel the kingdom of the seas produces; it is of great price, and there is danger in seeking it. To search for pearls alone would hardly pay under modern conditions. The shell, the mother-of-pearl, is what makes the enterprise one in which capital may fairly safely embark, for only above five per cent. of shells recovered on any pearling ground in the world contain the offspring of the mother, and even then the quantity of marketable pearls is small. If we could afford to ruin a gem to satisfy our curiosity, we should, with the aid of a microscope, find as the nucleus of most pearls the dead body of a small intruding organism that once irritated an oyster, which, to stop that irritation by the foreign body, entombed it alive by depositing layer after layer of pearl substance around it. Instead of the organism, the irritant may have been grit, or weed, or some other foreign substance.

Pearls and pearl-shells are found over vast tracts of tropic seas, and when diving is practicable at greater depths than at present, they will be recovered from wider areas yet. At present the industry is confined to shallow waters near coast lines which offer the right facilities. In western Australia the industry flourishes all up the northwest coast. In the early days of the industry the diving was done by naked aborigines, but to-day diving is a science of complicated mechanism and appliances. The diving dress is used entirely. Pearling is conducted from luggers, vessels of from 10 to 14 tons or more, schooner-rigged. In western Australia, which last year exported pearls and pearl-shell to the value of close on $3,000,000, there are some hundreds of these ships engaged, and the industry, besides supporting a town of 4,000 people, directly employs 2,000 others, mostly colored Asiatics. Each lugger has a crew of from three to five men—Chinese, Malays, Manilamen, Javanese and Japanese. The diver is the most important man in the industry. He is generally a Japanese, for they are the best divers. The only white men actively engaged in the industry are the owners of the luggers, or fleets of them, and the shell openers. The lugger is sailed to the pearling ground, and there she remains from April to November. At daylight the diver goes down in the regulation diving dress, and descends rapidly to the ocean floor. As the current generally runs strongly, he is carried with it, the lugger drifting after him. When, as is frequently the case, the current runs at seven miles an hour, the diver gathers his oysters as he goes and cannot turn back. He grabs the shells and places them in his basket, then signals for it to be hauled up. The greatest enemy of the diver is paralysis, and this, strangely enough, is not caused by sending him into the sea, but in carelessly taking him out of it. In bringing a diver to the surface from any great depth (here it may be stated the general depth is 14 fathoms, and the greatest, 35) as much as half an hour is spent in what is known as "staging" him. He is brought up to a certain depth from the surface and there held, while he fights vigorously with arms and legs to quicken the circulation temporarily, and so to assist in sweeping the excess of nitrogen out of the tissues of the body. This excess of nitrogen, forced into the blood under pressure of air and water, is the cause of diver's paralysis. At various depths before reaching the surface, the good diver—he understands what causes paralysis will "stage" and prepare himself to leave the water. Once on the deck of the lugger, he will rest and recover himself for another descent, and so throughout the day.

Forearmed.

Mr. Cooke was a traveling man and was slightly injured in a railroad accident. One of the officials of the road went to his home to break the news gently to Mrs. Cooke.

"Madam," he began, "be calm! Your husband has met with a slight—that is to say, one of the drive wheels of a passenger locomotive struck him on the cheek, and"—

"Well, sir," interrupted the woman, "you needn't come around here trying to collect any damages of me. You won't get a cent! If your company can't keep its property out of danger it'll have to take the consequences. You should have your engines insured."—Harper's Magazine.

Getting Back.

"Why do you insist on trying to sell me beefsteak and beans and buckwheat cakes?" demanded the barber. "I told you all I wanted was two fried eggs."

"Well, I was in your shop yesterday," retorted the restaurant man. "All I wanted was a shave, but you bulldosed me into a shampoo, a foam fizz and a tonic rub."

Broke It Gently.

A railway man who was instructed to inform a lady that her husband had been killed by a railway accident and was cautioned to break the news gently is credited with writing the following letter:

Dear Madam—I write to say that your husband is unavoidably detained. An undertaker will call on you to-morrow with full particulars.

Abused Woman Gets Much.

OTTAWA, Jan. 3.—A ghastly tale of a husband's ill-treatment of his wife appears in the usually staid columns of this week's Canada Gazette. It is detailed in the form of an order-in-council exempting from the customary homestead duties Mrs. Anna Haven, now Mrs. Orfenaas, a Saskatchewan settler.

Some months ago, Mrs. Orfenaas was deserted by her husband and left penniless with one child. Last winter, with both feet badly frozen, she was admitted to the Moose Jaw hospital, and both limbs were amputated.

Moyer Has Restless Day.

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, passed a restless day yesterday in the hospital where he is recovering from pistol wounds and bruises inflicted on him when he was expelled from Calumet. The date when the injured labor leader will be able to resume activity is uncertain.

Moyer talked during the afternoon with John Mitchell and Clarence Darrow but was unable last night to announce his plans. He said he would endeavor to prepare a statement to-day.

Woman Loops the Loop.

HENDON, Eng., Jan. 3.—Gustave Hamel, for the first time in the history of aviation, yesterday looped the loop in an aeroplane with a woman passenger. The passenger was Miss Mary Trehawke Davies, who had accompanied Hamel on many previous flights, notable among them one from London to Paris. In the Paris flight, Miss Davies gained the distinction of being the first woman to cross the English Channel in a heavier than air machine.

Sentenced for Conspiracy.

NYACK, N. Y., Jan. 3.—Bart Dunn, a Tammany leader; Joseph Fogarty, a former employe of the state department of highways, and the Dunbar Contraction Company, convicted of conspiracy in connection with state road construction in Rockland county, were sentenced yesterday. Dunn got ten months imprisonment and $500 fine; Fogarty ten months without a fine, and the Dunbar Contracting Company $500 fine.

Preparing Themselves.

"Pelton seems to be rather unpopular with his fellow clerks."

"Yes. There's nobody here who likes him."

"What's the trouble?"

"Oh, he always manages to be the first one here in the morning, and he always sticks around and keeps working until they get ready to look the doors at night."

"I see. The rest of you are practicing so you will be able to cordially hate him when he gets to be your boss."

Solicitous.

An old lady unaccustomed to travelling innocently seated herself in a first class carriage, although she only had a third class ticket. The guard, thinking she had made a mistake, popped his head into the carriage and inquired, "Are you first class, ma'am?"

"No, sir, not altogether," she replied, "but much brighter than I was, thank you."—London Scraps.

LOCAL YOUTHS GET TWO YEAR SENTENCE

Max McClellan and Ernest Jamieson Who Plead Guilty on Eight Counts of Theft Go to Control.

SENTENCED TO-DAY

Ernest Jamieson and Max McClellan, the two youthful criminals who confessed to a series of daring robberies, were sentenced to two years less one day in Central Prison, when they came before Magistrate Dumble for sentence this morning. If their behaviour in prison is good they will be released on parole at the end of six months. Thus, provided they desist from crime for the remaining year and a half, their term in prison will only be six months.

Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared for the Crown in the absence of Crown Attorney Wood, and Mr. G. N. Gordon for the defence.

The two young men, in a written confession to the authorities, admitted that they broke into seven different stores of this city, and that they took a train to Hastings one night, and burglarized three stores there.

They were charged:

(1) With entering the store of Mr. J. E. Lillico, and stealing $5 from the till.

(2) With entering the store of Henry Bradshaw, at the corner of Charlotte and Downie streets, and stealing a quantity of meat and other goods.

(3) With entering, a second time, the store of Mr. J. E. Lillico and stealing $5 from the till.

(4) With entering the store of Mr. George Goheen, on Rubidge street, and taking $10 from the till.

(5) With entering the store of John Longo, Charlotte street, and taking $13 from the till.

(6) With entering the jewellery store of Mr. McClelland, in Hastings.

(7) With entering R. C. Braund's store and stealing therefrom $100 worth of jewellery.

(8) With entering the Lambert hardware store in Hastings and stealing a quantity of safety razors.

(9) With entering the store of Mr. R. Routley, Park street, and robbing the till.

(10) With entering Baker Bros'. shoe store in Hastings, and stealing some leather goods.

On the charges of entering Braund's and Routley's stores the two boys (age 18 and 19 years), pleaded guilty and elected to be tried by Magistrate Dumble. On the other eight charges they came before Judge Huycke and pleaded "guilty" to the accusations against them. Both were given two years less one day in Central Prison by Magistrate Dumble this morning, who also pronounced the like sentence for His Honour Judge Huycke, who was called away from the city yesterday.

Local Young Man Pays Fine for Infraction of Liquor Law

In this morning's police court, a young man considerably under 21 years of age, was charged with being drunk in a public place. He pleaded guilty and was fined $2.

William Lavery, another local young man, was charged with supplying him with the liquor, thereby committing an infraction of the Liquor Licenses Law. He admitted his guilt in the matter, and the Magistrate imposed the minimum fine of $10 and costs, amounting in all to $13.75. Lavery was arrested in company with the young men to whom he gave the liquor, by P. C.'s Reid and Hayward.

HIS FORTY SEVENTH TRIP

Mr. Dickson Hall Will Visit the Fashion Marts of the World

Mr. S. Dickson Hall, of Richard Hall & Son Ltd., has taken passage on "The Carmania," sailing from New York on Saturday, January 10th for Europe, in the interests of his Company. Mr. Hall usually only makes one trip to Europe each year, but after having purchased in the fall of 1913 more than on any previous trip, his Company finds that without making a special trip they will be short of goods for the spring of 1914.

This will make Mr. Hall's forty-seventh time across the Atlantic, and will include a trip to Paris and Berlin in search of the Extremely New Styles in Ready-to-wear Garments and Millinery and French Dress Goods Novelties.

That old farmer who once indignantly remarked that the farmers would never countenance the goshdinged automobile, now owns and rides around in one, and all of his boys have them. And they are all working for better roads.

SHOULD GIVE THEIR POLICY

Government Should State Their Permanent Navy Plans During the Next Session of Parliament

KEEP IT OUT OF POLITICS

Special Wire to The Examiner.

TORONTO, Jan. 5.—"I think the Government should outline their permanent policy during the coming session of Parliament," said Mr. G. A. Lash, K.C., D.D., a resident of Toronto practically all his life, a leader of the bar and an outstanding figure in financial circles, in an address on "The navy question," before the members of the Canadian Club at their luncheon to-day. "They should have it discussed in the House and in the press, and country," he added. "They should treat the subject as a national one outside of party politics, and they should be free to consider impartially all suggestions which may be made whether by the Opposition or by their own supporters, having in view only the lasting interests of Canada and the Empire."

FOREST FIRE LOSSES, 1913

Dominion Forestry Branch Reports Remarkably Small Loss

The lowest level of forest fire loss on record in Canada was reached this year on Dominion Forest Reserves in Western Canada. From the first of April to the end of September several of these reserves escaped without a single fire over ten acres in extent, the small fires that did occur being extinguished by the rangers before occasioning any damage to standing timber. On the Rocky Mountains Forest Reserve, which has an area of 13,373,856 acres, the fire-loss amounted to but 1,150 acres of young timber of only potential value and $150 worth of mature timber. The total area burnt over, more than half of which was cut-over or grass land, was but 3,010 acres, representing only 0.02 per cent. of the area of this reserve. On the Dominion Forest reserves in British Columbia, which have a total area of 2,420,480 acres not a single fire succeeded in spreading over a larger area than ten acres, and the only green timber injured by fire was four acres of young lodgepole pine. The records are not yet complete for Saskatchewan and Manitoba, but the available figures compare favourably with the ones cited. The above figures also compare favourably with corresponding ones on the National Forests of the United States, where the area burned in 1913, although the smallest in recent years, was somewhat over 0.03 per cent. of the total reserved area.

In the Fire Districts on Dominion Crown Lands in the west patrolled by Dominion fire rangers the loss occasioned by forest fires last season is also remarkably small, nor is this due wholly to the large amount of rain which fell last summer in the west, for there were also several dry spells when frequent fires occurred, which only the alertness of he fire-rangers prevented from occasioning large losses. In he Coast Fire Ranging District, B.C., which being situated in the Railway Belt is administered by the Dominion Forestry Branch, during June and July and August no less than 110 fires occurred, yet all of these fires were extinguished by the fire-rangers before any standing timber was destroyed.

It is to be feared that when ther e-ports of the Forestry Branch for Ontario are published, there will not be so good a showing. If we judge by press reports the past summer we shall have a record of great loss from fires, in Ontario forests. If the small loss in the west is due, as the bulletin says, to the "alertness of the fire rangers," it is not unfair reasoning to attribute the large forest fires of Ontario to inefficient fire ranging — lack of "alertness of the fire-rangers."

ARC LIGHTS HAVE BEEN REMOVED

And the Responsibility of Lighting the Down-town Section Throughout the Night Devolves Upon the City

WILL SUPPLY LIGHT

Now that the contract existing between the City and the Peterborough Light and Power Company has expired, the Company have removed the arc lights off the streets covered by the City's street lighting system. Thirteen arc lights and two incandescent lights have been removed, leaving the maghetite arc lights in possession of the field. The City's contract with the Company expired at the end of 1913, but the Company voluntarily agreed to continue lighting that portion of the City not covered by the new street lighting system, until such time as the City is in a position to assume the responsibility.

A ReArrangement.

The removal of the arc lights necessitated some arrangement whereby the City would continue to light the areas after the midnight hour. For the past few weeks the City's street lighting system has been extinguished at midnight and the street lighting for the remaining portion of the night carried out by the Peterborough Light and Power Company.

Arrangements have been made to operate the entire magnetite arc lighting system up until the midnight hour, after which one-half of the system will be shut off, leaving only one side of the streets illuminated. This idea originated with Mr. R. T. Jeffray, engineer for the Hydro-Electric Commission, The new street lighting system comprises two circuits and is operated by two transformers or what is technically known as rectifiers. By cutting out one circuit it will be possible to effect any repairs that may be necessary to that particular portion of the system. For one week the east circuit will be cut off, and during the subsequent week the west circuit will be similarly treated.

MISS YATES WILL GIVE AN ADDRESS

At the Peterboro' Poultry Show To-morrow Afternoon and Evening

Miss Yates of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, will address the Peterborough Poultry Show to-morrow afternoon and evening. Miss Yates, it will be remembered, addressed the show last yar and incidentally gave an instructive demonstration on the best methods of preparing poultry for the market.

The show, which opens tomorrow, promises to be the best in the history of the Association. Nearly fifteen hundred entries have been made.

A few of the special prizes are on exhibition to-day in Oak Hall's Clothing Store window. They are worthy of note and should excite keen interest in the competitions for which they have been secured. Everything points to a bigger and better show than ever before and that is saying a good deal, as the reputation of past exhibitions is well known to everyone.

LABOUR MEN WAIT UPON GOVERNMENT

Special Wire to The Examiner.

OTTAWA, Jan. 5.—Many important requests for labour legislation were presented to Premier Borden and his cabinet ministers by a deputation representing the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada to-day. The labour men represented over 85,000 trade unionists in the Dominion of Canada. The deputation was headed by Jas. Walters of Ottawa, President of the Congress. Amongst the measures proposed were amendments to the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act. Amendments to the Immigration Act were proposed to offset the decision of a Nova Scotian judge. Legislation was asked for to make the union label a legalised trade mark to protect the stamp of unions. The whole question of fair wages on government contracts was thoroughly covered. The premier and his ministers discussed the various questions with the labour men.

LOCAL MAN IS WANTED IN BUFFALO

MUST RETURN TO STATES

John Darton, a local man, who is wanted in Buffalo for "jumping" his parole was arrested on George Street last night by Detectives Newhall and Meagher. Darton was convicted in Buffalo in the year 1911, of grand larceny, and sentenced to 5 years imprisonment. He was allowed out on parole, but left New York State before his time of sentence had expired.

A warrant was issued for his arrest, and Chief Thompson received a letter in connection with the matter. The result was Darton's arrest last night.

Darton resided in this City before he went to Buffalo. In cases of this kind the offender usually loses his parole privileges and is "forced" to put in the rest of his term in prison.

Darton will not fight extradition, and will be taken to Buffalo to-morrow.

MAYOR BRADBURN AN ONLOOKER TO-DAY

"This is the time we take it easy" said Mayor Bradburn, whose term is rapidly drawing to a close, this morning. His Worship voted early in North Monaghan, and in the City performing his duties of citizenship. Speaking of the elections he stated that it was becoming more apparent that the candidates for the mayoralty and Water Commission in the next few years would have to be prepared to spend a rather considerable amount of mony to secure election. The City has grown so rapidly and conditions have diverged from the old methods to such an extent that organization is becoming more and more quite a factor in electioneering.

CONDITION OF THE PREMIER VERY SERIOUS

Sir James Whitney May Pass Away Within a Few Hours or He May Live for Years, Says Dr. Pyne

NEEDS LONG REST

Special to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jan. 5. — "Sir James Whitney, Premier of Ontario, may pass away within a few hours, but he may live for years. If he lives nothing but absolute rest will prolong his life."

This was the statement made by Hon. Dr. Payne and his fellow physicians this afternoon from Manhattan Hotel, where the distinguished sufferer is closely guarded from all disturbances from the outside. To your reporter who gained admittance to the Manhattan suite to-day, Dr. Pyne admitted that no one could tell what would happen. This afternoon the patient's heart action was very poor. His extremities have been very cold for days and at times a lack of blood supply has caused delirium. "His mind wandered a little," said Dr. Pyne. "At times he didn't seem to know who we were, then would come a flash of clearness and he would look up in the old way and say in his accustomed voice: 'Ah, you there, Pyne, how are things going.'"

The illness has no affected Sir James' appearance very markedly. His cheeks are paler than usual, but the lines about his mouth are as firm as ever, and in intervals of lucidity his eyes flash with the same old fire. Lady Whitney is here and is constantly in attendance with a nurse.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jan. 5.—There was no change in Sir James Whitney's critical condition at nine o'clock this morning.

NEW YORK CITY, Jan. 5.—(Bulletin, 11.30 a.m.)—Dr. Pyne announces that Sir James' condition is no worse, and he doesn't consider death imminent. There is still hope.

A Case Over Sale Of Horse

Animal Died Three Weeks After Deal Was Made

An interesting case is being heard to-day before Mr. George Sherry, Clerk of the County court in Division Court. Darcy Dunlop claims $80 from J. Cruikshanks in a case in which a sale of a horse is the principal incident. Dunlop sold the horse to the defendant, who gave a note for $80. Three weeks after the sale the horse died and Cruikshanks refused to meet the note when it became due. In his evidence to-day he stated that he refused to pay because the horse was not sound. Dunlop had told him that the steed was an old one.

The case was proceeding when the Examiner went to press.

His Honour Judge Huycke was attending the funeral of his wife's sister in Cobourg, and could not preside to-day.

One He Loved Best.

They had been quarrelling, and although hubby was willing to take all the blame upon himself and smooth matters over peacefully, she was still snappy and indifferent.

"Come over here, Mabel. Aren't you curious to know what is in this package?"

"Oh, not very; I can stand the strain," she said belligerently.

Well, it's something for the one I love best in all the world," he said, coaxingly, trying to win a smile.

"Oh, is that so?" she sniffed. "I suppose, then it's those suspenders you said you needed."

STEAMER GOES DOWN FORTY LIVES LOST

MURDERED AN INFANT

Russian Jewess Killed Neighbor's Child and Then Tried to End Her Own Life With Poison

A TERRIBLE CRIME

Special Wire to The Examiner.

TORONTO, Jan. 5. — One of the strangest and most inexplicable cases of child murder and attempted suicide occurred this morning, when Ruby, the five months old baby of Alex. McFaul in the flat house district was the victim of a brutal, cold blooded murder. The alleged murderess, Minnie Kohnikoff, a Russian Jewess, 33 years of age, is now lying in a dying condition in the General Hospital as a result of swallowing over four ounces of carbolic acid, said to have been administered by her own hand. As Mr. McFaul's nephew was wheeling the carriage up and down, the boy claims that Mrs. Kohnikoff rushed from her room, muttering incoherently, and before he could realise what she intended doing, snatched the baby from the carriage, and with the bottle in her hand, ran to the bathroom, situated between the two families' rooms. The little fellow ran downstairs and called a neighbour, and two of them tried to make the woman inside open the door. She is alleged to have swung the baby high above her head and dashed it with great force on the floor of the bathroom, killing it. Neighbours instantly rushed to the baby, and gathering it up, hurried to their own apartments. In the meantime the Kohnikoff woman had re-entered her own room. The woman was found lying on the floor, her face and mouth badly burned by carbolic acid. The police say she was insane, and others say it was a religious murder.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cookson and Miss Nancy Cookson, with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. D. Cookson, Mr. W. B. Cookson and Mr. J. P. Cookson who have been spending the Yuletide season with their mother at 808 Aylmer Street, returned to their home in Toronto to-day.

BOUND TO BE READY

The family were to leave town on the two o'clock train so the mother said, as she was hurrying along the preparations for departure.

"Now, children, get all ready to go before luncheon. Don't leave a single thing to be done at the very last minute."

The children said that they would not. Luncheon ended they hurried into their wraps and started. In the hall their mother said:

"Edward, you didn't brush your teeth."

"Yes, mother, I did," said Edward.

"But, you didn't have time," she persisted. "Why you just this minute got up from the table."

"I know that," said Edward, "but we were in such a hurry that I brushed 'em before I ate."

STEAMER GOES DOWN FORTY LIVES LOST

Heavy Storm Sweeps Over Atlantic Coast—Millions of Dollars Property Damage Done by Wind and Waves.

LIFE SAVERS DOWN

Special Wire to The Examiner.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jan. 5.—The oil steamer which went down [illegible] miles out of Sandy Hook was the American Line steamer Oklahoma. Forty men were lost with her captain, Guenter, and six men were picked up to-day on life rafts by the American Liner Bavarian. Three lifeboat crews in answer to her signals of distress put out to her assistance and at least one of them was dashed to pieces against the side of the ship and seven lifesavers were lost. Others were trying to make the side of the vessel when they saw her go down suddenly.

Heavy Damage.

SEABRIGHT, Jan. 5.—Damage estimated variously at from one million to two million dollars was caused during the night all along the coast of this fashionable summer resort, many cottages were destroyed, and many others were practically demolished by giant waves. It is feared there has been loss of life among the fishermen and others on the coast. The shores are strewn with wreckage of smacks and steamers. The United States revenue cutters are patrolling the waters to lend aid to the ships wrecked.

Cutter Ashore.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The revenue cutter Androscoggin is ashore off Cole's Point, Chesapeake Bay. The U. S. S. Apache is hurrying to her.

Runaway On The Pavement

Horse Made a Wild Dash on George Street This Morning

A runaway added considerably to the election excitement on George Street, this morning, when a horse attached to a cutter, and driven by Patrick Healey, made a wild and successful bolt for liberty. The startling animal took to the pavement in front of the Red Mill Theatre and for a moment, looked as if it would wind up in a store window. Healey jumped out and tried to check the horse, but was pulled off his feet and dragged some distance, finally being compelled to let go the reins. The horse continued his wild career up the street, swinging the cutter into a delivery sleigh, breaking the harness and leaving the cutter upside down. The steed was captured after a long run.

HIS BUSY DAY.

"You say you called this morning on my husband at his office? He's always so busy. Did you have any trouble in seeing him?"

"Yes, at first. He was sitting behind his desk, and I couldn't see him until he moved his feet."

Barrie's Fur News

Many Peterboro' people are taking advantage of one of the greatest chances for buying Fur Garments ever offered in the City or elsewhere. Regular prices have been so reasonable that buyers are amazed at the ability of the firm to make such concessions.

But Barrie's Limited are exclusive furriers and are doing business on the "from trapper to buyer" principle, which makes a big difference in the buying.

Barrie's Furs have been made up especially for this winter's trade, and the extraordinary price advantages are now within your reach.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unparalleled."

MONDAY, JAN. 5, 1914

A GOOD BEGINNING.

In St. John's last night the preacher prefaced his sermon with an injunction to the people to be prompt in the settlement of their obligatio , at the beginning of the year. Such a reference was not outside the range of pulpit interest, for it has Scriptural warrant; our duty to our neighbour and the spirit of the golden rule both divinely enjoined, involved in promptare mutual settlement of mutual or other indebtedness. The worldly aspect of such a course is of equal force. Nothing will improve business, make business easier, make business more comfortable, make the debtor more comfortable as to conscience, than prompt payment of debts, be they ever so small. Nothing will contribute more largely to a good moral, as well vinely enjoined, are involved in prompt year than a practical recognition of our duty to clear the slate.

WHAT IS THE TAX FOR?

What is the tax on flour imported into Canada for? If it is imposed in the interests of the consumer, it has missed its mark, for the consumer gets no benefit. If it is imposed in the interests of the big and big-dividend-paying, flouring mill monopolies, it has hit the mark. It is an undoubted fact that Canadian flour can be bought in England for from fifty to ninety-two cents a barrel cheaper than it can be bought in the Dominion where the wheat is grown and milled. In face of this fact the Canadian millers are putting up earnest pleas that taking the duty off flour would ruin their industries. The position seems, however, to be that the Canadian consumer must have the cost of his flour enhanced by the protective duty of 60 cents a barrel to keep out American competition in order that the British consumer may be able to get Canadian flour cheaper than the Canadian himself. That may be very nice for the British consumer, but where does the Canadian come in? Such an anomaly caused even so strong a protectionist journal as Sir Mackenzie Bowell's Belleville Intelligencer to remark that "There is a nigger in the woodpile somewhere." Possibly if this duty were taken off the nigger would vacate the woodpile and Canadians would get their flour at a cheaper rate. The Canadian milling concerns at their annual meeting during the last few months all reported the greatest prosperity since the record breaking season of 1908-9. It might not be out of the way for them to share some of this prosperity with the flour consuming Canadians, who are not doing so well just now. What is the tax for?

WHO IS TO BLAME?

The new year is a time for looking backward. When we look back some sixteen years we remember the prophesy of the venerabl Sir Charles Tupper, who forecast the ruin of Canadian manufacturing industries. He heard the "sorrowful wail" of manufacturers who feared they were to be ruined and put out of business by the Fielding tariff. No doubt both meant what they said and felt, and both were disappointed. Instead of wailing there was rejoicing; for the manufacturing industries of Canada never flourished as they did under the Laurier government; so that we have good Conservative journals rejoicing over the progress and prosperity of Canadian manufacturing industry This rejoicing may be a little forced at the present time, for just now the manufacturing industry is not as brisk as we could wish—there is too much reduction of operations, rather too many names droped from the pay rolls of industrial establishments. This, however, may not be a bad time to remember that the progress made in manufacturing industries was made under the Laurier government, which the pessimists declared was to bring them ruin. One proof of this is the fact that the Conservative government has not seen fit to change the tariff under which the progress we all rejoice in was achieved. And it is not without warrant that attention is called to the fact that the progress and prosperity that attended he manufacturing industry under the Laurier government, shows their first falling off under the Conservative government of Mr. Borden. If there is anything wrong now with industrial conditions, the blame cannot be placed upon the Laurier government. Who, if anybody, is to blame?

SIR JAMES WHITNEY'S ILLNESS.

The latest intelligence indicates that Sir James Whitney is seriously ill at the Manhattan Hotel, New York. The reports show that his condition has taken a very serious turn for the worse, so much so indeed, that a rumour of his death gained wide circulation. Dr. Pyne, his attending physician sent this despatch to Hon. J. J. Fry, acting premier:

'Sir James is seriously ill with a disease of the heart and the public ought to know it."

Subsequent messages were to the effect that the condition of the Premier was precarious. Universal sympathy will go out to Sir James and his family, and this will come from all the people of the province irrespective of political affiliation. When death threatens the citadel of life we forget the politician and think only of the man. And especially will public sympathy go out to himself and his family and friends when the distinguished patient lies at death's door far away from home, in a foreign land. His physicians cling to the hope that his illness may be overcome, a hope in which we all join with the prayer that it may be within the will of Providence to spare to a continuance of active life a distinguished son of Ontario, who has devoted twenty-five of the three score and ten years of his life, of which the premiership covers nine years, to diligent public service.

ABOLISH FOOD TAXES.

Some time gao there was a shortage of cement in Canada. It was not actually a famine, but the scarcity was sufficient to restrict building operations. Therefore a demand was made upon the Government that the duties on cement be reduced. The interests engaged in the manufacture of the article made vociferous objections; but the cement duties were reduced. This was done without consulting Parliament. Now there is a dearth of food in the country. This is a matter that affects a much larger proportion of the people than the scarcity of cement. It affects everybody. It affects all but those whom Providence has placed in affluent circumstances—we shall lay the responsibility upo Providence for the sake of convenience, though there may be two minds about it. In fact, there is the nearest approach to a famine this ordinarily opulent continent has ever known. There is a practically unanimous demand from the class of people who are not in easy worldly circumstances for the abolition of the eaxes upon food But the Government says this cannot be done — and the Government's organs echo the cry that it cannot be done.—Victoria (B.C.) Times.

THE COMING SESSION OF PARLIAMENT

The Dominion Parliament will assemble a few days hence for the despatch of business, and as the session will be a more than usually interesting one it is not too soon to call attention to some of the many matters that must come up for legislative treatment. All of these are not equally inevitable as subjects of discussion, but there are at least three that are almost certain to be dealt with the high cost of living as affected by taxes on food, the "emergency" naval bill, and the redistribution of the membership of the House of Commons under the census of 1911.

The Borden Government has appointed a Commission to inquire into the high cost of living, and there is no reason to object to this procedure. Its members may be able to throw useful and helpful light on what is admittedly a very difficult question, and such light will be welcome whatever its sources. But it would be too much to expect Liberals in Parliament to await the Commission's report, which may be delayed indefinitely, and may be worth very little when it is published. They will be expected to act on their own initiative, and move at once for the removal of all import duties on food products of every sort. Whatever other remedies may be tried with more or less success, there can be no doubt that so material a lessening of the cost of food could not fail to afford immediate relief under stress of competition.

Since the naval aid bill was before Parliament last session nothing has happened in any part of the world that requires Liberals to change their attitude toward it. On the contrary, Germany is feeling with increasing force the burden of military and naval expansion, and there are indications that any diminution of expenditure on the British navy during the coming year would be followed very soon by a like reduction of expenditure on the navy of Germany. There is therefore less ground than there was last session on which to base an emergency plea, even if a money grant to pay for unmanned Dreadnoughts were not for other reasons insuperably objectionable to Canadians. The naval bill of last session or any similar measure, if reintroduced, will certainly be thoroughly discussed in the House of Commons, and will probably be again hung up in the Senate to await the judgment of the Canadian people.

To defer the enactment of the redistribution law beyond the present session would lead to practical difficulties so grave that it is reasoanble to expect such a measure to be passed during the coming session. The changes to be made are quite extensive, and some of them cannot be carried through without serious disputes among the supporters of the Government. The members of the Opposition may be trusted to see that proposals ipvolving unjust treatment of Liberals will be thoroughly exposed before being embodied in a statute, and therefore much time may be spent in discussion of the redistribution details. Ror this reason the bill should be introduced very early in the session.—Toronto Globe.

AMERICAN ORGAN PRAISES THE CANADIAN MILITIA

Likes the Diversfied Uniforms--The 57th Peterborough Rangers a Typical Red Coat Regiment, and Other Organizations With Equally Striking Garb--Commends Spirit and Equipment of Men.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—An interesting article having to do with the personnel of the Canadian militia appeared in a recent issue of Arms and the Man, the organ of the National Rifle Association of the United States. Last summer there were eleven encampments in the Dominion, the camps extending from Kentville in Nova Scotia to Calgary in the Province of Alberta. Of these camps and the Canadian troops who populate them, "Arms and the Man" has many pleasant observations to make.

"On the morning that camp opens" "Arms and the Man" says, "the usual course is for each company to assemble at a rendezvous chosen in town, often in the open air. It proceeds to camp, probably joining the Regiment on the way. The deadly and uninteresting uniformity of all uniforms south of the border is not seen in the land of the Maple Leaf. The diversified dress uniforms, I believe, aid esprit.

Calls it Pretty Sight.

"It was a pretty sight to see regiment after regiment detrain, each in its own garb. Th mounted troopers, for instance, wore smart black caps, black jackets with red piping on the shoulders, gray riding breeches and black puttee leggings. Perhaps the next to detrain would be the Glengarry Highlanders, each man with his little Scotch cap, from which ribbons floated gaily a plaid Eton jacket; kilties of a different plaid, but equally striking; a huge horsehair plume hanging down in front from the belt; bare knees, and snow-white gaiters and shoes. Perhaps the third organization is the 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers, a typical red-coat regiment, and the fourth a hardy-looking set in bottle-green coat and trousers and short, black leather leggings.

"In camp the field uniform is issued. It consists of a wide-brimmed, coarse straw hat; an olive-drab cotton shirt, and long trousers, the olive tint very pronounced. Curiously enough, while nearly all organizations require leggings as part of their dress uniforms—and there are all shades and styles of leggings—none is worn with the field uniform.

"Many of the officers and non-commissioned officers of the permanent force are 'Imperial Army' graduates. They have followed the colours in Egypt, in India, in South Africa. They are well-qualified fighting men in every sense of the word. They are courteous and obliging, much of the English reserve having given way before the rush and hustle of the New World.

"The non-commissioned officer is a more important factor in the Canadian militia than on this side. The duties which he performs are regarded here, in many instances, as an officer's responsibilities. The relative rank is lance-corporal, corporal, sergeant, colour-sergeant (our first sergeant), and sergeantmajor. The latter and the non-com. performs many of the duties of a regimental adjutant.

Last Without Swagger Stick.

"The Canadian officer and non-com.—in some localities the private soldier as well—is lost without his swagger-stick or cane. Officers drill their companies with sword belted at sides, cane in hand. I saw a sergeant major form a regiment, and later, mount guard as well, without drawing his sword. He pointed and directed with his cane.

"The men carry the swaggers when off duty and they add much to their trim and soldierly appearance. A swagger gives a man's hands employment, and keeps them out of his pockets. They are the instinctive enemies of slouchiness and I believe that the swagger is an innovation which would prove of value over here.

Military courtesy, outside the permanent force, is generally disregarded. This is, in part, because of the fact that there is no time to teach the men everything in a few days. The discipline is remarkably good. Liquor is strictly forbidden, by order of the Minister of Militia, in all camps, and the order seems to be generally obeyed. There is little drunkenness, and very little skylarking and noise after 'Last Post,' which is the British vernacular for 'Taps'.

Amusements are Better.

"The department of militia and defence works with the Young Men's Christian Association in providing entertainment and amusement for the men in camp. In this feature they have a long lead on most states. Progressive track events, baseball games, football games, and other sports are carried out each afternoon according to schedule, which is announced in advance. The finals are rewarded by suitable trophies, and a lot of interest is stirred up. The men this year were kept in camp at nights by a series of moving picture entertainments which were given in the open air. They took place each evening but Sunday, beginning at 8.45 and lasting about an hour.

"There are eleven camps from Kentville, Nova Scotia, to Calgary, and on contract with the government I put on the picture shows in ten of the training camps. These ten camps started the first of June in some localities, and as late as the 23rd in others. All were over by July 4. The average tour of duty was ten days or two weeks, but the mounted service camp was doing business for five weeks. The Kentville camp was held in September."

"NOBBY TREAD" TIRE WINNERS

St. Valentine's Day the Lucky Birthday

"Is St. Valentine in league with the Stork?" is a question that a great many folks are asking themselves nowadays, as it has been discovered that February 14th, St. Valentine's Day, is the most popular birthday anniversary of the year. More human being are born on that day than on any other, if statistics gathered by the Dominion "NOBBY TREAD" tire people are any criterion.

We are told that in the Spring (say in April and May), "a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love"—so it is not surprising that February is a busy month for the birth registrar.

Each of the February 14th brigade of grown-up babies who now own motor-cars in Canada, is blessing his or her parents for their foresight and thoughtfulness in having made St. Valentine their patron saint, as all who have acknowledged their allegiance to him are to be presented by the Dominion Tire Company, of Berlin, Ont., with a DOMINION tire, Plain or Nobby tread, complete with inner tube, for their automobile.

"WE WON'T TALK ABOUT IT"

By RUTH CAMERON

In a certain household which I know, the head of the house has a way of settling all discussions in which his wife takes a view different from his own by saying calmly, "We won't talk about it."

"We won't talk about it,—we won't compare our views, we won't try to understand each other's ideas; we won't try to compromise our diverse desires; my will must be law and you can't even try to make me understand how you feel,"—that, in effect, is what he is saying.

In another household the man takes a superficially different but essentially similar tact. He meets all his wife's attempts to make him see her point of view in the following manner: His wife asks him to go out with her one evening a week; she tells him she thinks it is good for both of them to mix with people at least that much. "Very well," he says, "I'll come home and get into my dress suit every night and trail around with you until midnight, but don't expect me to get ahead at the office when that's the kind of preparation I have for my day's work."

I can't think of any type of man I should be less willing to marry than the one these two represent. Of all the qualities which are needed to make married life happy, it seems to me the quality which these men lack stands near the head of the list, and that quality is reasonableness.

Reasonableness is not a showy quality; it does not look particularly well in print; it does not seem like a quality the Prince Charming would need to have. But, believe me, you who wait for the Prince, no prince would long be charming without it,—at least not after you were married to him.

The happiest couple, if they be people of any individuality at all, must find many subjects on which they have diverse view points. They have been brought up under different conditions, they have a different heritage, and it stands to reason that they will not think alike on every point.

Now, this unavoidable difference may bring unhappiness or it may not. That depends largely on whether the two parties are equipped with the quality of reasonableness. Is each one ready to lay prejudice aside, put himself in the other's place and try to get his viewpoint? If either or both of them are incapable of doing this, or unwilling to do it, the marriage is a risky business. The bond itself may endure, but the love probably will not. Love can live with selfishness, jealousy, quick temper, in short with almost any quality, better than with unreasonableness.

A sense of humour and a sense of reason and justice are not at all romantic qualities, but they make a mighty good basis for a happy marriage.

ALL ALONG BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.— Too many New York lawyers—especially of the cheap, engine-turned breed certificated by the thousand lately— like to bulldose and browbeat witnesses. Too many New York judges fatly gratify them in this liking. It never seems to occur to the man on the bench that the man in the witness chair is entitled to protection.

"The other day," said Tommy Kennedy, "a man of high professional standing was being blustered at by a lard-faced lawyer. This witness appealed to the court for protection, and was refused. At the noon recess the witness used a telephone to some downtown friends, and when the lawyer left his office to go to court a tall, well-dressed, violent man stepped on his feet.

"'Yuh're gettin' gay wit' a frena mine, see,' said the tall person. 'You open your yip at that guy in the witness chair again, and I'll take an' lay your head open so's the bones will fall out.'"

Mr. Kennedy does not approve of employing gunmen for protection against lawyers. He remarks, however, that extra legal methods sometimes give complete satisfaction.

Jimmy Kelly fell out with Jack Sirocco in New York the other night over the privilege of furnishing gunmen and sandits to guard the patrons of the six-day bicycle merry-go-round. These individuals respectively head two of the most murderous predatory gun-toting bands of cadets and stick-up men in Town. They fought out their affair, twenty men to the side, about the Madison Square Garden. This is within a block of Broadway, six blocks from the Waldorf, a block from Dr. Parkhurst's Church, three blocks from the Colony—the finest Club for Women in the world—and fifteen minutes' walk from Broadway and Forty-second street, the most densely populated over-fed, and be-diamoned amusement centre on earth. About seventy shots were fired. Passengers in a street car thoughtfully laid down on the floor, because one gang used the car as a shield. The police merrily and explosively joined in.

No harm was done. Not even an innocent bystander was hurt. So why should New York worry?

One of the most widely known aviators in the country stood in front of the Postoffice recently, and looked across Broadway toward the Woolworth building.

"This," said he, "is a mighty instructive opportunity to study air currents from a safe place on the ground."

Once the Flatiron corner at Twenty-third street and Broadway was New York's windiest corner. Then the Hudson Terminal building on Dey street became the city's meeting place for the four winds and all the little breezes. Then the enormous Woolworth tower made all other blowy places seem like the interior of a bedroom closet in a deserted house.

"Watch this woman's hat," said the aviator.

She teetered on her high heels, apparently unconscious that danger lurked ahead. Half way across Park place a whirlwind caught her hat, with its cute little furred ears on either side, and wrenched it from her head. An ascending vortex took it straight into the air, to the height of the eighth storey. Then it was dropped almost at her feet.

"As the ground air encounters obstacles," elucidated the aviator, "it flows up or around them. The sort of thing you see here is going on continually, in a greater or lesser degree, in the upper air. I believe this Woolworth corner would repay careful scientific study by aviators."

A policeman thrust him in the ribs.

"Now that you know they're all silk," said he, "you beat it or I'll run you in."

Remember what a pow-wow was raised a few years ago when W. H. Taft, then president, declared that every man should take a month's vacation each year? People acted as though Mr. Taft was trying to yank a pillar or two from beneath the temple of industry. Old gentlemen who hadn't done a tap of honest work since the well-known Hector was a pup pulled a lip and said that no one talked that way when they were boys.

It appears now, on pretty fair and pretty widespread authority, that Mr. Taft was right about it. He may have been indiscreet in plunging a truth on the public that way—but he was right, just the same. The Association of Life Insurance Presidents met in New York lately, and it appeared from the discussions that they were practically unanimous in believing that life insurance would be a much more profitable business if policy holders would take a bit more rest and recreation.

"I'm inclined to think," said William T. White, the Canadian Minister of Finance, "that the government would do better to substitute golf links than railroads."

It was also agreed that as a people Americans eat too much and drink too much and sleep too little, and are foolishly addicted to nerves and temper, all of which habits are particularly good for the casket and floral trade. It was also suggested that if Mother had the intelligence of a grieved hen she would not permit Father to borrow on his insurance policy. Not one such loan in ten—by the books—is ever repaid. But especial emphasis was placed on the need of play.

A Babylonian tablet, just unearthed, contains laws that existed 2,300 years B. C. One refers to bankruptcy, but none of them say anything about riding wheels on the sidewalks.

A Scene From "A Christmas Carol" at the Grand Opera House To-night

3,000,000 MILES NEARER THE SUN

To-day Than We Will Be on the 1st of July—Stars for the Week

On Sunday we attained our nearest approach to the sun during the year. On the 1st of July we are at our farthest from the sun. The variation of distance during this time is about 1-30th of the "mean" distance. So that we are now about 3,000,000 miles nearer to the sun than we will be on the 1st of July and travelling proportionally faster in our orbit at this time of the year. In the northern hemisphere it is now winter time, but in the southern hemisphere it is now summertime, and because of the earth's nearness to the sun at this point in her orbit, the summer is always warmer south of the equator than north of it. That is for like latitudes, south of the equator, the summers are warmer and the winters are colder than they are north of the equator.

To-day the planet Mars will be in "opposition" to the sun, that is, it will be in that part of the sky directly opposite to the sun. Mars and Saturn may be seen shining brightly overhead at nine o'clock at night, Mars being of a reddish hue, whilst Saturn is a pale yellow. Mars passed his nearest to us on New Year's Day and will now begin to slowly recede from us and grow fainter for some time to come.

On Thursday the planet Mercury will be at its nearest approach to the sun.

On Friday the moon and Saturn will be within about 6 degrees of each other, Saturn being to the south.

Sunday the earth crossed the path of a swiftly moving swarm of meteors through which we pass every year at this time. Generally a brilliant idsplay is somewhere seen, if not here, from some other part of the earth's surface. These meteors appear in the region of the sky due north on the horizon and about 20 degrees west of the last star in the handle of "The Dipper."

A Critique.

A gentleman of antiquarian tendencies who loved the drama of another day and another school was lured to New York and inveigled into a theatre where a much discussed play dealing with life in the underworld was being performed. He stuck it out to the end and when asked to give his opinion of the work, he said: "I think that over the door of the theatre there might well be hung one of the old English inn signs, 'Entertainment for man and beast.'"

PRODUCTION OF EGGS IN WINDOW

Subject of Address at Opening of Poultry Show in the Market Hall Tuesday Afternoon

1500 BIRDS COMING

The Peterborough Poultry Show will open on Tuesday afternoon, and it is expected that fifteen hundred birds will be exhibited when the judges begin their duties. This morning Mr. Geo. Paxman superintended the work of preparing for the show. The hall was bare when he arrived, but it was not long before the cages began to take form, and this afternoon everything was practically completed.

A large number of the exhibits are expected to-night, and in the morning, and on Tuesday afternoon the big show will be opened with an address by Miss Yates on "Winter Egg Production." This subject should not only attract the farmers near the city, but also all the citizens who have a backyard flock of hens. It makes but little difference whether you have a half dozen or dozens in your flock, the officers of the Poultry Association affirm that this subject will be capably handled and should draw a large attendance. The judging will be commenced to-morrow afternoon. All the exhibits or the big majority of them will be opened and it is hoped that a big crowd will be present.

The afternoon address will be given at 3 o'clock. In the evening Miss Yates will give a demonstration of killing, plucking and shaping poultry for market purposes. This will begin at 7:30 o'clock. On Wednesday afternoon there will be a demonstration of boning a bird, and in the evening Miss Yates will exemplify the most approved methods of carving a fowl.

These demonstrations should be a feature of the show. They have been secured as an educative idea for the citizens at large.

The members of the Association state that the annual show brings them no personal returns. They have built up the exhibition to its present state, and each year meet their expenses. This year they have increased their prize list, the exhibitors are more numerous than ever, and it only remains for the citizens to support the show to make it a success. The question of civic pride enters into the matter, for as the show grows it redounds upon Peterborough earning a better reputation among the poultry fanciers of the country. A nominal charge of fifteen cents is the admission fee.

REALISTIC SCENES DEPICTING AN HISTORIC STRUGGLE

Battle of Quebec in Motion Pictures in Which Caughnawagas, Indians and Peterborough Canoes Are Introduced

Kalem has just completed a five-reel production which in all probability, is the most important historical picture ever made. Based upon that terrific struggle between France and England for the possession of Canada, this feature is so authentic as to merit a place in governmental archives.

From an educational point of view, this feature is of tremendous value since it visualizes the incidents taught to the children in our schools, without losing any of the accuracy of the text books. As a photoplay, the action it contains, and the story woven about the principals, is calculated to enthrall those patrons of the motion picture theatre fortunate enough to see it.

The departure of Wolfe from England; the stratagem by which the French pilots are lured aboard his vessel in the St. Lawrence; the terrific bombardment of Quebec by the entire English fleet; the attack of the English at Montmorenci Falls, and their utter rout by the French; the enmity which existed between Vaudreuil, the governor of Quebec, and Montcalm, that gallant French soldier; the midnight climb up the narrow mountain path by the British which brought them to the Plains of Abraham; the surprise of the French commander and the mighty struggle between the contending forces; the ebb and flow of the tide of battle which ends when victory perches upon the banners of the English; all these events are shown with a realism never before equalled in motion pictures.

This feature is no ordinary motion picture. The outlay required to make it posible well-night staggers the imagination. Seventy thousand dollars were spent between the time the production was planned and the last scene photographed. An army of more than six hundred men was used to lend realism to the various battles.

A fleet of twelve ships was required to make a proper show of strength in photographing the arrival of the English vessels. While the majority of these were hired, several of them were purchased outright because later events necessitated their destruction.

To what length the producers were determined to go in an effort to secure authenticity can be seen from the fact that an entire tribe of the Caughnawagas, also a few Peterborough canoes, were employed for the occasion. These Indians are the direct descendants of th redskins who were of such assistance to the French.

With the exception of the battle on the Plains of Abraham, all the scenes were taken on the original locations. Because of the modern structures which now stand on the Plains of Abraham, it was found impossible to stage that struggle upon the scene of the original.

A location almost identical with the latter was found on the Island of Orleans, just a few miles away. The charges and hand to hand conflicts which were held here give a vivid picture of war with its attendant incidents.

Through a fortunate stroke of circumstances, permission was secured to use the walls of the old Citadel — the first time this has ever been granted. It is here that the French are seen responding to the cannonading of the British fleet.

A RECORD VOTE IS EXPECTED

Balloting Began Early This Morning and Increased as the Day Progressed—Result Toss Up

MONAGHAN ACTIVE

With a touch of spring in the air this morning, the voting machinery of the candidates for the various civic positions was set in motion, with every prospect of a big vote being polled. Scrutineers were at their posts waiting for the first electors, and from appearances at least, several of the candidates for the chief positions had a working arrangement that looked perfect.

Numerous automobiles flitted about the City, breaking the speed limits so frequently that the traffic by-law is surely in shreds after to-day's operations. Cutters and busses plugged away, ostensibly engaged in conveying voters to the polling booths.

Speculation was rife, and "How goes the battle," was the password among every little knot of gossipers. "It looks like Buller, but keep your eye on Hartley"; "Gillespie will take it with a small majority," "Hartley will head the polls." These were the expressions you hard, but most of the citizens qualified their opinions with an alternative. And this same inability to pick winners extended down the entire list of candidates. In almost every case it was a toss up, although for Water Commissioner there were a few long shot bets of ten to one, indicating a defined leaning. On the whole, however, the wise ones were in the minority. It has been many moons since the interest in civic elections mounted to the peak reached to-day, and the consensus of opinion anticipates narorw margins for the mayoralty, and in most of the other contests.

The weather has been ideal for getting out voters, and previous figures should be surpassed by this evening's totals.

The North Monaghan elections were responsible for the presence of many farmers' vehicles in the City, and the increased number of property holders in the township should swell the vote for councillors.

SUGGESTIONS FOR GARDENERS

Peterborough, Jan. 5, 1914.

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Would you kindly allow me a little space in your valuable paper to give to the public some points that is necessary in growing young nursery stock.

Now, possibly, there is no point between Collingwood and Peterborough where fruit-growing is in such a dilapidated state, and no point with such favourable advantages. For Peterborough has one of the best produce markets in the province where the producer can realize the last cent in his product, so far as I can learn. There is merely nothing grown in small fruits compared with the demand. Nearly everything being shipped in and some one else realizing the profits that could be realized by the producers around Peterborough.

There are ridges and slopes all around Peterborough that are valuable for fruit growing, that would clear up from $400 to $500 profit per acre in systematical fruit-growing in a very short time, after stocking that are now nearly useless.

Now, every day people are saying that they cannot successfully start young nursery stock. Now this is often for lack of knowledge. Too much stock is being sold by inexperienced salesmen or men that don't care as long as they get the order and coming from jobbing concerns. Now in putting out young stock the first thing to be considered is the order going direct to a good reliable grower (a Canadian grower preferred). Then varieties adapted for the climate should be selected. Nothing but the hardiest for Peterborough section. I have found where the Bartlett pear, the Baldwin, King and Ontario apple has been sold, these varieties are too tender for this climate, consequently they are a loss, and people become discouraged.

After obtaining the stock in the spring, completely bury it in pure moist soil, for soy, 48 hours, and that will vitalize it from the point of the top to the tip of the root. Transplant very firm, just as firm as you can with the full weight of the planter or pounder for the purpose. Looseness in planting has been the cause of much loss in nursery stock. Never use manure in contact with the roots, as when the manure rots it will leave the soil porous and full of cells for dry air, which will cause the tree to die as soon as the planting is done. Mulch heavily with coarse manure to hold the moisture, keeping the manure from the stock of the tree. Then in the fall spread the manure from the root of the trees, allowing the frost to get well in, and then in midwinter mulch again to retain the frost around the roots in the spring, which will prevent an early growth, which followed by a hard frost causes sun scald that causes much loss to fruit-growing. At some other time I will take some varieties of the different fruits that are well adapted for Peterborough district. Thanking you for the space, I remain, Yours, etc.,

W. H. Merrill.

CANADA HAS WEATHERED STORM WELL

Examiner Special:

LONDON, Jan. 5.— Speaking at the Wolfe birthday dinner, Alfred Smithers, chairman of the Grand Trunk, remarked that there are some people in this country to-day who in a somewhat parrot fashion, take up the cry that Canada is going too fast. "I do not think they realize that Canada has been going through the most difficult time for the last eighteen months. The crisis they talk of is to a great extent past. Canada was caught like a ship carrying full sail in a storm of scarce and dear money. I say unhesitatingly that she stood the strain magnificently."

A HARD PART TO PLAY.

"You don't seem to be as fond of Charley Watkins as you used to be?"

No, I admit that I don't care for him at all any more. Sometimes it seems as if I just couldn't wait until after Christmas to tell him so."

Music & Drama

"THE INNER SHRINE."

Channing Pollock's new play, the "Inner Shrine," was visualised before a large audience at the Grand on Saturday evening. The play, which is the work of one of America's most successful dramatists, is founded on the great novel of Basil King. The story is one of unusual strength and teaches a severe moral lesson to the type of man who bandies about a woman's name. It is the story of an all-conquering love born of tragedy and great sorrow. Above all there is an undefinable censorship which keeps it clean and wholesome.

The play, which is a four-act production, is supported by a strong cast of characters, among whom might be mentioned Justina Wayne as "Diane Eveleth," Albert Andruss as "Derek Pruyn," William S. Phillips as the "Marquis de Bienville," and Zola Telmsant as "Marion Grimson". Other members of this distinguished company of stars are equally as good in their respective parts. The play, on the whole, is well balanced and exceptionally well staged. Scenically it is massive and lavishly beautiful.

An important meeting of St. Peter's Court, No. 225, Catholic Order of Foresters will be held on Tuesday Evening January 6th. All members are requested to be present.

THIS IS A TYPICAL CLEARANCE SALE of all broken or odd lines and is the method whereby we keep our stocks in the clean, up-to-date condition that has long been the pride of our Men's Wear Section.

Therefore in faultless styles, and in perfect condition, we place before you an array of Men's Winter Wear, which the Lonely Sale offers, at a saving of about fifty per cent.

Sale Prices on Fall Suits

While most men are averse to the term of bargain hunting, yet there are instances, as in the case of these suits, when a man is confronted with a direct opportunity of saving money, by purchasing now.

Nor do we need to remind the reader, that these suits are all mostly Semi-Ready tailored, with the original price label in the inside pocket.

Every suit is correct in cut, while the cloths, in both Tweeds and Worsted finishes, show the colours and patterns that are considered very good taste.

And in the selection will be found a few suits of blue serge suits, which like the others are all at Lonely Sale prices.

Sizes range from 35 to 46, and we would remind the prudent man, that the first few days of the sale are the best days upon which to make selection.

Here are the prices :—

$25 and $22.50 Suits.....$17.85
$20 Suits.....$14.90
$18 Suits.....$12.85
$15 Suits.....$10.95

The sizes are 32, 34 and 36, in this brand, that is recognized as one of the best on the market to-day, being usually sold for $3 a garment.

In Night Shirts There is also a Big Saving at 79c

Besides the securing of a dollar shirt for this price, there is this added advantage:—We consider this shirt to be more generously cut, and ahead in quality, of any other gown at the same figure.

It is made of heavy English Flannelette in good patterns, and procurable in sizes 14 to 18. The Sale Price is..79c

50c Fancy Cashmere Sox are 29c during the Sale

Odd Trousers Are a Snap at These Figures

There are about 20 pairs of these trousers, mostly one pair of a kind, in all sizes between 31 and 44 inches.

The patterns are those neat stripes upon a grey ground which most men prefer, a pair of trousers such as these serving well as a means to gain much service from the suit that still has a good coat and vest.

Moreover you will hardly buy them as cheap as they are at this sale.

$6 Trousers .. $4.45
$5 Trousers .. $3.85
$4 Trousers....$3.15

Every coat in the stock is of high order, is tailor made, and finished with the best of trimmings and linings.

And though sizes and materials offer a wide choice at present, we would point out the fact that the variety materially dwindles before many days have elapsed.

RAILWAYS ARE LEGALLY BOUND TO DELIVER

Customs Have Now Arranged to Pay Cost of Delivery—Board of Trade Traffic Department Advises to Pay Charge

UNDER PROTEST

With the renewal of the cartage service by the railways, effective January 1, 1914, a change has been made by the cartage companies in respect to the delivery of examination packages called for by the Customs Department to the examining warehouse for appraisal.

Another Change.

By Order-in-Council the railways are required to deliver such packages to the examining warehouse, and, prior to January 1st, they were brought from the railway freight sheds to the examining warehouse at the published cartage rate, the Customs Department paying the cost of delivery from the examining warehouse to the importer's warehouse.

The traffic department of the Board of Trade is advised that the Customs have now arranged to pay the cost of delivery from the freight sheds to their warehouse, and the cartage companies will make a charge, in the case of so-called "split" consignments, i.e., part direct to consignee and balance to examining warehouse, of ten cents per package for delivery from the examining warehouse to the consignee in addition to the regular cartage toll; no further charge to be made for "complete" consignments taken to examining warehouse, and thence to consignee's warehouse.

Pay Under Protest.

Members of the Board of Trade are advised to pay this extra charge "under protest," as the matter is being taken up with the Board of Railway commissioners, the traffic department holding that the railways are legally bound to deliver the freight to the consignee's warehouse for the charge as set forth in the cartage tariff. The railways, or their agents, the cartage companies, are being paid by the Government for the extra service of delivering the examination packages for appraisal. The question of this cartage is held to be one as between the carriers and the Customs Department, for which thee consignee is in no way responsible. The service of the carriers under the cartage tariff is not accomplished until the complete consignment is delivered to the consignee's warehouse, and there is no tariff on file with the Railway Commission legalizing any further charge for delivery of examination packages as asked for by the cartage companies.

Presentation To Mrs. Thompson

Mrs. Thompson, who has removed to Toronto, was presented with a cameo brooch, with setting of pearls, from St. Andrew's Ladies' Aid Society, accompanied by the following address:

Dear Mrs. Thompson,—We, the members of the Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Church, desire to express to you in some measure our love for you and appreciation of your unfailing interest in the welfare of our society and the strength and energy you so ungrudgingly gave for many years in promoting the work we endeavoured to perform. Both as secretary and treasurer, as well as in the general offices to which you were appointed, you discharged your duties with enthusiasm and kindness to all associated with you. We feel that we as individuals, as well as a society, have sustained a real loss in the removal of you and your family to Toronto, and we sincerely hope that be new relationships you form here may greatly enrich and gladden your life.

Will you accept this little gift as a slight token of our sincere regard.

Signed on behalf of the society.
M. Laing, Secretary.
M. Henry, President.

Mrs. Thompson replied in a few words, thanking the ladies for the beautiful gift and also for the kind and loving words expressed, wishing all, individually and as a society, bright and prosperous New Year.

MR. JAS. GIRVEN'S HAND IS NEARLY HEALED

Mr. Jas. Girven, street car conductor, was out again this morning after an incapacitation extending over the past three weeks. He suffered a fracture of a small bone in his left hand while driving old "17" when it was on the upper end of the Jackson Park run while the Park Street bridge was under construction. The brake was pulled up tight and as he released it the handle slipped in his hand, swinging round with great force and striking him on the hand. Mr. Girven was unable to resume his duties this morning, but hopes to be back to his car in a short time.

An adjustable attachment for a baby's chair to hold a nursing bottle has been invented.

Won Several Specials.

In this class Mr. Head won first cock, first and fourth hen, first and second pullet, third cockerel; also three out of the four of the Barred Rock specials, donated by the Canadian Barred Rock Club. He also captured the W. H. Bennet shield ($5), for the best collection of barred rocks, and a $2.50 gold piece for the best display of barred rocks, winnce. Mr. Head states that the management of the Orillia Show was all that could be desired; also the work of Mr. L. G. Jarvis, of Grimsby, who acted in the capacity of judge.

Visits Home After Many Years

Mr. Wm. Glover of Steeton, Ont., is in this City for a few days, having been called home owing to the serious illness of his father, who has shown some improvement the last two days, and his recovery is now looked for. This is Mr. Glover's first visit to this City in 39 years and its appearance at the present time is entirely new to him. Very few of the old land marks are noticeable to him, and very few of the faces known to him when he left are recognizable. He will be in the City for a few days.

HARD TO DECIDE.

Smithers—I am going to have my picture taken. A good deal depends upon the pose, don't you know. Now, what kind of a position do you think would be best for me? Brownrig—Well, I don't know. I was going to say with your back to the camera, but then your hair is rather [illegible] behind.—Boston Transcript.

Mrs. Helen Davies-Sherry, Formerly of Peterboro,' Is President of Women's Music Club

The following from the Manitoba Free Press refers to a former resident of Peterborough, Mrs. Helen Davies Sherry:

The interest in music that pervades the Canadian West has manifested itself in Neepawa, in the form of a Woman's Music Club, numbering eighty members. The president is Mrs. Helen Davies Sherry, a prominent Canadian singer, who was recently heard in Winnipeg. Meetings are held monthly, and the programme for the December meeting is an indication of the quality of the music performed. There are vocal selections from "The Messiah" and Mendelssohn's "St. Paul" and "Elijah"; a ladies' chorus, "Solveig's Cradle Song," by Grieg; a trio, "La Serenata," by Braga, for violin, flute and piano; and piano compositions by Rubenstein, Moszkowski, Englemann, and MacDowell. The caption of the November programme was "French Songs and Old Dances"; for January it will be "Schumann, Schubert and Franz," and for the following month "Humoresques and Song Cycles" [illegible] Music".

C. P. R. Has Carried Out Vast Extensions During Past Year

NEW BRANCH LINES

Despite the stringency of the money market during the past twelve months in Canada, the C.P.R. has continued to carry out vast extensions throughout the whole of its system, from the Pacific to the Atlantic. The carrying out of this work has entailed an enormous expenditure—an expenditure which runs into many millions of dollars — and which it would be impossible to enumerate owing to the space which is at our disposal, but to give a slight idea of the construction which the greatest railway corporation in the world has carried out during the past year, this work includes the construction of many branch lines in the west, opening up great wheat growing areas, extensions to the hotel system, construction of bridges, the building and extension of new terminals — all of which play a most important part in the growth of Canada.

In order to carry out this work the C.P.R. at the commencement of the year raised $100,000,000 by the issue of new stock, and only recently again thought fit to make preparation for the vast appropriations of next year to further extend the great work in the Canadian West which the company has already begun.

As for the construction work carried out during the past year along the eastern lines it has included the completion of the great bridge across the St. Lawrence River, connecting Highlands with Adirondack Junction—a work which occupied fully three years to complete. This in itself cost not far short of $3,000,000. The bridge was transposed from a single track to a double one, and really now constitutes two separate single track bridges, which considerably facilitates the freight and passenger traffic between the Montreal terminals and the Maritime Provinces and American points.

Another important work is the extension of the Montreal terminals, the great yards at Sortin are in course of construction, while millions of dollars have been and are being expended in the completion of the Windsor Street Station. This comprises an entirely new train shed spread over a very wide area, and extending from Osborne Street to Mountain Street. It is expected in the future to carry this extension as far as Aqueduct. At the present moment many alterations are in progress in connection with the interior of the Windsor Street Station, particularly at the Osborne Street end, and when completed it will constitute the finest and largest terminal in Canada. One of the important exterior features will be the placing of a huge clock on Osborne Street with a dial nine feet in diameter.

The Angus shops have also undergone many changes during the past year, additional buildings have been erected, and fully seven thousand men are employed at these great car shops, where a train a day is the output.

During the year the C.P.R. has taken over the well known and popular Dominion Atlantic Railway through Nova Scotia, and a considerable amount of money is being expended in bringing this line up to date. Another line which has greatly added to the facilities of transportation is the acquisition of the Kingston and Pembroke Railway, which is now being operated by the C.P.R. The double tracking (which plays a very important part in railway transportation, not only in the east but more particularly in the west) has been completed between Montreal and Farnham, with the exception of the completion of the double track bridge over the canal and river between St. John and Iberville. This, however, it is expected, will be completed early in the spring.

Another very important work which the C.P.R. has carried out and completed this year is the construction of the line which is known as the Lake Shore line between Agincourt and Glen-Tay. Before the construction of this line was commenced, about two years ago, the C.P.R. was only double track between Montreal and Glen Tay, and the building of this new stretch, which for some distance runs along Lake Ontario, has now given the company a complete double track between Montreal and Toronto. Freight traffic will be run over this new line this year, and it is expected that the passenger service will be commenced early in the spring.

The C.P.R. has also made many important extensions to its hotels, and one which is closest to easterners is the work which is practically completed in connection with the Place Viger Hotel at Montreal. New dining rooms, reception rooms, grill rooms, sun parlours, bedrooms, smoking rooms and a new rotunda have been here constructed—the whole of the interior of the hotel has been practically arranged at a cost of about a million dollars.

In connection with terminal alterations the C.P.R. has had under consideration and plans are practically completed for a new station at Quebec, while the Toronto depot, which is union in character, will also be greatly transformed within the next few years, as the arrangements with the Grand Trunk and the C.N.R. have been amicably settled, and the work will start in the very near future.

St. John, N.B., has also come in for a share of C.P.R. activities during the past year, and recently the company completed a million-bushel elevator, and has provided the necessary cartage connections for the same.

The past year was one of the best years the Canadian Pacific Railway Company has ever had in building and improving the system. A total of 532 miles of new lines in the west were included in the appropriations and 900 miles of double track. This was scheduled to be carried out in the Canadian West, and most of it is already in operation. In addition to the extension of the tracks several millions of dollars have been expended in the building of new hotels and the complete rearrangement of the Vancouver Hotel, which work is at the present time in progress. The terminal at Vancouver is also under construction, and when completed will be the finest terminal on the Pacific coast. Many huge bridges have been rebuilt, amongst which are the Outlook bridge at Saskatoon and the High Level at Edmonton.

One of the most important works which the C.P.R. brought to a conclusion during the past twelve months was the opening of the new shops at Ogden, in the vicinity of Calgary, where there are now nearly 5,000 employees. The work in the west included many new engine houses and installation of block signals, extensions to freight buildings, and at Ft. William an increased storage capacity to Elevator D of four million bushels, making this elevator the largest of its kind in the world, with a capacity of seven and a half million bushels.

It is interesting to know that of the single lines under construction are the Boissevain-Lauder, which is 97 miles in length, and has been opened to traffic; the Estevan North-Western branch from Estevan to Neptune, a distance of 55 miles, has also been opened up. The stretch on the Virden is also nearing completion, while the Swift Current North-Western line, another important link of the grain productive area of Western Canada, is being pushed with all possible speed, and of the eighty miles under contract over seventy have been laid with steel. This section, when finished, will link Cabri with Empress, which recently became famous owing to the decision of the C.P.R. to make it a divisional point. On Weyburne West, between Assiniboia and Mile 317, is a stretch of 205 miles, which is under construction, but there is little likelihood of this being finished this year, as only forty miles have been completed. This is the longest length which is under construction in the west at the moment. The Kootenay Central between Fort Steel and Golden, a distance of 143 miles—great progress has been made, steel having been laid along 69 miles of the road. The Kootenay Central will open up one of the prettiest valleys of the Dominion. This is known as the British Columbia Valley, and it is in this district that the great motor road is being built by the C.P.R. and the British Columbia Government, forming a highway which will connect British Columbia with the Province of Alberta. The cost of the building of this road is $150,000, of which the C.P.R. is pledged to pay half. In a very short time it will be possible to motor in a complete circle through the Canadian Rockies, passing twice, once to the north and once to the south, through the famous range of mountains.

While the company has been delayed to some extent with the work in the west by unfavourable weather, and, in addition to this, there has been a considerable shortage of labour during the harvest time, it is expected that all the grading will be completed by the end of the year with the exception of possibly one hundred miles. The amount of steel laid shows a falling off on account of the difficulty experienced in securing deliveries as fast as wanted.

The Kettle Valley Railroad is pushing construction on the line which will provide an outlet from the Okanagan district of British Columbia direct to the Pacific Coast. The entire system is to be in operation by 1915. Beginning at Midway, the present western terminus of the Crow's Nest line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, 85 miles of steel are being laid to the westward this winter. Steel will be laid about 15 miles east of Penticton, toward Midway, during December and January, leaving a gap of less than 35 miles between these two points. Steel is now laid 40 miles west of Penticton, to Osprey Lake. Between Osprey Lake and Otter Summit, 105 miles west of Penticton, the location had not been exactly determined on December 1, but the contract is to be let at an early date and the work completed by the fall of 1914.

From Otter Summit to Merrit, a distance of 30 miles, the road is finished and in operation. From Coldwater Junction, a point about 25 miles south of Merrit, the Coquehalla section is being built. More than 13 miles of this are already graded and 11 miles of steel are laid approaching the Coquehalla Summit, 39 miles westerly to the junction with the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Hope, have more than 1,000 men working on the line, and promise to have this section finished by November 1, 1914. The substructure of the long bridge over the Fraser River at Hope is under way, and should be completed before the high water of 1914.

One of the greatest and most interesting works which the C.P.R. commenced during the past year was the "Pioneer" bore in connection with the five-mile tunnel which is to be driven through Rogers Pass at the summit of the Selkirk Mountains. This work, it is estimated, will run into over $6,000,000, and it is well advanced from the eastern portal according to the latest reports from Vancouver. Nearly 600 feet of the parallel tunnel has been excavated and the present rate of progress is about five feet per day. The double track tunnel, which will form a great cut through the mountain range, and save a detour of many miles around the winding pass from the present loop will be 22 by 20 feet. In order to facilitate the driving of the huge bore, the contractors are adopting a new method, which is being eagerly watched by the engineering world. They are running a small preliminary tunnel, from which cross-cuts will be made at short intervals as to enable the workers to attack the larger bore simultaneously at scores of points. The "Pioneer" passage will also solve the question of ventilation and provide for a considerable time an exit for removing the excavation material. It is expected to take about two years to complete the work.

The C.P.R., during the past year, has paid particular attention to the introduction of the best of settlers into wheat-growing areas and has done everything possible to induce mixed farming. In this connection the C.P.R. has completed one of its greatest undertakings in the irrigation belt at Bascano, which is the huge dam across the Bow River. Very recently, Mr. J. S. Dennis, assistant to the president and head of the Department of Natural Resources, opened the huge flood gates and allowed the water from the great Bow River to flow through the main channel and thence into the ditches and canals constructed for the purpose of irrigating a million acres of land.

In connection with additions to terminals, the C.P.R., has in course of construction at North Transcona, six miles east of Winnipeg, what will be probably one of the largest and most complete clearing yards on the Continent, having an ultimate capacity when developed of over 12,000 cars. The yards are divided into two grand divisions—the major and minor yards. The former, consisting of the east bound receiving yards, the west bound classification and departure yards, and the west-bound receiving yard, are each large yards symmetrically arranged about a central line through the summit of the humps, facilitating access to all parts of the grounds.

In relation to the construction of the line west of Weyburn by the C.P.R. steel has been laid to Shaunavon, which has now a population of five hundred, all class of business being represented, including dining rooms, hotels, moving pictures and automobile livery. Along the whole railway, as far as Shaunavon, substantial towns are growing up better than usual on such a line, considering they only started last fall. It is expected that there will be more local traffic off this line than any other branch built in the west. Amongst the settlers many are French, but mostly Americans. At Lake of the Rivers and Willow Bunch Lake about 25 miles east of Assiniboia, and on the Whitemud River at east end, 253 miles west of Weyburne, there is clay suitable for pottery, tile and sewer pipe equal, if not superior, to that in the Medicine Hat district. There has also been discovered a seam of coal ten miles south west of Shaunavon, which will supply the farmers of the district.

The work on the Alberta Central is progressing favourably, and steel has been laid from Red River to Sylvan Lake, a distance of 18 miles, and grading has been completed practically to Rocky Mountain House.

In Winnipeg the Royal Alexander Hotel extensions which are being carried on by the C.P.R. comprises practically the only principal building work now in progress in Winnipeg, and the steel construction is now 98 per cent. complete, while the exterior is progressing favourably, with fully 90 per cent. finished.

Trade Affected By Mild Days

Furriers Say Business Profits Were Less This Season—Grocers and Butchers Divided in Opinion

The local Christmas and New Year's trade was, on the whole, not as good as last year, with two exceptions, and these exceptions were the sporting goods and grocery stores.

The weather was declared the cause of most of the falling off, although many of the tradesmen seem to forget the fact that we are living in a tight money period, though when reminded of that, they declare that that condition has not affected them very much. In sporting goods, the trade was better than last year, and if the weather had been cold and seasonable the business would have been twice what it was.

In the fur stores the business was not quite as good as last year, although the turnover was about the same. The unseasonable and mild weather had a bad effect on the fur trade. December and January are the best months in the fur trade year.

In groceries the trade was very good, and an improvement on last year of about 20 per cent. The weather does not affect them in the same degree as others, but it does indirectly as people who do not spend their money on furs, etc., have more money to spend on groceries.

Butchers Complain.

Butchers are the loudest complainers over this season's business and say that trade has not been as good this year as last, owing especially to the new tariff which has raised the prices of Canadian meats. There has been a heavy trek of Canadian cattle to the other side of the line. This does not benefit th Canadian meat market.

Men's Furnishings.

Business in the men's furnishing stores while fairly satisfactory, was not as good as last year and again the weather man is credited with bad trade conditions.

Warm underwear and heavy goods were not bought extensively.

TO PREVENT ANCHOR ICE

Steam Pipes Replaced in the Fore-bay

The water-wheels of the E. B. Eddy Company at Hull are practically the only ones at the Chaudiere that are not shut down or hampered with anchor ice.

Mr. Millen of the Eddy Company has at last solved the problem of anchor ice, and found the way to prevent anchor ice from forming on the racks of the company's intake, so that the Eddy water-wheels are not likely to be again disturbed or shut down by fraize.

When the Eddy Company decided to more than double their old water powers by putting in new wheels and new systems, Mr. Millen thought of a plan to get rid of the anchor ice difficulty. He had the entire fore-bay covered with a concrete platform—put two fans under this platform, and one fan inside (near the clear storey roof) of the No. 1 paper mill—these fans exhaust all the steam and hot air from the paper mill, expel it into the vacant space over the water and under the flooring of the fore-bay. This keeps the temperature at the racks just sufficiently warm to prevent the "fraize" forming on the racks.

Adopted in Peterborough.

The scheme was adopted in Peterborough some years ago by the local power companies. Steam pipes were placed so that when the steam was turned on, the water at the racks was sufficiently warm to prevent the "fraize" from forming on the racks. The result was very satisfactory.

NEW CONVENIENT TRAIN TO WINNIPEG. CANADIAN PACIFIC

The popularity of Canadian Pacific service, and the excellence of that road's equipment, has ben so greatly appreciated by the travelling public that it has been found necessary to put into service an entirely new Through Standard Express Train between Toronto and Winnipeg.

Commencing Sunday, October 26th, the "Gate City Express" will leave Toronto at 2.30 p.m., and will run daily thereafter, arirving Winnipeg at 8.35 a.m. second morning. The train will consist of the highest-class modern equipment; Observation Compartment Car, Standard Sleeping Cars, Tourist Sleeping Car, Dining Car, First-class Coach and Colonist Car. This will be found the most convenient and best train between Toronto and Winnipeg on account of the daylight departure from Toronto at an hour when the Union Station is not badly congested, and also on account of the early hour of arrival at Winnipeg.

The present "Vancouver Express" will continue to leave Toronto at 10.20 p.m. daily and will consist of the same equipment as the "Gate City Express." This train is the best to take for points west of Winnipeg, but for Winnipeg and east the "Gate City Express" is the right train to travel by.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

To-morrow Night's Big Junior Game Should Be A Hummer All The Way

A good sheet of ice should be available for to-morrow night's game at Brock St. Rink between the Kingston Frontenacs and the Peterborough Juniors. The game promises to be one of the most interesting sessions of the season and should attract a big crowd of fans. Both teams will be in good shape and, like all junior aggregations will fight until they drop to win. The Frontenacs may be counted upon to turn out with a snappy aggregation. The local juniors have been performing well in practice and are determined to give the visitors a battle that they will remember. The game will be called at 8:30 o'clock sharp.

Intermediates At Bowmanville

Local Team Playing in the Lakeshore Town To-night

The Peterborough Intermediates journey to Bowmanville to-night to play the second game in this district. It was not known definitely until this morning whether or not there would be ice available for the game, but at 8 o'clock this morning Secretary Bond received word to come along. The result was that a team had to be gathered together at short notice. The squad left on the 11:40 train in charge of President Picard and Trainer Ed. Dillon. Two of the juniors will figure on the line-up, which will be about as follows for to-night:

Goal—Dwyer.
Right defence—Long.
Left defence—Phelan.
Rover—Kelly.
Centre—Giroux.
Right wing—Kenneally.
Left wing—Lansfield.

Park was unable to get off, and Bond so badly used up after Monday night's game that he could not play.

Trial Work-out For The Juniors

Line-up Will Be Selected After To-night's Practice

The line-up for to-morrow night's big Junior game between the Kingston Frontenacs and Peterborough will not be definitely known until after to-night's workout. It was the intention to select the local team after Saturday's workout, but the squad all performed so well that it has been decided to look them over once again. There is keen competition with two or three players so evenly matched that there is little to choose between them. The team will be picked from the following eight men, who are asked to be at the rink to-night, ready to go on the ice at 7 o'clock for a twenty-minute workout: Darling, Long, Richardson, Phelan, Halpin, Rose, Barrie, and Knapman.

Curling Season Opens In Lindsay

"Hoot, mon, but the ice was fine."

The 1914 curling season opened in Lindsay last week, when four sheets of ice at the Peel Street Rink were in fine condition and a quartette of close games enjoyed. It is expected that ice No. 1 and 6 will be in shape by to-night, and if the cold weather continues the season can be said to be under way. Great enthusiasm was displayed Friday night when Skip Tilly trotted out his heavy weights, who nipped the first game in the bud, defeating Skip Beesor in an exciting game. Skip Flavelle is on hand once again, and started off the season with a win, nosing out ahead of Skip McFadden in a close game. The Home Bank manager, Peter Kennedy, finished four up over Skip Beall, while Skip Little won a neat game from Skip Higinbotham—Warder.

MERCANTILE HOCKEY LEAGUE.

A meeting of this league is called for 8 o'clock on Wednesday evening next at the offices of the "Review." The schedule as drawn up will be submitted and the amended constitution will be brought forward for approval. Several important matters of business are on the agenda.

Each team affiliated with this league is requested to send one representative.

STOP THE SLAUGHTER

To the Editor, The Examiner:

Those who are familiar with the habits of bird life and have with constant vigil followed the many courses of the peculiar movements becoming to their several species are in a manner alarmed at the situation as it is to-day. The forests, the fields, the up land and coverts, the beauties of the painted woodlands and marshes adds the thrill of joy to the lovers of outdoor life. Who could love the forests and even all nature without the birds and wild life in its many forms. Probably you have witnessed and experienced this and those who have given this less attention do not realize the absence of nature's tonic. Is it fate or the source of destiny, or the wanton destruction of man that may eventually atone for the past and present waste of nature's life and luxury—the savory results of the chase and recreation in days afield with rod and gun.

The barren woodlands and deserted coverts and vacant marshes are left as monuments marking the ruins of once natural resources.

The present stock of bird life is away below the minimum—this is inclusive of the songsters and our great game birds of the province.

The time to temporize and feel timid over the game (principally the ducks) situation has gone by. The situation is desperate and nothing but strong and vigourous measures will avail anything worth while. The sale of ducks and all wild game should be stopped everywhere, and at all seasons of the year.

When Ontario has cleaned house in this matter—like eighteen of the States—the balance will soon follow.

About twenty-one years ago Ontario prohibited spring shooting — a godsend to assist and foster propagation. All laws that permit the killing of wild ducks and other feathered game for the market and the sale of it afterwards are class legislation of the worst sort. It permits man to selfishly slaughter for their own pockets the game that rightfully belongs to the three million people of the Province of Ontario, including the legitimate sportsmen who shoot for recreation alone. The day of the hungry Indian-fighting pioneer has gone by, and there is an abundance of food everywhere.

All our feathered game is rapidly slipping away from us. Are we going to save anything from the wreck? Will we so weakly manage the game situation that later on there will be no legitimate wild fowl shooting for those that follow after us?

Sportsmen from all over the province are aroused and are in strong sympathy and support of the abolition of the marketing of feathered game.

If this popular movement meets the favour of the Fish and Game Commission, then the wholep roblem of conserving and increasing the game of the province will be solved.

This movement strikes at the very heart of the trouble, and if it becomes a law will do more to accomplish the ends we have in view than all other forms of protective legislation put together.

Here are several reasons for the passing of a "Non-Sale" Ontario game bill:

1. Because from 50 per cent. to 80 per cent. of our duck and geese have already been destroyed.
2. Because unless some such law is passed ten years will practically see the extermination of that fragment that now exists.
3. Because it is a fixed principle that every wild species of mammal, bird or reptile that is pursued for money making purposes eventually is wiped out of existence, even the whales of the sea are no exception.
4. Because probably 50 per cent. of the decrease in our feathered game (principally the ducks), is due to the market hunting and sale of game.
5. Because it is asserted that 75 per cent. of wild ducks marketed and bartered in Ontario are rounded up in high-class hotels and city cafes, averaging from $1.50 to $2.00 apiece for Mallards and Canvass Backs.
6. Because the people who eat wild game as a rule do not know what hunger is. The poor man may be content at the meat vendor's counter with steak at less than half the cost.
7. Because the value of game as a food item is infinitesimal compared with the benefits of outdoor life stimulated by its presence.
8. Because experience has proved that the limit law on ducks cannot be enforced either in respect to the market hunter, the commission merchant or restaurants and hotels so long as the sale of ducks is permitted.

The great mass of the people are undoubtedly in favour of the Non-Sale Movement. If the facts of the situation as it is can be placed before even one-tenth of the people, they will be aroused to action in the influencing of the legislature.

The rational conserving sportsmen and sympathizers with wild life have learned much in experience about protecting game, but little about producing it. The latter problem is a slow one to solve. Meantime our first duty is to preserve the game. Experience, however, has shown that there are more lazy men with money than diligent men with guns. If the wild game has to compete with commercialized pot-hunting the game will succumb. There will be comparatively none left. Until we can put the resources of commercial organization into producing game we must keep commercial organization out of the industry of destroying game.

The wild game left to its own resources can compete for a limited season with the individual hunter dependent on his own resources. For the preservation of the species of game birds no other method is now available, and besides just for the benefit of our species is it not well to have some of the good things of life which are not for sale for money and can be obtained only by personal effort—but into which any man may go freely by the labour of his legs and arms. Is it not policy to have some luxuries which no man is rich enough to buy but any man may get by work and endurance. In fact would life not be better, more free and more democratic if more of its good things were on this basis.

The proposition is a compromise issue unprejudiced to the interests of our water fowl and a mecca for the legitimate sportsman.

Let us face the issue squarely and protest against the marketing of our feathered game.

F. H. CONOVER, Pres.,
South Essex Branch, Ontario Forest, Fish and Game Protective Association. Leamington, Ont.

Let our local sportsmen, and all others interested in the conservation of our wild life, get together and stop this slaughter before it is too late, by having this law passed at the earliest possible moment, to stop the sale of all games, and prevent the destruction of our song birds, etc.

A petition will likely be circulated to help in the good work.

Curling Season Opens To-night

When the First Schedule Games of the Season Will be Played Off at the Rink

ICE WILL BE GOOD

To-night the curling season will be opened at the Charlotte Street curling rink, and a dozen rinks will be battling away in the first contests of the schedule games. Six games will be settled to-night.

On Saturday, Rinks 1 and 2, and 6 and 7 were in use for scratch games, and the usual excitement accompanying the matches made them interesting ones. Mr. Angus McIntosh, the veteran ice maker, has promised a surface of the keenest brand for to-night, and the opening of the season will be an auspicious, if not a formal occasion.

To-night the following skips will meet:

1. Ferguson vs. Dela Fosse.
2. Brightman vs. Davidson.
3. Foote vs. Cameron.
4. Denham vs. Crane.
5. Campbell vs. Lang.
6. Hicks vs. Fitzgerald.

To-morrow night the ice will be given over for the following matches:

1. Matthews vs. Sturgeon.
2. Greer vs. Wightman.
3. Kenner vs. McDermid.
4. Taylor vs. Waddell.
5. Neill vs. Thompson.
6. Ferguson vs. Connal.

A week from to-day the Lindsay bonspiel opens, and the members of the local club are arranging to have a representation of several rinks there.

OBITUARY

CLARKE—HERRON.

A wedding, necessarily quiet, owing to a recent bereavement suffered by the bride, took place last Thursday (New Year's Day), at the Manse of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, when the Rev. R. Pogue, the pastor of that church, united in the bonds of Holy matrimony, Mr. David S. Clarke, son of Mr. J. Clarke, of Peterborough, with Miss Estella Herron, daughter of Mr. M. Herron, of Cameron, B.C. The bride wore her travelling costume consisting of a navy blue suit, Alice blue hat trimmed with ostrich feathers.

The young couple were the recipients of several pretty presents.

The newly married young folk will reside in the city.

PLANTS FOR WINTER BLOOM

The temperature of the room which is to be the plants' home, needs to be considered. A draughty place is fatal. Arrange them, therefore, well out of the way of any cold, frosty gusts, which may blow into the room. Then, too, it must not be too hot one minute and cool the next. In fact, it is hardly safe to have a variation of 20 degrees between the day and night; for if the plants are overheated and then chilled, the growth is stunted and the bloom killed. The safe heat is between 65 and 70 degrees during the day and between 50 or 55 during the night. On very cold nights it is well to move the boxes away from the windows and put newspapers in front of the glass, leaving a dead air space between. To give the atmosphere the proper amount of moisture, have a small dish of water on the radiator, and never allow it to become dry. Since the plants need fresh air also, it is well to keep a window partially opened. But be sure not to allow draughts to blow on them.

The old favourite, the geranium, is always an excellent plant for the house, thriving equally well in a box or pot. If there is not enough novelty in this plant, the show geranium or Martha Washington can be purchased. The Paris daisy or Marguerite is one of the prettiest of flowers which thrives in the house.

ENGLISH EPIGRAMS.

A woman acts on the impulse of the moment, and think how many moments there are in the day when her husband is away at his office!

When a man feels he must kiss a woman it is often because he knows he must not.

To be allowed to kiss a pretty woman's hand is like being given the appetizante without the rest of the banquet.

When a woman's gown appears perfectly simple it is probably very good and very dear. When a woman appears simply perfect she is generally very dear, but not necessarily very good.

It has been said that speech is given to women to conceal their thoughts, but it seldom even conceals their thoughtlessness.

BIRTH.

BEGLEY.—In Lindsay on Friday, January 2, 1914, to Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Begley, 10 Mill Street, a daughter.

A RAINBOW OVER A LAKE.

One memorable day in early November we were celebrating a certain anniversary by setting out an avenue of trees under which future generations of lovers may walk hand in hand. It was a long task and a weary one, for stones abounded in the smallest hole we dug and when we were on the point of counting how many trees had been set, and how many still remained, and to measure our weariness with our ideal, Nature thought it time to divert our attention, so she whipped out a few brilliant rainbows—not a skimpy fragment with shining ends and no middle, set in the tiresome east, but a whole skyful like an artillery of colour, interspersed with freakish showers that played about the distant hills to the north. Every time a new tree was set, up flashed another bow in the clouds; and so it continued in dazzling divertisement. Of course, we had to linger until the show was over, and by that time the task was done.

Another day when the bowl of beauty was already full—a smooth lake, not too large for the eye to compass, fringed with trees dyed in the early autumn tones interspersed with tender birches that leaned over to view their lithe whiteness in the mirror—suddenly Nature thought to dazzle us, and she set the span of a gay rainbow, directly over the middle of the lake, then called aside all the little summer breezes that had ruffled its surface and lo, the unforgetable miracle of a perfect circle of glory!

FUTILE CLEVERNESS.

The cleverest men, says an eminent Englishman, are more clever than the cleverest women."

This may be true. But what does their cleverness avail them when clever women wish to make fools of them?

OYSTER DIGESTS ITSELF.

Are Recommended to Dyspeptics—Easily Assimilated.

Oysters are highly nutritious food for persons in good health, and are also highly recommended to many dyspeptics who can eat nothing else with comfort.

Unlike most other foods, the oyster contains in itself many of the elements necessary for its own digestion. The largest part of the bivalve is its liver, and the very moment we begin to chew it the digestive juices with which this organ is plentifully supplied are released and at once begin furnishing valuable aid to our stomachs.

An oyster contains about 10 per cent. of protein, together with some phosphorized fats and glycogen. This is a highly nutritive combination and one which can be assimilated by the human stomach without undue strain.

Oysters are recommended for most dyspeptics, for sufferers from ulceration of incipient cancer of the stomach, and also for convalescents from acute diseases, who usually find in oysters a stimulant for their jaded appetites which no other food can give.

The only dyspeptics who should be forbidden oysters, according to Professor Prom, are those whose stomachs are hyer-acid or hyer-sensitive.

THE HOME REALM

Endeavour to be patient in bearing with the defects and infirmities of others, of what sort soever they be; for that thyself also hast many failings which must be borne with by others. If thou canst not make thyself such an one as thou wouldest, how canst thou expect to have another in all things to thy liking?"

Does this sound as though I were about to preach a sermon? I am not—the text is sufficient in itself for anyone to live up to without discourse of mine, writes Marion Harding in Common Sense in the Household. But when I came across the counsel in the course of my daily reading it occurred to me that perhaps the best scope for its application lay not in the field of religion or of temptations to evil as they are generally understood but right in the home—in your home and mine.

We all of us know the temptations to quick speech supplied by those we love best. Their name is legion—the temptations, I mean. The number of the family who is always late at meals; the one who has a capricious appetite and is fussy about his food; the other who never recollects to put anything away; those who are given to making positive statements which we know to be incorrect, and who dislikes to be set right, or the critics who are always finding fault about something—some representative of each class is pretty sure to be in the household of every one of us.

Family Peace

You must make up your mind to permit those with whom you live to be lost or saved in their own fashion if you mean to have peace in the family. I don't mean you should give up all attempts to induce your household to conform to certain rules that are for the good of all or that you should let the children for whom you are responsible drift into careless habits of life or conduct or speech. What you should try to do is to discriminate between the important and the unimportant and not make a fetish of the latter.

For example, you have a theory the family should all gather about the breakfast table on time—a theory and practice of which I myself approve. Yet when the college boy is "cramming for exams," when the high school girl has been out late at her fraternity dance, when the man of the house has been kept at his office until midnight agonizing over a trial balance or an inventory, you do well if you hold your theory lightly or suspend the practice for the time. That sleep to the tired children or husband is worth a good deal more than prompt appearance at the breakfast table, and the feeling that their need is appreciated, and met by your thoughtfulness is of more value still.

Your sacrifice may cost you a struggle, but depend upon it you have failings which are as hard for your family to bear as theirs are to you. You may have a trick of speech or of manner, a habit of conduct or of dress which they find it difficult to endure patiently. Don't for a moment imagine you are not supplying them with their full share of discipline. Try instead to make out if you are granting their defects the endurance you covet for your own.

MADE IT CLEAR.

"My second husband is no more like my first one was than day is like night."

"But remember that you should never speak ill of the dead."

"Oh, I had no intention of doing that. On the contrary."

TOO MATHEMATICAL.

Prof. Stiffun's Guest Sits Down Hard on His Host.

"Now," said Prof. Stiffun, "I told you I wanted half a cup of coffee, and you've given me a whole cup! You do such things all the time. Don't you know what half a cup is? Fifty per cent. of a cup of coffee—does that make it any plainer?"

"Not the least bit plainer!" answered Mrs. Stiffun, mad because her spouse had been guilty of an outbreak in the presence of a guest.

"It won't do," declared the guest, "to be too mathematical. It has been tried. I once knew a mathematician at a university who was ambitious to reduce everything to an exact science. He talked mathematically, and therefore, as he reasoned, correctly. But it turned out unfortunately in the end.

"That mathematician declared that his method did away with 'all mis-statements and put things on the correct basis, and it was all as simple as two and two make four.

"In the morning if his wife asked him if his coffee was good he would say, 'Oh, about 45 per cent.' If she asked him if her hat was on straight he would say, 'Oh, about 33 per cent.'

"He used to work his system when company was at the house. A guest would tell an anecdote and his wife would say, 'How interesting!' But the mathematician would say, 'About 23 per cent.' He would call up the grocer and say: 'You sent me what were supposed to be fresh eggs, but of the two I started to eat this morning one was only 40 per cent. fresh, and the other 8 per cent.'

"One day they brought a baby to the house, and Mrs. Mathematician said: 'Oh, isn't it the sweetest thing you ever saw? Isn't it beau-ti-ful! And the living image of its mother!'

"Old Math himself butted in and said: 'Sweetness 33, beauty 4, cuteness 12, resemblance to its mother 3.'

"Then the women turned on him. They said he was agreeable 23, practical 13, good looking 6, and nutty 100. That fixed him. He quit."

MANY BY-LAWS ARE PASSED

TORONTO, Jan. 6.—Elections in Ontario municipalities passed off quietly yesterday, and although there were several close contests, no untoward incidents were reported.

Bylaws of wide range and purpose were voted on, and in nearly every case the voters showed progressiveness and faith in their home towns by carrying the bylaws.

Figures received up to an early hour this morning show that the hydro-electric enabling and purchasing bylaws were carried in every city where a vote was taken. Complete returns are not yet to hand, but large majorities are reported from Elora, Strathroy, Kemptville, Tilbury, Chesley and Hanover. Sandwich is the only town where the hydro bylaw was defeated, the vote being 51 to 44.

The Town of Preston, by a large majority, decided to grant a 25 years' franchise to the Galt, Hespeler and Preston Street Railway, while the city of Guelph, by an overwhelming majority, voted money for extensions to the municipally owned street railway system. John Turner Still Alive.

KINGSTON, Jan. 6. — The man drowned off the ferry boat at Windsor was not John Turner of Kingston, as was feared by relatives in this city, who had not heard from him for over two months. Yesterday morning his sister, Mrs. William Howland, received a letter stating that her brother had been seriously ill in a New York hospital, but was now on the road to recovery.

TO CALL BIG STRIKE?

Gompers Will Assist Michigan Miners Says Moyer.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6. — Charles H. Moyer was credited yesterday with saying Samuel Gompers and other officials of the American Federation of Labor would meet in Washington in a few days to consider the advisability of calling a nation wide strike of labor organizations in sympathy with the copper miners of Michigan.

Denies the Proposal.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6. — Vice-President O'Connell and Secretary Morrison, the only officials of the American Federation of Labor in town yesterday, both professed to know nothing of a proposed meeting of the executive council to act on the copper strike situation. Vice-President O'Connell indicated he did not credit such a proposal.

Schooner "Rescue" Lost.

HALIFAX, Jan. 6.—Alfred Potter of Canning, N.S., has received a cable from Nevitas, Cuba, reporting the loss of his schooner Rescue. No mention is made of the crew of eight men and it is presumed all were safe.

The Rescue left Hantsport some time ago with a cargo of potatoes for Barbados and sailed from the latter port on Dec. 17 for Pensacola, Fla. She registered 321 tons and was built in 1892.

GOT RID OF BRONCHITIS

The worst feature of bronchitis is the tendency to return year after year until the system is worn out and gives way to consumption, or other disease.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine owes much of its great popularity to the fact that it positively cures bronchitis, and this is about as severe a test as can be made of a medicine of this kind.

Mr. W. H. Walker, Calmar, Alta., writes: "I am pleased to say that Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has done much good to myself, wife and children. My eldest girl, seven years, had bronchitis, and the doctor who attended her did not seem to do much good. We got Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for her, and she soon got well. We always keep this medicine in the house now ready for use, and find that it soon cures coughs and colds."

In fighting diseases of the throat and lungs half the battle is in having Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine at hand to be used promptly. This is why many people prefer to buy the large family size bottle.

PERSECUTION TOO GREAT.

C.P.R. Will Give Up Mediterranean Service, Says Official.

MONTREAL, Jan. 6.—The Canadian Pacific steamship service between Canada and Trieste and Naples and other Mediterranean ports is at an end, according to a statement made by one of the officials of the company here yesterday.

The cutting off of the service is due to the alleged persecution the company claims to have endured in Austria and Italy.

The final action which caused the management of the C.P.R. to take this drastic step would appear to have been the holding up of the Ruthenia by the Italian Government at Naples for a couple of days on charges of having contravened the immigration regulations of the country.

It will be recalled that the Tyrolia sailed from St. John for Trieste via Naples as recently as last Saturday, but it was stated by the officials who gave out the information yesterday that on her return to Canadian waters the Tyrolia will be sent to Liverpool. Similar action will also be taken with regard to the Ruthenia.

CARDEN WILL MOVE.

British Minister To Mexico To Go to Brazil.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—Sir Lionel Carden, British Minister to Mexico, is shortly to be transferred to Rio de Janeiro as Minister to Brazil. He was appointed to Mexico July 18, 1913, to succeed Francis William Stronge.

The successor to Sir Lionel Carden of Mexico City will probably be Chas. Murray Marling, senior counsellor in the British diplomatic service, now accredited to Turkey.

Sir Lionel Carden's transfer, which is a promotion as far as salary is concerned, although the two legations possess the same standing in the service, would have been made some time ago, except for the fact that the British Foreign Office would not make the change while the Minister was under fire for the alleged interviews in which he was made to reflect on the policy of the United States toward Mexico.

Governor Ferris In Houghton.

HOUGHTON, Mich., Jan. 6.—Governor Ferris of Michigan took hold of the strike situation in the copper country last night. With his coming a practical truce went into effect.

The governor's announcement that he hoped to find some method of settling the struggle between the copper mine owners and the Western Federation of Miners failed, however, to influence the attitude of defiance towards each other which the opposing interests have held for five months.

SLAYS ANOTHER'S BABE.

Demented Woman Then Fatally Poisons Herself.

TORONTO, Jan. 6. — Thought to have been suffering from a fit of homicidal mania, Mrs. Minnie Konikofe, 32, who with her husband and child occupy rooms at 56 Beverley street, slew the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Alec. McFaul, the owners of the house, by giving it carbolic acid. Hurling the dying child down the stairway, the demented woman swallowed a quantity of the poison, from which she herself died in the General Hospital at 3.30 yesterday afternoon.

The only person present at the time of the tragedy was seven-year-old Johnny White, a cousin of the dead child, and his story is accepted by the police as authentic. According to him the mother had left him in charge of the baby while she went to the bank. The Konikofe and McFaul families were very intimate, consequently he did not think it strange that Mrs. Konikofe should enter the room and pick up the sleeping child from its carriage. After fondling the infant for a while, according to the lad's story, she carried it into the bathroom, forbidding the boy to follow. She locked the door, and shortly afterwards the boy says he heard a gasp.

Now thoroughly frightened, he called over the banisters: "Come quick! Mrs. Konikofe is killing our baby!" The crazed woman threw open the bath-room door and flung the child head-long down the stairs. It was picked up by other inmates of the house who rushed to the scene, but every effort at resuscitation on their part and on the part of a physician summoned proved futile. Meanwhile the woman had rushed to her own room and took her own life by drinking carbolic acid.

TAKEN AT A SACRIFICE

LORD CHIEF JUSTICESHIP DEPRIVES ISAACS OF FAT FEES.

Distinguished Jewish Lawyer, Who Succeeds to the Highest Post in the British Judiciary and Second Highest Place in the Realm, Must Forego His Handsome Income as Counsel.

While the honor is great, the position of the Lord Chief Justice of England, as well as that of Attorney-General and Solicitor-General, entails great monetary sacrifice on the part of the men who attain such grand positions in the legal world. Before Sir Rufus Isaacs, who succeeds Lord Alverstone as Lord Chief Justice of England, became Solicitor-General in 1910 (he became Attorney-General in the same year), his legal practice was bringing him in close upon $150,000 a year. In 1898, when he applied for silk, he was doing a practice worth between $35,000 and $40,000 a year, and some idea of the value placed upon his services in later years may be gathered from the fact that in a case in which he was leading counsel, which lasted twenty-one days, Sir Rufus received a retaining fee of $15,000 and a refresher of $1,000 a day.

As Attorney-General, however, he only received $35,000 a year, which was augmented by fees received for work done on behalf of public departments—fees which in 1911-12 amounted to over $30,000, bringing his total income to just over $65,000. And by accepting the appointment of Lord Chief Justice Sir Rufus makes more monetary sacrifice, for, while his salary will be increased by $5,000, it is Sir John Simon, who succeeds him as Attorney-General, who will get the fees for departmental work. As a matter of fact, the Solicitor-General is better off than the Lord Chief Justice, his salary and fees for 1911-12 being over $50,000. Like Sir Rufus, Lord Alverstone threw away a good slice of his income when he became Attorney-General in 1885, for his income while at the Bar was between $100,000 and $150,000.

The Lord Chief Justice, however, is better off than the Lord Chancellor, although the latter receives $50,000 a year and a pension of $25,000; for whereas the Lord Chancellor is but a temporary officer of the state, coming in and going out with the change of Government, the Lord Chief Justice holds office "during good behaviour"—in other words, for life. Years ago the Lord Chief Justice was paid $50,000 a year, with a pension of $20,000 on retirement; the salary, however, was ultimately reduced to $40,000.

It is a curious fact that, until 1873, the Lord Chief Justice was not allowed to style himself Lord Chief Justice of England, but only the Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench Division, and it is said that one of the causes of the dismissal of Sir Edward Coke, the famous jurist of the seventeenth century, was that he had styled himself Lord Chief Justice of England on some of his publications. In the year already mentioned, however, what is known as the Judicature Act was passed, which enabled the Lord Chief Justice to add "England" to his title.

Next to the Lord Chancellor, the Lord Chief Justice is the highest judicial dignitary in the kingdom. The office is generally the prize of the chief law officer of the Government, and political considerations, therefore, enter largely into the appointment. But the Chief Justices have been generally worthy of their great position, and the list of them contains the names of some of the greatest masters of common law.

The career of Sir Rufus Isaacs is probably without parallel in the history of the Bar. It was not until 1904 that he entered the House of Commons as member for Reading, since when he has filled the highest law offices in the kingdom, excepting that of Lord Chancellor, and in addition achieved the distinction of being the first Attorney-General to be included in the Cabinet.

Some of his predecessors, however, have owed their promotion to some very curious causes. When Lord Kenyon, who became Lord Chief Justice in 1788, died, the wags declared that the cause of death was his habit of eating apple-pie crust for breakfast to save the expense of muffins, and that Lord Ellenborough, who succeeded him, ever after bowed with great reverence to apple-pie—a case, as someone once said, of apple-pie-ty. Lord Tenterden owed his appointment to the fact that the Attorney-General of the day was too deaf to take the position. Strangest of all was the case of Chief Justice Wright. He was a boon companion of Jeffreys, who said to him: "As you seem unfit for the Bar, or for any other honest calling, I see nothing for it but that you should become a judge yourself." And a judge, and eventually Chief Justice, he was made.—Tit-Bits.

Difference In Premiers.

In one of the new books—B. R. Wise's history of the making of the Australian Commonwealth—there is a dramatic contrast between two Prime Ministers. Sir Henry Parkes, the chief creator of the Commonwealth, had been reading Mr. G. W. E. Russell's biography of Gladstone, and he said to Mr. Wise: "When Mr. Gladstone was at Eton I was at a rope-walk earning fourpence a day. From there I went to a brickyard, and when Mr. Gladstone was at Oxford I was breaking stones on the Queen's highway." That was in the English Midlands. On landing in Australia a penniless emigrant the first money Sir Henry earned was a sixpence for holding a horse outside a public-house.

Coffin of King Charles I.

The "Hundred Years Ago" column of The Observer has just reproduced the story of the discovery of the coffin of Charles I. at Windsor. Apart from the strange details of the discovery there were many curious circumstances in connection with the king's tomb. In the first place, just before the burial, it was discovered by the few loyalists present that the coffin bore no inscription. A band of lead was procured, and they cut out of it with penknives spaces in the form of large letters, so that the words Charles Rex. 1648, could be read. The leaden band was then clapped round the coffin.

Evelyn visited Windsor in 1654, and says: "They have laid our blessed martyr King Charles in the vault just before the altar." In point of fact, the survivors of the burial ceremony went to Windsor at the restoration and searched for the coffin. The republicans had so altered the chapel that they had no landmarks to guide them.

The Alternative.

A Frenchman applied to a local official for a passport to visit Klatterwingechen, in Switzerland. The functionary, who was not a fellow of any geographical society, studied in vain with the spelling of the place's name. Then, unwilling to confess his difficulty, he blandly asked, "Would you as lief visit some other town?"

SIGNS OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

In the early stages kidney troubles are known by backache and urinary disorders. Later come dropsy, stone, rheumatic pains, and perhaps diabetes. But don't wait for these. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will help you in a few hours. Their thorough action on the liver, kidneys, and bowels will clear away the pains and aches and make you well again.

Was "Decent" Man.

A boy has been fined at Acton for running round a church during service and throwing squibs at the windows. There are circumstances in which conduct of this kind is justified—by some. Witness a story of Orange Ulster, which cannot be set down to an enemy's malice, seeing that the authority for it is one of the brothers of the Duke of Abercorn. One Ulsterman, speaking of another, describes him as a "dacent religious man." What does he mean by that? "Oh, he walks up and down outside the Catholic Chapel all the toime they're saying Mass, foiring off his gun and shoutin' 'Bloody man is the Pope!'"

Aberdeen Benefited.

A Scotchman who died recently in Australia has left a bequest of $150,000 to Aberdeen University. The man went to California in the days of the gold fever and started his fortune there. Later he went to Australia and substantially increased it by the sheep industry. As he grew older he became a strong believer in education, and urged all his Scottish relatives who had sons to send them to the universities, promising to bear the expense. Although uneducated himself as a young man, he learned to write letters with distinction.

Try This Home-made Cough Remedy

Costs Little, But Does the Work Quickly, or Money Refunded.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with 1 cup of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You will find that this simple remedy takes hold of a cough more quickly than anything else ever used. Usually ends a deep-seated cough inside of 24 hours. Splendid, too, for whooping cough, croup, chest pains, bronchitis, and other throat troubles. It stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

This recipe makes more and better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasantly.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the natural pine elements, which are so healing to the membranes. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This plan of making cough syrup with Pinex and sugar syrup (or strained honey) has proven so popular throughout the United States and Canada that it is often imitated. But the old, successful formula has never been equaled.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

FAMOUS SLOVENS.

Turner, Johnson, Carlyle and Tennyson Were All Untidy Men.

It is surprising how careless of their outer appearance many famous men have been. It is said of Turner, the great landscape painter, that his hands were "the smallest and dirtiest hands on record." Perhaps that is an exaggeration, but he was certainly very slovenly in his dress. He wore a black swallow-tail dress coat, very much in need of a clothes brush vigorously used, and in the warmest as well as in the coldest weather he wore round his throat a sort of wrap or muffler, which he would unloose, letting the ends dangle down in front and dip into the colors of his palette. He always worked either with his old hat on his head or with this same large muffler over his head. His appearance was more like that of an old-time coachman than of a famous Royal Academician, for he was short and stout, with a red and blotchy face.

Dr. Johnson's slovenliness has almost passed into a proverb. There are many contemporary accounts of his turning out of his house in Bolt Court with his wig back to front and his stockings down. When Boswell visited him at No. 1, Inner Temple Lane, he records, "His brown suit of clothes looked very rusty; he had on a little, old, shrivelled, unpowdered wig, which was too small for his head; his shirt neck and the knees of his breeches were loose, his black worsted stockings ill-drawn up, and by way of slippers he had on a pair of unbuckled shoes." When it is added that this great man was constantly twitching, grunting, shaking his head, puffing his cheeks, and blinking his eyes, it must be admitted that his appearance was not only uncouth but grotesque.

Thomas Carlyle, coming of a peasant race, never conformed to society garb. He would always go out in his old dressing-gown, over which he buttoned a big coat, grey with age. When he was left alone in the house he delighted in swilling his flagstones with pails of water, and many a distinguished friend found him thus engaged with a kind of smock on and his bushy hair all tousled. He went about all the summer among the highest aristocracy in a frieze jacket which was part of an old dressing-gown. All the cabmen and bus drivers Chelseaway knew him. One said: "He may wear a queer 'at, but what would yer give for the 'eadpiece inside of it?"

It would not be seemly to describe Tennyson as slovenly in any real sense. He was a singularly noble-looking man, but he did not care a jot what he wore. His old slouch hat had seen unnumbered years, and flapped about at all angles, and the Inverness cape which he invariably wore was about as old as his hat. People who met him without knowing his immense distinction would have regarded him as a rather quaint character, and a tailor's cutter would not have assessed him at half a dollar, all told.

Shoe-Black Disappearing.

Among the disappearing sights in London is the shoe-black. His trade has been killed, it would seem, by asphalt and macadam streets and the cheap, quick-shining "polish" that every man can use for himself. It is a pity, for he is one of the few survivors of the old street traders. In the eighteenth century he was indispensable, for, what with unpaved, muddy footpaths and the jostling and splashing of carriages and sedan-chairs, a man could scarcely walk abroad without responding to the alluring "Shine, sir?" In those days the shoeblack's equipment consisted of a stool for the patron's foot, brushes of boar's hair, a jar containing a mixture of soot and whale oil—blacking being then unknown—and generally an old wig to give the final polish.

Bird Dogs.

Bird dogs have been known as such for only about three or four centuries. So far as we know, the Duke of Northumberland, 16th century, was the trainer of bird dogs. The duke was followed by others who trained dogs to "set" birds, but it was not till the beginning of the 19th century that any reliable record of a distinct brand of bird dogs can be found.

WEAKNESS AND PALPITATION OF THE HEART.

When the heart begins to beat irregularly, palpitates and throbs, skips beats, and sometimes seems to almost stop, it causes great anxiety and alarm.

Many people become weak, worn and miserable, and are unable to attend to either social, business or household duties.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are a specific for all weakness and heart disorders, and are recommended by us with the greatest of confidence that they will do what we claim for them.

Mrs. George Burridge, Coboconk, Ont., writes:—"Just a few lines to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me. I have been troubled with weakness and palpitation of the heart. I tried many remedies but got none to answer my case like your pills did. I can recommend them highly to all with heart or nerve trouble."

15 YEARS SUFFERING FROM PILES

MR. J. McEWEN, of Dundas, Ont., writes:—"For fifteen years I suffered with piles, and could get no permanent cure until I tried Zam-Buk. After having given Zam-Buk a fair trial I found I was getting better; and in the end it cured me completely."

MR. JAMES RUDDY, of Killaloe, Ont., says:—"I suffered greatly from piles. The pain from these, as anyone who suffers from them will know, was at times almost unbearable. I tried first one remedy and then another, but all without effect. The piles still continued as bad as ever. I heard about Zam-Buk and commenced with the treatment. To my great joy, after perseverance I obtained relief from the agonizing pain of the piles. Having been cured by Zam-Buk I heartily recommend the balm to all sufferers from piles."

WHY ZAM-BUK IS SO SUPERIOR.

An eminent scientist said, the other day, that the most wonderful discovery of recent years was the discovery of Zam-Buk. As soon as a single thin layer of Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or a sore, such injury is insured against blood poisoning.

Then again. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a sore, or a cut, or to skin disease, it stops the smarting. That is why children are such friends of Zam-Buk.

Again. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or to a diseased part, the cells beneath the skin's surface are so stimulated that new healthy tissue is quickly formed. The tissue thus formed is worked up to the surface and literally casts off the diseased tissue above it. This is why Zam-Buk cures are permanent.

WHAT ZAM-BUK CURES

For eczema, blood-poisoning, piles, ulcers, sores, abscesses, varicose ulcers, bad leg, cold sores, chapped hands, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin injuries and diseases, Zam-Buk is without equal. 50c. box, all druggists and stores, or post free, Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. ZAM-BUK

An amusing scene was witnessed in a Cincinnati machine shop recently on the occasion of the retirement after a service of thirty years, of a valued and faithful employee. In consideration of his long and faithful service, the company had arranged to give him a monetary recognition, and it fell to the lot of the superintendent, a German, to make the presentation speech. This is how he did it:

"Gustave, you have vorked for dis company over thirty years, yes?"

A bow from the expectant recipient of the purse.

"Und you are going to quit, yes?"

Another and lower bow.

"Vell, Gustave, der company is so glad of it dot I had been asked to hand you dese hundred dollars."

Dear Elsie—It's awfully nice to be home again after the summer's good time in the country, but one's little apartment in town does look so cluttered up and stuffy when one has been reveling in the great outdoors. Dick says on shipboard the rule is to throw the unessential overboard, and that is exactly what I have been doing the last few days.

I have gone over every room in the apartment and demanded of each single thing its right to stay. If it proved its raison d'etre it remained, but if it offered a single argument in the least feeble—out it went.

Homes get so quickly cluttered, and it's clutter that wears out the nerves more than anything else. The perfectly good dress that one knows one will never wear under any circumstances, the shoes that are just a little too worn to ever put on with proper self respect, the ornament that the room does not need to add to its beauty, but simply stays because it came, all these good things that hamper I have thrown away, and the joy thereof is manifold.

The best looking rooms one knows are those whose ornamentation is simple. A mantel filled with ornaments is an abomination of abominations. Besides, it's a care and not restful to the eye. I made a raid on my mantels, and nothing is left on the living room shelf but grandmother's brass candlesticks and my old French clock. Now I have an artistic effect and a mantel that is easy to dust. You know, dear, the Japanese, masters in the art of making a room beautiful, often elect to have one vase the sole bit of bric-a-brac.

I haven't a picture on my walls that is hung up merely because I happen to own it. I have, too, gone all over the bookcases culling out books Dick and myself do not wish to keep, and magazines and pamphlets have disappeared in the same way. Now, everything in the apartment is there because it represents a need or an artistic taste.

My motto from henceforth is going to be, "Better give a thing away and want it back than keep it and not want it."

Margaret D— dropped in on us the other day—you know she's just back from Paris—and amused us immensely with her very graphic accounts of the clothes hysteria going on in the City of Light. What would you say about rainbow faces and painted furs as a Parisian vagary? Well, the Parisienne whose object in life is to make the complexion on the boulevards is paint-laugher face in various colors. This is done to express a mood, and the cubist craze doubtless is responsible for this hideous practice. There are days when milady's face takes on a peculiar shade of green, a green that verges on the purple under the eyes; and there are other days when she elects to walk abroad with her features done up in soulful purple, with lines under her eyes of a vivid pomegranate to tone in with her lips.

In tune with the rainbow face is the harmonizing wig, and the furs she wears with this makeup are either dyed or painted on suits. Not content with these lurid effects, she adds to the weird appearance gilded eyelashes that put Dame Nature hopelessly to shame.

Margaret says the effect is lovely bewitching. Perish the thought! To arrive at this outrage to nature the tips of the eyelashes are heavily blacked; then the extreme tips are touched up with liquid gold. The chic Parisienne, too, adds a jeweled beauty spot and a landscape veil to confound all beholders. The landscape veil, I had better tell you, is a square of chiffon on which is painted a delightful bit of scenery, a sea picture or just a simple flower garden carried out in natural colors on a soft gray, black or green background.

Do you think you can stand one more beauty jolt? Here 'tis. Stretch scientifically and you'll grow tall—tall even as are the divinely tall and beautifully lean sisters of this winter of 1913. All the short faddish women are doing it. In fact, it's the latest in beauty culture. At first thought such a physical feat seems impossible to those who have reached years of permanent inches, to say nothing of discretion. But there are cheering reports from those who've tried patiently and determinedly to add the proverbial "cubit" to their stature.

Very likely stretching parties may rival in popularity this season afternoon bridge, but don't hold responsible for this statement your sedate friend.

Kitchen Broom Holders.

Broom holders for the kitchen family of brooms are steel springs heavily made, which fasten into the wall and open with a slight pressure to hold any handle, either large or small, which may be placed within them. These clasps are 5 cents each or may be had for 60 cents a dozen. They keep all small articles off the floor.

Historic Caterers.

The recent death of Mr. Alexander James Brymer, senior partner of the firm of Ring & Brymer, of Cornhill, England, reminds one that the catering for civic banquets from the days of the Great Fire in London has been done by this firm. The fare provided by Messrs. Ring & Brymer at Guildhall banquets has always been of the typical old English kind, and tradition holds that they still have a special recipe for turtle soup the secret of which has never been disclosed. One of the greatest of their achievements was the banquet to King Edward when he visited the Guildhall in 1902, thirty turtles being used for the royal party.

Lawn Tennis.

Lawn tennis is not the gift of the ancient times. In fact, the game is quite modern. A Major Wingfield of the British army is generally reputed to have been the originator of the popular amusement. The game was introduced by the major in 1874 under the name of "Sphairistike," a compromise between tennis and badminton. The National Lawn Tennis Association of Great Britain was organized in 1888.

Peat Fire 200 Years Old.

NERVES ARE SORE AND PAINFUL

Neuritis, or inflammation of the nerves, is the most painful of nervous ailments. You may feel the soreness or tenderness throughout the body, or it may be confined to certain nerves. In the head it is called neuralgia; in the hips and legs, sciatica; in the face, tic doloreux, and in the chest, intercostal neuralgia.

The application of dry heat affords relief from the lance-like pains, but the essential thing is to build up the exhausted nervous system by the persistent use of such a restorative as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. You will have other symptoms to warn you of the depleted condition of the nervous system, and this is your opportunity to restore to the body the energy and vigour of health.

While this great food cure is instilling new vitality into the starved nerve cells it is also forming new, firm flesh and tissue, and, by noting your increase in weight, you can prove beyond doubt the benefit being obtained by its use. This is Nature's way of curing diseases of the nerves, and it is the only way to obtain lasting benefit.

They Convinced Him.

There was a Russian writer who disapproved of so many things in connection with the management of his native country that he got himself into serious trouble with the authorities. He persisted in pointing out their defects, and at last they got so exasperated that they decided to hang him, and he was duly sentenced to death by one of the governors he had criticised.

Three times they tried to hang him, and three times the rope broke.

The worried hangman postponed the execution while he went to talk things over with the governor.

"What did he say when the rope broke the third time?" asked the governor.

"He said that it was just what might be expected in Russia," replied the hangman—"that we couldn't even hang a man properly."

The enraged governor turned in a fury to the hangman. "Convince him that he is wrong!" he shouted.

So the hangman went back to the condemned man and convinced him.

Sailing Wheelbarrows.

The sailing wheelbarrows of China are a sight to delight the eyes of an old salt stranded inland, particularly in the Shensi district, where mile long processions of these queer vehicles may be met with. Wheelbarrow transportation would be almost impossible in this district, due to the blown sand, were it not for the ingeniously devised sails. Night and day for months at a stretch without ceasing the wind blows steadily from west to east at an average velocity of more than fifteen miles an hour. Luckily this chances to be the direction of the country's produce transportation, so that the heaviest laden of the barrow craft are able to "make port" with a fair wind. A wind "dead astern," however, is by no means absolutely necessary, for by ingeniously contrived supports on the sides of the barrows the sails may be set to take advantage of almost every slant of breeze.—Popular Mechanics.

CASES FOR THE BRIDE.

Wedding Present That Is Sure to Be Appreciated.

The housekeeper who has tried to keep centerpieces and doilies in any kind of order in her sideboard drawers along with tablecloths and the like will appreciate the usefulness of cases made especially for these articles. If one is not inclined to do needlework a very simple case may be devised by cutting large circles of cardboard and fastening them together quite simply with tapes, says the Modern Priscilla. However, to make a very pretty set of cases one should cover these cardboard circles with white linen. The case is formed by two circles of bristol board covered on both sides with the fabric. Have the linen carefully pressed before mounting it on the cardboard. Cut the linen one-half inch larger than the cardboard, turn it over the edge of the cardboard and fasten by long stitches taken from side to side. When this is secure fold in the edge of the other circle of linen and apply it to the reverse side of the card. Top sew these two round pieces of linen together over the cardboard. Make two complete pieces. In the center of one fasten the cross ribbons, which may be tied over the top section. This cardboard circle covered with linen may be finished around the edges with a white cord carefully top sewed to hide the sewing of the linen. The upper cover may be embroidered in various ways, but nothing is more suitable or more decorative than a pretty monogram. The device of three circles each carrying a letter is very prettily in harmony with the round case. The work is, of course, done on the linen before it is mounted.

LINEN DOILY CASE.

Novelty Items.

A pretty way of offering sweets is to give them in an embroidered bag that can be used for needlework afterward. There are bags made of white satin, embroidered with pink cherry blossoms and lined with pink, which would make a charming gift, or a pale wattean blue bag embroidered in pink with a white lining is very pretty.

The bags have wide tops and draw up with a soft satin ribbon which matches the lining.

The open air girl is not content merely to have a colored crepe de chine handkerchief tucked into the breast pocket of her knitted or fleecy golf coat, but she must have a bow at her throat to mach it exactly in color.

These sets are made in the prettiest shades of blue, mauve and canary.

A dainty white handkerchief seen the other day had, instead of the ordinary hemstitched border, a tiny blanket stitch design, not more than an eighth of an inch in width, worked over the raw edges in vivid color—blue, red or green.

One of the newest forms of buttons seen on a fine lingerie blouse was a barrel shape covered with white muslin. It was pulled through the buttonhole and allowed to hang down loosely for about an inch from a twist of the muslin.

Up and Down Stairs.

Do not fail to close your refrigerator door each time you use the box. Your ice will last much longer and your cold air department will be much colder.

To make sure that there is no worm in the cabbage, after removing the outer leaves, place it in a dish of water which has been salted and add a tablespoonful of vinegar. This sends the worm out.

Rice should be washed in several waters before cooking it. The best way to do this is to put the rice in a sieve and plunge it up and down in a pan of water. Hot water is far better than cold, for if the rice kernels have been coated with paraffin the hot water will wash it off. This is impossible with the cold water.

Pieces of barrel hoops from ten to eighteen inches long are very useful to hang freshly ironed shirt waists and little dresses on. Put one end in the armhole, pass the other up over the line and put it in the other armhole. This keeps them in shape while drying, and several can be hung on a few inches of line.

SAVED JUST IN TIME.

Priceless Manuscripts Which, But For Chance, Would Have Been Lost.

Hidden away in national museums and libraries, and zealously guarded, are a number of priceless manuscripts and books, which, but for a fortunate chance, might have been lost to the world. The chief treasure of a museum at St. Petersburg is the oldest known Greek manuscript of the New Testament, which was about to be burnt by the monks of a Syrian monastery, when, by a lucky chance, one of the priests, struck with the antiquity of the manuscript, interfered in time to save what had been thought to be valueless.

The incident reminds one that the Magna Charta, which is carefully guarded in a glass case in the British Museum, was saved from destruction by Sir Robert Cotton, who, so the story goes, one day had entered his tailor's shop precisely at the moment when the knight of the scissors was about to cut up for patterns the ancient-looking document with its many imposing seals attached. Although Sir Robert did not at first recognize the value of the document, he judged it was something of historic interest, and purchased it from the tailor for a few shillings. After passing through the hands of various generations of his family it at last found a resting place in the British Museum.

An interesting story, too, is attached to a valuable Greek manuscript which came to the Bishop of Uganda in a startling way. It was wrapped round a fish and brought into the bishop's presence. By the merest chance he examined it, and found it to be part of a treatise thought for many centuries to be lost. The worthy bishop hastened to the stall of the salesman in the market where the fish had been bought just in time to save the remaining pages of this literary treasure.

One of the most highly prized manuscripts of recent times, that of In Memoriam, was rescued just in time from a cupboard in a house where Tennyson had lived for some time as a bachelor. As a matter of fact, it was to the poet himself that the recovery was due, for he remembered that the book wherein he had transcribed the original draft had been hastily thrown into the cupboard where he had been accustomed to keep pickles and jams. When the friends sent by the poet to recover the manuscript arrived on the scene the contents of the cupboard had been removed by the landlady, who was just then engaged in her task of house cleaning, and who tartly advised her visitors that they had come none too soon, in so much as she would that day have burnt all the "trash" she had found.

London's Owners.

London's 116 square miles are owned by 88,200 individuals. Only 700 people own five acres or more, and 14,000 own only the houses in which they live.

Heads That Grow Bigger.

This is not a facetious matter, but one which is the outcome of phrenological examination, on the "before and after" principle, of the heads of men who stir the public. As a matter of fact, it is contended that while a man stops growing, generally speaking, at the age of 25, his head, particularly if he is a thinker, continues to grow and increase in size, often after he is 40 years of age. Indeed, experts say that a man's brain does not become fully developed until he is 40 or 50 years of age, and a well-known London phrenologist, who has measured the heads of many prominent people from time to time, has discovered by means of these measurements that the head continues to grow at a considerably greater age than is generally believed.

Lloyd George's head, according to this authority, has increased in size from being nearly 23 inches in circumferential measurement to 23 1-4 inches from the time he was 40 to 45 years of age.

Another remarkable example of increasing the size of the head a full quarter of an inch, and this time after the man had reached the half-century mark of years, is provided by Robert Blatchford, Socialist editor of the Clarion, and author of Britain for the British, who, says the phrenologist, increased the circumference of his head from 22½ inches at 50 years of age to 23½ inches before his 60th birthday.

A bad cough accompanied by that distressing, tickling sensation in the throat is most aggravating.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is rich in the lung healing virtues of the Norway pine tree, and for this reason it will stop that tickling in the throat which causes that dry hard cough that keeps you awake at night.

Mr. Sanford Reade, Antrim, N.S., writes:—"Last fall I took a severe cold which left me with a terrible hard cough and a nasty tickling sensation in my throat. I tried many cough medicines, but they did not help me so I got a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and before I had used half of it the cough had left me, and the next one made a complete cure, and I will recommend it as the best cough medicine on the market."

Lower Deck Promotion Scheme in British Navy Advanced a Stage

Prominent Naval Expert in London Discusses the Idea of Commissions for the Bluejackets—First Officers Under New Arrangement Are Now Afloat.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, January 3.

THE scheme of the British Admiralty for advancing a number of promising young warrant and petty officers to commissioned rank has now been advanced a further stage. This month the first group of selected candidates have been confirmed in the new grade of mate, and they are being appointed to ships afloat for a period of service before receiving their commissions as lieutenants.

With their entry into the service afloat the bridge between lower deck and quarter-deck may be said to have been completed, the traffic, and henceforth there will always be a continuous stream of men passing over it.

This bold experiment, for such it must be considered, cannot fail to prove interesting, not only to the seamen but to the general public of a nation so noted for aristocratic institutions as is the United Kingdom. If the Admiralty succeeds it may very likely be copied by other navies, and admirably by one manned by voluntary enlistment, because of the stimulus to recruiting afforded by the knowledge that every lad who joins as a bluejacket is a potential naval commander.

Sir Winston Churchill, M.P., that Mr. Winston Churchill made the first official announcement of the decision of the Admiralty on this matter. He indicated that it had its real genesis in the need for more junior officers. In past times, when there has been a temporary shortage of this kind, owing to a sudden expansion of the active fleet, officers have been obtained from the mercantile marine. On this occasion a more popular and democratic arrangement has been tried in addition.

The First Lord said that a hundred or more commissions were to be offered to the lower deck, in yearly instalments of from twenty-five to thirty, so that the navy should be opened more broadly to the nation as a whole. Those who received these commissions were to be eligible for promotion to the highest ranks, but as they would start as commissioned officers some years after those who enter the navy through the colleges it was probable, he added, that the great bulk of them would rest content with a career which had carried them from bluejacket to commander.

Those who were in the first group of selected men were appointed for training in September, 1912. They included gunners, boatswains and petty officers, all under twenty-five years of age. Incidentally it may be said that, according to a speech of the First Sea Lord, every man in the group is a total abstainer. They were first appointed for courses of instruction in gunnery and torpedo at Portsmouth. These being satisfactorily completed, they received the grade of acting mate, which is equivalent to that of sub-lieutenant, and were appointed to the Naval College at Greenwich for six months' instruction in navigation and allied subjects. This was in February last.

The next stage has now been reached by the announcement that the candidates have been confirmed in the rank of mate, which shows that they have passed the examination arranged at the end of the course at Greenwich. They have, in a word, qualified in theory, but it is provided that they must qualify in practice before they become lieutenants. Each mate has to serve afloat for not less than two and not more than three years, and the thirteen mates in the first group have therefore been distributed among as many ships for this purpose. Seven have been drafted to vessels at home, four to the Mediterranean and one each to the East Indies and China.

The idea probably is to make the test of their capabilities as varied as possible. As soon as they have completed the necessary time at sea and have obtained certificates from their captains as to their conduct and ability as watch keeping officers and the like they will be promoted to the rank of lieutenant. But already they have reached the wardroom, to meet their expenses in which they are granted a special allowance.

In the meantime nearly forty more aspirants for the rank of mate have been selected for training. The scheme is thus well started, and from every standpoint, whether as regards the provision of more junior officers, the recognition of the just claims of a deserving class of men or the effect upon recruiting, it appears to be looked upon with favor.

THE MAN WHO WILL RULE OVER ALBANIA

THE selection of Prince Wilhelm of Wied to ascend the throne of Albania as its first sovereign ruler was from the first a foregone conclusion. Apart from his personal qualities, says the Sphere, he possesses one great advantage over his numerous rival candidates in that he is an Evangelical Protestant, and as such can be relied upon to preserve an even balance among the three religions—Moslem, Greek Orthodox and Roman Catholic—which claim the allegiance of the Albanians. The Wieds are of an ancient stock which early abandoned feudal habits and prejudices and acquired a "modern" view of the world and its needs, an essential factor in the realisation of efficiency and reform in Albania.

British Antarctic Pictures To Be at the Alpine Club's Gallery

Some Very Interesting Pictures of the Journeys of 1910-12 To Be Shown—They Are the Work of Dr. Edward Adrian Wilson—Other Notable Art Exhibitions Are Now on View.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, January 3.

AN exhibition of more than ordinary interest is that of sketches and water colors made on the British Antarctic expedition, 1910-12, by Dr. Edward A. Wilson at the Alpine Club Gallery, Mill street.

Dr. Edward Adrian Wilson was born in 1872. Educated at Cheltenham and Caius College, Cambridge, he had no special teaching in drawing beyond the ordinary lessons given at school, but ever as a boy he was in the habit of making careful studies of birds, animals, flowers, landscape and architecture, and, indeed, of everything he saw.

One has only to glance round the exhibition to see that this early training in accuracy made him an ideal artist to record the new and strange facts and phenomena of nature in the Antarctic. Captain Scott, with whom he perished, wrote of him:—"Wilson is the most indefatigable person—when it is fine and clear at the end of our fatiguing days he will spend two or three hours seated in the door of the tent, sketching each detail of the splendid mountainous coast scene to the west. His sketches are most astonishingly accurate; I have tested his proportions by actual measurement and found them correct."

To this industry and accuracy the exhibition bears ample testimony. There is throughout an obvious sacrifice of any tampering with the record in order to secure an artistic effect; and the facts are all the more striking for the painstaking modesty with which they are stated. Everything is interesting, but it is natural that one should turn first to the records of the strange meteoric and atmospheric phenomena peculiar to the region—the signs and portents in the sky, that must have seemed like warnings of nature against the intrusion of man, such as a gray study of aurora Australis, the black, purple and crimson "Sunrise, August 4, 1912," the mock moons and suns of "Parasélene, Cape Evans," and "Parhelion" and such unusual effects of color or refraction as "Shadow of Mount Erebus and its Smoke Cloud," and "Iridescent Clouds."

One effect of these drawings—and it indicates the feeling of terror conveyed by the simple statement of the facts—is wonderfully to revive the association of Coleridge's "Ancient Mariner." Two studies of the same subject, "Berg off Cape Evans, Last Day of the Sun," show Dr. Wilson's power of recording delicate differences in the play of light, and there are many drawings that bring home the fantastic shapes of ice in bergs and barriers.

Mrs. Vera Willoughby, who shows numerous and other drawings at the Dowdeswell Galleries, New Bond street, has real originality, a good sense of design, fine taste in color and a charming impartiality in choice of subjects and types. Thirty-four of her drawings illustrate "Humors of History." They are not in the least like any "comic" historical drawings that have been seen here before, the humor in them being evidently based on a keen ironic perception of character and situation. Also, they are excellent from a decorative point of view, and done in a clear, firm style that cries out for reproduction.

"Wife of the Rosse," "Henry VIII. watching a preliminary view of Anne of Cleves at Portsmouth," and "George IV. describes how he won the Battle of Waterloo—to his guest, the Duke of Wellington," are three of the best.

Mrs. Willoughby's other drawings are water colors on wooden spoons, most of the subjects being taken from the classics, with figures of the Cretan type. Some of these are beautiful in color and quality, and all are inspired by an enchanting mixture of humor and perversity. "The Deluge" is a remarkably ingenious design of nude figures in the confusion of storm, and "Polyphemus' Wife" is one of the funniest things that has been on exhibition for a long time.

Several artists are now exhibiting at the Modern Gallery, New Bond street. Mr. T. F. Green has the entrance gallery with water colors of sunshine and shade in England, France and Italy. The rest are two garden scenes, "Campanula Pyramidalis" and "Delphiniums."

Lady Cohen's water colors of London and elsewhere are strong in color and largely and loosely handled. "Westminster, from Waterloo Bridge," has considerable power, and "Bluebells" and "The Purple Border, Highfield, Kent," are two excellent flower studies.

Miss Rita M. C. Maclachlan shows water colors and etchings, "Olive Trees, Hyères," and "Springvale, Isle of Wight," being the best respectively.

Of Miss Adeline Webster's portraits in water colors and pastel the most admired are "Commander Godfrey Webster, R. N.," and "Portrait Sketch."

At the Victoria Galleries, Victoria street, there is an exhibition of very interesting reproductions in color by well known artists after such painters as Reynolds, Gainsborough, Hoppner and Romney. Even those who do not care for this variety of art cannot fail to admire the mechanical skill and often the good taste in colors displayed. "Hadleigh Castle," by the late Alfred J. Skrimshire, after Constable, suggests a good opening for the art by photography. Among the best of the portraits are "Mrs. Sheridan," by Mr. Skrimshire, after Gainsborough; "Sisters Frankland," by the Jones Costley Work, after Hoppner, and "Mr. Thomas Drummond," by Mr. H. Normand, after Raeburn.

Industrial Census of England and Wales

Striking Analysis Covers Working Life of Every Man, Woman and Child, and Shows Women of Great Britain Are the Rivals of Men in Many Occupations—Child Labor Still Employed Despite Law.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, January 3.

A STRIKING analysis of the great industrial army of England and Wales is provided in a volume of census statistics which has just been issued. It covers the working life of every man, woman, and child who has to earn his or her living, and shows in a remarkable manner the keen competition which now exists between the two sexes in many industries.

First, we have a set of figures indicating who does the work and the number of the workless. Above ten years of age there are 10,693,229 males and 14,897,113 females. Of these 2,256,535 males and 10,025,879 females are unoccupied. Subtracting from these the boys and girls under eighteen years of age, we get the following totals:—

MEN.

Under 65 years of age	146,897
65 to 75 years of age	59,865
75 to 85 years of age	113,253
85 and over	934,962

WOMEN.

Married	3,950,693
Widows	953,793
Unmarried	2,394,703

These constitute what the socialist orators are pleased to call "idle rich," and as they include all the insane, the old-age pensioners, the inmates of workhouses, and military, naval and civil service pensioners, the number, especially of men, does not appear to be inordinately large.

Every one else in the country engages in some occupation. The workers include individuals as young as ten years of age and as old as sixty-five and upward. Here is a glimpse of the great amount of child labor still employed in England and Wales, despite legislative restrictions:—

	13 to 14 Years.	15 to 17 Years.
Boy workers	218,995	830,457
Girl workers	182,493	660,560

Taking the children of ten, eleven and twelve years alone, we have a total of 2,623 earning their living, some of the occupations being:—

Boys.

Domestic service	318	Messengers	5,925
Navy	5	On farms	544
Actors	17	Newsboys	4,637
Vanboys	13	Toolmaking	65

Girls.

Domestic service	3,[illegible]	Messengers	160
Shirtmaking	[illegible]	Actresses	45
Tailoring	[illegible]	Farm work	71

The total number of women workers, including the girls quoted above, is 4,830,784, of whom 2,894,703 are unmarried women, over seventeen years of age. The workers also include 953,793 married women and 911,981 widows. The classification includes several hundred separate industries, and it is noteworthy that in only twenty-eight instances are the occupations followed exclusively by men.

So far as women are concerned they have only two occupations exclusively to themselves. These are daywomen, 34,004, and charwomen, 126,051. There are occupations in which they possess a predominance, however, while in many others they are keen competitors with the male army. Here are some illustrations:—

Among the curious occupations in which women are engaged are included three ministers, one salesman, three horsekeepers, 605 pilots and boatmen, forty-two coal heavers, six shepherds, two woodmen, four carpenters, fourteen bricklayers, 165 masons, eighty-six plumbers, three bayvies and 11,881 butchers and meat salesmen.

NEW CENSUS FIGURES SHOWS 13,000,000 JEWS IN THE WORLD

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, January 3.

IN the forthcoming issue of the "Jewish Year Book" the Rev. Isidore Harris, M. A., states that the number of Jews in the world now exceeds 13,000,000, made up as follows:—Europe, 9,950,775; Asia, 484,339; Africa, 404,826; America, 2,194,661; Australasia, 19,415; total, 13,052,946.

Previous estimates have been considerably below the actual figures, owing to the adoption of the 1897 census figures for Russia—5,215,805. The latest census returns for Russia are 6,984,415. Thus the vast exodus of Jews in recent times from the Czar's dominions has been more than offset by the internal growth of Russian Jewry.

A Remarkable Ghost Story from London Involving Vanishing Lady and Disturbed Soul.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

A WONDERFUL ghost story is agitating high society, according to the London Express. The principals are people of the highest social position.

The vicar of a Kensington church was leaving the church after choir practice when a lady stepped out of the aisle and asked him in agitated tones to come with her at once to an address near by.

"A gentleman is dying there," she said. "He is extremely concerned about the state of his soul and is anxious to see you before he dies."

The clergyman followed her to a waiting taxicab, and a short drive round the corner brought them to a mansion. The lady, who seemed to be extremely agitated, urged the vicar to hurry. He sprang out of the cab, rang the bell, and a butler appeared.

"Does Mr. —— live here?"

"Yes, sir."

"I hear he is seriously ill and has sent for me."

The butler opened astonished almost beyond words. He expostulated that his master was not ill, that as a matter of fact he was in the best of health.

"But this lady"—— exclaimed the vicar, and he turned round, and then an expression of blank astonishment came over him.

The taxicab and the lady had completely disappeared.

The butler looked on the clergyman as either a madman or a practical joker, and was about to slam the door when his master came along the passage and inquired what it was all about.

"Are you Mr. ——?" asked the clergyman. "I heard that you were seriously ill, that you were concerned about your soul, and that you had sent for me."

He described the lady who had brought him, and the "dying" man said he could not identify her, that he had no such friend or acquaintance. They discussed this matter on the doorstep for a few moments, and then the clergyman was invited to come inside.

"It is very strange," said Mr. ——, "that you should have been sent on such an errand in such a mysterious way. As a matter of fact, though I am perfectly well, I have been troubled lately about the state of my soul, and I have been seriously contemplating calling upon you to discuss the matter with you. Now that you are here let us brush aside this strange incident, and if you will give me the time we will discuss what lies both on my conscience."

The clergyman stayed for an hour or so, and it was then arranged that his new acquaintance should come to the church the next morning and they would continue their discussion after service. He left the vicar at the church, and the latter, very much interested, called to see what was the matter. He was met at the door by the butler, who told him that his master had died ten minutes after he left the house on the previous evening.

They went up stairs to the bedroom where the dead man lay, and on a table in the middle of the room stood a portrait of the lady who had brought the clergyman in the cab from the church.

"Who is that?" asked the astonished clergyman.

That, sir, replied the butler, "is my master's wife, who died fifteen years ago."

Big Real Estate Deal in London

Mr. Mallaby-Deeley, M. P., Purchases Huge Property for Price Said To Be $25,000,000.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

THE largest property deal ever carried out in connection with London has just been concluded by the purchase by Mr. Mallaby-Deeley, Unionist Member of Parliament for Harrow, from the Duke of Bedford of the whole of the Covent Garden estate.

No details are available regarding the exact price paid for the estate. It is understood, however, that it amounts to many millions, exceeding by millions any price previously given for a single property.

Unofficially, says the Daily Express, the price is stated to be at least £5,000,000.

The official announcement of the sale was made by Mr. Maurice F. Beadel, of the firm of Beadel, Wood & Co., surveyors and land agents, of Gresham street, E. C., in the following terms:—

"Mr. Mallaby-Deeley, M. P., for the Harrow division of Middlesex, has purchased the whole of the Duke of Bedford's Covent Garden estate, which includes such well known premises as Drury Lane Theatre, the Royal Opera House, the Waldorf Hotel, the Aldwych and Strand theatres, Bow Street Police Court, several well known printing offices, the National Sporting Club and Covent Garden Market. There is a box with a retiring room at the Royal Opera House, and also at Drury Lane Theatre and the Strand and Aldwych theatres.

"The property is situated in Aldwych, Bedford court, Bedford street, Bow street, Broad street, Burleigh street, Catherine street, Chandos street, Cross and Crown courts, Drury lane, Exeter street, Floral street, Garrick street, Henrietta street, James street, King street, Long Acre, Maiden lane, Martlett court, New street, Russell street, Southampton street, Tavistock street, Wellington street, York street.

"The estate, which is freehold, extends to about nineteen acres, and although the price is not stated, it represents the largest private purchase on record.

"Mr. Maurice F. Beadel, of the firm of Beadel, Wood & Co., acted as agent for the vendor, and Mr. F. Stanley May, of May & Rowden, acted as agent for Mr. Mallaby-Deeley."

Messrs. Beadel, Wood & Co. stated that no further particulars of the sale were available. "We cannot say anything about the price," said a member of the firm, "but you may take it that the sum represents millions of pounds. It must naturally do so. It is the largest deal in property on record."

The stupendous nature of the sale may be gauged from the fact that, taking the purchase price at £5,000,000, the conveyance duty to be represented by stamps on the deeds will amount to £50,000.

The Covent Garden estate, since the possession of the monks of Westminster, was granted by Henry VIII. to John, Kingston Russell, the founder of the fortunes of the family of the Duke of Bedford. At that time it is stated to have had a yearly value of £6 6s. 6d. In the current reference books the Duke is credited with possessing in all 6,325 acres of land.

Mr. Mallaby-Deeley, M.P., who is just verging on his fiftieth year, is a director of the Norwich Union Life Assurance Company.

Frenchman's Speed Bicycle

Cycle Freak Looks Like a Codfish, but It's a Marvel for Speed Riding.

(Special Dispatch.)
PARIS, January 3.

A FRENCH engineer has created revolution in push bicycle speed riding by the invention of a curious contrivance that overcomes the resistance of the air and permits of a bicyclist attaining wonderful pace.

It was used for the first time by Marcel Berthet at the Palais des Sports in Paris, and with its aid the bicyclist was able to create a world's record for an unpaced five kilomètres ride. A kilomètre is 1,093 yards, and five kilomètres is, roughly, equal to three and one-half miles. The speed works out, roughly, at thirty-two miles an hour.

The times were as follow:—

First kilomètre	1m. 16 2-5s.
Second "	2m. 33 4-5s.
Third "	3m. 51 4-5s.
Fourth "	4m. 29 2-5s.
Fifth "	5m. 4[illegible] 4-5s.

In an unpaced speed test Berthet also covered one kilomètre, from a standing start, in 1m. 16 2-5s., equalling the unpaced record made by the Dutch rider, Jaap Eden, at Bordeaux seventeen years ago. Berthet's best time for the same distance, from a flying start, was 1m. 7s., beating Perichot's unconfirmed record by 2 3-5s. and Dupre's recognized record, made at the Buffalo track two years ago, by 3 3-5s. Berthet's fastest lap of 333 mètres (276 yards) occupied 15 2-5s., a speed of about thirty-six and one-half miles per hour.

At the end of the ride Berthet descended from his machine without showing the slightest of distress.

The contrivance surrounding the bicycle is called the cycle-torpedo, and its inventor is M. Etienne Bremau-Varilla, who thought it out and constructed it while he was serving his time in the French army. In an interview he said he had to be as wily as the Indians to preserve the secret, and suffered many punishments for unlawful absences from his military duties due to his devotion to his "air cutter."

There is nothing intricate about the "carcase," which is in shape something like an elongated codfish, the front being of a blunt wedge shape.

The front part is made of sheets of thin celluloid, which is so transparent that the rider is enabled to see to the front and sides of him. The "carcase" is constructed on a very rigid curved wooden frame, which in its turn is fixed to the bicycle by iron arcons which make it a detachable part of the machine.

Price of Petrol Need Not Alarm

Article in the London Motor Says That Increase Predicted Is Not in Sight.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, January 3.

"WHAT discourages prospective buyers of automobiles immediately after the shows by unwarranted speculation about increases in the price of petrol?"

In a leading article in the Motor this attitude is pointedly brought out to demonstrate the effect of a recent article in the Daily Mail which referred to another increase as a likely New Year's gift for automobilists.

Inquiry by your correspondent here shows that nothing interests automobilists more than substantiated facts relative to the price of petrol, but that nothing is more annoying than mere speculation. None of the leading dealers of petrol have definite information of a coming increase, and the Anglo-American Oil Company denies any knowledge of it. The best summary of the situation is contained in the Motor, which in its issue published yesterday, states:—

"The daily press has been indulging in disquieting statements during the week respecting a problematic increase in the price of petrol, based upon the fact that certain contract prices are being increased.

"It should be shown that, while the large majority of the trade have been paying the increased prices, a number of old contracts at lower prices have recently expired, and naturally these have been renewed at the rate which has been current for some time. We have the authority of the two leading petrol importing companies for stating that, although increases have been made in these new contract prices, this fact does not necessarily imply that an increase to the ordinary consumer is contemplated. Of course, there can be no absolute certainty in a matter of this kind, and we can only repeat the assurances that have been given to us, admittedly in guarded terms, for what they are worth. Apart from whether there will or will not be a rise all regret, here is a distinct case where, as soon as the shows are over, and while many people may still be hesitating as to purchasing, the daily press steps in with its hasty conclusions and unsettling methods.

"At the present stage of metering a rise of 1d. per gallon will be a very serious matter for the motor industry, and we hope and believe we are right in saying that, although certain new contract prices have been introduced, there is no intention to interfere with the ruling prices of petrol to ordinary consumers."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

HIS SOCIAL EXPERIMENT

"Well, that spoils the evening for me," observed Strong, gloomily fingering a note which said that the grip would prevent a certain young lady from attending the opera that night. "Sorry Gladys is sick — so, confound it if I am! These eleventh-hour excuses are getting too frequent. I won't stand for it. I wonder if Elizabeth Miller will go," he mused, continuing his dressing. "What right has a girl to make a fellow miserable, anyhow? I — come in."

"And, here's your mendin', Mr. Howard," said the young woman who entered. She addressed him according to a custom in his family before the death of his parents had driven him into an apartment house, where he had found a position for the faithful servant.

"Thank you, Mary," said Strong, without pausing in his wrestling bout with a collar button. "Mary, I have a couple of extra tickets for the theatre to-night. Can't you get Pat to take you?"

"It's always Pat you're a-teasin' me about, Mr. Howard, and there ain't a Pat — not for me. I ain't pretty enough, and then I'm 35. Sure, it's many a year since I've seen a theatre. All our money goes to the doctor. I'd have to go alone."

"No, Mary, you must not be neglected in that fashion," he said, turning abruptly from the mirror. "Let me be Pat to-night."

"Oh, Mr. Howard, I couldn't—it wouldn't—no, sir. Oh, Mr. Howard, it's jokin' you are, after all," she exclaimed, as a smile spread over his face."

"No, Mary, I never was more serious in my life. I am going to give you, Mary McGinnis, the best time of your life. Put on your best bonnet and be ready by a quarter to eight. You live at—"

"On Third Avenue, 2736, back, three flights up. But, Mr. Howard—"

"No excuse, Mary. Now good-by, or we'll both be late."

Throughout dinner at the club that night Strong's face repeatedly relaxed at the oddity of his experiment. Its unconventionality did not worry him, for the wealth and social position of the Strongs put him beyond the sting of criticism.

"Opera to-night, Strong?" drawled young Castlewood, whom he particularly disliked, dropping into a vacant seat.

"No; had planned to surprise Gladys Hastings with that new play—Manton's—for a change, but she's sick. However—"

"Well, you needn't waste any time asking Elizabeth Miller," laughed Castlewood, "for I'm going to take her myself."

"Oh, don't worry," replied Strong, nettled.

"No offence, old man; knew you were inclined in that direction, though between two fires at present. But by the way," he added, aiming a parting thrust, "I hear that Count de Migny arrived here to-day, en route for San Francisco. Guess you've heard Gladys speak of him. Keep your eye on him. He's a clever chap."

"Smooth might better describe him. I know absolutely that he's a bogus," replied Strong.

"Oh, have it your way," drawled Castlewood, departing. Strong was between two fires, and knowing it, resented all the more these insinuations. Which disturbed him the more, the thought of Castlewood's recent marked attention to Elizabeth or the arrival of the count? He could not determine.

At first Mary was ill at ease that night with Strong, the luxurious carriage, his evening dress and polished manners being strange to her, but his geniality soon put her at ease. On the way he stopped at a florist's.

"These violets are for you, Mary, and the roses for another nice young lady who is ill," he explained.

"Thanks, Mr. Howard, and it's the lady with the beautiful eyes that is sick? Oh, I am so sorry," she exclaimed.

"Yes, she has beautiful eyes, Mary, but where did you see her?"

"At the tea you gave in your apartments last year. She thinks everything of you, Mr. Howard. I could see that plain, and if she grows up to be as fine looking as her mother, why, you'll—you'll—"

"But her mother was not there," he said, coming to her rescue.

"Oh yes, she kept saying Elizabeth this and Elizabeth that. She—"

"But I'm not talking about Elizabeth. These flowers are for Miss Hastings, the girl with the heavy auburn hair," replied Strong, amused.

"Oh, I remember her," she said, disappointedly. "I'm so sorry. I thought it was—I mean—oh, I don't know what I mean. I'm an old goose, Mr. Howard," she finally exclaimed, much distressed.

They were now at the Hastings', where Strong had ordered the coachman to stop.

"How is Miss Hastings?" Strong inquired at the door.

"Why—why—oh, she's better," replied the well-drilled man, recovering himself. Strong left the flowers and returned to the carriage with strange misgivings.

Strong did not heed the many wondering glances his friends cast in his direction that night, for he was doing his best to make it a red-letter occasion for Mary. Moreover, he was having a heart-to-heart talk with himself, in which two young women prominently figured. What Mary said and did in a situation new to her is another story, but when it was over she sighed as if waking from a beautiful dream.

"Hello, Strong, got here after all, I see," came to his hears as they were entering the foyer. Turning, he saw Castlewood with Elizabeth Miller.

"How are you, Elizabeth?" he inquired. "Miss Miller, let me present Miss McGinnis." Castlewood, gazing in wonder, forgot to bow, but Elizabeth greeted Mary cordially. It was a friend of Strong's. That was sufficient for her. Soon they passed on.

"Oh, Mr. Howard! That's the girl with the beautiful eyes," exclaimed Mary. "Ain't she handsome, though! And you don't care—you——"

"I haven not said I didn't care, Mary," he said, simply, but earnestly.

"And, oh, Mr. Howard, there is the girl with the auburn hair, too!" she interrupted. "Why, I thought she was the sick one."

"Gladys Hastings!" involuntarily came to his lips, as he followed Mary's gaze. In a moment he was opposite her and their eyes had met.

"Oh, Howard—I—I—I thought we—I thought you were going to the opera," she exclaimed in confusion. "You see," the count came, and I was so much better I couldn't disappoint him, as he is here in New York only for one evening. But, pardon—let me present Mr. Strong — Count de Migny." And then her eyes wandered haughtily to Mary.

"And let me introduce the Duchess of Kilkenny — Miss Hastings and Count de Migny," said Strong gravely, though smiling inwardly. The count's French manners brought forth a low bow, while Gladys scarcely nodded.

"And wasn't that the girl?" asked the mystified Mary when they were in the carriage.

"Yes," Strong replied, but he was silent for a long time.

"She was so uppish to me," Mary finally ventured, "while Miss Miller treated me as if I was a real lady."

"And you are, Mary; a thousand times the lady that some one thinks she is,' he said seriously.

"But why do you call me duchess?"

"That was a little joke on the bogus count," he replied, his face relaxing. "That will make both of them think a bit. But here we are at your home. And you say your father is too ill to work, and support the family? Well, you are a noble girl, and I dont half appreciate the way you look after me and my apartments," he said, as he assisted her from the carriage and slipped a $50 bill into her hand.

"Thanks, Mr. Howard," she said, gratefully, thinking it was her monthly tip of $5. "This will help father a lot. Mr. Howard, you've given me the best time I ever had. I —"

"Tut, tut, Mary. It's been a selfish pleasure with me, I fear. I took you as an experiment, and a lucky one it's proved. You have helped to open my eyes to the true woman—the woman of my heart. I can never forget that. Good night."

Listen!

Have you heard about Pepo?

Pepo is a new scientific preparation put up into tabloid or pastille form, which provides an entirely new and effective treatment for coughs, colds and lung and throat troubles.

There is no connection between the lungs and the stomach.

Suppose something were wrong with your stomach—say indigestion, or ulceration—would you think of taking some medicine which went—not to your stomach, but to your lungs? Certainly not!

Why then, when your lungs and chest are affected, should you dose your stomach—an absolutely separate organ—with medicine? Is it not far better to treat the ailing organ direct?

Pepo provide a direct treatment for coughs, colds, bronchitis, and all lung, chest and throat troubles. Pepo contain highly medicinal essences and pine extracts condensed into tablet form. You put a Pepo on your tongue, and as it slowly dissolves, these volatile essences turn into vapor.

You BREATHE the remedy to your sore ailing lungs direct—not swallow it to your stomach, which is not ailing. (See diagram.) The healing fumes, thus breathed down, bathe the delicate, inflamed membranes of your breathing-tubes and pass right on to the tiny passages of the lungs—a course no liquid or solid medicine could possibly take.

Pepo fumes are healing and antiseptic. They heal sore tissue and kill disease germs. Pepo bring pine-forest fumes to your home, instead of you going to the pine forest!

For that cold, that night cough, that touch of bronchitis, don't dose your stomach! The trouble lies in your lungs. Pepo go to the lungs direct and will cure you.

The Fez in the Orient.

The fez or tarbush is limited by no considerations of nationality or faith. It is the almost universal head covering of the eastern and southern lands of the Mediterranean and has been widely distributed in the still active diffusion of Mohammedanism. This type of felt hat without brim is of the utmost antiquity and seems to have undergone no marked change save the tassel from the early monumental record of the Euphrates valley. The designation fez, comparatively modern in its application, derives from the oasis of that name, which was long considered the only source of dyestuffs which could give the peculiar shade of red most favored.

Old World Canals.

China has led the world in the matter of canal making, and to this day stands first among the nations for the skillful utilization of her inland waterways. One great canal maintains communication between Peking and Canton, a distance of 1,200 miles, and the total extent of the canals of China is over 5,000 miles. Russia owns the longest canal in the world, extending from St. Petersburg to the Chinese frontier, a distance of 4,472 miles, and also the second longest, covering 1,434 miles, between Astrakhan and St. Petersburg. As regards numbers of separate canals, Holland claims precedence, but her total mileage of inland waterways is only 930 miles.

Mexico's Oldest Theatre.

The oldest theatre in Mexico, and indeed the oldest on this continent, is the Teatro Principal of the City of Mexico. There is nothing particularly distinctive about its architecture to testify as to its antiquity, however, for its two stories of repaired facade covered over with lurid posters corresponds in general style to the other playhouses of the city. Then, too, there is a certain animation about the crowds that pass in and out the entrance that is somewhat misleading to those on the outlook for the relics of the past.

SAVAGE PAPUA.

Some of the Primitive Customs In a Little Known Territory.

Mr. W. N. Beaver, resident magistrate in the Western Division of New Guinea, who is now in England on leave, has some interesting things to tell about recent exploration in Papua. Mr. Beaver has been nine years in New Guinea, and for the past five years has been in charge of the Western District, comprising some 90,000 square miles and extending to the boundary of Dutch New Guinea.

Two of the most interesting expeditions in which he has taken part were to the Girara country, which for three parts of the year is almost entirely submerged. The inhabitants are practically unknown, and in their ceremonies and customs are quite distinct from other New Guinea natives. The expedition was despatched to punish the people for a number of murders committed in an inter-tribal raid.

In conversation with Reuter's representative Mr. Beaver gave some interesting particulars of these people, who, he said, claim descent from a dog. They possess five totems, which are drawn on all their houses. Their villages are erected on hillocks so as to be clear of the water, and the people of each village inhabit one large common house, sometimes as much as 400 to 500 feet long and 60 to 80 feet in width.

A great deal of sorcery prevails in the Western Division. In the wilder parts of the country the chief is himself a head sorcerer. He claims to be able to separate his spirit from his body and to send it on various missions, including that of killing people. Quite recently a number of sorcerers went by night to the house of a native, on whom they cast a spell by pointing at him a human bone. They murdered their victim, and after his burial dug up the grave, eating portions of the body for purposes of sorcery.

Notwithstanding the great care taken by the Government cannibalism still exists, and Mr. Beaver narrates that on several occasions he has come upon the scene of a cannibal feast with remains of human flesh lying around. In every case the actual murderers had decamped on the approach of the constabulary.

It is the custom to cut off the head, arms, and legs of the bodies of the victims, the most prized morsel for purposes of cannibalism being the legs.

The vendetta prevails wherever the Government has not full control. One particular tribe, called the Bina, takes two sets of arms and heads for every one of their tribe who has been killed. Among the Roussel islanders artificial smothering is the usual form of murder, but this has been gradually stamped out by the Government.

Women's Rights In Roumania.

All the rights for which the women of the west have striven so long are in the hands of the Roumanians, says a writer in a German contemporary. Though they are too luxury-loving and too idle ever to exert themselves very much, they are free to earn their living by any profession they care to exercise. All higher educational organisations are at their disposal. The universities are open, and their choice of a career is not dependent on the caprice of any professor. They are at liberty to practice as doctors or lawyers, they may be chemists or dispensers, they may hold official appointments, and married and single alike are eligible for posts as teachers in schools.

Modern Life Too Risky!

Is life being made so needlessly risky that some of our habits are testing their vitality and usefulness? was the question suggested by Sir Gilbert Parker in an address at the Post-Graduate College of the West London Hospital.

A great many accidents, he said, were due to limited and inadequate observation. He knew a chauffeur who could see very well ahead of him, but if he wanted to see right or left he had to turn his head to the right or left.

Every one knew that the trained and educated eye could see right or left without turning the head. It seemed to him that the very nervous excitement of the age was due not to the many stirring noises of the great city life, but to the fact that to the senses was given too little responsibility or rather less responsibility than in olden days.

Something ought to be done, if he were right. He believed that the Boy Scout movement was a step in the right direction. He should like to add to the Boy Scout training bladefoid observation. Boys and girls should be let loose in fields and streets, under guidance, to feel and hear their way and memorize what they heard or felt.

Home Rule In One Place.

One portion of Ireland already enjoys complete Home Rule. The inhabitants of Inishmurry, an island off the coast of Sligo, have for many years defied collectors of both rates and taxes. There is no direct communication with the island, and in a report made to the Local Government Board in 1911 it was stated that the rate collector could find no boatmen bold enough to take him across. Some years previously two rate collectors who tried to land in Inishmurry were driven off with stones. The population, which consists of about 14 families, is said to be a happy community. One of the islanders acts as a ruler and settles any disputes that arise, but these are rare. Every summer a priest visits Inishmurry to conduct marriages, and during the rest of the year the islanders hold service among themselves every Sunday.

WOMAN'S HAIR REACHES TO KNEES

A Year Ago Was Threatened With Baldness. Tells How She Made Her Hair Grow.

Mrs. Esther Emery, now visiting friends in the city, is the fortunate possessor of marvellously beautiful hair, which, when loosened from its coils, falls to her knees. Moreover it is of soft, silky and fluffy texture and in colour a glorious glossy gold. Yet just one year ago she was thoroughly bald with baldness. Urged to tell how she had obtained this wonderful growth in so short a time, she said: "Had anyone told me such marvellous results ought to be accomplished so quickly, I positively would not have believed it. Twelve months ago my hair, which had rubbed barely to my shoulders, was falling out at an alarming rate and growing very thin, actually exposing the bald scalp in several spots. It was dull and lifeless in colour, turning grey in patches, and very dry and brittle. My head was covered with dandruff and itched like mad all the time. I tried fully a dozen different hair tonics, but they were all the same and never did me a bit of good. One day I chanced to read in my home paper of a simple home preparation to make the hair grow that was recommended by a well known physician. It said that by taking ordinary Lavona de Compose and mixing with Bay Rum and Menthol Crystals and applying to the scalp each night with the finger tips that new hair would grow very rapidly. I decided to try it, and I had my druggist mix 2 oz. of the Lavona de Compose with 6 oz. of Bay Rum and ½ drachm of Menthol Crystals, and started to use it. First the hair stopped falling, he itching ceased and the dandruff disappeared. Then tiny little hairs appeared all over my scalp. These grew and grew as though nothing would ever stop them. They are growing yet, and while, of course, I have used the treatment steadily and expect to continue it, at least until my hair reaches the floor, I might have stopped and been perfectly satisfied at the end of three months. I think that any woman can get long, thick, beautiful hair by using this prescription, as I have recommended it to several friends and all are delighted with the result. The prescription is very inexpensive and any druggist can fill it.

EVERYTHING WAS CHEAP.

Just Imagine Buying a Whole Sheep For 10 Cents.

A countryman living just beyond the outskirts of London drove to the metropolis one day to order a few provisions, etc.

(By the way, this account is perfectly true. It is not a problem or a joke. The prices stated can be verified.)

The countryman first went to the nearest cobbler's. There he bought a good pair of shoes. Not shoddy foot wear, carelessly turned out or even machine made, but hand sewed and of fine, strong leather. For this pair of shoes he paid just 7 cents.

Next he drove to a butcher stall in Smithfield. There he bought a sheep, a dozen chickens and ten pounds of beef. For the sheep he paid 10 cents. For the chickens he paid 1½ cents apiece or 18 cents for the dozen. The ten pounds of beef cost him a nickel. For beef was half a cent a pound.

Stowing away his purchases in his big wagon, the farmer next stopped at a fish stall, where for 10 cents he bought twenty-five big codfish.

His visit to the grain merchant cost him more. For he was forced to pay 15 cents for a bushel of rye—a sum out of all proportion to his earlier purchases. It was cheaper, you see, to buy meat than the rye bread to eat it with.

But his ensuing trip to the draper's for enough homespun cloth to provide him with a winter suit stoned for the high price of the grain. For he found that the stout homespun cloth was selling at 12 cents an ell, or 9-5 cents a yard.

The farmer had no trouble in carrying his wares home in his wagon. For the wagon was large. He had driven it to London full of firewood, and this wagon load of wood he had sold for 12 cents.

The foregoing prices are all accurate. The high cost of living had not yet hit England. For, you see, all this happened several years ago.

In fact, it was at the beginning of the sixteenth century.—New York World.

Premier Whitney Had Restful Day, Says Dr. Pyne

IS DELIRIOUS AT TIMES

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—"Sir James P. Whitney spent a restful day at the Manhattan Hotel, where he has lain ill for the past three weeks. He slept a good portion of the time, and while he had lapses, on the whole he had one of the best days he has spent since the heart trouble showed its effects."

This was the statement made last night by Dr. R. A. Pyne, the Minister of Education, who has been with the Ontario Premier throughout his illness. The fact that both Dr. Pyne and Horace Wallis, the Premier's secretary, went out during the evening, added to the effect of their words.

"He was his old self for a time to-day," remarked Dr. Pyne in discussing his chief. "He has periods when he is somewhat delirious, but on the whole, throughout the day he rested comfortably. I have seen worse cases of cardiac trouble come out all right. The age of the Premier, however, is what makes his condition more precarious."

When asked whether he could indicate any approximate time for the Premier's return home, Dr. Pyne refused to make any definite statement. He added, however, that he would be disappointed if Sir James did not show some improvement within a few days, and he hoped to be able to accompany him home to Toronto.

Besides the lapses into delirium the distinguished patient has periods of coma. Both Dr. Pyne and Dr. Herman Biggs, the specialist who has been called into the case, agree that while the Ontario Premier's condition is serious it is not at the present moment critical.

During the day Dr. Herman Biggs, eminent nerve specialist, said the Premier's condition was "serious but not critical."

Sunday night he had short periods of delirium, alternating with periods of coma and intervals when he recognized those about his bedside. When he awoke yesterday morning he asked where he was, and after a time understood the situation. Later he lapsed into a half stupor.

Hon. Dr. Pyne gave out a statement yesterday that Sir James' illness was the result of heart strain, due to nervous breakdown from overwork and that he had no organic malady.

DANDRUFF, FALLING HAIR, ITCHY SCALP, END THIS AT ONCE—25 CENT DANDERINE

Girls! Girls! Save Your Hair! Make it Grow Luxuriant and Beautiful

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?

LABORITES AT OTTAWA.

Deputation Seeks Changes In Lemieux Act.

OTTAWA, Jan. 6.—Premier Borden was encouraging but, on the whole, rather non-committal in his reply to a labor deputation which waited upon him yesterday, stating that the Government desired more information upon the points raised.

The delegation requested amendment to the Lemieux Industrial Disputes Act to offset the decision of the Court of Review in the Montreal tramways case to the effect that a discharged employe is not competent to apply for a board under the act. It is desired to make the Minister of Labor the absolute authority and to prevent the interference of courts in industrial disputes.

Another request was that the fair wage clause in Government contracts be extended to provide a penalty for employers who violate them. With regard to the immigration act an amendment was asked to make it impossible for employers in time of labor troubles, to loan money to immigrants.

Legislation was also asked to give effect to the report of the Technical Education Commission to make Dominion election day a public holiday and to abolish the deposit required of candidates, while the request was renewed for an eight-hour-day on all public work.

The appointment of a royal commission to investigate conditions of steel and coal workers in the Maritime Provinces was asked.

Teeth of the Muskellunge.

Along toward the middle of July a curious thing happens to the muskellunge. His teeth fall out. A sort of piscatorial Rigg's disease seems to attack him. Naturally, he loses flesh in the toothless season, and his inability to enjoy any of the good things that swim about him increases the savagery of his temper.

With the coming of September he has cut an entire new set of teeth, and they are like knife blades set up on edge in his jaws. Then he takes on new vigor, voraciousness and aggressiveness, with the memory of weeks of pentup fury and unappeased appetite to avenge. And then comes the angler's best opportunity with him.—Detroit Free Press.

Plant Closes Down.

OTTAWA, Jan. 6.—After operating in an extensive way since 1901 and giving employment to as many as 300 employes at different intervals and never less than about 150, the International Marine Signal Co. of Ottawa, closed down its plant yesterday, and, if reports are correct, it will not reopen for business here.

Just before Christmas all the men who were employed by the company were laid off and told to return to work yesterday morning. They did so and were surprised to learn from the manager that the works have been closed indefinitely.

Uprising in Ecuador Checked.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Jan. 6.—A plot to attack the barracks at Guayaquil Sunday night, was discovered by the Government in time to prevent a serious situation. A group of revolutionists under Col. Valle Franco was surprised while making preparations. The leader was killed and the members of the group were dispersed. Troops patrolled the city during the night in fear of disorders.

Several Government officials who were involved in the rebel campaign in Esmeraldas have been brought here under arrest. They will be court-martialled.

Origin of a Famous Hymn.

It seems to be a very solid fact that the poet Cowper, author of the hymn "God Moves In a Mysterious Way," attempted suicide—not only once, but several times. In fact, the popular hymn referred to was written right after one of such attempts. The driver whom he had engaged to take him to the river in which he had purposed drowning himself, being suspicious of his customer's intention, drove him around in the closed carriage and finally set him down at his own door. Stepping out, and finding the old familiar scenes, the poet, now repentant, rushed into the house and instantly composed the immortal hymn—"God Moves In a Mysterious Way His Wonders to Perform."—New York American.

A Common Center.

"It makes no difference how irregularly objects are arranged, their combined influence at their force center is spherical."

This is a fundamental fact of the entire sidereal structure. Millions upon millions of suns and worlds flying in all directions as seen in a swarm or moving in cosmic streams and as current of stars, act by means of universal gravitation precisely as though they were all condensed into a gigantic globe at their common center of gravity.—Edgar Lucien Larkin in New York American.

Daudet's Romance.

The novelist, Alphonse Daudet, had determined to remain a bachelor, because he was afraid that if he made a wrong step in marriage he might dull his imagination. He has given expression to his fear in the "Femmes d'Artistes" and more particularly in the tale "Madame Heurtbise," with which the volume opens. But, on being introduced to Mlle. Julie Allard, who loved literature and was herself a charming writer and critic, his fear was removed. The union proved a very happy one, and the picture of the two at work is an attractive bit of biography.

Once, it is related, he had a sentimental and dramatic scene with his wife, concerning which he remarked: "This seems, my dear, like a chapter that has slipped out of a novel."

"It is more likely, Alphonse," was the reply, "to form a chapter that will slip into one!"

METEORIC SHOWERS.

Why They Have Little or No Effect Upon the Earth's Balance.

In answer to the query, "The earth is held in its orbit by the absolute balance of centripetal and centrifugal forces, and if the balance were disturbed the earth should fly away into space or fall to the sun, yet this balance is continually disturbed by meteors and other causes and no catastrophe occurs; please explain," Edgar Lucien Larkin, in the New York American, says:

"There is no centrifugal force as such in nature. What so appears is reaction against gravity due to the motion of the earth. Inertia, an inherent property of all matter, would forever maintain a moving body in an absolutely straight line in its original direction unless some outside force draws it aside. The direction of drawing aside is always toward the outside disturbing matter—the sun in this case. And the earth thus continually falls from a straight line—a tangent—to its orbit through a distance of one-ninth of an inch during each second.

"If gravitation should suddenly be annihilated the earth would fly away on a straight line into space. But should a trillion tons of meteors suddenly fall on the earth it would not fall to the sun, but would still revolve around it much faster on a smaller orbit. The year would be shorter. And the new orbit assumed would be determined in space by the equilibrium of central gravitation and the reaction of inertia of the earth against it. But since the setting up of the grand master clock in Greenwich no variation of the length of the sidereal year has been detected. Therefore the mass of all the millions of meteors falling on the earth daily is too small to have any appreciable effect on the length of the year."

Queer Bridge Foundation.

At the little town of Wadebridge, Cornwall, England, there is a bridge of a unique character. Owing to the strength of the current ordinary stone foundations would not hold, and numerous devices were tried without success. Eventually bags of wool were sunk in the stream and the piles driven in, and this strange foundation has proved wonderfully firm and satisfactory.

Belated Discovery.

"My dear," said Mr. Bickers to his wife, "I saw in the papers today a decision of a court that the wife may in some cases be the head of the family."

"John Henry," replied Mrs. Bickers "the courts are sometimes very slow in finding out things."—Puck.

Had a Good Excuse.

"They were next door neighbors for years, and yet they never spoke."

"That's the way with people in city life."

"There was some excuse in this case. The prison rules forbade talking."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Ending the Argument.

"Briggs called me a liar."

"Didn't you deny it?"

"Yes, and he said that proved that I was."—Boston Transcript.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and neutralize irritating acids

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then get normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

CATTLE MARKETS

TORONTO, Jan. 5.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Yards were 128 carloads, comprising 2024 cattle, 1500 hogs, 668 sheep and lambs and 92 calves.

Butchers.—Choice steers sold at $8.75 to $9.00; choice heifers, $8.25 to $8.50; good steers and heifers, $8 to $8.25; medium steers and heifers, $7.25 to $7.75; common, $6.75 to $7.25; choice cows, $6.75 to $7.25; good cows, $6.50 to $6.75; medium cows, $5 to $5.25; common cows, $3.75 to $4.50; bulls, common to choice, $4.50 to $7.

There was a limited number of stockers and feeders, which sold at firm prices. Choice heavy steers were reported as selling at $8.50 to $7; good, $8 to $8.50; stockers at $5 to $6.75.

Milkers and Springers.

A limited number of milkers and springers sold at $54 to $85; better quality would have sold at higher prices.

Veal Calves.

Receipts were light, 93 all told, and prices were all strong as ever. Choice veals, $10 to $11; good, $9 to $10; medium, $7.50 to $8.50; common, $6 to $7; eastern rough quality calves, $5 to $6.75.

Sheep and Lambs.

Sheep, ewes, $6.50 to $6.75; culls and rams, $5.50 to $6.00; lambs sold at $8.75 to $9, and one or two choice lots light weights, sold at $9.12½ to $9.25.

Hogs.

Selects, fed and watered, sold at $9 to $9.05.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, Jan. 5.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market the offerings today amounted to 500 cattle, 400 sheep and lambs, 1700 hogs and 100 calves.

There was no improvement in the trade in cattle today owing to the fact that packers and butchers generally have carried over fair stocks from the holiday trade, consequently the demand was very limited and the market dull. The supply was somewhat larger than expected and in excess of requirements, and an easier feeling prevailed. Prices declined 25c per 100 pounds, but even at this reduction the few buyers present showed no disposition to operate anyway freely. The demand from American buyers for stock for shipment to the United States has ceased for the present on account of the higher prices ruling.

The trade in small meats was also quiet, but the tone of the market was firm on account of the limited supply offered. Choice lots of western lambs sold at $9 to $9.05, but mixed lots of early medium quality were disposed of at $8.50 to $8.75, while ewes almost brought $6.50 to $6 per 100 pounds. The trade in calves was slow, as the quality of the stock offered was poor. Owing to the limited supply of hogs coming forward, the undertone to the market is strong, but prices show no actual change as compared with a week ago. The demand from packers was good, and sales of selected lots were made at $8.75, and straights lots at $8.50 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars. Further supplies of hogs are expected from the Canadian Northwest later in the week, which shippers are making considerable money on, as prices here are much higher than in the Winnipeg market.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $6.50 to $6.75; [illegible]

[illegible] to $7.50; common to [illegible] $7.25; milkers, choice, each, $90 to $95; do., common and medium, each, $30 to $65; springers, $70 to $75.

Sheep, ewes, $5.50 to $6; bucks and culls, $5 to $5.25; lambs, $8.50 to $9.25.

Hogs, f.o.b., $8.50 to $8.75.

Calves, $3 to $10.

THE BRITISH NAVY PROGRAMME

Special Wire to The Examiner.

LONDON, ENG., Jan. 6.— (Special cable.)—The Morning Post to-day, in a significant news paragraph, declares that out of all the comment on British government debate on the question of naval expenditure increases, will come this important development that the Admiralty will further accelerate the building of next year's ships or direct the addition of three more dreadnoughts expected to be laid down this year. The Morning Post tries to point out that even if the British government has to provide for three missing Canadian ships, it will be making no infraction of the liberal pledges or really any material change in the liberal programme. In the meantime Lloyd George, who is supposed to be leading the naval expenditure, cutting the faction of the Liberal party, is holidaying in the North African desert somewhere, and nothing has been heard from him for several days.

RETURNS WERE RECEIVED AT THE CITY HALL

Battery of Telephones Was Pressed Into Service and Manned by Competent Staff

A FEW SIDELIGHTS

It was in the committee room of the civic stone pile at the corner of Simcoe and Water streets, that the official returns were received. A battery of telephones manned by a competent staff, received the results in the presence of both victor and vanquished. His Worship Mayor Bradburn was early on the scene. He was quickly followed by Wm. Buller, Mayor elect, J. B. McWilliams, defeated candidate for Water Commissioner, and Fire Chief Howard, whose chief interest was centred in the motor truck by-law.

A Foregone Conclusion.

The issue for the Mayoralty, Water Commissioner, and the by-laws, was a foregone conclusion, twenty minutes after the first poll was received. The Mayoralty came first and was quickly followed by the vote for Water Commissioner. The Board of Education and the By-laws came last, and it was nine o'clock before the final return was recorded.

The Centre Ward Aldermanic contest was a doubtful issue up until a late hour. It was first announced that Mr. H. P. Morgan was the successful candidate by the small margin of a half a dozen votes. A few corrections, that were received later, placed Mr. A. H. Stratton in the lead with a majority of three votes. This was confirmed this morning by the official count.

Election Was Assured.

Alderman Buller's election was assured with the first half dozen returns that were received. The Mayor-elect was on the job early and stayed late. He shook hands with everybody in sight and then retired into the City Treasurer's office, where, with a number of colleagues, a discussion on civic affairs was indulged in.

Hydro—Johnston was there with the beaming smile. His dexter was working overtime in an effort to keep pace with the congratulations that were showered upon him. It is altogether probable that Alderman Johnston will again head the Power Committee of the City Council. While Alderman Duncan is looked upon as a likely candidate for the chairmanship of the Board of Works.

CHARGE WAS NOT PROVED

Accusation Against East City Man Was Dismissed by Magistrate Dumble

In this morning's police court, an East City man, who is on the blacklist, was charged with being drunk. He pleaded "not guilty," and after hearing the evidence offered, the Magistrate dismissed the charge against him.

The accused man's wife testified that on Dec. 23rd he abused her, and on another occasion he raised a terrible disturbance, throwing the furniture around. One night a friend had called and gave him liquor.

In the witness box the defendant said that the day before he was put on the blacklist a friend called on him and gave him a drink. Since that time he had not had a drink of liquor.

The charge was dismissed.

MAYOR-ELECT BULLER THE MAN OF THE HOUR

Elected by Splendid Majorities Over Geo. A. Gillespie and J. J. Hartley--Takes Up Administration of Peterborough's Affairs at an Important Period in City's Development.

OVERWHELMED WITH CONGRATULATIONS

William H. Buller was elected Mayor of Peterborough yesterday with a majority of 560 over George A. Gillespie, and 611 ahead of J. J. Hartley.

The 1913 chairman of the Board of Works will guide the city's affairs from the red plush chair in the Council Chambers, and in the quiet of his office will listen to the grievances to which the Mayor-elect is always heir.

The morning after found Mayor Buller wearing the broad smile with which he greeted the citizens last night. He was a trifle wearied and his right arm worked almost aptomatically as the result of the congratulations showered upon him through the medium of hearty handclasps.

"I haven't had time to think about anything yet," he told The Examiner, "but there is no hurry for a day or two. We will get going in a short time and in the meanwhile I will have an opportunity of preparing for the year's work."

Mayor Buller was delighted with the support he received from every section of the city. He tried to acknowledge every compliment that was directed toward him in the hour of his triumph.

The first report from Sub-division No. 8, was simply a forerunner of the grand total. While the numbers were small, friends of the other candidates hoped that subsequent polls would be more favourable. But they simply boosted the majority for the new Mayor and within an hour the result was a foregone conclusion.

Has Much Work To Do.

Mayor Buller takes up the reins of civic government at a time when there is much work to be done. There are expenditures that can scarcely be avoided, and opposed to this there is a tacit demand for retrenchment. His Worship is confronted with the management of a growing city and all that is entailed there in on the one hand, and on the other, a general desire that the screws be put on the taxes and clamped down at the present figure if they cannot be compressed.

CAMPAIGN WAS CREDIT TO TRIO

The municipal elections, like all elections, were bitter, sweet—bitter to the disappointed, sweet to the successful. The contests for the various positions, especially the more important ones, were vigorously waged, and it is a pleasure to be able to record the fact that, generally speaking, they were cleanly carried on. Personalities, invective, underhand tactics were the rare exception. As far as can be seen or learned, our municipal elections were clean. This is a good mark for Peterborough in an age when other methods are so largely practised. It is to be hoped that the character of the contest that give us our representatives is a forecast of as clean and honest, and above-board administration.

PREMIER IS HOLDING HIS OWN TO-DAY

Has Been No Change for Better or for Worse Since His Sinking Spell on Sunday

THE SITUATION TO-DAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—"Holding his own," describes the condition of Sir James Whitney, to-day. The issue still wavers in the balance. He is resting quietly and no changes for the worse or for the better have been apparent since the sinking spell on Sunday, which caused such alarm. No changes are expected before to-morrow morning. The patient passed a comfortable night and has been resting all day in much the same state as yesterday. Dr. Herman Biggs, a noted specialist, paid his usual morning visit and issued his usual bulletin. He will not give fuller details until the condition of the patient changes sufficiently to give him grounds for definite prediction. In the meantime the lack of news may be taken as good news. Rumours of the death of the Premier may be discounted. The moment any change in his condition, whether for better or worse, occurs, the Premier's Secretary, Mr. A. F. Wallis, will send telegrams to Hon. J. J. Foy, acting premier, and the representative of this paper will send the dash over its leased wire at once.

COUNTERFEITERS ARE ARRESTED

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 6. — After flooding Western Ontario with spurious half-dollars, a counterfeiting gang was arrested at the C. P. R. station at noon to-day. Valentine Phillips, aged 24, an electrician; Fred. Sutherland, aged 20, a carpenter, and Esther Sutherland, aged 20, all believed to be from Toronto, composed the gang. In their possession was found a complete counterfeiting outfit for the manufacture of Canadian "Halfs". This morning was the first time the gang had attempted to unload here. The police were notified and they arrested all three in the stores here. According to the police they are "Fly by nights," manufacturing their coins as they go.

George Street Epworth League

Held a Christian Endeavour Meeting—Instructive Paper by Mrs. Shields

The George Street Church Epworth League held a Christian Endeavour meeting on Monday evening. Over one hundred members and friends were in attendance. An excellent paper, entitled "Looking Forward," was read by Mrs. Shields, who enumerated five points, constituting a good Christian, namely, contentment, cheerfulness, energy, character and, above all, Godliness. The paper was well received and many of the leaguers expressed their desire to hear Mrs. Shields more often than they do.

A short address and review was given by the pastor, Rev. R. G. Peever. A number of the members gave a short testimony during the roll call, and the meeting closed at a late hour with the manifest opinion that each and every member had derived considerable benefit by being present.

On Monday evening next a missionary meeting will be held, when all members are requested to be present and bring a friend if possible.

SHOT DEAD BY BURGLAR

Special Wire to The Examiner:

WINNIPEG, Jan. 6.—Alex. Holbee, 27, an automobile student at the local school, was shot dead at five o'clock this morning just outside his rooming house on Mountain Avenue. He was awakened at five by burglars in the house, jumped out of bed, rushed to the front door and outside, where burglars waited for him and fired a shot into his neck. There is no clue to the murderer.

Parade, Headed by Band, Through Main Street—Mayor-Elect Buller Addressed the People.

OTHER VISITORS SPOKE

The Mayoralty parade last night broke a long spell of civic quietness and afforded the populace a chance to test their vocal chords, contracted by prolonged desuetude. Friends of victor and vanquished joined in the spirit of the hour with the Mayor's followers, naturally attempting notes in the higher register.

When the half-way totals handed with assurance the honours to Mayor Buller, his friends waited no longer. The Maple Leaf Band was marshalled, several hacks were commissioned, and up Edison Lane started the procession to the air of "See the Conquering Hero Comes."

In the leading carriage were Mayor-elect Buller, Mayor Bradburn, Ald. Johnston, Ald. Duffus, Mrs. Jas. Edgar and Mr. Wm. Lyttle. The last two gentlemen nominated the successful candidate.

George street was packed with humanity, at least long sections of it were crowded to the limit. Through this concourse tooted the band and bowed the successful candidates. It was an old time celebration with the citizens honouring three whom they had chosen from their own ranks.

Several Speeches.

Mayor-elect Buller made a brief address in front of The Examiner Office. On returning to his committee rooms he responded to repeated calls and appeared at one of the windows.

In a brief and appropriate speech he thanked the citizens for the honour conferred upon him. He felt that he had been elected, not only by the working men among whom he had lived and worked all his life, but also by all classes. He pledged himself to use his high office for the fostering of perfect community harmony, with the great end in view of promoting the interests of all citizens alike and creating a greater Peterborough.

ALD. JOHNSTON.

Ald. Johnston also addressed the open-air assembly, and was enthusiastically recognized as Hydro-Johnston. He spoke to effect on the Hydro-Electric service, which he promised would be extended in the shortest time possible to the boundaries and to every home, to say nothing of its mercantile and industrial application.

ALD. DUFFUS.

Ald. Duffus was the next successful candidate in demand and his appearance at the open window elicited an exceedingly flattering acclamation from the crowd, clearly demonstrating that his service on the Council Board has won for him well-deserved and gratifying popularity. In the course of a neat address he contended that the poll having returned the three aldermen for re-election must be gratifying to Mayor Bradburn, inasmuch as it showed that the people heartily endorsed the policy of himself and colleagues during the past two years. He reiterated his unbounded confidence in and approval of the Hydro-Electric system, which he hoped shortly to see extended throughout the whole City in every needed detail. Ald. Duffus retired to the heartiest of hearty applause.

TUESDAY, JAN. 6, 1914

THE RESULT.

The municipal elections passed off quietly yesterday, and no abnormally large vote was polled. Except, perhaps, to the unsuccessful candidates, the results will be generally satisfactory. Mr. Buller was elected Mayor by the very substantial majority of 889. It is not known to what extent the three-cornered contest, with three good candidates in the field, by dividing the vote, contributed to this result. But the people have decided, and we accept their verdict all the more willingly because it has given us a prospectively good mayor. Mr. Buller, by length of municipal service, by business experience and capacity, is well qualified to hold the position to which he has been elected. This is no disparagement to the other two candidates, Mr. Gillespie and Mr. Hartley. They were both well qualified in these regards and if the pepole had so decided would, either of them have made a good Mayor.

In regard to the Water Commissioner, the choice of the people, Mr. Hicks, calls for only congratulations. He is not only immeasurably superior in all essential regards to his opponent, but it is not extravagant perhaps to say that no other man in the city could have been chosen who would make a better Utilities Commissioner—Water and Hydro-Electric—than Mr. Robert Hicks. It is to the credit of the good sense of the electors, and their loyalty to the public interests, that the extraordinary tactics employed to defeat his candidature, were overcome by popular confidence in Mr. Hicks' ability to give faithfuly and good business service in the capacity of Water Commissioner, and the even more important — as associated with our finances—position of official custodian of Hydro-Electric interests.

The vote for alderman gave us only two new members, Mr. Saunders, in the south ward, and Mr. Stratton in the centre ward, who replace respectivly, Mr. Buller and Mr. Gillespie, who were in last year's council. So that the complexion of the new council is little changed in personnel, or quality of representation. We need a good, strong council this year to deal with the perplexing problems that confront them, as a legacy from the old council.

The by-laws got their quietus at short shift, at the hands of the electors. They were not defeated on their merits, for they both represented things badly needed. Their defeat was no doubt a protest against the increasing expenditure and tax-rate. With a large and unknown expenditure facing us for some things that must be provided, the people no doubt reasoned that the line must be drawn somewhere, and they began by burning the Dalhousie street bridge and puncturing the tire of the auto-motor combined chemical and hose tank.

The five members elected to the School Board are more truly representative of the electors than the aldermen, who individually represent only one-fifth of the electors. The newly elected members of the Board are only new in that sense. They have all given long and excellent service except Mr. Smith, who is new to the work.

Altogether we have a set of officials who will, if well watched, give good service. The work of the electors is not finished; it is only begun. Let them take an interest in the management of their affairs, watch the work of their representatives, and encourage them whn they do well, and criticise them when they do ill. It is only by closely following the course and actions of their representatives that the people can insure good service and faithful representation.

DEAR LIVING AND FREE FOOD

Without the widespread unemployment, and removed or lessened breadwinning income, the high cost of living would be bad enough, and the pinch hard enough. The plea for free food takes additional importance from the fact that a shipmeat of food is on the way to Canada from New Zealand—and though the meat for the hungry Canadian comes from a British Dominion on the single shipment of food from New Zealand customs duty of nearly $50,000 must be added to the price before it reaches the Canadian consumer. Mr. Beddoe, Canadian Trade Commissioner for New Zealand, recently reported that the steamer Marana had left New Zealand on November 21st, for Canada, with 17,500 cases of butter, 278 carcases of veal and 1,250 carcases of mutton. This immense cargo of food stuffs, however, will not tend to lessen the high cost of living in Canada. Before any Canadian can eat a mouthful of it he will have to pay tribute to the Government in order to support the extravagances of Hon. Messrs. Rogers, Hughes and other ministers who are so industriously wasting Canadian money and credit. When the cargo reaches Vancouver the consignees will have to pay over to the customs officials nearly $50,000 before they can distribute it to feed the Canadian people. This is how the taxation on this shipment works out:

17,500 cases of Butter, 60 lbs. per case, 1,050,000 lbs.; Canadian duty 4c lb.	$42,000.00
278 carcases of veal, averaging 60 lbs., 16,680 lbs.; Canadian duty 3c lb.	500.40
1,250 carcases of mutton, average 45 lbs., 56,250 lbs.; Canadian duty 3c lb.	1,687.50

Total duty on this food. $44,187.90

This is the amount taken out of the Canadian people by the Borden Government. This amount would be saved to the consumer in Great Britain, who lives in a country where the citizens are not taxed by the mouthful. This is the amount that would be saved to the consumer in the United States, where the new Democratic Government has taken the taxes off food. This is the amount that would be saved on this one shipment to Canadian consumers were the Laurier policy of free food in force in Canada. What does the Canadian consumer, who has to pay more for his meat and provisions than the Englishman or American, think about this? Will the people not be better with free food, the taxes removed from food products?

LET'S BE OPTIMISTIC.

From oxen to airships in the memory of many men! The year 1914 will have its surprises, its triumphs, its staggering developments. What is ahead for Western Ontario? We believe that in the last year there has been a livening of human endeavour in this district; that agriculture has been advanced by a concerted effort all along the line; that Western Ontario has commenced to distinguish itself. In a year radial projects will be under way, reaching from the north, and west, and east, and south into London, fetching trade and carrying trade in return. Parcel post spells closer trade relations for London and the district. London must find will divert the trade that goes to Toronto from the London buying district each year. Many cities will flourish in this district in ten years and men will stay on the farms and come back to the farms. London will enlarge as the hub strong enough to support the larger-sized spokes. — London Advertiser.

FAMILY RE-UNION

A very enjoyable time was spent Monday evening at "Hillcrest," the beautiful home of Mr. R. J. Waller, North Monaghan. His two brothers, Mr. W. H. Waller of Flint, Mich., have made a visit to their brothers and sisters after an absence of 38 years. It was a happy re-union, as they parted when children, hardly recognising each other now. Mrs. Anna Barrie, Wescott Street, City, is a sister, also Mrs. Bella Rogers, Burnley, and Mrs. James Stinson, Hastings, nieces and nephews of the different families, made quite a gathering. Twenty-two sat down to dinner. The afternoon was spent in various ways, music and singing being the features of the occasion. Several pictures of those assembled were taken and many were the reminiscences told of childhood days. Mrs. Bella Rogers will accompany her brothers home.

GOOD WISHES and SOUND ADVICE FOR 1914

IF you were thinking of building you would naturally look to a contractor for information. If you are thinking of buying wouldn't it be better to see one who has had this experience and could tell you what a certain building or vacant piece of property is worth. A number of years contracting and building has been my experience before branching out to handle Real Estate, surely I should know values. TWO NEW MEN ON MONAGHAN COUNCIL

Mr. George May and Mr. Morrow Replaced By New Faces

The elections for the Council in North Monaghan were as follows:

Young	232
Robson	187
Forster	170
Dobbin	155
Archibald	139
Morrow	90
May	80

The first four were elected. Morrow and May of last year's Council are left at home, Young and Robson replacing them. The return for 15 years' work on the Council brought Mr. May the last place. Such are the ways of elections.

LAKEFIELD COUNCIL

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 5.—There was no election for the Reeveship here today, Mr. Harry Fitzgerald being returned by acclamation. The following were elected to the Council:
A. E. Kennedy.
Walter Madill.
Sam. J. Charlton.
Jas. Isbister.

NOTES

Biffing the By-laws.

Both the Bridge and Chemical Engine By-laws were hit in the solar plexus with the first two returns. Freeburn's was first, and Howson's in the centre followed with majorities against the by-laws.

Chief Howard looked glum when he heard the first two returns.

"After all my campaigning," he said, "I guess we will still depend on the horses."

WATER COMMISSION.

With six returns in the Water Commission contest was fairly close.

Hicks showed 409 against McWilliams' 356, an indication of a narrow margin at the finish.

The ninth return for Water Commissioner gave McWilliams 81, with Hicks 65. The next report was from Lillico's in the West Ward, where Hicks polled 135 against 47 for McWilliams.

Special to The Examiner:

BOBCAYGEON, Jan. 6.—Local option carried here to-day by a majority of 16, after a close contest.

Local Option Lost In Cobourg

COBOURG, Jan. 5.—The local option by-law was defeated here today by about 50, under the three-fifths' clause. There was a straight majority of 93 in favour of the measure. The fight was a hot one.

The Results In Ennismore

The municipal elections in Ennismore returned S. Killen as Reeve, and the candidates for Council were returned in the following order: P. Crowley, M. Perdue, B. Holland, and W. Harrington and J. Geary tied four to be elected.

DUMMER COUNCIL

The Dummer Council, as elected today, are: Reeve—Darling. Councillors— A. Webster, Mr. Nixon, G. Crowe, J. Clifford.

SOME USEFUL RECIPES
Oatmeal Griddle Cakes.
One cupful of hot oatmeal porridge and one cupful of warm milk, beaten together, with one cupful of sifted flour. Let it stand over night; in the morning add a well beaten egg and half a teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a little warm water. When ready to cook, stir into the batter a half-cupful of sifted flour. Butter a hot griddle, and fry in small cakes, sending at once to the table. This is dainty and good.
Fine English Chutney.
Chope one quart of apples, one cupful raisins, two green peppers, three tomatoes. Boil one cupful of vinegar, one-half cupful of sugar (brown), with a few spices, add a little salt and pepper, pour hot over the chopped fruits.

TUESDAY, JAN. 6, 1914

THE RESULT.

The municipal elections passed off quietly yesterday, and no abnormally large vote was polled. Except, perhaps, to the unsuccessful candidates, the results will be generally satisfactory. Mr. Buller was elected Mayor by the very substantial majority of 886. It is not known to what extent the three-cornered contest, with three good candidates in the field, by dividing the vote, contributed to this result. But the people have decided, and we accept their verdict all the more willingly because it has given us a prospectively good mayor. Mr. Buller, by length of municipal service, by business experience and capacity, is well qualified to hold the position to which he has been elected. This is no disparagement to the other two candidates, Mr. Gillespie and Mr. Hartley. They were both well qualified in these regards and if the pepole had so decided would, either of them have made a good Mayor.

In regard to the Water Commissioner, the choice of the people, Mr. Hicks, calls for only congratulations. He is not only immeasurably superior in all essential regards to his opponent, but it is not extravagant perhaps to say that no other man in the city could have been chosen who would make a better Utilities Commissioner—Water and Hydro-Electric—than Mr. Robert Hicks. It is to the credit of the good sense of the electors, and their loyalty to the public interests, that the extraordinary tactics employed to defeat his candidature, were overcome by popular confidence in Mr. Hicks' ability to give faithfuly and good business service in the capacity of Water Commissioner, and the even more important — as associated with our finances—position of official custodian of Hydro-Electric interests.

The vote for alderman gave us only two new members, Mr. Saunders, in the south ward, and Mr. Stratton in the centre ward, who replace respectively, Mr. Buller and Mr. Gillespie, who were in last year's council. So that the complexion of the new council is little changed in personnel, or quality of representation. We need a good, strong council this year to deal with the perplexing problems that confront them, as a legacy from the old council.

The by-laws got their quietus at short shift, at the hands of the electors. They were not defeated on their merits, for they both represented things badly needed. Their defeat was no doubt a protest against the increasing expenditure and tax-rate. With a large and unknown expenditure facing us for some things that must be provided, the people no doubt reasoned that the line must be drawn somewhere, and they began by burning the Dalhousie street bridge and puncturing the tire of the auto-motor combined chemical and hose tank.

The five members elected to the School Board are more truly representative of the electors than the aldermen, who individually represent only one-fifth of the electors. The newly elected members of the Board are only new in that sense. They have all given long and excellent service except Mr. Smith, who is new to the work.

Altogether we have a set of officials who will, if well watched, give good service. The work of the electors is not finished; it is only begun. Let them take an interest in the management of their affairs, watch the work of their representatives, and encourage them when they do well, and criticise them when they do ill. It is only by closely following the course and actions of their representatives that the people can insure good service and faithful representation.

DEAR LIVING AND FREE FOOD

Without the widespread unemployment, and removed or lessened breadwinning income, the high cost of living would be bad enough, and the pinch hard enough. The plea for free food takes additional importance from the fact that a shipment of food is on the way to Canada from New Zealand—and though the meat for the hungry Canadian comes from a British Dominion on the single shipment of food from New Zealand customs duty of nearly $50,000 must be added to the price before it reaches the Canadian consumer. Mr. Beddoe, Canadian Trade Commissioner for New Zealand, recently reported that the steamer Marana had left New Zealand on November 21st, for Canada, with 17,500 cases of butter, 278 carcases of veal and 1,250 carcases of mutton. This immense cargo of food stuffs, however, will not tend to lessen the high cost of living in Canada. Before any Canadian can eat a mouthful of it he will have to pay tribute to the Government in order to support the extravagances of Hon. Messrs. Rogers, Hughes and other ministers who are so industriously wasting Canadian money and credit. When the cargo reaches Vancouver the consignees will have to pay over to the customs officials nearly $50,000 before they can distribute it to feed the Canadian people. This is how the taxation on this shipment works out:

17,500 cases of Butter, 60 lbs. per case, 1,050,000 lbs.; Canadian duty 4c lb.	$42,000.00
278 carcases of veal, averaging 60 lbs., 16,680 lbs.; Canadian duty 3c lb.	500.40
1,250 carcases of mutton, average 45 lbs., 56,250 lbs.; Canadian duty 3c lb.	1,687.50

Total duty on this food. $44,187.90

This is the amount taken out of the Canadian people by the Borden Government. This amount would be saved to the consumer in Great Britain, who lives in a country where the citizens are not taxed by the mouthful. This is the amount that would be saved to the consumer in the United States, where the new Democratic Government has taken the taxes off food. This is the amount that would be saved on this one shipment to Canadian consumers were the Laurier policy of free food in force in Canada. What does the Canadian consumer, who has to pay more for his meat and provisions than the Englishman or American, think about this? Will the people not be better with free food, the taxes removed from food products?

LET'S BE OPTIMISTIC.

From oxen to airships in the memory of many men! The year 1914 will have its surprises, its triumphs, its staggering developments. What is ahead for Western Ontario? We believe that in the last year there has been a livening of human endeavour in this district; that agriculture has been advanced by a concerted effort all along the line; that Western Ontario has commenced to distinguish itself. In a year radial projects will be under way, reaching from the north, and west, and east, and south into London, fetching trade and carrying trade in return. Parcel post spells closer trade relations for London and the district. London must and will divert the trade that goes to Toronto from the London buying district each year. Many cities will flourish in this district in ten years and men will stay on the farms and come back to the farms. London will enlarge as the hub strong enough to support the larger-sized spokes. — London Advertiser.

FAMILY RE-UNION

A very enjoyable time was spent Monday evening at "Ellilcrest," the beautiful home of Mr. R. J. Waller, North Monaghan. His two brothers, Mr. W. H. Waller of Flint, Mich., have made a visit to their brothers and sisters after an absence of 38 years. It was a happy re-union, as they parted when children, hardly recognizing each other now. Mrs. Anna Barrie, Wescott Street, City, is a sister, also Mrs. Bella Rogers, Burnley, and Mrs. James Stinson, Hastings, nieces and nephews of the different families, made quite a gathering. Twenty-two sat down to dinner. The afternoon was spent in various ways, music and singing being the features of the occasion. Several pictures of those assembled were taken and many were the reminiscences told of childhood days. Mrs. Bella Rogers will accompany her brothers home.

MANY PREFER SNOW AND ZERO ZEPHYRS TO WARM ROOMS

Peterborough Citizens Who Sleep Out of Doors During the Winter and Deem the Exposure No Hardship--Dozens of Potential Porches Exist in Peterborough---Icicles on the Blankets.

Imagine sleeping ut of doors these nights! Many citizens however, are doing it and deem the exposure no hardship. Indeed, so keen are these fresh-air fiends upon their own method of wooing Morpheus that the piercing frost of sero weather is no deterrent. These bravers of the elements are Peterborough's porch-sleepers — devotees of the undiluted ozone, whose members are yearly growing.

Fresh air saturation has long been recognized the fierce foe of tuberculosis. Thus the outdoor couch had its inception in the sanatoria, where, in the Arirondacks, and at Muskoka, patients swathed in rugs and blankets, pass both day and night breathing the curative atmosphere. Ere long doctors discovered that these nocturnal inundations were most salutary in the treatment of other disorders, and sufferers racked with "nerves," pallid from anaemia or distracted by sleeplessness, are now being ordered to slumber out of doors. A number of healthy people have also adopted this regimen.

Rooms Feel Stuffy.

No room, however well ventilated, can compare with a porch. Outdoor sleepers invariably feel oppression in the average bedroom, so much so that insomnia often holds away and the victim awakes dog-tired from a desultory doze. A sense of suffocation and difficult breathing is experienced in a room, say these porch-devotees. Nasal passages, clear in the cold outdoors, become congested, while the lungs and heart work overtime to obtain the needed oxygen.

Dozens of potential porches exist in Peterborough. Almost every new house of any pretensions has such an adjunct built on as sun-room and affording room for the comfortable accommodation of a bed. A good roof and sides enclosed with sliding windows, which, while storm-proof, may be opened in various combinations, to suit the weather are the requisites. On cold, stormy nights, a small aperture suffices to flood an unheated porch with air while excluding the snow and rain.

Properly fortified with bedclothes, the tenant of such a retreat may lay snug as the proverbial bug, though the thermometer be shrivelled at the bottom of the bulb. Tightly tucked in he wots not the sting of January blizzards, nor the keen digits of Jack Frost on those stiff clear nights, when the stars scintillate like the electric sparks, and the air resounds with the "snap" of nails frost-forced from the planks.

Some Costume, Too.

Shakespeare's seven ages are represented in Peterborough's army of porch sleepers. Years are no bar. White-haired business men, delicate women and children old enough to keep the bed clothes on, swell the ranks. All very enthusiastic. Those contemplating all-year round outdoor sleeping should provide themselves with two mattresses, for the cold coming up from below is penetrating. Then flannel or flannelette sheets are also a consideration, while a few pure wool blankets of light texture, and an elderdown quilt or two go to form the ideal outdoors bed. Great weight of covering is fatiguing.

Frost armour for the occupant of the couch is equally important. Silk pyjamas or cotton night shirts have no place in the winter wardrobe of the porch, bivouacer. But arrayed in flannel pyjamas and sweater coat, his feet encased in thick socks and a stockingette cap protecting his head, zero nights have no terror for the sleeper. Icicles of frozen breath may fringe his blankets and sprinkles of drifted snow powder the porch floor, but warm, oxygenized blood thrills every fibre of his body,

Sleeping Bags.

For sleeping bags, while admirable for camping in snowdrifts, are too Klondikish for this climate. Fresh air fanatics, nevertheless, take great pains that nightly tossing shall not denude them of the covers. Carefully compacted as birds' nests are their beds, the blankets being converted into a species of sack held in place by a doubled-over quilt or huge harness safety pins. To take the chill off this receptacle an earthenwear "pig" or rubber hot water bottle temporarily inserted is deemed a wise precaution in cool weather. The up-to-date porch invariably adjoins a warm bedroom, whereto the sleeper may repair in a jiffy. Obviously this combination holds an advantage over the ordinary cold bedroom whose chilly atmosphere while not affording the freshness of outdoors, exposes the inmates to the dangers of a shivery dressing place.

8 Hours' Easy Outing.

Many a man close-cooped all day in some stuffy office owes ruddy cheeks to his effortless nocturnal outing. Invalids, too weak to venture from the house, recuperate thus recumbent on a cot. While habitues of the porch resort thither in leisure hours for a quiet, secluded restful read or smoke in the sothing, stimulating, fresh air, perusing the papers or their favourite book if need be by the light of a convenient electric bulb.

Doctors declare that three hours' sleep in such surroundings equals in efficacy five passed in a bedroom. And certainly the testimony of porch-sleeping would seem to endorse this statement. Colds, those abominations of a Peterborough winter, rarely afflict them, while one and all bear witness to a glorious exhilaration at that grey hour when the getting-up call summons them to the duties of another day.

CLEVER PIECE OF DETECTIVE WORK

Detective Ricci Arrests Suspected Man in Twenty Minutes—Will Visit Peterborough

Detective Ricci, who only a few weeks ago gained considerable notoriety by arresting Francesco Tuesco, has made another notable capture on the Western Coast.

A Vancouver exchange has the following to say of Ricci's work:

Establishing a record for fast detective work, Detective Ricci this morning arrested Donato Bebonas, 731 Union Street, twenty minutes after he had been given a rough description of the man suspected of stabbing Mike Migartz, also a resident of Union Street last night.

Bebonas, who admits he inflicted the wound which sent Migartz to the hospital and possibly to his death, states that he and the injured man had an altercation and that, after felling his opponent, he left him bleeding from a wound in the back and several cuts about the hands and arms. The cause of the quarrel was not included in the statement.

The affray last night was witnessed by several other foreigners, who have so far eluded the police, but who will probably be brought in this afternoon When the police constable on the Union Street beat heard a scuffle in one of the houses on this street, he hurried in to ascertain the cause, but the only evidence of the melee was Mike Migartz lying in a pool of blood on the floor. The police ambulance was summoned and the wounded man hurried to the general hospital. En route to this institution the police ambulance doctor staunched the flow of blood and probably saved the life of the foreigner. This morning the wounded man gave the police a description of the man who stabbed him, and Detective Ricci, who is the expert on Italian cases, was commissioned by Inspector McRae to try to run the suspect to earth.

With the rough description in his mind's eye, the clever little detective entered several of the Union Street dives and in a very few minutes returned to the station with the man who admits his part in the bloody deed. Bebonas will be arraigned tomorrow on a charge of attempted murder.

Not Luck But System.

Only a few weeks ago Ricci stepped into the limelight by arresting Francesco Tuesco, who has been taken to New York to be charged with the murder of Thomas Rooney. For this feat the officer gets a nice little windfall of $1,000. "Call it luck if you like," said Ricci this morning. "I suppose it is. Anyway I know pretty well who's who among the Italians of this city. When I see a new face I make it a point to find out all about its owner at once. In that way I can put my finger on nearly all of them when I have a clue. When we go after them we hate to go back without them. That's why we get them. Of course, my knowledge of the Italian language and my small stature helps me considerably and gives me an advantage in working among these foreigners."

Detective Ricci, it will be remembered, was married a few months ago to Miss Mary DeLong of this City. He intends to visit Peterborough in the near future.

HOCKEY.

The Boston Exploits will line up as follows to-morrow night in their Junior City League game with the Wanderers:

Left defence, Regan.

Centre, Butcher (captain).
Right wing, Rogers or Hill.
Left wing, Rose.

FOR ALDERMEN

Two new faces will grace the Aldermanic Board this year. They are Joseph Saunders, in the South Ward, and A. H. Stratton, in the Centre Ward. Five aldermen were elected as a result of the polling on Monday, one to represent each ward. The defeated candidates are: W. S. Robinson, F. H. Dobbin, H. P. Morgan, W. T. Holloway, and T. W. Oke. The five elected are: J. J. Duffus, West Ward; W. J. Johnston, North Ward; Joseph Saunders, South Ward; A. H. Stratton, Centre Ward, and J. C. Anderson, East Ward.

Duffus, Johnston and Anderson were returned with comfortable majorities. Hydro-Johnston polled the highest vote of the lot, with Ald. Duffus running second and Ald. Anderson third. The closest contest was in the Centre Ward, with three candidates in the field, namely, Dobbin, Stratton and Morgan. Owing to delay in getting the returns from number six sub-division, the issue was in doubt until late in the evening. The result did little to clarify the situation owing to a difference in the figures. The official result to-day, however, gives a majority of three for A. H. Stratton.

WHAT ONE YEAR OF BORDEN RULE HAS BROUGHT US

Broken Promises, Unemployment, Decreasing Revenue and Increasing Expenditure

A retrospect of the year that has just ended must give very much more satisfaction to the Liberal forces than to the supporters of the Borden Government. It would be hard to find any year in the history of Canada when the Government achieved less in a concrete way for the good of the Dominion, when it had done more to jeopardize the good name of Canada at home and abroad. It would be impossible to find any year in which a newly elected Government could show such scornful unwillingness to fulfil its pre-election pledges or engage in any constructive legislation to meet changed conditions.

There has been but one real event in the political world during the year that has shown any statesmanlike effort to cope with the growing necessities of the Canadian people. That was the formulation by Sir Wilfrid Laurier of the Liberal policy of free food, with a sincere effort to discover the reasons for the increasing cost of living that steps might be taken to ease the burdens of the people. In comparison with that evidence of constructive statesmanship the temporizing and opportunism of the present government shrink into insignificance. No more striking proof of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's real leadership could be imagined than the fact that the Government after time and again announcing that the cost of living demanded no investigation suddenly found popular pressure too strong, and appointed a commission—but appointed it in such a way as to insure a report to suit itself.

It has been a disastrous year for the Government.

It opened with Mr. Borden's "emergency" in full bloom.

It has closed with the "emergency" withered and dead, discredited alike in England, in Canada and throughout the Empire.

It opened with the announced determination of Mr. Borden to force upon Canada a contribution of $35,000,000 to tide the Empire over his imagined "emergency."

It has closed without the slightest thing having been done by Canada to increase its own defensive forces as part of the Empire's defences.

It opened with the Government boast of prosperity. It has closed with hard times and lack of employment such as has not been seen in Canada since 1896, a shrinking Government revenue, and declining trade.

There were two great increases, however, during the year. The Government jumped the national expenditures from $120,000,000 in the last year of Liberal Government to $250,000,000, and it has increased the National Debt by millions during the last few months.

While proclaiming a large surplus, Hon. Mr. White faced a treasury emptied by ministerial extravagance, and had to go to England to borrow between thirty and forty million dollars until he became so inordinate in his demands on the London money market that the financiers there rebelled, Canadian credit became impaired, and the present Government is compelled to pay one per cent. more for money than the last Liberal Government.

The Government announced it would spend $10,000,000 on good roads. It failed to induce Parliament to accept this proposition because it was cunningly framed in the interests of the Government rather than the roads, and was an invasion of provincial rights. Since then the Government has had the mortification of seeing its Highways Aid proposition criticized in Provincial legislatres, and heartily condemned by such representative bodies as the Dominion Grange and the Western Grain Growers' Associations.

The year has seen the Government force through parliament a gift of $15,000,000 to Mackenzie and Mann, despite determined Liberal opposition, and the Government has seen that gift condemned by its own followers as well as by Liberals throghout the contry.

It has witnessed attacks upon the Civil Service with wholesale dismissals to make room for partisan friends. It has seen every problem which faced the Government referred to commissions, until Hon. Mr. Foster scornfully declared at a public meeting that commissions were as plentiful as berries in the wilderness and that their "expensive reports were simply shelved and forgotten."

The year has witnessed the imposing upon parliament for the first time of the closure, by which the Government is able to gag the Opposition and force upon the country any legislation it pleases unless the Senate has the courage to prevent it.

The year has been especially memorable for the shameful neglect by Premier Borden of every promise he made before his election. He posed as the champion of provincial rights, but has had the mortification of seeing one of his leading supporters, Mr. R. B. Bennett, M.P., for Calgary, declare that unless the Premier would implement his ancient promises and give the Western Provinces control of their natural resources he would resign his seat.

There have been several by-elections during the year. They ended disastrously for the Government. The infamous Macdonald by-election scandal closed with disgrace to the Government in the confession of corruption by the man who benefitted, and the voiding of his election, without the Government supporters daring to face a trial.

Despite every effort of the Conservatives, they have lost prestige in their great stronghold of Ontario. They lost South Bruce after a determined campaign, and only succeeded in retaining other seats such as East Middlesex, by greatly reduced majorities. The one victory was in Chateauguay where they succeeded in gaining the riding by such corrupt methods that after the election was protested they employed their most expert lawyers to delay the election trial so that Mr. Morris could follow the example of Mr. Morrison in Macdonald and enjoy at least one session in Parliament before the courts voided his election.

The year has witnessed the complete exposure by Mr. Bourassa, of the secret alliance between the Conservative Centralizers of Ontario and the Nationalists of Quebec by which the money of the Ontario high tariff interests was used to promote the Bourassa propaganda in Quebec, in order to defeat Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and in the end, do nothing for Imperial defence.

On the other hand the year has witnessed steady progress on every side by the Liberals. Throughout the parliamentary session they fought successfully for the rights of the people, for the rights of the Provinces, and for the rights of Canada as an autonomous nation within the Empire. It has witnessed an extraordinary revival of Liberalism throughout the country as shown by the triumphant receptions accorded Sir Wilfrid Laurier whenever he visited Ontario and the great meetings which have been held in the Western and Maritime Provinces, while the general meeting of the Ontario Reform Association was the most enthusiastic ever held.

The year 1913 has closed with the Liberal star in the ascendant and Sir Wilfrid Laurier in his natural position as leader of the Canadian people, openingt the way to tariff reform and progressive legislation for the revival of prosperity and reduction of the burdens which have so increasingly weighed upon the people during the period of Conservative administration.

PETERBORO' HAS POPULATION OF 7.14 FOR EACH ACRE WITHIN THE MUNICIPALITY

Is Credited With a Population of 20,015 and an Assessment of $12,863,384---Some Interesting Comparisons

Of the 15 chief cities in Ontario, Toronto boasts the greatest population, the population per acre, the largest assessment, the largest area in acres and square miles, but not the highest tax rate, but Toronto's assessment is so close to actual value that she takes proportionately more from the citizens.

28.5 MILLS UP THERE.

According to the annual report of the Assessment Commissioner Sault Ste. Marie has a rate of 18 mills and is the only city with a lower rate, than that of Toronto. Owen Sound residents are called upon to pay taxes with a 28.5 mill rate while Niagara Falls with 27.5 is a close second.

COMPARISON.

The assessment of the 14 cities of Ontario outside of Toronto totals about $340,000,000, while Toronto's alone is one and a half times greater than that, or $516,000,000.

The combined population of these 14 cities in round numbers is 441,000, while Toronto's is 445,575.

Large Number Applying For Charity Now

This Winter Will Prove Heavy Drain on Funds of Charity Board

Relief Officer Miller said to the Examiner this morning that the large number of men out of work and having to support families, will prove an unusual drain on the funds of the City Charity Board, this season. Already a larger number than usual have applied for charity and careful discrimination is going to be exercised to see that the funds go only to the needy. "But there are a lot who need help," said Mr. Miller. "A man with a family is thrown out of work and what can he do?"

TO SOLVE THE MYSTERY OF EDWIN DROOD

Examiner Special:

LONDON, Jan. 6.—That the novels of Charles Dickens are still popular with English readers is evidenced by the lively interest manfested by the public at larg in the mock trial arranged by the Dickens Fellowship, to solve the question of who murdered Edwin Drood. Any theories as to the crime and its perpetrator have been alvanced, but the mock trial to be conducted at Holborn Hall to-morrow night will undoubtedly be the most notable effort yet made to solve the mystery which was established by the death of Dickens before the completion of his novel. Sir James Barrie, Jerome K. Jerome, Sir Frank Burnand, W. W. Jacobs and a number of other noted literary lights will participate in the production. The proceeds of the evening's entertainment will be donatd to the Tiny Tim Cripple Fund.

The tournament will continue until Saturday and will be followed next week by the annual tournament of the Winter Golf League of Advertising Interests.

Jack—Admitting you're in the wrong is never very pleasant, is it? Joe—No; but it's a deuced sight pleasanter than having it demonstrated by some other fellow.

LAUGHTER AS A DISINFECTANT

By RUTH CAMERON

"It was the sort of situation we can laugh at and see the fun of six months after, if not at the time."—From Peg Woffington.

Once upon a time when I was visiting, something went severely wrong with my hostess' waterpipes in the middle of the night. We telephoned frantically for aid, found we could not get it for three or four hours, tried once more to stop up the leak, realized that was impossible, and settled down to bail. Having been on a long trip the day before, we were very tired. It was a cold night and the heavy pails of water had to be carried up a flight of stairs. So altogether it was a most annoying situation. And I think we would all have been very cross if it had not been for my hostess' sister. She is a person with a keen sense of humour, and she laughed so heartily at the funny sight we all made in our hastily concocted costumes, marching solemnly up and down stairs with our pails, or kneeling beside the offending pipe, plying the dipper, that she soon had the rest of us laughing and joking and looking on the whole thing as rather a lark.

It is a great gift to be able to see the humour of a trying situation even in the midst of it.

The average man, as Charles Reade says, can laugh at such things six months afterward, but to be able to see the funny side of annoyances at the time they occur is a rare and precious talen. The man or woman who has it better to find than a five-pound note, as Stephenson puts it.

A laugh is such a disarming thing. It pierces poses, takes the sting out of annoyances and routs irritability—all in the twinkling of an eye.

He who has learned to love and laugh has learned to live.

I once knew a man who had more man the average human being's share of annoying peculiarities. His first wife was a woman with a nervous temperament and very little sense of humour, and she fretted and protested and nagged and fumed herself to death against these peculiarities..

As soon as the second wife was installed she also ran up against the annoying traits, but instead of fretting she laughed. Not, you understand, a superior or irritating laugh. That, of course, would have infuriated her husband and made him the more obstinate in his ways. But just a friendly disarming laugh, a laugh with him at his own peculiarities. She couldn't really cure him because he was a bit too old, but, by removing the irritant of fretful protest and substituting the disinfectant of laughter, she certainly has done wonders.

Learn to laugh at annoyances and you will have taken just about half the gloom and unhappiness out of life.

A Hero.

Betty: I shall not wed until I can marry a hero.

Alive: Well, my dear, just show any man who proposes to you a schedule of your yearly expense and if he doesn't back out, he's one.

DICKENS' CREATIONS IN THE FLESH

Last night the celebrated English actor, Tom Terriss, and his clever company gave one of the cleanest most artistic and satisfactory dramatic presentations the patrons of the Grand Opera House have enjoyed for many a long day. The offerings consisted of closely dramatized versions of Dickens' immortal creations, the evergreen "Christmas Carol" and the humble, but sublimely human, "Cricket on the Hearth." The one-act versions were presented in faultless scenic style, and the costumes looked as if they had walked out of the portfolios of the great carroonists who pictured the characters of Dickens in his time. Tom erriss played the part of old "Scrooge"—what a grinding, cruel sound the very name has—and played it to perfection. His counterfeit of the flinty-souled usurer was not a counterfeit, however, but a reality, a vidiv portrayal of the grinding, grasping, heartless miser. His moral translation by the visions of Marley to the awkwardly genial-hearted Scrooge, were developed with marvellous art and skill. The scenic effects in this part of the play were perfect and creepily effective to the last degree. The other characters were excellently taken and the whole presentation was above cavil. "The Cricket on the Hearth" was equally satisfactory. In this Mr. Terris did not shine as prominently. He took a compartively subordinate character, "Caleb Plummer," the nobly deceiving father, but he took it well. The honours in this play went to the rough, but sterling-hearted, and nobly trusting and forgiving "John Peerybingle" Mr. Frederick Annerley. In every way he was the typical carrier, with a rough outside and voice, but a heart of gold. "Dot" was very sweetly and naturally portrayed by Miss Viola Beavans, Miss Mary Rolph, as "Tilly Slowboy" was delicious in her ludicrous gaucherie, and the complementarr characters were acted with consistent excellence. Altogther the presentation was delightful and was very heartily received; enthusiastic applause and curtain calls. In a graceful and grateful little speech Mr. Terriss intimated that he would return to Peterborough. If he does so, he should be greeted with an overflowing house, which was hardly the case last night, the election excitement engrossing the public attention so largely. No lover of Dickens should miss Tom Terriss' presentation of the "Christmas Carols" and "he Cricket on the eath." He gives a new and vivid understanding of them, which cannot be got by the most appreciative reading of them in the library. He brings their beautiful lessons home to eye and heart, and makes the characters live again.

How He Fell.

Lady: I'm surprised at a great, stout fellow like you begging.

Corpulent Tramp: Me stoutness 'as been me downfall, lidy. I used to play the big drum, but I lost me job. Yer see, I couldn't 'it it in the middle.

ALL ALONG BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—If some one will kindly kick in with George J. Gould's spat that gentleman will be relieved of anguish and uncertainty. Also he will not lose a lot of money which now appears to be going away from him.

The other day Mr. Gould bought a light-brown suit. But one piece of the material had been imported by the tailor who caters to Mr. Gould's contours. When the tailor had constructed a light-brown hat and a pair of light-brown spats of the same cloth he burned what was left and presumably cabled orders to break the loom. Then Mr. Gould went out to give the avenue a treat and slipped a spat. No one knows when this tragedy took place. No one even permits himself to wonder how far Mr. Gould may have walked before his inequality of spats became apparent to him. But it is shown that a personal search followed. When that proved fruitless Mr. Gould advertised. Still he is half-spatted.

"But why the agony?" some one asked him the other day.

"Think," said Mr. Gould, impatiently, "That spat was made of cloth that absolutely cannot be matched. I cannot wear my new suit without spats, of course. If I do not recover it, I will have to throw my suit away."

In which case Mr. Gould may have to stay in bed.

Widows who do not know any better, and fat-heads who ought to know better, were robbed of $77,000,000 in the past year by get-rich-quick swindlers, according to the approximation made by Sylvester C. Dunham, head of one of the great life insurance companies.

"Widows," said Mr. Dunham, "are the especial victims of these mail order thieves. Widows believe most of what they are told. A plausible, businesslike, good looking man can persuade them that his particular form of 'investment' will pay 10 per cent. a month forever."

In the past year the government has exposed fraudulent schemes which in that period are estimated to have coaxed $77,000,000 out of easy pockets.

"I think in the same period ten times as much money has been taken by swindlers who are not yet detected or who are carrying on their trade so adroitly under the direction of rogue lawyers that they cannot be reached by the law."

As collateral proof Mr. Dunham points out that the trade in sucker lists is more flourishing than ever just now. A prospective or present swindler can buy stockholders' lists of almost any of the great corporations and circularize them at leisure.

Some portion of Broadway sets its sartorial clock by Harry Pollok, the connoisseur in white hopes. If he appears in checks his followers do not rest until they are also set forth at right angles It isn't that Pollok is proud of his looks. He thinks good clothes are an asset.

"When he and Shep Friedman visited London some years ago," said Walter St. Denis, "they had to go as cow chaperons on a very poorly ventilated steamer. But their trunks went on one of the fast liners."

They had no money whatever. But they registered at the Cecil. Then Friedman hurried out and touched a friend for ten dollars. He gave Pollok five of it.

"At 7 to-night," said Friedman, smacking his lips slightly, "I will meet you here. Then we will again have a regular cooked dinner."

Pollok took his five and began to beautify. He was manicured, chiropoded, shaved, shined, and Florida-watered. A roseate vision greeted Friedman when he entered the Cecil's lobby at 7 that night. Pollok was evening-dressed and silk-hatted and white-gloved. But he had no more money than a hollyhock. Friedman just gasped when he learned this.

"This is the idea," said Pollok, airily. "We'll eat on your $5. Then—all fixed up as I am—I can go and get more!"

NOTES OF THE FASHIONS

New York.—It is a foregone conclusion that women speedily tire of a fashion. They care not wether it is bad or good. They do not want it for long, and in their fickleness lies the possibility of wealth to designers. If they were content with the same cut of gown month in and month out there would be small commerce in clothes and little work for fashion writers.

It is the woman herself who wants new things and not fashion which demands her to get them. She is responsible for the whirlwind that goes over the land every few months, for she constantly cries out, "Give me something new." It would not be possible to persuade her to continue to wear a garment merely because the cloth in it is still good. "The cloth," she says, "who cares for that? What of the cut?

So it is concerning the one piece frock. She liked it immensely for awhile, then she added a short coat to it, and now and then she uses a waistcoat as a coat. She likes to hide her thin bodice for some fantastic reason.

Once in a while she will whisper to you that she hasn't any bodice; that her waistcoat or her coat takes its part. The girl in it does not wear a bodice. She inserts a muslin fichu with a lace frill under a coatee of brocaded crepe de chine, girdles it in with a wide belt which she fastens in front with three waistcoat buttons, and cuts off the sleeves at the elbows to show a quaint little puff of muslin and lace.

The skirt she wears does not match the jacket. It is of heavier material in dark blue and the blouse jacket is in terra cotta red. She hides this gay little garment when she goes into the street by a loose top coat which she can easily slip off when she enters indoors.

The Blouse Jacket Popular.

This mingling of a coat and a bodice is quite a fashion of the moment, and if every woman does not know about it she will find the subject interesting. Again, it is economical. Everyone likes to feel that she can make something out of nothing, or rather that she can turn out a perfectly good bodice from a blouse that was not right and a fichu which she had worn.

These short jackets that are girdled in at the waist are built from various fabrics that were never before employed in the making of blouses. They look as if they had been borrowed from the parlour where they served as curtains or cushions. And they do not lose in beauty by this comparison.

In fact, if a woman is clever, she will do what has been often suggested, buy the material for these waists as well as for sashes; collars and cuffs in the upholstery department instead of at the dress goods counter.

This is also true of evening gowns, for some of the most attractive simple frocks worn at dances last summer were made from wide curtain scrim in white with a deep edge of blue and pink flowers.

Anything that serves for a handsome collar or for drawing room curtains will make one of the waistcoats of to-day.

Verdict For The Plaintiff

Horse Case Concluded at 8 O'clock Last Night

At 8 o'clock last night the jury in the Division Court brought in a verdict in favour of the plaintiff, in the Dunlop vs. Cruikshanks case, which was heard before Mr. George Sherry, yesterday.

In the action Percy Dunlop of this city claimed $80 from J. Cruikshanks a farmer of Smith. Cruikshanks bought a horse from Dunlop and gave a note for $80 in payment. The horse died within three weeks after the transaction, and Cruikshanks refused to pay the note when it came due. Dunlop entered an action to recover the $80, and in yesterday's court was awarded that sum and costs of the case.

The defendant, in the witness box, yesterday, said that when he bought the horse Mr. Dunlop said it would do for farm work. Asked what cash value he placed on the horse when he bought it he said "$5". He fed the horse well and did not work it too hard, after he got it, but it died in three weeks' time.

Several Smith farmers were called into the witness box, to give testimony as to the value of the horse bought.

Mr. J. Rosebrugh was the first of them. He said that the day Cruikshanks brought the horse from the City he (witness) passed him as he (Cruikshanks) was leading the horse along the road. Witness did not think the horse was worth anything.

"What would a horse like that be good for?" asked Mr. Reddy.

"Good for nothing," was the answer.

"What would be the proper thing to do with a horse in that condition?"

"Shoot him," was the reply.

On another day he saw the old horse hitched with another one. The other horse was drawing the old animal and the load, too.

Several other men testified to the same effect.

Mr. Reddy appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. D. O'Connell for the defendant.

LINDSAY BANK CLERK ARRESTED

Forbes Skene Was Taken Into Custody at Hamilton—Is Said to Have Passed Forged Cheques

HAMILTON, Jan. 6.—An important arrest was made here yesterday for the Toronto police, when Forbes Skene, recently clerk in the Bank of Montreal at Lindsay, was locked up on a charge of passing forged checks. He was taken into custody while in the Bank of Montreal here.

It is said that he was a clerk at Lindsay until a year or so ago, and after leaving there he went to Toronto. He is accused of passing a check for $25 at the Walker House Annex, which check is said to be worthless. He then disappeared. The local police were asked to be on the lookout for him. Yesterday afternoon they were informed that the man suspected of trying to pass a worthless check was at the Bank of Montreal, and Detective Goodman immediately went there. He took charge of Skene, and he will be sent back to Toronto. It is said that a number of checks marked good were found upon him and it is alleged that Skene, while in the bank, marked the checks good and that he placed signatures upon them and then set out to pass them.

There are exhibitors here from many outside points and altogether nearly 1,500 birds are on view. SPECIAL DAY OF PRAYER IN MEXICO TO-DAY

Special Wire to The Examiner.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 6.—To-day was the special day of prayer throughout all the Roman Catholic and Protestant Churches of Mexico for peace within the borders of the country. Huerta and his Cabinet attended the church in a body. There is apparently no intention on the part of the President of resigning, although with this morning's announcement there is no hope of interference from Britain which he and his colleagues confidently expected.

Trying To Release Miners

Special Wire to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Jan. 6.—A strong effort is being made to obtain the release of the imprisoned miners at Nanaimo, B.C. A deputation of the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada have taken up with Premier Borden and his Cabinet Ministers. The Minister of Justice, Hon. Mr. Doherty, in reply, stated that he was going into the whole question and was giving it every thought that a natural sympathy with men accompanied with spirit of justice dictated.

75 LABOURERS ARE DROWNED

Special Wire to The Examiner:

WINNIPEG, Jan. 6.—Word was received here to-day that seventy-five labourers, Italians and Swdes, were drowned when the barge on which they were crossing the Fraser River, near Fort George, Saturday, foundered, and dropped them into the ice cold water. Only one, Angelo Pugliesse, by name, survived to tell the tale. They were working on the Canadian Northern construction, it is thought.

FEAST OF THE EPIPHANY

To-day is the feast of the Epiphany, and was celebrated as a holyday at St. Peter's Cathedral and at the Church of the Sacred Heart, with masses at 5:45, 7:30 and 9 o'clock. At the latter church Rev. J. J. O'Brien preached the sermon during a high mass sung by Rev. Father McCauley. He spoke on a passage from the prophecy of Isaiah, and stated that the Epiphany should not be ranked as a minor feast. From its derivation the word itself means revelation or manifestation. Rev. Father O'Brien briefly related to the story of the arrival of the three wise men from the east, who went to Bethlehem to show their love and adoration for the Infant Jesus. They were representatives of the Gentiles of whom we are descendants, and for that reason alone the feast should be of more than passing moment.

MR. G. A. GILLESPIE
Unsuccessful Mayoralty Candidate.

Left defence—Gordon.

Right wing—Stewart.

A WORD FOR MR. GILLESPIE

Mr. Editor,—Permit me a few lines to express my views on some late criticisms of Mr. Gillespie and his so-called attempt to form a milk combine. Needless to say, such talk during the election campaign, should not influence any voter, and I would be sorry indeed if the milk question was the means of his defeat. I am sure no fair-minded person can say the want of pure milk, cleanly handled and delivered, was not a long needed want. Doubtless some of your readers, like myself, have seen conditions in the handling of milk that were quite disgusting, and so long as there was no opposition, just so long would such conditions continue.

Some four or five months ago an agent of the Pure Milk Co. called at my house, and in a gentlemanly way explained how this sanatized milk was prepared and asked me to call at the dairy and see for myself, which I did, and so impressed was I with conditions as I found them, that I became a patron and have received complete satisfaction ever since. Where the chances of sickness are so numerous, as they certainly are in Peterborough, it behooves us to take all precautions, especially where there is a large family of children, such as I have, and I can candidly say that I am profiting by using their milk, and believe in patronizing a man who is paying City taxes and hiring City labour, so long as he delivers the right goods.

It is quite true that had not Mr. Gillespie started a milk business, the other milk men would have raised to 8c. I have this assertion direct from a milk dealer. Give the man his due in the interest of fair play.

A CITIZEN.

Card of Thanks

To the Electors of the City of Peterborough:

Ladies and Gentlemen—I wish to take the earliest opportunity of heartily thanking all those who supported and helped elect me to a seat on the Board of Education, although at the last of the list of those elected, you can depend on me giving you as effective service as is in my power to give.

Wishing you a Happy New Year,

I am, Yours truly

J. H. Smith

The New Commissioner's Thanks to the Electors

Ladies and Gentlemen,—I would be insensible of my obligations if I did not express to you my sincere thanks for electing me to the position of City Water Commissioner by so substantial a majority.

In this testimony of my appreciation of your support I desire to include the ladies, business and professional men, the employed and unemployed, and particularly the valuable aid I received from so large a number of voluntary hard workers, who gave of their time and energy to accomplish my election.

To all of these, and not to myself, do I attribute my election—for I know I am a poor canvasser, while my opponent is a past-master at the art.

It is true that my majority is a very substantial one, but many of my friends claim that I should have been elected by two to one. Perhaps this may be true, considering the misrepresentations made from one end of the City to the other. I have been astonished at the cunning and ingenuous stories that have been circulated during the campaign, and it was laughable at times to hear the bland promises that had been made by my opponent of what he would do if only he was elected.

In the North Ward, I were represented as a bigotted Roman Catholic; in the South Ward, as a rabid Orangeman; in the West Ward as a dangerous coal dealer; and in the East Ward as a man too much engrossed in my own business to find time to attend to the City's.

Considering the natural and intended effect of these unfounded stories, I feel that the result is an additional flattering proof of the public confidence, for which I again make hearty acknowledgments, assuring the ratepayers that it will be my aim to serve them faithfully, and to prove to them that their confidence in me has not been misplaced.

Yours gratefully,

Robert Hicks.

Peterborough, Jan. 6, 1914.

Card of Thanks

To the Electors:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—I wish to express my gratitude to the electors for the very large vote polled in my favour, and for their expression of confidence in my candidature and policy.

Yours very truly,

J. B. McWilliams

To the Electors of West Ward:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—I desire to convey to each and everyone my very sincere thanks for the marked expression of confidence you have shown me by electing me again to the honourable position of Alderman, by the handsome majority of 352.

I am at your service, and I will be only too happy at any time to do all that lies in my power to carry out your wishes, consistent with the best interests of the city, and to receive from you any requests or suggestions pertaining to civic matters.

Again I thank you and those who in any way assisted my candidature, and my earnest wish to all citizens is that Health and Prosperity and a bounteous share of good things be theirs in the years that are to be.

Yours faithfully,

Joseph J. Duffus

To the Electors of North Ward:

Ladies and Gentleman,—Permit me to tender you my warmest appreciation of your loyal support in yesterday's Aldermanic contest, the result of which is most gratifying to me, not only from a personal standpoint, but in that the North Ward appreciate our Hydro-Electric Policy, the chairmanship of which committee I was honoured with last year.

I also thank my supporters who worked so hard and faithfully in my interests during the campaign.

With assurance that I shall do my utmost during the coming two years to serve you faithfully, and with best wishes for your happiness and prosperity. Believe me,

Faithfully yours,

Wm. J. Johnston

To the Electors of Peterborough City:

To the Electors of Peterborough City:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—Permit me to thank you heartily for the substantial majority with which you endorsed my candidature for Mayor of this City at the polls yesterday, coupled with the assurance that my best efforts in the interests of the community as a whole are at your service during nineteen hundred and fourteen.

To my working supporters also my warmest thanks are due for the loyal manner in which they rallied around The People's Candidate during the mayoralty campaign, to whose hard work in my behalf I am indebted in no small measure for my election.

Believe me, I shall endeavour to serve you faithfully and well in the position of Chief Magistrate of Peterborough, and strain every nerve to justify the confidence placed in me.

Yours faithfully,

Wm. H. Buller

To the Electors:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—I wish to thank all the ratepayers who supported me yesterday for the position of Mayor. I accept cheerfully the voice of the people, and I wish Alderman Buller and the Council of 1914 a prosperous year.

When Mr. Hartley entered the field it was evident to all what the result would be. The object intended has been accomplished.

The campaign has been free from any personal ill-feeling between myself and the other candidates, and I trust our former friendship will continue in the future, and we will all unite in working for the interest of our growing city.

Believing:—

"There's victory yonder awaiting the chap
Who greets with a laugh every drowning mishap;
Who loses the game with a glint in his eye;
Who fights as he loses and dies full of try."

With best wishes for one and all, I remain,

Yours truly.

G. A. Gillespie

To the Electors of East Ward:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—I wish to return my sincere thanks to all those who without solicitation gave me their support yesterday at the polls, which resulted in my re-election to Council.

I will in the future as I have in the past, use my best efforts to advance the interests of the East Ward and the city in general. Thanking you again, I am,

Yours,

J. C. Anderson

Card of Thanks

To the Electors:—

I wish to extend my most hearty thanks to the ratepayers of the city, both ladies and gentlemen, for the handsome support they gave me yesterday in the Mayoralty contest. I wish particularly to thank the working men and (members) of the Trades and Labour Council for their support. Wishing one and all a happy and prosperous year.

Yours very truly,

J. J. Hartley

Your obedient servant,

A. H. Stratton

Yours respectfully,

Frank. H. Dobbin

Do You Understand the Direct Economy of Buying Furs Now

Do You Know How Much it Benefits You?

FURS ARE LOWER

The unusually mild season and the unfavorable financial conditions have left us with much too large a stock of made up Furs & Fur Skins; what otherwise would have proved profitable, has now to become a loss—We Must Sell.

Self Interest Compels Us to turn these into cash, at once, even when we know we are loosing on every Fur article we sell.

Self Interest Will Make You reap rich rewards in lowered prices, which will be back as high in prices as ever next season.

As you know the increase in prices on Furs has ranged from 50% to 200% in the past 6 years—They never can be cheap again. The wild animals from which they are mostly taken are becoming scarcer every year—and it has been owing to this that prices have gone and will go higher yet.

When we get confronted with such conditions as this year—values are knocked completely out in all manufactured Fur articles, that's why we say to our customers BUY NOW, never again in all human likelihood, will Furs be as cheap.

Our Guarantee Given With All We Sell:—As manufacturers of Furs we give the public a bond, when we put our name on our productions, thereby endorsing them—We promise to be responsible.

This separates our product altogether from those who do not manufacture or do not put their name on their OWN production. We do not send ours out into the world like an anonymous letter for which no one can be held responsible—We must fulfil every expectation that we have aroused, or lose part of our investment—We know that the goods sold to-day may lose us a sale to-morrow if they are not as represented, therefore when we announce, as manufacturing Furriers, that

20 to 33⅓% IS WIPED OFF THE PRICES OF ALL HIGH GRADE GOODS

30 to 50% IS TAKEN OFF THOSE NOT SO HIGH CLASS

We Mean What We Say, and Must Make Good

Every Fur article is marked in plain figures and we are giving above discounts off these regular prices. The net result of all this is that enlightened self interest says BUY FURS NOW.

PETERBORO' INTERMEDIATES DOUBLE THE SCORE ON BOWMANVILLE TEAM

Local Team Defeated Lake Shore Bunch by 10 Goals to 5, Leading at Half Time by 5 to 3.

GIROUX WAS HURT

The Peterborough intermediates broke into the win column last night and took the first step in their campaign to retrieve the defeat on their own ice at the hands of Whitby, by invading Bowmanville, and trimming Bill Hancock's Lakeshore bunch by 10 goals to 5. So thoroughly was the task accomplished, that the Toronto coach threatened to throw up his job.

The Petes were ahead at half time by 5 to 3 and kept up the good work in the second period. The Petes shifted their line-up around continuously during the game and by keeping a fresh man on the forward line, drove the homesters back on the defence.

The only unfortunate feature about the game was an injury to Capt. Giroux, who had his leg badly gashed by a skate near the end of the first half. Although it required a number of stitches to close the wound, no persuasion would keep him out of the game, and he went back in the second half, finishing the game.

A Bowmanville despatch says:

BOWMANVILLE, Jan. 5.—In the O. H.A. intermediate game played here to-night between Peterborough and Bowmanville, the visitors outclassed the home team. The score at half time was, Peterborough 5, Bowmanville 3, and at the finish, Peterborough 10, Bowmanville 5. The teams:

Peterborough— Goal, Dwyer; point, Long; cover, Kelly; rover, Giroux; centre, Park; right wing, Kennealay; left wing, Lansfield.

Referee—F. H. Sproule, Toronto.

Hockey—That's All

The Kingston Frontenac says:

The Junior Frontenacs have elected Rube Millan captain of the team for this season. In this they showed good judgment as he is one of the fastest and cleanest players in the junior series of the O.H.A., and will make a capable leader.

Owing to business appointments, Jas. T. Sutherland will be unable to accompany the Frontenacs to Peterborough, as he must be in Toronto at that time. Assistant Manager G. Van Horne will accompany the team.

The Junior Frontenacs were out on the covered rink on Saturday night for a practice and showed up very well. Jack Powell had charge of the practice and put the players through the usual drill for about an hour, between six and seven o'clock.

The Midnight Sons accept the challenge of the R. U. L. Club to a game of hockey to be played in Brock St. Rink next week. The losers to pay for an oyster supper. The R. U. L. Club to engage the rink.

Line-up For To-night's Game With Kingston Big Crowd Expected

With a lightning-fast sheet of ice ready to-night's Junior battle between the Kingston Frontenacs and the local Juniors should be a game well worth seeing. The speedy Easterners will be along with a good team and the Petes are determined to battle them all the way. The locals are a little light but they have plenty of speed and on the slippery going should mak things interesting for the Sutherland bunch. They finished their training for the game last night with a fast twenty-minute workout.

The Peterborough line-up for to-night will be:

Goal—Darling.
Right Defence—Long.
Left defence—Richardson.
Rover—Halpin, Captain.
Centre—Rose.
Right wing—Knapman.
Left wing—Barrie.

Harvey Sproule, who refereed last night's Intermediate game at Bowmanville, will handle the bell in to-night's game, which will be called at 8.30 o'clock, sharp.

SOMETHING ABOUT THE JUNIOR O. H. A. TEAMS

Sketches of the Players Who Will Represent Peterborough To-night in the Opening Game Against the Kingston Frontenacs

For the benefit of the fans a short sketch of the Peterborough Junior O. H. A. team, which makes its debut to-night against the Kingston Frontenacs is given below. Whatever else may be said of the team they are certainly home-brews. Of the squad of ten regulars and spares, eight were born in Peterborough and the other two in the County:

Alex. Darling — Goal keeper, was born in Warsaw, but has lived here for a number of years. He is nineteen years of age and is making his debut in O. H. A. company to-night. He has had experience with the Y. M. C. A. and other local teams.

Harold Long—right defence, is the heaviest player on the team, weighing 173 pounds. He was born in Peterborough eighteen years ago, and made his entry into the O. H. A. last season, playing right wing for the local Juniors. He has been moved back to the defence this year when his weight and speed should be of great service. He shoots right-handed.

Cecil Richardson — left defence, subbed at right wing for last year's Junior team and figured in that position in the last game at Oshawa. He was born here and is eighteen years of age. He is a left-handed shot and weighs 136 pounds.

Grover Halpin—Captain and rover, was born in Peterborough nineteen years ago. He was spare man for th Bear Cats two seasons ago, and played for the T. A. S. Trent Valley League team the same year. Last year he caught the Junior team and after the youngsters were knocked out of the running finished out the season with the Intermediates. He shoots left-handed and weighs 135 pounds.

A. R. Rose—centre, filled the same position on last year's team. He was born in Peterborough nineteen years ago and weighs 133 pounds. Last season saw his introduction into O. H. A. circles. He is a left-handed shot.

Harold Knapman—Right winig, is eighteen years old and was born in Peterborough. He is the lightest player on the team, weighing 125 pounds. He plays his first O. H. A. hockey to-night. Last year he was with the Collegiate team and also with the Thistles, winners of the Clarke-Graham cup.

Frank Barrie—left wing, was born here nineteen years ago. He was spare with the Juniors last season, playing in several games. He also has played with the Tool Room team Mercantile League champions, for several seasons. He weighs 131 pounds.

Grant Latimer—Spare goal-keeper, was born in Peterborough and is nineteen years old. He has played with a numbr of local teams including the C. G. E. team, in the Mercantile League.

Nagle Phelan—Spare defence man, was born in Peterborough nineteen years ago. He is a right-handed shot and weighs 142 pounds. He has a right-handed shot and weighs 142 pounds. He has played with a number of local junior teams and last season was with the Ottawa College seconds.

Roy Smyth—Spare defence, or forward, was born in Millbrook, but has lived practically all his life here. He weighs 152 pounds and shoots right-handed. He played last season with the Collegiate Institute team.

SCRATCH GAME.

A scratch game at the curling rink last night between rinks skipped by Moore and Taylor, went as a win for the former by 15 to 9.

First Of Scheduled Games At Curling Rink Played Last Night

Five of the six scheduled games at the Curling Rink (the other one goes to Tom Brightman's rink by default) Dickson Davidson's quartette being absent.

There were many new faces beneath the "Tams" or behind the brooms, last night, and if an infusion of new blood is desirable the Peterborough Curling Club should grow strong with new life. Quite a number of the new members are young men and they will be given every encouragement to learn the fine points of the game.

The new man is usually sent out as a lead or is given the second shot of the four. The old reliables, or at least most of them are reliable, curlingly speaking, polish off the lay outs that have been set up for them. Sometimes the best of their intentions go askew but that, in the long run, adds zest to the game.

Good Ice.

Angus McIntosh had a fine sheet of ice. It has plenty of substance now, and only the daily finishing touches are required to give the surface the desired silkiness.

Mr. R. Hicks was absent from his rink and J. W. Firth, his vice-skip, took charge, Mr. R. Neill substituting.

The results were as follows:

J. D. Collins	C. G. McKay
W. H. Collier	F. Bartlett
R. Harstone	G. Boucher
W. G. Ferguson Skip 9	F. M. Dela Fosse Skip 9
A. E. Dixon	L. Potvin
W. R. Turner	W. H. Munro
J. Skinner	W. T. Hall
H. F. Foote Skip 8	C. R. Cameron Skip 11
I. Brock	W. A. Fisher
J. Wolstenholm	Dr. Morrison
W. G. Reid	G. C. Wainwright
W. H. Denham Skip 12	J. Crane Skip 6
L. A. Turner	A. N. Allison
P. Fitzgerald	F. Hughes
A. Archibald	A. Kay
W. D. Campbell Skip 17	W. M. Lang Skip 4
A. C. Austin	W. M. McCracken
D. A. MacKay	W. Padgett
R. Neill	R. Best
J. W. Firth Skip 8	J. E. A. Fitzgerald Skip 15

It is hoped that all the players of these rinks will be present to-night.

BASEBALL.

London Advertiser—The case of Mr. Joseph Tinker threatens to become a national issue in the United States. From his name you might think he was a character out of Dickens, but his fame is of a more lasting nature, for he is a ball player of renown. You may not have known it, but there is a grave possibility that Mr. Tinker and all others in his profession are slaves.

I appears that Mr. Tinker, affectionately known throughout fandom as Joe, has been sold to the Brooklyn National League Club by the Cincinnati Club, at a fancy price. Mr. Tinker asserts that the Brooklyn management promised him that in return for his agreeing to the sale he was to have a bonus of $10,000. The confiding Joseph signed a contract, but the buyers have not come across with the bonus. Therefore Joe promptly shook the National League diamond dust (so to speak) from his spikes and signed up with an outlaw organization. And now the Brooklyn Club says that it will resort to the courts to have Tinker declared their property—in other words, a slave or human chattel.

It is the one subject of discussion at the winter fanning bees, and sporting pages feature it with huge headlines. Huerta, the Kaiser and other small fry are being rapidly relegated to the background. Union labour is taking an active interest in the case, and if President Wilson be not careful it may wreck his administration. And if it finally gets to the supreme court of the United States, and that august body decides in favour of the Brooklyn Club, imagine the awful fate of poor Joe, the enslaved. When he travels he will have to be satisfied with a lower berth in a private car, and be forced to put up with the horrors of the cooking and accommodation of the great hotels of the chief cities of the United States, unless he wishes to pay his own way. Furthermore, for as much as two hours every fine day he will be driven to the ball ground (in a taxicab), and ordered to put in his best licks to amuse great mobs of the populace. And when he smites the ball on the nose for a three-bagger, driving in the winning run, his tortured nerves will be shattered by the cheers of 20,000 fans. When the weather is stormy, he will not be permitted to work, and every fan knows how a ball player loves to play in the rain and mud. Instead Joe will have to stick around the hotel, tickling the billiard balls, or participating in a game of "draw." And once a month he will be handed a beggarly thousand dollars or so, and be expected to give a receipt for it, too. But remember, this is for six months of the year only. During the winter Joe is cast adrift and must hustle for a living, and the best he has been able to do this season is a vaudeville stunt at $300 per week. Our hearts bleed for Joe Tinker, the baseball slave. In fact our sympathy is so acute that if it were possible we would gladly surrender our freedom and take his place. Poor Joe Tinker!

Sure Enough.

A schoolboy home for the holidays, wishing to inspire his little sister with awe for his learning, pointed to a star and said:

"Do you see that little luminary? It's bigger than this wide world."

"No, 'taint!" said his sister.

"Yes, it is," returned the youthful scholar.

"Then, why is it that it don't keep off the rain?" was the triumphant rejoinder.

SATURDAY WAS A DAY OF BIG SCORING IN THE LEAGUES

No Less Than Four Clubs Won After Scoring Six Goals --The Position of the League Leaders is Unchanged --League Tables Compiled Up to Date.

Saturday was a day of big scoring and it is a coincidence that no less than four clubs won after scoring six goals. The greatest surprise of the day was Boltons win over Manchester United by 6 to 1. What's wrong with Meredith and Company might well be asked. Burnley put it all over Sheffield Wednesday, whilst West Ham and Norwich City were also among the clubs who scored six goals.

No Change.

As a result of Saturday's and the New Year games, the positions of the clubs at the head of the various league tables remain unaltered. Blackburn still hold that two points lead over Manchester United in the first division of the league, but the Mancunians have still that one game less played. Sunderland lost two valuable points to-day to Liverpool but are still in the running. This victory of Liverpool was their best of the season. Newcastle still go rocky and are so near the bottom that their friends are begining to feel anxious. It would be a terrible humiliation for the Novocastrians were their favourites relegated to the Second Division.

Second League.

Woolwich still head the second division for although beaten at Nottingham on New Year's Day they came away with a brilliant victory over Wolverhampton and maanged to keep the premier position. Leeds City, who are now their closest rivals were in rampant mood to-day, much to the discomfiture of Stockport. Another team that is shaping well for premier honours is Hull City and with Notts County also in the running the race is most exciting. I have a notion that Woolwich will be one of the clubs to regain promotion to the charmed circle.

Southern League.

It looks as if it is going to be a race between Swindon and Crystal Palce for the Southern League championship. The former were defeated by Plymouth on Saturday, but still lead comfortably.

Scottish League.

Although only drawing with Partick Thistle, Celtic still hold the lead in the Scottish series, with Hearts and Rangers in close pursuit. The surprise in this division is the victory of Falkirk over Dumbarton, and Third Lanark's "nap" victory over Queens Park.

OYSTER DIGESTS ITSELF.
Are Recommended to Dyspeptics—Easily Assimilated.

Oysters are highly nutritious food for persons in good health, and are also highly recommended to many dyspeptics who can eat nothing else with comfort.

Unlike most other foods, the oyster contains in itself many of the elements necessary for its own digestion. The largest part of the bivalve is its liver, and the very moment we begin to chew it the digestive juices with which this organ is plentifully supplied are released and at once begin furnishing valuable aid to our stomachs.

An oyster contains about 10 per cent. of protein, together with some phosphorized fats and glycogen. This is a highly nutritive combination and one which can be assimilated by the human stomach without undue strain.

Oysters are recommended for most dyspeptics, for sufferers from ulceration of incipient cancer of the stomach, and also for convalescents from acute diseases, who usually find in oysters a stimulant for their jaded appetites which no other food can give.

The only dyspeptics who should be forbidden oysters, according to Professor Pron, are those whose stomachs are hyer-acid or hyer-sensitive.

HON. ADAM BECK NEXT PREMIER

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Jan. 6.—Should Sir James Whitney recover sufficiently to be taken home it is believed here that he will within a few weeks tender his resignation to Lt.-Gov. Sir John Gibson and advise him to call upon Hon. Adam Beck to form a ministry. That is the belief in Ottawa. Should Sir James fail to rally from the illness which has stricken him down, it is expected here that Hon. J. J. Foy, the senior in the cabinet will not undertake to form a government, but will advise Sir John Gibson to call upon either Hon. W. J. Hanna, the Provincial Secretary in this part of the province. The friends of Hon. Adam Beck are already active in anticipation of Sir James Whitney's resignation, although Mr. Beck is absent from the country.
